Formal dedication of the Frederick by-pass which took place Monday, is the forerunner of many more changes contemplated by the State Roads Commission and which eventually will circumvent Emmitsburg and proceed with new road to the Pennsylvania state line. The Frederick by-pass skirts the city on the west side and will intersect Route 15 in the Tuscarora Creek section north of Frederick, in the near future. Additional plans include an extension of Route 240 on the southern limits of Frederick which will proceed south to the Nation's Capital. No definite word is forthcoming as to just when our town will be bypassed, but a news release this week by the Roads Commission indicates that U. S. Rt. 15, north of Frederick, is scheduled for construction in the second four-year package of the 12-year plan, so just as to when we can expect our by-pass, is a matter of conjecture.

Proof that business is booming in Frederick County is provided in a news release this week by the U. S. Dept. of Commerce. The release indicates that an increase of 24% was registered over last year. Retail sales of the 733 stores in the county showed a total of $62,242,000 for the year. The gain was registered despite the loss in numbers of some 24 stores since 1948.

Establishments doing the largest volume of business were food stores, $13 million; automotive, $10 million; general merchandise, $6 million; lumber, hardware and farm equipment, $6 million; gasoline stations, $4 million, and eating and drinking establishments, $3 million.

Well now that Thanksgiving is past us I guess we can settle down to the serious business of Christmas shopping, a chore I absolutely despise, however, I'm just like the rest of you, it just has to be done and we must go along or live in a world of our own. Several nearby towns already have their trimmings up. In fact some were in position before Thanksgiving. We never rush the season here in Emmitsburg and usually just make the deadline, but it isn't because we aren't aware that Christmas is creeping up on us, it's that we just don't like to rush the season and make it too long and drawn out. I like this system much better than that of the larger towns who turn on the heat early—possibly with the idea in mind of getting the last dollar!

Well anyway, if you are in the mood this early, Frederick will usher in the Yuletide season by calling upon Santa to appear there Saturday evening. Take the kiddies along and see the big parade there . . . and you'll have no peace of mind until after December 25.

Rumor has it that two minions of the law were terribly chagrined recently when they were allegedly confronted with warrants issued on trespassing charges during the early days of the hunting season. Shoe's on the other foot this time, eh boys?

Want a newsy paper? Well then how about giving the staff a little lift? Many of you undoubtedly had company over Thanksgiving. The staff has no mind readers on it and no facilities for covering these little family social events, so why not jot it down on a postcard and send it in? Or easier yet, just give the office a ring and we'll take it from there. People are interested in people and like to read the names of those visiting over the holiday. Many haven't seen some individuals for some years, but they do like to read where they visited so and so and reminisce over fond acquaintances. It won't take you but a moment and it will provide a lot of interesting reading for all. So how's about it readers?

HONOR DEAD

Members of the Rocky Ridge Fire Co., attended services at the Church of the Brethren in Rocky Ridge on Nov. 13, in honor of departed members. There were about 25 firemen present for the services.

First Book Is Published

A new literary figure made her debut in the world of letters this week.

The authoress is Miss Mary Louise Callahan, society editor of the Gettysburg Times and a resident of that place. Her first book, "Little Birds and Lilies," a religious biography geared to the 6 to 12-year-old set, will go on sale in bookstores this week.

At a dinner party and celebration Sunday evening, held at the Graeffenburg Inn, Caledonia, Rev. Fr. Salvatore M. Burgio, C.M., of Emmitsburg, vice postulator of the Cause of Mother Seton, and director of the Mother Seton Guild, presented Miss Callahan with the first copy after "many long months of biographical research."

Presenting the first copy of the book, just off the press, Father Burgio said to the authoress: "There are many first moments of high anticipation and excitement such as the ordination of a priest, graduation from school, entering the career of matrimony. And so this too is a big moment in Mary Louise's life—to see the completion of her work. May blessings crown her first literary work and bring success to her and glory to our saintly Mother Seton."

Following the dinner and presentation of the first copy, Miss Callahan autographed copies for guests and others who helped to further her research.

MISS CALLAHAN

Guests at the dinner were: Mrs. Daniel E. Callahan, Sr., mother of Miss Callahan; Paul C. Callahan, a brother; Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Kilcullen, vice-rector of Mount St. Mary's Seminary; Prof. Bernard J. Eckenrode, a former sociology professor at St. Joseph College; Mrs. Bernard J. Eckenrode, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Shorb, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Campion and Miss Barbara Rosensteel, Emmitsburg, and Mrs. William A. Shepard.

The book, begun in June, 1954, was illustrated by Vincent Colabella, Yonkers, and published by the Mother Seton Guild Press, Emmitsburg. It is dedicated to Mother Elizabeth Seton, founder of the Sisters of Charity of America.

Miss Callahan was born here and received her A.B. degree and certificate in journalism from St. Joseph College where she was active in school publications. For a time she worked for the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D. C., as associate editor of "FBI This Week," a government publication. Since that time she has been archivist to the Mother Seton Guild, editor of the Mother Seton Guild Bulletin, the quarterly publication, which promotes the cause, Mother Seton's Cause of Canonization.

The authoress moved to Gettysburg in 1947 and since has been employed as society editor of the Gettysburg Times.

The biography, "Little Birds and Lilies," her first book, is the outcome of a life-long devotion to the foundress of the Sisters of Charity in America.

RUTH BOWIE

Undoubtedly Frederick County's oldest resident, Ruth Bowie, of near Lewistown, died Wednesday afternoon about 3 p. m. in Frederick Emergency Hospital, after a lingering illness.

"Aunt Ruth," as she was familiarly known, was estimated to be 108 years of age. The elderly colored woman was known to many local residents, having lived in a log cabin near Lewistown most of her life. She had been a patient at Montevue, the county home, for the past four years. Burial will be in Creagerstown, Md., M. L. Creager and Son, funeral director.

Police Urge Full Co-operation During S-D Day

It is entirely possible for Emmitsburg to go through "S-D Day"—Safe Driving Day, Thursday, Dec. 1—without a single traffic accident, Chief of Police Daniel J. Kaas said today.

"We can achieve this goal of no accidents on S-D Day," Chief Kaas said, "if we accept the idea that traffic safety is an individual, personal matter."

"If every man, woman, and child in our community will keep in mind that traffic safety is his or her own personal responsibility, we can wipe out the traffic accident problem as effectively as medical science has eliminated some of our dread diseases of the past."

"S-D Day will be observed in every community in the United States. It is a tremendous nationwide effort to prove that traffic accidents can be reduced if all motorists and pedestrians cooperate. The President through his Committee for Traffic Safety is lending the full support of his office to this program. It deserves the full support of all of us."

Chief Kaas suggested these specific safety rules to drivers and pedestrians:

1—Observe the letter and spirit of all traffic regulations.

2—Be courteous to every driver and pedestrian—practice sportsmanship.

3—Give full attention to driving and walking.

In short, drive and walk as you would have everyone else drive and walk.

"Let's make every day Safe Driving Day in 1956," Chief Kaas said.

Soldier Injured In Auto Mishap

Donald L. Gochenour, 20, of Emmitsburg, who is stationed at Fort Campbell, Ky., was treated at West Side Osteopathic Hospital, West York, Pa., for lacerations of the right eye suffered in a collision of his automobile and a truck on the Lincoln Highway at Thomasville shortly before 2 p. m. Tuesday.

Pennsylvania State police said the soldier's car struck the rear of a truck driven by Edgar L. Miller, Hanover, Pa., when the trucker made a right turn. They estimated damage to the truck, owned by Alwine Brick Co., New Oxford, at $300 and to the car at $400.

State Issues Call For More Troopers

Mr. Russell S. Davis, State Commissioner of Personnel, has announced State Merit System examinations for troopers for the Maryland State Police force. These examinations will be held in Baltimore on Dec. 13 and on Dec. 10 in Hagerstown.

Men between the ages of 21 and 30 who have graduated from high school are needed. Additional qualifications are as follows: must be 5 feet 10 inches in height; must have Maryland driver's license; must be a U. S. citizen and Maryland resident since July, 1955. Men selected for State employment in the Maryland Police must successfully complete the training school course for troopers, and must serve a probationary period of two years.

The 1956 Christmas Club is now open.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

CLARENCE E. HAHN

For outstanding service to community and his fellowman, both in civic participation and industrial leadership, goes the Award of Merit to Clarence E. Hahn of Emmitsburg.

Born March 18, 1909 in Carroll County, he spent his earlier years in school there until he moved to Frederick County. He was engaged in farming with his father until 1927 when he entered the trucking business. His mother's maiden name was Mary Catherine Clinger and his father's, Luther Hahn, both of which are now deceased. He has seven brothers, Charles, Luther, John, Harry, Paul and James, and five sisters, Amanda, Blanche, Helen, Mary and Rhoda. The Hahns have six children, three sons and three daughters: Lewis Edward, Alfred C., Clyde, Mary E., Carrie M. and Shirley A.

Mr. Hahn was employed by a road contractor in Westminster and resigned to accept a position with J. T. Hays, plumbing contractor, where he remained in active duties until 1941. He spent 11 years learning the plumbing business and became expertly qualified. During this period he was sought out by the government for an emergency assignment at Fort Ritchie. He was employed by the Federal government from 1941 to 1945 doing essential work for the welfare of active servicemen and country.

Following his government service he entered the plumbing business on his own and became a contractor serving Emmitsburg and surrounding communities. He is in great demand and is presently engaged in many contracts in Pennsylvania.

In Mr. Hahn can be found sincerity of purpose and his dealing with all reveals fairness and conscientious service. He is without criticism of any person or society and speaks of his friends as his greatest asset. He says that trivial grievances should go down the drain.

Mr. Hahn is a devout member of the Lutheran Church and an elder, vice president of the Sunday School, a member of the choir, Lions Club, a past president of the Lions, IOOF in which he has held all official chairs, including that of Grand Noble. He is a devoted member of the Masonic Order and has been held in high esteem with official offices to his credit. He has traveled far with the order and has been most helpful in its activities. Mr. Hahn is a member of the local fire company and advises continued civic support in its behalf.

He advocates civic expansion and especially is concerned in the Civic Grounds Assn. for development as a park, recreation center and home-building. He believes in the possibilities for Emmitsburg and communities with an ever increasing interest and concern toward progress and development, and believes in the continued cooperation of the water supply company toward helping the plumbing industry that all needs for Emmitsburg will be eventually adequately supplied. He feels confident that industry could obtain proper service and other cooperation from the community outlets.

Goalpost: Progress through community development. This writer has found a modest man ever willing to help his fellowman and co-operative in spirit, in fellowship without restraint, a man of courage and determination, having strong character and reflects reliability and soundness of principles. A true benefactor of all.

It is without reservation that congratulations are in order for our personality of the week, Clarence E. Hahn. Salutations!

Attend Football Game, Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lester Nester of the Brookside Dairy Farm, Emmitsburg, left Wednesday for Roanoke, Va., where he attended the annual Thanksgiving Day football game between Virginia Military Institute and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Mr. Nester was a member of the VPI grid team for three years. At that time he was a student at the college, having entered the institute in 1907. He graduated in 1910. The Chronicle Press wishes him a pleasant trip and an enjoyable occasion as he will see his old alma mater play its annual game. It is hoped that he will meet some old members of his class of 1910 and that a reunion of school mates will be held.

During their visit there, Mr. and Mrs. Nester hope to see his nephew who lives presently in Roanoke. He also will visit his only brother who lives near by.

A Thanksgiving Day basket was distributed to a needy family yesterday. Following the business meeting refreshments were served and work began on the tray favors for patients at the Gettysburg Hospital.

RILEY—LINGG

In a setting of white chrysanthemums, Miss Dorothy Susanna Lingg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lingg, Emmitsburg Rt. 1, became the bride of Mr. John Francis Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Riley, Gettysburg Rt. 2, in St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg, Saturday, Nov. 19, at 2 o'clock.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Vincent J. Tomalski, the pastor. Mrs. Alma Seltzer, church organist, played the traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of white satin and net with long sleeves tapering in points over the wrists. Her net veil was attached to a regal crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and pompons and her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Leona F. Lingg, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a waltz-length gown of lavender satin and net and a matching headdress and gloves. Her bouquet was of yellow and white pompons.

Miss Patricia J. Lingg, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She wore a gown of light blue satin and net and wore a matching headdress. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white pompons.

Mr. Burnell Harner, Gettysburg, served as best man. Master Stephen Lingg, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. The ushers were Mr. William Hankey, New Oxford, Pa., and Mr. J. Patrick Hertz, Gettysburg.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride.

The couple left on a honeymoon through the South. As her going-away ensemble, the bride wore a Paris blue faille suit and black accessories. Her corsage was of white roses and pompons.

The bride, a graduate of St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg with the class of '52, is employed as a secretary at Camp Detrick, Frederick. Her husband is a graduate of Gettysburg High School with the class of '48. He is engaged in farming.

The couple, upon return from their honeymoon, will reside on Gettysburg Rt. 2.

Lieut. and Mrs. John H. Walter of Quantico, Va., visited over the weekend with his father, John W. Walter.

Santa May Use Helicopter For Trip Here

Santa may arrive by helicopter this year, that is if the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce and the Lions Club can get together on the deal.

Present plans of the Chamber of Commerce calling for the delivery of Santa by helicopter from Gettysburg, were mapped out at the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber held Monday night in the Fire Hall, President Cloyd W. Seiss presiding.

The whole plan is contingent on whether the Lions Club can be persuaded to cooperate in the venture, something new here. It is hoped the sensational delivery of Santa will draw a large number of parents' and kiddies to town on that day, thereby stimulating business locally. Heretofore the Lions made all the provisions for Santa's arrival.

Col. Galen Gough was admitted as a new member of the Chamber at the meeting. Kermit Lowe gave a report on the activities of the swimming pool committee. A report of the Xmas decorating contest committee was given and it was announced that two judges have been obtained, with a third one unreported. Tentative plans call for the judging to take place on Dec. 28 between 8 and 10 p. m. Members of the committee are John W. Walter, Kermit Lowe and Ralph F. Irelan.

A report on the bicentennial celebration was given to the group by Mrs. Robert E. Daugherty, general chairman of the affair. She reported the occasion will be observed during the first week in July, 1957, with the mammoth parade taking place on July 4. Three organizations are acting as a committee in charge of the parade. They are the American Legion, the VFW and the Vigilant Hose Co.

Three of the club members exhibited floral arrangements suitable for Christmas decorations. Mrs. Thomas Frailey and Mrs. Marie Rial had table displays, and Mrs. Charles Shaughnessy had one for the mantle or door.

Plans were made for the Club to have a luncheon at the Hotel Gettysburg on Dec. 14 instead of a monthly meeting.

The next regular meeting will be held in January at the home of Mrs. Thomas Frailey. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. Edgar Annan Jr. and Mrs. Lloyd Crouse.

Lions To Observe Charter Night

A fine program of entertainment has been arranged and festivities will get under way at 6:30 p. m.

Rocky Ridge 4-H Club Elects

The Rocky Ridge 4-H Club held its monthly meeting at the Community Hall Tuesday. A feature of the meeting was the election of officers which resulted as follows: president, John Gruber; vice president, Donald McCauslin; secretary, Eric Glass; treasurer, Eugene Fisher; reporter, Robert Keilholtz, and local leader, Dee Saylor.

The club voted to hold a roller skating party at the Thurmont Roller Rink on Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 8 p. m.

As yet no definite schedule for basketball has been set up. Tentative plans are to secure games with the FFA and 4-H Clubs of Thurmont and Emmitsburg.

Following the business meeting refreshments were served.

WHEN the steam locomotive-hauled Canadian National Railways train from The Pas and Winnipeg reached Churchill on the shores of far north Hudson Bay a few days ago, Churchill was host to Eskimos from the far north who had come to town by boat and dog team to do some shopping before the long winter sets in. One youngster, Muskie-Jack was fascinated by the big CNR steam engine, so he climbed aboard, sat in the engineer's seat and tried the air brake. He thinks driving a locomotive must be more fun than piloting a dog team over ice and tundra. FWS

Congressional Viewpoint

By U. S. Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON — Senator J. Glenn Beall, (Rep.-Md.), announced this week that he will introduce a bill during the next session of Congress to make surplus agricultural commodities available to penal and correctional institutions.

The measure, he said, will have the two-fold purpose of reducing food stockpiles and of raising the living standards of prisoners.

Penal and correctional institutions operated by Federal, state and local authorities will profit from the plan, said Sen. Beall.

He added that regular suppliers now serving the jails and rehabilitation centers will be protected by a requirement that normal rates of purchasing be maintained by the institutions and that the government help be used only to supplement inadequate or minimum fare.

"My bill," said Sen. Beall, "will be patterned along the lines of recommendations by the American Correctional Assn."

"According to these statements of the ACA, the prisons can well use surplus farm commodities without decreasing regular purchases and in addition to food normally consumed."

It seems obvious, the Senator continued, that we should act promptly to extend such aid, especially since it will have the additional effect of putting excess farm products to good use.

The proposed bill will be in the form of an amendment to the present Agricultural Act, which does not authorize the distribution of surplus food stuffs to penal facilities, the Senator said.

PROCLAMATION

Designating Thursday, Dec. 1, 1955, as "S-D Day"—Safe Driving Day.

WHEREAS, the appalling accident rate on public highways is a matter of immediate and serious concern to all citizens; and

WHEREAS, nearly 200 national organizations have joined with the President's Committee for Traffic Safety in sponsoring the second nationwide "S-D Day"—Safe Driving Day — Thursday, December 1; and

WHEREAS, traffic accidents kill thousands of Americans, injure more than a million others and cost us over $4 billion every year; and

WHEREAS, experience shows that soundly organized and publicly supported safety programs can reduce traffic accidents substantially; and

WHEREAS, the S-D Day Campaign will direct the attention of millions of motorists and pedestrians to their responsibility for supporting these sound safety programs by their own behavior in driving and walking; and

WHEREAS, it is clearly demonstrated in Maryland that as a result of the President's 1954 S-D Day, highway accidents were and can be reduced when motorists and pedestrians practice safe driving and safe walking; and

WHEREAS, the purpose of Safe-Driver Day is to demonstrate the necessity for year round public support of sound, proven year-around traffic safety programs;

Now, Therefore, I, THORNTON W. RODGERS, in cooperation with President Dwight D. Eisenhower, his Committee for Traffic Safety and the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Directors for Maryland's S-D Day, designate the first day of December, 1955, "S-D Day"—Safe Driving Day and urge all citizens to practice safe driving, not only on that day—in daylight, dusk and darkness—but every day the year around, starting today.

THORNTON W. RODGERS, Mayor

Living Today

—By—

COL. GALEN GOUGH

PEOPLE: Within this great nation of ours we find that each of us are relatively associated in one form or another with political issues which concern the welfare of our community. The laws of our land are precluded by the voters, law makers and politicians, true, but as a whole the people are the foundation of any existing movement, or educational procedure which involves our LIVING TODAY. The people are the forum, the lawful instigators of legislative acts, according to their wishes and right of vote. It is the people who determine whether certain politicians survive, or are defeated at the polls. It is the people who make the laws, and let's not forget it.

RIGHT OF SPEECH: Freedom of speech is the Godly given right of every American. Freedom of the press is a Constitutional law and Congressional acts prevent infringement upon our personal liberties. No man should feel debased because of opinion, for opinion alone cannot change a man within himself. Either he is a scoundrel and a liar, or he is an honest person trying to help his fellow man and is, therefore, a gentleman and a respectable citizen. Gossip can not hurt a man if he has the intestinal fortitude to stand ridicule. Defamation of character hurts only those whom accept small talk and when anyone is caught running down another person, you can usually figure them out. Some have little else to do than run down the other fellow and to magnify the trivial problems of other people. There are many who refuse to believe and accept unfounded rumors. Politicians have, as a rule, met this circumstance and one such man was a more recent president. He lived over the accusations of his enemies and is today enjoying greater popularity than ever. Why? Because he was big enough to take it. No person should permit gossip to prevent their right of self-respect despite the annoyance of such verbal rot; especially the average citizen.

Voltaire once said: "I may not agree to what everybody says, but I would die for his right to say it." (Or words in this meaning). So, what matters if another condemns a politician, a religious order, or a personality, for neither words nor actions can derail the course of any purpose well-intended. True, Christ could not please the public, then how could we expect to accomplish the impossible? We must, therefore, accept that which is basic and with proof of fact without accepting the things which are without proof of justification.

FOUNDATION: Based upon man's right of speech, it is his right to say what he thinks, but psychologically we all know that many conversations are meaningless and leads to passing the time away. There is, as a consequence, little foundation for much of what is said. Most often people entertain each other by idle chatter and discussions of people's affairs are paramount. One thing leads to another and before we know it we have infringed upon another's rights. It is, therefore, best to think first and analyze the source of the subject before deriving to any conclusions. Many a great man has gone down in defeat politically because of slanderous remarks and defamation of his character.

SELF RESPECT: A man's self respect is based on how he thinks and not what others think of him. Their thoughts might affect his living, and comfortableness, but not his own self respect. It is human to kid each other and to pass innuendoes as a sly projection of self amusement, but there is often a dangerous result. It is also human for people to misinterpret the true meaning of such remarks and it is wise, therefore, to avoid the type of person who eagerly misconstrues and twists one's remarks. It is better to avoid anyone (even though one may personally like them as an individual), than to have what you say misused and wrongly misquoted.

ACCOMPLISHMENT: A great philosopher once said: "Study to thine own self approve." In accomplishment we find that man has mastered himself and if so, he has done well. If we observe the rights of anyone—to live and let live, we find that that we have mastered the secret of rightfully LIVING TODAY. In this we find responsible citizens earning the right to vote for the man who will represent us in the laws which govern our people.

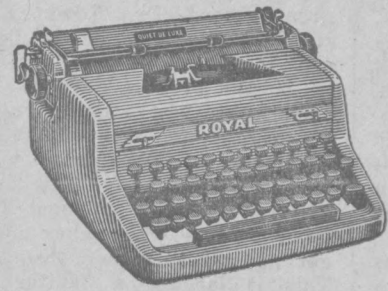

LAWS: There are legal technicalities which govern our people either in the civic administration, or the provisions which control our course of travel. There is, however, more important laws, especially those which govern our moral responsibilities to God and man. It is by the light of our souls we find peace, happiness

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 24—There are several reasons why we all — buyers, clerks, storekeepers, and manufacturers — should be greatly interested in Christmas buying.

Christmas buying is a good barometer of the nation's feelings. When I was younger, I thought that the nation's business was ruled by statistics — certainly statistics on the wages and credit available. Now I am older I have learned that it is ruled not alone by figures, but by feelings. I am happy to report that an impartial study of the outlook for Christmas business shows our people are feeling good.

May I comment further on the above. I have just read the annual report for 1955 of my great friend—Dr. Edward B. Hinkley, president of the Babson Institute. In this report, he speaks of two kinds of income which he must give to his professors. One of these, of course, is Cash Money with which they can pay their bills and lay up some savings. The other income which they must get he calls "Psychic Income." This is largely a matter of feeling secure, happy, and contented. I think every reader of this column, from the humblest worker to the highest-paid executive, might ask himself: "What is my Psychic Income?"

Buying Determines Employment

Christmas buying also means much in a tangible sense. When you buy a present for a friend, you start a most important business cycle. First, you cause a gift to go to a friend or relative or—best of all—to someone in need. Second, you give help to the retailer, providing him with pay for his very important work of distribution. But remember that he gets his small portion, two or three cents from your dollar, only after he has paid for the goods, paid the wages of his clerks, paid his rent, advertising, and other bills.

Then there is a third part to the Christmas Cycle. In paying for the goods, the storekeeper enables the manufacturer to employ people. These people bring most of their wages back to the store and buy more goods—thus completing the cycle. When the cycle works as described above, the nation enjoys prosperity. When the cycle is broken at any point, employment and business (they always go up and down together) fall off. Then—unless the break is repaired—the nation suffers a depression.

The Business Outlook for '56 Christmas buying thus far indicates a good 1956; but something could happen during the next few weeks to change the 1956 outlook. Readers of this column will get my detailed "Outlook for 1956" in this paper the last week of December. It will treat of Business, Inflation, Retail Trade, Wages, Employment, Politics, and the Stock Market. From what I see now, this Forecast should give you a Merry Christmas.

Of course, all sections of the country will not be equally happy this Christmas. The thousands of families in New England, Pennsylvania, and other areas which have had their homes washed away by floods cannot forget their losses. On the other hand, states which for three years have suffered from droughts are rejoicing over the good 1955 rains. In fact, the weather for the balance of 1955 could be a factor in this year's Christmas buying. We are all inclined to give too little thought to weather, epidemics, threat of war, and even to possible earthquakes. What President Eisenhower's heart attack did to the markets in September could be repeated for the same or other reasons. What Would Jesus Say?

What Jesus would say to the present-day celebration of His Birthday, I do not know. It seems to me that He would be unhappy about the way it is being commercialized. Jesus, however, was liberal, as is shown by the lesson He gave during His walk through the corn field. On the other hand, anything can be overdone; everything can be either used or abused.

Let us so use Christmas that there will never be an unfavorable reaction. Let us make gifts to those who need them. Let us keep in mind what good we can do for others — rather than what profit the gifts may bring to us. To help keep me on the right road I have put up a Holiday sign near the Great Babson Globe (the largest revolving Globe in the world) with these words thereon: "For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Foreign correspondents have as much difficulty understanding developments in the U. S. as do our commentators.

MODERN BOOBY TRAPS

Do you yearn for the adventurous life of your pioneer ancestors? Does the thrill of danger appeal to you? Just look around. You are surrounded by dangers Grandma never dreamed of.

Like a Scout moving into Indian territory, the modern woman must have the soul of an adventurer when she enters her kitchen. She is surrounded by booby traps, the modern devices that she uses every day. She rarely understands what makes them work, but if they don't work she can always try a bobbie pin. This may do the trick 99 times, but the 100th time may mean electrocution. Her husband out in the field has a "safe" way of unclogging the cornpicker without shutting it off—until the day he loses a hand.

The use of modern equipment, whether it's in the kitchen, in the barn or fields, in the town dweller's back yard, or in a factory, requires skilled hands and a clear, alert mind. Most accidents with machinery are the result either of ignorance or of human failure. The machine is rarely at fault.

Machines, when anything is wrong, stop working. But people go right on trying when they are upset, tired, or cross. It's not so bad when you merely drop a plate, but you are just as likely to push the wrong button on the electric ironer or hastily pull out an electrical cord with wet fingers.

In the old days the farmer with horse-drawn equipment had to take a break now and then to rest his horses. Today he can drive himself 'til he's ready to drop, and often does. The tractor doesn't mind. But the human body rebels, and then there's an accident. Fatigue and emotional upsets which temporarily blind the victim are behind too many accidents.

It's high time we all began to realize the special demands that modern machinery makes upon the human beings who use it. The push button age demands more of us than mere knowledge of how to push a button. We don't all have to be mechanics, but we must at least learn our own limitations in dealing with the wonderful inventions that should make our lives more happy, not more hazardous.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

The most indispensable tool for an outdoorsman is a knife — a "business" size knife, sharp and keen. The little vest pocket penknife won't do much good outdoors. You want a good-sized pocketknife with one blade for rough work, and the other for finer jobs—the point should be sharp enough to lift a splinter out of your hand.

This type is usually called a "trapper's knife" and most large cutlery companies make it. Whatever other knife you have, better have one of these, and keep it in your pocket all the time afeld.

While the trapper's pocketknife will do everything needed for the camper or hunter, many of us like to carry a sheath knife too. This is primarily for the hunter's use, and should be designed chiefly for skinning and butchering animals, but should be good for all tasks.

Most old-timers, such as Col. Townsend Whelen, prefer to keep it for hunting only, and razor sharp. They like it to have a blade not more than 4½ inches long, with a straight edge until it curves to a point, and with the point rounded, rather than a sharp spear point. A thin blade that tapers all the way from the back to the cutting edge will take a much keener cut.

The first question one asks about a knife is "Is it good steel?" In the past, Europe produced the finest steel, but for many years the United States has led the world in the metallurgy of steel, and practically all our knives made by reputable companies have excellent steel in them.

For a general purpose knife,

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

A great phenomena of the times is bitter attacks launched whenever criticisms are voiced of United Nations.

Yet, paradoxically, few people seem to realize full potential power of UN to control their personal lives, to scuttle entire American way of life by votes in London, Paris or Moscow.

Speakeasy drive to rob U.S. people of their power of self determination is U.S. State Department. This is C. W. Harder, not a new State Dept. activity; it has existed for over 20 years.

For example, through efforts of State Dept. next session of Congress will consider a bill known as H.R. 5550. Purpose of bill is to permit United States to join Organization for Trade Cooperation, or OTC. This would be a UN agency.

Through this international agency, UN would decide on U. S. tariff rates. U. S. would have but one vote. Other votes would be cast by foreigners, and lone U. S. vote cast by State Dept.

Thus, once again, by devious means, an attempt will be made to rob Congress of a power that is specifically reserved to Congress by the Constitution.

While, to be sure, decision of UN on U. S. tariff laws would not have force of law, such decisions would be in form of an international agreement which Congress would have to approve or establish U. S. as nation that welshes on deals made with its representatives.

Thus, there is set up machinery for the greatest turkey plucking in history. The American people, which under Constitution are supposed to have voice in tariff matters through their own elected representatives, would have this power taken away from them and vested in the hands of foreigners.

Immediate results of this measure do not seem hard to predict. Every nation which has a manufacturing or farm surplus would vote to remove all protective tariffs so they could ship into U. S. products of slave labor to ruination of American workers and farmers.

But strangely enough, this proposal will get serious consideration in Congress; could very well be passed by Congressmen who know better.

Yet influence exerted by internationalists in Washington is something that passeth all understanding.

There is little question average Congressman is from solid cross-section. There is also little question average Congressman is steeped in American history, conscious of standard of living developed by American methods; knows free enterprise is now found only in U. S.

Yet, as has been done repeatedly in voting on extensions of Reciprocal Tariff Acts, something happens which causes Congressmen to vote for foreigners rather than for Americans.

And that is one of the mysteries of the times. Just what are the insidious influences wielded by international clique to subvert American legislators?

By
WALTER CHAMBLIN, JR.

WASHINGTON—There is widespread agreement among politicians in Washington that Adlai Stevenson is far ahead for the Democratic Presidential nomination—and that it is going to be extremely difficult for any of the other hopefuls to outdistance him.

Before Mr. Eisenhower's illness the other Democratic politicians were quite content to give Mr. Stevenson the honor of being beaten again for the presidency. But, now that the value of the Democratic nomination has taken a sharp rise there is much more interest being displayed in it.

The late-comers admittedly are handicapped in a contest against the entrenched Mr. Stevenson, the titular party leader. And not overlooked by the practical politicians is the fact that in the 1952 presidential race Mr. Stevenson polled 27.3 million votes—which is more than any other candidate for president ever received, with two exceptions.

Mr. Roosevelt got 27.4 million votes in 1936, when he swept all but two states into the Democratic column, and Mr. Eisenhower received 33.9 in 1952, which is the record high to date.

These friends of Mr. Stevenson also point out that Averell Harriman, the Governor of New York, is only a year younger than Mr. Eisenhower—that he would be 65 when inaugurated and in his 70th year when his term expired.

Normally, a political party, in nominating a man for the presidency, assumes that he will be renominated for another term. In that even Mr. Harriman would be in his 74th year when his second term ended.

No American President has ever reached his 70th birthday in the White House. William Henry Harrison was a few days over 68 when he was inaugurated but died a month later. Andrew Jackson, in 1833, and James Buchanan, in 1857 were just under 66 when inaugurated.

Now, what of Estes Kefauver? The Tennessee Senator definitely is not to be discounted. As astute a politician as Vice President Nixon has said that Mr. Kefauver has a down-to-earth appeal which professional politicians have constantly underestimated. Mr. Nixon said he had high respect for Mr. Kefauver's vote-getting ability but that Mr. Kefauver might have difficulty in getting the nomination because he has alienated some of the Southerners—and the big city Democratic bosses do not like him because of his exposure of crime conditions in their bailiwicks.

In 1952 Mr. Kefauver entered 15 presidential preference primaries, won 13 of them, and led on the first two ballots in the convention. Mr. Stevenson, however, was not an avowed candidate at that time and did not become an avowed candidate until the Democratic convention nominated him. Therefore, he was not entered in the primaries.

It will be different this time. If Mr. Stevenson enters primaries and is defeated by Mr. Kefauver, or others, it would not help his chances of getting the nomination. If he should stay out of the primaries, his opponents would be able to claim that he was afraid to risk such a popularity test.

The importance of these primaries is not to be overlooked. The first primary is in New Hampshire on Mar. 13. It was Mr. Kefauver's victory there over Mr. Truman in 1952 which made the Tennessee a formidable candidate for the presidency. Also it was in the 1952 New Hampshire primary that the Eisenhower boom got off the ground.

Another primary—in Wisconsin in 1944—ended the comeback attempt of Wendell Wilkie after his defeat for the presidency in 1940. Mr. Wilkie was badly defeated in the Wisconsin primary and promptly withdrew as a candidate.

To repeat, the general belief in Washington is that it is going to be extremely difficult to ditch Mr. Stevenson. But a word of caution is in order—don't forget that in politics anything can happen.

Frederick City By-Pass Is Formally Opened

Formal opening of the first bridge over the Frederick By-Pass which will run for 14 miles around the town, occurred Monday.

In the presence of State and other officials, Governor McKelvin cut ribbons opening to traffic the bridge just completed where U. S. 240 crosses the Baltimore National Pike, just south of Frederick.

The bridge ceremonies highlighted a day of travel by State Roads Commission officials thru Howard, Carroll and Frederick Counties, inspecting road projects under construction. Included in the party which was by chartered bus, were members of the Legislature, roads officials and the Press.

The Frederick By-Pass from U. S. 40 at the Monocacy River east of Frederick to the same national highway west of Frederick is about 50 per cent completed and is scheduled for opening to the public next year. It will move circumferentially around Frederick on the south, west, and northwest. Eventually it will be extended north of U. S. 40 to a junction with U. S. 15. In addition to diverting through traffic from the streets of Frederick, the By-Pass will connect with such important North-South thoroughfares as the Washington National Pike running south from Frederick toward Washington, U. S. 15 running into Virginia and U. S. 340 to Harpers Ferry and the South.

Pimlico Special Feature Race Set For Saturday

The 19th running of the Pimlico Special shapes up as wide-open contest on Saturday, with a field of nine horses likely to contest the issue over the mile and three-sixteenths distance. The race will bring together outstanding members of the handicap and three-year-old divisions plus a Venezuelan performer.

The probable lineup for the Special is as follows: Social Outcast, Jet Action, Hasseyampa, Mister Gus, Paper Tiger, Prendase, Nance's Lad, Thinking Cap, and Sailor.

Prendase made a fine impression in his lone American appearance when he was second, beaten a head by El Chama in the Washington, D. C. International.

Social Outcast and Jet Action have been outstanding in the handicap division, the former winning seven stakes in seven different states. Hasseyampe won the Hawthorne Gold Cup and Mister Gus the Kyne Handicap to earn invitations to the race.

Nance's Lad, Thinking Cap and Sailor will represent the three-year-old division in this year's Special.

The Special is worth $50,000 of which $40,000 goes to the winner.

tion to diverting through traffic from the streets of Frederick, the By-Pass will connect with such important North-South thoroughfares as the Washington National Pike running south from Frederick toward Washington, U. S. 15 running into Virginia and U. S. 340 to Harpers Ferry and the South.

The entire road is dual-lane limited-access with 50-foot median strips and is on a par with the finest roads being built by the State today. There are 12 major bridges in the project to take care of the interchange areas and grade separations.

The bridge dedicated Monday was a four-span steel beam structure 186 feet in length with two five-foot sidewalks. The project was built by T. Edgie Russell at a low bid of $224,808.

Keep The Kids Busy With Small Fry Car Games

While dad's busy driving, keeping the youngsters out of his hair isn't easy. Kids get restless; their pent-up energy on a long ride can be troublesome. "Car games" will keep them occupied.

1. Cow Game. One kid takes the right, the other one the left side. And each counts the number of cows he sees. Black cows can count double, etc. The same game can be played with graveyards or horses.

2. License Plates. Players take turns naming the states on the license plates of approaching cars. The first one who identifies 25 states wins. If no front plates, check the plate through the rear window.

3. Song Games. One child hums a tune and the other guesses its name. Each one takes his turn; first one to reach ten the other doesn't know wins.

Keeping kids quiet is one way to make travel easy. Carrying American Express Travelers Cheques is another. If you lose them—you can always get your money back. Buy them in any bank, spend them anywhere. Don't spoil everyone's fun by losing your money on this year's vacation trip.

A Pledge In Response to President Eisenhower's Plea

Display of the safety pledge on all of the company's equipment is part of Associated's accident prevention effort in support of President Eisenhower's plea for an accident-free safe driving day and greater street and highway safety throughout the year. The professional driver's advice to his fellow motorists: Know and obey traffic laws . . . read and heed traffic signals and pavement markings . . . slow down—take your time when road and weather conditions are not perfect . . . stay alert!

CATHOLICS IN CONGO

The Roman Catholic Church now has the same status in the Belgian Congo in equatorial Africa, as it does in western European countries, according to an article in the 1955 Yearbook of the American Peoples Encyclopedia. A convention with the Vatican last year ended the church's role as a purely missionary force.

McGuffey's "Venomous Worm"

It would be wonderful if all the adult population of America today could have access to and would read the famous old McGuffey's Electric Readers, which were the dominant elementary school textbooks in America for almost a century, beginning in 1836. Many of the old McGuffey stories containing character-building lessons have been selected for publication in a new series of school readers now being published by the American Book Co.

The appearance of the new McGuffey series prompted me to browse through my own cherished set of the original McGuffey Readers received as a gift some years ago. Their stories are wonderful—the best from the pen of such writers as Hawthorne, Whittier, Longfellow, Alcott, Irving, Webster, Cowper, Johnson, Dickens, Thackeray, etc. The readers of this column will agree, I'm sure, that the moral of "The Venomous Worm," from McGuffey's old Fifth Reader, has application today. Here it is.

Deadlier Than Copperhead
"Who has not heard of the rattlesnake or copperhead? An unexpected sight of either of these reptiles will make anybody recoil; but there is a species of worm, found in various parts of this country, which conveys a poison of a nature so deadly that, compared with it, even the venom of the rattlesnake is harmless. To guard our readers against this foe of human kind is the object of this lesson.

"This worm varies much in size. It is frequently an inch in diameter, but, as it is rarely seen except when coiled, its length can hardly be conjectured. It is of a dull lead color, and generally lives near a spring or small stream of water, and bites the unfortunate people who are in the habit of going there to drink. The brute creation it never molests. They avoid it with the same instinct that teaches the animals of India to shun the deadly cobra. "Symptoms Terrible"

"Several of these reptiles have long infested our settlements, to the misery and destruction of many of our fellow-citizens. I have, therefore, had frequent opportunities of being the melancholy spectator of the effects produced by the subtle poison which this worm infuses. The symptoms of its bite are terrible. The eyes of the patient become red and fiery, his tongue swells to an immoderate size, and obstructs his utterance; and delirium of the most horrid character quickly follows. Sometimes, in his madness, he attempts the destruction of his nearest friends.

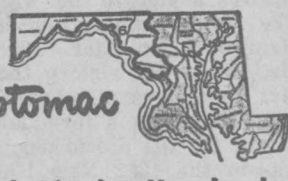

"If the sufferer has a family, his weeping wife and helpless infants are not unfrequently the objects of his frantic fury. He exhibits all the detestable passions that rankle in the bosom of a savage; and such is the spell in which his senses are locked, that no sooner has the unhappy patient recovered from the paroxysm of insanity occasioned by the bite, than he seeks out the destroyer for the sole purpose of being bitten again.

Victims Many
"I have seen a good old father, his locks as white as snow, his step slow and trembling, beg in vain of his only son to quit the lurking place of the worm. My heart bled when he turned away; for I knew the fond hope that his son would be the 'staff of his declining years,' had supported him thru many a sorrow. Youth of America, would you know the name of this reptile? It is called the worm of the still."

It should be explained that the worm of the still is the small lower coil of copper or lead tubing on a moonshining whiskey still from which drips the powerful distilled product. Mountain whiskey stills are located at springs or on creek banks—to obtain the necessary water supply. The writer of the McGuffey Reader's "The Venomous Worm" was John Russell, an author noted for his sense of humor. The application of his lesson today is obvious: In a recent newspaper article I noticed that of the approximately 50 million Americans who drink, several millions are alcoholics—victims of McGuffey's "Venomous Worm."

Along The Potomac

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 — America at this Thanksgiving is especially mindful of its gratitude for its natural resources heritage. Our gratitude this year is enriched by the growing awareness of a pressing need to insure a continuance of the bountiful gifts of nature. I am thinking in particular of the recognition of our need to take steps which will insure a steady flow of clean water for residential and industrial use. Our people sense the responsibility for pollution control.

Pollution abatement is a national problem. In our own area the matter of pollution control has been highlighted in a controversy over a proposed location for new facilities for the Potomac Electric Power Co. and its probable effect on Metropolitan Washington's water supply. This particular project has not created new problems, but it serves to remind us that the rapid residential and industrial development in the Washington area and along the Potomac has created sewage and other waste disposal problems that cry for attention.

Only an aroused people can insure necessary action by local communities, the State and Federal government. Americans have traditionally considered water pollution control as a state and local responsibility. This is rightly so, and Congress has repeatedly recognized this principle of primary State responsibility in its consideration of many Federal water pollution control bills; in its enactment of the Federal Pollution Control Law.

The Federal Pollution Control Act grants certain standby authority for pollution control of interstate waters to the U. S. Public Health Service. In spelling out this interest in interstate pollution the Congress also recognized that the Federal interest extends to the overall problem of pollution control.

The Federal government's role should be that of coordinator. The various plans of Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia for pollution control must be centrally planned and coordinated if we are to have a continued supply of clean water. This, I believe, can best be done by the already functioning Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin. Federal funds may be necessary for the over-all planning and coordination, but the cost of implementation should be borne by the localities.

Library To Accept Gifts For Mental Hospital Patients

Christmas gifts for patients in the state mental hospitals may be left at the public library in Emmitsburg or at the C. Burr Artz Library in Frederick any time between now and Dec. 15, according to Mrs. Riley D. Housewright, Mrs. Housewright, who is chairman of the Christmas project committee of the Frederick County Mental Health Assn. which is cooperating with the Maryland Assn. for Mental Health in providing Christmas gifts for all the patients in the five state mental hospitals who might otherwise be forgotten at the holiday season. The Maryland Assn. has been asked to provide gift packages for 8000 patients, and Mrs. Housewright points out that approximately 25 per cent of these are from the counties of Maryland west of the Chesapeake.

Mrs. Housewright says the gifts most in demand include cigarettes, cosmetics, candy, handkerchiefs, note paper and toilet articles.

1955 PIMLICO SPECIAL...NOV. 26

Mr. Lester Wolfe, Rocky Ridge and Mr. Charles Kluts, Keysville, returned to their respective homes after being discharged from the Frederick Memorial Hospital. George L. Wilhide, cashier of the Farmers State Bank, and Quinn F. Topper, a director of the bank, attended a meeting on Wednesday of the Maryland Bankers Assn. held in Baltimore. Emanuel Eckenrode was discharged from the Warner Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers Topper and daughter, Patsy, Mt. Airy; Mrs. Lillian Stone and Miss Elsie Stone, Frederick, visited last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Topper.
