— BY ABIGAIL

An old-fashioned custom, that of serenading newly-married couples by tying tin cans and other junk to their automobiles and then touring the town honking horns unrestrictedly, soon will be passe if the Town Fathers and local police have their way. The custom has been with us for many decades, but I believe that it has a very short life ahead of it. So short, in fact, that this can be construed as a warning to future newly-weds that they will be noised in the future for any noisy outbursts of this sort, so let's not get off on the wrong foot to start life with newlyweds and friends.

Personally I don't give a hoot whether or not the practice is continued or discontinued, it doesn't bother me one iota. However, I suppose the Town Officials do get complaints from hypertensive and sick people who are considerably disturbed by the racket. And then there's a certain amount of danger involved with this type of revelry. It often happens that after driving a few blocks the tin cans fall off the vehicle and often lay on the highway, naturally creating a menace to oncoming traffic. A good idea would be for all local pastors and the justice of the peace to warn all newly-married couples of the proposed crack-down, so they will not suffer any inconvenience from such action, or feel the wrath of the law. This proposed tightening of the disturbance of the peace law is strictly local, of course.

Had a lot of comment about the swimming pool article I had in my column last week. Without a doubt practically everyone was in favor of the idea but no one knew just where to start. Some remarked that this was the only town in the state where one could not take a basket lunch and sit down to a picnic table and cool off and relax a bit. And it is just about the truth as I don't know of a single table or accommodation here. It's a shame too, with the beautiful mountain scenery and potentialities we have here for such recreational activity. We have miles of picturesque land which continue undeveloped and yet we drive miles away to sit down and enjoy a few hours outdoors. I do hope enough interest is generated to start something along this line here. Someone's missing a grand opportunity to get into a good-paying enterprise and if I weren't a lady and had the capital, I'd be tempted to tackle the project myself!

And still another complaint about beautiful Community Field. During the recent rainy spell a number of local youths rode bicycles all over the playing field which resulted in deep ruts which will have to be filled and rolled once more. The baseball club spent several hundreds of dollars just this spring to ready the field and it was without a doubt, in the best condition in years, and now this has to happen. A lot of this could be avoided if parents only were aware of what their children were doing, but no amount of warning, pleading, coaxing or threatening seems to do any good. I actually get tired of writing and complaining of matters of this kind but I'm always persuaded to pass along again a little advice when I am told of these aggravating misdeeds. No one actually wants to fence up the beautiful ball park but if this sort of thing continues officials may be forced to take protective measures by fencing and locking the park from one season to another. Now folks we don't want that, do we?

Arms Researchist Resigns From National Office

Philip B. Sharpe of Emmitsburg, a member of the technical staff of the National Rifle Assn.

of America for the past five years, has resigned his position on the staff effective Sept. 1. Sharpe, known to the sports world as a firearms authority for a third of a century, submitted his resignation to enable himself to devote full time to private business.

His resignation was accepted this week with regret by Major-General Julian S. Hatcher, director of technical services of the NRA, and Major-General Merritt A. Edson, executive director.

Phil Sharpe, a resident of Emmitsburg since the war, is well known to our town. He has long been active in civic affairs, and has for many years operated the Philip B. Sharpe Research Laboratories, just outside of town on Tract Rd.

A year ago he organized The Sharpe & Hart Associates, Inc., a Maryland corporation, with main offices in Emmitsburg and branches in Gettysburg, Pa. and Oakland, Calif., and became the U. S. distributor of the Schultz & Larsen Rifle Co., Otterup, Denmark.

A member of the National Rifle Assn. for 26 years, Sharpe has long been considered one of the country's leading authorities on military and sporting firearms. His writings have appeared in most of the sporting magazines and through the years he has served several of them as firearms editor.

Questioned by The Chronicle as to reasons for his resignation, Sharpe stated: "For too many years I have been answering from 3000 to 5000 letters per year from firearms enthusiasts. I desire to retire from that task to the less strenuous work of my private business. Naturally, after 25 years of handling mail, I will miss the many contacts, but the demands made on my time are greater than the time available."

Young Girl Drowns In Pond

Yvonne Elaine Sanders, aged 21 months, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sanders of near Taneytown, was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Warner Hospital last Sunday after she had been pulled from a farm pond near her home by her parents.

Dr. C. G. Crist, Adams County coroner, pronounced the child dead and said she had drowned about 6:15 p. m.

The child had wandered briefly from the sight of her parents, had gone through an open gate in the fence that enclosed the farm pond on the Sanders property along the Emmitsburg Rd., about two miles from Taneytown.

A short time later the parents found her lying in shallow water at the edge of the pond. She was unconscious. They tried unsuccessfully to reach a doctor and then called Maryland state police and the Taneytown firemen who tried in vain to revive the child. She was rushed to the Warner Hospital in the Taneytown ambulance.

Surviving, in addition to her parents, are two sisters, Ruth Marie and Catherine Eileen, both at home; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hobbs, Fairfield, Pa.; a great grandmother, Mrs. Martha Hobbs of Emmitsburg, and a paternal grandmother, Mrs. James C. Sanders, Taneytown.

Mass of the Angels was sung at 9 a. m. Wednesday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Taneytown, Rev. Fr. Steven Melchior, rector, officiating. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Warren Wistzoskey, Littlestown, Pa., sister of the bride. The best man was Eugene Vaughn of Taneytown.

The bride was attired in a lavender dotted Swiss ballerina gown with white accessories and a white picture hat. She carried a white rose and carnation bridal bouquet. The matron of honor wore an aqua dotted Swiss gown with aqua and white accessories. She carried a pink carnation and rosebud colonial bouquet. ## Discuss Operation Of Little League

At a meeting of Little League officials following Tuesday's game, Treasurer Edward Houck gave a financial report of collections to date and expenditures. Mr. Houck reported that the League is managing to keep its head above water and that additional donations are still to be made.

President Ray McLaughlin was named player-agent for the remainder of the season. Youngsters wishing to join the league should turn their names into McLaughlin who will then assign them to one of the squads until all rosters are filled. Parents of Little Leaguers are asked to contact coaches when the boys are unable to turn out for a scheduled game. At present, some youngsters are on vacation and the managers must shuffle line-ups to make up for vacancies.

League officials also decided to reschedule the tie game between the Redsox and the Giants for Sunday evening, July 31. Following the regular season play, which ends, Aug. 18, a playoff series of three games will be held between the first and second teams in the league.

League officials are seeking land for a regular Little League stadium for next season and are hopeful that they will have a decision shortly so that work can be begun to clear the area, erect stands, fences, etc.

Urges Support Of Local Fire Extinguisher Sale

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:
Since I am chairman of the Vigilant Hose Co. fire extinguisher sale, I wish to report to the public. To date only a small percentage of homes own fire extinguishers.

We, the firemen of Emmitsburg, are giving our time in this drive to give you the help and protection you should have. Our object is to put some fire protection in every home, car, farm, and business.

This is for your protection and cuts down on property damage.

The small percentage of revenue made from the sale of these extinguishers will go toward new and modern equipment. This too is for your protection.

So, when your fireman calls—listen to him and help yourself.

C. of C. Studies Local Stores Operating Hours

At the request of several local merchants the Chamber of Commerce will conduct a survey of local business establishments interested in closing their places of business on Monday and Wednesday nights. The request was acted upon at the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce held Monday night in the Fire Hall, Vice President Charles F. Stouter presiding in the absence of Cloyd W. Seiss.

The action was taken only after a group of businessmen asked the Chamber to make a survey in an effort to ascertain how much co-operation could be expected from competing business houses. Many merchants have been keeping open four nights a week for years, and it is the consensus of the group that Friday and Saturday nights would suffice. Business on Monday and Wednesday nights does not warrant the merchants remaining open, and it is felt that two nights a week would give the public ample shopping time. Already five of the main business concerns have subscribed to the plan. Others will be interviewed by a representative of the Chamber to ascertain if they are interested in the plan which would give local merchants a much needed rest, and at the same time cut down on their operating overhead.

Secretary Arthur Elder announced that the recent labor survey has been completed and that interested concerns could have the facts and figures when they are requested. A total of 401 survey blanks were turned in and a duplicate list is available to industrial concerns interested in locating here and also those which are presently located here.

A form letter has been drafted by Colonel Thomas J. Frailey and will be mailed to all charter members of the group and former members in an effort to enduce them to renew their memberships. The draw prize was won by Kermit Lowe.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde • 6th District, Maryland

WASHINGTON, July 20—During the past week I had the opportunity of talking with the Secretary of Labor about the meaning of the general economic outlook to labor. He pointed out that the healthier the economy the better the working man fares, and the prospects are that there will be fewer and fewer unemployed as the year progresses. Those who are employed will be taking home fatter pay envelopes. I think, also, you will be interested in his remarks on industrial peace. The Secretary said that good employer-employee relations can be developed only when the parties sit down at the bargaining table properly disposed toward each other. He went on to say that when the government interjects itself on the side of one or the other parties in a labor dispute, it's just like putting a horseshoe in the glove of a boxer — his opponent doesn't have much chance. It certainly isn't fair for the government to be the horseshoe for one side or the other. The government's sole interest must be that of protecting the public and not as an advocate of workers or employers.

Both the Senate and the House are moving on legislative matters. Some of the proposals before the Congress have become obscured in smoke screens generated by partisan politics. Among them is the highway construction bill; there is no valid reason for this important proposal to have become the victim of a political hassle.

Extension of the Small Business Administration is a delayed surety. I would like to point out that I believe that such agencies should be independent and out where their goings-on can be watched and not buried in one of the Departments. It is better for the government and for the small businessmen who would be served.

Marylanders will appreciate the action of Congress in making possible the restoration of the markers that set off the boundary between our state and Delaware. They will also be pleased with the progress of the bill to restore funds lost through administrative interpretation of the Federal impact law.

I am very happy to report that the Congress will correct an unfortunate situation which has arisen through a Defense Dept. directive which set a fee for the issuance of copies of lost military and naval discharges or certificates of service. The bill carries not only a waiver of these fees for servicemen but also for their survivors.

Congressional Viewpoint

By Sen. John Marshall Butler

WASHINGTON, July 18—For obvious political purposes, the Democratic National Chairman,

Paul M. Butler, has recently tagged me as an "Old Guard Republican." Intending, of course, to depreciate my record in the Senate, the other Mr. Butler undoubtedly feels that the appellation of "Old Guard" is decadent and despicable—something to abhor. How wrong he is! His seeming ignorance of the meaning of a term as basically American as baseball is only exceeded by the discord which he has fomented within the ranks of his own party, particularly amongst those who do not wish to be identified with any attempted resurrection of the New Deal and the Fair Deal.

The term "Old Guard" was first applied to the American political scene during the Presidential election campaign of 1880. It was the designation worn unashamedly by that segment of the Republican Party, led primarily by Senator Roscoe Conkling of New York, that was supporting the third term candidacy of former President Ulysses S. Grant.

To Conkling, an ardent friend of Grant's, fell the honor of placing the name of the former President and Civil War General in nomination before the convention. Conkling was a great orator, and in a brilliant nominating speech, he said, among other things: "Pull no skulkers from under the ammunition wagon; take the tried and true old hero —with the Old Guard behind him who have never kept step to any

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

An economic activity in the U. S. for the final six months of 1955 shows every prospect of exceeding the boom performance of the first half of the year, brighter long-term farm prospects are being predicted by economists in the Agriculture Dept.

Research scientists expect net farm income, now at about $12 billion, to be raised at $1.5 billion by 1962 because of population gains and technological advances alone.

Further raises are anticipated as Federal, State, and private sources pour money into research.

The production revolution in farming over the past 20 to 30 years has been called the most important development in the history of American agriculture. Total yield in the last eight years has risen 14 per cent. The number of farm workers has dropped more than 16 per cent in the same period. Man hours necessary to produce 100 bushels of wheat have dropped in 15 years from 43 to 26. In corn, the man hour drop has been from 80 to 34. Milk output per cow is up from 4600 to 5500 pounds.

The technological breakthrough is as significant in agriculture as it has been in industry over the past generation, although it has been less publicized. Recent developments include:

Tomato and Orange Juice — Available in powder form without refrigeration.

Corncoals — Sharply increased use as raw material for industrial chemicals.

Eggs — New dehydration process help create a more stable market.

Radioactive Materials — Helping to eliminate some types of insect pests.

Dehydrofreezing — Newly patented process now being used on some fruits and vegetables.

Cotton — A device opens and fluffs balls, increases quality at the mill.

Cottonseed — Market as feed for chickens and hogs now nearly 200,000 tons annually.

Indible Fats — Now being treated for use as feeds and plasticizers for vinyls.

Antibiotics — Expected to control fire blight in apples and pears, saving $70 million a year.

Cattle Grubs — Phenothiazine expect to control, saving $50 million a year.

The result of these and other findings is that Americans today are eating 10 to 15 per cent better than they were 30 years ago; yet they are spending only about the same proportion of their income but the music of the Union."

Since that time, the "Old Guard" has come to signify the great majority of the Republican Party—that group, often referred to as "conservatives," which has been resolute and steadfast in its dedication to our Nation's sovereignty; the Constitutional concept of government, rights and freedoms; the decentralization of Federal power; the principle of States' rights; efficient and economical government, and in its opposition to socialistic trends.

These worthy and essential "Old Guard" objectives continue to enjoy extensive bi-partisan support, despite repeated assaults upon the fabric of our government. Were Mr. Paul Butler to consult the pages of history rather than the pages of political fiction, he would find that the patron saints of the Democratic Party—Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson—likewise advocated similar doctrines.

It is in this context, and all others, that I am proud to be called an Old Guard Republican.

Middletown To Annex

The Burgess and Commissioners of Middletown have passed a resolution to enlarge the corporate boundaries of the town by annexing new territory. The date of annexation would be Jan. 1, 1956.

Prior to the passage of the resolution at a special meeting, the town officials called upon property owners and voters in the area to be annexed, asking them if they would consent to the enlargement of the boundaries.

Under the new Home Rule act of the State, consent must be obtained from not less than 25 per cent of the persons who reside in the area to be annexed and who are registered voters, and not less than 25 per cent of the assessed valuation of the real property in the area.

The Middletown officials obtained written consent from more than half of the voters, it was reported.

come—one fourth—for food.

These are indeed heartening signs and it is to be hoped that today's farmer and the farmer of the future will find the security that has eluded them for so long.

Your Social Security

Families of individuals who died before Sept. 1, 1950, may be eligible for monthly social security insurance payments now, according to W. S. King, district social security manager. This provision of the 1954 Amendments to the Social Security Act, Mr. King said, applies if the worker died after July 1, 1940, and before Sept. 1, 1950, even though the family's original claim for survivors' benefits was denied.

Recent changes made it possible to provide an insured status under the law in such cases if the worker had at least six quarters of coverage at the time of his death. This special provision, however, will affect only monthly benefit claims.

Survivors who might qualify for these monthly payments are widows who are 65 or older, children who are not yet 18, and, in case the worker left no widow or children, parents who were receiving at least one-half of their support from the deceased when he died.

Mr. King urges anyone who feels this provision may affect him to get in touch with the district social security office at 74 W. Washington St., Hagerstown.

Fires are unknown in the forests of the Amazon region because the wood does not burn easily.

As a general rule young animals are more severely affected by parasites than older animals, but even in older animals resistance may be broken down and severe parasitic infection result.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., July 21 — Not very long ago I heard a man in the automobile business say: "In my lifetime there have been bigger changes in industry than took place in all of the years before that."

Here in America, especially, our way of life has changed more within the memory of many of us than in all the generations before us.

Are We Going To Fast?

This fast change scares a lot of thinking people. Some feel that they would have had fewer problems to face if they had been born a 100 years ago and they are probably right. Others say they would not want to be around a 100 years from now because "things are changing too fast."

Some of the union leaders—men you might expect would move fast themselves—also apparently are frightened. They admit that the high wages are developing a new threat to labor which may throw huge numbers out of work. This threat is AUTOMATION, and they say it may not only throw men out of their jobs, but there just may not be any jobs! Of course, I don't believe this. (Rather, history shows, "the more machinery, the more jobs"—but very different jobs.)

What Is Automation?

Automation is a word that is being used a great deal now-days. It means using electronic machines in place of men. Walter Reuther and others see this as a real danger to full employment. They seem to think that some day a manufacturer will need only to put his finger on a few buttons and push! If this were true, or close to it, then we all ought to be afraid because our way of life depends on most of us having jobs and working at them. If, however, the future is anything like the past, Automation could increase employment and raise the standard of living. There have been all kinds of developments in office machines in the last 10 years, yet the number of office workers has risen from 5.1 to 8.1 million during this same period.

Even new telephone exchanges, oil refineries, and electric generating plants, for example, now look like a preview of the automatic world of tomorrow. A visitor to a big generating plant sees some gigantic pipes, an array of dials, and only one man who seems to be in charge. There is even less to look at in a modern automatic telephone exchange. If you have a chance, look at one of the new "electronic brains" which can do as much computation in, say, four minutes as a large force of men with pencil and paper could do in months. About all you will see will be a row of machines looking like so many juke boxes and flashing lights, and one or two well-dressed young women pushing buttons.

What Happens to the Workers?

As the change-over to automatic production spreads, it is certain that a lot of workers will have to move to other jobs. But there are more people employed now than there were 10 years ago, with very much more machinery. It has been said by experts that, without automation, we soon would not have had enough workers to do our jobs, to introduce new products, and to achieve our present prosperity.

Even in industries and offices where the work has been made the most automatic, a good deal of human effort is still necessary. Supposedly, a factory could be erected in which every process from raw materials to final product could be done by a few people who would only push buttons. Actually, of course, human brains have to work out the whole scheme, and human hands have to build the machines, set them going, tend, repair, and maintain them and sometimes stop them!

How To Use Extra Time

I don't believe we are moving too fast. We are materially and spiritually better off in this country than are the backward nations which have never had such machines. No workers anywhere ever had better working conditions or higher pay than Americans are getting today. The machine has brought them prosperity and is bringing them more time and opportunity to "do-it-themselves," in their own homes, with their own families. Perhaps we can all use some of this time and opportunity to cultivate the spiritual values which we have been neglecting while we have been building up our material prosperity.

HOW LONG WILL IT KEEP?

July weather brings up the perennial housekeeping problem of the over-stuffed refrigerator. Cool drinks are in demand; fresh vegetables are coming in from the garden every day. What foods must be refrigerated to prevent spoilage?

Left-over cooked foods, especially meat and poultry, must be refrigerated as quickly as possible to prevent development of the bacteria known as staphylococci. These are the little fellows that cause food poisoning. Putting hot foods right into the refrigerator won't hurt the food, but it may raise the temperature in an already overloaded refrigerator too high. Place the containers of hot foods in cool water before refrigerating to speed cooling. Do not leave them outside more than an hour.

Other excellent mediums for development of staphylococci are sandwiches made with mayonnaise, soup stocks, and gravies. Four hours outside the refrigerator is the limit of safety. How long they may be held depends on many factors. The safest rule is to use them up within a few days.

Fresh meat keeps in the refrigerator somewhat better than cooked meat. Chopped meat should be frozen or cooked immediately. The life of fresh meat can be prolonged by cooking just before it "turns." This kills the bacteria in the fresh product, so you start off with a "new" food. Vegetable shortenings and salad oil should be refrigerated if they are to be kept for more than a few weeks.

Fresh vegetables are best, of course, if they are eaten within a few hours of picking. High temperatures speed the enzymatic change from sugar to starch—the reason why city folk never know the real flavor of corn on the cob and new peas. If these vegetables must be held before cooking, refrigerate corn in its husks and peas in their pods.

To get the most from your refrigerator these hot days, be sure you aren't wasting space on un-

1955-Crop Wheat Support Up Slightly

Maryland's 1955-crop wheat will be supported at $2.50 a bushel for No. 1 clear wheat stored in terminal elevators in Baltimore and Philadelphia. This is based on the national rate of $2.08 a bushel.

The support is 42 cents higher than the minimum rate announced in April which was based on the national average support of $2.06 a bushel.

Support rates of the 1955 crop are based on 82½ percent of parity as of July 1, 1955 according to George B. Reeves, Chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee. The original minimum support was based on parity in August 1954. Under the law the final support may be higher than the figure originally announced but it may not be lower.

"The 82½ percent of parity support rate," Reeves said, "applies only to the 36 commercial wheat States." In the noncommercial States where acreage allotments and marketing quotas are not in effect the support is 75 percent of the support in commercial States, Maryland being a commercial wheat State, the support is at the higher level.

To be entitled to price support the grower in commercial States must be in compliance with the 1955 wheat acreage allotment established for his farm and be eligible to receive a wheat marketing card on all the other farms in the county in which he has an interest in the wheat crop. Supports will be by loans and purchase agreements available from the time of harvest through January 31, 1956. Loans mature March 31, 1956 in all but 16 eastern and southern States where the maturity date is February 29, 1956.

Summer Meals

Require Skillful Preparation

"You've gotta have heart" to keep pluggin' away in the kitchen this summer to give your family well-balanced, nutritious meals. How about putting a little of that energy to work on a picnic or a backyard barbecue?

This month gave homemakers a chance to serve one of the easiest and best-liked meals—a PICNIC! That was just a summer starter. How about more?

Hot dogs, hamburgers, or steaks have been the popular picnic meat for years, but more recently, broiled chicken with barbecue sauce has really taken the spotlight.

Make your own selection of easy-to-fix bread, vegetable and fruit accompaniment, and proceed to your picnic site, these instructions will be in mind: Chicken Barbecue

Select young broiler-fryer that weighs 2½-3 pounds, dressed. Split chicken in half. Remove backbone, neck and breast bone.

Dip chickens in barbecue sauce before putting on the grill. Brush with barbecue sauce every five minutes. Apply sauce with pastry brush. Watch chicken closely to avoid burning the skin. Turn often. Use heavy canvas gloves or long-handled forks for turning. Try not to pierce skin so juices will not escape. It will take at least 45 minutes to broil chicken. Allow at least 15 minutes for fire to get started before chicken is put on. Chicken is done when the joint between drumstick and thigh yields readily when pressed with fork.

Barbecue Sauce

One half cup butter or margarine, one-quarter cup lemon juice, 2 tablespoons horseradish, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons catsup, 2 teaspoons salt, one and one-half teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, three-quarter teaspoon Tabasco sauce.

Combine ingredients, heat to boiling, brush chicken with sauce before broiling, baste with sauce every 10 minutes during broiling.

Waste Not, Want Not
A wise philosopher once said, "Waste not, want not is a law of nature." Thinking people readily accept this truth. I once heard a great "fireball" baseball pitcher, who had retired from the game at a relatively young age, put it in these words: "Apparently there are just so many fast ball tosses in a man's arm. I've thrown mine all in a bunch, and I'm through too early."

There are just so many tons of iron ore, so many barrels of petroleum, so many cubic yards of topsoil available in our nation, and if we use them up wastefully, and without developing other resources to replace them, we are selfish and shortsighted, and our children may experience want. It is good to know that we have conservation programs working effectively toward prolonging the life and production ca-capacity of most of our natural resources. But it is disturbing to realize that few of us have given any real support to a conservation program in Federal government spending.

Wasting Resources
Wealth comes from our natural resources and their processing through production. It can come from no other place. When that portion of our wealth which goes to Washington in taxes is subjected to wasteful handling and spending, then the future of all of us is being undermined. The Hoover Commission represents a great, organized conservation program in government spending. I wonder how many people have written their congressmen supporting specific recommendations of the 1954-55 Hoover Commission?

The Hoover Commission task force which studied the Federal medical services reports that many millions of dollars, coming out of our stockpile of natural resources (and our pocketbooks), are being wasted in the overlapping hodgepodge of Federal medical services—costing taxpayers $4.1 billion in 1954! Overlapping Hodgepodge
Twenty-six Federal departments and agencies engage in one or more health activities. A large part of their $4 billion yearly spending on health programs goes for medical services for servicemen and veterans. In this area the overlapping hodgepodge is most apparent, according to the Hoover task force.

Not far from my home the Veterans Administration built a $20 million hospital a few years ago, although just five miles away was a huge VA hospital facility and 50 miles distance was one of the finest Army-Navy hospitals in the nation. Today the Army-Navy hospital is being closed down. The Defense Dept. says there is no need for it. This single incident represents a waste of perhaps $50 to $100 million in all. And it is a tiny isolated droplet in the great tide of wasteful spending.

Waste Continues
The 1954-55 Hoover Commission reports that there has been little change in the wasteful practices since the first Hoover Commission report six years ago. "Agencies of the Federal government continue to build hospitals even though there is a high proportion of unused beds in existing facilities," the Commission says. "The cost of unused beds probably exceeds $1 billion. The waste is not limited to money. Technical personnel, needed by the civilian population, are used to operate these partially used facilities. The civilian population needs at least 800,000 more hospital beds."

What is the remedy? The Hoover Commission recommends the appointment of a Federal Advisory Council of Health composed of distinguished laymen and physicians; and it sets forth specific measures to tighten up on veteran's medical services and the whole structure of federal health programs. These recommendations, however, will be worthless unless citizens support them through the use of their influence with their congressmen, and with other less interested citizens. But perhaps your tax bill isn't burdensome!

I. Alvin Pasarew, Director of Maryland State Planning Commission, announced this week that the "Twenty-third Inventory of Available Industrial Plants in the Counties of Maryland" is underway. Cooperating with the Commission in the quarterly plants survey are the chambers of commerce and local development groups throughout the State.

For each plant reported as available, the following information is requested on the "data sheet" filed with the Commission: floor space, type of construction and number of floors, condition of building, availability of railroad siding, heat, electricity, elevator, rental or sale price; past uses of the structure, and person or organization to contact for further details.

The results of the Inventory will be summarized in the forthcoming quarterly report, which will be published as of Aug. 15.

According to Mr. Pasarew, the State Planning Commission has found that the information provided by the cooperating groups "is most useful in directing interested out-of-state firms to available plants in all part of the State." ## NO COMMENT

By WALTER CHAMBLIN, JR.

WASHINGTON — Congress is now in the throes of an anti-business wave which is having an adverse effect on some legislation and which may reach more serious proportions in the future.

Conflicting motives and reasons are responsible for the extensive attacks upon business which are being made in both the Senate and House. Some New-Fair Dealers apparently are determined to attempt to make political capital out of these. This anti-business group apparently is unable to grasp the dynamic and changing aspects of American business.

This group seemingly is unable to understand that the nation's economy is an expanding economy and that business is expanding to meet the new demands—as each move by business to expand to meet the needs of a new generation is looked upon by some as harmful to the public interest.

In fact, a number of the New-Fair Dealers apparently wish to turn the clock back to 1933 and start off again where the late Mr. Roosevelt began.

The Big Labor bosses also have helped to stir up anti-business sentiment. Their continual assaults on industry—which go far beyond the matters of wages and working conditions—are having an increasing influence on Capitol thinking. Here are some examples:

Get - Government - Out - of - Business: Congress has taken action within the last two weeks which will help keep government in the business rather than get it out of business. Section 638 of the Defense Dept. appropriation bill, as finally enacted into law, throws a road-block in the way of cutting down government competition with business and also raises a serious barrier to carrying out many recommendations of the Hoover Commission.

This section, as originally passed by the House, constituted a serious barrier. The original language said that no funds appropriated in the act could be used to cut down government competition with business in work traditionally performed by the Defense Dept. unless it had been justified before the appropriate committees of the Congress. This language was so indefinite that the department was practically hand-tied in doing anything.

The Senate materially improved Section 638. The Senate revision would have permitted the department to curtail or abolish any activity which had been initiated within the last 25 years. This language protected work performed for years by government arsenals and Navy shipyards and yet gave the department a free hand to get rid of business-competing activities initiated during World War II and the years immediately following. In this form the Senate passed the amendment without a dissenting vote.

Then the House-Senate Conference Committee on the Defense Dept. Appropriation Bill recommended language which completely ties the hands of the department. Under the language enacted into law, the department can abolish or curtail only those activities initiated within the last three years. Any activity started prior to this three-year period would have to be justified before the House and Senate Appropriations Committees.

Get - Business - Out - of - Government: That is what some in Congress would like to do, as they are attacking businessmen who serve in government without compensation from the government. These are known as WOC men. Authority to use WOC men is provided for in the Defense Production Act, which is now up for extension.

The Senate has adopted a provision which would bar such men from holding administrative or policy-making positions in government. These men played a vital part in World War I, World War II and in the Korean engagement. In fact, if there had not been a preparedness period before World War II it would not have been possible to have staffed the War Production Board for at least a year. This would have seriously crippled the war production effort.

Recognizing this serious situa-

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

To many people, camping or living in the woods is inseparably connected with "roughing it." Hard times in camp are entirely unnecessary, insists Colonel Townsend Whelen, famed outdoorsman and an editor of Sports Afield magazine.

"Woodcraft points the way to comfort afield," he writes. Woodcraft may be defined as the art of being comfortable, healthy, energetic and safe in a wilderness by utilizing the substances that Nature has supplied there.

Of course, anyone can have all the comforts of home in a summer camp or cabin on the edge of the woods—beds, tables, chairs, stoves, crockery and refrigeration. But these are not "camps" and they are not located "in" the wilderness. A camp proper is a nomad's dwelling place. He may occupy it for a season or only for a single night. What he takes to make him comfortable he must carry on his back, in a canoe, or on a pack horse. Accordingly, as his outfit is limited by his means of transportation, he should know how to supply what is lacking for his comfort from Nature's storehouse.

There are similar know-how tricks for a camper's shelter, food and clothing. And there are many books and pamphlets in libraries and book shops to guide the amateur. With their suggestions, and some common sense, you should be quite comfortable in camp.

SAFE VOYAGE

In storms at sea, it is the Captain who steers and plots the ship's course to bring it to a safe harbor. It is a man below the decks—the Chief Engineer—who translates the Captain's precise orders for power and steam to assist him in his task. When you are ill, it is your doctor who is the Captain, and the man below the decks—the Chief Engineer—is your drug-gist. It is upon him that reliance is placed by the Captain to properly compound the drugs required to complete the safe voyage.

Maryland Beautiful

The first consignment of litter bags have arrived in Maryland to be used in the Keep Maryland Beautiful campaign.

State KMB Chairman John E. Clark said a decision had not yet been reached on just how the first 2,000 bags delivered will be distributed.

The bags, together with metal clips for installation in automobiles, will be used by motorists for depositing trash and other debris until they conveniently locate a public trash container along the highways or at picnic and park areas.

Instructions are printed on the paper containers and the lettering "Keep Maryland Beautiful by Keeping Highways Clean" is clearly labeled in blue ink. A further notice of the KMB State office address and a request to "cooperate with the Governor's Committee" is included in the labeling.

Detrick Expansion

Money Appropriated

Congressman Hyde announced today that the construction of a Research Laboratory building at Camp Detrick, Maryland, will start about August 1. The contract for approximately five million dollars has been awarded to a construction company from Alabama, according to information received by Mr. Hyde from the Department of the Army.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The weekly meeting of Boy Scout Troop 284 was held last Thursday night at 7 o'clock with 20 Scouts present. A brief meeting was held after which the boys toured the Gettysburg Battlefield which included the Museum and the Electrical Map, which was found very interesting and educational. Mr. Rosensteel, who narrated the last part of the showing, pointed out some very interesting facts to our local troop. After a tour through the Museum the troop journeyed to the Battlefield highlights which Mr. Rosensteel spoke of.

After arriving back at the Scout home, the week-long camp trip was discussed, after which the meeting adjourned.

On Sunday the Scouts gathered equipment in preparation for the camping trip and daily schedules were made.

Menus for the week of camp are as follows:

Sunday supper: cold cuts, tomatoes, potato chips, ice tea.

Monday breakfast—bacon and eggs, prunes, milk. Dinner—hot dogs, baked beans, lemonade. Supper—cube steaks, peas, potatoes, gravy, ice tea.

Tuesday breakfast—pancakes, cereal, milk. Dinner—Hamburgers, potatoes, gravy, corn, applesauce, ice tea. Supper—cold cuts, salad, potato chips, lemonade.

Wednesday breakfast—eggs and bacon, cereal, milk. Dinner—chili con carne, salad, iced tea. Supper—soup, cold cuts, lemonade.

Thursday breakfast—oatmeal, prunes, milk, fresh fruit. Dinner—cream chipped beef, potatoes, pears, ice tea. Supper—fried chicken, potatoes, green beans, pie, iced tea.

Friday breakfast—cereal, fruit, milk, prunes. Dinner—tuna fish, lettuce, tomatoes, tomato soup, lemonade. Supper—salmon cakes, potatoes, pears and peaches, iced tea.

Saturday breakfast—pancakes, cereal, milk, cantaloupe. The menu will carry bread, butter, jelly, etc. at every meal.

The Scouts will leave by truck at 12:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon and will set up camp immediately. Test requirements and handicraft will be carried out during the week, along with sports and camp fires at night. All activity will be supervised by the three Scoutmasters at all times.

Thursday night, July 28, has been set aside as visitors' night, from 6 'til 9:30 p. m. All relatives and friends of the boys are cordially invited to come out to Weishaar's farm near the Gettysburg Waterworks Rd.

The two food sales netted the Scouts $116.20. The camping expenses will be about $150, meaning a camping fund of $2 per Scout will be charged.

The annual picnic-supper of St. Joseph's Catholic Church will be held Saturday, August 6 on the lawn of St. Vincent's Rectory.

Instead of the usual popular supper this year, a plate lunch will be substituted due to the kitchen facilities of St. Joseph's High School being unavailable because the school is being painted.
