Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL -

The flu bug seems to have smitten about half of our small community and nearly everyone talks about having a "touch" of the stuff. Just why the virus singled out our fair little village to wreak its dirty work on is not known. All that is known is that almost all of us has the sniffles or our bones and joints ache. Emmitsburg appears to be the hardest hit in the entire state, and possibly the nation. I don't know what we have here that the virus is looking for or likes, but it'll be a welcome day when it clears up. School children appear to be the most susceptible to the germ and a number of times thought has been given to closing our schools until this epidemic subsides. I personally don't believe this would aid much in clearing up the condition any more than the old method of quarantine for measles, chickenpox, scarlet fever, etc. helped much. The virus is present everywhere, even in the air so its bound to run unbridled throughout the country. In a few more weeks this pestilence will be gone and I think the kiddies would appreciate any time off better in June than right now. Incidently, to show you how hard we are stricken here last Monday absenteeism in the local public elementary school was 75% and in the high school, 63%. By these figures our out-of-town friends can see we've really been smacked by the bug here. I don't have the absenteeism figures on the parochial schools here but I imagine they are comparable to the public schools.

There ought to be a law against it. Already some stores are displaying Christmas merchandise and here it is only Halloween time. I know its impossible to have such a law but people should think it over and act accordingly. In my mind the first of December is soon enough to start the mad rush but I guess it'll never be that way. The early birds already are chirping on the scene and long before Thanksgiving the balance will be right in line. Oh well there's nothing I can do about it.

Twenty odd properties have been officially annexed to the Corporation of Emmitsburg. The final date for annexation was this week and these new homes now swell the population of our little town by about 200. This welcome addition now brings the town population to near the 1500 mark which will bring the town more tax money from property-owners, the state and the county. I feel we all will benefit from the decision of our suburban neighbors to "come to town."

The recent announcement the Russians had launched a satellite has galvanized this country into action. Almost every day now you read of the government launching all types of missiles. You never heard of so many types of rockets, etc. before, or so many. Let's hope it leads us somewhere other than self-destruction. Someone had to be first and the fact that we now know it is possible to have inter-space rockets, missiles, etc., might spur us on to do greater endeavor in this particular sphere. We don't like to do it but we can learn from others if we have to. I believe that we will be hearing something along these lines in the next few years, or perhaps months. One thing is certain, and that is that our government is not going to cut back or skimp on anything of the military nature until such time as we are at least equal to or superior to the Russians.

Local Boy Scout Activities

Well, the fee to reserve a camp site at Camp Roosevelt has been sent in and our troop will go to the camp on July 13 through the 19th, in 1958.

The food sale last Saturday added $40 to the troop's treasury. Over $300 more is needed to finance the trip to Roosevelt. The boys themselves, will have to earn a portion of the camp fee and have started to save now. At the last meeting many Scouts and Explorers were out with colds and only tests were passed by the few who did attend. A compass problem will be held in early November and will cover a mile or two, after dark. ### CITIZENS OF TOMORROW

Pictured above are local children whose pictures were recently taken under the sponsorship of the Emmitsburg Chronicle. This paper will publish a series of photographs weekly for the next several weeks. Right to left, Craig Arthur, 17 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Hardman, Fairfield, Rt. 2; James J. ### SEWER PROJECT MUST GO THROUGH

For 30 years about half of Emmitsburg has had the advantage of having access to a modern sewer line. The other half of the town has been forced to endure these past three decades, unhealthy conditions along with monetary expenditures to try and keep within the state laws of sanitation. Now that the preliminary steps have been taken by the Town Fathers to install a sewer line which will accommodate the whole town, the town must back its representatives wholeheartedly.

Nearly half a million dollars is to be spent for this modern sewerage installation and the project must go through or our village will have to reckon with the State Health Dept. which is annually stengthening its rules concerning small town sewerage. This project must and will go through to a satisfactory conclusion and no organization or individual can stop it.

We have been informed that a number of local residents adamantly refuse to sign rights-of-way deeds which is the first step in the mammoth hurdle to be met. There can be no sane reason why such a refusal has been made. The project will be to the benefit of these propertyowners as well as their neighbors and friends. Two attorneys have examined the forms which will grant the town the right to cross property lines with the pipeline and no land will be "taken". The only interest the town will have in the property is the right to cross it and to maintain a right-of-way through the section the pipe traverses. This naturally is essential for maintenance purposes. In order to record a right-of-way it is necessary to have a deed, legal advisors say, and the form that propertyowners are asked to sign is nothing but this harmless deed which grants the town the right to lay the pipe on their property. No land is completely "surrendered" or given away, and interfers is no way with the original deed to the ground. We personally have examined this right-of-way form and can see absolutely nothing wrong with it that would bring any harm or loss of property to anyone.

It is imperative that these rejectors or obstructionists reconsider immediately and sign these papers so that all haste can be made on the sewer project. No one wants to become nasty, belligerent or downright mean, but if these forms are not signed it will be necessary to use legal and forceful means in order to insure the installation of the town's new sewer line. No single group of individuals can impede the progress of this essential community service.

SMALL BUSINESS"

For quite some time post mortems have been going on as to just what last session of Congress meant, or did not mean.

All the huffing and puffing to the contrary, pro and con, observers close to the Washington scene feel that 1957 will go down as the year of the Great Congressional Revolt against dictation by the administrative branch of the government.

For one thing, the seizure of well-nigh dictators' power C.W. Harder by State Secretary John Foster Dulles has not set well. The edict muzzling traditional U.S. free press has deeper affect.

* * *
When Dulles refused to let reputable American newspapermen go to China, a lot of eyebrows were raised. Traditionally, the American public holds in high respect the nation's working press for objectivity in reporting the facts as they appear at any given time. Only communists and fascists, who cannot stand up under scrutiny attack American newspaperdom with such epi-thets as "the lying press."

That is due to the fact they fear a free press. In their own nations, the press is controlled by government. Yet the Dulles ac-tion marks the first time, in modern times, at least, that an American official by edict has suppressed the free ranging, worldwide search for facts by the American free press.

* * *

This has led to the question
"What is State Dept. hiding?" * * *

Most people have no truck with any theory that the reds might subvert the entire U. S. press.

Not only is the average working newspaperman quite cynical of propaganda, but also among newspapermen is found perhaps a greater understanding of the principles of democracy than in any other group.

* * *

So people are curious as just what Dulles wants hidden from American readers in China. To be sure, he eventualy rescinded his ruling, then the Red Chinese government helped him out by barring U. S. newsmen unless they could send their own over to this country.

Yet, Sen. William Knowland goes on record that he has no objections to some Chinese newspapermen coming into this country on permits.

If national security is a plausible excuse, then the United Nations headquarters should be removed to Timbucto or some far place because as it is now, members have liberty to bring into teeming, sprawling New York their delegations and retinues. And New York is an easy place to hide.

Thus, this hush-hush ban imposed by government officials is a hard one to sell to Congress.

The putting into a secret category the report of the Govern-ment Accounting Office alleging graft and corruption in the use of foreign aid funds is another example of this trend.

* * *
In addition, probably never before in the history of the Republic has task forces of cabinet members been formed to storm Capitol Hill to browbeat Congress.

Thus, there is an uneasy feeling. And in view of the situations that have developed where-by government officials seek to lay down an unwarranted blan-ket of secrecy, there is small wonder that such feelings exist.

Just what influences led to Dielman's conversion are not known. It was quite natural that a man who seems to have been long unidentified with a particular religious activity should have become interested in a Faith that was manifest in the institution in which he worked, and in the whole countryside where he dwelt Doubtless, individual friendships, both cleric and lay, and the force of their fine example played a predominant part. The sincerity of his conversion, although open to criticism in many of his musical confreres, is amply attested by the subsequent practice of his Faith and a devotion, which directed his musical talent into what was for him the entirely new field of church composition.

In the First Communion records of the old Mountain Church, there is an entry that Mr. Dielman received his First Holy Communion on March 20, 1845. He was confirmed by Archbishop Eccleston on April 26, 1846. Emily Dielman was apparently converted to Catholicism before her spouse, although no record is available on her baptism. She was confirmed June 16, 1844. 49 Perhaps it was her conversion from Anglicanism to the Roman Catholic Church that influenced her husband. The children were all baptized in the Catholic Faith, married in the Church and died as faithful sons and daughters of their father's newly acquired belief.

Some proofs of Professor Dielman's sincere belief in his conversion and obedience to live in accordance with the laws of the Church are found in 1846 in his compositions in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Saint Patrick and Saint Anthony-all published in the United States Catholic Magazine — which express sentiments and beliefs that only a Catholic could hold. Dielman's own personal life, both as father and husband, was honorable, sincere, forthright-in a word, above reproach. 58 FORD COMING NOV.7

Nothing newer

AROUND THE WORLD

The 58 Ford has been proved around the world. This is the most dramatic and most grueling test ever given a new car before its public announcement.

The whole world was used as a test track for the 58 Ford. The car drove through England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Afghanistan, Pakistan, India, Malaya, Thailand, Cambodia, Vietnam, and finally back to the place it started-Detroit, Michigan, U.S.A.

The Ford powered over the great mountain ranges of three continents: from the Alps to the Himalayas and the Rockies. It crossed the great rivers of history: the Thames, the Seine, the Tiber, the Arno, the Tigris, the Euphrates, the Indus, the Ganges.

This car stood at Buckingham Palace, rolled up the Champs Elysees to the Arc de Triomphe, and paused at the Eiffel Tower. It was greeted by the great Paris couturieres at the famous fashion salons where its "sculptured in steel" styling was applauded by the most style-conscious audience in the world.

The 58 Ford rode smoothly down the rugged, beautiful seacoast of Tito's country, to a festival in Dubrovnik, and into Greece to Athens, where this newest classic met such ancient classics as the Parthenon and the Temple of Poseidon.

Into Turkey: and the 58 Ford passed the great white lacework palaces of the Sultans along the Bosporus and the Golden Horn. Then the Ford went where few but nomads travel, up into the hot days and chill nights of the ancient mountains of Afghanistan. And thence along the route Alexander the Great followed with his chariots to cross the historic Indus river.

On and on the Ford moved, down into the heat of mysterious India, through New Delhi to the Taj Mahal, and to the great pink palace of the Maharajah of Jaipur.

This great new car met the challenge of the monsoons-rains that for centuries have stopped all road movement throughout Indo-China, but didn't stop the 58 Ford. It drove on to Penang in Malaya, and then north to Bangkok.

Further on came Saigon, the Paris of the Orient, at the farthest tip of Southeast Asia. Finally, it powered across the great Rockies and plains of North America and back, at long last, to Detroit,

The 58 Ford . . . has been proved and approved around the world. A natural question arises. Why did Ford go to such great lengths with its 1958 model? Why spend so much money and time and go through all the problems of negotiations, customs, border transit, diplomacy in so many countries?

The answer: in the competitive automobile market of today, only the best in all-around value can survive. And this round-the-world test is the most decisive possible demonstration of the best.

The 1958 Ford is value: hard-dollar value. It is also style, power, performance, and a dozen great new features. But above all, it is value.

This is the car you've been waiting for.

See it November 7-there's nothing newer in the world than the 58 Ford!

Cancer Drive Audit Announced

$606,943.89 is the final audited

Mr. Machen stated that this represents an increase of $91,923

The funds raised in the 1957 Crusade are already at work right here in our own city and state he said. Research and service grants totalling $173,840.28 have been allocated to various hospitals, colleges and universities conducting research programs.

In addition, $14,000 has been awarded in fellowships for the training of young researchers and scientists in the cancer field. This gives us a total of $188,240.28 being spent for research in Maryland. The Maryland Division makes available funds to be used for research on a National level. This year the Division is allocating $151,750 for this purpose.

The remainder of the funds are used to support the educational and service programs of the Society. These programs include the operation of 22 Detection Centers in the counties where well persons residing in Maryland may go for a free cancer examination by competent physicians and Tumor Clinics to provide consultation and treatment for routine and special cases of cancer.

The Division also supports 3 Treatment Clinics in Baltimore and five Diagnostic Clinics in the counties. Medical care is provided to persons financially unable to defray these costs. This includes radon seeds, prothesis drugs, nursing care, transportation, lodging, meals and dressings. These are just a few of the many services provided by the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society.

In conclusion, Mr. Machen expressed a sincere vote of thanks to all those who worked so hard to make the campaign a success.

Pretty Dessert from Sunny Italy

DELICIOUSLY RICH, this excellent dessert recipe for Tortoni is adapted from Italy. It's really rich, so small helpings are desirable and, by using the small half-cup size paper containers for freezing the mixture, this recipe will serve eight people! Toasted flaked coconut adds an elegant and easy touch. We find Tortoni perfect for the "emergency" shelf in our freezer ... k's a joy for unexpected company -

TOASTED COCONUT TORTONI 1 package vanilla pudding 1 cup water and pie filling mix 1 cup cream, whipped 1 teaspoon vanilla 1/4 cup sugar 1 cup evaporated milk 1 cup Baker's Angel Flake Coconut, toasted

Combine pudding mix, sugar, milk, and water in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat. Chill.* Fold in whipped cream and vanilla. Pour mixture into freezing tray of refrigerator, setting control for coldest freezing temperature. Freeze 1 hour. Then spoon into bowl and beat with egg beater until smooth, but not melted. Fold in 34 cup of the coconut. Return to tray or spoon into paper cups. Sprinkle with remaining coconut and freeze until firm. Freezing time: 3 to 4 hours. Makes 1 quart.

* To hasten chilling, pour into freezing tray for 1/2 hour, setting control for freezing temperature...or put in freezer compartment. Beat slightly before folding in whipped cream.

above last year. However, that would still be 22% below the peak year of 1955.

Causes Of The Dip

Many competent observers feel that last year's downturn in auto sales and this year's only moderate recovery indicate that we made too many cars in 1955. In that year we produced nearly 8,000,000 units. These people feel that the industry must now undergo a further period of adjustment while the nation "digests" the overproduction of 1955. I think there is some truth in such reasoning. However, there are additional factors involved in the dip in auto sales.

The current rolling readjustment in general business must also be taken into account as an adverse sales factor. There are increasing indications that the dip also reflects some sales resistance on the part of people who just do not like the car styling and performance being turned out by Detroit at the present time.

What Do The People Need? In their haste to turn the tide after last year's poor sales showing, car makers concentrated on extreme-styling eye appeal. They came out with cars longer than necessary. They loaded them with gadgets designed to catch the eye. These longer, heavier cars require more horsepower. They burn more gas and most of them have engines which will operate efficiently only with high-oc-

At a time when automobile congestion may choke out the very downtown life of our large cities, car makers have added to the problem by making cars which need more parking space and cost to maintain. These giant new cars may fullfill the desires and ambitions of many people, but they do not meet the needs of postwar America today! Certainly they will be marketable only through intensive advertising.

used car of standard size. They may be correct. But the time will come when Detroit must face facts. The automobile has contributed much to our American way of life. It has led to the development of the suburbs. It has provided and it now provides employment for large numbers of our people, directly or indirectly. Ours is a wheeled economy in the best sense of that term.

A good deal of our prosperity today stems from our success in having mass-produced the automobile and having made it readily available to vast numbers of our people. However, that prosperity could be seriously threatened if we continue to misuse the automobile. The car of tomorrow will be smaller. more functionally styled, though still beautiful. It will be cheaper to buy, to operate, and to maintain. And it will be safer to use.

More Foreign Cars Coming To U. S.

While going all out for size and flashy styling, Detroit is not entirely blind to the fact that there is a market for small cars here. Only one major domestic producer does not have a foreign subsidiary making small, economical foreign cars for export to the U.S. Small car demand has been doubling each year for some time now. If this trend continues, and I predict it will, U. S. car makers may be forced to revise their thinking on car size.

Perhaps the European cars now being imported are too small to attract wide market support in the U.S. However, their reception has been encouraging. It proves that many motorists are not fully satisfied with what Detroit is now turning out. Somewhere between these monsters of the road and the toy cars of Europe lies the answer to our real needs. Within the next five years I look for standard American cars of smaller, though adequate, size at much less cost. I predict also that improvements in engine design will permit great savings in gas consumption,

Welfare State Realities

... by Dr. George S. Benson DIRECTOR — NATIONAL

EDUCATION PROGRAM

Searcy, Arkansas

There are other enlightening statistics on income. A total of 19,430,000 (about 95 per cent) of the United Kingdom's 20,300,000 income earners have take-home pay of less than $2800 a year. And 87 per cent have net incomes of from $550 to $2000 a year-with most of these nearer the $1000 figure. Only 200 persons in the United Kingdom's 51,221,000 population have net incomes of $16,000 or more. For me, this was one of the shocking realities of the Welfare State. There are more $16,000 net incomes in Kansas City, Missouri (or any other sizeable American city) than in the whole of the United Kingdom with its 51-million popu-

Investment Potential Smothered

What once was the upper income level of Britain's population now has been wiped out by the Welfare State's heavy taxation, its Socialist program of redistribution of wealth, its virtual confiscation of inheritance, its nationalizations, and most importantly its destruction of incentive among the most capable, wealth-producing people.

This fact pretty well explains the answer given by Gerald O'Brien, chief of information for Great Britain's Conservative Party, when asked about the future of England's nationalized coal industry. "Will the coal industry be returned to private ownership if the Conservative Party is successful in the next election?" I asked.

"Oh, no," he said. "Why not?" "Well, of course," he said, land who wants to get into the coal mining business and who has the money to do it."

"Push Down Hard" The Socialist doctrine, from Karl Marx to Norman Thomas, says, "We must reach down and pull up the lower income strata place it on top - and then push down hard." That has been done with sheer governmental force in Britain's Welfare State. The pushing down has about smothered out of existence the upper income and the middle income levels. Nearly everybody now is at the botton-87% with incomes from $550 to $2000 a year.

It may get better in the United Kingdom. The Conservative Party is trying to restore a larger degree of self-reliance and freedom among the wage earners and recreate the motive power of strong incentives among the creative enterprisers. But it is trying to do this while retaining much of the Welfare State philosophy.

Strained Acceptance Some Conservative leaders are making public compromises with the Socialist way of life out of a last-ditch desire to keep the Conservative Party in powerhoping to be able ultimately to educate the majority of Britains to the advantages of capitalism and economic self-reliance. Some, however, appear to have rationalized an acceptance of basic socialistic philosophy; and this latter group seems to be in control. A strained acceptance of a substantial part of Socialism appears to have occurred also among some of the top private enterprise industrialists of the United King-

Meantime, millions of England's wage earners, expertly propagandized by shrewd, dedicated Socialists, continue to be grateful to the Socialist-Labor Party for the Welfare State handouts. And what are these? The Old Age Retirement Pension is a good example of the poverty of a Welfare State. It was $3.64 a week when the Conservatives took over in 1952. They've boosted it twice—to $5.60. But because of inflation, the purchasing power increase has amounted to only about three shillings—less than 45c-in six years. And even at this low figure, the program seems headed for serious trouble. The National Insurance Fund is running a heavy, growing deficit. -G.G.

ALONG THE POTOMAC By U. S. Congressman

DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON - One of the most important problems confronting the Congress next year will be that of finding a means of combatting inflation. When we consider the grim reality of inflation we realize just how great the burden of national defense is. But inflation can be stopped even with this burden if we insist on real reductions in present Federal activities and the avoidance of any new programs. If this can be done, the normal growth of our economy will not lose any of the great advances we have made in recent years.

There are certain limits, though, to the lengths that governments can go on holding down inflationary forces. The search for the culprit to blame for the present puzzling inflation is difficult. I say puzzling because the classic conditions for inflation do not exist. For example, the Government is running a surplus, it is small to be sure-but, nevertheless, it is not a deficit. Historically, inflation runs wild when governments spend more than they

If the classic conditions for inflation are being brought under control, or do not exist, why do prices continue to rise? The classic economist says that given time the methods-monetary methodsnow in use will halt the rise in prices. But the non-classic economist, or new inflationist as he is called, says we overlook the factors which spring from the President Eisenhower recognizes this new factor when he appeals to business and labor for statesmanlike action with regard to prices and wages.

The Congress will be looking into these new factors next session. Its main job, though, will be to hold Federal spending to levels consistent with the growth and security of our nation.
