The recent attempt here to establish a teen-age canteen, and which was thwarted by the County Planning and Zoning Committee, should not deter the efforts of the party interested in opening a business of this type from going right on with further plans. In my opinion the efforts should not be deferred to begin such an enterprise here but still kept in a state of preparedness or abeyance until a suitable location becomes available, and then begin operations. There is no question in my mind that there is a need for such a place in our community. I can understand the actions of those people who protested such an enterprise on the grounds that it would devalue their property. There is plenty of vacant land available in the suburban area for the location of new businesses, such as this one and I like to see the younger element attempt to operate such new businesses. As I wrote a few columns back, what the town needs is new businesses, not necessarily in competition with those presently existing here. So, in the interest of the town as a whole, I hope no hard-feelings or antipathies exist over the recent turn of events which stymied the efforts to begin a teen-age canteen here. Sooner or later a more suitable and appropriate location will be found and I believe it'll be an asset to this community.

A number of years ago I recommended that local parties take advantage of the natural surroundings of our mountain terrain by developing it via the establishment of hunting lodges, resorts, camps and picnic areas, but apparently my idea never took hold, locally. At that time I predicted outsiders sooner or later would take advantage of these opportunities once they were aware they existed here. Since that time numerous tracts have been bought up and few remain. Some big news concerning this is going to break in the not too distant future and it will be a credit to the Emmitsburg District.

Our State Roads Commission is apparently in hot water once more. Seems it wants to run a road from Rockville through the Washington area, but is meeting with stiff opposition, as to the location of the highway. A public meeting was held in the District this week concerning the proposed route of the new road. Seems as though the towns and cities have to keep their eyes open these days. One time they might be completely by-passed and another time the road just might rip through the center of the settlement... you just can't tell what's on the mind of our State Roads Commission!

The weather seems to be of paramount interest these days with the thermometer dipping to zero occasionally. Seems as though the younger generation doesn't like cold weather. Why I remember back when the streams were frozen solid practically all winter. For weeks the farmers cut ice and stored it in their ice-houses for use during the summer months. Nowadays there isn't enough ice to skate on, let alone cut and store it. The winters certainly have moderated considerably in the past 25-30 years. Zero meant nothing in those days and colds were fewer and far between. It's these changing days from hot to cold and back again that bring on epidemics of colds and flu and virus—I believe. Oh well, in another short two months we'll be talking about Mr. Groundhog and spring... a mighty pleasant thought at this particular time.

Grange Sponsoring Talk, Demonstration

The general public is invited to hear a talk and witness a demonstration on horsepower, to be given at the Emmitsburg Public School on January 15 at 8:30 p. m. by a representative of the Potomac Edison Co. The affair should be of interest to everyone and is being given under the auspices of the Emmitsburg Grange.

Mountaineers Tackle Loyola Tonight

Aside from its title aspirations Mount St. Mary's will put two other awards on the line in Friday night's game against Loyola's Greyhounds. The Cogan Memorial Trophy will be up for grabs for the best individual performance and the Mountain Jug placed in competition by the Mount St. Mary's Capitol Club will go to the winning coach. In the past, the Cogan trophy went on two occasions to Jack Sullivan and once to Loyola's Tony Pistorio.

Jim Phelan is looking forward to improved play as the Mountaineers face the toughest part of their schedule during January. Aside from Loyola the Mounties face Western Maryland on Jan. 11 and then on Jan. 13 tough American U, now one of the hot favorites to dethrone the Blue and White. On Jan. 15, the Mountaineers play at St. Vincent's and meet Steubenville on the 16th. On the 18th Phelan will take his charges to Philadelphia to face Villanova. Highly rated St. Francis of Loretto moves into Emmitsburg on the 21st.

Phelan's lineup seems settled for the first time this season. Marshall and Sheing will start at the guard spots, Sullivan and Bohlinger at the forwards and Williams at center. Sheing sets the scoring pace with a 15.5 average. Bohlinger is at 11, Sullivan, 11.5; Williams, 10.5, and Marshall, 8.5. Phelan looks for better defense and ball handling than he has been getting in the past and more aggressive board play. Williams and Bohlinger have been playing way under expectations in snarling rebounds picking up only five between them in the Baltimore U. game. Bohlinger has been averaging seven rebounds per game and Williams only nine.

Bert Sheing, who went into Wednesday's game against Washington College with a career total of 973 points should crack the 1000-point mark shortly. The junior back court ace will be the fourth Mountaineer to reach the 1000-point mark, being topped only by Sullivan with 2617, Angelo with 1238, and Pete Clark with 1224. By season's end Sheing could move into the runner-up spot behind Sullivan.

ZONING BOARD REJECTS PERMIT FOR CANTINEEN

The Frederick County Board of Appeals at a public hearing Tuesday evening in the Court House heard a case seeking variance from the Interim Zoning Ordinance of the county.

Refused was the application of George L. Danner Jr., to operate a Teen-Age snack bar near Emmitsburg.

Practically all the surrounding property owners near the site where Danner proposed to establish the snack bar appeared in person to voice their objections to the noise and traffic hazards it would cause. Led by Guy R. McLaughlin, as spokesman, they acknowledged the need of such a place for youngsters of the area, but pointed out that there was a business area nearer Emmitsburg, where there could be better control of such an establishment, that the entrance would be near the crest of a hill, there had already been numerous accidents, some fatal, near the site. Besides they had bought outside the town so they could sit quietly in their yards and felt that a juke box next door would greatly interfere with their enjoyment.

On the other hand there were several petitions signed by over 100 parents, mostly Emmitsburg residents, saying they approved such a business as Danner proposed.

It really resolved into "we think the proposal a good thing—if it is not next door to us."

County Planner Arthur B. Hatton, asked disapproval by the board, stating the ordinance does not approve such an installation in a built up residential area, and agreed it would be a dangerous traffic hazard. While the site contains about two acres of land the frontage was given as only about 60 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wivell and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wivell and family, and S/3c Fred J. Hoff, visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell and family. Mr. Morris Hewitt, Frederick, visited Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosensteel this week.

BUILDING DROPS HEAVILY IN COUNTY

Records in the office of A. Lamar Barrick, supervisor of assessments for Frederick County, show building permits issued for construction estimated to cost $2,299,117 during 1957.

This total falls far behind that of 1956 when the estimated cost for the year's construction was $7,277,470. But it approximates the 1955 figure of $2,534,770.

Last year the figures were boosted by permits taken out for two county schools to cost a non-taxable $1.5 million and permits for several large commercial jobs including Alpha Portland Cement.

The figures do not include permits issued for farm buildings. The latter are not included in the monthly totals of the assessment office, and Frederick City permits are issued at City Hall.

There were permits for 242 housekeeping units issued during year, estimated at $1,776,887 compared with 251 units to cost $1,831,400 in 1956.

A good many alterations and additions to existing buildings cost an estimated $191,350. Industrial permits totaled $188,000. This included a permit in February for a relay station on the City watershed to cost $150,000.

Religious buildings estimated to cost $33,000, a nursing home to cost $10,000, a lunchroom, $1,000 were also issued permits during the year.

It is well recognized that the estimated cost of proposed construction given by the owner at the time the permit is secured, is much lower in most cases than the figure the assessment office will work with when the completed buildings are assessed for tax purposes.

The permits totaling $392,250 in May was the largest and the December total of $80,500 the lowest for the year.

Farm Bureau Group to Meet

"Change in Agriculture—How It Affects Our Future", will be the 1958 topic of Farm Bureau's Young People's Talk Meet, which will be held in the summer and fall prior to the State Contest in October. This is an important subject for young people as it affects their plans for the future.

The farm pattern has been changing since World War II due to the impact of mechanization. Farms are becoming fewer and larger, with a greater investment in buildings and machinery. The output per man and per farm is increasing as our farm population continues to decline. This change knows no boundary lines as it affects the nation as a whole with 1,100,000 acres disappearing from cropland each year.

Maryland has lost approximately one million acres in the past twenty years to urban development, military establishments, and roadways. This trend seems destined to continue as our population grows and demands increase for homes, roads, airfields and industrial requirements.

Simplified Voting Proposed By Women Voters

In the 1958 session of the General Assembly, the League of Women Voters of Maryland is sponsoring a bill which will help to simplify voting. This proposed bill will accomplish two things. It will specify that state-wide constitutional amendments and state-wide referenda appear first on the ballot. Also, that such state-wide amendments and referenda be numbered uniformly. This applies to the political subdivisions of the entire state which comprise 23 counties and Baltimore City. These amendments and referenda will have to be certified by the Secretary of State in the following numerical order:

1. By years of sessions of the General Assembly at which enacted.

2. For each such session, by chapter numbers of the Session Laws of that session.

This bill is being proposed by the League of Women Voters of Maryland in an effort to avoid unnecessary misunderstanding on the voting of measures. There is apt to be confusion when the same amendment has a different number in different parts of the State. In the interest of public good, the League of Women Voters strive to make voting for the public a knowledgeable and comprehensive matter.

New Fishing Law Explained

According to the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, the trout season opened officially under Regulation promulgated October 5, 1957, (effective January 1, 1958) on January 1, 1958, and will remain open thru March 14, 1958. It will then be closed for a month and will reopen April 15, 1958, and remain open through December 31, 1958.

This state-wide open season, except between March 14 and April 15, inclusive, will apply to all the waters of the State including the Savage River Reservoir and New Germany Lake. It will not apply, however, to the river and streams of the Savage River Watershed where the season will not open until April 15 running through September 15.

The Commission's 1958 Angler's Guide, containing a synopsis of the Maryland Fresh Water Fishing Regulations is now available, and a copy will be furnished every angler when he purchases his 1958 angler's license. The daily limit of five (5) trout in the aggregate will prevail state-wide, as also will the seven (7) inch size limit.

Council Stresses Tax Collections

Final plans for the financing of Emmitsburg's new sewer system were discussed Monday night at the regular meeting of the Burgess and Commissioners held in the town office, Chairman of the Board of Commissioners Charles R. Fuss presiding.

The town fathers at a previous special meeting last week adopted rules and regulations concerning sewerage which will become effective January 31. The proposed new sewer system will cost approximately $340,580 it has been disclosed, a portion of this amount being pledged by the State of Maryland and the Federal Government. A fluorescent light was ordered installed at the Firemen's barn at the intersection of South Alley and Chesapeake Ave., in order to provide better lighting conditions at the town parking lot adjacent the H. O. Toor Shoe Factory.

At a special meeting held Dec. 30, Council instructed the local tax collector to take final action in collecting all delinquent taxes due the town. Tax Collector Charles D. Gillean reported that a substantial amount of delinquent taxpayers had paid since the special meeting after being mailed final notices. Those not responding will be turned over to the county tax office where stern methods are used. The reports of the clerk and treasurer, Louise Sebald were presented by the town clerk and were approved as reported. Parking meter revenue for December was reported as $169, off somewhat from the usual collections due to free parking granted during the Christmas shopping period. In addition, there was $12 in overtime parking fines and $1145 traffic fines reported.

The Council discussed zoning for a period and decided to ask a representative of the Frederick County Planning and Zoning Commission to appear before it at some future date. It is highly possible that the town will adopt some sort of zoning law in the near future.

Police Chief Robert L. Koontz gave his monthly report to the Council and reported that 18 violations had been reported, six summonses issued, two funerals handled, one criminal arrested, six motor violations processed, 8 warning tickets issued, six night calls accommodated and eight complaints investigated.

The problem of local juvenile delinquency was discussed and council is studying a number of remedial measures to curb this delinquency.

Your Personal Health

The problem of accidental poisonings to children has reached such proportions that several organizations have adopted measures to combat it. Throughout the nation the American Academy of Pediatrics is one of the organizations most active in these efforts. As a cooperative venture between its Maryland chapter, the medical schools of Johns Hopkins University, the University of Maryland and the State Dept. of Health Poison Control Centers were established in Maryland last year. Facilities of the Poison Control Centers are available 24 hours a day to all physicians in the state. The Home Accident Prevention Unit of the Maryland State Dept. of Health has now completed a study based on records supplied by these Centers. Some of the findings should be of interest to the general public.

The Centers are located in Baltimore City; 306 of these cases were seen at Baltimore City, Johns Hopkins or University of Maryland Hospitals where Poison Con-rol Centers are functioning in connection with the Pediatric departments. Many cases of accidental poisoning are unreported so it is impossible to estimate the numbers which actually occurred. The poison control centers in Baltimore received reports of 326 cases during the year. All but a very few of these accidents occurred within the home; all of them could have been prevented. Children under five years of age were involved in 275 instances. Poisonings occurred at every hour from 6 a. m. until 1 a. m. These facts emphasize the need for close supervision of young children throughout their waking hours.

Medicine And Other Poisonings

Nearly half of the children ingested medicines; the medicine most often taken was aspirin. Frequently this was flavored aspirin specially prepared to appeal to children's taste. Nine who swallowed medicines required hospitalization; four of these had taken aspirin. It is imperative that all medicines be kept out of reach of children, preferably in a locked cabinet. Prescriptions, laxatives, sedatives and other medicines are detrimental when used contrary to orders of the physician. Also, adults need to remember that skin lotions, antiseptics and liniments intended for external use should be kept out of reach of small children who may swallow them; and that children are attracted by perfumes, deodorants, hair tonics, and wave lotions.

Next to medicines, poisonings were found to occur most frequently from cleaning supplies and other household agents. Children at the inquisitive, exploring ages swallowed disinfectants, bleach and caustics. One child died as a result of swallowing furniture polish; another from ingesting bleach. Preparations to kill rats, mice and insects were swallowed by 31 children; 32 availed themselves of fuel oil, gasoline, kerosene and lighter fluid. Other poisonous substances included antifreeze, antirust, ceramic flux, cigarettes, coal gas from a defective furnace, crayons, dye, glue, ink, liquid plastic cement, match heads, paint, paint remover, rifle cleaner, shoe polish, soldering paste, toadstools, turpentine and worm medicine for dogs. Too few people are aware of the poisonous potentialities in such an assortment of items.

Children Share Poisons.

Besides being curious and adventuresome children are generous; 19 poisons which were found were shared among 51 children, playmates and relatives. Copper sulfate from a chemistry set was distributed to 13 schoolmates 11 and 12 years old. If one child has been poisoned it may be indicated to inquire about those who were with him at the time.

The majority of cases reported required treatment. There were 31 X-rays taken; 239 little stomachs were pumped; medicines were given through the veins; other kinds of uncomfortable and painful treatments had to be administered to these children, too young to distinguish between the harmful and harmless and, also, too young to understand the drastic treatments necessary to save their lives. Hospitalization costs for 20 cases, hospitalized a total of 88 days, were conservatively estimated at approximately $1500.

Care and Prevention

In the event that a child swallows something generally considered to be inedible remember these instructions: 1) For items other than corrosives or petroleum distillates—give the child tepid water, milk or egg white to dilute or neutralize the substance and aid vomiting. Then, with the child lying face down on your lap so that material will not be aspirated into the lungs, induce vomiting by placing the handle end of a spoon in the throat on the extreme back of the tongue. (For corrosive poisonings vomiting should not be induced because of damage to the esophagus; nor for petroleum distillates because of damage to the respiratory tract.) (2) Contact a physician or hospital as soon as possible. Take the poison in its original container or a sample of the poison and copy of the label. (Information on the label will assist the doctor to determine what treatment will be necessary). If the child has vomited it will be helpful to take along some of the stomach contents for analysis.

Dr. Burgess, Deputy State Health Officer, advises methods of preventing poisonings: (1) Give close supervision to young children; know where they are, with whom, and what they are doing. (2) Keep all medicines in locked cabinets. (3) Keep household agents, pesticides and petroleum distillates out of reach of children.

Orioles List 35 Players For Spring Training

The Baltimore Orioles 1958 spring training roster comprises a total of 35 players of which 16 are pitchers, four are catchers, six infielders and nine are outfielders, it was announced this week by Jack Dunn, assistant general manager of the Birds.

Dunn pointed out that one of the 35 is outfielder Joe Durham, who spent all of the 1955 and 1956 seasons in the Army. Last season he enjoyed National Defense Service status and thus did not count against the Orioles roster limit of 40. His NDS status will remain with him until May 15, 1958, before it expires. Counting Durham as an NDS player at this time, therefore, the Orioles have six vacancies on their roster.

Average age of the 35 athletes is just over 27, one and one-half years older than last season's spring training group. Youngest member of the team is catcher Frank Zupo, who reached the age of 18 last August. Pitchers Jerry Walker and Milt Pappas are also 18.

The roster includes three "bonus" players—pitchers Walker and Billy O'Dell, plus Zupo. O'Dell's "bonus" status is still in effect despite the fact that he was signed in June of 1954. Inasmuch as he spent two full seasons in the Army, his "bonus" tag will not expire until May 12, 1958, under present baseball rules.

Oddly enough, O'Dell is the dean of all Oriole players in length of service on the Baltimore club, despite his mere 24 years of age. He is the only man on the team who played for the Orioles in 1954, their first year in the American League.

Marine Corps Brigadier General Henry L. Larsen became the first military governor of American Samoa on January 15, 1942.

TODAY'S meditation

The Upper Room
THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Luke 22:39-46. He . . . knelt down, and prayed. (Luke 22:41.)

Birmingham, Alabama, has two contrasting statues. One is a huge iron man called Vulcan. It stands atop Red Mountain overlooking the city. Vulcan represents industry.

In a small park near the heart of the city is the other statue. It is a small marble statue. It represents a certain Presbyterian minister, with upturned face, kneeling in prayer. For at least half a century he was known in Birmingham as "Brother Bryan." He prayed with people wherever he found them: in homes, hospitals, jails, and even on busy sidewalks.

He was not a great preacher, but he was a great soul. He was everyone's pastor and friend.

Everyone passing through Birmingham sees Vulcan. He is big, impressive, and stands atop a mountain. But only those who look closely see the statue of "Brother Bryan" on his knees. But he is much nearer the heart of the city.

Prayer

Help us, our Father, to remember that Jesus said, "Whosoever shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven." Teach us the way of humility. In the spirit of Christ we pray. Amen. Thought For The Day

We climb the ladder toward perfection as we descend the ladder of self-exaltation.

FREEDOM TO BREATHE—A 30-YEAR EPIC OF SCIENCE

In 1928, the iron lung was invented. It was a grim device, but for many it meant the difference between life and death. A campaign to better the bare existence of iron lung survival started in 1938 with the formation of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Here, in pictures, is the story of progress supported by the March of Dimes.

1 The traditional iron lung used over the years and still needed in severe cases. Here, obviously, there is no freedom of movement.

2 The chest respirator developed in 1949 represented a long deep breath toward a more normal life for polio sufferers.

3 Eight years later came the "breathing belt". It compresses and expands patient's diaphragm, offers still more freedom.

4 The most recent development of all, the 1957 "peace pipe," is merely a small plastic tube through which air is pumped.

Bureau Planning Group Holds Party

The Emmitsburg Farm Bureau Planning Group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Keilholtz on Dec. 31 in the form of a Christmas party.

The meeting opened with the reading of the 34 Psalm, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The roll call found six families present and was answered by resolutions made for the new Year. Minutes were read and approved. The treasurer gave his report. Anna Marguerite Martin gave a reading entitled, "Wife's Song," and "Things To Worry About" was read by George Martin. Raymond Keilholtz gave a report on the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau held in Frederick Saturday and different problems that arose were discussed.

Games were played and refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baumgardner on Jan. 28.

Glenn Green continues his dispatches from Europe. —G.S.B. Socialism In Austria

VIENNA, Austria—Dear Dr. Benson: The train from Munich to Salzburg to Vienna skirted the northern reaches of the European Alps, presenting magnificent scenery, but the hills gave way to rolling farmland as we neared this queenly city which once was the capital of a sprawling empire. Vienna retains much of her old world beauty, but 40 years of radical political upheavals, wars, and military occupation has shrunk her once - considerable prestige and exhausted the little nation which she dominates.

Vienna today is a city of nearly 2,000,000; while Austria has only 6,900,000 total population. Austria fell under the spell of the Socialists in 1919 and has remained largely socialist through all her trials and tribulations. The Government today is a coalition dominated by the Socialists. President Theodore Koener is a Socialist. My contact inside the Austrian government has been Dr. Paul Fent, chief assistant to the Bundespresident. He, too, is a Socialist.

The Industries Held

The key industries are socialized: the salt mines, which are one of the country's biggest assets; the railways; much of the extensive forestry industry, the big iron and steel works, most of coal mining; postal service, oil, banking, electric power, communications, etc. And like all the other European Socialist countries, Austria has an all-embracing and complicated cradle-to-grave Welfare State program. The labor unions, through their political instrument, the Socialist Party, have gained a powerful voice in running the country. In the industries not operated by their Socialist ministers in the Government, the unions share in the management.

Every piece of legislation which in any way affects the Austrian economy is first submitted to three non-governmental agencies before being introduced in Parliament. These are: The Chamber of Commerce, the Chamber of Agriculture, and the Chamber of Labor. The Chamber of Commerce has scarcely any alternative but to go along with the Chamber of Labor since its political power is overpowering. The Agrarians lean toward socialist practices. This kind of Socialism has been in operation here, with only brief interruptions, for 35 years.

The Socialist Payoff

And what has it delivered to the wage earners? The income of the average industrial worker in Austria is $57 a month. Some make higher wages, and a great many make lower wages. The textile industry workers average only $38.50 a month. These are official government figures supplied to me by Dr. Fent.

The purchasing power of the dollars in these wage statistics is based on the present exchange rate of schillings for dollars (26-1). A few items are cheaper here than in America—public transportation, housing, and a few food staples such as potatoes, cabbage and bread. But public transportation service is chronically poor and the housing situation is very bad. Most of the other things which Americans consider to be absolutely required for good living cost more here—TV sets, refrigerators, bathroom sinks, good clothing, automobiles, meat and other foods.

The Leveling Down

Vienna is a teeming tourist city. The tourist business is an important part of the national income. Relics of the old Hapsburg dynasties—palaces, parks, and statuary—dot the city. Momentoes of the city's great musical history are on every hand—with the ornate Vienna Opera House on the celebrated Ring attracting thousands of sightseers daily. The shops are world-famed for two products—silks and chocolate confections. With its bizarre and antiquated sculptures commemorating the devastating Black Plague, with its colorful mosaic store fronts, and with its modern subterranean shopping center beneath the busiest traffic intersection, Vienna is a city of contrasts. But there seems to be scarcely any contrasts in the lives of her people and the people of Austria generally. Dr. Fent said there aren't any rich people in Austria, that, in fact, Government redistribution of wealth had almost entirely eliminated sharp differences in incomes. The Austrian Welfare State has leveled the living standard—to a very low level. Thirty-five years of Socialist power and the turmoil of radical politics and war have left Austria with very little strength and nearly all of her people in relatively poverty according to our American yardsticks.—G.G.

VETERANS' KORNER

WASHINGTON—National Commander John S. Gleason, Jr., awarded The American Legion's first national citation of its kind to industry for the employment of the physically handicapped to the Pan American World Airways System here on November 9, 1957.

The award was the first to be made under Resolution 396 adopted by the 39th National Convention of The American Legion in Atlantic City. It was accepted by John Woodbridge, comptroller of Pan American, on behalf of the airline's president, Juan L. Trippe.

The award cited Pan American World Airways System for its "outstanding and significant contribution to the employment of the physically handicapped."

National Commander, Gleason cited Woodbridge for having guided Pan American's General Accounting Office in promoting "this worthy program enabling intelligent disabled personnel to perform interesting duties with this world-wide organization."

Resolution 396 authorized the National Economic Commission of The American Legion to recommend to the National Commander the awarding of such national citations to employers with outstanding programs of employing the physically handicapped. The commission recommended the Pan American award. Herbert J. Jacobi the National Commander's representative on the Economic Commission and Fred Z. Hetzel, director of the District of Columbia Office of Employment Service of the U. S. Department of Labor, and member of the commission, took part in the award ceremony. It was made during the testimonial dinner given Commander Gleason by the District of Columbia American Legion.

Plans are being pushed to completion for the interment in Arlington National Cemetery of an unknown soldier of World War II and of the Korean Conflict on Memorial Day, May 30, 1958.

Assisting the Department of Defense is an advisory committee, approved by the secretary of the army, composed of representatives of the military services, the Commission of Fine Arts, and veterans' organizations. Representing The American Legion on the advisory group is Mancel E. Talcott, long-time chairman of the Legion's national Graves Registration and Memorial Committee.

In the interment of the two additional unknowns, nothing will be

Goldstein Announces Candidacy

The statement of Senator Louis L. Goldstein of Calvert County, who filed for the Office of Comptroller of the State of Maryland on Monday, reads in part as follows:

I have today filed with the Secretary of State my certificate of candidacy for the Office of Comptroller of the State of Maryland. The decision to file for this office has been made after consultations with many people from every section of our State. During the last several months it has been my pleasure to visit and speak to various groups—civic and political organizations—throughout the State. The sincere words of encouragement, kindness and outspoken offers of support have been most heartening. In all humility, I feel that I am capable of assuming the responsibilities called for under the Laws of Maryland for the Office of State Comptroller. I stand ready to present my campaign to the people of Maryland.

With the exception of the war years, most of the past 20 years of my life have been devoted to State and National affairs. In 1938, I was elected to represent Calvert County in the House of Delegates for four years. In 1942, I enlisted in the United States Marine Corps as a private and, after duty which included service in the Pacific and Asiatic theatres of war, was discharged in May 1946 as a First Lieutenant. In November 1946, my neighbors in Calvert County elected me to the Maryland Senate, where I done to disturb the present tomb of the unknown soldier of World War I. No change is to be made in the inscription, "Here Rests in Honored Glory an American Soldier Known But to God."

Two additional crypts are to be dug in the plaza floor to the west of the present sarcophagus. Each of the crypts will be capped with a flat slab of granite. The one over the World War II unknown will be inscribed with the dates "1941-1945" and the granite cap covering the Korean unknown with the dates "1950-1953."

Final selection of the two soldiers will be made on or about May 15, 1958. They will lie in state in the nation's capital from May 27 until their final interment on Memorial Day.

have served ever since. Now completing 12 years of service in the Senate, my colleagues have elected me to serve as Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Majority Floor Leader and then, for three terms as their President.

I am 44 years of age, having been born in Calvert County. My education was received in the Public Schools of Calvert County and Baltimore City. I graduated from Washington College in Chestertown in 1935 and from the University of Maryland Law School in Baltimore City three years later. I am trained in law, business, farming and governmental affairs. I am married to Hazel Horton Goldstein and we have been blessed with three fine children, Philip, aged 9, Luisa Horton, aged 5 and Margaret Senate, aged three.

It is my deep and abiding hope that the people of Maryland will afford me the privilege of serving them in the Office of State Comptroller of Maryland.

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses
What Is Strength?

BABSON PARK, Mass., Jan. 9—I shall begin the New Year by discussing something far more important than stocks, bonds, real estate, or mortgages. My text will be the slogan which President Eisenhower brought back from Paris, namely:

Strength With Peace

What is strength? We all know that it consists of something far more than and very different from guns, navies, airplanes, or missiles. Yet, these are the things that we read about chiefly in the newspapers and magazines. This is the "strength" which physicists, engineers, and metallurgists are called to Washington to discuss.

This situation must be changed. Yet, my able friend President Killian of my Alma Mater—the Massachusetts In-

Electricity can save you from carrying 2 1/2 tons of wet laundry 40 miles to the clothesline!

In a year's time, a leading magazine tells us, the average housewife of a family of four washes 2 1/2 tons of wet clothes, and walks 40 miles in hanging them up on the line.

We're glad electric dryers and automatic washers make this big job a little one. And, of course, this is just one of the many jobs electricity helps you with each day.

What else do you use that helps so much to do so many things—yet costs so little?

stitute of Technology — has been brought to Washington amid much applause to aid in producing such material strength, not the real strength. This whole trend seems cockeyed to me. Neither America nor Russia will win with this kind of strength. I am very serious about this.

Real Strength Comes From What?

Real strength comes from Courage, Faith, Hardiness, and Rejoicing in Sacrifice. Have we got this strength? Are any civil men being called to Washington to instill this strength in our people? Our unbalanced setup is foolish and dangerous. More scientists will not save us. Our missiles, costing millions of dollars each, may be no more effective than the Great Wall of China or the Maginot Line of France.

Instead of training our youth for Courage, the training of our homes, schools, and even churches is for softness. Our manufacturers and merchants advertise "easy living"; our schools provide "plush" accommodations; our automobiles must have power steering, automatic brakes, and push-button windows. We are the world's worst example of "training for softness" rather than for strength. (Exceptions are our marines and certain others of our armed services,—but these fine men make up only about one percent of our population. Furthermore, these men know nothing of hardship until they enter the service after their habits have been formed.)

Some Examples Of Our Foolishness

In recent issues of a great magazine I find these significant advertisements: A "baby nippie which will keep the baby from dirtying its bib or dress." My comment is that when I spilled my food, my hands got a good slap! Another advertisement treats of food which is so ground and mixed that the child does not need to chew! Over 350,000,000 copies of juvenile books were published in 1957, breaking $80,000,000. About one in every three books now published are to amuse children and take them away from TV.

We send our children to school in busses and keep them awake with gymnastics. Children are practically born in automobiles; walking is becoming a lost art. As a result, the retail trade of our cities may be ruined by the parking problem. Finally, youth is no longer getting its social life in such outdoor games as were formerly common, but rather in cocktail parties that leave them a "hang-over" which is undermining health, character, and industry. Accompanying this curse, labor leaders state that their motto for 1958 is "Less work, higher wages, and more comforts."

Let Us Study History

All the progress this nation has ever made has been through work, struggle, and sacrifice. Muscles became strong through exercise; learning came by use of midnight oil; morals developed through religion and self-control. Growing strong permitted no furlough from struggle and sacrifice. It was not money or ease which made America. Our great growth came from strength of muscle, mind, and spirit. Softness and luxury are our greatest enemies today.

Why is this not being recognized in Washington? It is true that our President is setting a good example by attending church on Sundays. It is true that the clergy are publishing optimistic statistics and creeds. But what is being DONE by government, schools, or churches to make people tougher, harder, more industrious and anxious to sacrifice? The best in each of us thrives on difficulties. These can be overcome only by courage and sacrifice. It may be too bad that this is so, but it is true. Let us not learn it too late!

Travel By Air Necessitates Physical Fitness

Wild Blue Yonder

To fly or not to fly? Last year over 25 million passengers traveled on domestic air lines. What about you? Do you hesitate to get your feet off the ground?

If you're worried that flying might affect your health, consult your family doctor. He'll tell you if there's any physical reason why you or any member of your family should avoid it. He can suggest ways to help you make the trip in comfort.

Of course, the airliner would rather not have you aboard if you have a communicable disease. Permission must be granted by public health officials in case you have to travel across state lines by air. If a woman in the late

STAGES OF PREGNANCY WANTS TO FLY, the airline may ask for a doctor's certificate that the baby is not due for least 72 hours. Diabetics may travel by air if their insulin and syringe are kept in the passenger cabin.

Check with your doctor before flying if you've recently recovered from a heart attack, suffer from coronary insufficiency, anemia, or respiratory difficulties.

Young children are only fair air travelers. They seem to have more airsickness and ear trouble than adults. Infants under six weeks will usually not be transported without a doctor's certificate.

Airsickness among adults is no longer a major problem. But if it worries you, your doctor can suggest several effective remedies which will also prevent it if taken before flight.

Tests Demonstrate How Seat Belts Save Lives

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

IF YOU'VE EVER WATCHED stock car races, you're familiar with the hair-raising spills and collisions which many of these drivers experience—and then step out of their cars, wave to the crowd—and walk away, unharmed.

Likewise, in accidents affecting modern military aircraft, the personnel frequently walk away with hardly a scratch.

In both cases, the reason why occupants survive these accidents without injury is because they are protected by seat belts which prevent them from being hurled against instrument panels or through windshields.

Last month at Holloman Air Force Base, Alamogordo, N.M., I saw how seat belts can also curb passenger car injuries. (Some estimates indicate that seat belts could prevent more than one million automobile injuries and 20,000 deaths per year.)

More than 100 automotive, medical and safety experts watched simulated car "crashes" at the third annual Automotive Crash and Field Demonstration Conference. The tests, which were conducted by Col. John P. Stapp, Director of Holloman's Aero-Medical Field Laboratory, involved humans, animals and dummies who were catapulted into quick, hydraulic braking stops similar to the impacts of auto collisions. (Col. Stapp has traveled faster on the ground than any other human—nearly 700 miles an hour.)

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kesting

There are big bonefish at Little San Salvador, reports Robert D. Hall, Salt Water Fishing Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. Little San Salvador is an uninhabited island in the Bahamas, some 100 miles east of Nassau. (It is shown on some charts as Little Cat Island.) It is about 5 1/2 miles long, three miles wide, and contains, as the Bahamians say, a pond approximately three miles in length, with deep channels and beautiful broad sandy bonefish flats.

The entrance to this island body of water is fairly narrow, and anyone who is not familiar with the area could easily sail past without noticing the inlet. Once past the narrow and crooked entrance the pond opens up into a broad expansive area, with very large bonefish feeding grounds.

To illustrate the temerity of the fish here toward man, an angler can have the unusual experience of standing chest-deep in the clear water of the lagoon and hand-feed a friendly school of palometa (round pompano).

But the prize quarry is the bonefish. The choice of tackle may vary with every angler. However, Hall suggests a fresh-water spinning rod with a fairly stiff action for casting a 3/4-ounce lure. The spinning reel should be made to withstand the salt-water corrosion, and with a line capacity of 200 yards of 8- or 10-pound monofilament line.

Bonefish do not give any spectacular show when hooked, but in a foot or so of water they give a terrific battle, with their long runs and dogged persistence in not giving up until they are almost completely exhausted at your feet. WASHINGTON—Disclosures of the Senate Select Committee to study Labor - Management Problems will continue to capture the headlines during the coming months. News columns, too, will be filled with legislative proposals that are a result of the Senate investigation. I think it important to keep in mind the fact that the disclosures are the result of the unscrupulous activities of the few and should not be taken as a blanket indictment of the labor movement.

But Big Labor does present problems both to its members and to the public. Its sheer size ought to give it a sense of responsibility which some of its leaders have failed to recognize. Some union bosses seem to be behaving much as did the moguls and tycoons of the business world at the turn of the century and in the 1920's. Corruption and the maddening desire to perpetuate themselves in power are traits that once plagued the business world. Big business and Big Labor both need curbs on their power.

The opening days of the second session will see a flood of bills designed to restrict the power of Big Labor. The Eisenhower Administration plans a number of legislative proposals designed to strengthen the rights of individual members of labor organizations and to restrict the activities of power-mad leaders.

A major proposal would require registration, reporting and public disclosure of the operations of all health, welfare and pension plans. Another would require all labor organizations, local, national and international unions and local, state, and regional conferences and councils to file annual financial reports with the Department of Labor. The provision would also permit union members to sue dishonest labor officials in federal or state courts.

The Administration proposals also include provisions making embezzlement of general union funds as well as health, welfare and pension funds a federal crime and would make it a felony under

Hagerstown Museum Schedules Art Show

A two-week showing of art of students and faculty members of Seoul National University is presented at the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts in Hagerstown.

Visitors find that about half the pictures are created in the traditional Oriental manner — mounted on silk scrolls, and the other half in the western manner. Not only paintings in oil and tempera are seen, but also commercial art and design. A panel shows line designs for etching on glassware—presenting a successful "marriage" between eastern and western treatment.

Another panel presents Oriental flavor.

Perhaps the most striking Korean work in the Museum's south gallery is a large scroll painting showing a white-robed grandmother sitting on the floor with western-dressed grandchildren, listening to the telling of a story. The life-size figures are realistic but there is no background nor perspective.

In the Museum's Youth Gallery a group of photographs by Korean students is also shown. All of this material comes as a traveling exhibition sponsored by the United States International Cooperation Administration and the University of Minnesota.

The Korean-art-of-today exhibition may be seen at the Museum in City Park through Jan. 19. The hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 10 to 5, and Sunday and holidays, 1 to 6. Admission is free.

WASHINGTON AND
"SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

Probably one of the most significant actions ever undertaken by the Federal Trade Commission is now in the process of awaiting decisions on appeals taken by the defendants.

In a test action, the FTC filed charges against six major packers of grocery store packers for giving discriminatory allowances to certain chain operations not made available to all.

Named in the case has been the big three C. W. Harder TV-radio networks, NBC, CBS, and ABC because FTC charges they have set up the plan whereby indirect allowances are given in violation of Robinson-Patman provisions of anti trust laws.

As developed in the testimony, these three giants of the broadcasting industry in various leading cities, approached the major supermarket chains and made them deals whereby the chains would receive free radio and TV time in return for agreements to promote certain products.

The networks then went to suppliers with advertising contracts which promised in return for a certain minimum of time purchased on radio or TV that the network would get them in-store promotions, other merchandising work in the cooperating chains.

Thus, while FTC holds that there is no direct payoff by suppliers to the chains, there is a direct payoff inasmuch as unless the suppliers purchased the required amount of time, the chains would not receive free air time for promotion of their stores.

While it is not surprising that the FTC, once this agency found out what was going on, stepped into this tie-up arrangement, it is perhaps quite surprising that the Federal Communications Commission, which supposedly controls the broadcasting to keep air free, did not step in first.

It is not too difficult to predict that come January, Rep. E. Celler, N.Y., may make an issue of this matter. For quite some time he has headed a committee of the House Judiciary Committee that has been taking a long look at FCC practices.

In fact, Rep. Oren Harris, Ark., in a recent public statement said that the House committee he heads will seriously consider putting the FCC under the control of a Congressional committee.

When originally set up in the early days of radio, FCC was supposed to safeguard the rights of the whole public.

It would appear rather obvious that the rights of the whole public are not being safeguarded when the major networks are permitted to make deals with a few chain stores and a few big food packers willing to pay the tariff demanded by the networks for achieving this favoritism in these selected chain stores.

Thus, this action by FTC will probably have far reaching repercussions.

There is substantial sentiment in Congress already that perhaps in the past Congress has given too wide powers to many bureaus without proper Congressional supervision and that it is time Congress remedies this matter.

Thus, it will not be too surprising if the coming session of Congress will be known in history as the "Bureaucratic Bashers" session.

HERE'S HOW... MAKE A BATHROOM SINK ENCLOSURE

Enclosed bathroom fixtures which provide additional storage space and a counter for accessories add to the beauty as well as the utility of the room.

Measure the dimensions of the area to be enclosed keeping in mind that the vertical pieces and the top plate should be of sufficient height to fit under the sink lip. The width (A) extends 3 3/8 inches beyond the sink to provide space for the top plate. Cut the frame to the proper dimensions and assemble with 10-penny nails. Anchor the enclosure to the floor. Fasten a 1 by 6-inch facing to the top front frame flush with the top plate. Center facings on the vertical pieces.

Attach the shelving and make the doors. Cover the top with a hard surface covering.

McGUIRE—WALTER

Miss Joan Agnes Walter, Townson, daughter of Mrs. Bernard S. Walter and the late Bernard Walter, became the bride of Francis X. McGuire, Baltimore, son of Mrs. Charles McGuire, Baltimore and the late Charles McGuire last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg.

The double ring ceremony and nuptial mass was performed by Rev. James Twomey, pastor, before an altar decorated with poinsettias and ferns.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Charles A. Naylor, Washington, was attired in a floor length gown of silk with insets of chintilly lace in the full skirt, fitted bodice with scoop neckline trimmed with chintilly lace and seed pearls and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Mary Walter, York, Pa., sister of the bride, wore a gown of American Beauty Rose velvet trimmed with satin sash, cap sleeves and scoop neckline. Her headress and slippers matched her gown. She carried a colonial bouquet of pompons.

Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia G. Crum, Walkersville, and Miss M. Ann Webster, Capon Bridge, Va. They wore gowns of forest green velvet identical to that of the maid of honor, with headresses and slippers to match, and carried bouquets of pompons.

Best man was Charles Franklin Benton, Baltimore, and the ushers were William Wilfert Wilson, Baltimore, and Herbert O'Connor McGuire, Baltimore, brother of the bridegroom.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Annex of the VFW, Emmitsburg. For the honeymoon North, the bride wore a blue wool sheath dress with matching accessories.

The bride is a graduate of State Teachers College, Townson, and is employed by Baltimore County Board of Education as a teacher. The bridegroom served three years in the U. S. Army and at present is a student at State Teachers College, Townson.

Upon their return from the wedding trip they will reside in Townson. Out-of-town guests were from Washington and Baltimore.

Organist was Mrs. Louis Rosensteel and soloist was Eugene Rosensteel who sang "Ave Maria," "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy" and the wedding version of "Mother At Your Feet Is Kneeling."

Alfred Cutsail Heads County Heart Drive

General chairman of the 1958 Heart Fund drive will be J. Alfred Cutsail, executive secretary of the Planning and Zoning Commission, Edward D. Storm, president of the Frederick County Heart Assn., announced this week.

The Heart Fund campaign will begin Feb. 1 and continue through Feb. 28. It will be conducted by the Frederick County Heart Assn., an affiliate of the American Heart Assn. The campaign is nationwide and will reach its high point on Heart Sunday, Feb. 23, with a door-to-door collection carried on by scores of "Heart Sunday" volunteers.

Last year a major portion of the funds collected in Frederick County were retained here. Frederick County maintains a Free Loan Service, Recreational Service for Children and Occupational (Therapy) Service for Adults, Educational Service, Prophylactic Rheumatic Fever Program, Cardiac Camp Service, and Vol. Motor Corps. The portion used by the State is in the research of Heart disease. Sixty per cent of the funds collected are retained here and 40 per cent sent to the state office who in turn send 15 per cent to the American Heart Assn. for the State research program.

Cutsail is married to the former Helen Crampton and they are the parents of two sons and a daughter. He enlisted with the Co. A, 115th Infantry, Maryland National Guard in 1941 and was Company Commander for seven years. He was discharged with the rank of captain.

For five years (1951-56) Mr. Cutsail served as a Sanitarian with the Frederick County Health Department.

He was Commander of Francis Scott Key Post No. 11, American Legion from 1950-51.

The objective of the annual drive, Mr. Cutsail declared in accepting the appointment, is to obtain support for the association research, public and professional education, and community heart programs.

Contributions to the Heart Fund are used to support three major activities of the American Heart Assn., its affiliates and chapters. The primary activity is the support of research seeking the basic causes and controls of the cardiovascular diseases. Secondly, the association carries on an educational program to supply new scientific information to physicians and workers in related professional fields, and to bring essential facts about the heart diseases to the public. The third phase is to conduct community heart programs to protect healthy hearts and to enable heart sufferers to live useful and productive lives.

Local Men Inducted

Two Emmitsburg men registered with the selective service boards were taken to Fort Holorbird, Baltimore, Monday morning for induction into the armed forces.

They were Richard H. Frock, Emmitsburg Rt. 2, and Henry F. Shoemaker, Emmitsburg.

Other area inductees were Wilmer R. Beachy, Thurmont Rt. 1, and Ray L. Dewees, Thurmont Rt. 2.

A P2V-7, the Navy's largest ski plane, was the first jet-equipped ski plane to land in the Antarctic and at the South Pole.

Section of Frederick By-pass to Open

An important section of the new Frederick By-Pass will be placed in service January 16 when the 3-mile segment will open, connecting U. S. 40, west of the city, with U. S. 340, U. S. 15, and U. S. 240 (the Washington National Pike).

This means that through traffic from Washington to Hagerstown, Cumberland and the West will now use the by-pass and avoid the picturesque but narrow streets of Frederick, built for an easier traffic pattern of the 18th Century.

The State Roads Commission will hold formal ceremonies on the by-pass at 11 a. m. Governor McKeldin will preside at the ribbon-cutting.

Immediately following the opening of this section, the Roads Commission will open a new two-mile relocation of Seventh Street (Md. 73) around Fort Detrick in Frederick. A similar ribbon-cutting ceremony will be held for this project.

The public is invited to attend these ceremonies.

The Frederick By-Pass is Maryland's largest and most elaborate relief route around one of its cities. When completed, it will run a total distance of 14 miles, including interchanges, ramps and connections. It will circle the city on three sides and will include 12 major bridges, 3 trumpet-type interchanges.

It will be a dual highway with an average 50-foot median strip between the 24-foot pavements. There is a 10-foot shoulder on each side. It is of the limited-access type of highway, meaning there is no access from cross roads or abutting properties. The only entrances and exits are at the interchanges. The unusually wide median strip is grassed and will provide space for planting. It also is designed for future expansion to a six-lane highway if this becomes necessary.

The main East-West section of the by-pass skirting Frederick on the South is expected to be completed later this year. When this project is opened, Roads Commission engineers expect that some 30 per cent of the motor vehicles now using Patrick Street will be

Legionnaires Back Dimes Drive

Throughout Maryland this month members of 216 American Legion Posts will spearhead a Mile of Dimes promotion to benefit the 1958 March of Dimes, which continues through January.

David L. Brigham, national executive committeeman, explains that participants include some 36,000 active Legionnaires who will rope-off sidewalks in shopping areas and "lay feet of tape on which citizens will be asked to make Dimes contributions. The combined footage is then combined into miles of dimes for the drive. "Contributions in all denominations will be accepted — from coins through bills," he continued.

The American Legion's Mile of Dimes promotion got under way on Jan. 4 in Easton, where Legion officials, as well as former U. S. Senator George L. Radcliffe, state chairman of the March of Dimes, initiated the event. The Legion in Maryland has taken an active part in the March of Dimes since inception of the drive 20 years ago, Mr. Brigham pointed out.

"Funds will then be turned over to the March of Dimes and used to finance its many-faceted program, including rehabilitation of victims of paralytic polio; training of scientists, doctors, nurses and therapists; promoting additional research and educating the public to the importance of Salk inoculations which protect them against the crippling disease," Mr. Brigham said.

In many counties, Legionnaires are using bands, vocalists and decorations to create a carnival atmosphere which will call attention to their promotion, the Committeeman continued. Legionnaires have volunteered to staff the Mile of Dimes in hourly shifts throughout the day set aside in each of Maryland's 23 counties, as well as in Baltimore City.
