That invigorating touch of spring we were treated to this week was certainly a welcome respite from the long and dreary winter we have just endured and it is about time because next week, the 21st, actually is the first day of spring . . . let's hope it doesn't snow — you know it has happened before!

I simply must say a few words this week regarding basketball. Sports are seldom discussed in this column as they to me, are mainly a masculine subject, but since datelines are coming out of Emmitsburg in news releases almost daily now and the sport of basketball is uppermost in our minds I think it very apropos at this time. With the greatest team in Mt. St. Mary's College history presently burning up basketball courts at will all over the nation it is all the more reason for a few words about the subject. It's no wonder we are basketball conscious locally. Actually there are seven teams operating here: Two colleges, two high schools with boys and girls teams and to boot we have a summer league which comprises several teams. I would venture to say that the season has supplied feverish activity locally and Emmitsburg is the subject of national publicity, due of course, to the Mount team and the one and only Jack Sullivan. A quick summation of the college's record shows they took the Mason-Dixon Conference for the fourth straight time, heretofore unprecedented, have knocked off three major foes in contention for the NCAA championship and are sporting a season record of 26-4 and up to Thursday evening had a sustained win streak of 21 games.

Ted Elliott's Emmitsburg High cagers also had a brilliant season as did the girls of that same school. Yes, Emmitsburg is basketball conscious and how could it be otherwise with the fine schools and teams we are blessed with here?

A large amount of the Mount's success, aside from Sullivan, is the prowess of amiable Jim Phelan, the Blue and White coach. Quiet and unassuming, Jim has moulded his present aggregation into the greatest basketball machine in the Mountain institution's history and has brought more fame and glory to Emmitsburg perhaps than any of his predecessors at the school. Prospects at the Mount appear to be bright for next year as Sullivan will be the only member of the present great squad to be graduated. My heartiest congratulations to Jim Phelan and his Mountaineers.

What ever happened to the plans for a Memorial Hall, a local swimming pool, a new town office, free garbage collection? With the advent of spring just about here I think it's about time to once again consider at least one or two of these subjects. And while on the thought, what happened to the plans for a new postoffice and carrier delivery? These things unintentionally slide by us as other pressing business crops up, but they still are present in our subconscious mind and ever so often the censor-band lets loose and out pops the idea once again from the subconscious. It doesn't hurt any to keep reminding and plugging though, because ideas are like advertising, keep plugging and reminding and soon the idea will strike on fertile land and show signs of paying off.

Again on local sports. I was enthused to see that the baseball club selected a younger man to head it for the coming season. The group now has a young president and a young manager—both in their 20s. Not detracting any from the capabilities of the older element in sporting circles. I believe the move is for the best interest of the sport, locally. Sandlot baseball has needed a stimulating injection for the past decade and I believe the answer is partly at least—youth. Television has cut deeply into the attendance figures of small town baseball, with its viewing of major league games and unless something is done to inspire interest in the game, locally, and in other small towns, the sport will soon become extinct. Young men will perhaps, work harder and will inspire more youths

Lions Club Host To Local Athletes At Banquet

The Emmitsburg Lions Club paid glowing tribute to the championship Mt. St. Mary's College basketball team and also the teams from St. Joseph's and Emmitsburg High Schools Monday night when it played host to the local athletes at the annual sportsmen's banquet held in the Lutheran parish hall. The affair is an annual fete which the Lions Club inaugurated four years ago. Sixty-four members and guests were present at the affair Monday evening and the Lions' president, Charles R. Fuss, presided.

The president introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Dr. John J. Dillon, Jr., athletic director and dean of English at the college who in turn introduced Coach James Phelan, Mt. Saint Mary's College coach. Ted Elliott, coach at Emmitsburg High and Thomas Mulaney and Robert McNelis, co-coaches at St. Joseph's High were introduced by the toastmaster and each introduced the members of their respective teams.

Principal speaker of the evening was Father Vincent G. Heary, C.M., assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. He outlined the qualities that make a good athlete and competitor. He suggested members of the squads to carry into life those same qualities and to work as earnestly for success in life as they have done in athletics. He commented also that both players and spectators should learn a lesson from competition in athletics.

Father Heary noted in tournament competition the Mountaineers had played an all-Negro and a largely-Jewish team and said the games demonstrated that athletes appraise their opponents on skill, ability and sportsmanship and suggested that in life we should also measure our fellowmen on the same terms.

Truck-Car Crash Results In Heavy Damage

Damage was estimated by Pennsylvania state police Monday afternoon at more than $2400 in the automobile-tractor-trailer accident six miles north of Emmitsburg near Greenmount, at noon in which two persons suffered possible fractures of the skull among other injuries.

Buddy Louis Walker, 28, Rochester, N. Y., a serviceman on leave enroute from Europe to a new assignment at Fort Meade and his Danish born wife were both reported by police as having suffered possible fractures of the skull when the tractor-trailer, according to police, pulled from the Cities Service station along the Emmitsburg Rd. into the path of Walker's auto.

Walker was admitted at the hospital with a possible fracture of the skull, lacerations of the forehead and right hand, contusions of the chest and abrasions of the left knee. Kagrstine Walker, 41, his wife, had a possible fracture of the skull, lacerations of the forehead, left arm and right knee. A daughter, Mona Walker, escaped injury.

The couple had wed while Walker was stationed in Europe. They had arrived in the United States several days ago and visited with a relative in Virginia where they purchased a new car. They were on a vacation trip enroute eventually to Fort Meade when the accident occurred.

The auto was demolished. Damage to the truck was estimated at $400. Pennsylvania state police said the truck driver, Carlos Clinton Hale, Jr., 22, Waynesboro, Va., was turning south from the service station when the collision occurred. Hale paid a fine and costs before Justice John Whitman, Cumberland Twp., on a failing to yield the right of way charge.

Reviews Play

Eighteen members of the faculties at Mt. St. Mary's and St. Joseph Colleges met at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John Richards Wednesday evening to discuss Shakespeare's play, Henry IV. The meeting was the third in a series sponsored by the faculty library committee of Mount St. Mary's. Prof. Donald Waters of St. Joseph's moderated the discussion. The selection of Henry IV was made so that the group might better be prepared to enjoy the stage version of the play which will be presented by Play-ers Inc., at St. Joseph College on Wednesday evening, March 20.

Next month the group will meet at the home of Col. and Mrs. Thomas J. Frailey to discuss Jacques Burgun's book, "The Teacher in America"

Sayler Heads Ball Club

Thomas F. Sayler was elected president of the Emmitsburg Baseball Club at an organizational meeting held Sunday afternoon in the VFW. A full slate of officers and directors was elected at the meeting and a manager named.

The new president succeeds the late J. William Rowe and has been active in baseball circles and played on the local squad during the past decade. Mr. Sayler, 25, is perhaps the youngest president in the history of the organization.

Other officers elected were: James A. Arnold, vice president and Patricia Lingg, treasurer and secretary. The following directors were elected: Thomas F. Sayler, James A. Arnold, Brooke Bentz, Joseph Stahley, Jack Rosensteel, Joseph D. Sullivan and Edward G. Lingg.

The group selected Paul Clarke of Thurmont, as the team manager, a position he held last year.

Other committees appointed consist of Edward Lingg, business manager; Jack Rosensteel, field manager; Joseph Stahley, assistant field manager. Ted Topper will act as the team's representative to cooperate with the field committee. Manager Clarke has called the first practice session for this Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. on Community Field, weather permitting. All players from last year who still have uniforms are asked to turn them in to Ed Lingg for cleaning.

Father and Sons Are Active In 4-H Work

Another example of a father-son relationship in 4-H club activities is that of Norman Shriver and sons, of Emmitsburg. "Four-H experiences and training in club work have been a great help," says this club leader.

In 1922 six youngsters started a purebred Poland China pig club, electing Norman as president of the club. Soon the club doubled both in size and number of projects with each member taking great pride in showing their best animals at Frederick and Timonium Fairs, where they won many awards.

In 1924 these boys held a purebred sow and pig sale at the Emmitsburg community picnic. It was a success and enabled community buyers to purchase some fine breeding stock.

After completing two years in the Agricultural course at Emmitsburg he transferred to Thurmont High School and graduated in 1926. At this time he was a member of Adams County, Pa., livestock judging team which placed second at Penn State. Also a big event for club members was 4-H Club Week attendance at the University of Maryland. This, his third year at club week Mr. Shriver was honored as Frederick County's first All-Star.

Money saved from club projects assisted in his obtaining a degree in agriculture education at the University of Maryland. He graduated in 1932.

His older son will enroll at University of Maryland in the fall, while Norman, Jr., who is still in high school is a member of Emmitsburg 4-H Club, with baby beef projects.

Mr. Shriver has a 160-acre beef farm east of Emmitsburg. In addition to leading the Emmitsburg Club, he is a past master and member of the Emmitsburg Grange, and past president of the Emmitsburg P-T-A. He is a member of Elias Lutheran Church.

VFW To Elect

The election of officers of the Emmitsburg Memorial Post 6658 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held on Wednesday, March 20, at 8 p. m. in the post home on the Square. There will be a draw prize and refreshments.

Mrs. Fuss Observes 92nd Birthday

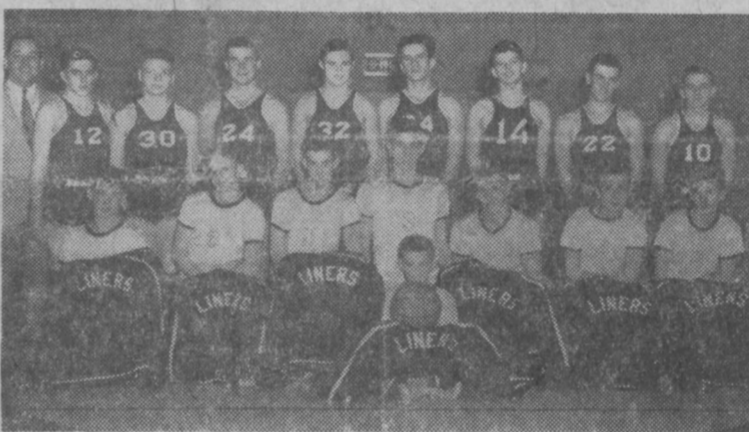

Mrs. Mary C. Fuss, E. Main St., celebrated her 92nd birthday last Friday. She is the daughter of the late Moses and Ann Baumgardner and was born March 1, 1865, near Keysville.

Her six children are: Charles and John Fuss, both of Emmitsburg; Elmer, Taneytown; Clarence, Dillsburg, Pa.; Robert, Cavino, Calif., and Carrie Fuss of Emmitsburg.

Mrs. Fuss is a member of the Tom's Creek Methodist Church. The Ladies' Bible Class of the church held a song service for her at her home in honor of her birthday. At the church service on Sunday a hymn, "In the Beautiful Land on the Far Away Strand," a duet sung by Anna Grimes and Robert Baumgardner, was dedicated to her.

Mrs. Fuss has lived in Emmitsburg the past 28 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hahn were honored at a twenty-fifth wedding anniversary surprise party last Saturday evening in the Lutheran Parish House by their children.

More than 150 relatives of the couple attended the celebration. The color scheme was blue and white. A three-tiered wedding cake was centered on the table. The couple received many gifts and the children presented Mrs. Hahn with an orchid.

Out-of-town guests, were from Union City, N. J.; Secucus, N. J.; Baltimore, Taneytown, Uniontown, Westminster, Thurmont, Sabillasville, and Havre de Grace.

Mr. and Mrs. Hahn were married 25 years ago in Frederick. The couple have six children: Mrs. Mary Rohrbach, Mrs. Carrie Boyd, Lewis E., Alfred C., Shirley A., and Clyde J. They have two grandchildren, Debra Jean Rohrbach and Lewis E. Hahn, Jr.

Cites Pupil Cost Figure Here

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: Some of us wish to take this opportunity to thank the Emmitsburg Chronicle for its fair presentation of the news concerning our present school issue. As long as we have freedom of the press and freedom of assembly in our community we are assured of a healthy democracy.

Several weeks ago "Abigail" quoted figures showing a sizable difference in costs of education in the Emmitsburg and Thurmont communities. This, of course, is true because of the much heavier enrollment in Thurmont. This writer obtained from the office of the Board of Education last year's figures (1955-56) for the total costs of running both schools from the ninth through the 12th grades, which are as follows: $56,880.00 at Emmitsburg for 187 pupils, or $304.00 per pupil. At Thurmont during the same year $125,805.00 was spent for 549 pupils, or approximately $229.00 per pupil. From this it can be seen that pupils at Thurmont who have a broader choice of courses, including typing, shorthand and business training, are being educated at a saving of $75 per pupil. If you multiply the 187 pupils at Emmitsburg by $75 it gives a total of $14,025 extra that is being spent on our school because of its small size. Our children are certainly worth this, but, if somehow we could increase our enrollment by four or five hundred pupils this $14,025 could furnish our pupils with much more and better equipment, better transportation, or even hire three more teachers. However, one thing that makes it difficult to get improved curriculum at our school with the present enrollment is the fact that with each teacher we add to our staff in order to obtain additional courses, we increase the total cost of running the school by approximately $4,000 and the per-pupil cost by approximately $21.00.

After several folks expressed doubt as to the accuracy of the above figures the office of the Board of Education was contacted and questioned concerning the accuracy of the figures, but the figures were verified as being accurate. They included such expenses as heating, lighting, cleaning, bus transportation, teachers' salaries, etc., but did not include any construction costs.

This writer and others among us, have seen large schools in operation and have seen the pupils in such schools getting many advantages, such as training in the vocations of their choice which included auto mechanics, machine shop, sheet metal shop, electric shop, typing and shorthand. Then there were other advantages such as teachers who taught only their major subject in which they were especially trained; homogenous grouping of pupils (that is, pupils of similar ability together in one class) and wide choices of subjects to fit the varied needs of pupils. Seeing this, it makes us wonder why the children of Emmitsburg can't get as many advantages.

It is hoped that our Emmitsburg organizations, whose chief aim is undoubtedly to do good, will take not only a negative attitude toward the expansion of our school facilities, but will do something positive such as calling in various school authorities and looking on both sides of the school question by obtaining some professional help.

To those who are concerned about real estate values and business interests we would like to quote an educator who said: "The sole purpose of building schools is to educate children." And to those who are concerned with the matter of pride, we quote Emmitsburg's own fine Methodist preacher who said: "Pride is the worst sin of all, and especially if it keeps us from doing right."

PAUL BEALE

Technical Sergeant John Paul Glass, 25, of near Emmitsburg, remains in a critical condition at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa., after a shooting incident which occurred at his home at 11:30 p. m. last Friday, State Police report.

Glass, an enlisted serviceman on leave from the Air Force, was alone in the barn on his parents' farm, four miles east of Emmitsburg on Four Points Rd., when he was shot in the chest by a .22 caliber rifle which he was carrying.

Sgt. Glass has a wife and two small children, according to State Trooper H. J. Brown, who is investigating the case.

Mount Wins Tourney Championship

The greatest basketball team in the history of Mt. St. Mary's College gobbled up the championship of the Mason-Dixon Conference last week for a record-breaking fourth straight time and went on to polish off three great contenders for the first round championship of the small college N.C.A.A. North Carolina College, C.C. and Rider College.

The Blue and White, under the tutelage of Coach James Phelan, bested the strong New York aggregation 93-84 which made them eligible for a crack at the winners of the southern division, North Carolina, Saturday night on the local court before a jammed gymnasium. They experienced little difficulty in overpowering the southern college, 106-88. The incomparable Jack Sullivan playing his final game on the home floor, turned in perhaps his most dazzling performance before home fans. Jump shots, one-handers from any angle and lay-up shots completely smothered several mild rallies of the visiting Eagles from North Carolina as the 6'4" bomber netted 19 out of 33 shots from the floor and added 10 fouls in 12 tries for a total of 48 points.

The Mounts turned in one of their best team shooting marks in landing 51% and set a torrid pace at the start of the game by racing off to a 16-4 lead in the first six minutes of play. Thereafter the North Carolinians recovered somewhat and pushed the score to 51-39 at the half.

Sullivan's brilliant play was backed up by fine performances on the part of his mates. Big Bill Williams landed a flock of long one-handed heaves and eventually wound up with 17 points while playing outstanding in the recovery of rebounds. Jerry Bohlinger was not too far in off-the-board work while Burt Sheing and Jack Marshall put on their usual speedy ball handling and contributed many key markers. The victory was the 20th straight, the longest in Mount history and boosted their season log to 25-4.

Phelan's Mountaineers rose to even greater heights Wednesday afternoon when they flew to Evansville, Ind. and defeated Rider College handily, 88-66 in the quarter-finals played in that city. The victory gave them the right to meet Kentucky Wesleyan last night in the semi-finals in Indiana. Should the Phelamen be victorious over Wesleyan they will be paired with Wheaton, Ill. Both games were broadcast through the facilities of WFMD in Frederick.

Jack Sullivan, greatest ace in Mountaineer history, again paced his mates to the victory by gathering 39 points. The Mount's season log now stands at 26-4.

Other local institutions either have been studied or will be in future sessions. Two new members, Jerry Joy and Richard Sprankle, were admitted and the application for membership of Robert L. Wivell was received.

Liller Acquitted

A Frederick County Court jury Wednesday found Howard W. Liller, Emmitsburg, not guilty on a charge of operating a motor vehicle on a revoked license.

Edwin F. Nikirk who represented Liller, argued the license was improperly revoked because Liller was insured but his insurer had failed to file the proper papers to comply with the law.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

When little Sue or Johnny buys school supplies, it is little realized part of that money is being taken away by hidden taxes.

But this is brought out in testimony given by Craig Schaeffer, representing Fountain Pen and Mechanical Pencil Manufacturers Association. All fountain pens, ball point pens, and mechanical pencils are subjected to a 10% excise tax at manufacturing level. But by time mark C. W. Harder says are taken on this tax along the distribution route, it adds up to about an extra 20% to price.

Odd part about this tax is that while like most excise taxes it is hidden, it is largely directed against school children and housewives who need writing tools.

Altogether, the government only takes in about $7,000,000 per year from this tax, an amount foreign aid bureaucrats will give away without a second thought. So from standpoint of big league government revenues, it is practically peanuts.

But Mr. Schaeffer states about half this tax, or $3,500,000, is extracted from students and housewives. And actually, for government to get this $3,500,000, these consumers must pay closer to an extra $7,000,000.

Thus, probably for first time in U. S. history, literacy is taxed.

Mr. Schaeffer acknowledges it is perhaps reasonable to levy excise taxes on high priced, luxury writing tools embellished with precious metals, but bulk of writing tools business is done in low priced, everyday utility type of fountain pens, ball point pens, and mechanical pencils.

Because they are solely for the purpose of adornment, it would be much more logical, he points out, to place an excise tax on neckties than on the low cost writing tools that are basic tools of an educated society.

In some ways it would almost appear there is a plot to somehow tax children. For several years the cosmetic taxes were collected on such infant necessities as baby oil and talcum. Eventually, clamour of irate mothers sufficiently impressed Congressmen to repeal the tax.

It then appeared nation's children would go untaxed. But along came Korea, and the only new excise taxes levied were on diesel fuel, cigarette lighters, and pens and pencils needed and used by school children. So while childhood in the U. S. can perhaps be still carefree, it cannot be said to be tax free.

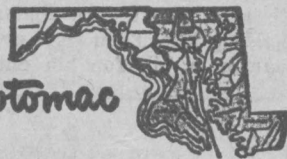

Testimony by Mr. Schaeffer, regardless of whether anything is done about this particular situation, does highlight entire question of hidden excise taxes.

For with all the official concern about inflation, it would undoubtedly be a sound move for a Congressional committee to study the entire question. As developed in pen situation, the public pays twice as much as the government collects. It would be interesting, perhaps even explosive, to find out just how much the cost of living is increased by excise taxes, and to actually find out just how much of the extra costs public pays for these commodities actually becomes revenue for government. While from viewpoint of politicians, hidden taxes could well be good taxes, from standpoint of economic health, they could be most destructive taxes.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde • 6th District, Maryland

Washington—Senator Beall and I have introduced a Concurrent Resolution to establish a joint Congressional Committee to investigate and study the problems created by the growth and expansion of the District of Columbia and its metropolitan area. Such a study is important for the consideration of Congress because the problems of urban development for the Nation's Capital are the same as those facing communities throughout the United States. Our local problems are in a very real sense comparable to those of other areas where metropolitan growth has spread over State borders. It is estimated that over forty percent of our urban population sprawls over State lines and therefore is a proper concern of Congress. The investigation is expected to cover planning, zoning, water supply, transportation, bridges, and highways. Much of the difficulty metropolitan Washington faces has come through the failure of responsible agencies to work together in solving its problems.

I appeared before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee in support of my bill which would increase annuities of certain retired railroad employees with service prior to 1937, by providing a new alternative base for computing their monthly compensation. My bill permits the choice of either the period from 1924-1931 or 1940-1947, whichever provides the greater monthly income. The bill also provides for retirement earlier than is presently permitted by law.

I would also like to call your attention to the action of the House Republican Policy Committee in endorsing a resolution recommending substantial reductions in the 1958 budget. A reduction in Federal spending will give greater stability to the cost of living and lead to a lowering of tax rates.

continues to seek the destruction of the free world."

In this single sense, those dedicated to the proposition of liberty and freedom for all will find nothing with which to quibble. But, what of the other side of the same coin? Is there not a limit of our financial capacity to continue these benevolences ad infinitum? Quite obviously, the answer is "yes". Basic in the communist creed is the assertion that Soviet Russia will compel the U. S. to spend itself into bankruptcy. The present levels of our Federal budget and national debt offer little comfort in rebuffing this dictum.

Committee, I fear, will not still the increasing skepticism of the American public with respect to foreign assistance. Unquestionably the Committee's recommendation for a administration savings; against the channelling of aid through the United Nations; and for the encouragement of private investment abroad will be popularly received. But, among others, the recommendations for additional expenditures and for a review by the Congress every two years rather than annually will not be widely applauded.

In the name of nation solvency and fiscal stability, if for no other reason, these programs must be diminished. The patience and generosity of the American taxpayer is not limitless. I, for one, will vote for a substantial reduction in our foreign aid appropriations.

Foreign Aid Now Appears To Be Permanent

By Sen. John M. Butler

Washington — Aid to foreign nations, a temporary measure in 1945, seems to have acquired a permanent set in 1957. In the past 11 years, our allies, friends, quasifriends and would-be friends have been the recipients of nearly $60 billion in U. S. assistance funds. And the end is not in sight according to the President's Citizen Advisors on the Mutual Security Program — the Fairless Committee—whose report was released last week.

Whereas foreign aid was begun on a provisional basis in a humanitarian desire to accelerate the economic rehabilitation of Europe, following World War II, it has now been expanded to include Asia, the Near East, the Middle East, and Latin America. The Fairless Committee concludes that these programs have been necessary and sound, and that they must be continued for an indefinite period. It warns that collective security costs are not temporary, and that "there can be no relaxation." Threading through the Committee's report is the thought that "mutual or collective security" must be extended to the four corners of the globe, "so long as the Soviet bloc

Read John 6:32-40.

Him that cometh to me will be

When I was a child, a photog-

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

There's a rather gruesome story about a murderer who admitted killing a man for three dollars.
Asked to explain his action to a judge, the man shrugged his shoulders and replied: "You know how it is, your honor; three bucks here and three bucks there, they all add up."

I was reminded of that incident the other day when the promoters of a plan to put an unnecessary airport in northern Virginia finally began publicizing their financial motivations.
Dangers Ignored

According to these persons, a major argument in favor of building such a facility as a second airport for Washington is that it might eventually bring the Virginia area an annual payroll increase of $33-million.

They ignore the fact that construction of the airfield would take three to five years, and that it has already been a year and a half since a Senate committee reported the need for action to relieve the "seriously overcrowded" condition of Washington National Airport was "immediate and urgent."

And they seemingly ignore the question of whether the lives of today's air travellers should be risked while certain interests dream of the pot of gold they expect the Virginia airport to provide.

After all, they appear to be saying, "33-million bucks here and 33-million bucks there, they all add up, and perhaps the good luck of the patrons of National Airport will stretch for several more years."

Outlying Locations Suggested

I, for one, refuse to participate in such a gamble.

And I will continue to insist that Friendship International Airport be used as soon as possible as a co-terminal for the Capital.

It is interesting to note that when the safety gamblers were boosting Burke, Va., as a good site for a new airport, they made much of the fact that it was 15 minutes closer to downtown Washington than Friendship.

Now, proclaiming that they might lose all chances for the annual $33-million if they don't do something—anything, they are indiscriminately offering several locations, all of which are farther away than Burke.

Economy A Factor

It would be completely false, of course, to suggest that those of us who are interested in Friendship are unaware of the financial gains which additional usage would provide.

We can say, however, that the urgency of the current situation supersedes such monetary considerations, and that Friendship provides the ONLY immediate answer to our problem.

Furthermore, with the national accent on economy, I think it would be completely irresponsible if we by-passed a chance to use Friendship without cost to the Federal Government in favor of a project like the Burke plan, in which the initial expenditure alone would be more than $35-million.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Careful Shopping

Babson Park, Mass., March 14 — I have already given hints as to buying real estate. That is:

- (1) Determine in which direction your city is growing best, and with the best houses West, North or South.
- (2) Then drive out the main road in that direction. Buy when you come to the first good land offered by the acre,—not by the foot. I have also told those who are determined to bet at horse races to bet on two or three of the horses which have been coming in "second"! Now let me give some hints to women shoppers.

Discount Houses And "Loss Leaders"

I forecast that discount houses will constantly become a greater factor in merchandising. They have lower overhead than the big department stores and are worthy of the attention of every sharp shopper. Like all else in this world, they have their advantages and disadvantages. They can usually give you lower prices on all articles. On good furniture, textiles, and other merchandise which does not need mechanical servicing I recommend that they be patronized. I, however, cannot now recommend them for electric appliances, such as stoves, television sets, and perhaps washing machines, which need servicing.

Sales of "loss leaders" should be carefully watched. These have an economic use in merchandising in order to get customers into a store. A merchant can well afford to advertise and sell one article below cost, to get you into the store in the hope that you will also buy something else upon which he will make a good profit. A couple shopping with patience who will study the advertisements can (during the year) secure most of their goods from these "loss leaders" for one half their regular retail prices.

Watch For Anniversary Sales

But here is perhaps my best tip:—When one of your reliable stores has an Anniversary Sale, make a note of it in your diary. If you don't need to buy anything at that time, write down when it will come next year. (It must always come the same week each year. Every month some store is having an Anniversary sale. Careful shoppers fill all their needs at these sales. Instead of forming the habit of trading at only their favorite store, they shop around at these different stores awaiting their Anniversary Sales.

There also are "White Sales," when you can buy cheaply all needed linen, etc. There also are "Fur Sales" when you can get bargains. Most of these occur in the summer; but I am told that the real bargains come at the very end of the winter. There are special sales where manufactures are overstocked or are about to change styles or models. Watch for them. Watch your newspaper advertisements for real opportunities.

Auction Sales
 Auctions have existed for the past 3,000 years. They regularly took place in the great public market places of Athens, Rome, and Venice. Many jewelry stores hold daily auctions in most large cities today. Of course, all stock exchanges work on the auction system. Until recently, however, I have hesitated to recommend that my readers buy at store auctions.

Certain cities, however, are now building mammoth and reliable auctions publicized by television. That is, if you cannot be at the auction personally, you can watch it on television. Then, wherever you are, you have the privilege for one week of buying a duplicate of any article sold at the auction at the same price at which it was shown and sold at the auction. One of the most famous of these auctions is operated three times daily, except Sundays, at Clearwater, Florida, under the name of "Howard the Trader." While good stores have but a few regular customers, this auction will have from 5,000 to 10,000 people daily. It is amazing. Either these auctions can revolutionize retailing, or else they will flop. Only the future can tell. I now don't even guess.

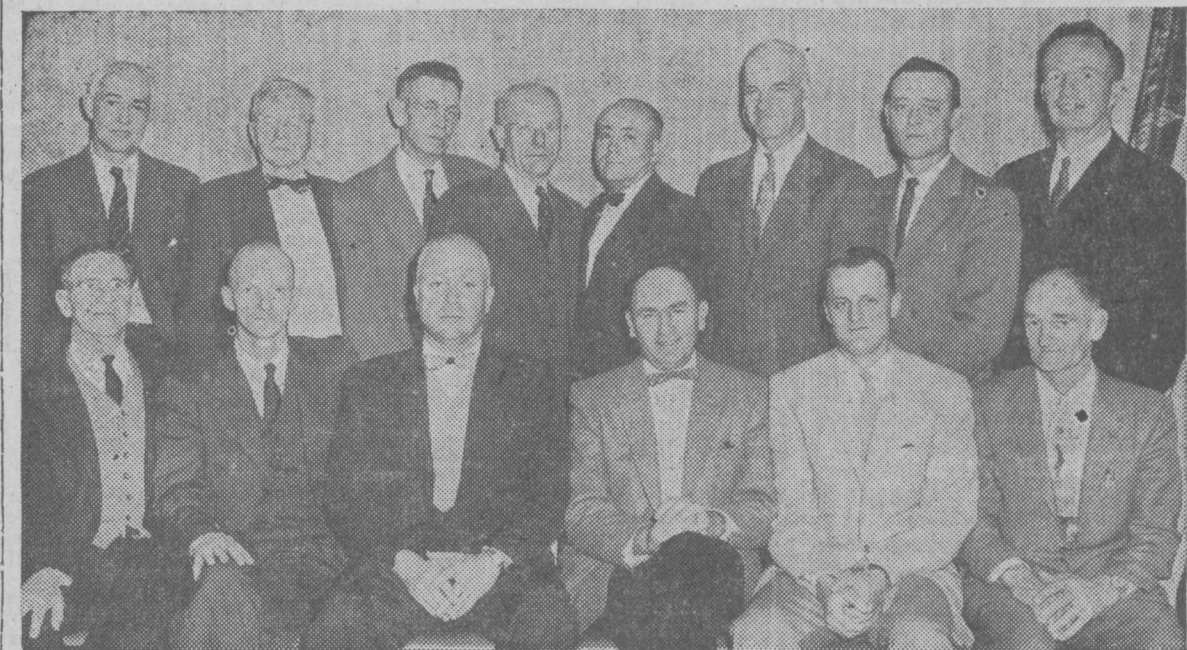

Finally, I recommend to every housewife either the Consumer Reports from Mt. Vernon, New York, or the Consumers' Research Bulletin of Washington, New Jersey (non-profit monthly). They make impartial reports as to the comparative quality of all nationally advertised products.

Edgar G. Emrich Again Heads the State Milk Cooperative

The Board of Directors of the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc. at a recent meeting re-elected Edgar G. Emrich of Emmitsburg, President; elected Horace S. Brauning of Finksburg, Vice President and re-elected W. P. Sadler of Baltimore, Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. Sadler is also manager of the MCMP.

Mr. Brauning replaces John S. Murphy as vice president. The Board also re-elected Chester G. Ernst as the third member of the Executive Committee.

The Cooperative sold in excess of $20,000,000 worth of milk for its 2,200 dairy farmer members during 1956.

In commenting on the coming year—his second as President—Mr. Emrich stressed the continuing need for unity within his organization.

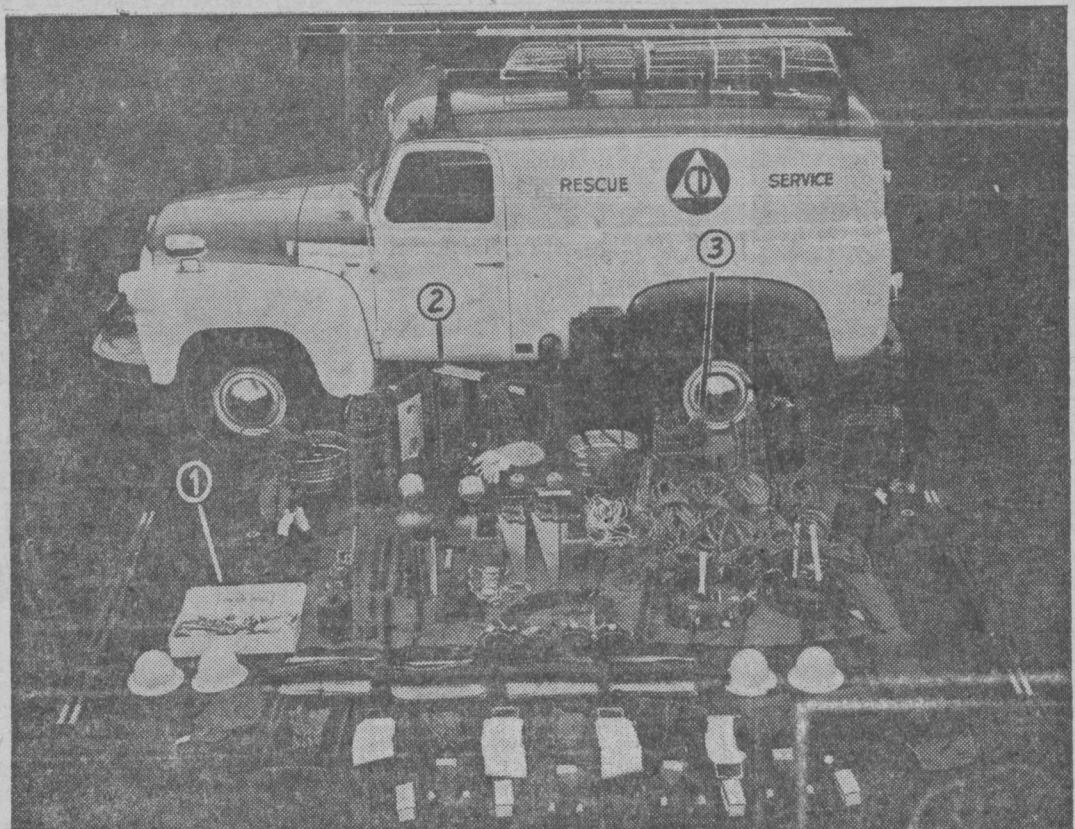

"We achieved a remarkable degree of unity during '56," he said. "I am certain that 1957 will see even greater unity and greater strength."

"The non-profit MCMP is continually striving to increase every member's milk checks and to improve relations between ourselves, the producers; our customers, the dairy buyers; and their customers, the consuming public."

The Russian Showcase

The workers of Russia now have waited 40 years for the Communist government to live up to the promises of Communism-Socialism. They have waited in vain. The promises of Communism and Socialism are pipe dreams. They could never come true. The workers of Hungary learned this, and now they have told the world about it in a brief tragic surge for freedom. The workers of Russia know it too, but since they are living in an overpowering Police State they haven't yet mustered the courage to revolt on any big scale.

Karl Marx, its founder, called Communism "scientific Socialism." His present-day followers call it "scientific Socialism" or just plain "Socialism." Socialism is the economic system in Russia today. In its economic workings it is the same brand of Socialism operating in England's "nationalized" industries, in India's Socialist system, in Israel, and in all other Socialist countries.

With Two Windows

Russia thus serves as a two-window showcase for people throughout the world to view: (1) in its government it is a Socialist bureaucracy carried to the ultimate end of all Socialist bureaucracies—which is dictatorship; and (2) in its economic system it has abolished private ownership, and established government ownership and control of the facilities of production and distribution. People throughout the world should observe results in Russia because Socialism there has had everything in its favor. The Planners, who are the key men in the workings of Socialism, have had a completely free hand. They have drawn up one "Five Year Plan" after another for 40 years, and the full force of government propaganda and, wherever necessary coercion has been utilized to enforce the plans. All have failed. After examining the truth about Russia today and after looking through both windows of the Russian Showcase, it is difficult to understand why some people in our own country believe we need a bigger Federal bureaucracy, making plans for agriculture and industrial production and distribution, and that such a system would be better for most of the people of America.

Two Reports

Mr. Peter F. Hurst, Michigan industrialist, has reported after a careful study of conditions inside Russia that "scientific Socialism" has brought the Russian people only poverty and slavery—except for the two to three million functionaries in the sprawling government bureaucracy who live like kings. And now, reporting in United States News & World Report, a Virginia research-educator, G. Warren Nutter, makes the same kind of report after a fact-finding tour of Russia for the U. S. National Bureau of Economic Research.

Professor Nutter visited a number of Russian factories and observed "scientific Socialism" at work. One was a factory at Leningrad producing curtains, tablecloths, etc. Before Socialism-Communism took over, it was operated as a private enterprise. "The building, almost all the machinery and a great deal of the technology," noted Professor Nutter, "obviously date from the tsarist period."

"Progressive" Socialism "Except for one floor of new spinning and winding equipment bulletin the Soviet Union and East Germany . . . the machinery is of English, German and French design, as installed around 1886. Much of the power is transmitted through overhead belt lines, a relic of the days when steam engines were used as prime movers. The rooms are dark, dirty and crowded with machines. Not even primitive safety equipment is to be seen. Graphite is used as a lubricant, and it covers everything with its characteristic black and slippery coatings—stairs, walls, railings and workers . . ."

"On the whole this plant looked like something out of the nineteenth century . . ." some of the other plants visited by Professor Nutter were newer and more modern but at the end of all his travels and studies he concluded that the Soviet economy is 50 years behind America's. Close examination of Russia's production record under Government ownership, on 17 important products, shows that she is from 16 to 69 years behind our private ownership, free enterprise U. S. A. Let's guard against the growth of Government power in our own system. Our prosperity and freedom are at stake.

Social Security Office Rushed

The Hagerstown social security office is experiencing the greatest rush of business in the 20 years of its existence. Since the first of the year, the number of people making claims for insurance benefit payments has more than doubled over that of a year ago, said district manager W. S. King said today.

The increase in the number of claimants here reflects a condition prevailing in most of the 566 social security offices throughout the country. In one January week alone, a total of 138 people in this area made claims for old-age, survivors, or disability insurance payments.

Mr. King said that his office is doing everything possible to expedite the handling of people making benefit claims. Due to the increased number of claimants, however, many may have to wait longer for interviews when they come to the social security office. Also, he said, the large number of claimants in the office slow up the processing of the claims papers. A new beneficiary must sometimes wait longer before he receives his first monthly insurance benefit check.

"If you have made a claim for payments but have not received your first check, please be patient," King urges. He assures those who have recently filed claims that the delay will not result in any loss of benefits. The date an application is filed, not the date of the final award, is used in figuring the monthly benefit amount. Furthermore, he pointed out, benefits can be paid for a period of as much as a year before the time a claim for benefits is made when people are entitled to back payments. Benefit checks for future months will not be affected by the workload and will reach beneficiaries on time.

While ordinarily a wage earner need not submit proof of past earnings, in a claim for old-age benefits, a self-employed person will need to bring along copies of his income tax returns for 1955 and 1956. Moreover, in claims filed by a widow, widower, child, or surviving dependent parents, certain proofs are usually required. "We don't urge people to go to any great trouble or expense to obtain proofs, but the handling of a claim can be speeded and return visits to our office avoided if a marriage certificate or a birth or baptismal certificate is brought along," he declared.

In case of doubt, a telephone call to the social security office may save time and delay in getting all necessary papers and in arranging to come to the office.

Commenting on the unprecedented number of claims now on hand, King said that the situation is temporary. It is due largely to the recent changes in the social security law.

In the area served by the Hagerstown office a major reason for the increase in claimants is that many self-employed farmers are now qualifying for old-age benefits. Farm operators were first brought under social security at the beginning of 1955. About 200 in this area who have reached retirement age have filed benefit claims since the first of the year, he said. Women can now elect to claim benefits at age 62. In the country as a whole, more than 600,000 women between the ages of 62 and 65 have filed claims since this provision first became effective last November.

While disability insurance benefits to persons who have reached age 50 first become payable for the month of July 1957, many disabled people are now filing claims. Other disabled people who are still under age 50 are calling to have their social security work records frozen. This action will protect them and their families for future benefit payments even though the disabled worker is not yet eligible for monthly disability payments for himself. As many people are still unfamiliar with the disability provisions in the social security law, King advises them to ask for a copy of "If You Are Disabled," a new booklet which

Move Offices

The State Roads Commission this week moved its district offices at Frederick from rented quarters in a second story loft on Patrick Street to a 12-room brick house on the outskirts of town, property taken in right-of-way negotiations for the Frederick Bypass. District 7 includes Carroll, Howard and Frederick Counties. The new offices afford the public ample parking places and the Roads personnel greater space for their operations. The building is a former residence. It was moved from its original site to a spot south of U. S. 40 just east of the State Police Barracks. The new location was also acquired by the Commission in right-of-way negotiations.

Present personnel of the District Office are on the first floor and the Right-of-Way Offices for the District are on the second floor. The District Shop will remain in its old location on East Church Street.

explains the requirements for the disability freeze and disability benefits.

INCOME TAX FACTS No. 7 Not All Income is Taxable

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. These articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants, and the Maryland Society of Certified Public Accountants in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.)

Taxpayers make more mistakes in listing their income than any other type of error, according to a survey made by the Internal Revenue Service. It is important to know what to include and what NOT to include. Look at this list and see if you can tell which should be listed on a tax return:

- Dividends from an insurance policy
- Social Security Benefits
- Gifts
- Payments received under Workmen's Compensation laws

The answer is that NONE of the above should be listed as taxable income. There are other forms of exempt income, too, which you will find listed in the official instruction book. Some of them are:

- Inheritances and bequests (the estate may be taxed but not the recipient)
- Railroad Retirement Act benefits
- Certain health and accident benefits
- Damages awarded by a court or paid out of court for personal injuries
- Government payments and benefits to veterans and their families, except nondisability retirement pay and interest on terminal leave bonds.

How Prizes Are Taxed

If you won a prize, watch this fine distinction: the prize is taxable if you were required to exert even the slightest effort to earn it; on the other hand, if it was made in recognition of scientific, literary or other achievement you would have performed anyway, the prize is considered a gift and you are not taxed on it.

Most scholarships and fellowships are exempt unless they are paid as compensation for services, such as teaching and research. Another point to remember in connection with scholarships: in figuring support for a dependent you do not have to count scholarships received by a student.

Some income, such as limited amounts of "sick pay" and the first $50 of certain dividends, must be explained in the tax return, but are not taxed.

If you have an annuity from life insurance, pension plan or other source, the portion which you may receive tax-free depends on your life expectancy and the amount you paid for the annuity. The Internal Revenue Service will furnish actuarial tables upon request to help you figure this out.

Anyone who owns stock needs to know about the dividend exclusion and credit. This applies only to dividends from corporations which are subject to United States corporation income tax and does not include dividends from savings and loan associations, credit unions or foreign corporations.

Your first $50 of qualified dividends is tax free. Husband and wife are each entitled to exclude the first $50 for dividends on stocks that each owns.

If you received dividends beyond this amount, you are entitled to a "dividends received credit." This credit is 4% of the remaining dividends, but it cannot be more than 4% of your taxable income, or more than the amount of tax otherwise due. The credit is not just a deduction from your taxable income—it is actually subtracted from your tax.

For example, if you received $50 in dividends, you can exclude $50 from your taxable income, and subtract 4% of $50—or $20—from the tax you would otherwise pay. The last page of the tax form provides a schedule for figuring the amount of your credit.

The instruction book which comes with your tax forms gives further information. Help is also available by telephone or at offices of the Internal Revenue Service. The Revenue Service urges you to consult a properly qualified advisor if you decide to seek outside help.

Shakespearean Play To Be Presented At Local College

Players Incorporated, International Repertory Co., Washington, D. C., will stage Shakespeare's comedy, Henry IV Part I at 7:30 p. m. in DePaul Auditorium, St. Joseph College on March 20. The presentation will be in conjunction with the joint program-concert series of Saint Joseph and Mount St. Mary's Colleges.

Henry IV Part I is one of those rare plays that combine drama and excitement with laughter and fun. The rivalry of Prince Hal and Hotspur, two of Shakespeare's most attractive young heroes, is underscored by the mischievous and ribald Falstaff.

The Players, all former students of the speech and drama department at Catholic University, are under the direction of the department's faculty which includes the Rev. Gilbert V. Hart-ke, O.P., Dr. Josephine Callan, Leo Brady and James Waring.

One of the finest touring attractions in the field today, Players Incorporated has steadily grown and matured in the seven years of traveling that have taken it from one end of the nation to another. Twice this aggregation of young actors has played in the battlefields of Korea and twice they have played for the Defense Dept. in Europe. Last season they played Shakespeare in the Arctic Circle.

Many outstanding theatrical personalities have long lamented the death of the road companies. By pioneering anew the Players have revitalized a theater too long centered in one city.

Last October the Players visited St. Joseph's with their production of Shakespeare's, Much Ado About Nothing.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Spring housecleaning has come to Troop 284. The local Boy Scouts are doing just that at the local Scout house. Three patrol corners are being built with Scout crafts and know-how being used. The Explorer crew is preparing to build and decorate its own corner in the building. The past set-up was with all the boys 11 years to 18 years working together. The new organization keeps the boys in two separate groups. The boys 11 to 14 years in three patrols and the older boys 14 to 18 years, in an Explorer crew. The boys in the Scout age will be given all regular scouting skills and the Explorers will be taught leadership and advanced scouting. This division in a troop has greatly aided the other troops in the area and after some study is being started in our own troop.

On Sunday 12 boys, both Explorers and Scouts, went to Frederick to get instructions in the use of the rifle. First safety was stressed and then how to load, aim, sight and fire. Each was instructed on firing in the prone position. Thursday night at the meeting the Scout and Explorer teams will be announced.

Wednesday evening Scoutmaster J. E. Houck and Allen Stoner attended the roundtable meeting in Frederick. Discussions were held on the use of Camp Baker, the Scout circus, a Scout field day, future roundtables and the Explorers' ball. Explorer Advisor George Danner will have full details on the ball to be held on March 30. This is the first event of its kind in the Francis Scott Key District and a big success is hoped for.

The Scouts are preparing for a paper drive and urges the public to save paper and to contact a Scout if they have any. A pick-up date will be announced.

SPORTS AFIELD By Ted Keating

The essence of anything to be called sport is that each contestant should have a reasonable chance to win. This applies to fishing, too, says Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield magazine. If one's line (which in fly-rod fishing may be said to include the leader) is so strong that no fish can break it, what's being done is merely killing fish.

At first glance, it might seem that our expert would recommend the test line he thinks just right for each species of fish. But it's not that simple. We must consider how large the fish of a given species may run, where they'll be caught, and even the time of year when the fishing is being done. Perhaps most important of all, the skill of the fisherman must be considered.

When using casting tackle for bass in water that is comparatively free of weeds, snags or sharp boulders, around which a fish could run, Jason prefers the softest braided line he can find, of about five or six pounds test.

For an inexperienced fisherman in a similar situation, a line of about 12-pounds test would be the best. This would give him about the same chance to land his fish that an experienced angler would have with the lighter line.

What if you use spinning tackle, not casting tackle? In that case, regardless of skill or experience, a six-pound line is your best bet. Since it isn't safe to try to set the drag of the reel too close to the rated strength of the line, you will be unable to exert over, say a four-pound pull on a fish. But the inexperienced angler can't, if he gets excited, exert a heavier pull to break his line, as he could with a casting reel—the slipping clutch takes care of that. Nor does the monofilament generally used with spinning tackle weaken nearly as rapidly as braided casting line, so a six-pound spinning line will almost surely stand a four-pound pull.

How about fishing for bass among dense weeds or snags, or where there are sharp underwater boulders which could cut your line? Here Jason goes to a 12-pound line. And he recommends the same for the inexperienced angler fishing in the same spot. But be sure to remember this: When fishing in such a place, test the front of your line very often, and cut it off if it's weakening. If you do not, you'll probably have no trouble until you hook a really big one, perhaps the prize of your lifetime. Then—snap—he's lost.
