BY ABIGAIL

Brr-r-r, Old Man Winter is really throwing the book at us. We've been getting just about everything lately including a little spring weather tossed in for seasoning in the weather stew. Did you know that 1955 was the longest and most sustained cold period we have endured here in half a century? Also that in 1956 at least one third of the days, well over 100, were freezing or below?

Emmitsburg has a big heart. Another proof of this was the plea last week for donations for a television set for an aged local couple. No sooner had the paper hit the streets than a dozen contributors bounced right into this office with contributions. Most were small ones to be true, but the donors' hearts were in the right place, so to speak. The required sum hasn't been reached to date and about $40 still is needed, so anyone wishing to contribute to this noble cause, send in the donation immediately, please. It is a proven fact that Emmitsburgians are of a generous nature. On numerous occasions they have banded together and helped people in distress. Several barns and houses were rebuilt, food and clothing donated and livestock feed and farming machinery have been just a few of the essentials that have been supplied neighbors in distress.

Otto Hahn contributes another batch of old newspapers. This time a feature story on the late Prof. Diehl, music instructor at Mt. St. Mary's College a half century ago. Legend has it that a ghost, presumably the professor's son, plays sweet flute music every Christmas Eve, over the grave of his father in Mt. St. Mary's Cemetery. While I'm not one to take much stock in myths I wish that someone somebody would go up there and check the veracity of this legend—if it has any! With Christmas just past I haven't heard a soul mention the story and I'm inclined to be on the dubious side about the whole thing. Anybody have anything to add this year?

Life is beginning to stir in the Bicentennial plans. First of all last week the first cancellation of the souvenir cachet took place and this week they were placed on sale in local business establishments and are selling like hot cakes. The committee already realizes it made a mistake in printing only 2000 of the postals because more than half of them have been sold the first week. Secondly the announcement that a pageant will be held after all is generating further interest in the planned observance. Three hundred volunteers are needed to produce this pageant, so many of you will be called upon to sacrifice a little time to participate in the play, but that is the only way it can be accomplished. In about six weeks the Beard Contest will commence. Soon publicity will be pounded out by the team and we'll all be geared for the occasion. Many events which the public knows little or nothing about to date will be announced and the Chronicle is planning a big souvenir edition which carry plenty of history and interesting items concerning good old Emmitsburg and its 200 years of history. Full cooperation of the community must be had if this Bicentennial is to be a success.

Maryland soon will have an additional suds factory (brewery) it was announced last week. Remember the big howl that went up last session of the State Legislature when it refused to grant permission to the Carling's Brewery of Canada to locate in our state? The Baltimore breweries presumably lobbied against letting competition enter the state, fearing they would have to lower the present high price of the amber fluid. Gov. McKeldin vetoed the Legislature's action and this year the company will be permitted to build, and it has just announced it will erect a multi-million dollar plant near Baltimore, possibly within a year's time. This should help relieve some of the tax pressure on Marylanders.

Whales, like other mammals, can drown if they get water in their lungs.

Bicentennial Will Present Pageant

Emmitsburg's Bi-centennial definitely will have a pageant it was decided at a special meeting of the Bi-centennial executive committee held Tuesday evening in the VFW home, Mrs. Robert E. Daugherty, general chairman, presiding over the meeting and presenting a representative of the John B. Rogers Productions Co. of New York, Mr. James May.

The decision as to whether or not to stage a pageant had been hanging fire for many months until Tuesday night when definite action to assure the staging of the historical extravaganza was taken by the committee.

The group decided to enter into a contract with the production company to promote the pageant. Under the terms of the contract the company will furnish all the lighting effects, make-up, costumes and dialogue and will set up a program of planning for the entire celebration. A director will be stationed in Emmitsburg for at least five weeks, moulding the play together.

The historical pageant will be staged on the Emmitsburg Civic Assn. grounds east of town and a massive 200-ft. long stage will be erected. Over 300 local individuals will compose the cast of characters. The pageant will be written by professionals in the field and the material will be supplied by local historians. Expert publicists will supply a constant stream of publicity and a souvenir brochure will be printed. It was announced the beard contest will begin March 1 and at about that time invitations to the mammoth parade will be sent to numerous organizations in several states.

Mr. May will meet with the various committees in the near future and a definite plan of events will be mapped out and once the committees are hard at work excitement will run high in Emmitsburg. The Bi-centennial is planned for the week of June 22-28.

There was some question as to whether the producing company could handle the affair due to previous bookings but a confirmation was received yesterday that it would sign a contract to handle the Emmitsburg Bicentennial.

The Dept. of the Army will open special officer candidate schools for Army Reservists next summer, according to information received this week by Col. John L. Keefe, Chief of the U. S. Military District of Maryland.

Consisting of two courses—nine weeks of infantry training at Fort Benning, Ga., and 11 weeks of artillery at Fort Sill, Okla.—the new program will afford Army Reserve warrant officers and non-commissioned officers opportunities for officer candidate schooling comparable to those in the National Guard.

Jack Sullivan Establishes New Point Record

With Jack Sullivan setting the pace with a record 51 points, Mt. St. Mary's College lambasted a bewildered Washington College five 110-59 Wednesday night before a large crowd in Memorial Gym.

Sullivan's 51 points broke the former Mason-Dixon Conference record of 50, held jointly by Spieggle of Baltimore U. and Mitchell of Catholic U. It also was a gym record and a personal record after scoring 44 points three times previously. He also hiked his average to 33 points per game which puts him among the top scorers in the country.

In his record setting spree the big Mountaineer ace hit 20 out of 33 shots from the field, including 10 of 13 in the initial half and 11 out of 13 foul shots.

Mounts Top Loyola Saturday

Jack Sullivan teamed up with his brother Joe, to guide the Mt. St. Mary's College basketball team to a brilliant 71-63 victory over Loyola College at Baltimore last Saturday night as the Mounties began their drive for a fourth straight Mason-Dixon Conference championship.

The win was the first in 15 years that the Blue and White defeated the Greyhounds on their home court in a regular season contest.

Jack, perhaps the better known of the Sullivan brothers, rammed through 26 points to run his total to 247 in eight games. Joe turned in a brilliant all-around game and held Paul Dodd, Loyola's top scorer to but four points. Burt Sheing kept up his stellar scoring with 20 points to hike his point count to 169.

With the scoring tied at 4-all the Sullivan brothers combined with Sheing, led the attack and sent the Mountaineers ahead 16-6. A short time later the locals led 20-16 and at half time were on the long end of the count, 37-26. Loyola chopped away at the Mount lead and at one time was within six points, 48-52 but that was as close as they ever got.

Coach Jim Phelan's squad turned in a fine job under the boards and outreached their opponents 66-46 with Bill Williams, Jerry Bohlinger and Tom Leonard standing out.

Town Council Studies Traffic Problems

Emmitsburg will invite the State Roads Commission's traffic engineer here to study local traffic problems in the near future it was decided at the regular monthly meeting of the Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg held in the Fire Hall Monday night. Chairman of the Board Charles R. Fuss presided over the meeting. Commissioner J. William Rowe was absent, being hospitalized in Gettysburg.

Council took action after complaints had been received that speeding was excessive and dangerous in the West End of town. A stoplight at the Beegle property was discussed but no action was taken. It was pointed out that there are several other traffic obstacles within the town's limits and the State Roads Commission will be asked to consider remedial measures to insure a constant unimpeded flow of traffic through the town.

The reports of the town clerk, Louise Sebolt, were presented and accepted without alteration. Parking meter revenue for December was reported as $333.27. In addition there was $31 in overtime parking fines and $6 in other parking fines, making a total of $370.27.

The Town Fathers decided some time ago to place automatic parking meters on the Square but to date nothing has been heard from the company which manufactures them. Regarding the new fluorescent lighting which the town solons are interested in, the group will meet with Potomac Edison's field representative, Samuel Breth on Monday night. It is planned to install these new lights around the Square and possibly the entire town. The Board met at a special session Wednesday night with representatives of the State Health Dept. and an engineering firm to discuss the town's proposed new sewer system. It was announced that the Corporation has purchased a truck which will be used to patch streets and for other chores about town.

The Mayor and Commissioners lengthily discussed the peddling ordinance and it will be reviewed and enforced in the future. A number of complaints have been received from local merchants and individuals about out-of-town concerns peddling products in Emmitsburg without permits. It was voted that Emmitsburg would retain a membership in the National Safety Council on a yearly basis.

Council will ask the State Roads Commission to erect no parking signs in front of the Public School reading as follows: No parking here 8:30 to 9:30 a. m. and from 3 to 4 p. m. School bus drivers have complained that vehicles are obstructing their view as they approach the highway and are fearful that a serious accident might result.

Council is studying some sort of a plan to provide safe escort for children attending the Public School and Mother Seton Elementary. Three ideas are under consideration, viz., open a new roadway in back of the schools extending from the town limits to the Mother Seton School; asking residents and property-owners on the west side of S. Seton Ave. extended to have sidewalks laid, or running a curb line the entire distance to the last school and having the State Roads Commission widen the road to the curbing. The plans are purely in the discussion stage at the present time. Council also will ask the Roads Commission to place a 25 miles per hour sign at the new school.

ALONG THE POTOMAC
By U. S. Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde
Washington, Jan. 8—The 85th Congress is getting off to a slow start as it attempts to solve organizational problems. Although we have a Republican in the White House it is important to remember that the Democrats organized both Houses and have majorities and chairmanships of congressional committees.
It is important, too, to remember that all legislation must start anew. All bills introduced in the 84th Congress which failed of passage died with adjournment. No matter how far along a bill was at the close of the last Congress, it must be started all over again. That means reintroduction and new hearings before committees.
On the opening day, for example, I reintroduced my bill to establish the C&O Canal National Park. This bill must go through all of the steps required of new measures, but it does have the advantage of having already been studied by the interested departments of the government.
A new bill of mine was dropped in the hopper on the opening day of this Congress amending the Civil Service retirement act to provide annuity increases for retired Federal workers. I believe that the incomes of our retired government employees should be adjusted to modern living costs.
I have also introduced a bill which would provide for adjustment of the legislative jurisdiction exercised by the U. S. over land in the states used for Federal purposes. Enactment of this bill would return jurisdiction over Fort Detrick, for example, to Maryland and grant, among other privileges, the right to vote to citizens in that area.
I plan to press for legislation of importance to the 6th Maryland District and to urge favorable consideration from committee chairmen.
First all-steel ship to be launched was the liner Servia, in 1881.

SENATE CLOAKROOM
By J. GLENN BEALL
WASHINGTON—U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall joined this week with those of his colleagues in the 85th Congress who are trying to break the filibuster rule.
Sen. Beall announced his position as the new session convened, and his name was read by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D., N. M.), as one of the co-sponsors of a resolution calling for the adoption of new Senate rules.
The anti-filibuster Senator hopes to change the present system, under which unlimited debate is possible, if they can get new rules to replace the ones which have been carried over from one Congress to another.
"I will continue to lend my strongest support to the principle that matters before the Senate should be given the most extensive debate," said Sen. Beall, "but I also feel that after the facts have been fully discussed, every man should be called on to see the issue to a logical conclusion and vote."
"Only in such a way will the citizens of America know how their elected representatives feel about the pressing issues of our times, and only in such a way will civil rights legislation and other issues which affect so many of our citizens be brought into the open for the decisive action to which they are entitled."
"Lengthy debate on important matters is a dictate of wisdom; endless debate is the offspring of evilism, folly and waste."

A Resolution For Freedom
What New Year's resolution could be submitted to the citizens of the United States which would leave its mark in history if fulfilled? Perhaps there are many suggestions on this. Perhaps each reader will have one. It seems to me that one of the great needs of our citizenry, and thus of the individuals within it, is a strengthening of our self-reliance. So I wish to suggest: "Resolve that within the year 1957 I shall more fully accept the responsibilities that fall upon a citizen in this nation of freedom."

Self-reliance doesn't mean diluting our faith in God or our reliance on God's will. In fact it means an acceptance of Bible teachings on the responsibilities of individual mankind. Self-reliance doesn't mean pulling apart from the group, or living alone. It is an attribute which must be cultivated if the individual is ever to make a contribution to others, if he is to be his brother's keeper, Demagogues Active

Self-reliance is so important in today's world because so many political demagogues are beckoning man to place his reliance on government, or The State. In Russia, the Communists seek to teach their enslaved millions to worship The State or the human symbol of The State, whether it be Stalin or the present many-headed politburo. The individual is taught to be a cog in the machinery of the State, utterly dependent. But a cog doesn't think, or create, or contribute. So long as the machine exists, the cog is locked in place and cannot change its course or its destiny.

In Socialist countries — and most of the countries of the world have Socialist systems — dependence is gradually transferred from the individuals to the government, or State. Collectivism is the machine. The first thought of everyone must be the machine. It feeds, and clothes, and houses, and eventually it thinks for the individuals. The bureaucrats who operate the machine of Socialism say, "The people don't know what's good for them; we have to think for them."

Something For Nothing

The demagogues are not all Communists and Socialists. Some are politicians who have nothing to recommend themselves to the people, so they make big promises. In a sense they offer something for nothing. It has a powerful appeal. For it to be accepted, however, the people must be weak in self-reliance, and confused in their judgement. Only a self-reliant people can be free. Dependence upon government destroys individual freedom.

Woodrow Wilson said, "Freedom exists only where the people take care of the government." Then the government belongs to them, and not they to the government. Long before Wilson's day, thinkers were speaking out on the subject of self-reliance as the source of independence, of freedom. Bunyan in Pilgrim's Progress spoke of it; so did Shakespeare in Hamlet and Macbeth. One of the best known verses on the subject was written anonymously:

"Leave to heaven, in humble trust,
All you will to do;
But if you succeed, you must
Paddle your own canoe."

Eternal Virtues

This harks back to the old McGuffey's readers, and their axioms on thrift, self-reliance and the other great human attributes. Self-reliance, however, isn't so old-fashioned that it should be discarded—unless, as Wilson noted, we are ready to discard freedom.

Every citizen would be strengthening freedom in the U. S. A. if during this January he resolves that in 1957 he will be more nearly self-reliant, that he will stand on his own two feet, that he will contribute to the career of government, and not accept care from the government so long as he is able-bodied. How about it?

Let's Finish the Job!

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Any beginner deer hunter should keep in mind that deer do not have fixed habits, and what few they have will differ in localities and seasons. For those who are about to embark on their first deer hunt, Col. Townsend Whelen of Sports Afield magazine has compiled some pointers.

In the East deer are usually hunted by driving or still-hunting. The drive will usually be in charge of some experienced hunter, and his directions should be followed. For one or two hunters the method that must be used in eastern woods is still-hunting.

You will have the best chance of success if you hunt on the upwind edge of feeding grounds (apple orchards, old lumber slashings, second growth birch and poplar thickets) around dawn and dusk. During the remainder of the day hunt the thick growth where the deer are most liable to bed, and hunt upwind or at right angles to the wind.

Be slow, careful, and as quiet as you can, covering not more than half a mile an hour. Your rifle should be carried in a ready position from which you can fire instantly, and should be loaded and locked. At any time, a deer may jump up within 25 yards or less, and may be out of sight within five seconds or less.

It is advisable to wear soft clothing that will not scratch audibly when it contacts twigs or leaves. Shoes should have soft rubber soles; rustling leaves, scratching brush or the breaking of very small twigs will probably not alarm a deer unless within 25 or 50 yards, but these slight sounds will alert it at 100 yards or more, and it will be on watch.

In the first and last lights of dawn and dusk it may pay to pause or stand or sit hidden at places that afford a good view of fairly open country between feeding and bedding grounds. In these early and late hours deer may be seen moving back and forth between feeding and bedding grounds.

Once you hear a noise, and have made sure it is not another human being but a deer, and a legal one, you are ready to shoot. Push your rifle straight forward, muzzle pointing towards the deer, butt close under the shoulder, at the same time throwing the safety off. Follow the deer with the front sights, and when it passes or jumps through a fairly open place between trees, in almost one motion raise the butt to the shoulder, drop the head into the line of aim, put the front sight on the lower front portion of the chest, and press the trigger.

You just got your first deer!

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Congress
Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 10
—Now that the Senators and Representatives have become organized, we are able to make a rough analysis of their ability and training.

Too Many Lawyers

It appears that about 3 quarters of both branches of Congress are lawyers. At first glance this seems reasonable, as their job is to make laws;

this, however, should be the work of professional clerks. The Congressmen should confine their efforts to questions of policies. Lawyers, by training, are in a poor position to determine basic policies. Lawyers are trained to win cases, whether the defendant or prosecutor is right or wrong. The very fact that there are two parties to each suit though, only one party can win, and that both sides are represented by attorneys, is definite evidence that half of the attorneys are wrong! In the eyes of a statistician, this is a very poor record. If one half of the bridges built by engineers collapsed, something would be done about it.

Ninety per cent of the legislation today is economic. This applies to agriculture, to manufacturing, to general business, and even to pensions for individuals. There should be no gambling connected with such legislation. A table for Multiplication, Division, or Addition allows for no compromises. It is the same with policies; they are either right or wrong. They should not be settled out of court or in cloak rooms. All this means that three quarters of the Senators and Representatives either to legislate according to economic principles or else not to legislate at all. This principle should have been adopted when the nation was on the Gold Standard; but now that we are on the Political Standard, it is imperative. Some claim that more businessmen, bankers, manufacturers, and labor leaders should take the place of these lawyers. The real need, however, is for trained and practical economists and engineers who know what is best for the nation and have the courage to vote accordingly.

Suez Canal Rumpus

Probably the Suez difficulty is due to many causes, but it was primarily a matter of politics. President Nasser, of Egypt, was playing politics to get the good will of his people while raising money to build the great Aswan Dam. Prime Minister Eden was playing politics to hold his position and not be thrown out by the Labor Party. Other countries involved—possibly including the U. S.—were considering their heavy investments in oil. Basically, however, the Suez difficulty is an economic problem. It is not the votes involved which should be considered, but rather the tankage, distances, freight rates and other important problems of international trade. Probably the final solution will reflect a mixture of politics, statistical facts, and world economics. This means that the solution of the problem will not be permanent, but will be a mere stop-gag. This shows that courageous economists are needed in international affairs as well as in domestic affairs.

The custom of selecting our Ambassadors according to their wealth or their contributions to campaign funds is absolutely wicked. Such a policy may have been responsible for the fact that England and France acted without the knowledge of the United States or the United Nations. Ambassadors should be trained economists, which probably means career men. Representatives to the United Nations should be selected according to their knowledge of economics and their experience in deciding economic problems. The Sanctity Of Contracts

Acreage Reserve

Plan Explained

The Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee in a summary statement announced the following concerning the 1957 Acreage Reserve Program of the Soil Bank Act.

1. Allotted acreage for corn and tobacco may be put in the Acreage Reserve as soon as allotment information is mailed to farmers. This information is expected to be released before the end of January. Tobacco acreage may be placed in the reserve through March 1 and corn acreage through March 8.

Individual, national, and international prosperity depends upon the recognition of the sanctity of contracts. No individual, corporation, or nation can prosper in the long run without an earnest endeavor to carry out its contracts. This is a fundamental matter in connection with the oil companies using the Suez Canal. Furthermore, a man does not need legal training in order to recognize the Ten Commandments. Honesty is not only the best policy, but it is the only policy upon which a reputation, or business, or a nation can prosper and survive. No one nation should be allowed to interfere with the international trade vitally affecting all nations. A great need today is CONFIDENCE.

Of course, in discussing the sanctity of a contract, an individual, corporation, or nation is justified in knowing that the contract was not obtained dishonestly by misrepresentation, coercion, or bribery. It is possible that some contracts for drilling oil were obtained under rather unsavory conditions, but no such claims have been made in connection with the high-grade oil companies now suffering from the Suez dispute. Possibly it would have been better to have had the Suez Canal contract, when originally drawn, made subject to renegotiations similar to the renegotiations that the oil companies have already gone through. These Suez renegotiations could have been under the jurisdiction of a committee of accountants and economists approved by the World Court. The committee could employ an international and impartial lawyer, upon whom all parties would agree. Their decisions, however, should strengthen the importance of the sanctity of contracts and not undermine or impair same. In closing, let me say that my appeal in this column may not do any good but, as Congress is now organizing and as the Suez negotiations are in full operation, I do want my millions of readers to be thinking over this message.

2. Farmers will receive the new corn payment rate with their allotment notices.

3. Maximum amount of corn allotment which may be put into the Acreage Reserve will be larger of 20 acres or 30 per cent of the allotment. This means, the committee explained, that maximum acreage eligible will be (a) the whole allotment if under 20 acres, (b) 20 acres if the allotment is between 20 and 70 acres and (c) 30 per cent of the allotment if 70 acres or more.

4. Maximum amount of tobacco allotment which may be put in the reserve will be the larger of 3 acres or 30 per cent of the allotment. This means that the maximum acreage eligible will be (a) the whole allotment if less than 3 acres, (b) 3 acres if allotment is between 3 and 9 acres, and (c) 30 per cent of the allotment if more than 9 acres.

5. Farmers desiring to place more than the maximum figure given above on corn and tobacco into the Acreage Reserve should indicate the additional amount they would like to put in when they prepare their agreement at the county ASC office, because they will be permitted to put in more than the maximum acreages given here if funds are available to pay on the additional amount. No minimum acreage will be established for acreage reserve on corn or tobacco. This means that farmers may put as little of their allotment into the reserve as they wish.

6. Eligible land for the reserve must be suitable for the production of corn or tobacco, whichever is applicable.

7. Payments under the Acreage Reserve Program for 1957 may not be made until the last crop to which allotments apply has been measured.

Most family men know that this is the time of the year when their better halves require new outfits.

THE 25th INFANTRY DIVISION—
"THE TROPIC LIGHTNING DIVISION"

August 2, 1950

Korea

Following their capture of the capital city of Seoul, North Korean troops continued their advance to the south virtually unopposed. The port of Pusan was their final objective.

To add strength to the left flank of the defense line protecting the city, the 25th Infantry Division was ordered to shift its position from the right to the left flank, a distance of some 150 miles.

Men and equipment were moved to the new southwestern front during the night using all available vehicles. In a matter of hours they were in position. Later the 25th counter-attacked against superior North Korean forces helping to keep the enemy off balance. Their action aided in preventing a break-through and in saving Pusan from capture.

ute recital which preceded the ceremony, she played "O Promise Me," "O Perfect Love," "Lord Who Has Come As A Wedding Gift," and "Cast Your Burden Upon the Lord."

The church was decorated with baskets of mixed flowers. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length strapless dress of white net over taffeta with matching bolero and matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with a lavender orchid.

Miss Glenda Deardorff, sister of the bridegroom, served as maid of honor. She wore a rose net dress over a matching taffeta slip and matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white carnations. Miss Nancy Shank, Zora, Pa., wore a pink dress with matching accessories, and Miss Jeanne Preston, Fairfield Rt. 1, wore a blue dress with matching accessories. Both bridesmaids carried bouquets of white and pink carnations.

NO. 18589 EQUITY
in the Circuit Court for Frederick County, in Equity
MARGARET E. STRIBLING
vs.
THOMAS E. R. STRIBLING

The object of this Bill is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Plaintiff, Margaret E. Stribling, from the Defendant, Thomas E. R. Stribling.

The Bill states in substance that the parties were married on October 10, 1947, in Montgomery County, Maryland, by a regularly ordained Minister of the Gospel; that the Plaintiff is a resident of Frederick County, Maryland, having resided there at No. 8 East Church Street, Frederick City, for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a nonresident of the State of Maryland, and presently resides at the following address: Navy 3923, Box 25, F.P.O., San Francisco, California; that two children were born as a result of the marriage, these being Leslie R. Stribling and George W. Stribling, both of which children reside with the Plaintiff, who seeks their care and custody; that the Plaintiff has always been a kind, chaste, dutiful, and affectionate wife towards the Defendant; that the Defendant treated the Plaintiff with such physical and mental cruelty as to make it impossible for her to continue living with him after the month of April, 1955, at which time the parties did separate, and they have remained separate, and apart since April, 1955; and that the cruelty of the Defendant amounted to constructive desertion, which desertion was deliberate and final and there is no reasonable expectation of a reconciliation. The Bill prays that the Defendant be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII, that the Plaintiff may be declared entitled to receive by way of alimony such an allowance out of her husband's income as may be proportionate to the means and station in life of her said husband, that the Plaintiff may be granted the care and custody of the minor children and that she may be awarded support and maintenance for them, and for general relief.

It is thereupon this 6th day of December, 1957, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Plaintiff give notice to the said non-resident Defendant of the objects and substance of this Bill by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 12th day of January, 1957, commanding him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 28th day of January, 1957, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.
