March is perhaps the most treacherous month of the year. It can either rain, snow, blow or freeze. Actually it is a combination of all the other months put together. It wasn't too much of a surprise then when over the weekend we awoke to see the earth and buildings mantled with a six-inch cloak of snow. We had had several real pretty days before Saturday and were anxiously looking towards spring which came on Tuesday, but you'd never know it by the looks of things early this week. The snow played havoc with the Sunday traffic here and several wrecks occurred. College students were granted a blanket absence permission as the snowfall was general throughout this area, as far up as Canada and many of the students found it impossible to return to schools on time as they were home for the weekend, due to the disruption of transportation. Their reprieve was short-lived though, as they discovered the time must be made up, probably at the end of the semester. Oh well, I feel that this wintry blast was the last fling of the dying winter and in no time at all we'll be enjoying the best season of all—spring!

Contrary to popular belief, Governor McKeldin vetoed the so-called beer bill which would have barred a large Canadian brewery from locating in this state. Some how or other the public sort of had the idea he wouldn't veto the measure which was railroaded through the State Legislature before most of us knew anything "was cooking." The bill possibly was the most-lobbied ever sent through the state halls of the Legislature. In my opinion I feel a full-scale investigation as to how the bill was lobbied should be made. I don't particularly like things of this sort. Not that I am opposed to the Governor's decision, but to the manner in which the bill was passed, and the parties interested in it.

In allowing the brewery to locate here the Governor probably had his eye on the large amount of tax money involved as the state is operating in the "red." An increased sales tax at this time, would be political suicide, not for the Governor himself because he is on his second term and cannot succeed himself again, but for the Republican party in Maryland in general. This increase in taxes, plus the recently granted 60 more days of racing, should take up some of the slack in our financial embarrassment. Let's hope so. Each of the three major running tracks in the state has been granted 20 additional days of racing and a large portion of the revenue taken in from this will go to the tax fund, alleviating some of the pressure on us taxpayers. It's beginning to look as though the fellow who gambles and drinks and operates a car is becoming our biggest taxpayer.

Frederick is planning a modernization move. The City Council has ordered several hundred new-type fluorescent lights to adorn the main street there. The effect will result in a new "Great White Way" and will do much to improve the physical appearance of our southern neighbor.

I do hope that most of the states and municipalities can get together on Daylight Time this year. Last year many of the towns and cities, some right next door to us, changed their minds at the last minute and extended the period of observance of fast time another month causing a great deal of confusion. And speaking of Daylight Time, it will be with us in another six weeks... following this our annual town election will be held. I can't help but wonder if our election procedure will be changed this time. Last year the appointment of a nominating committee was discussed but so far no action has been taken. If there is to be such a committee formed it will have to be done so at the next meeting of the Town Council on Monday, April 2, and that isn't too far away to start talking politics.

School Children Aid Orphans

Mr. John Phillipy, representing the Boonsboro Orphanage, congratulates Mr. C. J. Dornburg adviser of the ninth grade who donated ping-pong table to the institution. Principal Arvin P. Jones, center, and students of sections 1 and 2 who made the table are looking on.

The spirit of giving revealed itself with an unselfish thought as the students of Emmitsburg High School sacrificed their personal income to make possible a gift to the Boonsboro Orphanage.

Under the supervision of their teacher, Mr. C. J. Dornburg, the students of the ninth grade, sections 1 and 2, purchased the material and spent between six and eight hours in building a ping-pong table. They used the best material possible and did an excellent job in finishing, arranging and assembling the table. An expertly erected ping-pong table was the result. Proud of their work in designing and the carpentry, they informed the Boonsboro Orphanage for their gift. Mr. John Phillipy accepted the game table in behalf of the orphanage. Over 50 students participated in this noble gesture which symbolizes the good neighborliness of the local school and it proves our school children have the true spirit which underlies their basic characteristics in the fact that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." These children did a humanitarian act and are worthy of the gratitude of the community.

Polio Vaccine Recommendations Made

The Technical Advisory Committee of the Maryland State and Baltimore City Health Depts., considered this week the most effective way to use the polio-myelitis vaccine supply now available and currently anticipated in order to prevent paralytic polio-myelitis in the community this summer.

On the basis of the experience of the past year the committee recommends that at least one and preferably two doses be given not less than one month apart to as many children as possible in the eligible age groups, one year through 15 years of age.

During the period of continuing shortage to vaccine it is strongly recommended that the booster, or third inoculation be postponed until further notice.

Adequate supplies of vaccine are not expected before July.

Prominent Personalities

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

THOMAS C. HARBAUGH

For conscientious cooperation in civic leadership and as the Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, together with heart-felt interest in the ambulance service and other civic affairs, we happily bestow the Chronicle Award of Merit.

Commander Harbaugh was born in 1922 in Cascade, Md., and spent his early years of schooling there and was graduated from Smithsburg High School at Smithsburg, Md.

"Tip" as he is familiarly referred to by intimates, is the son of Mable and William E. Harbaugh, both of Cascade. He is extremely proud of the fact that his father has served the State of Maryland as an employee for 35 years.

The youthful Commander is married to an Emmitsburg girl, Verna Givens, and they have one son, Thomas Richard, aged 9. His family is devoted to civic affairs and love the community in which they reside. Mrs. Harbaugh finished school at Emmitsburg High. Son Tommy is now in the fourth grade at the local public school and is a member of the Little League baseball team. "Tip" is immensely concerned in youth and their proper training and advocates juvenile programs, in educational and athletic activities, toward lessening the juvenile delinquency problems.

An employee of the Federal Government, "Tip" presently is a security guard at Fort Ritchie and is considered to be one of the most efficient and reliable men on duty there. In addition to his ability the affable guard has succeeded in forming a wide circle of friends both among his fellow employees and locally.

The Commander served in a far more dangerous assignment, however, in his earlier years, as a member of the armed forces of his country. He served in the South Pacific theater with the 24th Division and was active in the invasion of New Guinea and the Philippine Islands. He also served in Hawaii, Goodenough Island and Australia. After three years of service he was honorably discharged and took up civilian life in Emmitsburg. The community was quick to see his sincerity of purpose and he became active in the leadership of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6658. As top man in the organization, serving as Commander, he was re-elected for a second term of office this week.

Besides overseeing the business of the Post he is a regular driver of the ambulance; is a member of the Francis X. Elder Post of the American Legion and a member of the Legion drill team.

Mr. Harbaugh praises the VFW post highly for its active part in community work and feels everyone should be proud to have this organization in the community—for it has established a fine record of service to the community. His goalpost for the VFW is service and community welfare aid. "Tip" has set a new record for membership in the post, obtaining 44 members in a single year. He is interested in the Little League Baseball and various civic programs. For community progressive policies we extend our congratulations and appreciative acknowledgment.

Claypool; junior vice commander, William E. Sanders; quartermaster, Lumen F. Norris; post advocate, Louis H. Stoner, Sr.; chaplain, Louis F. Rosensteel; surgeon, Dr. Geo. W. Green, Jr.; trustee for three years, Wales Rightmour.

He pointed out that the eligible age bracket will range from 2-4, 5-6 and 7-8 years of age. Special prizes will be given to the child who finds the highest number of eggs and several "lucky" eggs will be hidden. There will be special egg races for the boys between nine and ten years of age. The meeting door prize was won by Vincent Leroy Hartdagan. Following adjournment, refreshments were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the post.

The annual financial drive of the Vigilant Hose Co. will be a month later this year, it was announced this week by the chairman, Guy R. McGlaughlin. Usually the drive is held the latter part of April, but this year it will take place during early May.

The committee in charge of the drive explained these reasons for delaying the drive: It is felt that April is a heavy expenditure month for most citizens because of income tax and social security payments are due and work an added hardship on the citizens. It is felt that better results can be obtained by delaying the drive until May. Canvassers will begin their work about May 7.

The meeting was held Monday night in the Fire Hall with Arthur Elder presiding in the absence of President Cloyd W. Seiss. The Chamber has been in contact with postal officials concerning a new postoffice here, and it is expected that some sort of action is in the offing.

Congressional Viewpoint

By U. S. Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19—It is my firm belief that a wholly acceptable highway bill will be adopted during the present session of Congress. No far-sighted public official would question the absolute necessity for an improved, modern network of national highways, not only to accommodate the ever-increasing number of automobiles but also to serve our defense forces as well as our farm-to-market system.

Few people would quibble with President Eisenhower's urging that the planning and engineering for such a vast project must be accomplished on a coordinated basis without the confusion and waste of a piecemeal approach. Any program, however, to attain this essential objective, which would violate sound financing principles, defy budgetary control, and evade the Federal debt limit, in my opinion, does not constitute a reasonable, nor realistic, solution to the critical road problem.

Just as we operate in our personal day-to-day and year-to-year activities, any national undertaking of this size must be on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, and fortunately for the solvency of our Nation, there is now much agreement on this point. This program must come within the reasonable bounds of sound financing and must conform with the normal concepts of separate responsibilities between the 48 States and between individual citizens. It is gratifying to note that our

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

About $41 million in compensation is going unclaimed because thousands of victims of overseas war losses have failed to ask for settlements.

Perhaps some of those persons are Marylanders.

Therefore, at the request of the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission of the United States, I will try this week to help contact as many persons as possible who might be entitled to compensation for property losses, etc., suffered at the hands of certain foreign nations.

First Deadline Near

The legislation under which reimbursement can be sought is Public Law 285, of the 84th Congress.

According to the law, there are two important deadlines for prospective claimants to keep in mind. The first is Mar. 31 of this year. By that date claims must be filed by all those who suffered great trucking industry recently indicated to the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives a willingness to assume an equitable share of the costs of highways.

Some States, Maryland among them, have already exceeded others in their expenditures for roads, and this situation suggests the balancing need for some sort of overall guidance and leadership from the national level. It suggests also the possibility that Federal funds in a few states might exceed those in other states and that any fair formula for apportioning Federal money among the states, must be developed in terms of need in removing serious "bottlenecks," financial or otherwise.

It shall be my purpose to support a "pay-as-you-go" road bill which gives the motorist value received for his or her tax dollar in the form of new, improved and safer highways. I shall oppose, however, any scheme for the enlargement of Federal jurisdiction at a point where the States themselves have a most vital control and interest.

losses in the Soviet Union prior to Nov. 16, 1933.

Other Claims

The second filing deadline is this coming Sept. 30. This date, according to the Settlement Commission, pertains to that portion of the law dealing with World War II claims against Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania, and against Italy in respect to losses not provided for in the Italian Peace Treaty.

Eligible Claimants

The Settlement Commission has this to say about who can apply for compensation.

"Eligible claimants, under the law, generally are restricted to Americans who were citizens of the U. S. at the time their losses occurred.

"In the case of corporations it is required that more than 50 per cent of the stock ownership must be vested in American citizens at the time of the loss.

"At the same time, the corporation must have been organized under the laws of the United States, any State or Territory thereof, in the District of Columbia."

I agree with Whitney Gilliland, chairman of the Settlement Commission, that "it would be a pity if the people for whose benefit this money was made available (through the efforts of the Congress) should be left holding an empty bag."

Garden Club Meets

The next meeting will be held in Littlestown April 19. Mrs. Lloyd Crouse will be the hostess and Mrs. William Marshman and Mrs. Arthur Roberts will act as co-hostesses.

The Easter vacation will begin at the close of the retreat on Wednesday, March 23 and students will return for classes on Wednesday, April 4.

Following the Easter vacation, report cards will be distributed April 6 as the third quarter of the school year ends March 28.

In conjunction with other newspapers of the Hearst chain, the Baltimore American and the Baltimore News-Post will sponsor the annual Tournament of Orators' contest. The oratory competitions center around the life and achievements of John Adams, the second President of the U. S. during the turbulent international situation involving France and the now-celebrated phrase, "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute," and "No Bribes for France."

Mary Edith Bailey and John M. Roddy were the successful contestants of St. Joseph's High School in the United Nations contest. Their papers have been selected and entered in the National United Nations contest.

The monthly meeting of the DePaul Mission Unit of the CSMC was held Tuesday afternoon, March 20 with Barbara Bowers, vice president, presiding. After the business meeting reports showing the digger phases of mission life in foreign countries were given by Mary Francis, Marie Sanders and Alice Scott.

LIFESAVER VS. KILLER

Doctors are dedicated to saving life. Through their professional skills thousands upon thousands of people enjoy longer, happier lives. Laboratory research technicians save lives too. Their painstaking studies that often span years of experimenting result in knowledge and medicine that prevent and stamp out legions of murderous diseases. Policemen and firemen too must be recognized among the preservers of life. The duties they alertly and courageously perform day and night spare countless humans from fatal tragedy.

But did you ever stop to realize that YOU can be one of the greatest guardians of life in the nation?

It's no exaggeration! It's a sobering fact. If you doubt it take a long look at the number of Americans killed in traffic accidents last year. Thirty-eight thousand, three hundred!

What does this have to do with your being a guardian of life? The traffic safety which you do or do not observe!

Reverse the results of those grim 1955 statistics and you would have that many lives saved from death and disablement, thanks to more alert and careful drivers and pedestrians. But of course it's too late now to save even one of those lives. It's not too late though, for you to pledge yourself to protecting life through safe traffic habits from this day forward.

If you do, you will be actively helping to save human life as the doctor, laboratory researcher, policeman, fireman or any of the other champions of life. If you don't — you are as dangerous to your fellow beings as some life-taking disease or the murderer himself!

This is one responsibility that no one—however much his professional skill, alertness and courage—can assume for you. Traffic safety is your life-giving power. Practice it and you can have that immeasurable satisfaction of being a true guardian of life.

Story of Easter Eggs

THE CUSTOM OF COLORING EGGS IS AT LEAST 5000 YEARS OLD. THE ANCIENT PERSIANS AT THEIR FESTIVE CELEBRATIONS OF THE RETURN OF SPRING (HELD APPROXIMATELY AT THE SAME TIME AS EASTER) GAVE COLORED EGGS TO ONE ANOTHER AS TOKENS OF GOOD WILL.

WHEN TEACHING THE CHRISTIAN FAITH, THE EARLY APOSTLES SAW NO HARM IN ADAPTING THE POPULAR PAGAN CUSTOM OF COLORING EGGS TO THE CHRISTIAN CELEBRATION OF EASTER. THEY THOUGHT THE EGG, WHICH HAD BEEN A SYMBOL OF THE RENEWAL OF LIFE IN SPRING, NOW REPRESENTED THE RESURRECTION.

THE DUTCH SETTLERS OF PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW YORK WERE THE FIRST TO BRING THE CUSTOM OF COLORING EGGS TO AMERICA. EASTER (OR PAAS DAY AS THEY CALLED IT) WAS A TIME FOR GREAT CELEBRATION AND THEY COLORED LARGE QUANTITIES OF PAAS EGGS TO USE IN THEIR FESTIVITIES.

Bi-centennial Poster

Contest Rules Are Announced

The Emmitsburg Bi-Centennial Committee announces an art contest for a sketch in pen and ink suitable for reproduction as a cachet on envelopes and postcards during the coming Bi-Centennial celebration.

The contest starts immediately and final entries must be in the hands of judges by May 31, 1956. A total of $55 in cash prizes will be awarded, Chairman Phil Sharpe announced this week.

The following rules were approved by the committee at a special meeting last Sunday:

1. Anyone living in Emmitsburg or the general shopping area known as the "Emmitsburg District" is eligible to submit entries, as private individuals, including students at all schools and local colleges. Individuals may submit as many entries as they desire. Professional and commercial artists are not eligible.

2. All entries become the property of the Bi-Centennial Committee, and none can be returned. The Committee cannot enter into correspondence concerning entries.

3. There must be no identification of the artist on drawings, front or back. This is to permit impartial judging. Each entry must be accompanied by a card or sheet of paper giving the name of the artist, age, home address, and school, if any, including grade. These data will be recorded by the committee with an identifying number placed on the back of each entry.

4. Entries may be submitted at any time. Students may submit their entries through their school instructors who will turn them over to the committee. Others may submit them individually at any time between the hours of 12:30 p. m. and midnight to the attendant on duty at the Emmitsburg American Legion Post Home. It is suggested that entries be submitted as early as possible. Final closing date for receipt of entries will be midnight, Thursday, May 31, 1956. The entries will be then turned over to out-of-town individuals who will serve as a board of judges. Their decision will be made as to the winners on or before June 15, 1956.

5. Prizes. The Emmitsburg Lions, American Legion Post 121, and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6658, have donated a total of $55. First prize will be $25; second prize, $15; third prize, $5. In addition, there will be 10 honorable mention prizes of $1 each. The $55 in cash will be mailed to the winners shortly after the announcement of winners is made.

6. The first prize entry will be Copyrighted by the Committee, and all publication rights will belong to the Emmitsburg Bi-Centennial Committee.

7. The winning entry will be reproduced in the form of a cachet, or printed reproduction on government-stamped postal cards, with the name of the designer. A special postoffice Bi-Centennial cancellation die bearing the Emmitsburg postmark will go into service Dec. 1, 1956, and continue through the end of the Bi-Centennial celebration, June 30, 1957. These cards will be imprinted "First Day Cancellation" and will be available for sale throughout Emmitsburg to anyone desiring these as souvenirs to send to friends. They will also be sold to tourists and other visitors. It is the desire of the Committee to award the first cancellation to the official cachet designer as a souvenir, and permit the winner to personally make the first cancellation.

8. Mechanical Details. The winning entry will be judged on the basis of neatness, art design, originality, and suitability for reproduction. Only two sizes of drawings will be accepted. They must be horizontal with a light ruled border either five and one-quarter by nine inches, or seven by 12 inches, in black drawing ink on white paper. Drawing ideas are left to the entrants. Lettering should include the following: "1757 Bi-Centennial Celebration, 1957 Emmitsburg, Maryland, June 22-28, 1957." This lettering may be placed anywhere within the above described border, in the discretion of the artist, in accordance with his or her design. Some sort of drawing or sketch should be used with this. Draw on your own ideas.

The actual cachet size will be one and three-quarters by three inches horizontal. It will thus be seen that the original drawing will be reduced to one-third in five and one-quarter by nine-inch size, and one-fourth on the seven by 12-inch size. Contestants must remember this in preparing their lettering and sketches and eliminate very fine lines and shading. This point will be an important element in choosing the winner.

9. All winners will be notified by mail, and by announcement in all nearby newspapers.

10. The type of sketch or drawing should suggest in some way, the 200th birthday of Emmitsburg. The rest is left to the imagination of the contestant.

How you fish a dry or wet fly is far more important than its pattern.—Sports Afield.

AUTOMATION'S FIRST ENEMY

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Battling Blindness

In a play by the famous English poet John Milton, the Biblical hero Samson mourns his blindness for condemning him "to live a life half dead, a living death." Milton wrote feelingly with real knowledge—for he too was blinded when he was still in the prime of life.

Men in every age have shared Milton's horror of blindness. The affliction is particularly tragic today, however, for in this time of increased medical knowledge, it is all too often an unnecessary one.

"One-half of the nation's total sightless persons might be able to see if they or their parents had taken proper precautions," states the U. S. National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Eye infections should always be treated with care for they can, if unattended, cause blindness. A particularly dangerous period, medical experts inform us, is infancy, when the eyes are most delicate and susceptible to infections. Such infections, according to U.S. statistician Louis Dublin, rank among the chief causes of blindness in the U.S. Fortunately, science has made vast strides both in preventing and treating infections in the eyes of new-born babies.

One of the more recent advances has been the use of the broad-range antibiotic Terramycin for this purpose.

Medical specialists have found Terramycin free from the side-effects of silver nitrate, hitherto routinely applied to a new-born baby's eyes to prevent infection.

The drug, tested on 1,700 infants at Maimonides Hospital in Brooklyn, saved two out of three babies from "pink-eye" or conjunctivitis, according to a medical report.

In laboratory tests, Terramycin has also proved more effective than silver nitrate in killing the micro-organisms that are the commonest cause of eye infections in the new-born.

With Roads Board

The top right-of-way man in the State Roads Commission is Le Roy C. Moser who is currently supervising the purchase of $1 million worth of land each month for the State's highway rebuilding program.

Holding one of the most important jobs in the state, Mr. Moser's title is Chief Right-of-Way Engineer of the State Roads Commission. He is a career man, having joined the Commission as an inspector shortly after leaving school in 1930.

Born in Boonsboro, Washington County, Mr. Moser now lives at Waterloo in Howard County. He is married and has one son. He attended Boonsboro High School and University of Maryland School of Civil Engineering.

Last Call Issued For Car License Plates

The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Frank Small Jr., wishes to remind the motoring public that it is past the middle of the month and if they have not applied for their new license plates for privately owned passenger cars and cycles, they should do so immediately to avoid waiting in long lines or being deprived the use of their vehicles; also that the Department will be closed on Good Friday, which is a legal holiday.

No extension will be granted and new plates must be displayed by Apr. 1.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Mar. 22—Today's news features on automatic factories, cheap atomic power, and political uncertainties are grist for the labor unions.

Their leaders are saying these things will cause unemployment and that the only cure for unemployment is a shorter work-week. Talk is of a 30-hour week; but my guess is the first move will be to a 36-hour week—then a 32-hour week.

What About Automatic Factories?

Factories have constantly become more automatic for the past 50 years. The great advance, however, has come with the development of electronics. Some industries, such as the oil-refining industry, have already become 80 per cent automatic; it has had no unemployment and is paying the highest wages ever. Union labor leaders cannot yet show that the automatic factory is causing unemployment.

In the long run, automation may bring a shorter work-week; but the change will be slow. The rebuilding of a manufacturing plant to be self-operating is very expensive. Thousands of consolidations must take place before such revolutionary changes will come about. There, however, will be more opportunities for new companies which can start from the ground up with the very latest automatic machinery. However, my chief purpose this week is to suggest certain industries which should definitely benefit from a shorter work-week.

Leisure Beneficiaries

Best known is Spalding (A. G.) & Bros., one of the largest manufacturers of baseball, basketball, football, golf, tennis, and skiing products. Headquarters in Chicopee, Mass. Last year their stock paid $.50 and 5 per cent and now sells at about $19.

Brunswick - Balk - Collender, largest manufacturers of bowling alleys, billiard tables, and gymnasium equipment. Main office in Chicago. Common paid $.25 (plus 5 per cent) last year and sells around $28.

Stanley Warner Corp., one of the best movie theater companies, interested in Cinerama. Subsidiary manufacturers latex products. Offices are at 1585 Broadway, New York City. It paid $1.00 last year and sells around $16.

Manhattan Shirt Co., one of the largest manufacturers of shirts, for both men and women, and of other form of clothing such as pajamas, neckwear, and sportswear. Head office is at 444 Madison Ave., New York. Stock paid $1.85 last year and sells around $37.

McCall Corp., one of the leading publishers of fashion magazines; also controls Redbook. It operates a large dress-pattern business and does a large amount of printing for Reader's Digest, Newsweek, U. S. News, etc. McCall should benefit from a shorter work-week for women. It paid $1.20 last year and sells at about $21.

American News Co., large distributor of magazines, newspapers, and paper - covered, books. It has valuable concessions at railroad, airplane, and bus terminals, serving tourists. Reading will increase with the shorter work-week. Headquarters are at 131 Varick St., New York City. It paid $1.50 last year and sells at about $32.

The "Do-It-Yourself" Business

All companies catering to the "do-it-yourself" trade should benefit from the shorter work-week. I especially have in mind the American Machine & Foundry Co., 261 Madison Ave., New York City, and the Black & Decker Co., of Towson, Md. These have fitted up many of the "tool rooms" which have been built in the basements of houses and farms. Furthermore, American Machine & Foundry makes bowling alley equipment and is becoming an important factor in automation, guided missiles, and atomic-energy reactor equipment.

Another group which should benefit are companies which cater to the painting of walls of homes with rollers. My favorite corporation is the Glidden Co. of Cleveland, but there are many others.

If you want to benefit from all phases of the "do-it-yourself" movement, buy the stocks of the United Stores Corp., having 460 stores retailing, at low prices, most of these products. I especially recommend the 2nd pf., at $10-$11, and the common around $5.

Although the stocks of these 10 companies should prosper better than most other companies during a business depression, yet no stocks will then be foolproof as to price.

LIVING Today
by Colonel Gales Cough

MIND POWER. The strength of a person's mind is determined by his will power and general weakness is noted when anyone can not stand on their own personal convictions. Strength of character is noted when a person can take a stand and retain it without deviating from a worthy purpose. Again greater strength and courage is revealed when a person can admit he is wrong about something and should make his concessions and be helpful to others. Stubbornness is a definite sign of neurosis and leads to aggravated obstinacy causing self-depreciation in the long run. To refuse to concede to self-improvement because of some trivial dislike merely distorts one's proper thinking and reveals a weakness of the mind rather than strength. A stubborn person is not always brilliant nor aggressive, to the contrary. Mind power is fortified with the adaptability of another's ability to accept changes and improvements for what they are worth.

MEDICAL. True, as a layman I am no authority on medicine, nor am I qualified to discuss the subject. Therefore, I would not try to explain, nor advise anyone what to do regarding taking medicine, but the best advice anyone could give is to see your local physician when needing medical treatment. However, the foundation of good health is proved through the medical profession in the practice of "Preventive medicine" when the occasion calls for it. No doctor would give a patient medicine unless he needs it. It is wise, therefore, to accept a doctor's diagnosis and to follow his advice and not to be disappointed when he does not prescribe medicine. Any doctor would rather treat a person as needed and would not prescribe something containing medicinal ingredients when it isn't needed. Some leave a doctor's office and feel they have paid for a visit needlessly because he doesn't give a prescription. The doctor may have done the greatest professional service by not prescribing medicine in certain cases. The physical welfare of anyone may depend on the fact that medicine should not be taken, and especially patent medicines which are overrated. Patent medicines can do a great deal of harm if unwisely taken, and before anything is taken a doctor should be consulted. A very good professional contact of mine during the years 1944-46 was Dr. Kleinschmidt, then a director on the defense health and welfare services of the Federal government. He was the staff physician of the Chicago Medical University the last time I heard from him. He was at the time interested in youth clubs which I was instrumental in organizing. Dr. Kleinschmidt was interested in preventive medicine and was the head of this department. His activities revealed that all the medical professional is interested in is medical research and the improvement of man's health by any natural means possible.

FASTING: Physical development has its place and fasting has been advised in some cases, but as it was in the fanatical research policies of a late physical culture founder, there are extremes which should be avoided. Fasting can not cure all diseases and medicine is essential in many cases which could prevent an untimely death. Likewise an operation which could sustain the life of anyone. Stubbornness is no doubt the cause of many untimely deaths on the part of numerous would-be physical culture fanatics. When a "hot" appendix flares up it can not be healed by a sudden fast. An immediate operation is necessary, or death can be the result. An appendectomy may be necessary in some cases.

EXERCISES: Physical exercises are essential and applicable to most every person. Either the body is supple or it is handicapped, with the years of inactivity. A person will naturally become old before his time if he doesn't have some physical exercise. Every doctor will advise it. Polio victims have made their greatest recoveries with proper exercises and heat treatments, provided through certain mineral waters, but under a doctor's care properly supervised.

Along The Potomac

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21—President Eisenhower has shown great interest in a campaign to improve and modernize the nation's homes. He has designated 1956 as "Home Improvement Year." By law the Federal Housing Administration is authorized to guarantee home repair and improvement loans as well as insure mortgages for new home construction.

One of the most important aids to fulfilling the desire to own a home or to modernize the house in which we live is the FHA. Its chief contribution to our economy is in making credit available for home buyers and owners. The FHA actually has never made a loan, what it does is to insure private lenders against loss.

FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason has been kind enough to furnish me with some figures which, I am certain, will be of interest to the residents of the 6th Maryland District. He informs me that since its inception, FHA has made it possible for four million families to buy their homes. At the same time 19 million FHA-insured loans have been advanced to home owners to help them repair or improve their homes.

The figures for our Congressional District show that 10,000 homes have been financed with the aid of FHA; and 47,000 FHA home improvement loans have been made. The Commissioner also informed me that since I took office in January, 1953 a total of 1500 mortgages insured for a total of $17½ million in our five counties have been handled by FHA. Our citizens obtained 17,000 FHA-insured home improvement loans valued at $9 million during the same period.

I have been asked if the pending retirement of Secretary McKay from his post at the Interior Dept. will affect the highway program in the Hancock - North Branch area. I see no reason for any change since our agreement was reached with the staff and a new Secretary is unlikely to change the policy already established.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Nowadays you see as many trout anglers with spinning gear as with fly rods. But they both have the same problem: where, when using wet flies, should one look for trout?

A trout feeding on insects in a stream doesn't ordinarily go around hunting for them; he finds it much more profitable to lie somewhere and let the current bring food to him. You must find that feeding position, where the most food is washed past a spot in a given time. Generally, it's at the foot of a riffle, where all the water of the stream is compressed between two boulders, or between a boulder and log and the bank, to form a deep swift chute.

Another great advantage of such a spot, especially for the somewhat inexperienced angler, is that the trout in it are much less alarmed by incautious wading or a heavy tread on the bank, by an angler approaching too close, or by inept casting. The swift, bubbling water keeps them from feeling or seeing such things nearly as clearly as they would from a calm pool.

Jason Lucas, angling editor of Sports Afield magazine, advises that you go well above where you hope the trout are, and let the current take your fly where the natural food is going. Owing to some drag of the current on the line, it may not pass close enough the first time; make many casts, working the full length of that strip of fast water.

Lucas feels it is a good idea to look for such spots as, just described, and fits them exclusively, ignoring the others. This is not to say that trout won't be found in other places. It's merely saying that these are the most natural feeding grounds for them, the easiest to find and fish. An expert with the dry fly may far prefer to test his skill by fishing a glassy pool. More power to him! But such water is only for one who has had time and inclination to acquire high skill. Leave it to him; he'll appreciate your not coming around to disturb his fish. One who hasn't yet acquired this skill will do far better to stick to simpler places and methods, if he wants to catch himself some trout.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie For the Man in Your Life

IT IS AN AXIOM THAT THE WAY TO A MAN'S HEART is through his stomach. Taking advantage of a package of quick-frozen rhubarb, sweetened condensed milk and pie crust mix off the pantry shelf, you can whip up a delectable rhubarb meringue pie in jig time.

The recipe for this creation shows how easy it can be. Frozen rhubarb is always in season and needs only a few minutes' cooking. The 15-ounce can of condensed milk, lemon juice and rind are blended thoroughly; then add the egg yolks and spices. Once the rhubarb is cooled, combine with the condensed milk mixture. Presto! The filling is ready for the baked pie shell. On top goes a cloud of meringue and the pie is whisked into the oven for a brief browning.

RHUBARB MERINGUE PIE

|---|---------------------------------|
| 1 9-inch pie shell, baked and cooled                                    | 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind    |
| 1 package frozen rhubarb  | $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cinnamon |
| $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups (1 15-oz. can) Eagle Brand sweetened condensed milk | $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon nutmeg   |
| $\frac{1}{2}$ cup lemon juice   | 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten    |
|   | 2 egg whites                    |
|   | $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt     |
|   | $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar         |

Cook rhubarb according to package directions. Drain well. Cool. Blend sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice and rind until mixture thickens. Add slightly beaten egg yolks, cinnamon and nutmeg; mix thoroughly. Fold in rhubarb. Pour filling into shell. Beat egg whites and salt until soft peaks are formed. Add sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time; continue to beat egg whites until smooth and shiny. Cover filling with meringue attaching well to shell edges to prevent shrinking. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) about 15 minutes or until meringue is lightly browned. Cool about 2 hours before serving. (ANS)

Bedside Rack Holds Books and Magazines

Whether you enjoy reading in bed, or wish to make a thoughtful gift to an invalid, you'll find this bedside rack a project that's easy and fun to build. You can also use it at the end of a day bed couch. The Do-It-Yourself aluminum bars fit between the mattress and springs to hold the rack handy for storing books and magazines.

Cut the rectangular sheet from square embossed aluminum. Bend  $\frac{1}{4}$ " side seams first with the aid of a slotted board. Bend the double seams along the top edges next and hammer them together tightly. Use a 1x3 board to bend the trough.

Rivets can be used to assemble the support bar to the upper ends of the rack. Bolts are more likely to tear bed linens. File formed ends of rivets smooth. Reynolds Do-It-Yourself Aluminum is available at local hardware stores and lumber dealers.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Ezra Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, is basically too sound a fellow to become a demagogue. Yet bureaucratic pressure is trying to make him one.

For the big drive now is to try and pin the farmer's plight on the corner grocery.

Despite the fact that in last 7 years 3,745,000 farm dwellers have been plowed under, despite fact government now owns 80 m where about $3 billions in so called surplus production, the position of the American farmer, based on the parity scale, is no better now than in 1935. A rapidly shrinking share of the consumer's food dollar is going to the farmer.

Therefore, the villain is now distribution costs, and with a tried and true tactic of demagogues of all ages, a drive is starting to make it appear that all engaged in processing, wholesaling and retailing food are gouging the public.

While it is undoubtedly true that with some commodities, combines who seems to avoid the attention of anti-trust law enforcers are apparently maintaining excessive profits, independent wholesalers and retailers are not showing profits anywhere near what their efforts and investments entitle them to.

Distribution costs are high, on food, and everything else.

But government has been following policies which can have no other effect than make them even higher. Politicians through history have seemed prone to ignore the fact that taxes placed on business must in turn be passed on to the public. No business has tree growing money.

For example, today 4.4 million employers pay into social security almost $3 billion, $2.85 millions as the employers' half of this program. If present plans go through, by next year that will be raised to over $3.5 billion.

These billions have to be tacked onto the price of every loaf of bread, every pork chop.

Another example is fairly recent habit of states and cities of assessing inventory taxes. Every year, on a certain date, wholesalers and retailers must pay tax on goods they have in stock.

As these firms cannot be operating with empty floors during this tax period, this tax cannot be escaped. In some areas it is estimated this tax alone raises average family food costs 2%.

The billions given away to foreign nations are also inevitably reflected in the cost of food.

And it would be a super human task to try and arrive at how much is added to the price of pork chops by all the clerical and accounting labor that is necessarily expended to collect these taxes, make out reports.

Actually, the independent merchant knows firsthand how grave the farm problem is. His own welfare, he knows, depends to a large extent on the welfare of the farmer. Thus, perhaps the real solution to the farm problem would be for the establishment of cordial relations between the independent operator in the food business and the farmers. Between them they could exert substantial influence in getting that problem licked. But of course, bureaucrats would not like to see such a relationship established. It is much easier to try and drive a wedge between the two most important segments of the economy.

EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE
Emmitsburg, Md.Socialist Communist Twins

One of the key strategies in the Communist conspiracy to enslave the world's 2.3 billion people in a brutal dictatorship was clearly set forth in the pronouncements of Red leaders at the 20th Communist Party Congress held a few weeks ago in Moscow. The leaders stressed that Communists must work for Socialism first—in the nations not yet in the grasp of the Reds. This has been heralded as a "new line" by many high officials of other nations, including some in America.

"Socialism first," as a strategy line for the Communists, is not new; it is as old as the Communist Party. Karl Marx wrote in the "Manifesto" 108 years ago that a program of Socialism was the first step. Lenin and his band of murderous revolutionaries made their first move in Russia helping Kerensky establish a Socialist government. In fact, wherever the true Communist strategy is published the Party conspirators are told to work for Socialism first.

"Line" For America

The "line" which the Red bosses in Moscow restated at the 20th Congress, was dutifully echoed in the February 28 issue of the "Communist Daily Worker," published in N. Y. One of the top American Communists wrote these words: "The Communists advocate and desire a peaceful path to socialism . . ." In the "Daily Worker" these words constitute merely a renewal of old instructions to the thousands of hidden Reds in the U. S. A. who are infiltrated into all walks of life, including political parties.

Unless the Reds can swing a nation into Socialism, and thus get their secret agents into key positions of power, they do not resort to revolution. Their special strategy in our nation is to disguise the Socialism they are advocating, give it the flavor of logical "social reform." The scheme, Marx wrote, is to gradually transfer ownership or control of the production facilities from private citizens to the government. Thus "public ownership" is a strategic step in the Marxist program. The program, Marx wrote, "cannot be effected except by means of despotic inroads on the rights of (private) property."

Twinsip is Official
There are still a great many people who do not understand the inter-relationship of Socialism and Communism. I have two documents on my desk which I wish every American over 12 years of age could carefully examine. One is an official campaign publication of the Socialist-Labor Party of England; the other is a "special edition" of the Communist "Manifesto." The special Manifesto was published by the Socialist-Labor Party of England as a token of appreciation and brotherly regard for the Communists. "Who can doubt our common inspiration?" asks the Socialist-Labor Party in a foreword of the "Manifesto."

Perhaps the most significant facts about the Socialist-Labor Party's campaign brochure and the "Manifesto" are the two platforms, one Socialist, the other Communist. Here are the official platforms (the Socialist planks numbered 1-2-3 etc., and the Communist planks A-B-C etc.): (1) Public, or government, ownership of the essential industries. (A) Factories, and instruments of production owned by the State. (2) Government ownership of the railroads and other transport. (B) Centralization of the means of communication and transportation in the hands of the State.

Identical Aims
(3) Government ownership of the Bank of England. (C) Centralization of credit in the hands of the State, by means of a national bank with State capital and an exclusive monopoly. (4) Government ownership of the land. (D) Abolition of private land ownership. (5) Central planning of production. (E) Central planning of production. (6) Government control of prices and, where necessary wages. (F) Note: The "Manifesto" platform does not mention this, but prices and wages are controlled in all Communist countries. (7) Heavy progressive income tax. (G) A heavy progressive, or graduated income tax. (8) Extremely heavy inheritance tax—with final abolition of inheritance. (H) Abolition of all rights of inheritance. (9) Full employment. (I) Note: This was not in the "Manifesto" platform, but it is in full force in all Communist countries. (10) Government control of medicine. (J) Note: In the "Manifesto" this action was not mentioned, but in all Communist countries, medical service is operated by the State.

Obviously the economic-social cores of Socialism and Communism are identical. Both take power from the citizens and concentrate it in government. Thus it is sound strategy for the Communists to work for Socialism first. They are of the brotherhood of Socialism, and with power in the hands of a few they can more easily take over.

Kite Sailing
Can Be Dangerous

Local schools have received posters warning children to exercise caution while flying kites and model airplanes. Distributed by the Potomac-Edison Co., the posters point out the dangers of kites and planes coming in contact with electric wires.

Potomac-Edison Safety Supervisor Raymond Beard stated that there are still many tragic accidents reported each year resulting from careless kite and model plane flying. Fatalities are numerous and severe burns often are suffered when the necessary precautions are not heeded.

According to Mr. Beard and the school posters, persons flying kites and planes should make sure they keep away from electric wires; only dry cotton string should be used; metal should never be used on kites and under no conditions should anyone climb a company pole to release kites stuck on them.

"Communities, hospitals, and factories that depend on continuous electric service often are inconvenienced by careless kite and model airplane flyers," Mr. Beard said. "Metal wires from kites and planes becoming entangled in electric wires may cause costly damage through the elimination of power to all types of establishments and homes."

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Haskins and son, David, Salem, W. Va., were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Sanders.

Prefabricated Systems Improve Home Heating

Completely factory-engineered heating systems—not just furnaces—are a coming thing in home heating.

The present conventional method of heating requires that much of the actual fabrication work be done in the house to be heated. In a report on the warm-air furnace industry, the American Institute of Management points out that "the heating installation is, in effect, manufactured in the home."

A few systems now on the market, however, are leading a trend toward complete manufacturing in the factory. These systems offer greater precision in manufacture and advantageous design concepts that are too involved for on-the-job work.

Conventional forced warm-air heating requires that all ductwork, which carries the warm air from the furnace to the rooms, be individually designed and built for each house. Pre-engineered "packaged" methods include air distribution systems that are factory built, with flexibility to permit installation in any style and size of home.

One of these new systems, made by Coleman, distributes warm air through 3½-inch-diameter metal tubes instead of the usual big, rectangular ducts. An advantage of the 3½-inch tube is that it is slim enough to fit within a standard wall framed with 2 x 4 lumber. A 2 x 4 actually measures only 1½ inches by 3½ inches, so that no pipe larger than 3½ inches will fit.

Despite their size, the small tubes carry the same amount of heat as larger ducts. The air is warmer than in conventional heating and it is moved at higher velocity.

But when the warm air gets to the rooms, its temperature is decreased and its velocity is lowered in "blenders" that are used instead of conventional registers. In a blender, warm air is mixed with room-temperature air, so that when the air enters the room its velocity and temperature are well

Difference in size between new and old heating ducts illustrates advances in heating system design. Modern 3½-inch-diameter tube carries just as much heat as the big old-fashioned one and does a more efficient job of distributing the heat to the rooms where it's needed. Small tubes also give more headroom in basement, making floor space more usable.

within the ranges set by heating engineers. An important advantage of the blending action is that it keeps room air in constant circulation, with minimum heat variation from floor to ceiling for balanced comfort conditions. All the air in each room in a house is circulated every seven to eight minutes.

A system of this sort is designed so that summer air conditioning can easily be incorporated, either at the time of the heating installation or later. By using "add-on" cooling equipment, summer air conditioning can be supplied without taking any additional floor space. The floor space required by the furnace initially can be as little as 2½ square feet.

Aircraft Engineering Improves Floor Furnaces

Some of the lessons learned by aircraft engineers are turning up in an unlikely place—the familiar floor furnace, which scientific airfoil design has helped convert into an efficient modern heating appliance.

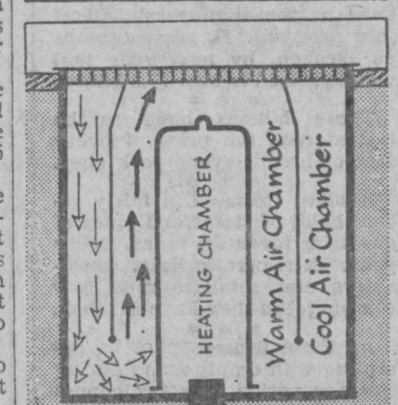

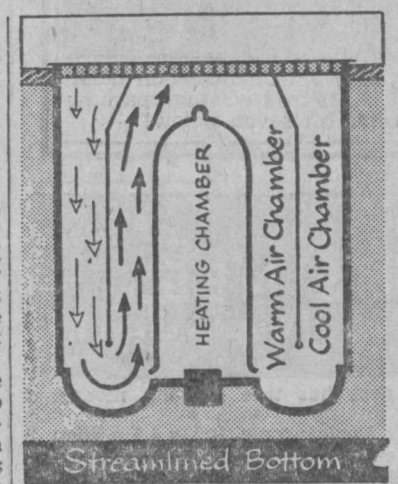

The way a floor furnace functions is that air at room temperature flows down into the furnace through a "cool air chamber," then turns a sharp corner and comes up through a "warm air chamber." On its way up, it passes over a heated metal surface, where it is warmed before it flows out into the room.

These passageways now have been streamlined, according to the Coleman Company, a manufacturer. Air movement across a curved, streamlined surface is much smoother than across an angular surface. This principle is as true for a floor furnace as for the fuselage of a jet plane.

Rounding the bottom of the floor furnace to do away with all sharp angles has increased the flow of warm air as much as 35 percent. A floor furnace fits under the floor in a house, where it is concealed except for the register at floor level. A dual-wall model fits under a wall, with a register on each side of the wall for direct distribution of heat into two rooms.

Floor furnaces are made to burn either gas or oil. Heat output can be controlled by manual regulation of the burner or by automatic controls that operate from a wall thermostat.

One floor furnace will comfortably heat a small home. Larger homes require two or more units. A multiple installation gives zone heating, in which one area of the house can be kept at a different temperature from other areas. For instance, bedrooms that are little used during the day can be kept at a lower temperature than the living area. This conserves fuel.

Square-Cornered Bottom

YOUR HEALTH

TOO MUCH MEDICINE

"I don't take any medicine," the man told his doctor. But . . . he was taking a pill to pep himself up in the morning, another to reduce his weight, an assorted group of vitamin and mineral pills and capsules, antihistamin for the sniffles, drops to soothe his nose, a drug to quiet the jitters, another to fight heartburn, a laxative, and a sleeping potion.

None of these things were "medicine" to him — just little things he thought he needed to get through the day. No doctor had advised him to take all that stuff. As a matter of fact, he went to see the doctor because he was suffering unexplained stomach cramps.

Too many people take too much medicine or too many kinds of medicine. Some get themselves into serious trouble by continuing to take a medicine prescribed by the doctor long after it has done its work and the need is past. Others go to three or four physicians, getting from each a prescription for a different symptom. Many go on taking a drug after it starts to produce symptoms which, to a doctor, would indicate a dangerous sensitivity to the medicine.

The wisest procedure is to stick to the advice of the family doctor. When you see him for your regular checkup, he should know what medicines, laxatives, and diet supplements you have been taking. Perhaps he will tell you you don't need all those vitamin pills. The laxative habit can be dangerous. Perhaps the symptoms you are treating yourself indicate some serious trouble which he alone should diagnose. Many of us are apt to prescribe for ourselves when it comes to cold remedies, vitamins and laxatives. It's a good idea to ask the doctor's opinion first. He's the man who knows whether a commercial preparation you can buy from the drugstore will do you any good, or whether it might do you real harm.

Animals Still Tops
As Human Interest Shots

"PUPPIES IN THE HAY" — by Donald Robinson Jr., Lincoln, Mass., a prize-winner in the 1955 Graflex Photo Contest. Taken with Speed Graphic, 1/200 second and f22 on Type B film.

ANIMALS are always a source of good pictures. They supply the emotional punch that captivates large audiences of any age group.

"Puppies in the Hay" by Donald Robinson Jr., of Lincoln, Mass., was a prize-winner in the teen-age class of the 1955 Graflex Photo Contest.

Pictures like this one invariably seem to walk off with prizes. This may be because most youngsters want puppies while older people are taken back to their own youth by such scenes.

Simplicity is always a virtue, according to T. T. Holden, photo director of Graflex, Inc., Rochester, N. Y. The photo shows three dogs in a haystack and nothing more. What makes it a better than usual shot is its simplicity, the correct lighting, and the wonderful expressions on the pups.

Robinson took "Puppies in the Hay" with his Speed Graphic at 1/200 second and f22 on Type B film while attending a photography school in Vermont.

Often animals are easy to photograph, but there are times when you'll really have to work. This is especially true of puppies, since the little devils are more interested in playing with the photographer than having a picture taken.

On the other hand, cats are easy to work with. They just seem to assume the most relaxed and unaffected pose.

Grange Donates To Red Cross

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Grange was held Wednesday evening in the high school with 34 members present, Master Richard Florence presiding.

Mr. and Mrs. Weinert of the Gideon Grange, Gideon, Pa., were guests of the evening.

The first and second degrees will be conferred in Walkersville on April 3. The third and fourth degrees will be awarded in New Market on April 17.

Paul Beale gave a report on the progress of the driver training program to date. The Grange will send two delegates to the conference of the Citizens Council Convention to be held in Frederick on April 7 to submit names for future nomination to the School Board.

A donation of $5 for the Red Cross was voted. Richard Florence, chairman of the Red Cross Drive, gave a report on the progress of the drive to date. The goal for this area is $316. Two more volunteers for collections are as follows: Annandale Road, Mrs. Ralph Hatter; N. Seton - Gettysburg Road, DePaul Street, Miss Dorothy Fitzgerald.

The Grange will have the food stand at the Eyster sale on April 7th.
