More fun is in store this year for both adults and kiddies, when the American Legion again sponsors its annual spook parade on Oct. 29. This affair has done much to curb nefarious activities here and it is hoped that more parents will encourage their children to participate in the event. Prizes again will be awarded and a treat will be given at the termination of the parade.

The Thurmont swimming pool project got a real boost last week when two generous citizens donated about eight acres as a site. This should be a big incentive to the committee working on the project. Now then, if some benevolent soul could see fit to make a similar proposition here in Emmitsburg, it might be the spark that is needed to set the wheels in motion and to accomplish our goal of having our own pool. Naturally, the site should be near town and there is plenty of farm land all around us, and near town too. A committee which tackles a project of this magnitude needs a lot of backing and moral support and if a few generous gestures, such as donating land and possibly materials, would come its way, I am sure a lot more could be accomplished. As the old adage goes: "Where There is a Will, There's a Way."

My fellow contemporary, Col. Galen Gough this week starts an interesting series of personalities articles in this week's issue of the Chronicle. The idea is an excellent one, in my estimation, and should provide some interesting material concerning well-known local citizens. And I do, most heartily, want to congratulate him on his column which he originated recently. It's chock full of interesting tidbits on art, education, literature, science, athletics, sculpture and most everything a person could be interested in. Be sure and read it.

Apparently the local Legion Drill team is about to reorganize. A meeting is to be held next week and it is the fond hope of all of us that the team can be reactivated. It was one of those outfits that we were really proud of and was looked upon favorably in this whole area. As it is, we haven't too many organizations of this type to cause favorable comment and when we lose one of them it's an almost irreparable loss to the community. Here's hoping we can see them once more stepping it off next summer.

Hunting season is fast approaching again and soon hundreds of you will be taking to the woods. Being a lady, and therefore not an authority on the sport, I will attempt to treat the subject intelligently and with a little common sense. The number of farmers permitting hunting on their land has been dwindling year after year and it is high time someone or some organization came up with a solution to the confronting problem. Now the average farmer is an amicable and social sort of fellow, and if you act half decent with him he most likely will have no objection to letting you hunt a little. However, he likes to be asked and also likes to know who actually is on his land and you can't blame him at all. What causes most of the objections to hunting is shooting near his home, taking potshots at his livestock, breaking down his fencing and otherwise damaging his property. Sportsmen's clubs have done a lot to counteract this sort of thing and some progress is reported. However, everyone doesn't belong to these clubs and there are some individuals who just don't give a hang. They delib-

Halloween Parade Set For October 29

Spirits, goblins and witches, will descend on Emmitsburg Saturday night, Oct. 29, when the annual mammoth Halloween parade will get under way, under the auspices of the Francis X. Elder Post, 121, American Legion.

The parade will form at 6:30 p. m. at the Doughboy in West End and the march-off is scheduled for promptly at 7 o'clock. General chairman of the parade, Harold M. Hoke, said he believed interest was keener this year than in previous occasions. An estimated 500 children and adults participated in last year's fifth Halloween parade and the chairman requests that those contestants and participants desiring numbers and seeking prizes to show up a trifle early on the night of the parade.

From the Doughboy the parade will worm its way down Main Street to Federal Ave., along Federal Ave. to the intersection of that avenue and DePaul Street and proceed west to St. Vincent's Rectory grounds where it will disband and at which time refreshments will be served those participating.

Leading the parade, as is the custom, will be the Emmitsburg Municipal Band. It is highly possible that the Drill Team, Color Guard of the American Legion will be in the line of march. Other local units are expected.

Prizes will be awarded to first, second and third, respectively, as follows: Funnist costume, $5.00, $2.00 and $1; best-looking costume, $5, $2.00 and $1; most original costume, $5, $2.00 and $1; funniest costume with pet, $5.00, $2.00 and $1; best-looking costume with decorated bicycle, tricycle or wagon, $5.00, $2.00 and $1. Two mystery prizes of $5.00 each will be awarded.

AMVETS Shooting Match Tomorrow

As an added attraction, a pig will be given away at the shooting match Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Tract Inn, along the Emmitsburg-Fairfield Rd. The shooting match is sponsored by the Fairfield AMVETS Post and will start at 1:30 p. m. Prizes of chickens, turkeys, and hams will be awarded the winners. Twelve-gauge shotguns will be used with shells furnished.

Thurmont Residents Donate Land For Swimming Pool

A seven and one-half acre site has been donated by Thurmont residents for the purpose of constructing a swimming pool and recreational area. The site is located south of Thurmont off U. S. 15. Donating the land were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Creager and Mr. and Mrs. DeMing.

This announcement was made at a meeting of the North County Swimming Pool Assn., held last week in the Thurmont Legion Home.

It is planned to present a rough sketch of the project to the Town Board of Thurmont, in the near future, a spokesman for the association said, to insure approval of the board.

The proposed recreation area will be located within the limits of Thurmont and will use the water and sewerage system of the town.

Thomas S. Glass is acting counsel for the group and is preparing a charter. After the completion of the charter a set of by-laws will be drawn and other legal points determined.

VIGILANT HOSE COMPANY AMENDS BY-LAWS

A shooting match, sponsored by the Vigilant Hose Co. of Emmitsburg, will be held Sunday, Oct. 16, at Civic Assn. Grounds, east of town. Prizes of turkeys will be given away and shooters will use 12-gauge guns with shells furnished, it was announced at the regular meeting of the organization Tuesday night in the Fire Hall. President Herbert Roger presided.

Two new members enrolled in the advanced fire-fighting course, now in its second week, under the direction of the University of Maryland Fire Extension Service. It was said any other hoesmen interested in joining this class, which meets every Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock for 20 weeks, may do so.

An amendment to the board of directors' section of the by-laws, presented by Eugene Kramer, was voted on favorably. In effect, the amendment will limit the amount of money the board of directors can spend without the majority consent of the organization.

James Diller and Paul Claypool were new members admitted into the company. One application, from Allen Stoner, was also received.

VFW Auxiliary To Sponsor Halloween Dance

The regular monthly meeting of the VFW Auxiliary was held last Thursday night with the president, Helen Sanders, presiding. Marguerite Sharpe, Eleanor Burkner and Grace McDonnell were initiated and welcomed into the group.

Joan Keepers reported that the Halloween dance will be held on Oct. 28.

The quilting party which was to have been held in September, has been postponed until after the first of the year.

Mrs. Helen Daugherty reported that the baseball supper for Oct. 13, has been cancelled.

The district meeting will be held here on Nov. 9. Helen E. Daugherty will take charge of the refreshments and asks for kitchen helpers. Etta Mae Norris, Blanche Keilholz and Yvonne Baker volunteered for the job.

Helen Daugherty thanked the members who helped at the buffet supper for the recent horse show. They were Helen Sanders, Joan Keepers, Corrine Grinder and Idella Fitez.

The men's refreshments for November will be prepared by Marian Timmerman, Carrie Long and Helen Sanders. Corrine Grinder, Idella Fitez and Betty Messner were appointed for the women's refreshments for the next meeting.

Bertha Sanders was called for the draw prize but was absent.

LAWRENCE A. WARREN

Lawrence A. Warren, 49, died suddenly from a coronary occlusion last Thursday morning at 10:45 o'clock at his home in Highfield, Md. He had been confined to his home for the past 19 days.

Born in Fountaindale, he was the son of William and Fannie Tressler Warren and spent his early life in the Zora vicinity.

The deceased is survived by his widow, Minnie McLaughlin, and daughter, Patricia, at home; his parents, Fairfield, R. 2, and six brothers and two sisters; Guy Warren, Emmitsburg; Herman, Wayne Heights; Walter and Theodore Warren, both Fairfield; Earl and Kenneth, Fairfield R. 2; Mrs. Nelson Fikes, Ortanna, and Mrs. James Kane, Fairfield.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Grove Funeral Home in Waynesboro, Rev. John McClain officiating. Interment at Rest Haven Cemetery, Hagerstown.

Valley Players To Present Drama

The Valley Players, under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Irene Owen, will present their forthcoming fall show, "Wonderful Town." The show is based on the novel, "My Sister Eileen," and enjoyed a successful tenure on Broadway with Rosalind Russell as its star. The first Baltimore presentation will be given at the Mergenthaler High School auditorium, 35th and Hirlen Rd., on Friday and Saturday nights, Nov. 4 and 5 at 8:30 p. m. Tickets are available at Fred Walder's Music Store, 327 N. Howard St.

Prominent Personalities

• LEADERSHIP • CHARACTER

(Interviews by Col. Galen Gough)

(Editor's Note: This week starts a series of biographical sketches revealing the character and life of the people of Emmitsburg and community).

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

M. F. SHUFF

Leadership of longest standing goes to the honorable M. F. Shuff who stands prominent in the activities of Emmitsburg.

Born 96 years ago at Graceham, Md., Mr. Shuff came to Emmitsburg 76 years ago. Starting as a cabinet maker, he became the director of his own funeral home and builder of furniture, where he remained in business for many years, retiring at 70. He remained active in various developments, both in church activities and community affairs.

Strand Theater Plans Reopening

Manager William Lewis, of the Strand Theater, Gettysburg, announced this week that the theater would begin operations possibly next week.

New improvements to the film house since its closing this summer include equipment to project CinemaScope and SuperScope, in addition to installing a new wide screen and other improvements.

An opening date will be announced.

LEAGUE PLANS SUPPER

The Luther League of Elias Ev. Lutheran Church will hold a supper reorganization and social meeting Wednesday evening, Oct. 26 at 6 o'clock at the Parish House. The girls of the League, assisted by several mothers and adults, will serve the supper.

All young people are cordially invited. Special guests will include Paul McKay and Larry Cameron, president and vice president, respectively, of the Maryland Synod Luther League.

Church Choir To Increase Membership

A special office of choir dedication was conducted at the service last Sunday morning at the Elias Ev. Lutheran Church. Mrs. Reginald Zupp, director of music, read the 12th Chapter of Romans and announced the names of choir members being dedicated. Pastor Bower gave a dedication charge and prayer. The dedication hymn was "Lord, Speak to Me."

The church has three choirs, under the direction of Mrs. Zepp, with a total membership of 54. New members will be received into all three choirs during October. The choirs meet regularly for rehearsals each Tuesday evening, except the second Tuesday of the month when they meet on Thursday evening. Meeting times are Junior, 6:30; Youth, 7:00, and Chapel Choir, 7:45 o'clock.

LOYAL GROUP TO MEET

The LOYAL group and Luther League of the Lutheran Church will hold devotional and business meetings Thursday evening, Oct. 20, at 7:30 o'clock at the Parish House. Following the meetings, the young people and young adults will take part in a square dance, sponsored by the LOYAL group.

Play By Dramatic Club

The dramatic club of St. Joseph College, assisted by Mt. St. Mary's club, will present "The Curious Savage," on Nov. 13 at 7:30 p. m. in DePaul auditorium. Donald J. Waters, assistant professor of speech and drama, will direct the first major school production.

Noted Lecturer Addresses Students Of Two Colleges

Dr. Brik Kuchnet-Leddin who lectured in DePaul Auditorium of St. Joseph College last evening, presented his listeners with an opportunity to hear, in words of a critic, "one of the ablest and most challenging Catholic scholars available to American audiences."

Presented as part of the joint lecture-concert program of Mt. St. Mary's and Saint Joseph Colleges, the lecture was open to relatives and friends of the faculty and students of both institutions.

Motivation behind Dr. Leddin's lectures has been the bettering of relations between leading minds of America and Europe. According to Dr. Leddin, a certain misunderstanding between the two continents impairs effective Western action for world peace. The one-man peace crusade on which the doctor has embarked, consists mainly of explaining Europe to America and America to Europe through lectures and books.

Dr. Leddin's ability to analyze complex world problems for two entire continents comes to light through his linguistic fluency and cosmopolitan background. He and his family live 20 miles from Russian-occupied territory in Tyrol, and his native tongue is French. His Ph.D. was written in Hungarian; he taught Japanese at Fordham University.

Among Dr. Leddin's books, all of which are based on personal knowledge and contact are Night Over the East, Liberty or Equality, and Moscow 1979. In his lectures he plays an observer's role in speaking of England, America, Spain, Yugoslavia, East and West Germany, and the Catholic Church in Europe today.

LIONS CLUB PLANNING 26TH CHARTER NIGHT

Twenty-one Lions and five guests were present for the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday night in the Lutheran Parish Hall. The guests were the volunteer workers who aided with the recent horse show sponsored by the club.

A communication from the Westminster Club was received and invited the local club to attend its annual fall fashion dance tomorrow night. A letter also was received from the New Windsor Lions Club inviting members to its 15th annual charter night on Oct. 25, at which time the district governor will be honored. The Lineboro - Manchester Club also extended an invitation to attend its fifth charter night on Nov. 10.

President Cloyd W. Seiss appointed Capt. Philip B. Sharpe as chairman of the Lions bi-centennial celebration committee. He will be assisted by C. A. Elder. Robert E. Daugherty was appointed general chairman of the 26th annual Ladies' and Charter Night of the local group which will be held at the last meeting in November.

Philip Sharpe, president of the Civic Assn., reported on the first year's ownership of the horse show grounds and announced that notes and interest checks will be mailed shortly to all stockholders.

Little League Meeting Scheduled

A meeting of Little League officials and other interested parties will be held Tuesday evening in the Fire Hall at 7:15 o'clock. Important business is to be conducted. All players who have not turned in their uniforms are asked to give them to their manager or leave them at Houck's Store, Center Square.

Club Would Institute Community Calendar

The local VFW Auxiliary is endeavoring to set up a monthly date calendar for the use of all local organizations.

The purpose of the plan is to publish at the beginning of each month, all the important dates of events planned for the month.

For example, during October the dates Oct. 11 was chosen for a card party by the Auxiliary; October 28, a Halloween dance will be held, etc.

It is hoped the plan will eliminate confusions of scheduled dates for affairs between the organizations. The group would like to have your opinion and support. If interested, call Mrs. Joan Keepers, Hillcrest 7-5032.

Community Show Entry Lists Released

Emmitsburg Grange's Annual Community Show has been set for Oct. 28 and 29 and will be held at the Emmitsburg High School, it was announced this week by committees in charge.

The committees have said that the show will be considerably expanded this year with many new features being added. They also issued for publication the rules governing the show and revealed the premium list as follows:

General Rules Exhibits are solicited from all residents of the Emmitsburg community. All fruits and vegetables should be in clear glass containers. We are striving for uniformity by requesting the use of quart containers, but pints will be accepted. Labels and markings will be handled upon presentation for entry. Only exhibits grown or made by the exhibitor shall be eligible for a prize. Exhibits from out of the community and also antiques will be welcome and displayed, but will not be judged or be eligible for a prize. No exhibit that has won in a former Emmitsburg Community Show will be eligible for a prize again this year. They may be placed on display, however. Entries will be received on Friday, Oct. 28, from 8 a. m. until 11:30. Judging will be Friday from 1 to 5 p. m. Exhibits may be removed after 10 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 29, and must be claimed by 3 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 30. All poultry exhibits will be fed and watered by the show committee. The placings of the judges must be accepted as final. The show committee reserves the right to pass on any decisions not covered by these rules. Plates and coops will be furnished by the committee. Exhibit List

TWO STANDARDS

If you were ill in the twelfth century, chances are that the medicine prescribed for you by your doctor would be related directly to the condition of your pocketbook!

Prescription records of almost a thousand years ago show that while the rich man got powdered rhubarb as a laxative, the poor man had to be satisfied with vinegar. The nobleman enjoyed honey added to his medicine, but there was no honey for the man without the money!

Likewise, balsam treated the rich man's goiter; the empty-walleted got lard.

Today, medical research and mass production have made it possible for practically anyone—rich or poor—to have access to the finest of drugs and medical aids, giving faithful service to all parts of the body, tip to toe. Medieval discrimination has been abolished.

STAUB—KIRWAGEN

St. John's Ev. Lutheran Church, Thurmont, was the scene of a pretty wedding Sunday, Sept. 25, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when Miss Kathie Kirwagen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Spietmann, of Frankfurt, Germany, became the bride of Calvin McClelan Staub, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Staub, Rocky Ridge.

In a setting of white gladioli on the altar and in the chancel, and in the presence of families and friends of the young couple, the double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles H. Corbett, pastor of the bridegroom.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. C. H. Corbett, who gave an organ recital preceding the ceremony, playing "Evening Prelude," "Liebestraum," "Aria," by Saint Seans, "Traumerer," and "O Perfect Love," on the chimes. She also played the traditional marches of Wagner and Mendelssohn.

The bride wore a white nylon ballerina length gown, with shoulder length veil. Her jewelry was an emerald studded rhinestone necklace and earrings and bracelets to match, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible topped with red rosebuds.

Mrs. Carroll Fraley, Thurmont, was matron of honor and wore a pink taffeta dress with flower headband and a red rosebud corsage.

Chester T. Zentz Jr., Thurmont, served as best man. Ushers were Ernest W. Staub Jr., brother of the bridegroom, and Carroll Fraley.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the social room of the church, which was decorated with summer flowers and white gladioli. A three-tier wedding cake, baked by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Ralph Scruton, Thurmont, was cut by the young couple and served with other refreshments to the guests. Choir members and women of the church were in charge at the reception.

The bride attended school in Frankfurt, Germany, and before coming to America some months ago, was employed in the American Occupations there. The bridegroom is a graduate of Thurmont High School with the class of '51, and served with the Army Security Agency for three years, with 27 months in Frankfurt, Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Staub are at present making their home with his parents.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Virginia, Baltimore and Frederick.

YORK STREET

this series of columns on the Springfield program, after having participated in Springfield's educational convocation last month, a number of persons have written to inquire about the methods used in teaching certain subjects.

Reading Taught

Here's what the printed program says about the teaching of Reading in the Springfield schools: "Basic textbooks are used during time set aside each day specifically for reading instruction. Supplementary textbooks and other materials provide variety of content and further opportunities for practice. Guidance is given in application of reading skills to the study of other subjects."

Since there is considerable national discussion on how reading should be taught, the following from the Springfield program will be of interest: "A planned program leads pupils to use many ways of recognizing printed words as means of expressing ideas. Phonetic analysis or phonics is taught as one method. The use of the dictionary is taught as another method of pronouncing words as well as a way of learning proper meanings. Other means including teaching pupils to notice beginning and ending sounds, prefixes, suffixes, words within words, and clues from the context of the sentence."

Discipline Important

And here are some other items of interest from Springfield's program.

DISCIPLINE: (The Springfield schools seek) "to teach respect for proper authority whether embodied in a person, in a group, or in regulations, with recognition that proper authority is a necessary and reasonable factor in group living . . . To develop the ability to exercise freedom wisely and to know that there is no freedom from consequences of one's actions."

HOME WORK: "Home work is assigned at any grade level to aid pupils in making up work missed or work in which additional practice not requiring the teacher's direction will be helpful." And this policy is designed "to develop incentive for the development of greater initiative, responsibility, and self-reliance."

Achievement Stressed

PROMOTION: "The child is retained in the same grade in the elementary school when in the judgment of the teacher, principal, and parent, retention will improve the pupil's opportunity for further learning. At the high school level pupils are passed or failed in terms of their achievement in individual subjects."

REPORT TO PARENTS: "In the American way of life each person is recognized as an individual and is judged and regarded for his own efforts and achievements. The emphasis in reporting is on the individual and his potentialities rather than on conformity to an arbitrary standard for the masses. Pupils compete with themselves and each other as in real life situations."

PREPARATION FOR COLLEGE: "Basic skills (the 3R's) are stressed at all grade levels; early and continued guidance is given in selection of subjects needed for college preparation. (Approximately 50 per cent of the graduates of Springfield public schools enter college—a very high percentage.)"

Ford Division said each car will be equipped with the new five pioneer safety features which embody Ford's new concept of packaging the passenger as a means of reducing injuries in the event of an accident.

(2) A kit of educational materials consisting of motion picture film and booklets containing reports on the National Safety Forum, and the latest available research data on what happens to people involved in automobile accidents.

Ford Division and its dealers plan to place more than 3500 cars at the disposal of school authorities this year and to increase this number in the years ahead, the police chiefs were told. That is almost half of all cars used throughout the nation for driver training last year. The kit also is available to law enforcement agencies who request it.

Each of the new Fords will be equipped with a safety steering wheel, cushioning for the instrument panel and sun visors, safety door latches, seat belts, and a safety mirror.

The fundamental tools of learning — reading, spelling, writing and arithmetic—form the basis for the entire educational program. They are given highest priority. Spreading out from this basic foundation are the subjects designed to develop well-rounded individual citizens, intelligent and capable.

The curriculum — extending from elementary grades through high school—includes (in addition to the four basic subjects): Oral and Written Language, Grammar, Civics, Patriotism, Geography, History, The Arts, Science; Physical Education, Health and Safety; Moral and Spiritual Values. Since I began

New Purina Mill At Harrisburg, Pa. Ready for October 22 Opening

Several thousand people are expected to witness ceremonies at Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 22, celebrating the opening of the new Harrisburg mill of the Ralston Purina Co.

The guests will be entertained by Hank Snow and Minnie Pearl, nationally featured radio and TV stars.

The program will start in mid-morning with conducted tours through the new mill for visitors as they arrive. A free lunch of fried chicken will be served by the Ralston Purina Co. to all guests, beginning at 11 o'clock.

Children will also be served candy, Ralston cereal snacks and soft drinks.

Admission to the ceremonies and luncheon will be by tickets which local Purina dealers will furnish free of charge to all who wish to attend.

Company officials have announced that the new mill at Harrisburg has been built to better serve the livestock and poultry feeders of the area. The mill will manufacture the full line of Purina Chows for livestock and poultry, and will have a capacity of about 15,000 tons per month.

AND IN THE YEAR 2000, a panel of experts from the University of Michigan tells us, the ceilings and walls in our homes will automatically light up when we enter a room. Maybe there'll be "Softlight" behind those glowing panels. Anyway, there's one sure thing, the man of the house can't blame the little lady for failing to turn off the lights.

FOR GOOD BEDROOM LIGHTING try a cornice treatment, which is beautiful and effective. A cornice is easy to build. It's a simple boxlike construction coming directly down from the ceiling. Build it far enough out from the wall to allow the room for mounting fluorescent tubes under the cornice. A cornice is most attractive extending from wall to wall, and your fluorescent tubes should cover the entire width. For reading, you'll find greatest efficiency in the standard warm white fluorescent, but if you want to enhance particular wall colors, you may want to choose deluxe warm fluorescent for wall

BARSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 13—Although prolonged drought and heat, together with hurricanes have sharply cut yields of corn, soybeans, grain sorghums, tobacco, vegetables, and other crops, I still look for a total U. S. crop output this year of near-record size.

Wheat and Other Summer Crops
A number of summer crops already have been harvested, and the final official tallies probably will not differ materially from the published estimates. Although the total wheat crop of nearly 917 million bushels is down 20 per cent from the 1944-53 average, total supplies for the current season are huge, since the carryover last July topped a billion bushels by a sizeable margin. Most of it, however, was in government hands. This fact, plus the government loan on the 1955 crop, may result in higher average wheat prices later in the season.

The barley crop is the second largest on record—some 386 million bushels. This is enough to go around. Flaxseed also is in plentiful supply, with the crop the third largest on record. The record total hay crop—18.5 million tons—should easily meet all requirements. Another record-breaker is oats, with an output of 1.6 billion bushels—and, incidentally, the highest-quality crop in years.

Outlook For Corn and Soybeans
The unfavorable weather conditions also harmed the country's corn crop this summer. But corn is sturdy and weathered these beatings well. Despite sharp losses, the indicated crop of 3.1 billion bushels is a little above the 10-year average. Total supplies for 1955-56 will be unusually large, in view of the substantial carryover. This should keep prices from kicking over the traces, and make for favorable livestock feeding ratios. Efficient hog and cattle producers should benefit.

Soybeans — "Johnny-Come-Lately" wonder boy among United States grains—also took a drubbing from the elements this summer but came through with flying colors. Barring further damage, a record crop of around 338 million bushels is in the works; this would be 13 per cent above the 1954 output and 62 per cent over the 10-year average. Over-all supplies of this versatile bean appear somewhat heavy to me, and I doubt that prices will make sustained progress on the upside, over the near term at least.

Cotton and Other Fall Crops
Despite record small plantings, the U. S. cotton crop may amount to 12.8 million bales, which would be only moderately under the 10-year average. Including the Aug. 1 carryover of some 11 million bales, total supplies for the current season are top-heavy. They, however, may not prove burdensome since the bulk of the carryover is in government hands. Free supplies will dwindle as the season works along and prices probably will average higher. Dry beans promise to do well this year, with an indicated output of around 18.9 million bags—9 per cent above average. This means plenty of the Boston specialty for all hands! The U. S. rice crop may amount to about 48.7 million bags—an amount easily sufficient for all requirements. The late potato crop (grown in 29 states) of 313 million bushels is about average size, and should have no difficulty meeting late fall and winter needs. Prices should work higher later on.

Farmers Should Continue To Do Fairly Well

All this adds up to fairly good times for the American farmer, although prices of farm products for the first eight months of this year averaged about five per cent lower than in the corresponding period of 1954. Efficient, well-managed farms are still making money, despite the fact that the cost of things the farmer buys is still relatively high. The going, of course, is tough, and always has been, for the small, inefficient farm; but, as I view the situation, American agriculture is doing well.

Since 1956 is a presidential election year, the farmer's well-being will top the agenda when Congress reconvenes in January. Whether high, rigid supports will be restored, or the flexible system further extended, remains to be seen. I again forecast that the real need is for a long-term solution. Meanwhile, farmers should continue to work faithfully, serve their God, and vote in accordance with their basic convictions.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Miller left Monday for Little Falls, New York, where Mr. Miller will assume his new duties as products supervisor for the Little Falls division of the Cherry-Burrell Corp. Flying fish are excellent as food.—Sports Afield

Smart — and After School Proof

By Jane Mernin

WITH school open, comes the problem—what'll go on your floor this fall?

There'll be the kiddies traipsing through the house and the kiddies' friends, too. You'll want a material new and smart and decorative at a cost of not too much money. That calls for something pretty special, and one of the best answers is this fall's fibre rugs.

A new fibre pattern, delightfully styled in five tweedy color tones, is a blend of fibre, wool, rayon and acetate yarns. It is hardy, restfully springy and easy to clean. The rug blends with either contemporary or traditional furnishings, and you'll love the way it seems to shed the evidence of heavy traffic and spots from soil and wear. To make infrequent cleanings especially easy, the manufacturer has put on the market, Spong-a-Fom, a sponge impregnated with a special foam detergent. Squeeze the sponge several times in a gallon of water and you have enough cleanser to renew the largest size rug without removing it from the floor.

The new rug (by Deltex) comes in all standard sizes or any special size in several loom widths up to 12 feet. A 9 by 12 costs less than forty-five dollars.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

No doubt about it. $8½ billion worth of farm products is a lot, equalling about half a year's consumption for the entire U. S.

Yet $8,490,000,000 is current investment of government in surplus farm products, and it increases daily. In fact, storage charges for vast supply have become substantial item in federal budget.

There is this strange fact. Nothing is being done.

The International Cooperation Administration, successor to Foreign Operations Administration, successor to Mutual Cooperation Administration, in turn successor to Marshall Plan, has been trying without success to unload some surplus on foreign nations.

But in so-called free world American taxpayers have done so handsomely in giving away so much farm equipment that many of these nations have their own surpluses to worry about.

But Rep. Charles Brownson of Indiana recently got curious over who was receiving big share of government farm money and asked Agriculture Department to furnish some names and figures.

In 1954 just six large corporations tapped Uncle Sam for over $4 million on cotton. And lo and behold, the Empire, as usual came in for the lion's share with the British owned Delta and Pine Land Company of Scott, Miss., receiving the largest amount $1,292,472.25 on 7,554 bales of cotton.

It is also a curious fact that the one time manager of this huge British owned corporation was prominent in the administration of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1936. Presumably, he has since been knighted by a grateful Empire.

But if fuzzy thinking toward American tax dollars of past few years is not ended, it is not beyond realm of possibility U. S. taxpayers will soon be shelling out to support agricultural surplus all over the world.

While this may sound far-fetched, following report makes anything seem possible.

International Cooperation Administration has granted $800,000 to set up a Veteran's Administration in Formosa.

Seems Chiang has a surplus of over aged soldiers in his army on Formosa. And apparently in a Chinese army, old soldiers neither die nor fade away, but keep their places in the chow line. The question of what to do with these old Chinese soldiers is a problem to Chiang.

And so as always when a problem involves money, U. S. State Department has jumped into picture with both feet and almost a million in U. S. tax money. So now U. S. taxpayers, besides caring for needs of American veterans will now be paying out to help Chinese veterans.

So thus, with this happening, it might truly be said anything can happen.

Including U. S. taxpayers being assessed to price entire world's surplus farm production. And at same time, official Washington expresses worry over possibility of inflation, and cuts down on consumer credit. A strange paradox, indeed.

Lucerne: The Lion and the Museum

I think of one day in Lucerne as taken up with visiting museums and monuments and shops, but of this varied program I can borrow space from what belongs to Belgium to mention only the two items already announced—"the Lion" monument and the small but very unusual museum just beyond it.

"The Lion of Lucerne," as readers may already know, is dedicated to the memory of the Swiss Guards of Louis XVI who lost their lives to the last man, 800 and more, defending the Tuileries Palace when it was stormed by the Paris mob in 1792. The massive figure of the lion, lying dead with a broken dagger in its back, head and forepaws resting on the shield of France, symbolizes in a truly impressive way the loyalty and bravery of these men. The model was made by the famous Danish sculptor Thorwaldsen while he was engaged on large assignments in Italy, and the actual work of cutting the figure and the accompanying inscriptions out of the natural sandstone of the hillside which is its setting was done by assistants, L. Ahorn and others.

There is a remarkable so-called "Garden" in front of the Museum which I am considering as part of it, not only on account of their adjoining locations but because of the nature of their exhibits. For this is a Glacier Garden, with 32 glacier-mills dug out on the place, i.e., holes made in the solid rock by stones carried down by a melting glacier and driven round and round in places by cascades of water in the glacier-crevasses. The visitor is seeing with his own eyes "eloquent witnesses" of the Great Ice Age, the time long before recorded history when the whole of Switzerland and much of the Northern Hemisphere was covered with ice. There too are fossils of sea shells, evidence that the country at the foot of the Alps was once covered with water, and a petrified palm leaf showing still another condition that once prevailed in this part of the primitive world: the presence of tropical heat and tropical forests! The indoor exhibits included actual relics and models showing (1) that Cave Men (almost the earliest human earth-dwellers) lived on nearby Mt. Rigi, (2) that Lake Dwellers (on platforms built on piles) inhabited the shores of Lake Lucerne around 4000 B. C., and other enlightening facts of prehistoric and later Swiss history. And finally there were two inscriptions on the wall that seemed to me very appropriate not only for this place but, the first, for all other places of the same national type and, the second, as a true general observation:

1. "To deepen love of homeland through knowledge of homeland is the purpose of this Museum."
2. "The present can only be understood by the past."
On to Belgium and Brussels. My stay in Brussels had a prolog somewhat disturbing at the time, yet amusing too, and more so in retrospect—an eleven-hour train ride in a compartment of a coach going straight through to Brussels from Italy and already containing three Italian men and presently four who carried on, in Italian, a continuous and highly excitable conversation in very loud voices, with accompanying gesticulations, a really too realistic demonstration of how that sort of thing is done! (There was a pleasanter P.S. to this, in which two of the Italians figured along with baggage and looking for travel agent when Quartier Leopold Station was reached, which I must mention though it is beside the present point.)

Then came a second unusual item in my introduction to Brussels—a long automobile ride late at night in a strange city made strange in a different sense by the combination of dark, deserted, streets and huge illuminated squares—I recall especially the Grootte Market or Grand Place that startled me with its great size and encircling high, ornate buildings. As a glance at a map shows, these squares, usually called "Place" as in Paris, are strikingly numerous: Place due Treves, Place du Trone, Place Royale, Place du Musee, Place St. Jean, Grand Place, Place de la Bourse, to mention only a few that happen to be in more or less of a line leading south from the station mentioned above).

I skip my first day in Brussels as of no particular interest for the general reader (though very satisfying for me the traveler, given up as it was to supplying a variety of small items and services for which the need had been growing, and in the course of this making me feel very much at home). Next day, the weather being fine, I took the all-day pre-arranged trip to the famous old cities of Ghent and Bruges, to the northwest, close to the North Sea. (Special companions were two sisters from Boston, one of whom had been at Fort McHenry during World War II.)

In my fast-disappearing space I can do little more than list some of the outstanding things of interest which the tourist is shown in this too-full day's program. In Ghent, still a thriving city, a center of the textile industry and an important port (thru its connection by canal with the North Sea) these are, as in Bruges, the survivals of medieval days, beginning as far back as the 12th century with the castle of the Counts of Flanders, a massive, forbidding-looking stone structure, said to have been the strongest fortress in northwest Europe. Others dating a little later are: St. Bavon Cathedral, in a chapel of which is the famous painting in the form of a triptych (altar-piece in three parts) by the Van Eyck brothers, "The Adoration of the Holy Lamb," one of the earliest known paintings in oil, several times stolen and last found in an Austrian salt mine; the row of high and picturesque Guildhouses along the "Quai aux Herbes," no two alike; the Town Hall and Belfry.

In Bruges, not the populous and busy city it was in the earlier centuries before the river that carried the goods brought there from various parts of Europe to the sea became closed by sandbanks, there was first to be noted one (only one) of the original city gates and towers, from the days when every city considered it necessary to have its encircling wall; then the canals, which all descriptions I have seen call "romantic" and give the city the title "the Venice of the North"—and romantic they are, in one sense of this word of various meanings; along one of these, known as the "Rosary Quay," picturesque buildings, as in Ghent, and nearly the still more famous and remarkable Bell Tower: in 11th century church of Notre Dame a great art-treasure, an exquisite ivory statue of the "Virgin and Child" by Michel Angelo. Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Gainful employment during after-school hours and on week-ends is one of the most effective moves available to counteract the baneful results of our young people having "time on their hands." Last week, as a part of American Newspaper Week, a day was set aside to honor the carriers of our newspapers. These youngsters are reaping the benefits of a gainful occupation and at the same time learning the rudiments of business life. I am proud of the newspapers of the 6th Maryland District and of the youngsters who deliver our papers.

Last week's observance of Newspaper Week is an important reminder of the part newspapers play in our Republic. In noting a recent history of the development of the newspaper as a disseminator of information I was struck by a phrase which I think best characterizes our American press. The phrase referred to the fact that newspapers in this country do not have the age that some of the world's great papers do, but "because of freedom from political control they developed more rapidly."

Since Dec. 15, 1791, we have had as a part of our Constitution the guarantee of a free press. It is our heritage and we must ever strive to permit free access to news in government as well as to defeat censorship moves whenever and wherever it appears.

With every form of freedom there is an equal responsibility to exercise that freedom with wisdom. I think that the record of the American press justifies the statement that they respect their freedom and within the limits of human ability serve the American people honestly and fearlessly.

In thinking of the newspapers of the 6th Maryland District I am aware that each in a sense is a business. And like all business, some are large and some are small, but each is playing its part effectively in reporting the news. A special tribute is deserved by the weekly and county newspapers.

The "county" newspapers like small business in general has time and again proved the steady influence in times of national stress and emergency. Those who recall our experiences during the two World Wars and Korea can quickly see the truth in this statement.

announces that it is now possible for young men to enlist in the Marines and go to Parris Island for recruit training within a week. Young men, 17-28 who are interested may contact Sgt. Bohanan at the Emmitsburg Post-office on Tuesdays.

Unlimber Your Camera—Here's the Pigskin Parade

"END RUN" by Howey Cauffman of New York, N. Y., a prize winner in the 1955 Graflex photo contest. Made with a Speed Graphic.

THE tangy air of fall brings with it one of photography's greatest seasons—the pigskin parade.

Possession of a newsman's Speed Graphic has been many an amateur photographer's ticket into a football game and a cherished spot along the sidelines, according to T. T. Holden, photo director of Graflex, Inc. Photographers can also obtain press passes by volunteering to shoot pictures for local papers. This photo, for example, was taken by an amateur and published by a leading New York City daily.

Because most football pictures are taken from the sidelines, a longer focal length lens (telephoto) is usually recommended to help reach across the field. The action always seems to take place away from the photographer!

By taking up a position about five to ten yards ahead of the line of scrimmage, the photographer can catch the action at its peak—that point at which the success of the runner is determined. If the runner is heading toward the camera, then the decision of when to expose the film must be made.

The kick, tackle, throw, catch, run, or touchdown all have their characteristic peaks of action. As the game develops, try to catch examples of each type of activity, and you'll end up with an excellent set of pictures.

While you're at the game, don't forget that other interesting shots are there waiting for you: the worried coach, the wild cheerleader, the exhausted player, the jubilant (or defeated) men on the bench, the yelling fan. These activities are photo opportunities to the alert photographer.

Will Address State Teachers' Convention

GOV. WILLIAMS

State responsibility for financing public schools will be discussed by G. Mennen Williams, Governor of Michigan, in his address to an expected 10,000 teachers at the opening general session of the State Teachers' Convention in Baltimore, on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 20. Gov. Williams will speak on the topic, "Education—The Key to America's Future." Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, will speak briefly preceding the address by Gov. Williams.

On Friday morning, welcoming remarks will be made by Dr. John Fischer, Baltimore City superintendent of public instruction and Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro Jr. The guest speaker, Dr. Ethel Alpenfels, professor of anthropology at New York University, will relate the findings of anthropology to their significance in education in a talk entitled "From Adam to Atom."

The three-day convention which is sponsored annually by the Maryland State Teachers' Assn., with a membership of 11,300, is open to all teachers of the State. More than 14,000 teachers are expected to attend the meeting this year.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Hitting a duck isn't the easiest thing in the world, one reason being that to the hunter they seem jet-propelled. As a matter of fact, a canvasback has been clocked at 72 mph; a mallard can get up steam to break the 55-60 mph mark, and the little teal can go nearly as fast, and his small size makes him look even faster.

Generally speaking, there are three kinds of duck shooting: pass shooting, jump shooting and shooting over decoys. Pass shooting is probably the most difficult since the ducks are unusually near the maximum shotgun range and are traveling at top speed. Jump shooting is similar to field shooting—the birds are flushed off the water or "jumped" after walking or sneaking up on them. Shooting over decoys calls for the gunner to be hidden either in a blind or in the surrounding natural cover and waiting for the birds to be attracted to a spread of decoys.

Pete Brown, gun editor of Sports Afield magazine, has this to say about the first method: "I used to be confused as to just what pass shooting was. After the first time I tried it, I thought I knew. Every duck I shot at passed right by, and the term pass shooting seemed very significant." The term is actually used because the ducks are always passing—usually from one body of water to another to feed or rest.

There are numerous physical factors involved in hitting a duck: wind, drop, length of shot string, and others. The main thing to remember is that it is nearly impossible to calculate all the factors including different distances, speeds and angles. So don't try. If you try to work equations in your head and shoot at the same time, you'll only be wasting shot. The three kinds of duck shooting call for three different shooting techniques. Jump shooting requires speed, a fast snap shot, like the kind grouse shooters learn to deliver before the bird is out of range or hidden behind a tree. Pass shooting needs a smooth swing and follow through to insure proper lead. And decoy work requires both of these and the additional factor of timing—knowing when to shoot at decoying birds is all important.

Robin Hood—Fact or Fiction?

Richard Green plays Robin Hood; Bernadette O'Farrell Maid Marian in TV's "The Adventures of Robin Hood"

HISTORIANS have long tried to answer the question, "Is Robin Hood fact or fiction?" None has reached a conclusion. Was Robin Hood the Earl of Huntingdon, Robert Fitzooth, in disguise, or was he a symbol of Saxon Britons who fought Norman oppressors? Nobody knows for sure. But the legend lives on, and in Nottinghamshire, where Sherwood Forest still flourishes, there are many reminders of Robin and his merry men. These you may see authentically in the new television show filmed in England, "The Adventures of Robin Hood," starring Richard Green, Monday nights, CBS-TV.

Researchers for the program's co-sponsor, Johnson and Johnson, have found evidence to support belief in the existence of Robin Hood and his men. They point to such things as a grave, allegedly Little John's, opened in 1728.

Bones of great size were found in it. . . . Records of the Manor of Wakefield reveal one, Robin Hood, son of Adam Hood, a forester, was fined in 1316 for not obeying an Earl's orders to attend a muster of men to fight the Scots. . . . In Sherwood Forest there exists today the remains of a tree where Robin purportedly hung his venison, a hollow trunk 24 ft. around. . . . A moat in which Robin is said to have tumbled in his fight with Friar Tuck is still in the woods.

However researchers also say that the name Robin Hood was quite a common one in records and point to the improbability of anyone in those short-lived days attaining Robin's reported great age of 87.

Fact or fiction, the great story that was legend before Davy Crockett's birth, revolves on television.

Stage, Radio Stars Assist Kenny Appeal

Minneapolis, Minn.—Top-ranking stars of the entertainment world—including radio, television, the screen and stage—have joined in urging support of the 1955 annual polio fund appeal of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation.

KLINE

Funds contributed by the public during the current appeal will enable the Kenny Foundation to continue to administer the Kenny treatment to victims of polio and to rehabilitate persons who have been crippled by polio in the past, according to Marvin L. Kline, national executive director. The Kenny Foundation also trains registered nurses and physical therapists to become Kenny Therapists and provides for research in polio and allied diseases.

Such well-known personalities as Tony Martin, Johnny Ray, Perry Como, Nat "King" Cole, Frankie Laine, and Dinah Shore—each recorded an individual 15-minute radio show in behalf of the Kenny campaign.

Being seen on television appeals are Jackie Gleason, Laraine Day, Emmett Kelly, Jack Dempsey, Mae Williams, Bess Myerson, Sonny Tufts, Nancy Kelly and Macdonald Carey.

Disney studios made a special animated film for television.

Dramatic readings for radio were prepared by Joseph Schildkraut, Burl Ives, Walter Brennan and Walter Slezak.

Kenny appeals also were recorded by Roy Rogers, Patti Page, Dorothy Collins, Red Foley, Jimmy Durante, Rosemary Clooney, Eddie Fisher, Jo Stafford, Art Linkletter, Gisele MacKenzie, Peggy King, Liberace, Herb Shriner, Lowell Thomas and Dave Garroway. These are being aired on radio stations across the country.

"The time and effort that these artists in record number have contributed is deeply appreciated by the Kenny Foundation," Kline declared. "Their generous support carries the hope that the public will join with them in making financially possible the continuation and expansion of great humanitarian work."

ACCURATE DIAGNOSIS OF POLIO PRESENTS UNUSUAL PROBLEMS

Minneapolis, Minn.—Accurate diagnosis of non-paralytic poliomyelitis presents a challenging and important problem, even though the medical staff of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation has diagnosed and treated thousands of cases of the disease.

The patient with paralytic polio can be accurately diagnosed, but non-paralytic polio resembles very closely a great number of other diseases which are almost impossible to distinguish from polio. One of Sister Kenny's contributions to medical science pertained to early recognition of symptoms and necessity of early treatment.

Perfecting of a diagnostic test for polio is a tremendous problem, because polio viruses are elusive things. They are too small to be seen with the ordinary microscope and require living tissue for growth. The problem is further complicated by the fact that polio is not just a one-virus disease, but a disease caused by different viruses.

As a result of tests carried out on patients referred to Kenny treatment centers with suspected polio, a number of unusual infections of the central nervous system were uncovered. The same complicated laboratory tests would seem to indicate that many of these other diseases are indistinguishable from polio by the ordinary techniques available to doctors.

These diseases have in common the same polio symptoms of fever, headache, stiff neck and an increase in the number of white blood cells in the spinal fluid of patients.

(Released by the Kenny Foundation's Medical Staff)

NO ROMANCE

Tuberculosis is a convenient disease for the novelist or playwright. It's been used by some of the greatest and some of the worst.

There's the romantic tragedy; the beautiful heroine who dies coughing delicately. Or there's the young genius who dies just as his masterpiece is recognized. In the "no one must know" type, our hero struggles to support his younger brothers, telling no one that he's ill; or the social butterfly refuses to be an invalid and plays out her life in hectic gaiety.

There's rarely any mention of course, of the fact that these charming people are spreading an infectious disease. That would not fit the romantic picture.

It is true that pulmonary tuberculosis—tuberculosis of the lungs—has no obvious symptoms in its early stages. The disease can be present without either the victim or those near to him being aware of it. It can be months, even years, before the well-known symptoms are evident. And even these: constant tiredness, loss of appetite, fever, night sweats, shortness of breath, and cough may be overlooked or attributed to some other cause.

However, symptoms aren't the measure of the danger of TB. It's what happens inside the body that's important. The old name for TB of the lungs—consumption—describes it well. The tissue of the lung is being eaten away, the ability of the lung to function weakened. People can be cured, that is, the wasting process can be stopped. But destroyed tissue can't be replaced.

The longer the disease has been allowed to go untreated, usually the greater the permanent damage. The person who has lost much lung tissue is a cripple, even though his disability can't be seen. His activity is limited both by his loss of lung function and by the fact that he must always guard against another outbreak of the disease; a recurrence that might be fatal. A crippled lung is not romantic to the individual who must live with it.

A food sale will be held Saturday and a door prize will be drawn at 9 o'clock Friday and Saturday night.

The Emmitsburg Community Show is sponsored by the Emmitsburg Grange. The organization puts a lot of time and work into the production of the show and it asks everyone to cooperate in helping make the show a success and a credit to the community as in former years. This community show is being put on under rules and with the aid of the Maryland State Fair Assn. Approximately $200.00 will be offered in prizes and won by exhibitors. Programs are being published with paid advertising, which will help meet part of the promotion expense.

Everyone is invited and encouraged to come and see the show at the Emmitsburg High School on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 28 and 29.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The weekly meeting of Troop 284 was held last Thursday evening with 39 Scouts in attendance.

A discussion was held concerning the trip to Andrews Air Force Base, Washington, this week-end. Our troop will be represented by 12 boys of the Explorer's age. They will leave Emmitsburg Saturday morning at 6 o'clock and meet the Thurmont group and are scheduled to arrive at the air base at 8:45. They will spend Saturday and Sunday learning how the control tower works and will take an air flight.

A first-aid class was held with all boys participating, showing the methods of taking care of the different types of accidents.

Following this a patrol meeting was held with each patrol moving out to patrol corners and talking over different problems and activities.

Games were then played after which the meeting was closed with the Scout ritual.

A meeting was held Monday evening with Scoutmaster Woods and his assistant from the Thurmont Troop, making plans for two joint meetings in November in Emmitsburg.

Again, we would like to announce that the Boy Scouts will pick up and repair toys for the needy of the community. The project will begin this week. You may give these toys to any local Scout or phone one of the following numbers and the toys will be picked up: Hillcrest 7-3811; 7-3524, or 7-5601. To date, it was said, quite a few old toys already have been turned in. Back Your Scout Troop!

Mount Soccer Team
Wins Opener;
Drops Second Contest

Coach Jim McKeon's Mt. St. Mary's soccer team won its opening soccer tilt Monday but dropped its first loss of the season 2-0 to Towson State Teachers in a conference game played at Emmitsburg.

In scoring the victory over American U. at Washington, the Mountaineer booters whipped the Eagle team 3-1. Big guns for the Mounties were Steve Sohonyay and Jack Kubeika.

EHS Booters Battle Thurmont To Tie

Thurmont and Emmitsburg opened the 1955 County High School Soccer League by battling to a 0-0 deadlock at Emmitsburg Monday. Goalies John Mergle of Thurmont and Wayne Baumgardner of Emmitsburg thwarted all the shots that came their way.

Both teams were sluggish, trying to get the kinks out of their early-season offensive booting and passwork, and neither could penetrate the goalie bulwarks at the field's antipodes.

Voters Reject Annexation

By a margin of five votes, suburban residents of Middletown voted Monday against annexation into the corporate limits of the town.

Of 81 persons eligible to cast ballots in the special referendum, 79 voted. Forty-two registered their opposition to annexation. Thirty-seven voted for the proposal.

The referendum was scheduled as a part of the plan of the Town Commissioners to increase the corporate limits as of next Jan. 1.

Pots And Pans Are "Out" At Breakfast

Pots and pans take a back seat in modern breakfasts when ready-to-eat cereals are used. For Mom, as well as the rest of the family, they're the perfect morning time saver.

It takes but seconds to have breakfast ready when cereal is the starred dish on the menu. And best of all, such a breakfast ranks high in food value.

Here's a perfect example of what a modern morning menu should be... quick, easy and nutritious—

- Post Toasties Corn Flakes with Stewed Apricots & Prunes
- Bran Muffins (prepared the night before—heated in the morning)
- Coffee or Milk
- Bran Muffins

¾ cup sifted flour
2 ½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, well beaten
¾ cup milk
3 tablespoons shortening, melted
1 ½ cups 40% bran flakes

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Combine egg and milk. Add to flour mixture, add shortening, then mix only enough to dampen flour. Fold in cereal. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 8 medium-sized muffins.

*Sour milk may be substituted for sweet milk; add ½ teaspoon soda and decrease baking powder to 2 teaspoons.

Living Today

—By— COL. GALEN GOUGH

UNITY: Our National Unity depends on the consistency of our people, principally the voters; you who make America strong. As it is revealed in The Good Book, "A house divided against itself cannot stand." Give us leaders without prejudice. Understanding and friendship, tolerance and love for one another will build a house complete within its walls to withstand the strongest blasts of opposition. Any community is only as strong as its characteristic development.

The beginning of character, moral turpitude and the strength of our inherent baseness, depends upon the training afforded in early youth. It is, therefore, important that a child be provided the foundation for progress in the first cultural aspect. If a child goes wrong, or a person becomes a criminal, it usually can be traced to earlier environment and training. Seeking counsel by incompetent parents is heartily advisable. Mistakes have been made by the best of parents who intended well. But, again it is said that "Hell is full of good intentions."

CULTURE: Physical Culture is another means of aiding a healthy mind. A strong and vigorous body leans to a healthy mind and one's ability to stand the strain of conquest. Most everything worthwhile has taken physical and mental coordination; an equal division of aptitude and ability. Neglect the body and the mind fails to function properly.

CONCEPT: Each of us formulates an opinion derived from psychological impressions; often we are wrong. We should never judge by first impressions, lest we misconstrue the intelligence of the individuals involved.

A man's character is not shaped by the opinions of others, but by his own basic development and outlook.

ACHIEVEMENTS: A man's ambition most often determines his achievements, but according to his fortitude to withstand ridicule, opposition and skepticism. It is by far better to climb upward than it is to fall downward. Experience is a dear teacher.

It is also written: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone." So, to help one another it is wise to first remember our own faults before condemning another.

Progress is determined by improvement and rebuilding. Mistakes being the stepping stone for development, we find achievement based on our activities as we live. We make life worth living according to how you are living today. It is not my intention to preach platitudes, far from it. I am no mentor, nor especially a reformer. I am, however, concerned in being fair with my fellowmen and to express my thoughts as inwardly felt. We have a wonderful democracy in this country and this is the privilege of everyone. A people's forum could help any community.

To help others it is better to give a helping hand than advice. We manifest our appreciation by action and deeds — not words. There is an exception, however,

Under the direction of Sister Mary Elizabeth, the Latin I students have formed a club entitled "Discipuli Antiquorum." As praeses (president) the club members selected Susan Bowers, Antoinette Elliott was chosen scribe (secretary) and Charles Turner was elected praefectus aeari (treasurer).

"A Day With Latin," is the title given to a skit which will be presented by the Latina Societas with Patricia McCauslin acting as chairman. Songs will be sung in Latin as part of the program which is being planned for the near future.

Four students are entering the "I Speak for Democracy" contest which is open to all Senior and Junior students. Students representing the Senior class are John Roddy and Margaret Foster. The Juniors submitting entries are Lawrence Meunier and Catherine Bailey.

The Senior students are entering an essay contest sponsored by the National Essay Assn. Any student wishing to enter this contest may submit an essay on any subjects he chooses.

Students of Home Economics I and II were quite excited when the news spread from one to another that two new sewing machines had been purchased for the Sewing Lab. One is an electric machine, similar to the other 1952 models in the laboratory. The second machine is a Singer Automatic Zig-Zag Sewing Machine.

After the brief interlude by the World Series, the school year is again in full swing.

EHS boys' varsity soccer team, the coaches being Mr. Baker and Mr. Elliott, had its first game Monday with Thurmont. It was indeed an exciting contest, both teams fighting right down to the final whistle. The game ended in a 0-0 tie.

The Juniors are going through the process of sending for their class rings.

The FFA entered two floats in the Frederick Fair grandstand parade. Now the boys are working on the Community Show, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Grange. Some members of the chapter were in judging contests held at the Frederick Fair. They were: Poultry — Dave Warthen, Cyrus Manahan; dairy, Leslie Cregger, John Springer; livestock, George Eyster, Norman Shriver, Carl Crist, Eugene Fisher.

A Halloween dance will be held Oct. 21 by the Sophomores.

"Watch the Birdie," "Say Cheese," are two familiar quotes as the students enjoyed having their pictures taken recently.

erately lumber over fences, breaking or even cutting them with piers, stretching the wire so that the fence is practically worthless for keeping livestock confined. Some individuals even go off, half-loaded, so to speak, and shoot around the barns, houses and livestock. Some get their share of game, return to their homes and unload and return to hog it all. This the farmer resents, and rightfully so. He puts his foot down and then everyone has to suffer. We've got game here, not plenty, I admit, but enough to go around if we all abide by the laws. But the gimmick is that there are too few places which permit hunting and I see their reasons. So the sooner we realize that we should and must respect the feelings and rights of our farmer friends and have a care as to how we treat his property, the sooner then will more places be available for those who like the sport.
