Emmitsburg's plans for the coming Bi-centennial were making satisfactory progress it was announced at a meeting of the committees in charge, held Sunday afternoon in the American Legion home, Mrs. Robert Daugherty, general chairman, presiding over the 20 members present.

It is believed that a corps of writers has agreed to write the pageant for the gigantic affair which will be held next year.

The previously set date which would have run the week-long celebration into the July 4 week, has been changed, due to conflicts with dates of affairs of neighboring fire companies, so a new date, June 22-28, has been substituted.

The committee agreed that in order to obtain better cooperation among the various supplementing committees, that a printed list of the committeemen, their names and duties, should be prepared and distributed.

It is planned to hold a poster contest in all local schools and colleges and to take the winning drawing and use it as the advertising insignia of the occasion. The contest will get under way immediately after a meeting of this particular meeting to be held this Sunday, and $40 will be distributed among three winners. First prize will be $25; second $15 and third, $5. The contest will terminate before the end of the school year in June. The winning drawing will be used in advertising and a special cachet bearing this emblem will be placed on sale during the celebration.

The parade committee is composed of members of the VFW, American Legion and Vigilant Hose Co. Philip B. Sharpe heads the poster and cachet committee and Arthur Elder is chairman of the publicity and advertising committee, assisted by William Ryder and Wales Light-nour. Committees have been appointed in charge of the fashion show. Richard Florence was nominated as chairman of the Queen committee and will be assisted by Mary Fiery, Dianne Shuff, Mrs. Guy A. Baker, Jr., and William Topper.

A benefit basketball game will be held March 15 in Memorial Gym, Mt. St. Mary's College, to raise money to cover initial expenses incurred in getting the Bi-centennial under way. CHEAPER BY THE MILE!

In the back of everyone's mind there is the desire to visit some special place of interest. And while the place varies with the individual, there is one thing all travelers have in common today—the modern automobile, with the freedom of movement it provides.

Still another factor makes traveling by car enticing. A study of American Automobile Assn. figures on the cost of car operation shows that the more an auto is driven the cheaper it gets by the mile! The reason for this is that certain costs of auto operation, such as depreciation, insurance and license fees, remain virtually the same if a car is driven one mile or thousands of miles. These fees account for nearly 50% of the price of operating a car.

AAA figures reveal the cost per mile of operation of an auto for each person in a family of three is 5.2 cents if the car is driven 5,000 miles a year. But if the car mileage is increased to 15,000 miles a year, the cost per mile for each member of the family is more than cut in half—to 2.5 cents a mile. So here is another good reason for taking that trip to that special place of interest.

FOGGING THE ISSUE

The Saturday Evening Post, speaking editorially, has something important to say about the public-power issue: "Electric power is one of very few items in the cost-of-living index which have remained steady, and in some places even declined, in an era of explosive inflation. Nevertheless the private power industry has been the target of continuous virulent assault.

"Why? Couldn't the answer be that the power business is more easily socialized than most other types of industry? That, at any rate, is the view of Kinsey M. Robinson, president of Washington Water Power. Mr. Robinson also believes that 'the American people anywhere will vote in favor of free enterprise if they are given the opportunity to do so.'

"Unfortunately they seldom have this opportunity ... The issue is usually fogged with irrelevancies and alleged scandals designed to divert attention from the central issue ... socialism or free enterprise."

Elsewhere in the same editorial the Post notes the nationally-publicized election in a Washington state county where the voters dealt with the issue in clear-cut form—to take power either from a taxpaying utility company, or from a publicly-owned body. The region was supposed to be rampant with public-power sentiment. Yet the vote went in favor of private enterprise by about a 7-to-3 margin. All minority groups (no matter how small the minority) claim to 'speak for the public at large. That certainly seems true of the public-power zealots.

Although the modern girl's hair worry her much. Being a modern girl, she doesn't know what a mop looks like.

A GREAT ESSAY CONTEST

More than 300,000 boys and girls in New York City's junior high and senior high schools have just participated in a wonderful experience. Given the incentive of 150 handsome awards, they have dug into the history of our nation and into the substance of our unique economic system and have written essays on the subject: "How Free Enterprise Has Helped to Make America Great." Since it attracted such widespread interest in the New York schools and is so valuable to our nation's intellectual strength, the project should be an inspiration to every community in the nation.

It was sponsored by the New York Chamber of Commerce Education Foundation, Inc. The awards were financed by a fund set up by the late A. Barton Hepburn, businessman-banker-philanthropist. The Hepburn awards competition has been held annually since 1920, but never has its essay subject been more timely or more beneficial. Any project which stimulates American high school students to seek a better understanding of our American system, its comparative advantages, and how those advantages are made possible, is of great value today.

Knowledge Is Strength Unless the younger generation does understand our system clearly and appreciates the principles upon which it is founded, its members cannot recognize and intelligently dispose of the propaganda of the Socialists and Communists which is, indeed, designed especially to undermine our children's faith in the basic principles of our way of life.

With adequate understanding of its basic elements, and of its great comparative advantages, the youth of America are not likely to fall for the Left Wing propaganda. This is the positive antidote to Socialism and Communism. With the Hepburn awards, the New York Chamber has provided an incentive for the achievement of this needed understanding. The prize winning essays indicate that children, once they are drawn into a study of it, find the American system exciting, its history romantic, and its future challenging to the imagination. And in the process of being inspired with learning they become better citizens.

Spark of Progress "At the present time," writes Maureen O'Sullivan, one of the prize winners, "the United States is the most highly-industrialized, richest nation in the world. She has not attained this goal through the efforts of men paid and commissioned by her government. Rather, it has been the spontaneous genius of inventors and the hard-earned capital of those, who aiming to benefit themselves, ultimately aided their country. The labor of men like Ford, Firestone, Woolworth, and Carnegie has made our nation the bulwark it now is. These men were first free enterprisers. Their ambitions, coupled with the opportunity to pursue them, spurred them on to leave such a heritage to us."

The stimulation and the lessons learned by the more than 300,000 children who wrote essays are not the whole value. They were some faulty thinking expressed by some of the youngsters. I hope the New York Chamber's Educational Foundation will make a careful study of all the 300,000 essays, and classify those where faulty thinking or unsound convictions are expressed. Then they could actually contact the teachers and parents of these youngsters so that additional educational facts could be made available and the faults remedied.

The Good Story In one of the essays a high school student writes: "Without our Constitution to insure us protection against a rule of tyranny would we be the strong nation that we are? I do not know." This child should be given the opportunity of finding that the answer is, "No—without our Constitution we would not be the strong nation that we are." Here is another bit of thinking that needs at-ention: "It would be presumptuous for me to try to determine exactly what has made America great." Indeed, it would not!

That's precisely what every school child should determine. They cannot help preserve it unless they know what it is that has made America great. On the whole, the essays and excerpts which have been printed by the Chamber in a brochure, are wonderful. A more expressive appreciation of our American system probably has never been written than that of Nora Costello, age 13: "When the stork picked you up, slung you comfortably from his bill and began winging earthward with you, the chances were 15 to one against you. You hit the jack pot." (Ratio of world population to U. S. population: 15 to one).

schools. Prospective students are urged to write or telephone for the Franklin Square Hospital School of Nursing brochure which gives complete data on requirements, curriculum and residence. Requests should be addressed to: Director of Nurses, Franklin Square Hospital School of Nursing, Baltimore 23, Maryland. The telephone is Gilmor 5-6370.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, MaSS., Mar. 1—I now see no way to cut costs of operating Primary or Grammar Schools. I believe, however, that High Schools and Colleges will become more efficiently and economically operated. The self-service supermarket will show the way.

Do-It-Yourself Movement
Some educational experts are urging cities and towns to spend less on buildings, libraries, and equipment and devote more of the total allotment to teachers' salaries. This may be good politics, but it is not in the students' interest. I favor building better schools with better libraries and equipment, but having fewer teachers. Then pay better salaries to these fewer teachers.

The most vital field for a "Do-It-Yourself" campaign is that of education. A parent can buy a set of encyclopedias for $100 which contain more information than is contained in the heads of all the teachers in your community. Moreover, the training and discipline of self-education is even more valuable than all the facts that can be learned. Hence, I forecast that the next great movement in education for those above 13 years of age will be teaching students to learn without teachers. I wish that some city would put the managers of its self-service supermarkets on their school boards.

What Does Your School Board Know?
To begin with, you probably don't know who are on your local school board. If not, send to your superintendent of schools and ask for a list of the members and the business in which each is engaged and the number of children which each has in the schools. You may be surprised to find how poorly chosen these men and women are for this work.

In too many cities, school board members are interested in getting income for themselves or friends as doctors, builders, insurance agents, bank officials, storekeepers, etc. These school committee members naturally take the advice of the superintendent of schools who is an honest man but is guided by the colleges which determine what shall be taught and how. The superintendents and school principals are too often judged by the number of students they pass along to the colleges, and promoted accordingly. They are fine men and women; they deserve much better pay, but they have very little freedom.

What Is Education?
I have just been reading reports of the recent Conference on Education held in Washington. The great demand there was for Federal aid without Federal interference. Very little discussion was devoted to what should be taught our children and how. No time was given to discussing lowering the cost or raising the efficiency of schools. The great need today is to tackle the educational problem as we have TB and polio and cancer.

I have in mind a family of four grown-up brothers all of whom attended the same schools and had the same teachers. Yet three of the men are today useful in their communities and hold good positions. One of the boys was a "delinquent" and is now a never-do-well supported by the first three. The question the mother asks is: Did the schools have any effect on the character or "life" of these boys?

Traveling to the Moon
The books-most popular with the youth of today are books on "space travel"—that is, going to other planets. It is said that Washington is having more inquiries about the earth "satellites" which are to be released than about any other subject. Why is it that young people are so much more interested in other worlds than in learning about their own world and how to live in it? Something is wrong somewhere. Education should teach how to live. It should help parents mold character.

Teachers should be spiritually minded in order to be efficient. Although they should be paid better salaries, yet this salary should not be based upon the degrees which they have received. Looking back over my school life, it was the teachers with the biggest hearts who won my interest and awakened a desire for knowledge and service.

To get back to my main appeal: One sure way to increase the efficiency and reduce the cost of our schools and truly help our children is to teach children where to find their own answers to questions and awaken in them a desire for more knowledge. We need teachers born with a love for children and trained as helpful librarians.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

Prison officials in more than a third of the states—from Alabama to North Dakota and from Maine to Oregon—have reported to me that they are actively backing my bill to provide surplus food products to penal institutions.

In the office of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee, where the measure will be studied, a staff member said approximately 25 telephone calls in support of the bill are being received each day.

An identical bill has been started through the House of Representatives by Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde of our Sixth District.

Atom-Ship Repairs
In view of those facts, I feel fairly optimistic about the chances of the measure for final approval. I hope that I will soon be able to feel just as pleased over the status of other issues of interest to our State.

One item, for instance, is a joint resolution I recently introduced calling for a survey to determine which ports will be able to handle repair work for atom-powered ships.

Baltimore shipyards have always been leaders in the maritime repair business, and I feel confident that they will be able to offer all the special services which will be needed to keep afloat our nuclear fleet of the future.

Against 90 Per Cent Parity
Another project which I think is exceptionally meritorious is the survey being made to see what can be done to head off hurricane damages.

After conferring at length on the matter with Rep. Edward T. Miller, we decided that a partial answer to the problem insofar as boat owners are concerned might be to provide refuge harbors along shore areas such as the ones which border the Chesapeake Bay. We have presented our plan to the Army engineers for consideration.

I am also continuing special work on several other projects—to have Friendship International Airport used as a secondary field for Washington! to secure a suitable site for the new Naval Academy airport, and to obtain passage of an agriculture bill which will not clamp an undesirable "90 per cent parity system onto our nation.

Our farmers want to operate as freely as possible without interference or restrictions by the government, and I intend to keep working for that kind of a system.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION

WOODCOCK

(Philohela minor)

RANGE: Breeds from Nebraska, Minnesota, Ontario, New York, New Brunswick, south through Maryland to Florida and Texas; a well known game bird throughout Maryland in spring, summer and fall. Not as plentiful in Maryland as formerly.

DESCRIPTION: Length about 11 inches; weight 5 to 8 ounces, females larger than males. Long bill; whistling wings; color mostly buff, some black "protective coloring."

BREEDING: Breeds in Maryland; male courts female by "a sky dance," which starts on ground and spirals up for several hundred feet. Nest on ground; lays 3 or 4 greenish-brown eggs; both sexes incubate, eggs hatching in about 20 to 21 days.

HABITS: Nocturnal; tends to migrate in small numbers, erratic in flight, making it difficult for hunter to hit. Feeds mostly on earthworms, obtained by thrusting bill into soft earth; tip flexible and bird can grasp worm underground therewith; borings frequently reveal presence of these "upland shorebirds."

MANAGEMENT: Its migratory and nocturnal habits make it difficult to learn much about this valuable game bird; civilization and encroachment by drainage and settlement has destroyed much of its breeding grounds; intensive hunting also has reduced its numbers. Management, therefore, is reduced mostly to legal protection. VALUE: A superior game bird and excellent as food.

Madonna and Child -20th Century Style

"MOTHER AND CHILD"—by Doris Pinney of New York, N. Y., prize winner in the 1955 Graflex Photo Contest. Made with a Super D on Ansco film.

According to T. T. Holden, photo director of Graflex, Inc., Rochester, N. Y., this type of photograph is not hard to take and it will capture the hearts of all who view it. "Mother and Child" was taken by Doris Pinney of New York and won a prize in the Professional class of the 1955 Graflex Photo Contest. The picture was shot with a Graflex Super D on Ansco film.

The biggest problem in taking pictures of people is to get relaxed poses. Most people, get self-conscious, look stiff and unnatural in front of a camera.

Here's a trick to get around the problem. Instead of posing just one person for a portrait, pose two. In this way the subject's attention will be shifted from the camera to his fellow subject. "Mother and Child" is an example of this.

When posing two people, bear these points in mind: always make sure you have satisfactory lighting—don't leave one face brightly lit and the other in shadow; avoid creating two centers of attention—make sure both subjects are looking at the same thing or at each other.

Two Will Teach In Carroll County

contracts to teach in Carroll County for the coming year.

Miss Freshman is taking courses which will lead to a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in social studies. Miss Pastorett is studying for a Bachelor Arts degree with a major in biology.

Both are students of the education department of St. Joseph College.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Do-It-Whose-Self?

Monk McCarthy's almost as good at publicity stunts as he is at servicing and repairing cars—which is pretty darned good.

His latest gimmick is a handbill titled: "Do-IT-YOURSELVES! Why Not Grease Your Own Car?"

Then he follows with two paragraphs about all the greases you'll need—the full set of wrenches, spray gun, grease gun, four jacks—the ability to work flat on your back with a face full of goo. And at the very end there's this line: "Or, if that's too much trouble, we'll do the job for 75¢."

From where I sit, I'll have to admit Monk's schemes attract attention. They often seem far-fetched to me, but he and I always had different opinions on how to run a business—just as we have different opinions about what's the best beverage. He likes hot tea—I prefer a glass of beer—which doesn't keep us from having a "smooth-running" friendship.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29—The House of Representatives, in passing the Interior Appropriation measure, approved items beneficial to the residents of the 6th Maryland District. The House has made available $287,000 for the acquisition of parklands in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties and provided $200,000 to complete the regional mass transportation survey of Metropolitan Washington begun last year. The Bureau of Mines was given funds to continue its coal research program.

The Comptroller General has ruled that it was clearly the intent of Congress for the fishway in the Little Falls dam to be built. I have asked the Corps of Engineers to reconsider their objections and approve construction of the fishway. Funds are available.

EARL BOWERS, Auctioneer — Carl Haines, Clerk

Recently I appeared before the House Subcommittee on Military Operations in a plea for greater support of civil defense activities. I continue to be appalled at the apathy of the Congress and the public to the need of civil defense. I urged greater use of interstate mutual aid defense pacts, perhaps patterned on the Joint Resolution I sponsored in the 83rd Congress granting such authority to the District of Columbia.

The problems of a highway from Hancock to Cumberland continue uppermost in my mind. I have again been in touch with the Secretary of the Interior on this important matter.

I have been in daily attendance at both the Senate and House Committee hearings on the mass transportation problem in Washington. I have also been in frequent consultation with District officials and residents of Washington and nearby Maryland over the various solutions proposed.

A study of the problem of farm surplus commodities disposal led me to introduce a bill authorizing the use of surplus foods in Federal, state and local, penal and correctional institutions.

Nurses Wanted

The Frederick Memorial Hospital School of Nursing is now receiving applications for its class in nursing education which will open next fall, according to an announcement by Miss Estelle Collins, director.

Candidates must be high school graduates between the age of 17 and 30 years. The necessary application forms may be obtained by writing the Frederick Memorial Hospital School of Nursing.

A capping service will be held Friday, March 2, at 8 p. m. in Calvary Methodist Church, Frederick, for those nurses who entered the school last September and are now finishing their pre-clinical course.

The public is urged to attend this service and share in the sense of achievement and dedication to a future of service which it marks. Rev. E. William Hall, pastor of Calvary Church, will deliver a short address.

During her first term the pre-clinical student learns the preliminary fundamentals of nursing and spends only a token amount of time on floor duty within the hospital. When she has passed these she is capped and becomes a professional student in the school, with gradually less class work and more time assigned to duty in the hospital.

An eight-hour day and 40-hour week are planned for all nurses, both student and graduate. Four weeks of vacation are given annually.

During their second or third year student nurses affiliate with out-of-town hospitals to gain experience in specialized fields. Affiliations are given at the Children's Hospital, Washington, D. C., and at the Sheppard and Enoch Pratt Hospital, Towson.

There are many fields of nursing open to the graduate registered nurse, among them anesthesia, administration, teaching, institutional, private duty, Army, Navy, Air Force and public health nursing.

Tax Refunds Swift

Federal Income Tax Refunds Hit 11 Million

Early filers of income tax returns for 1955 have already received over $11,000,000 in refunds, C. I. Fox, District Director of Internal Revenue for the Baltimore District, said today.

These refunds have reached more than 125,000 income taxpayers of the 450,000 who have filed returns since the first of the year.

Other taxpayers will be eligible for refunds by the time all proper returns have been filed by April 15th, the income tax deadline. As that date approaches, they will have to wait longer as the work of processing returns increases heavily.

The Baltimore District, which includes the District of Columbia, is still plagued with imperfect returns—those without signatures, those not forwarding all W-2 Withholding Statements, improper dependency claims, illegible handwriting, and a new wrinkle this year, claiming Maryland withholding tax as a credit on their Federal Income tax return.

In addition, taxpayers are sending in the instruction sheet instead of the card form 1040-A as a tax return. The 1040-A is the simplest form to make out, but many errors are being encountered on them during processing, especially where taxpayers are taking credit on 1040-A form for overpayment of social security and sick benefit credits. These credits cannot be taken on 1040-A forms. If you have such a condition, you are required to use form 1040. Naturally, Mr. Fox says, these errors will delay refunds as the returns must be returned to the taxpayer for correction. Already we have over 10,000 imperfect returns, and we are just about one-fourth through the filing period.

In conclusion, Mr. Fox asks the cooperation of the taxpayer by double checking their returns before mailing, to avoid costly errors.

HERE'S HOW . . .

ENAMEL UNFINISHED FURNITURE

The home craftsman can apply a professional looking finish to unpainted furniture. Tools and materials needed are a putty knife, wood filler or wood putty, No. 0, 2/0, and 4/0 sandpaper, steel wool, a 1-inch and a 3-inch good quality paint brush, rags, turpentine undercoater, and enamel. Be sure that paint for children's furniture does not contain toxic materials.

1. Fill nail holes and cracks with filler or putty. Raise dents with a hot iron over a wet blotter.

2. When the furniture and filler are dry, sand with coarse, medium, and then fine sandpaper. Use steel wool on corners. Remove all sand and dust with a rag.

3. Apply finish in a dust-free room of average humidity and temperature about 70 degrees.

4. First apply shellac or varnish-type sealer to the surface of the wood. When the sealer is dry, sand with fine sandpaper, dust surface, and apply enamel undercoater. Both undercoater and enamel should be thoroughly mixed by pouring off most of the thin liquid, mixing the sediment with the remaining liquid, and then pouring back the thin liquid and stirring slowly. Allow the undercoater to dry at least 24 hours, sand lightly with fine sandpaper, and remove the dust with rags dampened in turpentine.

5. Apply enamel on small and hard-to-reach surfaces, first with the small brush; then use the larger brush on large surfaces. Work from the middle toward the edges. "Flow" the enamel on and avoid brushing as much as possible. Do not let enamel run or accumulate at edges.

If care is taken, a fine finish should result.

OBJECT LESSON. Each of us has at some time or another had an object lesson which has meant much. Psychologically speaking, a person can learn from experience, and true, it is a dear teacher. Many of us learn the hard way and refuse to be bitten twice, but some of us occasionally are gluttons for punishment and stick out our heads time and time again. We have faith in some and trust them with a feeling that surely everyone can't be heels. Then the time comes for us to awaken and we find ourselves behind the eight ball.

CONSIDERATION. First when we take into consideration the facts which are the basic cause of our failures, we must accept the circumstances and weigh in the balance the facts involving each incident or problem. We can't always lay our disappointment in others as a direct reflection on their integrity or their honesty. It is said that "hell is full of good intentions," and as the case may be, no one intentionally goes there. The fact remains that some are pushed there by the more unscrupulous who would destroy the decency of a man's characteristics. A thief is not always born, but sometimes made by others when they interpose upon him situations which are undeniably detrimental to his well-being. Often a man fights back in resentment and makes mistakes by assuming an obstinate disposition or facts his resentment by trying to get even with the other person. Yet the same person in his heart would be a friend if treated properly by another.

PSYCHOLOGICALLY. A peculiar situation arises which can be termed as purely psychological and coincidental. The best of friends have been made through trivial incidents and enemies have been created likewise.

Taking the most common of all psychological differences, that of an automobile accident, we find a common fault among motorists. First, it is an instinct of most people to feel superior when commanding the driving wheel of a car and they feel in the motivation of the vehicle, they also possess the strange feeling of superiority and power. In consequence they accept their position as master of their conveyance and their control of the road as they see fit. They resent being pushed over and also exercise their right of way with determination and defiance of another's minor breach of driving regulation. If hit slightly, or any imposition arises, an immediate resentment results and an attitude of defiance is obvious. An argument never fails as a general rule when another has been hit by a car. The first thing he does is to get out and start bawling the other fellow out and demanding his rights for reimbursement for any damages. In some cases good friends have become bad enemies. It is the easiest way to lose a friend known to human existence. The laws of self preservation are then manifested by its highest exhibitor of temperament.

CHANCE. Strangers colliding with cars have been known to assault one another and some have been killed over accidents occurring. Heated arguments have been obviously furious enough to cause interference of others and some people have become enemies that could have, under other conditions, been the very best of friends. It was by chance they met under these circumstances. Yet one of them may have been a salesman and the other a buyer of the same products in a big business way. Again, one may have been a religious person losing his temper and when off guard lost his poise and true feelings. He may have bawled out another good man who might have been an excellent neighbor, but because of the accident, when he discovered he was the new tenant next door, they would never speak. Such is life and the expectancy of it being improved can be determined only by sane reasoning and consideration, not by accepting chance, accidents or coincidence as the measuring stick for one's decisive reactions and opinions of each other.

slackening and tightening it in a series of very fast jerks. Tap the bottom of the boat hard; the vibrations may stir him up.

When you see a big fish heading into brush and you fear your line isn't strong enough to stop him, use the last desperate resort — give him the butt. This means pointing the tip straight at him, giving him the butt to pull against. Jam your thumb hard against the spool of a casting reel, or stop your fly or spinning reel with a finger. Try to snub him short; that's all there is to "giving the fish the butt."

Your Personal Health

The famous lines of Gelett Burgess about the purple cow might well be changed to read: "I've often seen a pampered cow."

I'd really like to be one." The luxurious living conditions of many of our bovine acquaintances are rather tempting. The barn is clean and comfortable. Each piece of equipment has a sanitary gleam. Music is piped in to keep the ladies contented. Some even revel in air conditioning. Every precaution is taken to protect the health and happiness of these queens of the animal kingdom.

Sometimes it seems that we're more concerned about the well-being of our cows than of our people. Of course, much of this concern for the cow is for the protection of the people. For example, the farmer has his cows tested for tuberculosis at regular intervals. This is an important public health measure which, together with the pasteurization of milk, has already almost eliminated bovine, milk-borne TB, in this country.

But does the farmer take equal pains to have his children tested for tuberculosis? Air-borne TB, which is passed from one human being to another, is far from being eliminated in this country. New cases develop at the rate of about 80,000 a year.

A simple test can be made to find out if a person is infected with the germs that cause TB. Many communities have already put into effect regular tuberculin testing programs in their schools. A child who has a positive reaction to the test does not necessarily have the disease, but he obviously has been in contact with tuberculosis. His contacts can be investigated, and frequently a previously unknown active case of the disease is found. The infected child may never develop the disease, but both family and community are alerted to the possibility. The family doctor will recommend whatever measures he thinks necessary to protect the child's health.

We can give our children the same protection against TB that we give our cows.

Easter Seals Benefit State Handicapped

New timing for the 1956 Easter Seal campaign in behalf of crippled children was announced this week by Malcolm Hecht of the Maryland Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the Easter Seal Society. Mr. Hecht said that the annual appeal which marks 35 years of service will be conducted Mar. 10 to April 10—extending nine days after Easter to avoid conflict with other fund-raising campaigns also scheduled at that time.

Previous Easter Seal appeals closed on Easter Sunday, opening a month before that date.

The year's colorful messenger for crippled children will reach more than 400,000 families in the Maryland area when mailing begins Mar. 7, Mr. Hecht said.

The 1956 Easter Seal is bright blue and red. A white lily, symbol of the Easter Seal Society, and a crippled child, make up the highly stylized modern design for the Seal with the words "Easter Seals Help Crippled Children."

Contributions to the campaign will be used in Maryland to support treatment centers, workshops, itinerant therapists, loan closets, clinics and the buying of aid and appliances. Over 90 per cent of the funds remain in the state for direct service, the remaining supporting a nationwide program of education and direct services and a research program conducted by the Easter Seal Research Foundation.

On Dean's List

Bridgewater, Va. — Mr. Euclid Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvin P. Jones, of Emmitsburg, Md., was named to the Dean's list at Bridgewater College at the end of the first semester of the present academic year, the Registrar's office disclosed today.

To qualify for the Dean's list at Bridgewater, a student must make no grade lower than "B" on any of his courses, and he must carry at least twelve semester hours of work. Only ten per cent of Bridgewater's 479 students made the Dean's list the 1st semester.

INCOME TAX FACTS No. 6 Deductions Reduce Your Income Tax

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Maryland Society of Certified Public Accountants.)

"Deduction" is the taxpayer's favorite word. Every dollar you can deduct in figuring your tax puts twenty cents to ninety-one cents in your pocket, depending upon the tax bracket you're in.

Medical deductions were discussed in a previous article. Here are some of the other deductions you may be able to take if you itemize them instead of using the short 1040A form or the standard 10% deduction:

Contributions You can deduct your contributions to religious, charitable, scientific, literary and educational organizations, and to non-profit cemeteries.

Include contributions of goods at their fair value, as well as cash, but not your personal services (blood donations are regarded as a personal service and not deductible).

If you contribute stocks, real estate or other property, you can deduct their value at the time of the gift, even if it is considerably more than the original cost to you. You are ordinarily not permitted to deduct a contribution which you have only pledged and not paid during the tax year.

You can deduct up to 20% of your income for any eligible charitable contributions, and up to 30% if at least 10% was in gifts to religious organizations, schools or hospitals.

Interest and Taxes Interest you pay on personal loans and other indebtedness is deductible.

If there is a mortgage on your home, be sure to find out what part of your payments is interest and deduct it on your tax return. The same applies to automobile financing and installment purchases.

If some of your credit buying involves "carrying charges" instead of specified interest, you are allowed to deduct such charges up to 6% of the average monthly unpaid balance if they are listed separately in your contract or bills.

Most taxes you paid for yourself or a member of your household, except federal taxes, are deductible. However taxes are not deductible when included in the price and not separately charged to the customer.

"Baby-sitter" Deduction

If you pay someone to care for your child under 12 because that was necessary while you were at work, you may be entitled to a "child care" deduction of as much as $600. This deduction also applies to the care of any dependent who was mentally or physically incapacitated. Check the instructions to see whether you qualify.

Storms, Floods, Fires

Don't overlook deductions for losses due to storms, fires, floods, theft, and accidents not due to your own negligence. The way to figure such losses is explained in the instructions. Any insurance or other compensation you may have received for the damage must be subtracted from the amount of loss.

Miscellaneous deductions to which you may be entitled include union dues, purchase of necessary tools of your trade, fees to employment agencies, expenses you incurred for the benefit of your employer, and some alimony payments. The instructions that come with your tax forms give further information. Help is also available from the Internal Revenue Service, which urges you to consult a properly qualified advisor if you need outside assistance.

SPORTS AFIELD By Ted Kesting

"He smashed my rod!" He broke my line!" How often have you heard fishermen utter this with a groan. The fact is, a fish has never yet broken a rod. A fish can't break a rod. Nor can he break a line unless it's all run off to the spool. It's the twoglegged critter at the other end that does it.

Jason Lucas, angling editor of Sports Afield magazine, proves this by an elementary law of physics: action and reaction are always equal. Therefore, a fish can't put one ounce more strain on his end than you put on yours; so if you keep the pressure below breaking strain of rod and line, it's completely impossible for either to break.

Probably 90 per cent of the rods broken in playing fish are smashed when the fish is close to the boat, or right up to an angler who is wading. The rod is straight up, or even pointing somewhat back. The fish pulls down parallel to the butt. So the tip is doubled back on itself and broken.

A swift surge down and under calls for quick wits and action. If an untired fish comes up to your boat, don't try to land him. Give him practically slack line, and hope he gets away from there soon. And be ready for that sudden surge under; sometimes it will be so fast that it's best to swivel your wrist around quickly, bringing the rod tip straight down into the water. When he's out then you have the advantage and you can pass your line around under one end of the boat, and bring the rod up again.

Remember in playing very large fish never let one rest a moment if you can help it. If you do, you may be stuck there a long, long time.

Some fish, especially big musky, pike, and Atlantic salmon, have a trick of stopping on the bottom. Don't let him. Try tapping on the rod, or plucking the taut line like a banjo string; try

Assault Charges Bring Fines

Lee Mainer, Blue Ridge Summit, furnished $500 bail on two charges of assault and battery and $1000 bail on two charges by Pennsylvania state police involving juveniles at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder, Gettysburg, at 7 o'clock Monday evening.

Mainer was arrested Feb. 2 and furnished bail to appear at Monday's hearing. Paul S. Hoffman, Union Bridge, charged Mainer with aggravated assault and battery Jan. 28 at the residence of Mrs. Paul S. Hoffman, Zora, Liberty Twp., Pa. George Gingell, Fairfield Rt. 1, filed an assault and battery charge for his sister, Mrs. Mabert Hoffman, Fairfield Rt. 1, against Mainer "for deeds done on Jan. 27 and 28."

Pennsylvania state police charged Mainer with two counts, contributing to the delinquency of juveniles and corrupting the morals of juveniles. The date of the alleged offenses is given as July 8, 1955.

Testimony was given at the hearing Monday night on the two charges of assault and battery but the decision was reserved. Mainer furnished $500 bail until the date of the decision. He furnished $1000 bail to appear in April court on the two charges involving juveniles.

Church Group To Convene

An important Church School Workers' Conference will be held Monday at 8 o'clock in the social room of the Methodist Church in Thurmont. The conference will continue on March 12 and 19. Each session will commence with a 50-minute class period and after a recess of 10 minutes, a second class will conclude the meeting. A coffee period will be included each evening and Rev. Paul McCauley will be the instructor.

The first session will deal with the organization of the Methodist Church School and the scope of its program. The second will deal with recruiting leaders and the third will be devoted to literature.

Water Bonds Are Issued

The Town Commissioners of Thurmont Tuesday afternoon sold $87,000 in water system acquisition bonds to Alexander Brown and Sons, Baltimore, at par with an interest rate which will be 2.96 per cent.

The Brown firm bid two and three-quarter per cent interest on bonds maturing from 1958 through 1969 and three per cent on bonds maturing from 1970 through 1986.

The bid was the most acceptable of several received by the commissioners and a resolution was passed authorizing its approval. The total interest rate that the issue will bear is considered very good, said Town Attorney Thomas S. Glass. The commissioners, after awarding the contract, proceed with plans to consummate the sale of the Mechanicstown Water Co. to the town. It is hoped that the water company can become municipally-owned within the very near future. The money from the bonds will be used to purchase all of the common stock and the pay the indebtedness of the privately-owned water company. The bonds will be liquidated primarily with net receipts from water rents to be received by the town.

DEED RECORDED A deed was recorded in the office of clerk of the Circuit Court Tuesday conveying a parcel of land in Emmitsburg from Clarence G. and Estelle C. Fralley to Joseph N. and Mirian A. Welty. The consideration was given as $12,000, "and other considerations."

The property was described as lot 22 on the plot of "Shields Addition" with improvements, situated between the property of S. Marian Hoke, now the property of Robert C. Wormley, and the Bruce Patterson property.

Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. —(Romans 5, 1.) We have faith that the sun will rise tomorrow; that when we turn them on, the electric light, the TV and the radio will work... belief in the operation of powers we cannot see or comprehend. Why, then, does our faith in God often falter? Without it, we can have no peace.
