It's an ill wind that blows no good, and therefore someone is going to profit by the illness and subsequent resignation of Millard Tydings, candidate for the U. S. Senate from Maryland. The former Senator announced this week he was withdrawing from the race against his opponent, John M. Butler, due to a current illness. A number of candidates are in the field and one will be selected at a special caucus of the state delegates Monday. Personally, of the number seeking the appointment I'd prefer to see my personal friend, George P. Mahoney, as Mr. Butler's opponent. Mr. Mahoney has demonstrated time and again that he is a real vote getter, and therefore he is certain to make a great run, as opposed by a bad run by some practically unknown candidate. Mr. Mahoney has done a lot for the Democratic party in Maryland and rightfully deserves this chance due to the fact that he was runner-up to Mr. Tydings in the recent election. I believe Mahoney is the only candidate who might possibly defeat the incumbent Senator Butler, Republican.

The verbal brickbats are flying in San Francisco and from what they say there, it is hard to believe that a party not in power (the Democrats), could be guilty of so many wrong-doings. We have the greatest prosperity ever they claim. Yeah, but who's got any dough left after tangleling with the high cost of living which is at an all-time high. Back in my early days a fellow or gal would be a lot better off earning $15 a week than he is now under the present setup making $100 per week. As usual during an election year, everything under the sun is being promised and again as usual I won't pay any attention to the hot blasts from San Francisco because as you and I know, exactly nothing will be done once the election in November has passed.

It's pretty conclusive now that the new school will not be ready for the opening, due in about two weeks. The steel strike has played havoc with the plans for construction and to date practically only the very elementary work of laying a footer has been accomplished, with little else. However, don't become alarmed because there will be school. The construction firm has let it be known that the equipment for the new school is available and will be installed, if necessary, in the old schools until such time as the new one is ready for occupancy. It's really interesting how the word gets around. I heard this week that certain parties from New Jersey heard about our new school and telephoned here to find out information about it. The party was concerned with the problem of erecting a new school and liked the plans of ours. I do hope they obtained the desired information.

The untimely demise of our personal friend, Dr. Stinson, is a distinct loss to both me and the community. Professional men are few and far between and therefore hard to get. I remember vividly 35 years ago when "Doc" settled here, and we were happy to get a good and competent dentist in our community. Everyone knows what education and scientific training is required in becoming a dentist and when a town loses one it represents an irreparable loss to the community both in the health and welfare and cultural realms. My deepest sympathies to the family.

I can't for the life of me understand why the state doesn't elaborate on the fine recreational facilities of the Catoctin Mountains south of us. There is a natural wonderland there and it's a shame nothing is done about it. Many families from Emmitsburg hit the road every week in search of a picnic spot and drive as much as 50 miles away. This shouldn't be necessary when we have the potentialities right in our own backyard. Apparently, nothing will be done about it until some organization grabs the ball and demands some action on the matter . . . and the sooner the better. Have you noticed how Eyerle's Valley is building up? People from the city are

Condemnation Suits Entered By Road Commission

The State Roads Commission this week filed nine condemnation suits for acquisition of properties on the new Thurmont bypass (U. S. Route 15). The suits were filed in the Circuit Court for Frederick County by Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general assigned to the Roads Commission. Nine separate checks totaling $58,000 were deposited with the suits, under the new Maryland condemnation statute passed by the Maryland Legislature and effective on June 1. The purpose of the new law is to prevent real estate speculation in the path of new highways and to expedite real estate acquisition. With the filing of the suits the properties become immediately available for highway purposes and the property values are frozen for a period up to one year.

Rights-of-way 200 feet wide are being acquired by the Commission for ultimate dualization of the Thurmont bypass. The first construction will be for one lane only. In all, 85 properties are being taken for the construction of this bypass. In the case of 75 property owners, agreement already has been reached with the Roads Commission on values. One additional property is in litigation under the old condemnation law. With the filing of the nine new suits, negotiations between the Commission and the affected property owners will continue. If no agreement is reached the question of the valuation of the properties will go before the new Board of Property Review appointed this summer by the courts.

The Thurmont bypass will be 4.4 miles long including two bridges, one over the Western Maryland Railway and another over Maryland Route 77. The road will bypass Thurmont to the west.

Beauty Salon To Open

Marty's Beauty Shop will be reopened under new management tomorrow, it has been announced. The establishment, located in the Harner Bldg. on the Square and formerly operated by the late Mrs. Louis F. Rosensteel, will resume business under a new name, the Emmitsburg Beauty Salon and will be managed by Pearl Neiman of Hagerstown.

Funeral Services For Dr. Stinson Largely Attended

Largely attended funeral services were conducted last Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Allison Funeral Home in Emmitsburg for Dr. Oscar H. Stinson, a dentist here for 35 years, who died last Tuesday morning of a heart attack in Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore.

Rev. Philip Bower, pastor of the Elias Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, officiated There were Masonic rites at the grave in Mountain View Cemetery. Serving as pallbearers were Aaron Adams, Dr. D. L. Beagle, Charles A. Harner, Leonard Zimmerman, Edgar Emrich, and Paul Claypool. The honor guard was made up of members of the Emmitsburg American Legion Post; Eugene Rodgers, commander; William Rodgers, Henry Filler, Clifford Eyerle, David Wantz, Carroll Topper and Edgar Wastler. Dr. Stinson was a past master of the Emmitsburg Masons, a past president of the Frederick County Dental Society and as a veteran of World War I was a charter member of the Francis X. Elder Post, American Legion.

Century-Old Picnic Will Be Held Tomorrow

Once again the time has rolled around for the annual Buchanan Valley Picnic, over 100 years old, and enjoyed so much by many Emmitsburgians. The affair is sponsored annually by the Old Jesuit Mission, located half-way between Gettysburg and Chambersburg and also is accessible via Fairfield or Orrtanna.

Rev. Fr. Louis J. Yeager, well-known locally, heads the little parish which sponsors the big picnic. The historic old mission was built in 1817 and the original church still is standing and in use. Many tourists visit the interesting mission and a group of nuns from St. Joseph Central House teaches Sunday School there every week, rain or shine. The historic mission derives its name from former President James Buchanan. Father Yeager has many good friends in the Emmitsburg District, having attended Mt. St. Mary's College and Seminary for 10 years from 1912-22. The picnic will be held on Saturday, Aug. 25 and will feature many games and amusements. One of the highlights of the occasion will be Paul "Mac" McKendrick, the "one man band," who plays six different instruments at once. Tasty chicken and ham suppers also be served.

Locals Lambasted 16-1 Sunday By Blue Ridge

Emmitsburg lost its opportunity last Sunday to place in the first division of the Pen-Mar Baseball League as Blue Ridge Summit was victorious 16-1. As a result Blue Ridge Summit sewed up the first place standing.

Cashtown, however faces Blue Ridge Summit Sunday and a win for the Summit could drop Cashtown into a tie for the second spot which it now holds alone. Union Bridge will travel to Fairfield for a game that holds several possibilities. It could end with Fairfield and Union Bridge tied for third place—if Union Bridge wins Sunday. Or it could end with Fairfield tied with Cashtown for second—if Fairfield wins its game and Cashtown loses its struggle. Or if Cashtown and Fairfield both win, then the final standing will come out as it now stands.

The contests Sunday can also resolve the tie for fifth place between Emmitsburg and Taneytown.

On Friday, June 29 during the Maryland Municipal League's convention in Ocean City, Md., the Honorable Theodore R. McKeldin, Governor of Maryland, and Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, presented the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission's Award to the Corporation of Emmitsburg, Md., for completing a full year without experiencing a fatality, due to automobile accidents. Charles R. Fuss, Town Commissioner, received the award for this community.

Fan Says Circuses Will Continue

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:
Now that the biggest of the "Big Tops" has been taken down and folded away, we have been given many surmises as to why it did not roll on to a completion of another full season. It may be that Mr. John Ringling North, alone, has the real answer as to why his great big Caravan of Colossal Attractions, reached home, winter quarters, on let us say, its own power.

There are persons who say that the Tent Circus Era ends. Such a statement is erroneous. There are listed at present 18 tented circuses and ten promotional circuses. Now that their biggest competitor has withdrawn, they have still greater success to look forward to.

From as far back as 1855, many circuses have changed names or ownership. But, it happens continuously, that there are at least 25 or 30 circuses to take to the road on the opening days of the circus season, and they don't have to be overgrown in tent size to be classed among the best. Managers of the circuses are ever on the alert to obtain for the entertainment of their patrons the very best performers available to carry on that greatest of all forms of amusement in the Show World, for young and old, the Circus.

The tented circus is truly an American institution and just as the majority of us love our baseball and football, we also love our circus, and surely we shall never allow such clean, wholesome out of the ordinary pleasure of the entertainment field, pass in to oblivion. Our motto must ever be, "There'll be a circus, always."

Without a doubt, too much rain can and does hurt circus business. But, we know, also, that there are exceptionally good seasons or good parts of seasons, when rains are not too frequent and that means encouragement all along the line and usually terminates the tour as another successful one. Like a football game, especially, played in most any kind of weather, the elements are no hindrance to we who love the circus. We'll be there long before the whistle blows at 2:15 and most likely again for the evening performance at 8:15.

The cost of a ticket to the circus is no higher than for many tickets we buy to admit us to other shows or sports. The circus has enormous expenses and it pays as it goes. The belief of many people, strange to say, is that the circus takes too much money from the city or town it exhibits in. That is so very far from right. Before a circus even reaches a city or town, there is a nice fat license fee to take care of; a lot to rent; food to be bought; feed for animals, and many other incidentals, we do not even think of, that have to be paid for.

Former circus lots in many instances have been converted in to lumber yards or a little village may have sprung up in the area, causing the circus to pitch its tents a greater distance from the city or town, and it often happens that parking space is limited. The aforementioned are just a few of the obstacles the circus has to contend with in order to fulfill its desire to give us something thrillingly different in the way of entertainment.

We hope the day will come when the city and town fathers will realize fully the fact that the circus, being one of our great American institutions (and we are proud of such things that are a part of our American way of life), will see fit to set aside a special lot for the circus, either in a park or make the lot into a park to be used 364 days a year

Southern States Annual Banquet Wednesday

A "What's The Answer" contest—leading to prizes valued at nearly $25,000—and elections of local board and Farm Home Advisory Committee members, will be among the highlights of the annual Southern States membership meeting for the Emmitsburg area to be held 6:30 p. m. (DST) on Aug. 29 at Lutheran Parish House, Emmitsburg. The session is being sponsored by Southern States and Emmitsburg Feed and Farm Supply.

There will also be a showing of the movie, "Partners," which is the story of how the farmer cooperative has become an important part of the farmer's benefits operations and how it benefits all the people. The movie was produced and distributed by the American Institute of Cooperation, of which Southern States Cooperative is a member. The film has an all professional cast.

The "What's The Answer" contest—there will be about 450 such contests held throughout the six-state operating territory of Southern States Cooperative within the next few months—will be built around a slide film report of Southern States Cooperative and local agency operations for the past year.

To be eligible, contestants must be 18 years of age or older as of Aug. 1, 1956, and be a member or patron of Southern States or be a member of their families, or be a member of any farm family. He or she must attend the local Southern States meeting in the community.

There will be three contests, based on "What's The Answer" questions, to be held at local meetings. All winners will have their names entered in the grand prize competition which will be held as part of the Southern States annual stockholders meeting scheduled for Lexington, Ky., in November. Two winners at the local meeting will receive electric skillets.

A total of 15 grand prizes, all of them with cash options, will be awarded at Lexington. Included among these are $1200 worth of Southern States supplies for use on the winner's farm; a 35-cubic-foot food freezer; a fertilizer spreader; $1100 worth of Southern States supplies for use on the winner's farm; $1000 worth of seed; a milking machine; a bulk milk tank; $1,000 worth of fertilizer, and other prizes.

William E. Wivell of Emmitsburg, will serve as chairman of the local meeting. Rev. Philip Bower of Emmitsburg, will give the invocation. Group singing will be led by Dan Lindsey of Emmitsburg.

A report of local operations and services will be given by Ralph D. Lindsey, manager of Emmitsburg Feed and Farm Supply. Southern States District Manager J. A. Silver will report on overall Southern States operations for the year ended last June 30.

Members of the general committees assisting with the meeting are: decorating, Mrs. Raymond Baumgardner and Mrs. William E. Wivell; patron's tickets, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fuss, and greeting, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cregger.

County Firemen Elect Local Man To Board

The annual election of officers of the Frederick County Volunteer Firemen's Assn. was held Tuesday evening in Frederick with the following results:

George Black, Thurmont, president; Everett Gaver, Middletown, vice president; Edgar Zimmerman, Walkersville, second vice president. Philip Beard, Walkersville, continued as treasurer and Robert L. Smith, Frederick, was returned to the secretaryship he has held for the past 26 years.

Elected to the board of trustees were John J. Hollinger, Emmitsburg; Paul Tritapoe, Brunswick; Edward Falkenstein, Myersville and Carmen Fogle, New Midway.

Also named to the board was the retiring president L. Edward Morgan, Frederick, who presided over the business meeting.

A report from the radio committee by chairman Morgan stated that the committee is seeking to get financial backing from the State Legislature to set up county wide radio dispatch services for the firemen.

The Braddock Heights delegation stressed the urgency of the radio service and said that such efforts should be pushed hard. It also said that a set of two-way radios may be obtained from the County Sheriff's office and they would look into it.

The annual awarding of a suitable trophy to the outstanding fireman in the county was decided upon. The move will set up a committee to choose three candidates out of 16, one from each company, and selection of the outstanding fireman will be made by some anonymous person.

A proposed resolution to increase the number of meetings from quarterly to monthly, was defeated. Memorial services honoring deceased county firemen were held with an eulogy by Rev. Herbert Jordan, assistant pastor of St. John's Catholic Church of Frederick. Convention flowers were requested to be placed on the grave of Capt. F. Lester Smith, former secretary of the Junior Company. The first quarterly meeting of the group will be held in Braddock Heights, Oct. 18.

Car Overtakes; Driver Injured

A Hagerstown man suffered a four-inch scalp laceration when he turned over his vehicle near Cregarstown last Thursday evening. The mishap occurred at 10:10 p. m., when a 1956 MG roadster, driven by Ellsworth B. Watkins, 38, Hagerstown, failed to negotiate a curve about a mile and a half east of Cregarstown on the Long's Mill Rd., about 25 feet west of Owens Creek bridge. Watkins was west-bound, Trooper William G. Morgan investigating officer reported, and his car failed to round a curve in the road, hitting an embankment and overturning on the left side of the highway. Watkins was treated at the Frederick Memorial Hospital. He was charged by the state trooper with failing to keep to the right of the center of the road.

FINAL ACCOUNT FILED

The first and final account of George E. Eyster and Andrew R. Eyster, executors of the will of Nellie Eyster Zacharias filed last week in Frederick County Circuit Court, showed a total of $1893.48; disbursements of $808.39, and a net of $1085.09. This was distributed in legacies according to the will with a final overpayment of $271.16.

"The individual who is surprised at how much income tax he has to pay would be even more surprised—probably shocked—to know how much the hidden taxes (manufacturers and excise taxes) also take out of his income. What it boils down to is that those who often cry loudest to increase taxes on business do not realize that they are, in the end, indirectly increasing their own."—Philadelphia (Pa.) Bulletin

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. (Matthew 16:24.)

One of the most beautiful words in any language is sacrifice. We associate it with the rich, sweet, and beautiful self-giving experiences of life.

I recall such an experience during the depression days. My mother, a devoted Christian, had a very limited income. It was her wish to subscribe for a splendid religious periodical for my brothers and me. Out of her limited income she expected to pay for those subscriptions. When I discovered it, I chided her and refused to allow her to pay for them. I shall never forget the pained expression on her face. Tears flowed down her cheeks as she said, "But I want to; it gives me great joy."

The true Christian does not look upon such sacrifice as self-denial but as a privilege, an opportunity, a joy. This is the kind of sacrifice that God blesses. It enables His church to grow and to prosper. For those who would be true followers of Christ, the thread of sacrifice must run through all of life.

Prayer
O God, forgive us wherein we have thought more of ourselves than of Thee and of others. Forgive us for accepting the lesser values. Grant us strength of mind and soul to find meaning in every sacrifice we make as Christians. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

Thought For The Day
God will help me to do more than is required.

Roadblock In Agriculture

Roger Fleming, one of the top executives of the nation's largest farmers' organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation, thinks that within a comparatively few years the growing of burley tobacco in America will be confined to 1/2-acre plots — if the Government's present high rigid price support and acreage allotment program in burley is continued. Perhaps this fact about burley tobacco doesn't excite many people; after all, burley is grown in only two states, Kentucky and Tennessee. Yet the implications to be found in the burley program should be disturbing to everyone.

In 12 years the high support price and acreage allotment, decreed by Congress, has turned the clock back toward frontier days in some aspects of burley tobacco production. A hundred years ago burley was grown in small patches on thousands of Kentucky farms. Through the years, however, as demand increased, a farmer here and there began to specialize in burley production, expand his acreage, establish new cultivation and production techniques. Efficiency Improved

Burley production became the main farming effort of hundreds of farmers. The product became less costly to produce, and the consumers benefitted. With specialization, the little patches of burley disappeared. The 5, 10 and 15-acre burley growers were much more efficient.

In the late '30's, when the economy was at a low ebb, the Government started a "temporary" high price support program for burley growers. It quickly had to institute acreage allotments to hold down the production—thousands of little burley patches sprang up again. Now, after 12 years of high supports and acreage allotments, three-fourths of burley production is on plots less than one acre in size. Roger Fleming explains that there are so many of the little producers that their political power keeps Congress from cutting production on the little plots; so the larger plots have to take the full cut. He is certain that the final results will be that the political rule of "equal shares" will have to be applied, and all burley growers will be restricted to about 1/2-acre of production.

Applies To All Products

Roger Fleming and his Farm Bureau organization, backed up by the opinions of some of the best agricultural economists in America, contend that what is happening in burley tobacco production would tend to happen in corn, wheat, rice, cotton, beef or any other farm product under the same kind of price and production control program applied to burley. "Let's apply burley experience," he says, "to the dairy business. The dairy business can be found throughout the country."

If the Government should set a high rigid price for dairy products, there would be a big increase in the number of people milking small herds of cows — just as more people started growing burley tobacco at the Government's high fixed price. So, observed Mr. Fleming, "you would have to set minimum cow allotments just as you did acreage in burley tobacco . . . The Congress of the United States would be likely to set the minimum at three cows." The "minimum allotment" is the point at which no production cut is applied—there or lower.

Throttling Progress

Why would it be set down at three cows? Mr. Fleming explained that with the fixed high support price, hundreds of thousands of farmers would be milking two or three cows commercially; and there would be so many of these their political power would keep Congress from reaching down and controlling production by cutting these little producers. They would have a "vested interest" in keeping controls off two and three-cow herds. So the control of production would be applied to the larger herds, above three head.

If improved breeding and other production improvements paralleled the increase in burley tobacco productivity, what would have occurred in the dairy industry in the 12 years under such a plan controlled by the political pressures on Congress? Mr. Fleming answers: "There would be no cow herd in the United States having more than three cows? What would

Gov. Proclaims Civil Defense Week Sept. 9-15

Governor Theodore McKeldin proclaimed Sept. 9-15 as Maryland Civil Defense Week. The Proclamation reads as follows: "The maintenance of peace is of paramount interest to the citizens of Maryland. "But while the danger of atomic war remains, the existence of a strong and efficient Civil Defense is essential as an asset to peace and as a necessity in the event of enemy attack. "The strength of the nation's Civil Defense depends upon the state of individual and community disaster preparedness. "President Eisenhower has called upon the nation to observe the week of Sept. 9 through Sept. 15 as Civil Defense Week as a means of developing an awareness of the need for general participation in Civil Defense.

"Therefore, I, Theodore R. McKeldin, Governor, do hereby proclaim the aforementioned week as 'Civil Defense Week' in Maryland, and I urge the residents of Maryland to join in this observance."

Registration Office Open Nights

The Registry Board office in the basement of the Court House will be open two nights a week throughout September to accommodate persons who desire to register and who do not have an opportunity to do so during the day.

It was announced that in September, the office will be open from 7 to 9 p. m. on Tuesday and Thursday of each week. In addition the regular office hours will be observed during the day-time.

The Board of Election Supervisors had announced some time ago that night registration hours would be set up prior to the Presidential election and that there would be no registrations in county centers. It was felt that the night registration hours twice a week would give county as well as city residents an opportunity to get their names on the registration records.

The Registry Board announced that the last day on which persons can register and vote in the Presidential election is Saturday, Oct. 6. That is 30 days before the election—the time prescribed by law for closing of the registration books.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses International Affairs

Babson Park, Mass., Aug. 23—Readers are naturally interested in what I think may cause the next stock market decline.

I have heretofore discussed the domestic situation which could be very much upset by President Eisenhower's physical condition; also the fact that many purchasers on installments are getting physically and mentally tired with "keeping up with Lizzie." Therefore, this week I will confine myself to the international situation.

Communism On The Decline

I think that the Russian leaders, who are primarily interested in holding their own jobs, believe that they now have a better chance of spreading Communism through diplomacy than through threatened violence. The first step in such a campaign was the discrediting of Stalin. The second step has been apologizing to Tito for various things they have done. The real reason for their change is that Communism is contrary to human nature. These Russian leaders now believe it must be brought about slowly and cannot be forced.

The real conflict will be between the East and the West. The Russian leaders are trying to consolidate the Eastern half of the world including China, India, and the East Indies, and forget Europe and North and South America.

What Washington Knows

This situation has been carefully discussed behind closed doors in Senate Committee rooms. These select committees have been told things that the public doesn't know. The White House and our leading statesmen are correct in following this policy until they find the answer; then it will be told to the people.

This news could greatly affect general business. Certainly our several hundred thousand soldiers in Europe could be withdrawn and defense appropriations would be reduced. This would harm some industries and localities, while other industries would be helped.

To summarize my thoughts, I herewith give ten brief forecasts.

(1) Both political parties will make an effort to keep this inside information secret until after November 6 of this year. (2) Our European allies are quietly being adjusted to this change in our policy. This can be done, even in the case of Great Britain, because the people of those countries do not expect to have all the inside confidential information.

(3) Ordinarily, official statements by Russia would receive considerable attention. Due to the present admission by the Russian Government of Stalin's treachery, butchery, and dishonesty, the capitals of other countries will now be skeptical of all Russian political announcements.

(4) I sometimes think that only a great world religious movement could save the day for all concerned. I see no sign of such a movement at the present time. More people are attending churches, but what we hear seems to go in one ear and out the other. Too many churches are becoming high-grade social organizations rather than teaching us to be willing to sacrifice for other families and nations.

(5) By 1965, Germany may again attempt a local European war to control Europe and liberate the Russian satellites.

(6) The fear of the atomic bomb and especially of the H-Bomb may bring us to our knees. This fear already is having its results. Another factor in the situation is the "guided missile," which could entirely change warfare. The guided missile, however, has not yet been made accurate enough to endanger us.

(7) President Truman's trip abroad will be helpful to the situation. This also applies to all student exchanges and to the great tourists who travel this summer from the U. S. and other countries.

(8) I see no reason why we should have much decline in the stock market during 1956, provided some very unexpected serious event does not occur.

(9) I certainly do not look for World War III for many years, because the people of the United States are in no mood to enter such.

(10) The conservative and patriotic program for each

Masters of the Future?

These are the days when science fiction takes on the look of truth. The ghastly tales in which insects take over the world seem only too possible. The creeping, crawling, flying population must be reckoned with.

The children come home from camp looking like smallpox cases. Backyard barbecues built at great expense are abandoned to the chiggers. Thin lines of ants parade boldly over the front-door sill. The night is horrid with the shriek of dive-bombing mosquitoes.

Will the boasted intelligence of man break down under this onslaught? Sometimes it seems that the outcome of the battle will be close. Fortunately, our scientists are meeting the challenge with new and better insecticides each year. But resistant strains of insects seem to appear for each new spray. What's more, the chemicals are sometimes dangerous to man himself, and to the domestic animals on which he depends for life.

While the scientific battle against the insect world goes on, what can the average civilian do to protect himself?

Good screens and scrupulous cleanliness will, at least, keep insects outside where they belong. Repair breaks in screens at once. Mosquito commandos can spy out the slightest break and bring up an attack force in almost no time. Careful kitchen policing will discharge enemy fifth columns. Insecticide "bombs" containing pyrethrum and DDT are powerful offensive weapons, but must be used with caution to avoid harming beings and pets.

Despite all precautions, insect attacks are frequently successful. Fortunately, the bites are rarely dangerous, merely uncomfortable. Now that malaria and yellow fever are under control, the greatest danger lies in scratching where it itches. This can lead to infection and possibly blood poisoning. Keep the skin clean, apply calamine lotion, Epsom salts, or a wet paste of equal parts of baking soda and water. This treatment will soothe the sting and the bites should disappear shortly.

It isn't really necessary to spend the summer in an air raid shelter. Man's courage and ingenuity should win this war.

Internal Revenue Continues Drive On Delinquents

Delinquent tax accounts are being reduced in the Baltimore District, according to C. I. Fox, District Director of Internal Revenue for the Baltimore District, which comprises Maryland and District of Columbia, but the reduction will not permit any letup in enforcement action by collection officers.

The Director pointed out that as a result of receiving over 500,000 taxable returns and additional assessments during the current year, the delinquent accounts in the Baltimore District totaled over 83,000 as of July 31, 1956 compared to over 103,000 at the same date last year. Fox emphasized that less than 4% of the taxpayers failed to fully satisfy their current liabilities, and that in fairness to the vast majority of taxpayers who meet their obligations fully and promptly, he is determined to collect these outstanding accounts by use of legal procedures provided by the Internal Revenue Code.

Continuing, the Director said that over 7,000 of the delinquent accounts are trust fund accounts, which represents amounts withheld by employers for income and social security taxes and not turned over to the Internal Revenue Service.

Fox further stated that it has been brought to his attention that many employers still refuse to use the depository receipt system. Employers who fail to follow this provision of the law are subject to penalties which are being enforced.

In conclusion Fox warned that the collection of delinquent accounts, be it income taxes, withholding, social security, excise, or other taxes, will be enforced by levy on salaries, seizure and sale of available assets and possible criminal action if necessary. He suggests that delinquents make every effort to clear these accounts at once and avoid unnecessary inconvenience.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Head into the waves! How many times you must have heard that. But directly, or exactly, or at a slight angle? Experts disagree, but lately most of them appear to favor angling into the waves, perhaps even more than slightly. However, Willard Crandall, boats and motors editor of Sports Afield magazine, says, "I unhesitatingly and strongly advocate the heading into the waves for an inexperienced boatman caught out in dangerous waves in a boat 16 feet or under." Here are his reasons:

As long as the boat heads exactly into the crest, the force of both wind and wave hit each side equally. But take an angling course, even a slight one, and the powerful forces of wind and water both start striking one side of the boat, trying to turn it more. No matter how well the motor is going, or how strong a hand on the tiller, an extra-size wave or hard gust of wind, perhaps both combined, can then jerk the bow around still further. And being swung parallel to the waves is about the worst thing that can happen to a small boat in bad water.

Taking waves at somewhat of an angle may result in more water being sprayed in. Water aboard a small boat in a storm is serious—it always rushes where it is least wanted. As the boat tips to one side, the water shoots there and by the force of its arrival, as well as its weight, pushes greatly to any tip, roll or dive. What are the objections of some experts to heading straight into waves? If the bow has a tendency to dive, it might dip deep enough so that the parted wave rejoins in the boat. If such a boat met the oncoming water at a slight angle, that same wave might try to push the boat sideways. As a rule, common sense seems to say it's much better to hold the bow up by moving weight back, than to let a wave try to do the job. The second objection to heading on hitting of waves is that it may be hard on the boat. But the question here isn't just one of prolonging the eventual life of the boat. It is the life of the passengers. Remember, we've been talking about boats under 16 feet, outboards, even rowboats and canoes.

Gophers seldom, if ever, climb trees; eastern woodchuck will occasionally stretch out on a low limb, though.—Sports Afield

Attention Farmers!

When your crops are ready to put in the silo, why not engage someone who is prepared to give you the most for your money? Let one of two forage harvesters get to your crops when they are at their peak nutrition value. We also are equipped to refill your silo after it has settled without the extra hard work of resetting a blower. By dealing with us you are also guarded against any major breakdown which might occur in the operation causing several days' delay in finishing your silo. Engage early so that your work may be fitted into a schedule to eliminate most of the delay when the crops are ready. Contact

Miss Suzanne Butler, Baltimore, was maid of honor. She wore a light green gown of nylon tulle and carried a bouquet of yellow pompons. Miss Miriam Fitz, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Her gown was light yellow nylon tulle and she carried a bouquet of fuchsia pompons.

Lieut. Joseph Roni, Seattle, Wash., stationed at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, served as the best man. Mr. Donald McCaulsin served as an usher.

A reception was held at Bucher's Restaurant immediately following the ceremony.

The couple left immediately for Kansas where they will reside.

more aware of the assets of that valley than we are here, right beside it. There are many cottages there now and each year sees a few more. Soon the best natural assets of the valley will be gobbled up by strangers, right under our noses. It's really a shame to let this happen but with the apathy shown on our part, what else could be expected? Just take a drive through the valley some afternoon or evening and you'll see just what I mean.
