Following the announcements by the Russians and Americans of their feats of launching space satellites there has been a sudden craze for instituting bigger and better scientific courses in our institutions of learning and now the trend is for every young man to be a scientist. This is absurd in as much that we all can't be scientists any more than we could all be doctors, lawyers or any profession for that matter. My advice to parents, before they start their children in a scientific course, is to make certain the children have an aptitude toward this specific phase of knowledge, else they will be washed out and possibly a well-intended career ruined. It is true that we need more scientists in our race for knowledge and survival but I feel that parents should make reasonably certain that their offspring could master the tough scientific courses in both college and secondary schools. Many a student has felt he wanted to master a certain profession only to be dismayed later on and have to switch to another course with the resultant loss of time and money which neither he nor his parents could afford. So let's not become engulfed in this sudden frenzy to flood the country with scientists. I do believe we should produce more scientifically-minded individuals but I reiterate, we all can't be scientists. I feel certain our Government and higher institutions of learning can cope with the situation and in a number of years we'll be right where we belong in the scientific world, right on top. In the meantime we'll need the classics, arts and professions to maintain our way of life.

It wouldn't surprise me at all if some type of emergency work will be required to extricate some of our rural neighbors who presently are enduring great hardships as an aftermath to the blizzard which swept over the community over the weekend. Many farmers are still marooned as the result of snowdrifts many feet high and food and fuel supplies are fast becoming exhausted. It is impossible for many of them to dig their way out as they live miles away from the main highways and most equipment adaptable to this type of work is currently busily engaged. On some farms livestock is going hungry as feed inventories have been depleted. There apparently isn't much we can do about it right now because we have no way of getting to the stranded families but if some sort of relief isn't forthcoming shortly these people will be in dire circumstances and some emergency work will have to be done. It might be necessary to appeal to the Red Cross, Salvation Army, the Navy or the Army to provide the necessary commodities these families will need and also to get them where they are needed if they have to be flown in. The idea does have some merit to it I believe and I thought I'd pass it along so that if and when action is required, somebody would be prepared to assist.

The word "secrecy" these days seems to almost be confined to Government jargon and to boot I feel it is being misused. Almost everyone who works in the Government's employ nowadays, believes himself "top-drawer" material, so much so that a recent revelation shows 95 specific cases of "needless secrecy" in Washington, 63 of them are connected with the Defense Department. The disclosure came about via a report by the Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalistic fraternity. It's all right to become an important individual, if you are, but not everyone who works in certain departments of the Government is an important and indispensable individual, as some of them lead you to believe... apparently they are trying to dupe the public into believing they are indispensable, and to hold onto their jobs—at the taxpayers' expense. The above information applies to agencies as well as individuals.

Manslaughter Charge Gets Man 6 Months

An Emmitsburg man was sentenced to six months in the Allegheny Workhouse after being convicted of an involuntary manslaughter charge Friday by the Adams County, Pa. Court. The trial was held in Gettysburg and the convicted man was ordered to pay the court costs.

The convicted man was David Samuel Muench, 25, R1, Emmitsburg. Muench was the driver of an auto which rolled over on the Fairfield Rd. November 17. Lloyd Douglas Gillespie, 25, Taneytown Rt. 2 farmer was fatally injured in the crash, dying at the scene. Muench suffered a laceration of the scalp in the crash.

State Patrolman Edwin J. Sheva, the prosecutor in the case, told the jury that when he arrived Gillespie was dead and Muench was receiving first aid from persons at the scene.

He told of a 165-foot-long mark on the road which did not appear to be a skid mark but a mark made by a tire going sideways. The accident, he said, occurred on a straight stretch of road on a slight down grade.

Muench, who was represented by Frederick Attorney Edwin F. Nikirk, and Attorney Eugene Hartman, told of going to a tavern in Emmitsburg on the night of November 16, of having two "beers" with Gillespie, whom he met there. The two men then went to another tavern, where Muench said he had nothing to drink and then went to the Fairfield Avenue post near Fairfield where Muench said he had three drinks of whiskey between midnight and 2:30 o'clock that morning.

Muench said he and Gillespie started for Gettysburg where they planned to get coffee and sandwiches. Enroute, Muench said, he suddenly fell asleep. When he woke up the accident had occurred.

The jury was told by the court that a person who had been fighting off sleep would be considered guilty because he had prior warning but that a person who had no prior warning might not be guilty of involuntary manslaughter if he suddenly fell asleep.

The jury debated the matter for 35 minutes, returned with its verdict of guilty.

Town Digging Out Of Season's First Blizzard; Farmers Isolated

Snowbound about summarizes the present status of the entire Emmitsburg District at this writing. The blizzard which started with snow early last Saturday and continued throughout Sunday wreaked havoc in the area with its zero temperatures and gale-like winds.

While the snowfall wasn't too heavy as snows go, only about 12 inches, the frigid temperature and wind added to the misery and difficulty of the entire community. Schools remained closed until Thursday and then opened on a partial basis accommodating mostly children living in and near town. School busses were unable to penetrate the rural roads as also were oil trucks, mail carriers, etc.

The storm was one of the severest and caused more hardship than any here in many years. Telephone and electrical service was constantly maintained despite the high winds and ice coated wires.

Perhaps the hardest-hit group of people were the farmers, many of whom still are stranded. Food and other necessary commodities have become almost exhausted and some families are in dire straits. Numerous cases of milk dumping have been reported as farmers cannot transport the product over the roads which have been closed by drifting snow, sometimes to a depth of six feet. Many rural homes were without water during the week as zero and sub-zero temperatures froze lines, wells and springs. For days doctors were unable to navigate the rural roads and at this writing many sick people still are without medical attention. Down below Frederick an army helicopter rescued a woman about to bear a child and in East Berlin, Pa., near Gettysburg another woman was rushed to the hospital just in time to deliver a baby. She had been snowbound for hours and police, firemen and neighbors shoveled for many hours before they could reach the family. Traffic was virtually paralyzed for several days and many motorists were left stranded here and throughout the county as main highways drifted shut despite valiant efforts of the state and county road crews who worked constantly around the clock to keep the main traffic arteries open. Pushing cars and shoveling cars out of the snow-banks here was a common scene all week long. Numerous vehicles were completely buried by the drifting snow. Snowbanks seven and eight feet high along main streets and schools were commonly observed. The town's parking meters have been out of commission the entire week and it is conjectured just when they will be placed into operation again as snow-banks prevent motorists from parking anyway near them. All snow removing equipment in this area was busily engaged and most of the removal was effected by shoveling.

A number of farmers still snowbound have telephoned other individuals stating that livestock feed supplies have been exhausted and that there is no hope of getting any at the present time, or until such time as the roads have been made passable. Traffic mishaps were numerous as vehicles were almost impossible to control and many fenders were battered. One fuel oil truck skidded off the road and was overturned for half a day before heavy towing equipment could be obtained to right the overturned vehicle. Many driveways still are closed and local merchants say they can feel the effects of the citizens being confined to their homes.

Late yesterday Gov. McKeldin ordered the National Guard to assist road crews where possible and the County Commissioners announced emergency aid would be given destitute families by phoning the County Roads Board.

NEW PHONE RATES NOW EFFECTIVE

Wider range calling for telephone users in the Frederick area went into effect Sunday under revised schedules filed Friday with the Public Service Commission by the C & P Telephone Company.

These calling arrangements are the same as the company's original proposals of last August, which were described in letters mailed to customers. They are as follows: Emmitsburg: Thurmont and Zora, Pa. Frederick: Braddock Heights, Brunswick, Buckeystown, Mt. Airy, Middletown, New Market, Thurmont and Walkersville.

Thurmont: Emmitsburg and Frederick. In compliance with the commission's order limiting rate adjustments in the state to $6,048,900 in gross annual revenue, the company filed amended tariffs. The basic monthly rates for the Frederick area, beginning last Sunday are:

Frederick and Thurmont—One Party—$11.20, Two Party—$9.45 and Rural—$6.95 for businesses; Resident rates are $6.10 for one party, $5.20 for two party, $4.55 for four party and 4.80 for rural.

Business rates are: $8.20 for one party, $6.95 for two party and $6.20 for rural. Residence rates are $5.35 for one party, $4.45 for two party, $3.80 for four party and $4.05 for rural. It was pointed out by the company however, that some customers' bills will be less due to the elimination of mileage charges and toll charges.

There will also be some slight adjustments, both upward and downward, in some long distance rates between Maryland points.

Customers getting additional calling privileges will continue to place their calls through the operator until advised of direct dialing arrangements.

County Planning & Zoning Commission Gives Views On School Locations

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: There has been much discussion about where schools should be located. Some have suggested the Planning and Zoning Commission give its views. Others have suggested that a special consultant be called in to outline plans for future schools.

Following are the views expressed by the Planning and Zoning Commission: Neither the Planning Commission nor its consultants are the group that should determine what type or kind of education should be given Frederick County children. Nor should they determine the size or grades in the various schools.

MOUNTAINEERS PLAY FINAL HERE TUESDAY

Jim Phelan's Mountaineers will wind up their home basketball season Tuesday evening when they engage Washington College from Chestertown, Md., at Memorial Gym, Emmitsburg. The contest previously had been scheduled for Wednesday night but was postponed due to highway conditions.

Phelan and his Mountaineers are expected to win handily, having defeated the Sho'men 80-51 previously this season at Chestertown. The Mount has had rough sledding in Mason-Dixon games recently, losing to Loyola, American University and Catholic University, before snapping back to upset Hampden-Sydney last Saturday evening. Those three defeats virtually eliminated the Mount in its quest for an unprecedented fifth straight regular season M-D title.

The Blue and White split a pair of games played last Friday and Saturday nights. In Friday's contest the locals dropped a close decision affair to Catholic University, 79-75. It represented the first time since 1942 that that college had defeated Mount St. Mary's.

The Mount got off to a good Friday, and late in the half were on top 31-27. The teams matched points the remainder of the way and at intermission the Mountaineers led 42-38.

John Lynch, who led all scorers with 30 points, finally knotted the score for Catholic with a goal at 58-58 after seven minutes of the second half. Bill Williams countered with a goal for the Mount but a pair of twin-pointers by Marty Mitchell sent Catholic to the front for keeps.

Bert Sheing topped the Blue and White scorers with 20 points. Undaunted by Friday's setback, the Mountaineers emerged from a three-game losing streak to top Hampden-Sydney 67-58 in a comparatively listless game at Emmitsburg Saturday night.

The Mountaineers led all the way in pulling their overall record to 12-7 and Mason-Dixon mark to 7-3. The Tigers are 8-2 in M-D competition. Bill Williams, Jack Marshall, Joe Sullivan, Bert Sheing and Jerry Savage each hit in double figures for the Mount.

At half time the Emmitsburg team held a 28-21 advantage and protected the margin safely during the last half. The game was delayed an hour until officials made their way through the snow storm from Baltimore.

The Mount concludes its regular season schedule with two league games, meeting Baltimore University Friday (tonight) at Baltimore and Washington College at Emmitsburg Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock.

The Mountaineers are 12-7 overall and 7-3 in the conference.

When the fire trucks reached the Old Lime Kiln Rd., it was drifted shut. The firemen walked the remaining half mile carrying equipment to extinguish the chimney fire with chemicals.

Improvements Planned By Water Company

The Emmitsburg Water Company will observe its diamond anniversary in May of this year, in recognition of the firm's 75 years of existence. Progress in the water supply field in general, will be the principal theme of the observance, with special attention of course, to the progress of this company.

Coincident with the celebration will be plans for revamping the entire water system which is in need of modernization at this time. While it is true the company has expanded in many directions during the past 10 years, it also is true that there is much left to be accomplished before the local utility is brought into clear focus with advancing times.

During recent years many communities have seen fit to revamp water supply and sewage disposal facilities and the local water supplier feels the time has come for Emmitsburg to do the same thing, being neither the first nor the last.

No. 1 improvement on the company's agenda calls for a general overhauling of the purification system and already plans have been started for the installation of new and modernized purification equipment.

Emmitsburg having no park area, the Health Department will be asked to cooperate in selecting a suitable location in the mountain area for picnic and recreational area for use of Emmitsburg patrons and friends.

Many water systems as late as last summer, imposed limitations on the use of water, due to the inadequacies of their systems. Consequently in view of the importance of an adequate reserve at all times, the company is making plans for increasing its storage facilities.

The company also announces it will make a much-needed improvement or revision to its rate schedule. The same method of charging for water is in use now and has been for 75 years. It has served long, if not so well, and the time is here for modernization. The new method would make the same charge to each family, regardless of the number of outlets. While this method is not recognized as faultless, it is suggested by the Public Service Commission of Maryland as a distinct improvement over the out-moded system now in use. The company feels the new plan will cause less confusion than any method, other than water meters, for all customers. At the moment, a full metering program seems too costly, however plans call for meter service some day in the town.

More and detailed information will be published in this paper concerning the 75th anniversary and the modernization program as outlined above.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Winter Rations For Brood Sows

Pigs are not known for their ability to make extensive use of forage, whether pasture, hay or silage. But brood sows, even gilts and especially yearling or older sows, come near being as herbivorous as ruminants and horses.

They may not have the large rumen of a cow, or the large caecum of a horse, but they have a stomach of considerable capacity for forage or roughage. More and more we hear of the successful use of silage in brood sow rations.

This ability to utilize health-protecting forage therefore should be used for farm profit, and a practical way of doing so is to use liberal amounts of alfalfa hay in winter rations of brood sows, and to perhaps less extent, nursing sows.

Let us save a ton or two of the best and leafiest hay that we have, such as second cutting alfalfa, or alfalfa mixed with other legumes and grasses, just so it is leafy, green and sweet smelling. Grind this through a hammer mill equipped with a three-eighths inch screen, and we have a vitamin-rich feed that readily mixes with any ground grain or concentrate.

When added to a mixture in amounts of from 30 to 40 per cent by weight, such a bulky mixture may safely be self-fed to brood sows without danger of having them too fat at farrowing time.

A good provision for a ration that is complete in respect to both quantity and quality of protein, minerals, and vitamins, is one that includes 4 or 5 per cent of meat scraps or tankage and a similar amount of soybean oil meal or other oil meal, one-half per cent plain or trace mineralized salt, from 30 to 40 per cent of ground alfalfa hay, and the rest farm grain. The mixture then would have about 15 per cent total protein which is a desirable level.

For nursing sows, or for hand-feeding either bred or nursing sows, the ground alfalfa hay may be reduced to 15 per cent or, with really superior hay, even to 10 per cent of the mixture. The meat scraps and oil meal may then be increased by about one per cent each to make the ration suitable for suckling sows.

Such a ration mixture is relatively simple and economical as well as efficient. So far as the nutrients of such a ration are concerned, they would assure a vigorous litter of pigs at farrowing time.

4-H To Launch Own Special Satellite!

Take it from America's top teenage safety experts—accidents are just as vital a problem to the nation as satellites.

That's what the eight national winners of $400 General Motors Scholarships for outstanding 4-H safety activities told newsmen recently in Chicago.

"Just because we are entering the space age, we can't take our eyes off the tremendous losses from highway and farm accidents suffered each year right here on earth," they declared.

The national winners and 34 other state winners received all expense trips to the 4-H Club Congress in Chicago from General Motors.

Plan Special Safety "Moon"

They pledged to lead the nation's 4-H members in an all-out drive against accidents. "Young people have the greatest stake in promoting safety because our futures are so deeply affected," they said.

"We'll create our own special 'safety satellite' by stimulating nationwide attention in the needless deaths and injuries which carelessness is causing on highways and farms. Teenagers everywhere can make safety as important as satellites by inspiring everyone to eliminate accidents."

Nears Million Member Mark

Typical of the group was Leonard Wertz of McClave, Colo., who began a local Teenage Safety Council. "If you get teenagers thinking and acting safely it will rub off on parents," he said.

Participation in safety activities by 4-H members has skyrocketed from 72,000 in 1948 to 825,000 in the 13 years since General Motors became awards donor for the program. This participation is expected to reach the million member mark in 1958.

Other national winners were: Marilyn Ellison, El Reno, Okla.; Sylvia McCarty, Myers, Ky.; Sharon Mitchell, Dixmont, Me.; Carolyn Kay Moore, Fairview, Kans.; Christine Pasley, Hillsboro, Ore.; Ronald Powell, Clark, Mo.; and Don Willis, Mendenhall, Miss. Their tip to everyone: SAFETY KNOWS NO QUITTING TIME!

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Outdoor writer Charley Dickey is an ardent and very successful hunter of crows. Yet in the Feb. issue of Sports Afield Magazine he admits to being the world's worst crow caller. How can this be?

Though calling is important, there's a much bigger secret, Charley Dickey tells it in one word—camouflage.

It's simple enough—as long as the crows don't get a good look at you they are not afraid to keep circling overhead. Have you noticed how close you can drive to crows as long as your car is moving? But just stop the car. The crows spook pronto. They know something is up. Once a crow identifies you as a human he clears out fast.

The reason the average guy doesn't get more shooting is because his face acts as a beacon light. Crows anxious to answer even novice crow calling get one look at a shining mug and instantly veer away. What's worse they pull the four-alarm emergency cord.

But, if crows can't identify you as a human, you'll get shooting.

One of the best ways to hide is to use a cotton camouflage suit. Several manufacturers make these suits which include pants, jacket, parka hood, cap and headnet. War surplus material is getting scarce, but it does the trick if you can find it.

Whatever you use, it should cover you completely; there should be no skin showing. The headnet or mask is the most important part of your camouflage equipment. You will soon get used to it and you'll find it won't interfere with your marksmanship. If you absolutely cannot stand wearing the headnet, then use a parka hood which covers all but the center of your face. The exposed part should be dubbed with burnt cork, a face-paint stick or even mud.

Calvin Coolidge took the oath of office as president at 2:30 a. m. on August 3, 1923, at the home of his father.

Agriculture Dept. Announces New Record System

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced this week that through consolidation of operations it is making a major change this year in handling "record-keeping" services connected with price support loan programs for grains and cotton. The changes are expected to result in increased accuracy, greater speed, and over-all economies.

A large volume of detailed work in tabulation of forms, computation of interest and related accounting activities—previously carried out manually at local offices—will now be centralized and handled by special processing equipment at field offices of the Commodity Stabilization Service in Chicago, Kansas City, and New Orleans.

Farmers will continue to deal directly with local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committees on all grain price support matters. These local committees, as in the past, will approve and extend commodity loans, keep on file the receipts and notes related to these loans, and be prepared to service farmers promptly. In addition, the committees will continue to handle the local operations of purchase agreement, storage, and related activities of the price support programs.

The change in the system for handling accounting work will relieve county ASC offices of many time-consuming details, giving their staffs more time to work with farmers in the administration of agricultural programs.

The new system is also expected to result in more efficient service for warehouses, transportation service, and banks—particularly the smaller financial institutions for whom some of the necessary accounting and interest computation work has been burdensome.

Availability of high-speed electronic data processing equipment, which can be adapted to price-support loan operations, has made possible the centralized system which is being put into general operations this year. The Government does not buy the equipment. It is installed in the commodity offices on a rental basis.

One computer in the Kansas City CSS Commodity Office has been tried out on a limited basis for several months. This installation has processed about 250,000 grain loan transactions originating under the 1957 programs in five States: Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, and Wyoming.

Success of this initial operation led to the decision to broaden the service of the Kansas City unit to include the processing of 1958 grain loan and purchase agreement documents for most of the States west of the Mississippi, and to initiate a comparable service at two other field offices.

A computer in the Chicago Office will handle grain price support records from all States not served by Kansas City. The area will include all States east of the Mississippi River, and Iowa.

Department officials say that no further expansion of electronic record keeping is planned at the present time. However, operations of the centralized system will be studied closely to determine the degree to which existing equipment might be used advantageously in connection with other farm program activities.

"The national budget is not, as many citizens thoughtlessly suppose, a rather impersonal compilation of figures so huge that they are beyond understanding. The national budget is a concrete expression of the energy and toil the American people are willing to spend on national security and other functions of government." —Jersey City, N. J., Jersey Journal

The Imperial Command

The year, 1869! Faced for lack of butter with a mutinous navy, French Emperor, Napoleon III decreed a national contest for "something new." The Imperial Command changed the eating habits of the world, for it resulted in the development of the first margarine.

Flavor, ingredients, and nutritive values were slowly improved. Natural taste and aroma, necessary for a perfect product, were finally achieved by Lever Brothers Company in 1955.

Imperial Margarine, golden yellow and fully natural in taste and aroma, was the long desired result. This new quality American table spread, enriched with vitamins A and D, successfully crowned the efforts of food scientists begun 88 years ago by an Imperial Command.

A Generation Of Hair Care

Back in the 30's—when dance marathons, John Boles and Hupmobiles were all the rage—women started preparing for an evening on the town around noon. A major chore was the painful job of pressing their hair with a sizzling curling iron.

The modern 50's—with its emphasis on time-saving, "do-it-yourself" practicality—is heralding the new Lilt squeeze comb. Now giving yourself a home permanent is almost as easy as combing your hair.

The 40's saw a big boom in beauty parlors. Milady donned her Sunday best, checked Junior with the baby sitter, traveled downtown—to spend a few hours having her hair done.

Milestones in Medicine

The great germ-killer, penicillin, was found by chance when a spore of the mold, penicillium, fell on Alexander Fleming's laboratory dish. But not all of the modern antibiotics were discovered by accident.

The most powerful weapon against tuberculosis and many other diseases is Streptomycin. It was isolated by a Rutgers bacteriologist, Dr. Selman A. Waksman, after five years of steady digging in the soil.

Chloromycetin was found when Dr. Paul R. Burkholder of Yale University turned up a sample of soil from a field in Venezuela. From it came the first antibiotic to treat typhoid fever successfully.

Aureomycin, a bright yellow antibiotic developed by Dr. B. M. Duggar of Lederle Laboratories, also came from streptomycetes. So powerful is this mold extract that it has spread its killing power into the virus field.

Pine Paneling Popular for Kitchens

Eye appeal is becoming as important to the modern kitchen as the latest labor-saving appliances.

For many years expanses of painted plaster and cabinets, tile, and white porcelain were regarded as the criterion of kitchen efficiency.

Now housewives have come to look at this kitchen treatment as monotonous and "cold." They want color and warmth with efficiency.

One material that provides all the desirable ingredients is western pine paneling. That's why it's becoming so popular for wall and working surfaces, cabinets, drawers, and built-ins for sinks, ranges, dishwashers, and other major appliances.

Use of this paneling allows the homeowner to express individuality in the design and decoration of the kitchen. The western pine forests produce 10 species, each with its own characteristic grain, texture, and knot pattern. They all accept any kind of finish.

When properly treated with modern sealers and finishes that are available, pine paneling stands up well for many years. For kitchens and any other room subject to abrupt changes in moisture, paneling should be treated with a good commercial sealer before installation.

As a covering finish, excellent protection is provided by two or three coats of wax or one or two coats of white shellac, lacquer, or varnish followed by waxing.

LEMON LORE

The eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in 79 A.D. completely buried Pompeii, but preserved the Roman city perfectly. A recent discovery has altered historians' idea that the lemon was first introduced to Europe by 12th century Arabs. For—almost as bright as the day it was done—a wall painting of a lemon tree has been uncovered.

Columbus brought the lemon to the New World. On his second voyage to Haiti in 1493, he included 23 lemon trees in his cargo. Legend has it that one tree—still standing—was planted by Columbus himself.

Today, according to Realemon Company experts, bottled lemon juice makes it possible to use exact amounts of uniform quality in cooking, flavoring and beverage—is economical and convenient to use. Modern women also use it for removing ink spots, banishing stains and odors from hands and as a hair rinse.

Babson Discusses How To Check Unemployment

BABSON PARK, Mass., Feb. 20—Everyone is aware of the fact that employment has recently been falling off. Despite attempts at rationalization of increasing unemployment as "seasonal" or as occurring only in "certain industries," we should face the fact that it is already more general than is healthy for our economy. It is important that this negative movement be checked as soon as possible. Among many suggestions coming to me, I especially recommend the following by one of the Babson Institute professors, Louis Foley. Salesmanship Is The Problem

There is only one way this mounting unemployment can be checked. That is by increasing consumers' demands for the goods and services that industry can produce. Factory wheels cannot keep turning, and jobs for workers cannot continue to exist, unless their product is being continually sold. Successful salesmanship is vital to the prosperity of all, including those in occupations not directly connected with selling. So the threat of growing unemployment becomes primarily a problem for salesmen of goods and of advertising.

In the buyers' market in which we now find ourselves, salesmen will need to exert themselves more strenuously than they have been accustomed to doing. This is not, however, a call for "high-pressure" selling in the unfavorable sense. It is neither honest nor effective salesmanship to mesmerize people temporarily into buying what they do not really need or desire, or what they cannot truly afford to pay for; in other words, what they ought not to buy. The best salesmen are not necessarily "fast talkers." They use their intelligence in analyzing the situations of possible customers and in deciding where genuine sales possibilities exist. They have the imagination and the ingenuity to demonstrate to the prospect how their product is fitted to his requirements and can furnish him real benefits. These he will appreciate when they are shown him, — and will want.

Salesmanship is fast becoming a profession, actuated by professional standards.

Good Salesmen Are Required

More than ever before, it is necessary for the salesman to have thorough knowledge of what he has to sell. In many lines nowadays it is indispensable to have an extensive technical acquaintance with the products offered, in order to explain accurately just what kind of service they can be depended upon to render. We have evolved an economy in which success in salesmanship requires an amount of preparation and continuing study that our ancestors would not have dreamed of as requisite for being a "mere salesman."

We have come a long way since the time when "persons of quality" found it obviously natural to look down upon those who were engaged "in trade." Salesmanship has become a completely respectable occupation because countless intelligent salesmen are taking their vocation seriously and dedicating themselves to it. They are realizing that they are performing a great service to the nation as a whole.

It Is Not So Simple Now

One of the saddest plays ever produced in the theatre was "The Death of a Salesman"—sad, that is, as the story of an individual who went down to utter defeat. Perhaps quite unintentionally, however, it symbolizes something that need not be considered sad at all—the "death" of a certain conception of salesmanship. It makes us realize the day of the "drummer" who depended for success on backslapping, telling funny stories, and being "well-liked" is truly past. Not, of course, that personality is unimportant; it has always counted and always will—in salesmanship as in everything else. That, however, must be a factor added to actively intelligent devotion to one's business and all that it requires to be up to date.

We cannot be saved by "security," which can be only relative and temporary at best. We can be saved only by faith. In the final analysis, it is faith that makes a great salesman—a humble faith in his own ability, faith in the value of what he labors to sell, faith in our economy,—and, most important of all, faith in God. Salesmen may well be proud of their occupation, for the maintenance of our way of life is dependent upon them. We need more praying salesmen.

find out, if possible, what causes the attacks. The doctor will try to get a complete history of conditions under which attacks start, any family history of allergies. Skin tests may give valuable clues to the substance which produces allergy.

Once the cause is known, the child can be protected as far as possible from contact with the allergen. It's important to guard him, against certain predisposing factors such as colds, fatigue, overexcitement, or anxiety. Sometimes a change of climate helps, but only if it's certain the new location is free from the allergy-producing substance. Any child with asthma should be under a doctor's care.

Mahoney Advocates Tax Reductions

George P. Mahoney, candidate for the Democratic U. S. Senate nomination, this week urged a Federal income tax reduction, designed to give a family of four, with a $5,000 annual income, a tax saving of $160 per year.

Mahoney renewed a plea which he made in 1956 for the tax cut, which would be accomplished by increasing personal exemptions from $600 to $800 annually. He said:

"President Eisenhower recently remarked that a tax cut 'would have a very real, great stimulus on the economy' and members of the Congress are currently studying a number of plans for easing the tax load. As the recession deepens, some type of reduction seems inevitable, but it is important that the cuts be applied in the manner which will give the whole economy the biggest possible boost.

"My proposal, which I successfully advocated for inclusion as a plank in the 1956 Democratic national platform, gives maximum savings to low-income families and taxpayers with large families. Those groups now spend all or most of their disposal income. Increasing their purchasing power will quickly put money into circulation and quickly give the entire economy a lift."

Maryland consumers, Mahoney said "must look to the Federal government for any tax cuts—it's very apparent we can't expect them on the local level. The Baltimore City administration, due to a recent, sudden revision of its tax program, plans new taxes. This week the City Budget Director, Charles L. Benton, an authoritative source and administration spokesman, remarked that, under the new City tax policies 'there are only three ways of raising this money, if the property tax is not to be sharply increased.' Mr. Benton explained:

"The City could impose a sales tax an income tax or a gross receipts tax."

Mahoney pointed out that "the State administration, too, is seeking a 50% increase in sales and income taxes." He declared:

"All these taxes — City and State—will be paid, eventually, by consumers. They will cut purchasing power and slow business even further. A Federal tax cut, applied in such a way as to increase purchasing power, will help offset these new local burdens on business and the ordinary citizen."

Billy Loes, Connie Johnson, Hal Brown, and Ray Moore threw successive shut-outs for the Orioles last season to tie an American League record.

There's a New Day Coming in food shopping

"What will they do next?" is an expression one hears often as homemakers express their amazement at innovations in chain super market shopping. Air curtain doors and open front refrigerated displays are among the new developments being seen in some areas of the country. And the day when a clerk will merely put the foods you've selected in a bin and they'll pop up all packaged—is not too far away.

A new checkout counter that does its own bagging—in a matter of seconds—is due to be tested by super markets soon. The first model shown at the National Association of Food Chains' Annual Meeting recently met with an enthusiastic response and you are likely to see the automatic checkout counter in your own city before long.

Completely mechanized, it consists of a conveyor belt that brings your purchases to the cashier. The checker then places your items in a moveable bin which feeds into an open shopping bag. A button is pressed, the bag is closed and automatically tilted for a quick pickup. The entire operation works so smoothly that eggs, light bulbs, glass containers can be packed without breakage.

Not only will the new bagging machine save time at the counter, but possible savings in the cost of bagging operation may also help chain super markets in their never-ending search for ways to give you "Better Living at Lower Cost."

BETTER SCHOOLS — AND YOU

by HENRY TOY, Jr., President
National Citizens Council for Better Schools

HOW TO STRETCH A TEACHER

Some rainy night when the whole family's home, you might try a new parlor game on them. Have everybody think of all the items in your home that simply didn't exist 25 years ago. There'll be television, of course, and the ladies' nylons, and the home freezer and the pink electric light. There'll also be all the prefabricated things and synthetic materials. Chances are you'll find quite a list right in your own house.

Whatever else went into the manufacturing of those items, there was one ingredient that came before all the rest. Somebody somewhere started experimenting. It might have been a scientist looking for something else when he stumbled across a wonder drug. It might have been a businessman looking for new ways to use waste materials. But it was the first experiment that started the whole thing.

I say "the first experiment" because I know from having worked in the chemical industry that very few products get discovered on the first try. It's more likely that years pass by before the product is perfected for the market.

In case you're wondering what all this has to do with schools, this is an age of experiment in education, too. Take just one problem alone: the teacher shortage. Communities all over the land are coming to the conclusion that we'll have to try new ways of teaching if we're going to teach growing numbers of children with fewer teachers. If we keep on demanding one teacher for every 25 children, there just aren't going to be enough. Half of all college graduates would have to go into teaching to provide that many teachers and we know that isn't going to happen.

So what's happening in experimentation. Some communities are trying out teachers' aides, using auxiliary teachers the way hospitals use nurses' aides to do the non-professional work. These teachers' aides can monitor study halls, help the children on with snowsuits, pass out examination papers, do many of the non-teaching chores which leave the teacher free to do what he does best: teach.

Other communities are trying television. This way, they say, they can get one expert art teacher, for example, who can go before the cameras and give top-flight teaching to all the students in the school district. I've seen educational television at work in Pittsburgh, where public and private schools alike have it, and I was pretty impressed.

Many organizations are plugging for training college women whose children have grown up to go into the classroom. They say these women know children and children's problems and with some training on how to teach they'd make excellent teachers.

Maybe none of those methods is just right to help solve the teacher shortage in your town. All I'm saying is that we're going to have to experiment to find out which method—or combination of methods—will result in the best possible education for our children.

If you'd like more information on these experiments, write the word "teacher" on a postcard with your name and address and send it to me, c/o Better Schools, 9 East 40th Street, New York 16, New York.

And if you're trying new ideas in your community, I'd like to hear about them.

Asthma

A child coughs, wheezes, gasps for breath. It's a terrifying experience for a parent. Is it asthma? If it is, will the child get over it?

Today there is no reason to panic when the doctor says, "It's asthma." Thanks to modern medical knowledge of the condition, children rarely die of it. Some children outgrow it, usually during adolescence. With drugs and understanding care, attacks can be eased. Often it's possible to find the cause and eliminate it.

Asthma is not contagious, in the sense the child "catches" it. It is a condition caused by allergic reaction to some substance which is inhaled (pollen, dust, gas, animal dander) or carried to the lungs through the blood stream (possibly a drug, virus, bacteria, or food derivative). The result is swelling and spasms in the bronchial tubes and excessive secretion of mucus. Attacks vary widely in frequency and severity. Chronic asthma with frequent, severe attacks can result in permanent damage to the lungs.

Just a lotta beans by WALDMAN

The Romans not only raised beans for food — they bought votes with them! An ambitious candidate for the Senate often bolstered his plea for election with a handful of the precious beans.

The first navy beans were planted in Michigan after the Civil War. A Michigan farmer, visiting relatives in the East, brought back sample seeds. Today Michigan grows 96% of all the navies in America.

The Michigan Bean Shippers Association, formed in the state's capital in 1892, was the first organization of its kind in the U.S. It set a precedent by introducing the careful inspection of beans. For free recipe booklet write BEANS, 1004 E. Jefferson, Detroit 7.

HIGH WINDS and waves herald the approach of Hurricane Audrey last June 27 along the Louisiana coastline near Cameron. Before the storm subsided, it had left at least 518 dead, 1,000 injured, and millions of dollars in property damage in one of the severest tests of State and local disaster organizations in the recent history of the nation. We Will Win!
OKLAHOMA CITY—America is going to win the victory for freedom. My confidence in this achievement has been hard hit at times through recent years but the inspiring signs today showing that greater and greater forces are being mobilized to strengthen and safeguard the structure of American freedom. This is not a reference to our successful space satellite or the shocked awakening to the menace of world Communism which the Russian sputnik brought to millions of our people. The encouraging signs we're talking about are more fundamental and far reaching. They are signs boiling up from the grass roots, from people all over America. Here in Oklahoma City are 115 busy, important people, from a region embracing Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma City's first Freedom Forum. Central Christian College which is building a brand new college plant here, co-sponsored the Forum with the National Education Program. By popular demand of the 115 conferees and the industrial and educational leaders of the area, the CCC Forum is to become an annual affair.

School Workshop
A feature of the Forum was an evening session devoted to ways and means of bringing American citizenship education—showing among other things the advantages of the private ownership economic system—to the school children of this whole mid-continent area. There were 46 educators among the 115 conferees. They were enthusiastic about the citizenship education materials presented at the Forum. These materials included five course outlines for high schools—American History, American Government, Civics, World Government, and American Economics. They also included classroom movies dramatizing the facts about our economic system and our constitutional Republic. The educators included many high school principals, school system superintendents, classroom social science professors, and college heads. They snapped up the citizenship course outlines like hot cakes. Many of the school administrators took sufficient quantities to distribute to all teachers in their senior high schools. They expressed gratification for the guides and the material recommended in them.

The Vital Need
This is a wonderful sign testifying to an awakening patriotism and an awakening sense of urgency in the vitally necessary goal of bringing a better understanding of the American way of life. For more than 20 years I have been saying that if we are to preserve our priceless heritage, our unique economic and governmental system, the children of America must be sold on its advantages. The structure of American freedom will not survive just because it is right—unless each oncoming generation understands it and cares enough about it to resist the forces that will always be seeking its destruction.

The citizenship course outlines have gained the attention of parents and teachers throughout the nation—and their response has been another of the inspiring signs strengthening my confidence in the future of our country. Hundreds have been mailed to schools in all sections of the nation, where it is hoped they will help form the basis for a well-organized course. Thus ultimately millions and millions of children will be reached with a better understanding of our American way of life.

Joining Up
Here are some of the school people, parents and organizations that have written for the course outlines: Dover City Teachers' Association, Dover Ohio; Board of Education, Jersey City, New Jersey; Foundation of Economics Education, Irvington-on-Hudson, New York; Virginia Farm Bureau Federation; Alan Clem, Press Secretary, Congressman R. D. Harrison, Norfolk, Nebraska; Lincoln High School, Fort Smith, Arkansas; Fort Lauderdale High School (Florida); St. Louis High School (Missouri); Haverhill High School (Mass.); Powell (Wyoming) School System. Scores of industries have asked for the outlines to prepare courses for their management-employee team: Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., Revere Copper & Brass, Neptune Meter Co., M. A. Hanna Co., Frederick & Nelson (division of

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read 1 Corinthians 3:9-17.
We work with God, and that means that you are a field under God's cultivation. (1 Corinthians 3:9, Phillips.)
People approach the Lenten season in different ways. For some this is the period of self-denial, the time to say "No" to some indulgence. For others, Lent is the season in which to practice the cultivation of "our soul's little garden, . . . part of the great garden of God," as Evelyn Underhill has expressed it.

The loveliness of a garden and the usefulness of a man's life do not just happen. Pruning, weeding, transplanting—these need to be done in every garden, and from season to season, if beauty is to follow.
Do not a well-kept garden and a man doing God's will both witness to the love and understanding care used in their development? A charming garden proves that man cares: a life in harmony with Christ testifies to the power of God's love.

New Car Licenses Now On Sale
James B. Monroe, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, announces that license plates for passenger cars and motor cycles are now on sale at the Department of Motor Vehicles. Do not fail to answer the two questions on the application at the time you sign your name. You must have insurance in the amounts of $10,000 and $20,000 for bodily injury or death, and $5,000 for property damage to others, in order to answer "yes" to question 2, in which event you must pay an additional fee of $1.
Do not answer "yes" if you only have $50.00 or $100.00 deductible insurance on your own car, as this is not automobile liability insurance to protect life and property of others. These new plates may be displayed on and after March 1.

Prayer
Eternal God, Father of all men, may we this day choose to walk with Thee. We know it will exact from us strict discipline, but we understand that only so can our lives be made beautiful and useful in Thy kingdom. Thine shall be the glory; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Horsepower 'Race' Started Here

With some auto manufacturers putting as much as 400 horsepower in their 1958 models, it is interesting to note that the first four cycle internal combustion engine ever made was developed just 81 years ago by a German inventor named Otto. The earliest model of Otto's engine in existence in the United States, built in 1877, is now on display at Pioneer Village, located at Minden, Nebraska, on transcontinental Highway U.S. 6. It is shown above, at left, sitting beside one of man's latest developments in the field of power—the first jet airplane engine put into production in the United States. Otto's internal combustion engine had no spark plug for the simple reason that the spark plug had not yet been invented. Instead a blow torch was built right into the side of the cylinder to ignite the compressed gases. Also on display at Pioneer Village is the first one-cylinder engine built by Glenn Curtiss, and the Wright Brothers fifth airplane engine. Built by industrialist Harold Warp as a memorial to his parents and other western pioneers, Pioneer Village comprises 20 buildings housing 20,000 different items showing man's progress in every field of endeavor from 1830 to the present. Open the year around, the Village has been viewed by hundreds of thousands of visitors.

This House Puts Beauty Into a Cost-Saving Rectangle

Employing the principle that a simple rectangular design produces the most house for the money. Designer Donald Scholz has here produced a house that's as beautiful as it is economical.

Here's the achievement—four bedrooms, two generous baths, all rooms of good size, and long, low sweeping exterior graciousness. Shutters, planter boxes, exterior siding variations, and a columned porch with arch design more than compensate for the simplicity of the home's four straight walls.

As interesting indoors as out, the house has a private L-shape sleeping area and a compact kitchen-dining-living area. The kitchen work space, also L-shape, shows how the designer utilizes this shape to gain utmost convenience with minimum interior-partitioning costs. All rooms are in line, with hall space kept well within "efficiency" limitations. Deft planning has grouped all plumbing—two baths, laundry-utility-plumbing lines. In an alternate basement plan, a staircase replaces the utility room, and both baths are the same size. Space for family living, with beauty and economy, are all present in this well-planned home. The secret—Designer Don Scholz' adept handling of a shape that's easiest to build, but most difficult to glamorize—the simple rectangle.

Floor area of the house is 1192 sq. ft. Get further free information on this house by writing: Don Scholz Design Associates, Dept. 105, 2001 N. Westwood, Toledo 7, Ohio.

NOTICE OF MUNICIPAL CHARTER AMENDMENTS
 Pursuant to the Charter Amendment Resolution No. 1 passed by the Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg on January 22, 1958, the following is published as a fair summary of the proposed amendment:

The present Charter of Emmitsburg provides that the Burgess and Commissioners shall have no power to pledge the credit of the town for more than $500 without a special election thereon. The proposed amendment to this section of the Charter would allow the Burgess and Commissioners to borrow up to $5,000 on their own authority and to borrow more than that amount by a bond issue provided that they shall pass an ordinance authorizing such loan, stating its purpose and setting forth in detail the terms and provisions thereof, which ordinance shall be published once a week for at least four weeks in one or more newspapers with general circulation in said town, and provided further that such loans shall be obtained and bonds issued evidencing said loan any time after fifty (50) days but no longer than four (4) years from the date of the passage of said ordinance, unless on or before the fortieth day after being so ordained or passed, there shall be presented to the legislative body of Emmitsburg, or mailed to it by registered mail, a Petition signed by 20% or more of the persons who are qualified to vote in municipal general elections in Emmitsburg, requesting that the proposed obtaining of said loan and issuing of said bonds be submitted for referendum to the qualified voters of Emmitsburg. Each person signing the Petition shall indicate thereon both his name and residence address, and upon receiving the Petition for a referendum, the Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg is directed to verify promptly that any person who signed it is qualified to vote in municipal general elections of Emmitsburg and shall consider the Petition of no effect if it is signed by fewer than 20% of the persons who are qualified to vote in general elections in Emmitsburg. If the Petition for a referendum complies with the requirements of this section, the legislative body shall by resolution procedure, within 30 days after the verification of signatures on the Petition have been completed, specify the day and the hours for the election at which the question shall be submitted to the voters of the municipal corporation. This may be at either the next regular municipal general election or at a special election, in the discretion of the legislative body. In the event a special election is designated, it shall be held within a period of not less than 40 days nor more than 60 days after the final passage of the resolution providing for the referendum. The resolution providing for the referendum shall specify the exact wording which is to be placed on the ballots or voting machines when the question is submitted to the voters of the town. If a majority of the voters approve said loan and the issuance of said bonds at any referendum held thereon in pursuance of the provisions of this section, said loan may be made, and said bonds may be issued within the times herein provided. In no event, however, shall the Burgess and Commissioners have the power to pledge the credit of the town for more than twenty (20%) per centum of the assessed valuation of the real and personal property located within the boundaries of said town without first submitting the same to a vote of the qualified voters thereof.

The Charter Amendment Resolution No. 1 shall become effective as on March 14, 1958 unless a proper petition for a referendum thereon shall be filed as provided by Section 13 of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland, and provided, further, that the other provisions of Article 23A of said Code applying in such cases are followed.

NOTICE OF MUNICIPAL CHARTER AMENDMENTS
 Pursuant to the Charter Amendment Resolution No. 2 passed by the Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg on January 22, 1958, the following is published as a fair summary of the proposed amendment:

The present Section 164 of Article 11 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, said section being one of the charter provisions of the Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg, provides: "They shall not levy a tax exceeding forty-five cents on the one hundred dollars of assessable property in any one year." The proposed charter amendment to said section would read as follows: "The Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg shall not levy a tax exceeding one dollar and fifty cents on the one hundred dollars of assessable property in any one year, except for debt servicing costs as to which

Commissioner Explains New Auto Insurance Law

State Insurance Commissioner Charles S. Jackson, in a statement issued this week, furnished Maryland motorists with the official information they will need to answer a new question about insurance in their applications for 1958 registration plates in order to comply with requirements of the new Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Law.

Owners of private passenger cars must file their registration applications with the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles prior to Apr. 1 and of commercial motor vehicles prior to May 1. The application forms are being mailed to owners now and Commissioner Jackson issued his statement to help the motorists avoid unintentional errors which could put them to considerable trouble and possibly even expense.

Commissioner Jackson's statement follows:

"When motor vehicle owners receive their application form for 1958 plates, they must answer this question: 'Is this vehicle insured for bodily injury and property damage?' Those who answer 'yes' will be required to pay only $1 in addition to their legal registration fee; those who answer 'no' must pay $8 in addition to their legal registration fee as uninsured owners. These fees will be delivered by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to the State Treasurer and, together with substantial payments that must be made by the insurance companies, will constitute the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund.

"But here are two important points to understand. The first is that the only kind of insurance that is applicable under the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Law is bodily injury and property damage coverage, more commonly known as automobile liability insurance, because it protects the public against damages you may cause to others in the operation of your motor vehicle. The other point is that your automobile liability insurance must provide such protection in the amount of $10,000 for death or injury caused by you to one person, $20,000 for death or injury to more than one person in any one accident, and $5,000 for damage to the property of others.

"Let me explain quickly why the new law specifically stipulates automobile liability insurance. Fire and theft, comprehensive, collision and several other kinds of insurance indemnify you and your own property against loss or damage. But the purpose of the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Law is to protect the public as a whole against damages that are caused by financially irresponsible motorists. Very few of us are fortunate enough to be ready to pay as much as $25,000 in cash for damages we may cause in a motor vehicle accident. The majority of motorists, therefore, take out insurance to make them financially responsible and the only kind that does this is automobile liability insurance.

"So examine your insurance policies carefully or, better still, consult your insurance agent before you answer the insurance question in your 1958 registration application and be sure that you have the right kind in the right amounts. While the new law does not become fully effective until June 1, 1959, you must have the right kind of insurance in force at the time you file your 1958 registration form in order to avoid paying the $8 fee. The time lapse was provided so the state can collect a sufficient fund out of which to pay, up to a total of $25,000, damages that are caused in traffic accidents by financially irresponsible motorists. "There is another point you should understand in connection with insurance. It is this, don't make the mistake of thinking this law makes it inadvisable to carry automobile liability insurance. Quite the contrary. Uninsured motorists, unless they happen to be pedestrians or guests in an insured vehicle, cannot collect any damages under the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Law. Furthermore, if you are uninsured and cause damage to others, the Fund will pay those damages up to $25,000, but your driving and registration privileges will be suspended under the Financial Responsibility Law. They cannot be restored until you have reimbursed the fund with interest and have furnished proof of financial responsibility in the amount of $25,000 for the next three successive years.

Public Invited To Concert

I haven't urged anyone to stay out of the race . . . and I won't wear the collar of any man or any faction . . . in our campaign, we'll go after the nomination the hard way—by a shoestring, shoelace campaign. And we'll win going away."

The Heller campaign will be entirely independent of any organized faction, he said. It will add a new note in Maryland politics, a husband-wife team. Heller's campaign manager will be his wife, Deane, his partner in their Public Relations — free lance writing business.

"Ours will be a shoestring campaign. But we've got something more important than money — gumption and shoelace. Our only major expenditure will be fifty thousand small cards urging voters to 'Give 'Em Heller.' I plan to put each one of these 50,000 cards personally into the hands of a Democratic voter and urge each to vote for me."

"Our support will come from a group of enthusiastic amateurs . . . people who feel that it is time a Democrat replaced Representative DeWitt S. Hyde. Mr. Hyde's shocking betrayal of the people of Maryland in his vote for the natural gas bill—which would raise the gas bill of every person in Maryland's sixth district. Mr. Hyde would make an admirable Representative for the oil tycoons from Texas, but he has certainly double-crossed the people of Maryland!"

Congressman Hyde's 'obstinate' refusal to support a bill for federal aid to education was cited by Heller as 'justifying' his defeat.

As a writing team, the Deane and David Heller by-line has appeared in such publications as Coronet, Redbook, American Mercury, New York Herald Tribune, Washington Star, Philadelphia Bulletin, King Features Syndicates and several hundred other publications. They are under contract to Public Affairs Press to write a book on famous husband-wife teams of history. The November, 1957, issue of Redbook featured the Hellers from coast to coast in a tour of the glamorous vacation spots of Florida.

Among their public relations clients are the Scale Manufacturers Assn., the Institute of Industrial Launderers, the Home Builders' Ass'n of Metropolitan Washington, the Washington Home Show and the Montgomery County Fair.

Heller, 35, was born in Sheridan, Wyoming, reared in Centralia, Illinois, and holds A.B. and J.D. (Doctor of Laws) degrees from the University of Chicago. He was a member of the University's varsity debate team for three years, and winner of many speech contests. He worked his way through law school as a reporter for the Chicago Sun. It was there he met his wife, a fellow reporter. He served three years in the Navy during World War II, being released from active duty as an ensign in the Supply Corps. The Hellers have lived in Maryland for ten years.

Cricle righthander Connie Johnson beat the American League champion New York Yankees three times last season, an accomplishment matched by only three other pitchers.

TRUCK OVERTURNS

An Emmitsburg fuel oil distributor, Charles F. Stouter, and his 13-year-old son Ronald, narrowly escaped injury when the tank truck he was driving, loaded with fuel oil, turned over on its side in the snow in West End Emmitsburg about 4 p. m. Monday afternoon. Stouter was at the wheel when he drove too close to the edge of the roadway to make way for an approaching vehicle. The right wheels of the truck hit deep snow which pulled the truck into a roadside drift where it overturned. Little damage occurred to the vehicle.

YOUNG IDEAS

from Polly Ponds

Q: "My eyelashes are so light, they're almost invisible. Would it help if I wore mascara?"

A: Mascara will make your eyes seem bigger and brighter—but only if it's worn correctly.

Never apply the cosmetic so heavily that your eyelashes are pulled into hard, artificial-looking spikes. This can happen when you use a too-wet brush that's been scrubbed too enthusiastically over the mascara cake.

Barely dampen your brush—rub it on the mascara and feather it lightly over your lashes until they're tinted with just enough color to look both visible and natural.

If you're a redhead or a blonde, wear a brown mascara. If your hair is very dark, a black eyelash tint will look well on you.

To help prevent the ends of your lashes from breaking off, groom them each night with just a touch of cold cream. Close your eyes and smooth on the cream with your finger tip.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

GOITER HEALED IN THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

The ministry of Jesus of Nazareth completely meets every need of every human being on earth. Whatever is wrong with you, Jesus of Nazareth can set you free right now.

I say NOW because what Jesus was two thousand years ago he is today. What he did for people yesterday he is doing for them today. He is the same in purpose, power and desire. He is just as good in our time as when he personally went among the people.

Daniel Z. CySip found this out. He was manager of a plantation in the Philippine Islands. He suffered with a toxic goiter and was very weak and undernourished. The date for his operation was December 14, 1955, but it did not take place. Let him tell you why:

"I had been ailing for nearly a year. Dr. Richli had found that I had a toxic goiter. He advised that if I ever wanted to be fully well, I should have an operation. As there seemed to be no way out, I finally agreed to his advice.

"I went out to the plantation of which I was manager to inspect everything and to see that all was in order before going back to Manila for the operation.

"I arrived back in Manila on December 12 and went immediately to the office of my Uncle Alfonso. In the course of our conversation my uncle asked me if I had a strong faith in God. I told him that if I had not had faith in God, I never would have survived a recent serious illness. Then he told me that an American minister, who prayed for the sick and who had a strong faith in God, was scheduled to arrive in Manila on January 1, 1956. My uncle asked if I was interested in having this American preacher pray for me. I answered that I was very willing.

"We notified Dr. Richli immediately that the operation would not take place on the date agreed.

"I attended the services of this minister. After the sermon, he began to pray for the sick.

"When he came to pray for me, he asked me how long I had had the goiter. I told him that I had had it for about five years, and that I could not sleep well at night. I was extremely nervous and could not hold my hands steady. He then prayed for me. While he prayed, I felt groggy and my neck experienced a sudden warmth. The swollen part around my neck began to subside.

"When the prayer was over, my hands were steady and the grogginess had completely left me. I felt like a newborn being. I was instantly healed.

"The minister then asked me who had healed me. With joy in my heart, I told him that it was Jesus Christ, the Son of God. The congregation was singing as I came down the ramp to the ground, physically and spiritually healed."

"I have nothing to add to this story. It breathes such an atmosphere of simple sincerity as to make further testimony unnecessary. Mr. CySip has found that Jesus is still adequate for every need.

Now the easy way to save is better than ever!

The U. S. Savings Bonds you get through Payroll Savings pay you higher interest... faster!

Have you tried the Payroll Savings way to save yet? Eight million working people can tell you it's the best system ever devised to save for a goal systematically.

Here's how it works. You simply sign the Payroll Savings authorization card in your payroll office. Sign up for the amount you want. Then each pay period that amount is deducted and saved for you in a Payroll Savings account. When there's enough, a Bond is purchased in your name and starts earning interest to add to your savings.

And now your Bonds earn higher interest than ever before. Every United States Series E Savings Bond issued since February 1, 1957 pays 3 1/4% interest when held to maturity. It reaches maturity faster—in only 8 years and 11 months. And redemption values are higher, too, especially in the earlier years.

If you haven't already done so, sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan at work today. Start piling up those Savings Bonds for your future.

Incidentally, you'll be getting your Savings Bonds in a new "check" size—a lot easier to keep even in the smallest safety deposit box, a lot more efficient and economical for your employer and your government to process.

Lenten Rules Announced

The following regulations on fast and abstinence will affect all Catholics during Lent which opened Wednesday.

Abstinence
Everyone over seven years of age is bound to observe the law of abstinence.

Complete abstinence is to be observed on Fridays, and on the Vigils of the Immaculate Conception and Christmas. On days of complete abstinence meat and soup or gravy made from meat may not be used at all. Partial abstinence is to be observed on Ember Wednesdays and Saturdays on the Vigil of Pentecost. On days of partial abstinence meat and soup or gravy made from meat may be taken only once a day at the principal meal.

Fast
Everyone over 21 and under 59 years of age is also bound to observe the law of fast.

The days of fast are the Week-days of Lent, including Holy Saturday, ember days, and the Vigils of Pentecost, the Immaculate Conception and Christmas. On days of fast only one full meal is allowed. Two other meatless meals, sufficient to maintain strength, may be taken according to each one's needs; but together they should not equal another full meal.

Meat may be taken at the principal meal on a day of fast except on Fridays, Ash Wednesday and the Vigils of the Immaculate Conception and Christmas. Eating between meals is not permitted but liquids, including milk and fruit juices, are allowed.

When health or ability to work would be seriously affected, the law does not oblige. In doubt concerning fast or abstinence, a parish priest or confessor should be consulted.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By U. S. Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON—The president continues to be forthright in his discussions of the economic problems confronting this nation. I share his deep concern for the unemployed. And I am certain that every American, regardless of his political persuasion or party affiliation, regrets any decrease in the total number of employed persons in this country. To keep factories humming and men at work is a major aim of the President and of our people.

Our free economy functions best when confidence in our institutions is at its highest. Our free competitive system depends a great deal on the frame of mind of the people.

I am amazed at some who, for one reason or another, would frighten our citizens into believing that we are headed for a major depression. And I protest the use of distorted information to gain an audience for pet political or economic theories.

To picture people suffering from the results of natural disaster—prolonged drought or excessive rainfall—as occurred recently in Tennessee, Mississippi, and Arkansas—as victims of the current business slowdown is dishonest. Yet that is being done. I do not believe in covering up or in glossing over economic facts neither do I believe in misrepresenting them.

It is just such distortion of fact that can cause people to become worried to lose confidence, and to curtail their normal buying. Unnecessary reduction in normal buying has far-reaching effects—it can throw men out of work.

I wish to call your attention to the Music for Young Americans—a series of free concerts to be given by Washington's National Symphony Orchestra during the five-week period from April 22 through May 25. In conjunction with these concerts, the National Symphony will again hold the Merriweather Post Contest which is open to all high school violinists, pianists, and cellists. Winner will receive the Merriweather Post Award—$2,000 and a guest solo appearance with the National Symphony.

Free tickets for the concerts, and further information about the contest, may be obtained by writing Mr. Ralph Black, Manager, National Symphony Orchestra, Hotel Roosevelt, 16th and V Streets, N.W., Washington 9, D. C.

The Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., comprises some 2,000 dairy farmers in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia who hold Baltimore City Health Department permits certifying their farms for shipment of milk to Baltimore. In 1957 the Cooperative handled 441,400,000 pounds (51,325,581 gallons) of milk, which returned $21,969,701 to the membership.

The meeting will open at the Lord Baltimore Hotel at 10 a. m. with a business session. Those attending will hear reports of the past year's activities from President Edgar G. Emrich, of Emmitsburg and Manager - Secretary - Treasurer W. P. Sadler.

The membership will also be asked to vote on a reshuffling of the MCMF Districts from the present seven to nine, to permit better geographical representation. A favorable vote will add a district in Western Maryland and the adjoining Pennsylvania areas and another in the lower Eastern Shore.

The business meeting will be followed by a 12:30 luncheon, at which Congressman Judd will be the principal speaker.

Unemployment Checks May Be Delayed

The Maryland Department of Employment Security announced this week that special arrangements have been made to pay unemployment insurance benefits to claimants unable to reach the Department's offices on their regularly scheduled day because of weather conditions.

The Department's local offices around the state were open Monday and expected to remain open the rest of the week. The special arrangements will apply for only so long as transportation remains a serious problem.

Persons due unemployment insurance checks who are unable to report to a Department office on their regularly scheduled day should do so the following day.

If they are unable to report the following day, they should immediately mail to the Department the Continued Claim Form (204-F) in their possession, then report in person on their scheduled day the following week, when they will be paid two unemployment insurance checks.

"We expect that this departure from our pre-arranged schedule," commented Robert B. Kimble, the Department's Executive Director, "will cause some confusion and delays, especially in view of the size of our present claim load, but every effort will be made to accommodate these people."

The above applies to persons who have been unemployed at least one week and who have already filed a claim for benefits at one of the Department's offices.

Newly unemployed persons who have not yet filed a claim should do so at the earliest possible date.

Oriole second baseman Billy Gardner played in all of the Orioles' 154 games in 1957 and

'Split' Offers Space to Grow In

A popular theory among house hunters is that older houses offer more space for the money than new homes. Architect Rudolph A. Matern, of Jamaica, N.Y., has designed this modern split-level home as proof you don't have to be rich or old fashioned to have plenty of living space.

The house, from its colorful roof down to its 26-foot recreation room, is planned for a growing family.

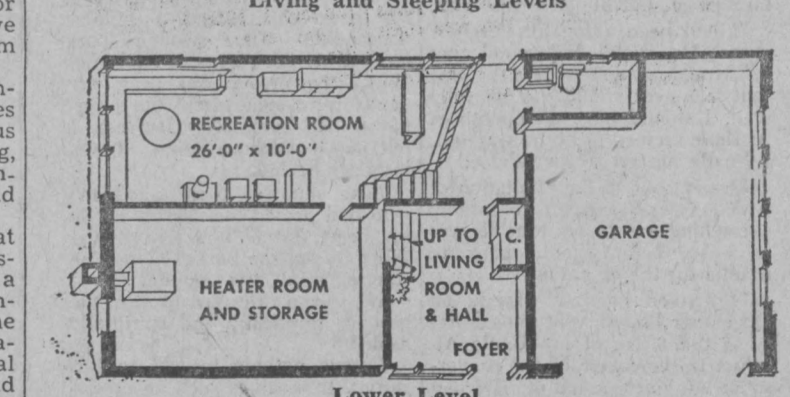

There are four bedrooms, two-and-a-half baths, a 19-foot living room with adjoining dining room, and a kitchen roomy enough for a breakfast table and chairs.

Other unique space features Matern has built into the house are 10 closets, 10-by-12 foot entrance foyer, two-car garage with a work bench, and basement storage room.

Outside, the architect has specified asphalt shingles in a rich deep color for the unique combination of hip and gable roofs over the two levels. The asphalt shingles set the color scheme for the house and give it dependable protection from harsh weather.

Recognizing the growing enthusiasm of American families for central air conditioning, plus the need for economical heating, Matern also specified thick mineral wool insulation in walls and ceilings throughout the house.

Because it keeps summer heat out, the insulation makes it possible for the builder to install a smaller, less-expensive air-conditioning system, or for the home-owner to save on installation costs at a later date. Mineral wool also helps keep cooling and heating operating costs at the lowest possible levels.

living room, while the second bath is off the master bedroom. The "half" bath is just inside the rear door, handy to the recreation room and the rear yard.

Further information, blueprints and specifications can be obtained from Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, L.I., N.Y. Refer to Plan No. 9427.

NAMED TO PANEL

Miss Theresa Allen, a senior at St. Joseph College, has been nominated to a panel of five from which two applicants will be selected to study Spanish in Cuba under the Fulbright Program.

Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Allen, Bayonne, N. J., Miss Allen is majoring in secretarial science and plans to teach in secondary schools. Her name has been endorsed by the National Selection Committee of the Inter-American Cultural Convention. The Department of State in Cuba will make the final selection in the spring.

ABIGAIL

Frank Zero, a promising long-shot; Humburg, working very fast. Incidentally, one of last week's selections made the grade and paid off rather well.

The Orioles set a new all-time Major League record last year when they played 80 errorless games, surpassing the old mark held by the Brooklyn Dodgers by one.

Complimentary meals served direct to the passenger in his reclining seat, the latest innovation in rail travel, is the proud boast of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway's new Cariboo Dayliner, running between North Vancouver and Prince George, British Columbia.

The Government-owned railway began the free dining service January 31st simultaneous with the introduction of the Dayliner's new stainless steel coaches into regular operation and thus became the first railway to offer travellers airliner convenience in airliner comfort.

The Dayliner leaves North Vancouver Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday mornings, arriving Prince George the same night, a slightly more than 16-hour trip through spectacular Garibaldi Park, the canyon of the mighty Fraser River and colourful Cariboo rangelands. Return trips run Wednesdays, Fridays and Sundays.
