The snow may not be as deep and the ice not as thick as during the old fashioned winters I wrote about recently, but Old Man Winter really has taken hold here and in all probability, intends to give us a taste of just how nasty he can get.

Last week's snow was more than welcome and will help to settle the dust, but actually the ground is so dry that it is hard to freeze. The six inches of snow we had here last week will help some but you know snow doesn't make any amount of water, actually. I believe it is estimated that it takes almost 10 inches of snow to make an inch of water, so you see we need a lot more of one or the other.

I was extremely sorry to hear the news that State Trooper Tucker was transferred. In his short stay here of two and a half years, he had won the admiration of many local citizens. No call for assistance went unheeded, no matter how trivial or how serious.

We wish you a lot of success in your new assignment, Trooper Tucker, we sincerely enjoyed your stay here, and you leave a host of good friends.

My apologies to "Bill" Baker, a highly-valued friend. Last week I wrote a paragraph concerning athletics at Emmitsburg High School. I emphasized what an excellent job the new coach, Ted Elliott, was doing down there and I reported his efforts with the soccer team were showing great rewards.

Getting back to Ted, an unassuming fellow and a hard worker with the lads, he is apparently dead-set on bestowing the glory where it rightfully belongs. He attributes much of the success of his present basketball team to "Jim" McKeon, who had charge of the boys several seasons ago.

Bartender's new theme song: "It's Almost Tomorrow."

Scout Activities

The Emmitsburg Boy Scout Troop has accepted an invitation from Elias Ev. Lutheran Church to be its guest of honor at the 10:30 a. m. service on Sunday, Feb. 5. Scouts everywhere will be observing the anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement by attending church on this Sunday. It is designated "World Wide Boy Scout Sunday."

County Demos Endorse Mahoney

Frederick County's Democratic State Central Committee this week informed George P. Mahoney that he has received the committee's endorsement for the Democratic nomination for United States Senate.

In a letter to Mahoney, George F. Abrecht, vice chairman of the Central Committee, declared: "The Committee feels that you have the necessary qualifications and attributes of leadership to make you a credit, not only to the State of Maryland, but to the United States Senate, and for this office should have the undivided support of the party."

The decision to back Mahoney, which was made at a meeting in Frederick, makes Frederick the third county in the Sixth (Western Maryland) Congressional District to declare for the former Democratic National Committee member's Senatorial candidacy.

Earlier this month, Allegany County's State Central Committee backed him and in December, he received the endorsement from Garrett County's Democratic leadership, including a majority of that county's Central Committeemen.

Mahoney carried Frederick County's seven convention unit votes when he won the Democratic nomination for Senate in 1952, but failed to carry the county in the 1950 and 1954 gubernatorial primaries.

Frederick is the 12th county in which Democratic leaders or State Central Committees have pledged support to the Mahoney candidacy. In addition, he has received endorsements from clubs in Queen Anne's County and in Baltimore City.

Candidate For Congress

J. Grahame Walker announced this week he has filed as a Democratic candidate for Congress from the Sixth District of Maryland. He has started active campaigning for the primary on May 7, and has established campaign headquarters at Rockville, Md.

The Sixth Congressional District is made up of Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, Montgomery and Washington Counties.

4-H Club Holds Meeting

The program for the coming year was presented to the members of the Emmitsburg 4-H Club Wednesday evening at its regular meeting. The program was drawn up by the officers last Friday night at the home of Mr. Richard Florence, local leader, and was adopted at the Wednesday meeting.

Robert Meneau, in charge of the evening's program, gave an interesting report on National 4-H Club Congress which he was present for as a delegate.

Paul Beale, president, presided at the business meeting during which a broiler production contest was announced. Two new members, Larry and Patricia Hyde, were introduced.

A committee of Steve Wilhide, Robert Beale, Robert Wagerman and John Krom was appointed to advertise National 4-H Week, March 3-10. Robert Wagerman and Steve Wilhide gave a report on raising sheep.

ALICE M. EYLER

Miss Alice M. Eyer, Thurmont, died on Tuesday at Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, where she had been a patient for three days. She was the daughter of William P. and Barbara Long Eyer, Frederick County.

She was a life-long member of the Evangelical United Brethren Church of Thurmont.

She is survived by three sisters, Miss Lottie E. Eyer, with whom she resided; Mrs. Vada Robinson, and Mrs. Myrtle Baumgardner, all of Thurmont; a nephew, Luther E. Robinson, of California.

Funeral services were held at her late home in Thurmont yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. Rev. Ivan G. Naugle and Rev. Elmer Andrews officiated. Burial was in United Brethren Cemetery, M. L. Creager and Sons, funeral director.

On Tour With Symphony

William M. Lansinger is currently on tour with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Lansinger is the son of Mrs. Rose B. Lansinger, Elder Apts., West Main St.

Wayne Sanders observed his 11th birthday at his home last Sunday.

E.H.S. Basketeers Drop In League Standing

Ted Elliott's Emmitsburg High School cagers were bumped for the second time this year in the County High School Basketball League when they met defeat at the hands of a strong league-leading Brunswick High five on the latter's floor. The Railroaders smothered the Blue and White by a lopsided score of 75-52.

George Eyster and Alfred Hahn exhibited excellent foul shooting for the local basketeers, collecting six and four, respectively, while Wayne Baumgardner and Ed Wolfe ripped the cords for six and three goals respectively. McCauslin and Eyster also tallied markers three times each.

The defeat was a double one for Emmitsburg as the Junior Varsity took a lacing, 39-20. Traditional rivals, the EHS and St. Joseph's High School will battle it out on the St. Joe's court, here, on Feb. 2. The contest poses as an interesting affair and a large turnout of supporters of both schools is anticipated.

Suggests Credit Go To Deserving Individuals

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

The article appearing in the Chronicle on Friday, Jan. 20, was very flattering to me, but not true in many respects. Mr. William Baker, Vo-ag teacher at Emmitsburg and Thurmont High Schools, deserves the credit for the soccer team's success as he was the coach and I only assisted or acted as trainer. As for the success of the basketball team, I'm sure former coaches are more responsible than I. The skills needed in athletics are not learned in as short a period of time as I have been coaching here. I would like to think that I have had a hand in improving school spirit here, because I know when school spirit is good we will have better teams then. Everyone doing his or her best for the school is the goal of school-spirit training. When a school gets this it will be a winner all the time, even if the score of a contest is against them (as it was last night against Brunswick. I was proud of the behavior of my team, even in defeat).

MOTORIST SENT NOTICE

Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder, Gettysburg, Pa., on Jan. 19 sent a 10-day notice to Robert Louis Wivell, near Emmitsburg, on a charge of operating a vehicle on the left side of the highway.

Miss Wantz Becomes Bride At Pretty Wedding

With palms, white chrysanthemums and lighted tapers forming the background, Miss Theresa Kathleen Wantz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Wantz, 200 De Paul St., was married Saturday, to John Edward Trout, son of Mrs. Mary G. Trout, Gettysburg.

The double ring ceremony was performed at Elias Ev. Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, at 3 o'clock with the bride's pastor, Rev. Philip Bower, officiating. He was assisted by Rev. Charles Coffelt of Fairfield. A reception was held in the Lutheran parish hall immediately following the ceremony.

An organ recital by Jack Wantz, brother of the bride, preceded the ceremony. His selections included "Serenade," by Schubert; "Indian Love Call," by Friml; "Ich Liebe Dich," by Greig. The soloist, Rodney Felix, Gettysburg, sang "O Promise Me," by De Kovan; "If I Could Tell You," by Firestone, and the traditional marriage hymn of the Lutheran Church, "O Perfect Love," by Barnby. The traditional wedding marches were played and "O Love That Wilt Not Let Me Go," by Peace, was used during the communion service.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was attired in a white slipper satin bridal gown designated with a fitted bodice and a bouffant skirt, terminating in a chapel train. The mandarin neckline and long pointed sleeves were finished with leaf sequins and insets of chantilly lace. She wore a three-tier veil of lace and tulle attached to a satin halo. Her only jewelry was a set of pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom. The bridal bouquet was fashioned of white rosebuds and ivy.

The maid of honor was Miss Dianne Shuff, Fairfield. The matron of honor was Mrs. Thomas Trout, Gettysburg, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Eugene Newcomer, of Emmitsburg and Miss Margaret Galbraith, Greensburg, a cousin of the bridegroom. All bridal attendants wore torso gowns with modified Italian necklines of dark green velvet and mint green brocade.

The flower girl was Miss Karen Lou Wisotzky, Thurmont, cousin of the bride. She wore a white taffeta gown with a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. She wore a lace bonnet and carried a basket of mixed petals. Ring-bearer was Master John Arthur Trout, Greensburg, nephew of the bridegroom. He carried a heart-shaped pillow of satin and lace, and streamers tied with lilies of the valley.

Thomas Trout, Gettysburg, was best man for his twin brother. Ushers were Howard Fox, Jr., Roland Kime, Ronald Heiges, Robert Shealer and Ronald Miller, all of Gettysburg.

The bride's mother was attired in sapphire blue with dusty rose accessories. She wore a pink rose bud corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a plum dress trimmed in rose. She wore plum accessories and wore a pink rosebud corsage.

A reception was held in the Lutheran parish hall following the ceremony. The bride and bridegroom left for a honeymoon to an unannounced destination. For traveling the bride wore a silver gray brocaded taffeta street dress with black and white accessories and a rosebud corsage.

A graduate of Emmitsburg High School and a graduate of South Baltimore General School of Nursing, the bride is employed at the Victor Cullen State Hospital, Cullen, Md.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Stevens Trade School, Lancaster. He served two and a half years in the Navy. A graduate of Electronic Technicians' School, Great Lakes, Ill., he is presently employed at Baughman's TV and Appliances, Hanover, as radio and television technician.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dinterman and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Seiss visited in Baltimore Tuesday and while there took in the automobile show.

Benefit Polio Dance Set For Saturday Night

The local March of Dimes drive is rapidly nearing its termination, General Chairman Lumen F. Norris, reminded this week and expressed the urgent need to patronize local affairs which are being held for the benefit of the drive.

Tuesday's card party held by the VFW Auxiliary was reported a successful one by those in charge, despite the present frigid weather we are experiencing.

Perhaps the most entertaining of activities for the benefit of the drive and one which will give local residents a chance to enjoy an evening out is the big gala annual dance to be held Saturday night in the VFW Annex. This affair usually draws an excellent turnout and it is hoped that this success enjoyed in previous years will be continued once again. Dancing will start at 8:30 and the admission is $1 per person. Music will be furnished by the "Four Hits and A Miss" orchestra, a local combination.

Another event expected to swell the drive's total is the Mothers' March which will be held Tuesday. This project also is sponsored by the VFW Auxiliary, and residents willing to donate are asked to put their porch lights on Tuesday evening between the hours of 7 and 9 p. m.

The project of redeeming National Bohemian beer caps, instituted by a Frederick beer distributor, J. Austin Whitehill, is going over splendidly, Chairman Norris reports. There are about a dozen local establishments where these caps can be redeemed for one cent each, and those interested in helping in this manner are asked to turn in the caps as soon as possible because the drive ends the last of this month. The plan works thusly: For every cap turned in to the local retailers, the beer distributor will donate a penny to the March of Dimes drive.

Fund To Elect

The annual election of officers of the Community Fund will be held Monday evening at 8 p. m. in the VFW Annex. All organizations are requested to see that their delegates and alternates are present at this meeting.

Grange Schedules Panel Discussion

The Emmitsburg Grange will sponsor an informal panel discussion Wednesday evening, Feb. 1, at 8 o'clock between bulk milk shippers and can milk shippers in the Emmitsburg High School. The panel will consist of four tank shippers and four can shippers, both members and non-members of the Grange.

The program is being put on not to sell milk tanks, but merely to help acquaint the dairy farmers with one of the most important issues they have to face in the near future.

All dairy farmers are encouraged to attend this meeting, which is open to the public. Come, bring a friend, and bring your questions and let the panel try to answer them for you.

The committee in charge of the program is Lecturer Rachel Emrich, George Martin, and Harry Swomley.

INCOME TAX FACTS No. 2 Save Money with the Right Form

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Maryland Society of Certified Public Accountants.)

The government provides two forms for individual income tax returns. If you choose the wrong one, you may automatically cut yourself off from many possible tax savings.

The easiest way to file is to use the simple Form 1040A. It's a card the size of a check, which anyone can fill out if he is able to write his name and address and a few other simple facts.

5. Made fairly large contributions. 6. Had certain expenses in connection with your work, as explained below.

Business Expenses. If you are in business for yourself, you can deduct your reasonable and necessary business expenses on separate Schedule C before arriving at your adjusted gross income on page one of the tax form.

Other employees are entitled to a deduction for unreimbursed expenses in connection with their work, but expenses other than those listed below can be deducted only if all deductions are itemized instead of using the 10% standard deduction.

1. Transportation expenses in connection with your employer's business, including fares and automobile expenses. (Expenses of commuting are not deductible in any case.)

2. Meals and lodging while traveling away from home for your employer.

Form 1040 has been rearranged this year, so that although it still contains four pages a taxpayer whose income was entirely from wages needs to use only the first one or two pages.

The instructions that come with your tax forms give further information. Help is also available from the Internal Revenue Service, which urges you to consult a properly qualified advisor if you need outside assistance.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

A city-dweller friend of mine claims he can never bring himself to pass a herd of cattle without mentally noting whether they are all facing in the same direction.

He acquired the bothersome quirk, he said, when a chance acquaintance on a train made a casual comment that travel time seemed to pass faster for him when he checked on cows' tendency to head the same way.

For the remainder of that particular trip my friend resolutely inspected every herd within sight of the train. And now it's a habit. Different Results

I sympathize completely with the poor fellow for I have acquired a similar compulsion of my own.

Often, when I am presented numerous arguments in support of an issue, I study them to see whether they are all pointed toward the same end.

Frequently they are not, even though the proponents feel that their approaches will all lead to an identical goal.

Tax Cuts And Inflation. On the question of tax cuts, for instance, there are those who say that immediate reductions before the budget is balanced would help the general economy.

It seems to me, however, that in this era of widespread prosperity the government would be tempting inflation if it decided to slash taxes with one hand while the other was outstretched to borrow necessary operating expenses.

As we all know, there might be more money during a period of inflation but there would be less buying power.

In other words, the objectives of those who advocate tax cuts might be perfectly praiseworthy but their methods just don't line up with the long-range plans advocated by most practical economists.

Own Money Returned. In addition to the tax matter, there are numerous other issues which I am still studying to see whether the many interested parties who have discussed them with me are really headed toward where they want to go.

Take the subject of Federal aid to education as an example. Quite a few Marylanders cite the need for additional classrooms when seeking aid from Washington, but they apparently forget that any government contribution would have to come from tax money which the State itself would pay.

Furthermore, in the case of Maryland, the return would probably be less than the original outlay.

I wonder if it might not be best for states like ours to keep our educational funds right within our borders from the beginning.

Are we perhaps heading into a system in which we'd be donating to others what we need ourselves? And are we heading toward another plan that smacks of socialism?

I wish our task in deciding such things was as easy as the one which pesters my friend who watches cows.

Education In Socialism-Communism
 Many people are not aware of the fact that all the Communist leaders, from Karl Marx to Bulganin, have declared that Socialism must be established as the first step into Communism. They have so declared repeatedly in their official textbooks, and they have followed up these declarations with Socialist action. The Communists have worked for Socialism in every country which they have infiltrated or have taken over. In fact Marxian Socialism (not Communism) exists everywhere the Reds hold power!
 We call it Communism, but the economic system employed is only the first phase of Communism — which is Socialism. This fact and others on the interrelationship of Communism and Socialism are dramatized in the fifth film of "The American Adventure" educational series just produced by the National Education Program for the schools of America, for TV and other uses. The fifth film is entitled "A Look at Socialism." The interrelationship of the two major Left Wing movements is established out of their own literature and through the activities of the Socialist and Communist movements during the last 100 years.

The Record Speaks
 The film on Socialism shows England's Socialist-Labor Party and the record of its administration in England from 1945 until October, 1951, to illustrate both the theory and the reality of Socialism. The Socialist-Labor Party's platform is almost identical, plank for plank, with the platform published on Page 145 of the Manifesto of the Communist Party (Special Centennial Edition, George Allen and Unwin, Ltd., London).

The Socialist - Labor Party said, in its centennial edition of the Manifesto: "To mark the centenary of its first publication in 1884, the Labour Party issued this important special edition of the Communist Manifesto. The Labour Party regards this statement of Marx and Engels as one of the great historical documents in socialist history, which has had an immense influence on socialism as it is expressed today in so many countries of the world."

Miserable Failure
 The film on Socialism shows that at the very heart of the Socialist promise—"we'll make a paradise for the workers"—it has miserably failed. It shows that the living standard of the Socialized Englishman is about one-third as high as that of the American living under capitalism. In the sixth film, "A Look at Communism," the Russian dreamland of "a paradise for the worker" is closely examined. Socialism has progressed in Russia to the inevitable enslavement of the entire citizenry in a brutal dictatorship.

The sixth film, noting the interrelationship of Communism and Socialism, examines the difference. The difference is in theory. The film takes up one by one the three basic elements in the Communist philosophy: (1) dialectical materialism; (2) economic determinism, and (3) atheism. It is vitally necessary for our American boys and girls of high school and college age to understand these facts. Until they do, they cannot intelligently resist Communism and Socialism.

Our Own System
 The seventh film of the series, "A Look at Capitalism," recognizes that there is more than one kind of "capitalism." American capitalism is unique. The European form of cartel capitalism and other forms are noted. Then the film builds the basic structure of American capitalism. The pillars are: (1) private ownership of property, (2) the profit motive, and (3) the competitive free market. How each of these elements perform in the working of the American system is shown through illustrations.

To bring capitalism down into the everyday life of everybody, this film shows Dr. Clifton Ganus, the classroom instructor of the series, buying 10-cents worth of clay. With it he molds a child's toy. When it has been baked in his oven, it sells for 39 cents. The cycle, from money (capital) to the marketing of goods, brings into being all the elements of the great system which has lifted America's living standard so high above that of the rest of the world.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By U. S. Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—The President's budget for the 1957 fiscal year contains a number of items of special interest to the people of the 6th Maryland District and the residents of Metropolitan Washington. Each item is the result of long and continued effort on the part of my staff and myself. I may add that I found a great deal of pleasure in preparing the material for the Bureau of the Budget's consideration.

Veterans will be particularly pleased with the Budget Bureau's recommendation for $1.1 million to provide plans and specifications for a new veterans' hospital. The project has been approved by the Office of Defense Mobilization and the necessary grounds are available. Final approval of the 50-bed structure will assure adequate hospital facilities for the ex-GI's of our area.

The President also submitted a request for $3.4 million to continue the Cumberland - Ridgely flood protection project. Other items in the budget include $344,000 for the purchase of parklands in Maryland areas adjacent to the District of Columbia; $200,000 to continue the Washington Area Transit Survey; and funds for a project which help control the periodic flooding at Peace Cross in Bladensburg.

I would like also to call your attention to the Dept. of the Army's request for $913,000 for storage facilities and utilities at Camp Detrick. The 1957 Military Construction bill contains the authorization request. Congress will also be asked to appropriate the necessary funds.

Early in the week I appeared before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce in support of my bill to adjust an inequity in the Railroad Retirement Act. My measure would permit those railroad workers with service prior to Jan. 1, 1937 to select either of two base periods, 1924-1931 or 1940-1947, in computing retirement benefits. I have proposed this change so that retired workers might receive benefits more nearly in line with the intent of Congress. Any revenue loss to the retirement fund would be greatly offset by the bettered morale of those workers who, through no fault of their own, are handicapped by an arbitrary base period.

HOW TO FOLD A FITTED SHEET

By RUTH LEIGH—Cannon Homemaking Institute

1. Start with the sheet inside out, held the long way. Place a hand in each of the upper corners.

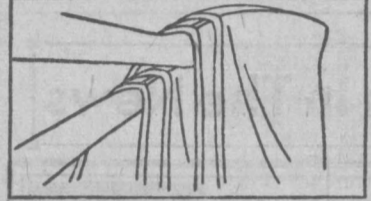

2. Bring fingers in corners together. Turn left corner right side out and fit over right corner.

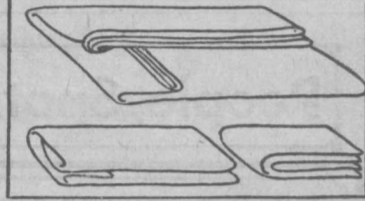

3. Now you have one corner over the other, as a tailor folds a coat, shoulder into shoulder.

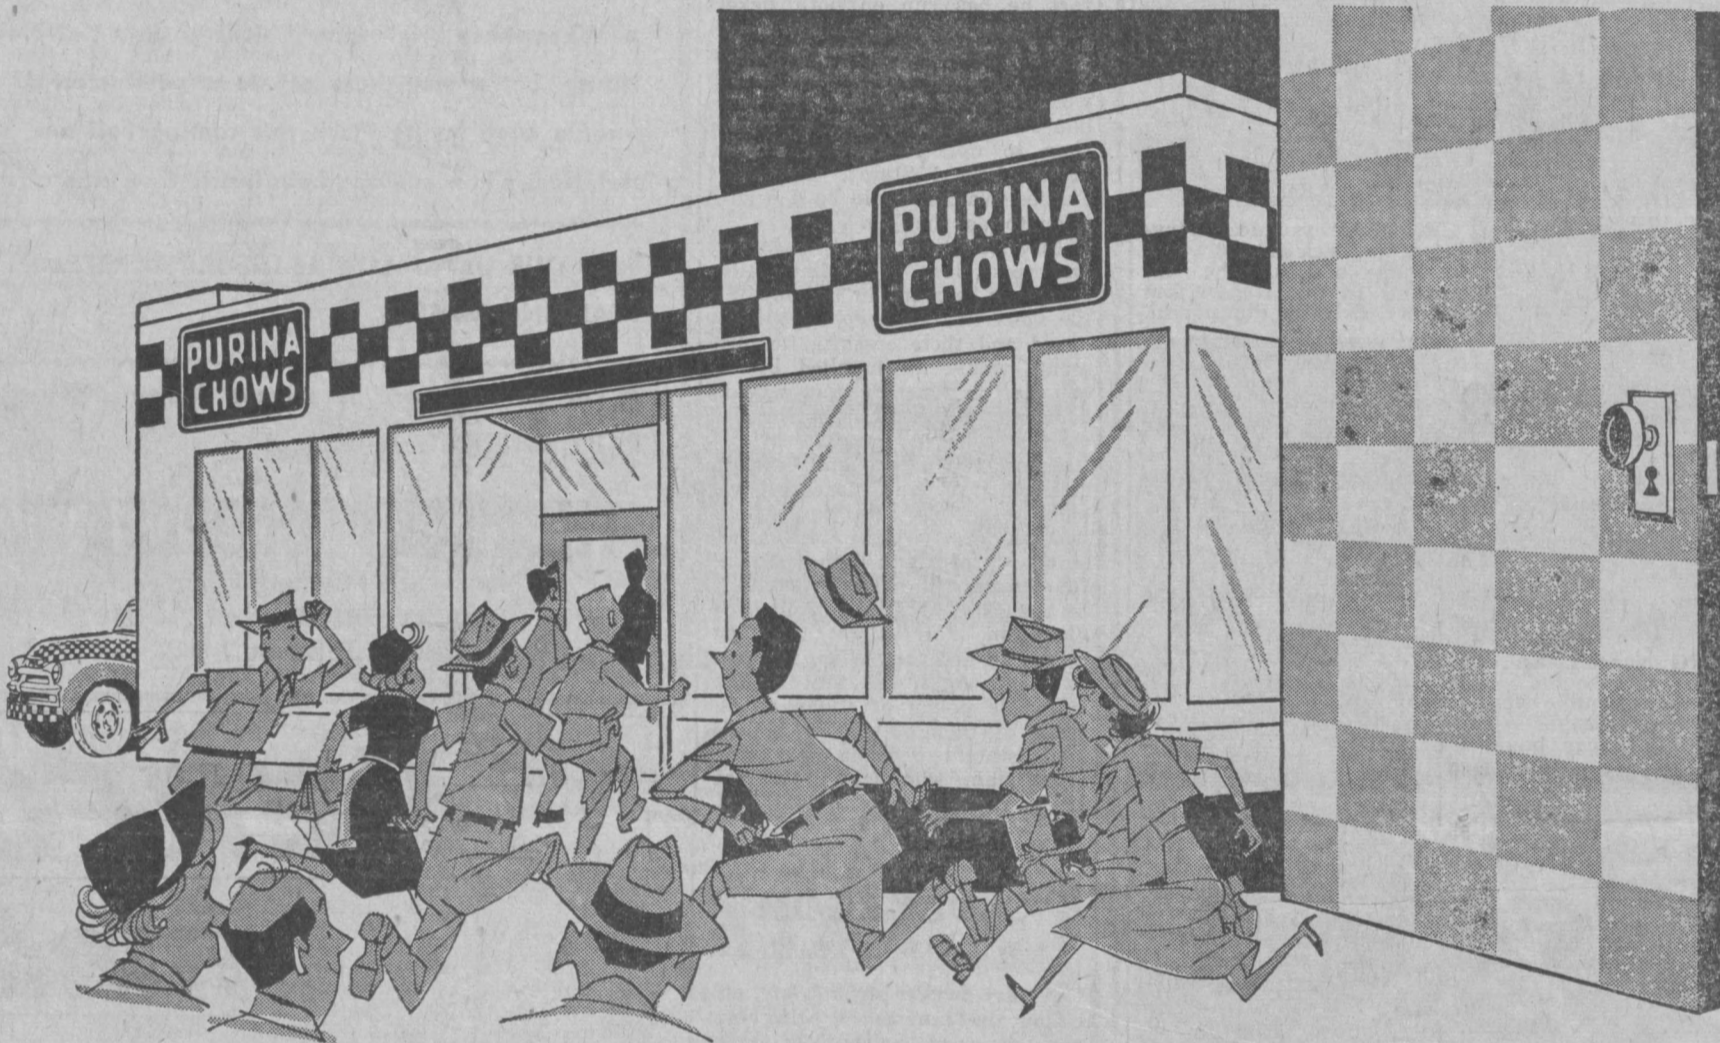

4. Smooth out sheet's edges. Now fit the second set of corners—one into the other.

5. Repeat the same action, turning left doubled corner inside out, and fitting over right doubled corner. All four corners are now nested neatly into one corner of four thicknesses.

6. Smooth all edges and place sheets on a flat surface. Flatten pocket corner. Now your sheet is ready to fold neatly into any desired size to fit in your linen closet. (ANS)

Back from Elsewhere To Chipping Campden

Having left Chipping Campden, as a subject for reporting, some time back after giving only a couple of introductory notes, I am now returning to it with some more specific details that will perhaps enable the reader who lingers there a while with me to feel something of the "charm of its own" that I found the old town to have as my acquaintance with it (its physical features and long and chequered history) gradually developed between the visits elsewhere that I have been describing. (These may have seemed to be taking all of my time, but did not; for distances between places anywhere in the Midlands, or England for that matter, are short, and the quiet evenings at the King's Arms following no strenuous sightseeing gave a comfortable opportunity—with electric heaters in the old fire-places—for catching up on historical background.)

The oldest historical record for Chipping Campden has already been mentioned as the original name itself, made from the Saxon words for valley and battle and recording the victory of the Saxons over the native Britons (689 A.D.) in the small valley between two hills a few miles from where the town presently grew up.

And the next record is also part of its name, the first part, which, as I've likewise noted, was added in the 12th century to show that by this time Campden had the privilege of having a market. By the 14th century it had become a very important market town, "the great emporium of the Cotswold wool," which importance continued thru the next century; and it is this fact which is reflected in some of the beautiful and historically interesting buildings that give the town real distinction.

Three of these buildings date (the first in part) from the 14th century, so are, on the average, some 600 years old. The first, finished in the following century, is the parish church of St. James but originally dedicated, as before the Reformation, "The Church of the Blessed Mary." With its great square tower topped with twelve slender pinnacles it stands imposingly at the north-east end of the town, "one of those splendid buildings of the later Middle Ages which owe their existence to the piety and munificence of the great wool merchants." (It seems in order to note here that at the opposite end of town there has stood since 1890, and so a very new building indeed, a fine Roman Catholic Church, which I admired at a distance and on closer view, of which one of the local guide-books says that "it truly preserves Campden architectural traditions . . . a lovely building of local stone in the fifteenth century style.") But to return to the 14th century, a second architectural treasure of that period is the home of William Grevel, the most outstanding of all of Campden's wool merchants, in fact described on a "memorial brass" in the parish church to which he was so large a contributor as "the flower of the wool merchants of all England." The Grevel House stands at the end of High Street (the main street) that is near the church and is still occupied (tho I must add that the present owner, one of the acquaintances which I made at the King's Arms, finds the interior renovating now necessary too much of a tax and is building a cottage, of course in approved Cotswold-Chipping Campden style on the edge of town.) I trust that the exterior beauty of the ancient house, with its gables and dormer windows and high chimneys, its deep arched doorway and unusual two-storied mullioned bow-window, may be long preserved. The last of these oldest buildings, across the High Street, is the picturesque Woolstaplers' Hall, where the merchants gathered to sample and bid for the Cotswold fleeces to be sent (in those days before fine wool-weaving was developed in England) across the water to Flemish weavers.

Farther down the street stands a noteworthy relic, in part, of the 15th century, but largely rebuilt two hundred years later by another outstanding benefactor of the town. This is the Grammar School, which won quite a high reputation thruout the country; now after three hundred and more years of continuous use the old building is serving as a library and living-quarters for the staff, and seat of the Campden School of arts and Crafts, while the school itself goes on in a fine new building on the north end of town. On down High Street, on both sides, stand other attractively old buildings of this or perhaps even earlier time (I have no certain dates for these), including a number of quaint looking hotels older than my own headquarters. But I must hurry on to the 17th century, in which period, after a sad decline in Chipping Campden's prosperity (into which I cannot here go except to say that it followed the break-up of the trade in raw wool), the town was given a great "lift" thru the many fine benefactions of a very wealthy gentleman from London, one Sir Baptist Hicks.

Two of the most charming structures in the town are, surprisingly perhaps, the Almshouse and the Market Hall, which Sir Baptist had built, besides making many gifts to the parish church and assisting in much other rebuilding or new building. The Almshouse stands just across from the church and is not suitably placed there: a solid row of eight attractive small stone cottages with two more across each end, making a building in the form of the letter "U" in honor of Sir Baptist's patron, James I ("J" was printed or cut as "I" in earlier times); and Sir Baptist provided for the perpetual care of this House and those who would occupy it by setting upon it a certain amount "forever." The Market Hall, not intended for a wool market (the day for that was over) but for general marketing, stands in the center of the town alongside what was from very early times the Market Square, where sheep has been a car park. The Hall itself has been long out of active use, but it stands as a beautiful memorial of busier days. As one writer says, "its ten semi-circular arches and lovely gables form the centerpiece of practically all the many photographs of Campden's noble main thoroughfare. That thoroughfare is so wide that down the center of it, there in the middle of the town, a so-called island has been built, an extra bit of street with buildings on it, also of the 17th century, one with its gables adorned with ornamental iron-work by a craftsman of that period. Of the one, with a garden, at the far end of the island, I would rather not think as I prepare to leave Chipping Campden, whose story from the viewpoint of modern progress has not advanced much (with a few notable exceptions) beyond the time of Sir Baptist Hicks; for this old place is for sale and from what I could see and hear is in such a sad state of disrepair that it would take another very wealthy man to save it. But perhaps he will come!

Goodbye, England
One brief paragraph must take me back to London, to two days of bus and railway trips to places in the city and outside of it where I had not been before, to two evenings at the theatre, which I had entirely missed before, and then to the boat for Southampton, where in the company of two tourists from Philadelphia and one from California the epilogue of reminiscence began which has been partly reproduced in these notes. To those who have followed them I offer a final quotation, this one from a nearby radio news reporter: "It's been nice talking to you." A.E.H. (Concluded)

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Jan. 26—Most people seem content to live from day to day frespective of their "pocket-books." Governmental "womb-to-tomb" social security has caused people to take lightly problems of unemployment and old-age security. Most young people give little or no sound thought to their financial futures. They, therefore, never get even the few dollars necessary to get themselves started on the road to successful investment. Surely, the birds who build their nests (homes) before they raise their young set us a good example.

Men and Money
My father used to tell me that a man who systematically spends less than he gets, automatically becomes an employer; while a man who spends all he earns, automatically remains a wage earner. Father insisted that the business of saving had nothing to do with how much money a person had, or the amount of his salary. "Some people with very large incomes never save anything," he used to say.

It has been my own observation that partners in business and partners in marriage tend to get along well as long as there is plenty of cash in the bank. It is when the bills come in, and there is no money with which to pay them, that trouble begins. The only way to assure financial or marriage success is to tell your dollar where to go instead of asking where it went.

Main Investment Problem: Saving

Your first step in an investment program is to save some of your income each week. The next step is to make your savings produce some more income. I am a firm believer, however, that it is cheaper to pay the grocer than the doctor; hence a budget should be drawn up which puts first things really first. Many of my clients tell me that they are handicapped by spending too much on rent, or its equivalent in taxes, repairs, insurance, etc., on property owned. The best thing that could happen in many households today would be to cut down household labor costs by getting the children to help more with household chores.

To start a budget, one ought to determine from experience and from old bank statements and cancelled checks what his probable expenses will be for the year ahead. My observations through the years are that a man with a family of four who has a net income of $4000 (after income and social security taxes) ought to hold his living expenses to about 75 per cent of the $4000. About 42 per cent of this would go for food and clothing; 33 per cent for housing and transportation. Right here I think many families, especially in the lower-income brackets, will find that they are paying altogether too much for their transportation in the form of a new automobile which they cannot afford. If they want to get started on a sound investment program, they better pay more cash, and use less credit. Six per cent is budgeted for benevolence and the church; six per cent for personal and miscellaneous items. This leaves about 13 per cent, or $545, for insurance, savings accounts and investments. Let us hope that $220 of this will go for life insurance premiums. This would leave $325 a year to save and invest otherwise.
Plan for Saving and Investing
A study of the average man's financial independence is generally shocking to most people. About 30 per cent of the men 55 years of age are not self-supporting. The real tragedy of this situation, as I have seen it, is that the average man made enough money between the ages of 30 and 50 to keep himself and his family in comparative ease for the rest of his life. He just never got around to a definite plan of saving and investing. Does it not seem senseless for you to work hard the best part of your life to get a few dollars if those dollars earn nothing for you after you get them? It is highly important to learn early in life how to budget, save, and invest.

Important capital is created only by labor and saving; those who consume less than they produce turn their surplus back into productive channels to increase the nation's store. Investments, plus bank deposits, are the way in which capital is increased. Increased capital means increased production. Greater production means more wealth. More wealth means more to be distributed among those who take part in production. Greater production means more consumable goods and services at lower prices for all of us. This is the democratic way of raising our standard of living.

Gettysburg Sale Days, sponsored by the Retail Merchants Assn., will be held Friday and Saturday, Jan. 27 and 28.

This weekend more than $500 in merchandise certificates will be awarded by the participating merchants. These will be given through each individual store. The grand prize has been eliminated this year, the merchants preferring to expand their store awards.

Customers are reminded by the association to be sure and receive a ticket when they make a purchase which entitles them to a chance on the merchandise certificates.

"I am sure we are going to have more exceptional bargains this weekend than at any previous sale days event," one officer of the merchants association said early in the week.

"I have talked with 20 some merchants and they said they are prepared to go 'all out' to offer unusual bargains, quality merchandise and to sacrifice price to give their customers the best possible offerings," he added.

Stores will be open Friday and Saturday evenings.

Stull, a gunner in the battalion, entered the Army in Nov. of 1954 and received his basic training at Fort Bliss, Tex.

Mounties Lose First Conference Game

Mt. St. Mary's College cagers last Saturday night lost their first Mason-Dixon Conference game 73-67 to Loyola College before 2000 fans at Memorial gymnasium. The defeat knocked the champs out of first place in the conference race.

During the last half the lead changed hands 14 times and was tied on seven occasions before Loyola spurred in the closing minutes to ice the decision.

The crippled Mount outfit lost four players in the foul-infested game, Bill Williams, Bill Stanley, Frank Smith and Jerry Bohlinger. In addition, Coach Jim Phelan was without Eddie Bals, star guard, who is nursing a leg injury, and Tito Nanni, 6-4 forward, who was forced out of action a week ago due to an eye injury. The visiting Greyhounds lost Allenbaugh via fouls.

It looked as though the Mountaineers were going to make a shambles of the game when they rushed off to a 10-1 lead in the first five minutes of play. Loyola finally landed its first goal after 6:30 minutes and started to come on to tie the score at 21-21 after 12:30. They Greyhounds continued to take a 35-32 lead at halftime.

Pistorio was awarded the Cogan Memorial Trophy by the Monogram Club of Mt. St. Mary's which presents the award annually for the outstanding player of the game in memory of the Rev. Fr. John F. Cogan, a former director of athletics. Pistorio accounted for 19 points to top his team.

Jack Sullivan led all scorers with 24 points on six goals and a dozen fouls.

The Mounties, 5-1 in league competition, will be idle because of midyear exams until Feb. 4

Increase In Gasoline Tax Is Opposed

The proposal to increase the state gasoline tax and turn the proceeds over to the Maryland Port Authority was branded as "downright discriminatory," last week by Charles T. Gladstone, secretary of the Retail Gasoline Dealers Assn. of Maryland.

Stressing that service station operators did not oppose the creation of a state Port Authority, Mr. Gladstone centered his fire on the use of gasoline tax revenues as a source of financing.

"The gas tax is a road tax, paid by a special group for a special purpose — better highways," he said. "This proposal, if adopted, would scuttle our 12-year highway program by undermining the very tax source on which it is based."

The gasoline dealers' spokesman also noted that the total gasoline tax rate here has been boosted three times since 1947 and that another increase in the Federal tax is being considered by Congress to finance the proposed national highway program.

"Retailers are beginning to wonder how many tax boosts their customers can take," he said. "Gasoline is already taxed at close to 40 per cent, compared to two per cent on other commodities and only 10 per cent on luxuries like diamond rings and mink coats. It seems to us we are fast approaching the danger mark—if indeed we have not already passed it."

"Maryland dealers are especially concerned," he went on, "because our state would be a high-tax island completely surrounded by states with lower rates. This is bound to mean lost business, not only for us, but for other small businessmen like theater owners, furniture and appliance dealers, restaurant operators and the like."

He said service station operators throughout the state are protesting the proposed tax increase and are urging their motorist customers to do the same.
