Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

Well at long last, someone has listened to my plea for a swimming pool and the idea apparently has fallen on fertile soil and taken root.

The Chamber of Commerce will give the matter a thorough investigation in the near future and has appointed a committee to look into the possibilities. And not a bit too soon either, as our friendly neighbors to the south of us, Thurmont, took the hint and is at present studying plans for a similar project. Wouldn't we be embarrassed if they beat us to it? Let's not waste any time, committee, and by next year this time I hope we can all be enjoying a cool, clean swim! Man, what a dream!

Our sympathies to the family of the late Robert Delaplaine, co-publisher of the Frederick News-Post. He was a great deal responsible for the progress made by his paper, so much so that today it is the outstanding paper in the county, and in my estimation, a good many counties. His demise inflicts a tremendous loss on our county.

Horn honkers again. I thought the matter had been dropped but a late-coming letter rekindles the flame and here we go again:

New York, according to reports, is finally going to crack down on horn honking. Our local police should put an end to these maniacs who think that because they get married they should be allowed to drive all over our town creating a racket, disturbing day and night sleepers and sick people, and otherwise making themselves objectionable. It is about time we did something about it!

Devoted Reader
So much for that, I've taken enough of a beating on this matter and am satisfied to let it rest in the hands of the proper officials from now on.

Scout Jamboree May Be Held At Gettysburg

Gettysburg is one of several sites being considered by the Boy Scouts of America for their national Scout Jamboree to be held in 1957, it was learned this week.

The jamboree, held every five years, attracted more than 47,000 Scouts, from all parts of America, to Valley Forge in 1952.

The York-Adams area office of the Boy Scouts said Gettysburg is on the list of "several eastern sites" being considered. The list includes Valley Forge where Gov. Leader has invited the Scouts to return in 1957.

The fact that Gettysburg is being surveyed as a possible jamboree site came to light Monday evening at a meeting of the Gettysburg Municipal Authority where a letter was read from the Boy Scouts asking if adequate water for the jamboree would be available. It was stated that the amount needed will be about three times the amount available.

Ambulance Service Is Valuable Asset

What value the VFW ambulance service is to the Emmitsburg District was revealed this week when Clyde J. Eyler, chairman of the ambulance maintenance crew, tabulated the statistics of operation for the past year.

The figures are interesting, inasmuch as most all cases were of a local nature. For instance, a total of 72 calls was handled during the year, five of which were automobile accidents. Forty emergency cases were handled and 5 routine calls were disposed of.

It is interesting to note that by far the majority of calls for assistance came at night. Some 51 times the crew was called then, and 21 times during daylight hours. For some unknown reason, the number of males requiring ambulance service almost doubled that of the females, 42 to 28.

Service was not confined to this area alone. Three calls from Carroll County were serviced; 55 from Frederick County; one from Washington County; nine out-of-state, and two unrecorded.

Physicians requested this valuable free service 49 times; individuals 19 times; institutions once, and the Maryland State Police three times.

The average call consumed 1 1/2 hours of personnel time and this total reached 147 hours. Transport time required 127 hours. The average call required 42.35 miles and the vehicle traveled 3047 miles during the year. Cost of operating this ambulance was estimated at 15c per mile, which cost the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Emmitsburg over $457.

The service club depends entirely upon public contributions for the maintenance of the vehicle, and each year holds a fund-raising event to help meet these expenses. Anyone wishing to make a cash contribution can do so by mailing it to Lumen F. Norris or Harold M. Hoke.

Thurman, Talladega, Ala., last Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Fort Lauderdale.

The ceremony was performed by the assistant pastor, Rev. Fr. Mortimer Danaher.

Historic Mission's Annual Picnic Saturday, Aug. 27

Once again the time has rolled around for the annual Buchanan Valley Picnic, enjoyed so much by so many Emmitsburgians.

The affair is sponsored annually by the Old Jesuit Mission, located halfway between Gettysburg and Chambersburg and also is accessible via Fairfield or Orrtanna.

Rev. Fr. Louis J. Yeager, well-known locally, heads the little parish which sponsors the big picnic. The historic old mission was built in 1817, and the original church still is standing and in use. Many tourists visit the interesting mission, and a group of nuns from St. Joseph Central House teaches Sunday School there every week, rain or shine.

The historic site derives its name from President James Buchanan.

Fr. Yeager has many friends in the Emmitsburg District, having attended Mt. St. Mary's College and Seminary for 10 years from 1912-22. The picnic will be held on Saturday, Aug. 27, and will feature many games and amusements. One of the highlights of the occasion will be Paul "Mac" Kendrick, the "one man band." Tasty chicken and ham suppers will also be served.

"Connie" Snarled Phone Service

Hurricane "Connie" did her best to knock out telephone service here last Friday night, but a tireless crew of workmen from the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. thwarted her efforts by a night-long vigil in the local exchange.

At times, Roger B. Heck, local C. & P. manager declared, "Connie" did get ahead of the crew and at one time 31 lines and 145 stations (phones) were decommissioned. The workmen operated some equipment manually in an effort to insure uninterrupted service.

The crew stood "guard" from midnight Friday until 8 a. m. Saturday. By dark Saturday evening service was in full and uninterrupted.

Frederick Publisher Succumbs

Robert E. Delaplaine, co-publisher of the Frederick News and Post and president of the largest bank in Western Maryland, died Monday at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Monday, where he was admitted last June suffering from a paralytic stroke.

He was 70 on Apr. 19 and appeared in fine health when he returned in the spring from a trip around the world with his wife.

After being taken to the hospital he rallied well at first but various organic impairments set in one after another and he had been critically ill for several weeks.

Mr. Delaplaine was president of the Farmers and Mechanics-Citizens National Bank, Frederick, the product of a consolidation which he guided two years ago.

Family Reunion Is Held

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Ott last Sunday evening.

Ott Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sutton and children, Mary, Ellen, Ann and Johnny; Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Asper and children, Jeff and Donna; Mr. and Mrs. John Weatherly and children, Linda and Don; Mrs. G. Weatherly, Linda and Darlyn Weatherly, Mr. and Mrs. John Ott and son, Johnny; Mr. and Mrs. William Rosensteel and daughter, Connie; Miss Ann Butler, Miss Florence Sutton, Mr. Dave Topper, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anders, Mrs. William Matthews and Johnny and Viola Matthews.

Roy Allen Eyer and Effie Elizabeth Hoke have sold to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Ohler, a property on the north side of E. Main St., consideration being about $6500.

It is said that fish bite better between new moon and the first quarter.

Block Party Plans Are Progressing

Plans for the annual Block Party are nearing completion, committees in charge reported this week. The affair will be held Aug. 27 on DePaul St., which will be roped off for the occasion.

Next week workers will begin the erection of the booths, lights, etc.

The Emmitsburg Municipal Band has been engaged to provide music for the evening, and a host of other amusements and entertainments is being scheduled for the general public's enjoyment.

Good food, always a highlight of the affair, will be served as usual, and bingo, food sales, hoopla, and other games will be played.

The local veterans' group annually holds this affair to raise money necessary for the maintenance of local free ambulance service, and Emmitsburgians usually spend freely for this worthy cause. Activities will get under way at 5:30 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 27.

Public Schools Open Sept. 7

Public schools of Frederick County will open for the new school year on Wednesday, Sept. 7—the Wednesday after Labor Day—it was disclosed at the office of the Board of Education. Principals and teachers will report to the schools on Tuesday, Sept. 6, to get ready for the opening.

Meetings of county teachers will be held this year on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 29-30-Oct. 1. Schools will close on Sept. 29 and 30.

Grange Favors Past Masters' Organization

Twenty-three members were present at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Grange held Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Clara Harner, Master Richard Florence presiding.

It was announced all members could obtain tickets to the Timonium Fair, Aug. 31 to Sept. 10, from the secretary, Clara Harner.

The next meeting of the 4-H Club will be held Sept. 2 at the Ed Meadows farm, formerly the Morris A. Zentz farm. A movie on leadership will be projected.

The election of officers of the 4-H Club will be held at the second meeting in October, which is Wednesday the 21st.

The local chapter went on record as approving a county-wide Past Masters Club. This was discussed at the last Pomona meeting and all subordinates were asked to discuss the matter.

Mr. Rhea Kincaid, soil conservationist of Thurmont, showed a movie titled "The World at Your Feet." A film for the juveniles also was shown and was captioned "Smoke, the Bear." Following the meeting watermelon was enjoyed by all, served by the hostess. The next regular meeting will be held at the Morris Zentz farm with Mrs. Estella Zentz as hostess.

'Potato Man' Will Celebrate 80th

George W. Wilhide, the "potato man" from Lantz, will observe his 80th birthday Saturday. He will be the guest of honor at a quiet little fete to be held at the Green Parrot Tea Room. For years, Mrs. Charles McNair has seen to it that George's birthday is a complete one and on the occasion always sees that "things are on the house." A nice cake will round out the treat.

For 30 years George has sold potatoes to Emmitsburgians and estimates the average about 100 bushels a year, making a total of some 3000 bushels he has unloaded here.

Church Group To Hold Picnic

The annual men's outing, sponsored by the Elias Lutheran Men's Class, will be held along Middle Creek at the Norman Shriver Cottage on Thursday afternoon and evening, Aug. 25, from 1:30 to 10:30 o'clock. A full program of games and entertainment is arranged. Supper will be served from five p. m. on.

DISCUSS POOL

The possibilities of building a swimming pool at Thurmont were discussed at a public meeting last Thursday. Present were representatives of organizations, business houses, town government and outlying communities. Committees were appointed.

C. of C. Will Study Swim Pool Project

Action was taken Monday night at the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce to investigate the possibilities of erecting a swimming pool for the Emmitsburg District. President Cloyd W. Seiss presided over the meeting which was well-attended.

The president appointed a committee to determine the requirements for a local pool, the cost of such an enterprise, and to propose a suitable location. The following committee was named: Roger Zurgable, chairman; Kermit Lowe, and Ralph F. Ireland. The committee will report at the next regular meeting of the group.

Roger Zurgable was appointed to sound-out the existing sentiment among local merchants who favor closing their places of business on Monday nights. At present, it was reported, about 15 have signified their willingness to close, and there are about four or five who haven't yet made up their minds or haven't been consulted, as yet. From all indications, the plan is expected to go through in the near future.

A thank-you note was received from the Warner Hospital in recognition of a recent donation by the Chamber. A communication was read from the State Chamber of Commerce and a request for the names of local beauty parlors was received from the Lee Rodell Co. of Chicago.

A discussion was held on the method devised to ascertain when established industries plan to relocate and the president was delegated to investigate the business.

The Chamber was given a report by Mrs. Robert E. Daugherty on her plans for the staging of Emmitsburg's bi-centennial anniversary in 1957. She reported that plans were progressing and that sentiment was heartily in favor of such a promotion. Other routine business was transacted.

LITTLE LEAGUE FINALS TO START

Final action in Emmitsburg's Little League this week showed the Cards lambasting the Red Sox 15 to 4 Monday night. The Sox bounced right back Tuesday to edge out a victory over the Yanks by a 4-2 score.

Official playoffs will begin next Thursday evening. The first round of play will pair the Cards against the Red Sox.

Work on the new Little League diamond is progressing nicely, it was reported this week by the committee in charge. The group is in need of about 75 locust posts for making a fence about the ball park. It is hoped that some farmer or individual might have a number of these posts laying around and would like to donate them to the Little League, or sell them at a nominal fee.

Local Corn Profit Can Be Hiked By Drying-Storage Units, Farmers Say

With a good corn crop in prospect this year over a large part of the country, growers in this area stand to get the most money for their grain by drying and storing it in a structure that has been engineered as a unit to do both jobs.

This is the opinion of farmers who have used Quonset ear-corn drying and storage buildings. They report that with such units they can pick two weeks earlier in any year than they could otherwise and thus prevent large losses in the field, and that proper storage pays big dividends from price increases.

The drying process begins in this Quonset 32 as this farmer throws the switch to start unheated air circulating through his early harvested corn.

These farmers point out that drying and storage facilities should be engineered together in order to provide sufficient air flow for safe, effective corn conditioning. In the case of the Quonset unit an ample flow is assured by research, engineering and on-the-farm experience since 1943.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's findings, proper drying with the economical unheated-air system requires an air flow at a rate of 5 cubic feet per minute per bushel of stored corn.

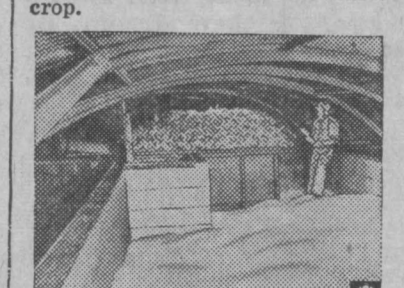

To insure satisfactory results for farmers, engineers of the Stran-Steel Corporation, which manufactures Quonsets, have carefully incorporated equipment that will do this drying job into plans for the building. An air duct cross-section area of 25 square feet is specified and a 42-inch fan with 5 h.p. motor are included in the erection and purchase price of the building. Statistics show that farmers can save from four to 14 bushels per acre by picking early and drying the corn to safe storage level with the unheated-air system. One farmer reported that he dried 6,000 bushels of wet corn at an operating cost of less than half-a-cent a bushel.

With the crops protected from weather hazards and the drying conditions controlled, spoilage normally experienced without such a drying system is practically eliminated.

Many farmers report that Quonsets, which may be bought on an easy-purchase plan, have paid for themselves in less than three years. This was done by harvesting more through early picking, made possible by the building's drying feature, and by getting more than the harvest-time price for crops held a few months in their Quonsets.

In a soft-corn year, this drying method can save loss of an entire crop.

Ear corn is dried from 25-30 percent moisture down to 15 percent and stored in one end of this Quonset 32. Bins in the foreground hold small grain and soybeans.

When not needed for corn, the clear-span construction makes this building adaptable to almost any farm use. A single Quonset often serves for ear-corn storage at one end and for machinery storage at the other.

gene Warthen, St. Anthony's. James C. Jr., is a member of the faculty of Peabody Institute, Baltimore, and is working for his master's degree in instrumental music at Johns Hopkins University.

CECN George McDonnell has returned to Davisville, R. I., after spending a 15-day leave her with his parent, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph McDonnell. He was accompanied on the trip by his wife and child.

Mr. Lloyd W. Seiss and sisters-in-law Agnes Lamberson and Katherine O'Malley, Pittsburgh, Pa., returned home last Saturday from a week's vacation in Atlantic City, N. J.

Gerald Joy, U. S. Army, stationed at Fort Devens, Mass., and Mrs. Joy spent a week recently visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Joy and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Orndorff.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hoke and family, Rapid City, S. D., are spending sometime with his mother, Mrs. Joseph Hoke.

Mr. and Mrs. Colton Sheffield and daughter, Baltimore, visited last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell. Mrs. Sheffield and

HOW TRUE!

An editor knocked at the Pearly gates

His face was scarred and cold; He stood before the man of fate

For admission to the fold. "What have you done?" St. Peter asked?

To gain admission here? "I've been an editor, sir," he said,

"For many and many a year." The Pearly Gate swung open wide; St. Peter touched the bell.

"Come in," he said, "and choose your harp,

"You've had your share of hell."

The State Roads Commission recently opened one of the largest of its 94 picnic areas near Hughesville in Charles County. Included in it is a fishing pond stocked with large-mouth bass by the Game & Inland Fish Commission. Above (left), Governor McKeldin pours the first load of fish in the new pond. Later he went fishing and caught—what? You guessed it—a bass!

Your Personal Health

The Medicine Cabinet

Your bathroom medicine cabinet may be crammed with supplies, but is it well equipped? How many items have become ineffective or downright dangerous from age? Do you know when and how long to keep the items necessary to your family's health? Some equipment will keep indefinitely with proper care. Bandages, antiseptic cotton, tongue depressors, and throat swabs are safe if kept in sealed packages. Bleaches and chlorine disinfectants, boric acid powder and ointment, cough syrups, petroleum jelly, mouthwash, mineral oil, rubbing alcohol, and sodium bicarbonate all keep indefinitely in tightly closed jars and bottles.

Other items deteriorate with age. Adhesive tape dries out. Antihistamines, hydrogen peroxide, and nose drops lose effectiveness in one to one and a half years. Throw away aspirin if tablets have a vinegar odor or if crystals have formed; soda mints if crumbly; antiseptics if cloudy, or if there is sediment in the bottle; milk of magnesia when dry and caked, ointments and salves that have separated, darkened, or if the tube is corroded.

Keep iodine, essence of peppermint, spirits of camphor and ammonia tightly closed to prevent evaporation. When iodine evaporates, it becomes concentrated and can burn badly. Argylol deteriorates rapidly and can become dangerous; discard after 30 days. Eyewash and eyedrops may develop a dangerous fungoid growth if kept too long.

The refrigerator is the place for cod liver oil, vitamins, mineral pills, and antibiotics. One year is the limit for vitamin capsules, six months for tablets and elixirs. Never keep antibiotics beyond the expiration date printed on the package.

Check over your medicine cabinet at least twice a year and discard out-of-date items. If a label is missing, don't guess. Throw the item away.

In general—the method of cooking made little difference in the meanness, dryness and flavor—a potato that was dry and mealy when boiled, was also dry and mealy when mashed or baked. In color, however, the differences were more pronounced. The color of mashed or baked potatoes was likely to be more attractive than the color of boiled potatoes; in some samples, ricing and blending improved the color of potatoes that had been boiled. Length of storage affects the eating quality of cooked potatoes. The longer potatoes are stored, the less mealy and the sogger they become. On the other hand, sloughing or breaking off is not great in stored potatoes.

Senator Chats On Eve Of Departure

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

There has been lots of guesswork and some studies made to explain the homing instinct of birds, animals and fish. Some time ago the U. S. Army Signal Corps, under a project labeled Top Secret, attempted to prove that carrier pigeons find their way by coordinating magnetic lines of force with the Coriolis effect—that force set up by the rotation of the earth.

The Coriolis effect is really a whole series of effects and one of them is centrifugal force. As the earth spins on its axis, water and air tend to revolve in a clockwise direction north of the equator and counter-clockwise south of it. The theory is that if water can feel the rotation of the earth and respond to it, so can the fluid in the inner ear. In other words, the inner ear may act as a compass for homing birds and animals. And carrier pigeons were supposed to plot their course by using the magnetic lines that cross the earth and the Coriolis effect.

The people who conducted the experiment thought they'd found something. But their results have been questioned, and the general feeling is that it wasn't conclusive one way or another.

More interesting perhaps is the work of J. B. Rhine of Duke University, who has done experiments in "extra-sensory perception." Dr. Rhine has collected thousands of stories of homing animals, and has verified many of them. He believes that the ability can't be explained in terms of any known sense. That, like mental telepathy and clairvoyance, it is "extra-physical."

In other words, his theory about home-going animals is that their behavior is caused by some force or power we know nothing about, a force that doesn't obey the usual laws of physics, that can't be measured by any existence instrument, and that is just as powerful at a great distance as it is nearby.

If Dr. Rhine is right, and his evidence seems mighty convincing according to an article by Varian Fry which appeared in a recent issue of Sports Afield magazine, then we may be on the verge of great new discoveries. Discoveries that will reveal things of significance not only about animal behavior, but about the real nature of the whole world.

If Dr. Rhine is wrong, then some simpler, less revolutionary explanation of homing than his is bound to be found sooner or later. For it's certain that animals do have a mysterious ability to find their way without any guideposts that we know about, or can even guess at. And when a phenomenon like that exists, it's only a matter of time before some scientist explains it.

Communism's In Trouble
Behind the mask of friendliness now being worn in Moscow are cunning minds at work desperately scheming for time. But time for what? The Communists have two great, urgent needs which they have learned cannot be served during a continuation of the cold war tension: (1) They must make Communism a little more acceptable to the 900 million people behind the Iron Curtain who are beginning to see that harsh dictatorship, chronic poverty, and a hovering threat of famine are "fruits" of the "New Order," and (2) They must somehow halt and dissipate the gathering defensive strength of the USA and her allies.

If the Red bosses succeed in their deception they may be able to improve the now miserably-low living standard in Russia and the satellites—by increasing civilian production and with the aid of trade with the free nations. The living standard is variously estimated as one-sixth to one-tenth as good as ours. Any improvement, however small by our standards, might well pacify the people and renew their hope under Communism.

Undermine Our Strength
Meantime, in the field of military strength, the Communists' deception, if successful, would tend very soon toward a relaxing of vigilance in the West and undoubtedly a substantial reduction in the costly buildup for defense. Leaders, and people, in the free world want to use the money, now being spent on armament, for constructive, human welfare purposes. And with Western nations experiencing a phony "peace," the Kremlin's economic planners could briefly shift emphasis from military to urgent civilian production needs, especially food, clothing and housing.

President Eisenhower won a propaganda victory at Geneva, the first major one ever to come out of talks with the Communists. But aside from that, the Reds seem to have gotten what they wanted at Geneva—a receptive world audience for their newest technique with the soul-stirring world "peace!" Our President's challenge for inspection of military establishments in both countries, as a first step toward armament control, has not brought definite Soviet action. The Reds will accept it only if it can be fitted into their long-range strategic moves toward conquering the United States. Whatever the outcome of the President's challenge, we must not lose in the deadly strategic game Moscow is playing with the false pose of peacefulness.

Communism Isn't Working
"Communism, as a system," reports the US NEWS & WORLD REPORT on the basis of authentic information, "is not working as Communists expected. Farmers are resisting, so that food is short. Industry is failing to keep up with the expansion of industry in the non-Communist West. Living standards of people in Communist countries have failed to rise in a way comparable to those in non-Communist countries. People, as a result, are restive, discontent. . . . With food short, and industry lagging, the balance of military power—both potential and in being—is starting to tilt against the Communists. . . ."

"The Soviet Union of today . . . is groggy and playing for time, as well as for help. A good, stiff shove, and the whole structure—now over-strained—might collapse. . . . The Soviet empire quite obviously needs time to recover from Communist mistakes in policy. . . . The Western world thus can expect soft words and soothing gestures from the Communists. . . ."

No Change in Strategy
In a companion article the US NEWS interviews Nikolai E. Khokhlov, who served 13 years in the Soviet Intelligence Service before renouncing Communism and escaping Russia in 1954. He correctly predicted the downfall of Malenkov, and is considered a reliable source of information being relayed secretly to him by anti-Communists within Russia. "It is now in the Soviet interest, at least for the next few years," he said, to persuade the West to accept the idea of co-existence."

"You mean the Soviets have given up their idea of overthrowing capitalism, of conquering the world?" "No, not at all," he said, "this is simply a new tactic, but still a part of the same old long-time strategy." At another point in the interview, Khokhlov says: "The first and most dangerous enemy of the Soviet system is the oppressed, enslaved people themselves. . . . But don't think that Soviet internal problems can make the rulers change from Communism to democracy. That's impossible." The West can help, he said, not by aggrandizing Soviet leaders and aiding them out of their troubles, but by remaining strong and aiding the anti-Communist forces inside Russia. The best authorities on Communist Russia echo this belief.

Highway Postoffice To Expedite Mail Service Here

Highway Post Office Service will be inaugurated between Baltimore, Md. and Martinsburg, W. Va., on Saturday, Aug. 20, 1955. The Post Office Department in establishing this highway post office route is endeavoring to bring a modern and efficient means of mail transportation to the area, with provisions for distribution enroute and improved handling of both incoming and outgoing mails. This a Post Office Department venture, the HPO is manned, operated and supervised by employees and officials of the Postal Transportation Service. Regular service on this route will start August 22.

On the inaugural trip on Aug. 20th., the public is invited to inspect the vehicle, which will be parked on the square in front of the post office, from 10:00 AM., to 10:20 AM. A brochure bearing an imprint of the First-Trip Mails carried on the first trip of the route will be restricted to first-day covers. Covers for the first trip cancellation should be handed in at post office, or sent under cover or label authorizing the holding of the covers for the first trip and requesting application of the first-trip cachet and post mark stamp.

NAM To Resist Labor Demands

Maryland industrialists and businessmen were urged last week by the National Assn. of Manufacturers to resist at the bargaining table the threat of the union leaders' efforts to win special unemployment wage guarantees at the expense of the general public.

The NAM said that the general adoption in Maryland of the supplemental unemployment benefit plan as granted by Ford and GM would undermine the state's free enterprise system and start it toward "economic stagnation."

Even pressure by labor leaders for changes in the present state law to permit the plan to be subject to challenge by any citizen of the state, the NAM said, and it expressed certainty that Maryland industry would "meet the challenge."

The NAM believes that the supplementation of state unemployment benefits by industry-financed payments is illegal and that court tests should be instituted wherever state administrators held otherwise.

Also the NAM predicts that the union leaders will keep pushing for larger benefits until they have won their original goal of a full year at full pay for laid-off workers. Under the Ford and GM pacts workers will get 65 per cent of normal take-home pay during the first four weeks of unemployment and 60 per cent for the next 22 weeks. The payments represent a combination of state and company benefits.

If two-thirds of the states with auto plants do not give a green light for the two-way payments by July 1, 1957, the supplementary pay provisions of the Detroit agreements become void.

This is the reason, the NAM said, it is urging all employers to fight against approval of the simultaneous plan in every state.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

Senator Estes Kefauver heads special committee investigating causes of juvenile delinquency. This problem is shared by independent business as well as all other citizens.

It is possible in time study will reveal that nation's big cities where huge industry is concentrated provide breeding ground for youthful erring. As a result, taxpayers will again be asked to dig up to provide more recreational facilities to once again help overcome the evil of centralization.

Yet, it cannot escape public notice that on a global basis, the U. S. taxpayer is being forced to encourage delinquency among juvenile nations.

Mutual Cooperation Administration, is the newest name for long line of foreign aid administrations that started with Marshall Plan to shovel out billions of dollars, and the end is so far nowhere in sight.

In fact, it now looks as if basic economy of some nations is built on expectation of U.S. free enterprise system donating to them. Back in dim past when first billions were voted for Marshall Plan, basic premise was that Americans would help free people, ravaged by war's cruelty, to get on their feet. The warm heart that beats in American responded.

But since that time, and many billions later, it becomes apparent part of foreign aid is being used as global blackmail scheme.

For example, it is without question Tito's Yugoslavia is Communist. It is true that Tito and Kremlin had family spat, but only difference between Communism in Yugoslavia and Communism in Russia is size of respective nations.

Yet American dollars are being taken to finance Communism. Yugoslavia, which has already received a billion or two, is still on the receiving end.

For example, just other day U. S. foreign aid gave Yugoslavia another $3 million, this time in form of unmanufactured wool. Undoubtedly, in due time, Yugoslavia will manufacture this wool and by devious courses use it as trade stuff with nations behind Iron Curtain, thus strengthening a little bit more economy of Communist empire.

Actually, there are only two ways of ridding the world of communism's horror. One is total war which no one wants. The other is to keep outside help from the Communist empire and let it sink as population finally realizes inefficient, rotten system offers nothing but despair.

But the despair that causes overthrows will never be reached as long as even a trickle of outside help gets in. This is a basic concept of human nature little understood by many.

Unfortunately, only a few, including ex-president Herbert Hoover, Sen. Wm. Knowland, seem to understand this hard fact of the 20th Century. A $3 million gift to communist Yugoslavia is worth a $100 million or more to communist propagandists to encourage their faithful followers, to throw fear into potential rebels.

It is hard to believe, as official circles seem trying to establish by inference, that there are good and bad communists.

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, Aug. 18 —What is the truth about the stock market? Is it very high or is it not?

Should stocks be sold now? Should investments be made now? These are questions which this column will try to answer this week. Unfortunately, the stock market is judged by the Average Daily Price of Thirty Industrial Stocks. It is true that this list, after adjustments for "splits," mergers, etc., is near its all-time high. To be specific, these 30 stocks are now about 450 compared with 350 a year ago, 381 in the Fall of 1929; and 41 at their all-time low of 1932. But when averaging all 1500 stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, I find that all are not too high, based upon earnings. I especially want readers to remember the above, when this Industrial Average begins to slide off as it surely will someday. Don't then think that business is going on the rocks and that our prosperous days are over. Just as a high Industrial Stock Average does not NOW give you more customers and profits, so your business can continue good later when these Thirty Stocks slump. Protect your inventories, keep your people employed, and continue your advertising, whatever these Thirty Stocks do.

Most Gains In Very Few Stocks
Not only are these Thirty Stocks an unfair measure of the entire market, but an analysis of even these "Thirty" is important. For instance, one day recently this Thirty Stock Average went up (the newspapers broadcast "Highest Prices Ever Known," when actually more stocks made new "lows" for the year than made new "highs." The concentrated buying, by Pension Funds and Investment Trusts, of a few stocks like General Motors, Du Pont, and Eastman Kodak, ran this average up so it was useless as a true measure of the stock market or of business.

The Average of 265 Common Stocks issued weekly by the SEC is a far better barometer. Besides the SEC divides its list into six division, viz: (1) Durable Products, (2) Non-durable Products, (3) Transportation, (4) Public Utilities,

(5) Trade, Finance, & Service, and (6) Mining. An analysis of these 265 shows also that while the high-priced stocks were increasing higher in price an average of eight per cent, the low-priced stocks lost one per cent. Probably many readers of this column will say: "All other stocks have gone up but mine." But I reply: "What of it? You seldom take profits when your stocks do go up. Like a 'hog,' you always wait for higher prices before selling, and then you wait too long and your profit is lost."

Buy For Income
One big day when the Thirty Stocks were jumping, of the 1231 stocks traded, 636 closed lower, while only 361 closed higher, and 234 closed unchanged. Many of these last 234 were "investment stocks" which people buy to hold for dividends. Some of these have paid dividends for 50 years. I forecast that you would be better off to forget speculating for profit, and to have an estate of sound dividend payers of honestly operated companies. Remember that money earning six per cent will double in 12 years. Hence, when you ask me if this is a time to sell or buy stocks, I reply that now is the time to do both; in other words, this is a time to SWITCH. Take your profits on the popular "blue chips," which are yielding only four per cent. Invest one half of your money in some of the 234 (mostly dividend payers) mentioned above.

Deposit the other half in your local Savings Bank and wait for the big decline which will come someday.

Likes Merchandising Stocks
One can get six per cent today by buying good chain-store stocks. Every week I invest some money in the Variety Chains (5 & 10 Cent Stores), at whatever price the stocks are selling. If you want to know the reason "why," just go into one of these "Dime" stores and note the 10,000 useful items which they have at sale for "Cash and Carry." They have no credit accounts, no delivery costs, and they sell good merchandise at low prices. The stores fear neither inflation nor depression and have the security of geographical distribution. When they do more advertising, they will make even more money. They set local merchants an example of efficiency.

has been completely filled. The exhibitors will vie for $30,000 in prizes. The previous record for entries was slightly more than 1500, achieved last year. But prize animals will be only a small fraction of the attractions at the fair. There'll be Kid's Day, with its pie and pancake eating contests, old-fashioned chicken dinners, served by the ladies' committee of the fair, fireworks, an army helicopter, special programs each night of the fair, Army and Navy drill teams, a Civil Defense exhibit, horse shows, featuring jumpers, hunters, and saddle horses. One of the highlights of the fair will be a fashion show in which some of Washington's prettiest models will model what the well-dressed lady will wear down on the farm. The fair will run for five days, Aug. 23-27 with children under 12 admitted free.

When fishing, hunting, working or playing in overheated surroundings, increase your salt intake: add one teaspoonful of salt to each quart of water you drink or take a salt tablet with each glassful.—Sports Afield

Bathtub Is Popular Playground

THESE LITTLE SISTERS are having a good soak — and a good time. They don't even care if they get clean, too!

WHEN IT COMES to combining soap and water and children, a mother just can't win. Either she can't get the youngsters into the tub, or she can't get them out. As long as she's going to lose the battle anyway, she might as well see that somebody has a good time!

As a rule, two youngsters to a tub are better than one, since they entertain each other. However, even one reluctant little creature can be persuaded to enjoy a bath if mother takes a little time and trouble to sell the idea. Instead of saying "It's time to take a bath," try saying "Let's go and play with some soap and water for awhile." Instead of scrubbing Junior as soon as he climbs into the tub, let him play for a few minutes—with bathtub toys, with a spray-hose attached to the faucet, with some bright colored sponges. The more suds, the better, for rare is the child who can resist the magic of thick foamy lather that comes up as high as the rim of the tub.

Children love to experiment and discover — to see just how much suds can be squeezed out of one wash cloth, just how high a blob of snowy foam can be built up before it topples over. As for getting the kids out of the tub — well, the only sure method is simply to open the drain and let the bubbles disappear. When the soap's gone, the fun's over!

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—The Geneva atoms-for-peace conference is surely the news of the week. President Eisenhower's vision of such a meeting in his now famous proposal on the peaceful uses of atomic energy is now a reality. That the world listened when he said "to find the way by which the miraculous inventiveness of man shall not be dedicated to his death, but consecrated to his life" is evident.

Americans can take great pride in the array of scientific ability representing this country. Our chief spokesman, Willard Libby, is not only one of the Atomic Energy Commission's top investigators but also one of the world's foremost nuclear scientists. A careful watching of the Geneva-dated news gives an inkling of the peaceful atom story that is unfolding.

I would like to add one observation which came to me from AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss. AEC's Chairman said that it is the only modern weapon of war that can instantly be converted into a peaceful tool. And no matter how long it is stored it does not deteriorate. This means our atomic weapon stockpile is both an arsenal for defense and a storehouse of energy for peace.

A word or two on tax and appropriation measures passed by the first session of the 84th Congress: Certain excise tax rates and the 52% tax on corporate income due to revert to pre-Korea levels last April were continued. Otherwise, there was no change in revenue raising measures. The Congress voted $59 billion to run the government and carry out the special wishes of the people during fiscal 1956. Some of the economies suggested in this sum are only temporary. Necessary supplemental appropriations will bring the '56 total to about $60.3 billion.

A balanced budget seems possible by the end of the 1956 fiscal year. The Administration's wise and efficient spending of sums appropriated and an income from revenues in excess of estimates will likely balance the government's outgo and income. Treasury experts predict that our prosperity will yield about $61 billion in revenue during the year.

"Price support on the 1955 crop corn has been announced at $1.74 per bushel for corn grading No. 3 or better and stored on farms in the commercial corn areas," George B. Reeves, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said.

Corn produced in non-commercial areas is supported at $1.30 per bushel. Commercial areas include Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Dorchester, Frederick, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, Queen Annes, Somerset, Talbot, Washington, Worcester, and Worcester counties. All others are in the non-commercial area.

Mr. Reeves said, "Eligibility for price support in the commercial area is dependent upon the farmer harvesting an acreage of corn which does not exceed his allotted acreage. In all areas the farmer must provide suitable storage."

"Supports can be increased if the Oct. 1 parity is higher than the Feb. 15 parity, but support rates cannot be lowered," Mr. Reeves said.

Color No Deterrent To Bird Mating

On the day I wrote this, a neighbor called me excitedly on the phone to say that she had been trying to identify a rather plain greenish bird when suddenly a bright red bird with jet black wings and tail flew down and mated with it. She wondered if it was unusual to have two birds of different species mate and what the story back of this observation might be. It happens that on at least three other occasions I have received phone calls from persons who have made similar observations. I remember once having a large class in the field which was attempting, without much success, to identify a partially hidden female scarlet tanager, when a male dashed in to help settle the story.

SCARLET TANAGER

© 1954 National Wildlife Federation

At one time, I had occasion to review a manuscript written by an author who is now considered one of our best known nature writers. In this story President Calvin Coolidge was reputed to have been thrilled by the observation on a Christmas morning of a brilliant red male scarlet tanager perched beside a red cardinal on one of the evergreens near the White House grounds. The story emphasized how our taciturn president became excited over what he had seen. As a matter of fact this observation is worthy of some excitement because at this season scarlet tanagers are wintering far south of the United States. The story explained that the bird seen was a young male which had mislead out on the southern migration and for some unknown reason was hanging around Washington. This was obviously misleading because the young males are not a brilliant red at Christmas time any more than are the older members of their sex and species.

Scarlet tanagers measure about 7 1/2 inches in length. This is about an inch longer than the vireos which they might be considered to remotely resemble. The male loses his brilliant red breeding color in the fall to take on an appearance somewhat similar to that of the females and young birds which are dull green above and yellowish beneath.

Scarlet tanagers breed from southern Saskatchewan to Nova Scotia and south to Georgia and Arkansas. They winter from Colombia to Peru and Bolivia migrating through Cuba, Jamaica, along the west coast of the Gulf of Mexico, eastern Yucatan and Central America.

The nest is built on a horizontal limb up to heights 50 feet, usually in the open woodlands. It is a flat platform of rootless, leaves and grasses. The three to five pale greenish blue eggs have brown specks and are about one inch long. They are incubated for 13 days by the female. Young males assume the brilliant breeding plumage in one year. Since the birds feed almost entirely on the insect enemies of woody plants, their usefulness is obvious, proving once again that a beautiful thing is not necessarily useless. The National Wildlife Federation is proud to lend its support to a better understanding of these remarkable birds.—E. Laurence Palmer.

Social Security Observes 20th Anniversary

The Hagerstown Social Security office will participate in the nation-wide observance of the 20th anniversary of the enactment of the original social security law, W. S. King, district manager, announced last week.

The Social Security Act became law on Aug. 14, 1935. "At that time only about one worker in 10 was covered by any retirement system, and only about one worker in 20 by a public retirement program," Mr. King said. As of July of this year, 5894 persons were receiving a total of $266,809 monthly in Washington and Frederick Counties.

Pointing out that nine out of 10 people who work for a living can now look forward to retirement benefits under the old-age and survivors insurance program, Mr. King said that the original law provided only old-age protection. It applied to some 33 million workers in commerce and industry. The 1939 Amendments added payments for dependents of retired workers and for the survivors of workers who died.

It was not until 1951 that coverage extended to the self-employed, and to certain employees of non-profit organizations, regularly employed domestic and farm workers, and some employees of Federal, State, and local governments. Ten million more workers were brought under the program through the 1954 Amendments which extended coverage to self-employed farmers, most farm employees and workers in private households, and certain self-employed professionals. Protection was also made available, under special agreements, to more State and local government employees, and to ministers and members of religious orders. "About 67 million persons will build this protection for themselves and their families during 1955," Mr. King declared.

He pointed out that the average old-age benefit payment has increased from $22.60 monthly in 1940 to $60 monthly at the end of 1954. Payments are still higher for retired workers who have more recently come on the rolls. This average old-age payment is now $80, and the average monthly payment to a young widow with two minor children is $185. As an illustration of the progress of the program during the 20 years of its existence, many people who had themselves received benefits as children now have families of their own and are building old-age and survivors insurance protection through Squeaking floor boards can be silenced by nailing them to the sub-flooring. Drive two-inch finishing nails in at an angle, close to the edges of the boards. Use a nail set to sink heads of the nails below board surface. Fill holes with Plastic Wood, a little over-full. When Plastic Wood has hardened, sand it down with medium-fine sandpaper. Touch up with paint or shellac to match boards.

You can work with less mess when using paint, stain or varnish from a small can, if you put the can in an old cup. The cup will catch any drippings that run down the sides of the can, and the cup handle makes it easy to hold or move the paint without smearing your fingers.

employment or self-employment now covered by the law.

Looking to the future, Mr. King said that by 1975, when there will be 20 million Americans age 65 or over, four out of five of them will be eligible for benefit payments as retired workers, aged wives, dependent husbands, widows or dependent widowers or aged parents. At that time, nearly 90 million people will be in work covered by the law, and 93 million people will be insured.

OF A NUMBER OF THINGS

Six-Plus Weeks Abroad
(Editor's Note: Miss Hartman, who returned last month from a trip to Western Europe and England, begins here a series of travel articles on her interesting experiences).

As I have been delayed, from a combination of causes, in going ahead with the notes on the recent "Grand Tour" (not in the dictionary sense but as it seemed to me), I shall skip all mention here of the crossing and return on the Queen Elizabeth, except to say that I had not wanted to take such a fast (5-day) ship but was later very glad that the travel agency had been unable to find room for me on a slower one; for that meant two or more days gained each way on the six weeks originally allowed, and soon found to be not enough, for the main purpose of my trip, sight-seeing. (I was interested, by the way, to find that the French equivalent for this concisely expressive term of ours was the equally concise and expressive one 'tourisme'.)

Miscellaneous Introductory Experiences

In connection with Cherbourg, our landing-place on the north-west coast of France (Normandy), I have only the recollected thrill of actually being on the continent of Europe, of having a dream begin to come true—and the quite different let-down feeling at finding myself not met by the travel agency's representative who, according to my yellow-and-blue typed itinerary in its darker blue leatherette case, "will assist you in passing through French passport and customs formalities, escort you to the boat-train for Paris and assist you in boarding same." No, of course I remember too that I did not feel far enough down to be able to assist myself in these important-sounding services, all of which amounted to practically nothing, as all you had to do was follow the crowd and the directions handed you before leaving the ship; but help with the baggage, not even mentioned in this list, i. e., in getting just my own two small bags, not a third one which a non-English-speaking porter insisted on adding to them, into the compartment and coach to which I had also been assigned on the ship—that was something I really needed! (It involved too the matter of tipping in a foreign currency, with the French franc worth three-tenths of an American cent). But presently I had assisted myself also, but not too well, in this double difficulty, and was on my excited way to Paris; a little crowded, I must admit, in a compartment with seven other persons, one of whom, to judge from the large instrument he clutched, a musician, blandly admitted to having eight of the 22 pieces of baggage, altho all over two were supposed to be put elsewhere and paid for.

There was another "first" in the group of small personal experiences that were part of my introduction to this new "world around you" and that I am allowing myself to linger over before getting involved in the more serious business of trying to report on the sights that all tourists are supposed to see in Paris. This began when I found my place in Compartment 2 of Coach 22 with the seven other persons; for I am referring to the usually interesting and sometimes extremely pleasant and rewarding experience of meeting new people. No, I am not going to say that my very first example of such meetings involved this second kind of result, but a number of later ones did, the one with the family on the boat trip in Denmark, for example, or with the English woman in her charming cottage in Gloucestershire, or the couple from Australia whom I visited with in a hotel in Switzerland. And to return for a minute to my first chance travel-companions, four of them were a group of girls from New York whose gaiety made the crowded space seem less so.

Two more notes from the train and then we will be arriving at Gare St. Lazare and quickly covering the short distance between it and the small hotel that was to be my headquarters in Paris, at the time in a location unknown, for no street addresses for hotels had been given me: (1) the light lunch that I had intended would comprise my first meal on the continent, a glass of milk, perhaps, and a sandwich, with a little cooked fruit, in the diner en route to Paris—well, instead of that I had some information about a custom in the way of light lunches on continental diners, of which I entirely approve, but cannot go into now—and a life-saver from one of the above-mentioned young girls, which I really did not need but which seemed appropriate. (This little incident is given more point by contrast with the last meal I had on the continent, but that comes five weeks later); (2) the Normandy countryside, viewed through the large window which filled the whole side of the compartment, made an attractive quiet picture with its stretches of fresh green fields surrounded by hedges or low trees, an occasional apple orchard in bloom, and scattered plain houses finished in tan plaster or of gray stone. Women appear to be prime targets for the great crippler, arthritis. Statistics show that for every man, three women fall prey to this disease. Rheumatoid arthritis is the malady's formal name. Along with allied conditions, in one way or another, the disease has afflicted more than 10 million people in the U.S. and completely crippled some 200,000 others.

The secretary, housewife and young mother are most susceptible. Arthritis is insidious. Its symptoms at first are usually mild. Gradually they worsen, until one day you wake with an arm or leg that is completely useless.

What causes arthritis? Scientists have not yet found an answer. Nor have they yet found a complete cure.

They do have available a number of chemicals to control the symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis in many patients. These drugs, administered by the physician, can lift the hopelessly crippled arthritic victim out of the wheelchair and back into normal life.

Among the medicines which have proven effective in some patients are aspirin, gold compounds, and the much-heralded hormones, cortisone and hydrocortisone.

However, these drugs are not fully effective and the hormones, in particular, sometimes create unpleasant side effects in some patients and thus force their abandonment.

Recently, a new synthetic hormone called Sterane has been placed in the hands of physicians. Sterane appears to be far more potent than cortisone or hydrocortisone and offers promise of reducing the side effects noted with the other hormones.

With advancing research and rehabilitation, many arthritic patients will be given a new lease on life.
