A discussion during a recent meeting of one of our local organizations, centered around the condition of some of our local and nearby graveyards. It appears there are several that are "going to seed," and relatives and friends of some of the deceased are pretty much perturbed over the situation. They claim weeds and brush have almost obliterated some of the graves and that ground-hogs have played havoc with a great many of them. I haven't had time to investigate the condition of these burial sites but I do think that if these claims are bona fide that the parties or organizations responsible for the care and upkeep of such graveyards, should do their duty and fulfill their obligations. It is a well-known fact that many people in life have left money via their wills for the upkeep of their grave and many times this is lost sight of in a few short years . . . and the money is gradually forgotten about. A legacy is a lawful deed and should be carried out as long as the provided money covers the request of the deceased.

The discussion also treated the subject of a proper and fitting marker for our founder, Samuel Emmitt, whose grave is located in the old Presbyterian Cemetery just north of town. Buried there almost 200 years ago, the esteemed founder of our fair town which bears his name, lies in what you might term an uncomplimentary condition. It seems only right that with our Bicentennial coming up, a little something could be done to raise the ignominious status of Mr. Emmitt's final resting place to one that we could be proud of and to talk about when hundreds undoubtedly will visit his grave during the big celebration. If just a few organizations would "chip in" with a few dollars, something creditable could be done to the grave of our founder. This same subject was discussed during Old Home Week in 1950, but nothing further ever developed. And while on this particular subject, there's another case I have been told about and which the individual lies almost in an unmarked grave. One of the town's most esteemed citizens and a former Burgess here as well as being a national sports figure, this individual did much for our town and was largely responsible for our present sewerage system, which if we did not have, undoubtedly would cost local taxpayers nearly a million dollars to construct. During his term of office his salary was a healthy $15 a year and from the stories I've heard, he wouldn't accept his pay, turning it back to the treasury. Is this the sort of treatment he deserves? It does bear looking into, I believe.

Just a note to my out-of-town readers: Work on our new elementary school here has been started and the footer has been laid. Rumor has it the building will cost well over a quarter of a million dollars and undoubtedly will be a welcome addition to our surroundings, as well as a boost to our educational and cultural life. Plans call for the completion of the school in time for the fall term in early September. We really are blessed with schools here and there's not much excuse for our children not receiving educations we have. Parents would do well if they took every advantage of our educational facilities and sent the children to school for as long as they can spare them.

Complete sewerage for the town should be forthcoming in the near future. A meeting of the Town Council with an engineering firm which has been studying the situation here was held last night. The town and environs has been surveyed and blue-prints supplied to the Council. All that remains to be done now is to issue bonds to cover the cost of the project. It has to be done and each year's delay sees additional increases in the cost of the sewerage construction. It isn't possible to give a price quotation on this project and it won't be learned until bids are let out. Individual guesses are ranging from $80,000 to $200,000 to complete the new sewerage system. Sewerage comes mighty high these days but its

Local Baseball
Team Wins
Third Straight

Emmitsburg raised its standing several percentage points over the weekend and July 4th, but remained anchored in fifth place in the Pen-Mar Baseball League despite two wins.

Sunday Cashtown took a 3-0 lead over the invading locals via a pair of runs in the first inning and another in the third, but the "roof caved in" when Emmitsburg scored five times in the top of the sixth after one was out.

The local tallies came on a single by robust Tom Saylor, a walk to Don Joy and singles by Mike Joy and Dolly followed by a sacrifice by Pat Boyle and safeties by Jack Wisner and Bill Sterbinsky.

Blue Ridge Summit raised its lead to two games by pounding out a 14-4 lambasting over New Windsor while second-place Cashtown dropped an 8-6 decision to Emmitsburg.

Fairfield tallied four times in the last of the eighth to measure New Oxford 9-5.

Union Bridge nipped Taneytown by a narrow margin, 3-2 in a hotly-contested 14-inning contest.

Wednesday the locals took New Windsor 9-0 when the latter forfeited the game due to being unable to field a complete team.

Child Is Injured
By Station Wagon

Charles S. Hubbard Jr., eight-year-old Thurmont boy, was struck by a car at 2:15 last Thursday afternoon at the Old Frederick Rd. in Utica while he was crossing the highway on his bicycle. The driver of the car was arrested.

Taken to Frederick Memorial Hospital in a private automobile Thursday night, the boy was admitted for treatment of lacerations of the face and legs. His condition was reported "good."

Trooper H. J. Brown said that the driver of the 1954 station wagon, James E. Houck Jr., of Emmitsburg, was going south on the Old Frederick Rd. and struck the boy as he was crossing the road. The left front of the car hit the boy on the left side throwing him from the bike.

The bicycle was twisted beyond repair. Houck was charged with driving at a speed greater than reasonable and proper.

Trial has been set for July 7 at Thurmont Trial Magistrate's court.

Henry Zurgable, Floyd C. Miller, John W. Walter and William Walter spent several days this week fishing in Virginia.

POLIO VACCINE
AGE GROUP IS WIDENED

"Pregnant women and children between the ages of three months and under 20 years of age now are eligible to receive the Salk anti-polio vaccine," Health Officer Dr. Forbes H. Burgess reported this week. Previously the age limit had been set at one to 16 years of age.

The two basic changes in the requirements established by the State have resulted from two new developments in the anti-polio immunization field. They are the increased supply of the vaccine made available by increased production of the pharmaceutical firms manufacturing the vaccine and the outbreak of five cases of paralytic polio in the state. Two of the five adults affected are pregnant women. The fact that no children were involved seems to indicate the anti-polio shots have been successful, so far.

Dr. Burgess urged all county physicians to begin inoculating pregnant women and children in the new age limits with the required two shots, and the third following a seven-months interval. He said "If doctors do not use their share of the anti-polio vaccine allotted by the State, then it will be re-routed to other parts of the country where a great demand exists."

The women who receive regular treatment at the maternity clinic held by the County, will receive the vaccine in the regular course of treatment. Other expectant mothers who are not attending the clinic and are unable to obtain private care for these inoculations, may make an appointment by telephone, in advance of the regular anti-polio clinic held at 9:30 o'clock in the morning of the fourth Monday of each month. The next clinic will be held in Winchester Hall, Frederick, on July 23.

4-H Club Boys See
Demonstration

Thomas Wildhe, a member of the Emmitsburg 4-H Club, won a $20 scholarship to the 4-H Club last week by giving an electrical demonstration in Frederick. Thomas also gave the demonstration at the regular meeting of the local 4-H Club Wednesday night.

"An American with an annual income of $5,000 now paying $520 Federal income tax, would get off for $350 under Canada's income tax rules. An American taking in $8,000, now taxed $1,152 here, would be cut down to $832. The $10,000 American, taxed $1,592, would get off with $1,172 in Canada. No wonder Canada is booming. When people get money they can keep more of it to reinvest and make more business, jobs and prosperity."

Suit Develops Over
Grave Marker

Suit for $10,000 damages claiming some discolorations have appeared on a memorial has been entered in Circuit Court, Frederick, by Kingman Brewster, Washington attorney who formerly maintained a residence in the northern part of the county, against Hammaker Bros., Inc., of Thurmont.

Brewster, through his lawyers who include Sherman P. Bowers, Frederick, claims that on November 14, 1949, he entered into a written contract with the defendant firm to place a memorial on the Brewster burial estate in Fort Lincoln Cemetery in Prince George's County for $3300.

He said the memorial was to be composed of selected quality hard white Carrara Italian marble. He said he has paid $2800 and is willing to pay the remaining $500, but the defendant has failed to furnish a reasonably good memorial as promised. He claims that on the memorial appears numerous large yellow discolorations or spots which are apparently permanent. He asserts the marble or stone furnished was not of the quality contemplated and claims he asked replacement but the defendant refused. He said there has been lengthy correspondence and negotiations in an effort to adjust the matter.

Two Cars Collide
Near Rocky Ridge

A LeGore man was arrested for reckless driving following a two-car accident Monday afternoon in which he and the driver of another vehicle received minor injuries on Long's Mill Road near Rocky Ridge. Damage to the two machines was estimated at about $500.

Bickford Stottlemeyer, 25, LeGore, who was charged by State Trooper Robert Snyder with driving his car recklessly, was treated at the Frederick Memorial Hospital for lacerations of the knee. The other driver involved was William Weddle, 65, Thurmont. He was treated for face and chest injuries and released. The Thurmont American Legion ambulance took Weddle to the hospital while Stottlemeyer was transported in a police car.

Trooper Snyder said this resume of the accident: Stottlemeyer, driving a 1952 Ford convertible south on Long's Mill Road at about 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, was rounding a turn and hit Weddle's car which was traveling north. Weddle said his injuries resulted from being thrown against the dash of his car.

Council Studies
Request For School Sewerage

Sewerage facilities for the new Seton Elementary School were discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Burgess and Commissioners held Monday evening in the Fire Hall, Chairman of the Board, Charles R. Fuss, presiding over a full board present.

A request was received by Council from the builders of the new school, St. Joseph Central House, for permission to tap the school's sewer line into the main sewer system of the Corporation of Emmitsburg. It was the general impression that the Sisters of Charity would bear the expense of the line and would maintain it once tapped into the town's system. Council withheld a decision until it had time to thoroughly discuss the project and called a special meeting on the subject with representatives of the Sisters for last night.

The town clerk, Louise Sebald, presented the reports of the secretary, clerk and tax collector, all of which were accepted without alteration. Parking meter revenue for the month of June was reported as $276.34. In addition, there were $30.80 in traffic fines, $20 in parking fines, and $41 in overtime parking fines, making a combined total of $368.14 for the month.

A communication in the form of a complaint was received from a Federal Ave. resident requesting Council to enforce the town ordinance requiring vacant lots to be cleared of weeds during the summer months. The complainant stated that a DePaul St. resident owning a vacant lot on Federal Ave. let the lot remain unattended, thereby harboring rats and that the weeds were agitating hay fever sufferers. Council decided to write a letter to the property requesting that the land be cleared of weeds.

Commissioner Charles R. Fuss, who recently represented the Council at the annual convention of the Maryland Municipal League held at Ocean City, Md., gave a report on the activities at the convention. He received a plaque in behalf of the Council, presented by Gov. Theodore McKeldin, citing Emmitsburg as one of the safest towns in the state.

Burgess Clarence G. Frailey reported on several communications received. One was a congratulatory message from the Maryland Municipal League commending the Burgess on his recent election. Another letter from the same correspondent sought local support of a bill which would give the county towns a share in the automobile fines of the state. At present, no money is received from this source. Council endorsed the bill. A request for support of a bill which would give social security status to members of the municipally-owned police forces, was also endorsed by the Town Fathers.

Council received a complaint about the "loitering" situation in front of the local postoffice. Residents complain they have to ask people to move from the steps in order to enter the building, on many occasions. Council agreed to look into the situation.

The growing needs for additional sewerage for the town was discussed at length and the Town Solons will meet the middle of this month with representatives of the R. Brooke Maxwell Co., of Baltimore, an engineering concern, which has been investigating the needs of the town and which already has made a complete survey of the required amount of new sewer lines.

Homemakers
Picnic-Meet

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Homemakers Club was held in the form of a picnic on Thursday evening, June 28, at the home of Mrs. Paul Beale.

Mrs. Elsie Weimert, the club's delegate to the short course at the University of Maryland held recently, gave an interesting account of her week's activities.

Mrs. Robert Fitez, president, announced the Homemakers will sponsor the mass x-ray service which will be available to the public here in August. Further particulars will be announced.

The membership voted to be a sponsoring organization of the local 4-H Club. The group planned to continue the regular Afternoon of Games on the second Thursday of each month at 1:30 p. m. in the clubroom.

Co-hostesses for the picnic and meeting were Mrs. J. Scott Randolph and Mrs. Richard Florence.

Along The Potomac

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

WASHINGTON, July 2 — The Fourth of July is rightly one of our most important holidays. It is interesting to note that Thomas Jefferson thought that the day that would be remembered would be July 2. That was the day the Continental Congress approved the resolution declaring the colonies free and independent. The day we honor is the one on which the Declaration of Independence was signed.

The Declaration of Independence is a unique document in that it not only set forth the reasons which impelled the Colonies to declare themselves free and independent, but it also set forth the basic principles on which the new government was to be built. The Constitution became the instrument for preserving the basic rights outlined in the Declaration of Independence.

Marylanders will be pleased to learn that my bill providing for another District Judge for our state is included in the Omnibus Judgeship bill. The need for another judge in Maryland is great. I have presented the Congress with the information necessary to substantiate our request for the additional judge. It now seems likely the bill will pass.

Funds in the amount of $3.4 million have received final approval by Congress for continuation of the work on the Cumberland - Ridgeley flood protection project.

The House Judiciary Committee has favorably reported a bill which clearly recognizes the right of states to prosecute subversive activities within their own boundaries. The measure corrects court rulings which have held that only Federal law would apply in instances such as Pennsylvania's attempt to prosecute the Steve Nelson case. The reported bill specifically says that state laws on sedition shall not be nullified by any Federal law unless the Congress clearly spells out its in-WASHINGTON, D. C. — It's getting hot in Washington in more ways than one. The heat is one thing, but political oppression is another. Lobbyists have their problems and the government is swamped with red tape in the presentation of bills, particularly the new veterans' bill. Being a veteran, naturally I am interested. Everyone should be, regardless of being a veteran, because any excess expenditures depend on the people.

COMPENSATION: True, I draw a compensation check as many thousands of other veterans, and I believe that Uncle Sam has treated me as fairly as he could. Regardless of the usual squawk of the average veteran that he isn't getting what he should have, I believe the government is being more than fair.

I have a war-torn face remade by plastic surgery and, true, I can't smile. This is ironical in a way, but I received it for the purposes which all wars are fought . . . that of maintaining security and peace. There are times that anyone has to fight for peace—and some have been killed for it. The greatest thing in life is peace and happiness. No man, veteran or not, is happy unless he is left alone and permitted to live in peace. Therefore, wars are declared to prevent aggression and trespassing upon another's rights. Frankly, if anyone was trampled upon and had to fight—I see a moral principle involved and while monetary compensation is one thing, the principle involved is the most important. Compensation is secondary. Yet, compensation comes in handy and often solves a veteran's problems in a personal way. The greatest satisfaction is in knowing that the cause of the compensation, usually attributed to a wound, was far more important than being compensated for the wounds received. Fighting for principle, honor and the right of living peacefully is every man's obligation to himself and to his family, as well as his neighbor to do so.

I am happy to report that the Water Pollution Act is at the White House awaiting the President's signature. It is a major step in the direction of providing 6th District residents and all those living in the Potomac River Valley with good clean water.

PLAYING AT THE MAJESTIC THEATER, GETTYSBURG

Ava Gardner and Stewart Granger co-star in the motion picture "Bhowani Junction," now playing through Saturday at the Majestic Theater, Gettysburg, Pa.

PERSONAL: It has been said that a man's honor is based upon his payment of debts. If this is true, most everyone would be in confinement. Few people have paid all their bills when they had misfortune and many have taken bankruptcy to make a comeback and to succeed again and again. Such men have created large organizations and have failed time and time again else, only to eventually succeed and to pay everybody they owe.

I am in debt. And, I might ask—are you? Do you owe bills which some wish they had received? We are all brothers under the skin and you and I are condemned when we do not pay our obligations on time. Some have thought we are crooks and others felt we were careless with our obligations. Again, which is the more honorable, a man who would pay a debt because of vanity and self pride, or one who would first provide for his loved ones? A debt can wait, but can the provision of life's greatest need—food and clothes and a roof over the heads of our loved ones? All will agree that pride is vanity and payment of bills is honesty, but when a man is dishonest enough to let his family go in want to pay a bill when he knows that others he owes are not suffering, then I would call the man dishonest. I'll pay my bills and so will you, but first comes necessities and the will to succeed so that everyone can profit by it will to do this. As I have said before, quoting Shakespeare, "To thine own self be true then you can be false to no man." PRIDE, to be sure I am proud—we all are, or we have no self-respect. So were the boys in the trenches and their faces were muddy — their clothes torn and tattered with wounds bleeding. I, too, have been there, my face shattered, but I still would not have enjoyed looking at myself in the mirror. I still look at it wondering.

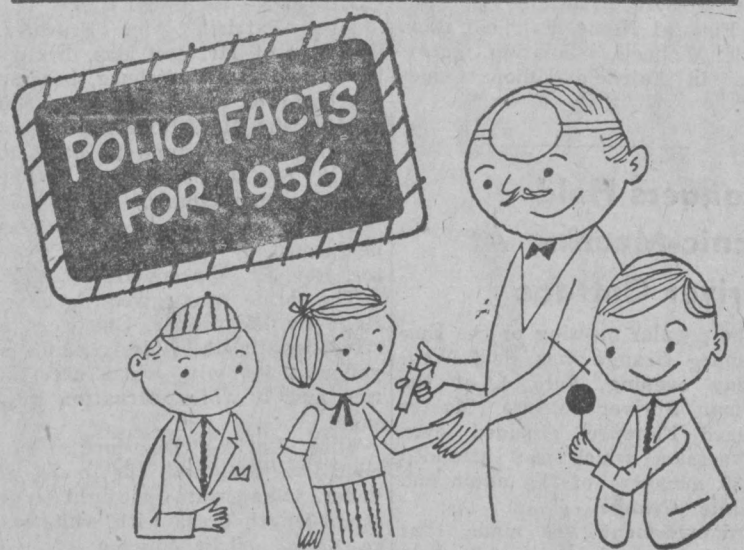

VALOR: There is a price on valor! Is there a price on honor, also? And is there a price on Christianity? My reply would be NO! A veteran doesn't expect to be paid for valor. With a man disabled in action—it is different. I have found within this community men of high ideals and honestly unexcelled. In one particular case a man I personally owe—is not worried. This honorable man is criticized by some whom think he is an outsider—and this man should be clasped to the hearts of everyone, because he is big and worthy of the friendship of all. And, too, there are others, possible a woman in the midst of the crowd whose heart is big and understanding; yet, because of keen business views is considered "cold." First, know the hearts of anyone and do not judge. Remember that Christ came not into the world to judge it, but that it might be redeemed. John: 3:17 might explain it better. I never was any good in platitudes, much less theological facts. I only pray that God will act to prevent any personal wars with my creditors, for I also have to live with myself. "Live and let live" is a good motto.

Mite Society Meets

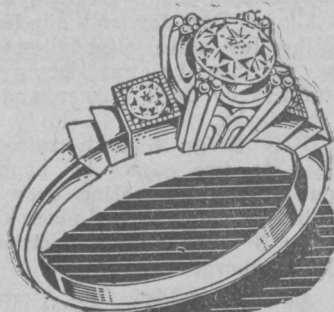

The regular monthly meeting of the Mite Society of Trinity Methodist Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wilhide last Friday evening. The invocation was given by Colonel Thomas J. Frailey. The members expressed profound regret on the untimely passing of Mrs. Mary Bell and Dr. William A. Frailey, two of the most loyal and most faithful members of the society.

Mrs. Franklin E. Wastler was named to complete the unexpired term of Mrs. Bell as secretary. Miss Edythe Nunemaker presented the treasurer's report. It was decided to discontinue meetings during the summer months and the next meeting of the group will be held in September. Mrs. Charles R. Fuss, president of the society, was in charge of the business session. A musical contest, entitled, "Name That Tune," featured the entertainment program. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess at the conclusion of the meeting.

Navy buildings housing 166 Americans in Antarctica were built to stand minus 100 degree temperatures and plus 100 knot winds.

The Fifth Column

Among the three chief factors which have placed our nation and its way of life in jeopardy, individual apathy should rank first, the Communist Fifth Column should rank second, and the Red military threat third. In our last two columns we have pointed up the danger of the inertia of American citizens and have discussed the astounding growth of Red Russia's strength — in territory taken over, in people enslaved, in resources. And now — the Fifth Column.

The Fifth Column is like a malignant disease attacking the body of our nation — largely hidden and seldom properly diagnosed. When it seems that the American people are going to awaken to its dangers and stamp it out, it changes its appearance, like a chameleon, and many people are fooled again. Today the Fifth Column is working behind a carefully elected guise of respectability. It is trying to shape the course of events in America by leading unthinkable people into actions detrimental to our security.

Organized in 1919

The first Communist cell in America was organized in Chicago in 1919. Since that time the Communists have penetrated every important segment of American society — education, religion, labor, industry, government, the movies, the press, and so forth. And the results of these penetrations have been staggering. It is now known, for instance, that the influence of the Fifth Column, in the Institute of Pacific Relations and elsewhere, was a dominant factor in the loss of China.

History will no doubt record that the loss of China to the Reds was America's worst defeat. This paved the way for the Korean War, its terrible cost and the final tragic compromise with the world-wide evil that calls itself Communism. An unbroken array of America's top military leaders who served in Korea have now testified before Congressional Committees that sinister forces were at work in this country manipulating decisions which overruled what was best for America in Korea—giving, in each instance, a victory to the Reds.

Other Examples

It is now known that Harry Dexter White in the Treasury Dept. was the architect of the Morgenthau Plan demanding unconditional surrender of Germany, an action which put the Russians into East Germany, put Poland, Austria, Czechoslovakia, and others behind the Iron Curtain and made the Russians so secure in Europe that they could then concentrate on Asia. This resulted in the loss of China and the Korean War. And Attorney General Herbert Brownell has identified White as one of the most strategic Communist agents in America.

It is now known that Alger Hiss was stealing American secrets for the Communists at the very time he was shaping the organization of the United Nations so that Communist Russia would expand its power, its world prestige and its American base of spy operations. Just last week, testimony was brought into identifying two Russian officials of the UN delegation as active spies in America, recruiting an espionage corps, offering tempting big money payments for aid in their damaging work.

Stamp Out Evil

The Fifth Column is today secretly agitating and aggravating the race problem in the U. S. In fact the Reds seek to create trouble over any question, anywhere. It's their business to make trouble and they are certainly at it in our country. They are concentrating, however, at two points: First, to create misunderstandings and bad relations between employers and employees; and, secondly, to unseat an oncoming generation of American youth on the fundamentals of our way of life—faith in God, constitutional government, and the private enterprise economic system.

When any force is loose in a nation, threatening the security of the people, the people should get together and stamp it out. We would not think of permitting a carrier of diphtheria, scarlet fever, or any deadly disease to run at large—claiming freedom to infect and kill. We shouldn't permit Red Fifth Columnists freedom to infect and to work for the destruction of our nation and the mass killing to which the Communists are dedicated. We should defeat this menace; we should stamp out the last vestige of its operation in our nation.

Congressional Viewpoint

By U. S. Sen. John M. Butler

Declaring that "we are operating in a jungle of tax confusion," Senator John M. Butler last week called for a long-range comprehensive study by a "Hoover-type" commission in an effort to "bring order out of chaos and remove the inequalities and inequities that so characterize the tax laws."

Speaking before the Maryland Municipal League at Ocean City, Sen. Butler expressed his belief that "a properly constituted commission can bring in recommendations for a more just, more equitable, less complicated tax system than we now have."

"I think the commission should study the effect of the Federal tax laws on low and middle-income individual income taxpayers and on small business," the Senator said. "It should examine the effect of taxes on stimulating the growth of monopolies, because—strange as it may seem—our Federal tax laws are fostering mergers and consolidations. The commission should thoroughly examine the charge that our tax system is dissipating the incentive for productivity, both of individuals and business."

Sen. Butler paid tribute to the 83rd Republican Congress for initiating and completing a revision of the Internal Revenue Code. It was the first code revision in 75 years. But, the Senator said, although a valuable service was performed and many improvements were achieved in simplifying and closing some loopholes in the tax statutes, the job of making taxes fair, simple and understandable still lies ahead.

"I say to you in all frankness—and I do not mean to belittle anyone or any member of Congress—the Congress was then unaware of what it did, it still does not know," Sen. Butler said. "The administering officers are still trying to find out; millions of taxpayers, their lawyers and accountants are still struggling; and the courts for years to come will be studying the law to learn what actually happened so that they can tell the government and the tax-

Potomac Fish Census Is Encouraging

The results of a creel census at Lander on Potomac River showed good fishing success despite the rainy weather, high and muddy waters which accompanied the opening of the bass season in Maryland on June 1.

The survey was conducted on June 1, 2 and 3. During this time 96 men, four women and four children fished from boats or off the bank. Altogether during the three-day period 502 hours were spent angling. A grand total of 513 fish were caught putting the fishing success at slightly over one fish per hour.

This rate of catching fish during the three days of the survey at Lander is approximately double the Maryland average of .44 fish per hour determined in a state-wide creel census in 1950 by the Dept. of Research and Education and the Game and Inland Fish Commission.

Of the 513 fish caught, 233 (nearly one-half) were returned to the river by anglers. The fish species caught and also creel in greatest number was the channel catfish. One hundred thirty-six of the 170 channel cats caught were taken home for fish dinners. Sixty-two per cent of the 244 catfish and bullheads caught were creel, while the remainder were released.

One hundred and seventeen smallmouth bass were caught. Of these 10 per cent were creel. The number of bass creel caught have been larger but some fishermen preferred to return legal size bass of 10 inches and over, hoping for larger bass. Several fine smallmouths up to 18½ inches and weighing nearly three pounds were taken by anglers using night crawlers and worms. Anglers using artificial lures had only fair success. Water conditions during the period were not conducive to payers their rights and liabilities. Instead of the clearness and simplicity which should characterize a law which affects so many, we have a jungle of confusion. Rare indeed is the man who can read the tax law, or even the tax forms provided by the government, and know where he is headed or how to extricate himself from the jargon which conceals the inequities and discriminations which the law inflicts.

"We can deplore inequity and inequality and even uncertainty and perhaps struggle along with both, but if a law obstructs incentives, discourages job and wealth-creating investment in enterprise, operates against small business while promoting monopoly, and so on and so on, the law may justly be condemned."

Sen. Butler said he proposes creation of a "Hoover-type" tax study commission composed of 12 members.

"My thought is for a long-range study rather than a quickie that can do little more than bring together the random suggestions we already know about," he said. "Rather we need new answers with an overall scope in their coverage. I think two years of hard continuous concerted effort is needed to formulate the kind of tax system we should have."

Right Belt Tension Big Factor In Operating Machines

Belt tension or tightness is a critical factor in the life of a belt and efficient operation of the equipment, reminds G. W. Gienger, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland. It may be too tight or too loose, he said.

A loose belt will wear out quickly because of slippage; too tight a belt may ruin bearings, reduce belt life and waste power. Flat belts on close coupled equipment should have a tension of approximately 40 pounds of pull per inch of width of belt.

V-belts require less tension. One should be able to depress the V-belt at least a half-inch midway between pulleys. An appreciable sag on long belts is desirable because the weight creates the tension.

When belts slip, the cause may be too narrow a belt, pulleys of too small a diameter, too stiff a belt or not enough tension.

Leather belts should always be run with the hair side to the pulley and nothing should ever be used on them except neatfoot oil applied sparingly to the flesh side.

Rubber belts can be conditioned and kept flexible by applying a light film of castor oil. A very thin mixture of red lead and raw linseed oil is recommended for canvas belts.

Use the sticky type of belt dressing only as a last resort, cautions Mr. Gienger. It usually wastes power and often gums up pulleys and peels belt surfaces.

this type of angling.

Ninety-eight panfish were creel. The yellow belly sunfish reaches a good keeping size and shows rapid growth at Lander. This is due in part to the fact that anglers in this area harvest a sufficient number of these panfish, allowing the remaining young fish to have ample food to reach keeping size. In some localities of the Free State the number of sunfish in a particular area exceeds the natural food production necessary to raise panfish species to a size desired by the angler. There is only one practical solution and this is one the fisherman himself can practice by actually creeling these sunfishes in sufficient numbers.

Only two suckers and one carp were caught during the three-day period although fish population investigators carried out in 1955-56 show that six out of 10 pounds of fish available to the angler in the Potomac River are carp and suckers.

Three fish tagged at Lander in 1955 were recovered by fishermen during the period. All anglers are asked to cooperate in the Potomac River Research program by looking for ring jaw tags in fish they catch in the Potomac River and its tributaries and to contact their nearest game warden with information on the tag number, place caught, date, length, and, if possible, the weight of the fish. Tagging returns give valuable data on fish migrations, growth and fishing pressure.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

Prices and needs vary for different sections of the country. Advice To Merchants

I am convinced that merchants, in order to hold their trade, must universally adopt air conditioning. This especially applies to downtown "Main Street" merchants who must compete with the new shopping centers. I am fully convinced that the downtown stores have a distinct opportunity; but they must modernize as to lighting and air conditioning. They may also gradually shift over to men's clothing, underwear, office supplies, hardware, etc., which appeal to men rather than to women. Women can go to the shopping center any day, but men cannot.

Air conditioning will help merchants hold their good clerks. It will cost shopping-center merchants more wages than the downtown merchants will be obliged to pay, if the latter give their clerks equal advantages as to air conditioning, parking facilities, vacations, lunches, etc. If it is too late now to install air conditioning for this summer, clerks can be promised air conditioning for next summer. The summer will go by quickly, and downtown merchants can give better vacations than can shopping-center merchants.

Homes and Autos
Many of the new homes are now offering complete air conditioning. It will soon be fairly economical to buy a new heating arrangement which will provide also for air conditioning. At present, such complete installations are rather expensive, but I am sure that the prices of these combination units will be reduced, especially in the sections which are enjoying natural gas. As a practical matter, most homes desire only one or two bedrooms, a livingroom, and kitchen air conditioned. (There certainly is no reason for air conditioning the bedrooms of children.) These few rooms can be air conditioned with individual machines attached to windows. Almost every home will have at least one room air conditioned. Prob-

Personal
Health

Poison ivy is not confined to any certain area and may be found in the city as well as in rural districts, or even in your own back yard. Many people also refer to the plant as poison oak. Poison oak grows chiefly on the west coast; poison ivy on the east coast and in the middle west. However, the plants are so similar that botanists have difficulty in distinguishing one from the other. Both plants are poisonous to humans. Although there are varying degrees of susceptibility the only sure way to escape poisoning is to stay away from the plants. Preparations can be given as a preventive measure which ably the new generation will insist upon more.

Until this past week I felt that air conditioning of automobiles was more or less of a fad. Yet I remember this same comment was made when self-starters were first introduced. General Motors seems to be able to accomplish almost anything by sufficient advertising. I never expected to see a parking lot look more colorful than a petunia bed! Many auto dealers are now asking about $500 for installing air conditioning. I forecast that this price will be very much reduced.

Thought For Investors

It is probably too late in this season to buy good air conditioning stocks. Investors had better wait until next winter before doing so. If too many investors do not try the same trick, it might be smart, whatever the trend of the market, to buy air conditioning stocks during snowstorms and sell them during the hot summer weather! Air conditioning products offered by General Electric, Westinghouse, Chrysler, Philco, and others of the big electric appliance companies are to be recommended. The air conditioning business of these big companies, however, is small compared with their total sales.

Therefore, such companies as Admiral Corp., Borg-Warner, Carrier Corp., Fedders-Quigan, Trane Co., York, Holland Furnace, and Worthington Corp., which specialize in air conditioning, might be better to buy or sell at the above suggested times. In closing, let me forecast that air conditioning will be very helpful to your local electric power company. The day will come when its peak load will be in the summer from air conditioning and gravity neutralizers rather than from lighting as at present.

may lessen the severity of possible attacks or check the course of an already contracted case.

Ivy poisoning is a skin condition which usually results from contact with the plant, but also may be contracted indirectly. People who are most susceptible to the condition have been known to acquire it through contaminated clothing, tools, even from animals who have touched the plant, or by the smoke from plants being burned. The poison is contained in the sap of the plant and the poisoning effects have been known to linger on contaminated garments from one season to another.

Ivy poisoning causes inflammation and itching of the skin. There are usually redness, swelling, blisters, and sometimes fever. Every effort should be made to prevent scratching the site as this does not cause the itching to subside and only promotes spread of the condition.

Dr. Burgess, health officer of Frederick County, advises that you may avoid the discomfort and inconvenience of ivy poisoning by learning to recognize the plant.

1—The plant may stand alone, erect, woody, and rather low, or it may climb over fences, rocks, or on the trunks of trees.

2—There are small greenish flowers on the plant in late spring or early summer, followed by pale green berries which turn white as they ripen.

3—The leaves are shiny, sometimes having slightly notched edges; these are dark green until fall when they turn to a brilliant reddish color.

4—One of the most distinguishing characteristics is that each leaf is divided into 3 leaflets.

Some of these outstanding characteristics of the plant have been the topic of such warning rhymes as:

"Leaflets three
Let it be.
Berries white
Take flight."

If there is likelihood of having been exposed to weed poisoning all exposed areas should be thoroughly washed with soap (preferably laundry soap) and water, and followed by an application of rubbing alcohol.

Eruptions of the skin and intense itching appear about three days after exposure. The condition may be somewhat relieved by application of compresses soaked in a solution made of one teaspoon of baking soda or epsom salts added to a cup of cold water, or by applying calamine lotion which is available at any drug store. Severe cases should be treated by a physician.

The best preventive measure for yourself and others is to eradicate poison plants from your property. Chemical weed killers are sold under various trade names and are available at hardware and garden supply stores. Ammonium sulfamate and (2, 4-D) are the effective ingredients of most herbicides. The latter element destroys the roots as well as the plant. These chemicals

SPORTS

To most of us, one variety of hawk is pretty much like another, but not to the falconer. Each has a characteristic hunting style, favors certain kinds of prey and needs a particular type of terrain for best performance. Though it is true that any bird of prey—be it hawk, an owl, an eagle, or a kite—can be controlled for hunting, only a few are worthy of the best traditions of falconry.

Falconry as a sport is growing in popularity. But anyone who goes in for it with the idea that this is a form of sorcery which will give you some magic power to kill creatures of the wild, will be sadly disappointed. Actually, falconry is a laborious and comparatively inefficient method of hunting. Even a well-trained hawk kills less than half of the game flushed before it—this from no less than authority than Sports Afield magazine. And a trained hawk brings in its prey; there are no cripples in falconry. A serious falconer is satisfied with but one kill in a day's hunting, provided it comes at the climax of a good "flight" by his hawk.

Author Bill O'Brien writes "The reward he is after is not game in the bag but the emotion that comes from controlling a creature incomparably swift, wild and free; from seeing his hawk soar aloft unrestrained by anything but the tenuous and precarious hold of training; from watching it mount the sky, sometimes to an altitude of 2000 feet, become lost to sight, then suddenly reappear; an emotion that comes from having this hawk, after having tasted the freedom to the boundless sky, come obediently to lure and leap nimbly back to his fist."

The hawk held in highest esteem by American falconers are the peregrine, the gyrfalcon, the prairie falcon and the goshawk. Of these, the peregrine, or duck hawk, is in widest use by falconers. It is prized for its speed, agility, daring and majesty of flight. It can be found almost

HOGAN'S ALLEY
BY PAT HOGAN

A WRITER owned an asterisk, and kept it in his den,
Where he wrote tales (which had large sales)
Of frail and erring men.
And always when he reached the point where carping
censors lurk,
He called upon the asterisk to do his dirty work.

"ARE YOU LIKE RILEY AROUND THE HOUSE?"
That question has plagued Bill Bendix ever since he started the title role in "The Life of Riley." Bendix is one star who doesn't mind being typed as Riley or being frequently hailed as "Riley" on the streets. But he has been asked so many times if he is Riley at home that he has started asking interviewers why he is supposed to be. "I once did a role in 'The Hairy Ape,'" Bill says. "No one ever asks if I'm the hairy ape at home. And it's a good thing, for I don't know what Tess (Mrs. Bendix) might say. I once played Babe Ruth, too, but I'm not expected to be a home-run hitter in private life."

"I think the impact of TV is such that people see you in their homes and build up the illusion that your own home life is just like what they see. Fans apparently have identified me so with Riley that they don't know where Bendix begins and Riley ends, and they don't want to."

RICHARD CONTE plays the role of a truck driver in a forthcoming "20th Century-Fox Hour" presentation, "Overnight Haul," a story of the clan which tools these giant trucks along the highways. On the first day of shooting, Dick clambered aboard a two-and-a-half-ton truck on the lot to find a Richard Conte husky young fellow alongside, who started to tell him the intricacies of the compound shift. "Thanks a lot," said the actor, "but I was a grease monkey on one of these things before I knew what grease paint was for. But if it means a job for you, let's not tell the front office."

"Thanks, pal," said the youth, "but I'll get back to my office. I was just loaned as technical adviser by the trucking association."

DESI ARNAZ' practical jokes sometimes give his co-workers a bad time. Recently he sent a production assistant to get a particularly cur- various away-back horse for a comedy sequence.

The man's experiences developed like a shaggy-dog story. First he had to travel 300 miles to reach the animal; then he learned the mare had just had a colt which had to be brought along. After a tiring return trip he just reached the studio in time for the filming.

As he led his two equine props on the set, Desi said straight-faced: "Didn't you get my message? The horse scene has been cut." But after one look at the man's grimy, dejected-looking face, Arnaz couldn't continue with the ribbing.

ALAN WHEATLEY, who plays the Sheriff of Nottingham in "The Adventures of Robin Hood," had an unusual real life role before turning actor. He was once employed by J. Lyons & Co., Britain's largest chain restaurant owners, in the capacity of psychologist!

FARMERS SHOOT ELEPHANTS

Farmers shoot elephants, not "pink ones" either, according to the International Federation of Agricultural Producers, a worldwide organization which counts the Farm Bureau as a member. Elephants are hard on crops in far-off Ceylon where they trample and destroy field after field.

anywhere, but this is not to say that it is common—it's estimated there are no more than 400 or 500 nesting pairs in the U. S.

The farmers apparently are carrying on a successful war against these pachyderms.

A report from Ceylon says that the farmers are killing 50 elephants a year to protect their crops. The government objects to this as these beasts are a tourist attraction and suggests that farmers use firecrackers to drive away the elephants that are damaging their crops. The farmers appear to be more realistic and continue to use bullets as a surer method.

Gas vs. Electric

Who's Faster Than What? Culinary Debate Gets Hot

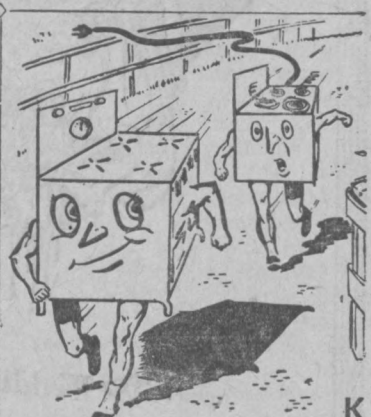

Recent claims by electric range manufacturers that their stoves are "faster than gas" have stirred up the culinary debate of the decade.

It seems that one of the "big boys" in electric appliances began proclaiming nationally that the stoves with the wire elements are "20 per cent faster" than the "flame type" ranges. Actually, according to the ads, the claim was "proved" by stacking an electric range with a 2,600-watt Calrod burner up against "four leading gas ranges" (unidentified) in a water-boiling contest.

It could have been, but wasn't, pointed out that such a burner is so "souped up" that you need special wiring and proper voltage in the house to feed it; and if you had two or more of these gimmicks on an electric range, you'd have to set up a sort of do-it-yourself TVA in the back yard to supply the current they'd need.

Furthermore—and here the whole gas industry really begins to broil—the electric test was made with a certain definite amount of water in an aluminum utensil of a certain definite size with absolutely straight sides and a perfectly flat bottom that covers the entire 9-inch burner.

That's all right, says the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, if you're planning to fix your family a couple of quarts of hot water in a heck of a hurry—and you have the proper utensil. But, if you're aiming to fry eggs or bacon to just the right turn, or fix a delicate hollandaise sauce, or deep-fat-fry some potatoes, or perform any of the dozens of functions for which the top of the stove is intended—you're not looking for high-speed heat. Instead, GAMA says, you're interested in "a seemingly 32,000,000 American homes are—in the thousand—and one shadings of controlled heat attainable over the gas flame."

Fact of the matter is that while several gas range manufacturers have come out with burners that top the "fastest" electric range by a considerable margin, the gas range industry as a whole is concentrating, GAMA says, on producing stoves that meet "more important" demands.

These include ranges with top burner heat controls that make an "automatic utensil" of every pot and pan in your home, special simmer-type burners, broilers that double as rotisseries and barbecue pits, and devices that control the "doneness" of roast and poultry, among other things.

Maybe the answer to the "who's faster than what" question is being supplied by the homemakers themselves. This year, GAMA reports, shapes up as the tenth year in a row in which more than 2,000,000 gas ranges are sold.

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A BASE FOR THE AUTOMATIC DRYER

Avoid back bending by making a base to elevate the automatic clothes dryer to a convenient working height. Determine the outside dimensions of the dryer and make the base to fit snugly around the dryer. The sides are 1 by 8-inch boards. From each, saw out 3 by 3/4-inch slots, as shown in the detail drawing. The slots make the leveling screws accessible. The leg supports are 4 by 4-inch posts.

Use waterproof wood glue and sixteen 2-inch No. 14 flat-head wood screws to assemble the sides to the posts. Use four 6-penny finishing nails to join the top corners of the boards. Screws should be either countersunk or counterbored. Fill the holes with wood putty, sand when the putty is dry, round exposed edges and corners and finish to match or to blend with the surroundings.

Ancarrow Is First Prize Winner In Cachet Contest

Clarence Ancarrow, 18-year-old Emmitsburg High School junior, was judged winner of the Emmitsburg Bi-centennial Cachet Contest, according to an announcement just made public by the contest committee. Miss Theresa Klessner of Stephens City, Va., a junior at St. Joseph College, was awarded second prize and Robert Orner, 231 N. Seton Ave., Emmitsburg, placed third.

In making the announcement, Chairman Philip B. Sharpe of the contest committee stated: "The talent exhibited by the many entrants made the task of the board of judges extremely difficult. My grateful thanks to Chairman Paul

L. Roy, and his assisting judges, Ernest Krape, Richard B. Krick and Robert J. Kenworthy. These judges were selected from Gettysburg that they might be totally unfamiliar with the individual handicraft of any entrant. The only identification on any entry was a number assigned by myself, and thus the names of the winners was not known to the judges until after the decision was made. I congratulate the winners and wish to thank all those who submitted their excellent sketches."

Ancarrow's winning sketch has been copyrighted and will become the official cachet for the Bi-centennial year starting January 1, 1957. Special dedication ceremonies are being planned and will be announced later in the year.

A total of $55 was awarded in prize money, donated by the Emmitsburg Lions Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. Ancarrow's first prize was $25, second, $15 and third, $5. The judges picked the entry of 15-year-old Thomas Zurgable of the 9th grade in St. Joseph's High School as first honorable mention. Other honorable mention went to Mrs. Harold M. Hoke; Katherine Winn, 13; James Hemler, 14; Frances Ann Ott, 12; Julianne Clarke, 12 and Bernice Muench, 14.
