Speaking of weather, and who isn't these days? The community was literally bathed in snow and rain during the past week and brother it was an experience most of us are unlikely to forget for many a moon. Weather bureau records say it was the most damaging snow in over 25 years. Only one other time can I remember when we were without power for a number of days and that was somewhere in the neighborhood of 30 years ago. At that time a blizzard knocked out the old Maryland Power Co.'s current sources for nearly a week. It takes a lot to keep the Chronicle from being published and that is the only time in my recollection when the staff had a week off without getting out the "sheet." Of course during the war the paper was suspended for a year, 1942, and right after that for another four years due to the death of the publisher, John D. Elder (1943), but it has been published constantly since then. We were given a real scare last Thursday when we opened shop and to our dismay had lights but no power to operate machinery. Our anxiety increased when we were unable to contact the Potomac Edison Co. (successor to the Md. Power Co. a number of years ago) due to nearly all the telephone lines being out of commission at the same time. We were absolutely "in the dark" as to when any current would be made available and wandered about the shop throughout the day hoping that by a stroke of luck, or a miracle that we would be able to produce an issue by Friday morning. Just about quitting time our waiting was rewarded and our anxiety quelled... power had been restored. Well folks it was midnight before your favorite newspaper was "put to bed." It was on regular schedule Friday morning although some of you rural readers received your copies a few days later.

It really was a revelation to us how so many managed so quickly to provide meager provisions and accommodations. It was just like living back in the pioneer days of this country. No oil, light or heat. Those fortunate enough to have fireplaces utilized them immediately by obtaining wood or coal. Like in old times many of our friends did their cooking in their fireplaces. Food posed as no problem to town folks but I imagine there many anxious moments wiled away by our rural friends. Stores were soon out of oil heaters, wicks, kerosene, candles, oil lamps, lanterns, flashlights, etc. It appeared that we were about to settle down for a "long winter's nap," however block by block and day by day, phone and electric service was being restored and after three days the town itself I'd say, was restored to near normalcy. So widespread was the destruction to the telephone lines that certain areas of the rural section are without means of telephone communication, a week later.

You really can't imagine how destitute and helpless one can be rendered when both light and heat are deprived one's home. It seems in this space age nothing like this can happen to us. The age of atomic energy and space, miracles of engineering and science and medicine and yet one can be relegated to the pioneer age in a few short hours by the elements and Mother Nature. It seems like a nightmare but I can assure you it was no dream. I suppose now that an epidemic of colds, virus, etc., will plague us for the next several weeks as folks who were confined to their heatless homes will develop colds and other respiratory infections.

There were any number of families who had to move out of their homes. Especially those who depended on electrically-fired oil burners for heat and electric stoves for cooking. They were fortunate to live in a small community where almost everyone is related and where they are welcome, at any time, not necessarily during an emergency such as we experienced last week.

Our hat's off to the local firemen who did so much to relieve the misery during the storm. They worked day and night (Continued on Page Eight)

Firemen Assist Many During Storm

Proof of the versatility of the members of the Vigilant Hose Co. was manifested last week when crews manned pumps and generators around the clock offering valuable assistance to neighbors in distress during the hardships incurred during the storm last week.

Fire Chief John S. Hollinger reported that at least 50 trips to homes, farms and business establishments had been made from Thursday through Sunday. The firemen were called on for assistance by farmers to pump milk from tanks to trucks, pump water from wells for homes and stables, pump cellars dry, etc.

Two crews worked 12 hours daily to keep the pump and generator in full use and to alleviate hardships caused when the electric source was disrupted. The firemen maintain one pump on their rescue truck. Also on the truck is a portable generator which the company used to provide temporary lights to farmers, "charge up" their deep freezers and save their food which would otherwise have spoiled. Through the generosity of Mount St. Mary's College an additional generator was put into use by the firemen. Numerous trips were made to local business places where the firemen connected the generator to ice cream cabinets and other refrigeration facilities.

The firemen accepted no remuneration for their invaluable services and went on their way with a pat on the back from grateful citizens, feeling a deep sense of satisfaction that they had been able to be of service to their neighbors. The work done by the rescue truck and its equipment and crews demonstrated just how great an asset this unit is to both the Fire Company and the community.

The Fire Service Extension Department of the University of Maryland, will conduct the seventh annual short course for Fire Inspectors on April 8 through April 11.

There are no fees or advance registration and the course is open to all interested people, each enrollee attending the sessions will receive an identification card to admit him to the meetings being held in the fire protection laboratory of the Fire Extension Building.

Sportsmen's Club Will Help Build Mountain Picnic Area

Twenty-one members were present at the regular monthly meeting of the Indian Lookout Conservation Club held Tuesday evening in the Fire Hall, President Clay Z. Green presiding.

The game committee chairman announced that it was a certainty that local game was consuming the food which the club set out for it in the game refuge near town. Indications were that the game was steadily eating the feed and should be well-conditioned this season.

Harold M. Hoke, fish committee chairman, reported the dam building program would be postponed until later due to the flood condition of the streams at this time of the year.

The club decided to hold a benefit drawing during the 1958 carnival in September and a committee of Vernon Welch and Luther Anderson was selected to

Driver Misses Bridge, Lands In Flat Run

An Emmitsburg man miraculously escaped serious injury late Wednesday night when the car he was driving missed Flat Run Bridge on U. S. 15 just north of Emmitsburg, plummeted over a 15-foot embankment into the rain-swollen stream and landed upright.

State Trooper William F. Davis who investigated the accident, reported Paul E. J. Eyler, 39, Emmitsburg, was driving a 1948 Chevrolet when the car swerved off the highway. Eyler escaped unhurt. Trooper Davis said the driver had lost control of the vehicle and missed the bridge by at least 10 feet. The mishap occurred shortly after 10 p. m.

Fire Quickly Doused

The Vigilant Hose Co. quickly extinguished a blaze in the home of Mrs. Charles Keepers, N. Seton Ave., early Friday morning.

Fire Chief John S. Hollinger reported he believed the blaze was started by a short-circuit in the electric wiring under the first floor. Slight damage was reported.

Lineman Receives Severe Electrical Burns Near Here

Linford Leroy Myers, 33, Waynesboro, a South Penn Power Company employee on loan to the Potomac Edison for storm damage repair work in the vicinity of Emmitsburg, was admitted to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Monday morning after suffering burns that knocked him 40 feet to the ground from a power line pole.

Myers was working about nine o'clock near farm buildings north-east of here in the direction of Harney and was handling what had been a "dead" wire. Without warning, a charge of electricity "backfired" through the line from a specially-rigged generator at the farm buildings and Myers was knocked free of the pole.

He fell 40 feet to the ground and suffered contusions of the forehead and brush burns of the left thigh.

The hospital said he is also suffering from bad electrical burns to the right wrist and the left hand.

His condition was described as "satisfactory" after he had been admitted as a "badly shaken up" patient. He had been brought to the hospital by ambulance.

Although the current that caused the burns was believed to have been 7,900 volts, the fact that Myers was not wearing a safety belt at the time probably saved his life or at least prevented more severe burns. The shock of the electrical charge threw Myers free of the pole and released his hands from the charged wires.

Potomac Edison Company officials at Taneytown said the accident occurred along Bollinger Rd. between Emmitsburg and Harney, at the Allen Bollinger farm. They said Myers apparently was in the act of fastening his safety belt when his hand touched a broken bushing that had been energized by an emergency generator at the Bollinger buildings.

If the bushing had not been faulty, they said, it might have energized the entire line and injured other workmen.

New Car Demolished After Hitting Culvert

A 1958 Ford sedan was completely demolished after striking a roadside culvert late Saturday afternoon near Bridgeport, State Police report. The mishap occurred at 4:50 p. m. on State Route 97 west of Bridgeport when the vehicle being driven by Eugene Shindeldecker, 36, Fairfield, Pa., went out of control, left the road and struck a concrete culvert completely demolishing the car.

State Trooper William G. Morgan, investigating officer, charged Shindeldecker with failing to drive to the right of the center of the highway and he will be given a hearing Saturday before Magistrate Charles D. Gillespie, in Emmitsburg. The car was traveling toward Emmitsburg when the accident occurred. Shindeldecker was transported to the Warner Hospital in Gettysburg by Trooper Morgan where it was determined he was suffering from a fractured left leg and internal injuries.

BEULAH M. HERRING

Mrs. Beulah M. Herring, 49, wife of John A. Herring, Greenmount died last Thursday afternoon at 2:12 o'clock at the Warner Hospital, 17 hours after having been admitted.

Dr. C. G. Crist, Adams County coroner, said the death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage. Mrs. Herring had been in her usual health following supper Wednesday evening and had gone to a barn where her husband was tending some dogs. She complained of feeling ill and returned to her home where she lost consciousness within about a half hour and was transferred to the hospital.

A native of Taneytown, she was a daughter of Mrs. Mollie J. Copenhaver, Taneytown, and the late Luther C. Copenhaver. She had been employed by the Windsor Shoe Co. of Littlestown for a number of years and was a member of the Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, and the Auxiliary of the Greenmount Fire Co. She and her husband had wed in November, 1928.

Besides her mother and husband, she is survived by a son, Richard D. Herring, at home, and three brothers and sisters: Mrs. Nellie Knox, Taneytown, Mrs. Edgard Fair, Taneytown, Mrs. Albert Caverno, Baltimore; Mrs. Kenneth Gilds, Taneytown; Mrs. Hazel Yealy, Taneytown; Charles Copenhaver, Emmitsburg; Mrs. Donald Clingan, Taneytown. Earl Copenhaver, Baltimore, and Mrs. Ellwood Crabbs, Taneytown.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Bender Funeral Home, Gettysburg, with the Rev. Philip Bower officiating.

Dr. Povsic Addresses Lions Club

About 30 members and guests were present at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday evening in the Lutheran Parish Hall, President Paul W. Claypool presiding.

Guests present from Thurmont were these Lions: George Campbell, Lee Saylor and William Houck. In addition four Lions from New Freedom were present.

The president announced that the project of renovating the Crippled Children's Home in Frederick had been postponed pending a date from the director of the home. New roadside signs were ordered by the club to replace those located on the four main approaches to the town. The lettering has been obliterated thru years of service and the new signs will be erected in the near future. Capt. Philip B. Sharpe reported the Civic Assn. had granted the Corporation of Emmitsburg a right-of-way to lay a road to the new sewerage disposal plant, thru the Civic Grounds. A request for financial assistance from a lady from a neighboring town, was received and discussed. It is understood the lady has been invited to appear on a television show on the West Coast and that she needed transportation fees. The club took the matter under advisement and will provide an answer in the near future.

Secretary-treasurer Bernard J. Eckenrode reported $57.77 netted from the recent talent show. This sum will be turned over to the local Boy Scouts.

Guest speaker of the evening was Dr. Boleslav Povsic, of St. Joseph College faculty. His dissertation was extremely interesting and informative. He drew a comparison between the educational systems of the United States and a number of European countries.

Blaze At Shoe Factory Causes Little Damage

A slight blaze caused by an overheated sewing machine motor was quickly doused by the sprinkling system in the building on Thursday evening, March 20 at about 5:30 o'clock. The blaze occurred in the H. O. Toor Shoe Corp. plant on Chesapeake Ave. The plant's own fire alarm sounded and the Vigilant Hose Co. responded. The sprinkling system had extinguished the fire by the time firemen arrived and they cut off the system and pumped out the water from the building and cleaned up the premises so work could be resumed the next morning. No one was working in the plant during the day because of power failure caused by the storm. It is believed that the machine operator neglected to shut off the motor upon quitting work and when the power was turned on later during the day the motor was stalled and became overheated. Little damage was reported.

Mr. Anders, driving a 1953 Nash was struck by an unknown vehicle which was traveling south-

Community Recovering From Storm

Emmitsburgians spent the better part of a week extricating themselves from hardships and inconveniences heaped on them as the result of last week's snow storm which has been reported by weather officials as the worst of its kind locally, for over a quarter of a century.

The initial trouble came early Thursday morning at about 2 a. m. when practically all electric power supplied to the town by the Potomac Edison Co. failed. Wires were snapped by the accumulation of the heavy wet snow and numerous poles supporting the wiring gave way under the heavy pressure. Old-type single-strand telephone wiring was strewn about like twisted spaghetti all over the area as hundreds of phones were decommissioned. Few homes inside the corporate limits of the town had any electricity and many of them received no current from Thursday until Saturday night. Heating became a problem as many modern homes have oil furnaces which require electric motors for igniting the fuel. Those fortunate enough to have fireplaces in their homes took advantage of the opportunity to use them as their only means of heating. Others simply had no heat.

The snow, while only amounting to about 10 inches in this area, was one of the heaviest ever to fall here. Many stores lost food and ice cream because of the lack of refrigeration for two to three days. The rural population perhaps suffered the most inconvenience and food spoilage because they were without power for as long as 70 hours. Telephone service to many rural homes is still lacking at this writing, and numerous poles and wiring still can be seen laying on the ground in the Emmitsburg section. Numerous families were forced to leave their home due to the lack of heat and others for lack of cooking facilities caused by the current failure. A number of individuals cooked in their fireplaces.

The public utilities were hard-pressed to rectify the damage and restore service. Work crews were in service on a round the clock schedule but the damage inflicted was to such an extent that it took days before anything resembling normal service was restored. Outside help was not available to the utilities because the storm covered a number of states and the crews could not be re-deployed being needed in their home area. By Monday evening most homes in the area had heat and light. Utilities have been hesitant as to express an estimate on damages. So widespread was the destruction that it undoubtedly will take several months before any estimate will be forthcoming.

The Vigilant Hose Co. coped with the emergency by putting into use the old meeting bell which is operated manually, when the electric siren went out of action.

SNOWED UNDER!

LITERALLY AND FIGURATIVELY!

WORST STORM CAUSED 50,000 POWER FAILURES

Last week's snow storm did more damage and left more people without electric service than any storm of any kind in Company history. More than 50,000 of our 160,000 customers in the areas hit by the storm were without electricity for varying lengths of time.

76 CREWS WERE WORKING

To cope with this emergency we pressed into service every employe capable of doing the kind of work needed. Extra crews were brought in from every available source, a number of them coming from as far away as the Ohio River Valley area. At the height of the trouble a total of 76 crews were working on round-the-clock schedules. Backing up these crews were hundreds of other company employees, many of whom also worked at night on a 24 hour basis.

THOUSANDS OF INDIVIDUAL JOBS

It was a tremendously difficult job. In many cases the work of restoring service had to be done more than once, as falling trees and limbs wrecked power lines for a second and third time. The job of repair was further complicated and slowed down by the need for restoring great numbers of individual house services which had been broken by the accumulated weight of the wet, heavy snow or by falling branches. Another complication was the fact that normal means of communication were equally hard hit and it was difficult to obtain complete information from all areas. Without our own short wave radio system between headquarters and vehicles and crews the situation would have been infinitely worse.

YOUR DIFFICULTIES AND OURS

To you of our customers who experienced service outages, may we say a deeply felt and sincere "thank you" for the patience and understanding which so many of you showed. We know that many of you could not even get phone calls through to our swamped telephone centers. We also know that in our efforts to restore service to the greatest number of customers in the shortest possible time we made some mistakes and temporarily missed some individuals, but we ask you to bear in mind that in many cases we were working with emergency help, strange to our area and operating under the most difficult conditions. In the few instances where such mistakes occurred we assure you they were unintentional and we are sincerely sorry.

THE WORK OF OUR MEN

We do want you to know our men and their supervisors worked to the limits of human endurance. They did a magnificent job and we are proud of the sacrifices they made willingly, uncomplainingly and effectively.

Reader Urges Support For Local Candidates

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

In reference to your article of March 14, 1958, concerning the two courageous candidates, Lumen F. Norris and John A. O'Donoghue, I would like to further emphasize the need for the full and loyal support of every voter in the district. Then, if neither or both of these candidates should be elected, as you have said, "It would unquestionably prove a stimulant to others to endeavor to hold county offices."

Through experience, I know how much moral courage is derived from a victory achieved through a united effort for a common cause.

So, if these two candidates have the courage and public spiritness to burden themselves with the responsibilities of a public office, then we the voting public have a solemn duty to support, encourage, and if they be of our choice, vote for them.

But, even greater than this duty is our duty to just vote.

My candidates didn't win in the last election, but at least I can say, "I voted." Can all of us over 21 years of age say this, "At least I voted." If not, please do not let another election go by until we can.

Many have fought and many have died that we, in this country and people in other countries, might have the right to vote for leaders of our own choice and not ones we are forced to vote for. (July 27, 1953 was not that long ago, that we can't remember to vote.)

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Last fall about 10,000 men in the state of Missouri went out in the five-day open season and got a deer apiece, reports Col. Townsend Whelen, Camping Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. These men brought the deer back to their families at a cost of $5 for their deer tag, and about $2.50 for gasoline. Assuming that a deer has some 75 pounds of usable meat, this is an average cost of about ten cents a pound.

Realizing that the better cuts of beef run approximately $1.25 a pound and even hamburger is about 45 cents, such shooting, of the deer are humanely killed, can hardly be critized. It does seem, however, that this method of getting meat at small cost cannot really be called hunting. Rather, it is shooting. The open season is so short that it does not permit anyone to learn the science of hunting deer. And there are so many hunters in the forests close to population centers that the deer are being constantly disturbed, and shooters taking a stand will sooner or later be almost sure to get a shot.

But the worst part is that so many of the shooters do not have the necessary skill to kill their deer humanely, and apparently will not take the trouble to acquire such skill. Too many have not the slightest conception of what marksmanship means. While bad shooting can often end in an empty bag, it too often results in a wounded deer which will only die after hours or days of pain.

An extended trip into the wilderness is about the only way left, today, to find real hunting. Here a man has time to enjoy the outdoors as well as the shooting. And most often the only kills that are made are for the purpose of supplying the camp with meat. However, since such opportunities do not come every-day perhaps some regular practice at the local shooting range will result in cleaner kills next fall.

Fish Is Wholesome Food For Children

Are You Positive—IV

"Fish is a brain food." Do you believe that? Are you positive? Feed Billy with fish three times a day if he likes it that much, but it's no guarantee he'll come out with a high I.Q. Like other nutritious foods, fish benefits the brain and other body tissues. But it won't turn a moron into a genius. It won't help Billy pass an exam he hasn't studied for.

What do you believe? What do you see? What do you hear? What "everybody" says? Do you try to find out for sure? Of course, believing that fish is brain food probably won't do you any harm. But some incorrect notions can harm you.

Here's one you may have heard: "It's easy to cure TB with the new miracle drugs." Do you believe that? Are you positive?

There's no doubt the new drugs for TB are the greatest step toward the defeat of TB since the chest X-ray. But they won't perform miracles. The TB germ—the tubercle bacillus—is a hardy bug. The drugs used today could not kill it except in doses so large as to kill the patient. But in small doses they can slow down the germs' activity so that the natural disease-fighting strength of the body can defeat them. No drug, of course, can repair body tissue destroyed by tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis germs can also build up resistance to drugs. Using two or more drugs in combination often helps slow down development of resistance. The doctor determines which drug or combination of drugs is most effective for each individual patient. The patient usually has to take his medicine for 12 months or more. He is positive that it isn't easy to cure TB.

Ask your TB association about the new educational cartoon film, "Are You Positive?" Showings can be arranged for community groups.

Humane Slaughtering Bill Proposed

Few legislative subjects related to agriculture are receiving more attention than those pertaining to the humane slaughter of livestock. Pending before the Senate Agriculture Committee is a bill to establish the use of humane methods of slaughter and to require federal agencies after December 31, 1959, to purchase livestock products from meat packers who use humane slaughter methods approved by the Secretary of Agriculture. This bill has been passed by the House of Representatives.

Backing the bill are humane societies, women's groups, and labor groups. On the defensive are the packers who fear costliness of a change-over in slaughter methods, and the Secretary of Agriculture who dislikes being placed in a position of final decision.

Farm Bureau is backing a bill to provide study and research to develop improved methods of humane slaughter.

Wallpaper Wins Men

With so many of today's new wallpapers reflecting masculine interests, many men have begun to move in on the selection of wallpapers, especially in choosing a paper for the den or family room.

The paper shown above is just the thing for the man who has a yen for sailing, collecting old marine pictures, ship's models or even flotsam and jetsam.

The paper is called "China Trade" and shows ships in full sail skimming across a sea of old gold, while wind-worn buildings and feminine figures wistfully look seaward. These figures are colored in sharp accents of sky blue and Chinese red.

Other papers catering to masculine interests show old motor cars, old firearms, rare stamps, tin soldiers, art posters, golf clubs and tennis rackets. According to today's decorating trends, most of these papers should be accompanied by textured wallpapers on adjacent walls and ceilings.

The Easter Egg Tree

EASTER EGG TREES WERE POPULAR WITH THE EARLY PENNSYLVANIA DUTCH SETTLERS IN THEIR FESTIVE CELEBRATION OF EASTER OR PAAS DAY AS THEY CALLED IT.

THE DESIGNS WERE BRIGHT AND COLORFUL, AND MANY OF THE EGGS WERE SAVED FROM YEAR TO YEAR.

IT WAS OFTEN THE CUSTOM TO INSCRIBE MESSAGES OF LOVE ON THE EGGS WHICH THE YOUNG PEOPLE GAVE TO ONE ANOTHER.

EASTER EGG TREES ARE FUN TO MAKE. "BLOW" THE EGGS BY MAKING A SMALL HOLE IN EACH END, THEN COLOR AND DECORATE THE SHELLS AND HANG THEM ON THE TREE.

The Farm Problem

Many of the so-called "farm-state" Senators and Congressmen in Washington are calling for the resignation of Secretary of Agriculture Erza Taft Benson. Although Mr. Benson apparently has the solid backing of President Eisenhower, these Senators and Congressmen seem determined to either force his resignation or push through legislation which would short-circuit the basic aims of his agricultural program.

This is an important struggle. The fundamental issue is vital to the future of our American system. The issue is: will the two basic American principles—private enterprise and the competitive market—work successfully in agriculture, or most agriculture become permanently a government artificially controlled operation? If it should become permanently a government artificially controlled operation, then the American economic system, which is one of the main beams supporting our whole freedom structure, could not survive. The issue is just that important.

Not Much Progress

The American farm problem has engaged the serious attention and thought of leaders in every phase of our national life. The primary goals of the present U. S. Government program are the result of the pooled wisdom of outstanding farm leaders, agricultural economists, and Secretary Benson's official family in the Agriculture Department. After more than five years, however, the program has made only a little headway toward the goals—elimination of surpluses, stoppage of all but emergency price supports, and the returning of the business of agriculture to informal consumer control through the free market.

Secretary Benson apparently has found it impossible in a political establishment such as the Federal government to set definite deadlines for accomplishing the various steps necessary toward extricating the American farmers from the complicated mass of governmental machinery built up through 25 years of political engineering. Therefore, not much headway is being made. Surpluses continue to pile up, price supports and acreage allotments are continued.

Endangering Our System

With our Government spending $5 billion a year propping up the price of cotton, corn, wheat and other commodities, with $7 billion tied up in surpluses, and with the world-wide menace of Communism pushing our defense spending above $40 billion a year—the time has come for every citizen to do some serious thinking on the farm problem and then act to remedy a situation which is endangering our way of life, our future prosperity and freedom.

A national organization of businessmen and scholars, outside the realm of politics, has recently conducted a comprehensive study of the farm problem and has published its findings and recommendations. The organization is the Committee for Economic Development. Among its trustees are such men as Lamar Fleming, Jr., Chairman of Anderson, Clayton & Company, dealers in cotton; Alfred C. Fuller, chairman of Fuller Brush Company; Everett Needham Case, president, Colgate University; L. L. Colbert, president, Chrysler Corporation; John L. Collyer, chairman, The B. F. Goodrich Company; H. J. Heinz II, president, H. J. Heinz Company, and nearly 100 other leaders.

Economic Waste

The CED gives a clear analysis of the farm problem and, more important, presents a workable program. "Basic to every other defect," says the CED report on the farm problem, "is the economic waste involved in public policy that keeps people, and material resources, at work producing surpluses of farm products while the nation is straining to fulfill simultaneously its desires for economic growth and na-

Proper Feed Preparation Is Important

Feed economy and feed efficiency can be greatly increased when the farmer is careful to prepare the rations in the form best fitted for each age and class of livestock. Proper preparation means added profits for the producer.

Most farm grains and hays can be eaten just as they are. Surely they have been so eaten since the earliest times.

However, a lot depends on the kind or age of farm animal when deciding whether grain, for instance, should be ground or rolled or otherwise processed. In recent years even hay has shown certain advantages when chopped or ground or pelleted, depending on circumstances and especially on the kind of animal fed.

Lambs in a feed lot hardly ever need any grain ground for them, whether corn or small grain. They have excellent grinders by way of their own molars. Though horses with sound teeth do a good job of masticating grain, experience indicates rolling or crimping the grain is usually preferable.

Very young animals, even suckling animals, whether pigs, lambs or calves, like to eat grain whole, rather than ground. They eat such grain leisurely, thoroughly ensilivating and softening it. They do an excellent job of chewing and very little grain ever passes through them whole.

It is different with fattening steers in a feed lot, if these should be fed whole corn, whether ear corn, broken ear corn or shelled corn. When such steers are full fed on whole corn, as much as 20 per cent may pass through them unmanicured and therefore undigested. This way 20 per cent shows up undigested in the manure. When sufficient pigs are following such steers in the feed lot, these whole kernels are salvaged efficiently, making the feeding of whole corn to these steers entirely practical. However, with no pigs to save the corn, it should always be ground, or at least cracked, to avoid the 20 per cent waste which would otherwise result.

For dairy cows that are nearly always fed a mixture of grains and concentrates, it is always advisable to grind the feeds. Medium-fine grinding, resulting in a product that feels gritty as tested between the thumb and forefinger, is better than either very fine or very coarse grinding.

Grinding hay into a meal is recommended when it is to be used in calf meals or poultry mashers, or in winter or dry-lot rations for pigs. Frequently alfalfa meal and concentrates are pelleted to good effect, especially for very young pigs and chickens. Alfalfa meal and concentrates in large pellets have proved efficient for beef cattle too, in fact these large pellets are suitable for almost any mature farm animal.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

The proposed new Federal budget is not destined for easy sailing through Congress. Totalling $73.9 billion, it is by far the largest peacetime budget ever asked by Congress.

And there are some hard facts developing out of consideration of this budget.

One of the most inescapable and unpalatable parts of the whole budget is the fact that $8 billion of this must be used to pay the interest on the national debt.

In other words, almost 11 cents out of every tax dollar collected must be used to pay on interest on the debt.

This is a huge sum. Yet, faced with the necessity of paying out $8 billion for interest, the budget requests almost another $4 billion to be thrown away in form of give-aways. Thus, there is combined to pay off on past dead horses, and to give-away on present dead horses almost 17% of entire federal budget.

Or looking at it another way. Huge as the current budget request is, it just about equals what the U. S. has thrown away in foreign give-aways and other global WPA schemes in the past few years.

In fact, government appears to be getting so confused over this tax matter, that it is now even considering taxing itself.

A major recommendation was that a tax of 3.5 cents per gallon be placed on jet fuels. While it is true that in a short while, there will be some commercial jet airliners in operation, their fuel consumption will be but a drop in a bucket compared to the necessary military use of jet fuels.

Thus, if this proposed new tax were to bring in any appreciable new revenue, it would be collected on fuel used to protect the United States. This would be carrying the taxing situation to the nth degree of ludicrousness.

It was rather a shock to Washington that in a recent issue of a popular national magazine, General Douglas MacArthur sharply assailed the present taxing policies in the U. S. Many had long assumed that military men are not overly concerned with the weight of taxes.

Yet the nation's outstanding military leader, and hailed by many foreign experts as the greatest military expert of the age, states flatly that there seems to be no restraint on the lust for taxes, and recalls how Lenin, propagator of Russian communism, predicted in the 1920's the United States would eventually spend itself into bankruptcy.

General MacArthur also recommends the sure cure to excessive governmental spending which between federal and local is now taking one-third of the national income. That cure is to shut off the sources of taxes, thus forcing economy on government.

And the General also states that it has been charged, without any challenge, that this year the government of the United States proposes to spend more than all the rest of the governments in the world combined will spend.

In this connection it is not to be forgotten in Korea General MacArthur ordered "Operation Meat Axe" which meant destroy the enemy at every occasion. What apparently is needed now is the same type of operation on non-essential government spending, before all independent enterprise in America is throttled.

C. W. Harder

ALONG THE POTOMAC By U. S. Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON—In a few weeks the political parties of Maryland will be holding primary elections. Hence, I would like to say a word or two this week about practical politics—a business or profession that helps to improve your governmental security. Such policy makes no sense, from the standpoint of the farmer, of the public at large (including the farmer), or of the national well-being."

In the next several columns, I shall present some of the findings and specific recommendations from this CED report as well as other facts and conclusions concerning the farm problem. The very highest caliber of statesmanship, political courage and active citizenship must be employed to re-establish American farming to its proper place while safeguarding our whole freedom structure. This can be done and the well-fare of agriculture promoted at the same time.

ernment and your community.

The word "politics" causes some people lots of trouble. I suggest that we get one thing clear—politics is a distinguished word. Politics should occupy the interests of every American, because without citizen participation in politics you get anarchy or a dictatorship.

Actually, bad politics and bad government are caused by good citizens who don't bother to take an active interest by voting and working for the candidates of their choice.

What I would like to emphasize is this: choose the candidate who comes closest to your political beliefs and ideas and then roll up your sleeves and go to work. Make your voice heard. You achieve nothing by standing on the sidelines wringing your hands and wondering why someone doesn't do something about a problem that directly affects you. And nowadays almost every problem of government affects you.

Our nation enjoys the highest standard of living in the world today because of the skill, imagination and organization of business leaders, operating through a competitive enterprise system. And, I say to you that you can apply the same drive and ability and ingenuity to the political arena and become a real instrument of action in achieving sound government. We need seasoned and practical leaders of the community in politics, and we need the younger men and women actively interested in government.

I hope that every citizen of the 6th Maryland District will take an active interest in the election this year.

The Senate has passed and sent to the President my bill which provides for distributing estates of persons in the same family who die simultaneously in accidents or disasters. The Senate also passed, with amendments, Senator J. Glenn Beall's bill identical to one of mine, to revise and modernize District of Columbia fish and game laws.

Calves should be given the first milk from their dams for at least 24 hours, and preferably for four days after birth, to enable them to acquire disease antibodies for protection until they can be artificially immunized, veterinary authorities say.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read John 1:14-18. Of his fulness we all received, and grace for grace. For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ. (John 1:16,17. ASV.)

We were at prayer meeting in the lean-to chapel back of the church in Cheng Tu, West China. A hymn had been sung. The Chinese pastor had read a few verses of Scripture and commented on them.

At my left, in the end of the seat, sat a poor man. I had never before seen him. He followed several others in prayer. One sentence in his prayer in Chinese has clung to my memory through the years as a real blessing.

To express the same idea in English requires more words and also loses some of its force. Using Chinese words of strength, he said, "Most earnestly we beseech God to add grace to grace."

That poor man may not have been well-versed in the classics, but he certainly knew God and the Bible and practiced the grace of obedience.

Prayer
Dear Lord, we thank Thee for the inspiration of prayers we have heard. Some of them have been abiding blessings to us. Add grace in our lives that we may be a help to others, as others have been a blessing to us. In Christ's name and for His sake. Amen.
Thought For The Day
This day I will pray and practice the grace of obedience.

Nearly Million Haven't As Yet Filed Tax Returns

C. I. Fox, District Director of Internal Revenue for the Baltimore District, which comprises Maryland and District of Columbia, reminds the 700,000 taxpayers who haven't filed as yet, that only three weeks remain in which to file their Federal income tax returns.

Returns received after the April 15th deadline will be subject to delinquency penalty, he said.

Generally last minute preparation of tax returns results in careless errors, continued Fox. Already we have 51,000 returns with errors, and the 700,000 returns yet to be filed will bring even more unless the taxpayers cooperate and prepare their returns with the utmost care. By doing this you may save yourself money, inconvenience and a trip to the Internal Revenue Office.

The most common errors that occur are failure to sign the return, number of dependents listed but no names, failure to attach all W-7 Statements, omission of addresses, checks and money orders without signatures and carelessness in arithmetic.

The Director said taxpayers who owe additional tax must send the full remittance with the return. If you do have a refund coming, please don't call our office to inquire about same, as you only delay processing.

Refunds are now processed from a central location and take anywhere from six to eight weeks to clear.

In conclusion, Fox said, if you do have a tax problem, call PL. 2-8460. Ask for Tax Information Service. This service is available Monday through Friday, 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. We are as near you as your telephone.

THIS WEEK

—In Washington

With Clinton Davidson

There are many reasons why Washington officials are confident that the current business recession will not result in a collapse comparable to the 1929-33 crash that led to the closing of all banks for a time.

Two of the main reasons are the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. which, combined, insure more than $165 billion in bank deposits and savings and loan association accounts.

Officials of both insurance corporations with whom we have talked emphatically emphasize that your savings are safe up to the insured limit of $10,000 on deposit in any one bank or savings and loan association covered by either of the corporations.

This includes several thousand banks with insured deposits and savings totalling about $125 billion and some 3,800 Federal savings and loan associations insured with the FS&LIC, covering accounts totalling about $42 billion.

There are, however, significant differences between the insurance provisions applying to banks and those applicable to savings and loan associations. Those differences are not generally understood by many who have put their money in the associations.

Both advertise that accounts are insured up to $10,000, and that is true. The main difference, however, is in provisions covering withdrawal of your money. Many associations have neglected to make the difference clear in their literature.

The difference, however, would become significant only in the event of an extreme national emergency. As a matter of fact in normal times the two—banks and savings & loan associations—make immediate payments upon demand.

The FDIC requires that any bank failing to pay deposits or savings in full within 30 days may be declared in default, at which time the FDIC steps in to make good in full on insured deposits or savings accounts up to $10,000.

Since the FS&LIC was created in 1934 only 38 insured savings & loan associations have required assistance. In 28 instances the FS&LIC supplied cash to restore the association to a sound position and in three others it purchased assets. Seven were declared in default and investors were paid in full.

There is, however, no specified time limit in which a savings & loan association must be declared in default after failing to redeem all certificates in full. It may, if unable to pay all withdrawal requests, establish a numerical listing and apply a portion of receipts over an indefinite period of time until all requests are paid in full.

When unable to pay immediately and in full all demands the association is required to make a partial payment to the extent that receipts are available, but not to exceed $1,000, to applicants in the order in which they apply. After each partial payment the applicant goes to the foot of the list and awaits his next turn. This procedure is repeated over and over until the payment is received in full.

Congress should enact legislation to provide for more prompt repayment, or it should require that the savings & loan associations make this waiting period provision perfectly clear to those entrusting their money to them.

Veterans' Corner

In conjunction with the Legion's 39th Birthday this month, one of the old-timers, Richard C. Manning, Executive Secretary of the Maryland Veterans Commission, was honored for his fortieth year as a member of the Legion.

Mr. Manning was presented testimonials, citations and a Gold Lifetime Membership Card by the Walbrook Post 118, the presentations being made by Commander Godman.

The honor bestowed upon Dick Manning was best deserved as his life has been dedicated to veterans and the problems of this part of our population.

Physicians Wanted

R. T. Brown, Acting Manager of the Baltimore Regional Office of the VA, advised today that the office is still seeking a physician to serve as a member of a rating board.

A physician in this position makes critical review of clinical material for the purpose of rating claims for disability compensation and pension. The position is particularly suited for a physician in need of a light work assignment as it is desk work with regular hours from 8:00 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Monday through Friday. Outside work is permitted if it does not conflict with established hours or duties.

For further information, interested doctors should see or telephone Mr. Harry Greenberg, Acting Personnel Officer, Room 1233 Calvert Building, Fayette and St. Paul Streets, Baltimore 2, Md. LExington 9-6670, Extension 368.

Some 1,300,000 G.I. insurance records loaded into trucks to be transferred from Washington, D. C. to Philadelphia could not be moved on schedule due to the snow storm in February.

As a result there will be some delay in answering correspondence and processing insurance claims.

R. T. Brown, Acting Manager of the VA Regional Office in Baltimore, in advising us, explained that the removal of the records is because of the consolidation of the VA Insurance Center in the District of Columbia with the VA District Office in Philadelphia. Mr. Brown asked that policyhold-

Army Lends Assist To Local College As Power Fails

FORT RITCHIE, Md.—Through coordination of emergency plans with Second Army, Fort Ritchie went to the aid of 700 students of Mount St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg when the electric current went off leaving the college with no means of preparing meals.

The call for assistance was received at noon, March 20, and was referred to Capt. Ralph H. Bloch, S-4 officer. Permission was obtained from Second Army to send six Army field ranges and personnel to assist in setting them up. M/Sgt. Howard L. Cruise, SFC Harry J. McGinnis, SP8 Burley B. Shuck, and SP3 Bobby G. Noblin went to Mt. St. Mary's and by 3:00 p. m., the stoves were in place and the men were preparing a meal for the students. At 5:30 p. m. electric current was restored.

ers be patient at this unavoidable delay in answering mail and processing claims and that the VA will catch up with all of the work as rapidly as is humanly possible.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses
Your Pocketbook

BABSON PARK, Mass., Mar. 27—Bread lines which have now sprung up in some of our cities only 6 months after prosperity was booming along last summer suggest that something is pretty radically wrong with people's economics! What, really, is the matter?

How Big Is Your Pocketbook?

For several years, I have been warning that we could not continue to live it up forever without one day paying the piper. I often wonder when I am driving around in an eight-year-old automobile how the average factory worker could afford his one or two shiny new cars.

Strong appetites have been whetted for housing and cars and appliances and luxuries; and consumers have jeopardized the family finances by over-buying. Don't get me wrong. I am all for as many new homes and TV's and cars as the family pocketbook can stand. All these represent a higher standard of living. But I am for these things only after the worker has first set aside a portion of his weekly pay check in some form of liquid savings.

Bread Lines vs. Bank Accounts

When are you spending too much and not saving enough? When you have extended yourself to the point that you don't know where next month's rent is coming from if you lose your job this week, then you have obviously overextended. Unemployment insurance, or tax-cutting, or any form of "pump priming" is like relieving pain with a mustard plaster when a surgical operation is really needed.

From the stories of bread lines in places like Detroit, Michigan; Saco and Biddeford, Maine; Long Island; the West Coast; and a number of other areas where major industries have slowed down, it seems that consumers have greatly overextended themselves. Frankly, this kind of situation scares me to death. I have talked with merchants in some of these areas. One, a typical hardware store operator who gives the outward appearance of being very successful, says that he could be folded up very easily. All that has to happen is for a few of his creditors to press him for the payment of a few bills and he done. The situation in many areas of our country parallels the old game you used to play with dominoes. Remember how you used to stand the dominoes on end next to one another in a long line, then knock the first one down, and away went all? A business de-

Wool Prices Under Federal Program

Most sales of wool or unshorn lambs since April 1, 1957, have earned a payment under the Federal wool incentive program. To collect it, applications should be filed at County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Offices not later than April 30, Julius P. Parran, Maryland ASC Committee Chairman, reminded farmers today.

These applications, Mr. Parran said, are to cover wool and unshorn lambs marketed not later than March 31, 1958. If there is any detail of a sale which is not completed until after that date the transaction goes over into 1958 marketings and will be eligible for payment in 1959.

Wool incentive payments are made under the National Wool Act of 1954. Payments on shorn wool are a direct incentive to incentive to increase production. Payments on unshorn lamb are made to encourage normal mar-pression is like many an illness; only a change in our habits and attitude toward life can permanently cure it.

Who Is To Blame?

Without doubt much of our current recession was precipitated by our labor leaders. I believe in labor unions and once was Assistant to the Secretary of Labor in Washington. We could count on full employment as long as wages and production kept in balance. When, however, wages were dragging behind production, we had severe strikes; but when production did not keep up with wages, we had recessions. Both labor and management will now take a licking until prices again come down and we consumers get a fair deal. This is nature's cure; government plasters will not help the situation.

It is easy to blame our present difficulties on Mr. Eisenhower, or the Republicans, or the Federal Reserve for their attempts to balance our economy. But I personally believe our problem goes back a lot further than the Eisenhower Administration. It started when labor leaders were exempted from the Anti-Trust Laws. Economic trouble was also spawned for us all at the point back in the thirties when we demanded "womb-to-tomb" security. When we shrugged off the responsibility for our own welfare and held the government accountable for our jobs, the education of our children, and what happens to us in our old age, we headed for trouble. We have lost our sense of values and justice. We don't save for that "rainy day" any more; we don't bother about a nest egg for the education of our children; we don't purchase adequate life insurance, but depend instead upon social security. Perhaps this present reversal in business conditions could turn out to be a blessing in disguise for many. Let us all do a little soul searching into the question of how we got into this situation, both individually and collectively.

keting of lambs with the wool on and avoid unusual shearing to get the shorn wool payment. The goal of the program is to increase U. S. production to 300 million pounds of shorn wool—about a one-third increase over production in recent years.

The program for 1958, recently announced, will be similar to that during the past year, with the incentive price continuing at 62 cents per pound. To encourage the best possible job of marketing by wool growers, the farmer earns a higher incentive payment by getting a higher price for his wool.

Both sheep numbers and shorn wool production appear to be on the increase in this country, according to a March report on the wool situation by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The report also states that imports are on the decline, and that the Government has disposed of the last of its wool holdings acquired under the 1952-54 price-support program.

Grange Advocates

New Feed Program

WASHINGTON — A new feed grain program has been recommended to Congress by the National Grange. Objectives of the three - point program are: (a) bring farm and market supplies of feed grains into balance with demand, (b) reduce excessive carry-over supplies to a level providing an adequate reserve, and (c) stabilize feed grain and livestock prices at levels fair to producers and consumers.

Principle provisions for the operation of the program are:

1—Abolish corn acreages allotments as a delimitation of the designation of a commercial corn-producing area.

2—Include all feed grains including wheat and rye grown for feed.

3—Establish a conservation reserve base for each farm producing feed grain. This would include acreage utilized during the past year for farm buildings, roads, woodlands, permanent pasture, hay and rotation forage.

4—Offer producers a three-year contract to shift the larger of (a) 20 acres or (b) 20% of their average feed grain acreage for the past three years, to a Net Increase in their conservation base.

5—As an incentive for participation, the Department of Agriculture would be authorized to: (a) Give cooperating farmers a negotiable draft on CCC stocks equal to 50% of the normal production of feed grains from acres added to the conservation base.

(b) Make annual conservation payments on the feed grain acreage added to the conservation base. These payments, combined with the "in-kind" payments from CCC stocks should bring the net income from the contract land to the approximate level of that kept in production.

(c) Provide feed grain support at 80% of parity on 85% of the normal production established in the preceding three years. There would be no feed grain support for non-cooperators.

The Grange program differs only slightly from one proposed by the National Conference of Commodity Organizations. Representatives of the two groups are now endeavoring to reconcile these slight differences and to develop a bill to be offered with their joint support.

Nature Film Series

At County Museum

The spring nature series of movies for boys and girls at the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts, Hagerstown is now in full swing. At the Saturday morning program this Saturday, March 29th they will see films entitled Animals in Spring, and Water Birds. This last is especially appropriate since the Museum is situated on a lake where many water fowl are at home.

The young people enjoy a period of free expression following the movies, having an opportunity to select from a number of different kinds of art materials.

Saturday morning programs at the Museum in City Park, Hagerstown are held from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and are free to children of school age.

County Jail
Is Given Good

Operating Report

The 31st report of the inspection of the county jails of Maryland, just released, again gives the Frederick county jail a virtual clean bill of health.

Jail Inspector Joe B. Dellinger repeats a recommendation made in 1956—that the jail should be under the direct management of a warden appointed by the County Commissioners. That would allow the Sheriff to carry on full time peace officer duties, he says.

Dellinger says the jail, renovated in 1950, has now become one of the more modern plants in the State. He asserts that it is maintained in a clean and sanitary manner though there has been some recent attention given to the kitchen which is presently under the supervision of the County Commissioners.

"The inspector made at least four inspection tours of the kitchen during the year and has met with the County Commissioners upon one occasion to discuss structural changes within the kitchen to make it possible for cleaner housekeeping," the report said.
"Relocation of the stoves, new flooring and private quarters for the cook are seriously being considered by the County Commissioners to bring this kitchen up to standard. The cook has accepted suggestions and it is expected that the aforementioned changes will be in effect by the time of the next annual inspection."

Dellinger's recommendations included placing the supervision of the full time cook under the warden or Sheriff so that the total management of the jail by one person is possible. He said a good deal of attention has been given to the kitchen which seems to need constant surveillance since it is in the older part of the jail and requires continued scrubbing and cleaning.

He said the commissioners have cooperated very well with the inspector in bringing about the needed improvements and the cook also seems willing to comply.

In a general statement on the condition of the jails, Dellinger said he had become quite concerned about the detention and handling of juveniles and females and the use, or lack of use, of proper matron service. But there is no intimation that the inspector includes the Frederick county jail

God's free gift is the Life of the Ages, bestowed upon us in Christ Jesus our Lord.—
(Acts 6, 23.)

As He promised in the days
when He walked among men, Christ Jesus is with us today when we open our hearts to Him in faith and devotion, when we love Him as He loved us, sacrificing our self-will and self-indulgence as tiny tokens of the sacrifice He made for us on the Cross.

in his statement. He said there are adequate quarters for juveniles here, segregation is possible and there is no need for contact with the other adult offenders. Matron service is available.

He said the Sheriff employs every means at his command to keep the prisoners employed, either by jail maintenance or at the Court House, the State Police barracks, with the city police and with the County Health Department. Six days per month are allowed off of sentence time for men who are working.

There were 36 prisoners in jail when he inspected it including two 21 years of age or less, and he said the jail had an average daily population of 37 during the calendar year 1956. There were no complaints from the prisoners about the food, either quantity or quality, he added. There were four assistant jail officers under the Sheriff when he made his inspection working various shifts.

Civil Defense
Recommends
Television Show

The office of the Frederick County Civil Defense wishes to call to the attention of all Frederick County citizens the CBS television show "See It Now," to be presented Sunday, March 30, under the title "Atomic Time Table II: Fallout."

The show primarily balances the peaceful benefits against the hazards of the atom, and the pros of the controversy over whether atomic tests threaten civilization.

Dr. Willard F. Libby of the Atomic Energy Commission, pinpoints the hazards of fallout from a nuclear attack, the necessity for widespread information on how to meet them, and explains the FCDA-AEC relationship in working on this problem.

A surprisingly wide range of peaceful uses is shown, CBS says, in reporting that four reporter-cameramen teams spent seven months in various parts of the world to obtain this story.

The Income Tax
And Your Car

By Jeanne Smith,
Dodge Safety Consultant

WHEN YOU'RE FIGURING your income tax this month, remember that certain automobile operating expenses are deductible.

Here's a summary of such deductions for both the housewife who will be helping her husband burn
the midnight
oil, and for career women
who will be computing their own taxes.

Salesmen and women, and others who use their cars exclusively for business, may deduct the full cost of upkeep, including gasoline, oil, repairs, washes, garage rent, insurance and depreciation.

If the car is used for both work and pleasure, only the percentage of business use may be claimed. Figure this percentage by estimating the miles used for business and dividing by the total miles driven in 1957.
Remember, however, that expenses of driving a car to and from work are not deductible.
Some expenses incurred in operating an automobile for personal use also are deductible. (But be careful not to duplicate amounts claimed as business expenses.) If you plan to itemize your deductions on the long form,
you may claim:

1. License tags and annual car registration fees.
2. State gasoline taxes. Estimate the total number of miles driven last year, divide by your car's average mileage per gallon, then multiply this figure by state tax per gallon.
3. State or local taxes on the total price of a car purchased in 1957.
4. Interest on automobile loans. If you are financing your car on the installment plan, you may deduct the interest on your contract.
5. Any casualty or theft loss not compensated for by insurance, and not caused by your willful negligence. Damage to your car from fire, lightning, storms, hail or flood also is deductible.

I urge all to remember the commendable work performed by this group and to donate generously. Their investment in this type of equipment came in mighty handy and proved to us all once again that "they are on the ball."

Pineapple Cheese Buffet Mold

Refreshing Pineapple In A Creamy, Cool Gelatin

Pineapple and cheese have always been a popular combination either as dessert or salad. Here they are together in a delicious mold which will add elegance to buffets or play a leading role at a party luncheon.

Pleasing color contrasts are introduced with a garnish of pineapple slices, crabapples and grapefruit sections.

Pineapple Cheese Buffet Mold

2 cups small-curd cottage cheese
1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1 1/2 cups drained pineapple tidbits
3/4 cup chopped salted mixed nuts

Mash cheeses together with fork until smooth. Soften gelatin in cold water in a small measuring cup. Set cup in hot water until gelatin melts. Stir into cheese. Add pineapple, salted nuts and chives. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Put in oiled 6-cup mold. Chill at least 4 to 6 hours (this is a soft mixture and will not become hard like a regular gelatin mold). Unmold on large salad plate and surround with salad greens and chilled fruits. If dressing is desired, thin mayonnaise with a little pineapple syrup to serve with it. Serves at least 8.

Our Sensitive Skin

The skin is not only one of the body's largest organs, but it is also one of the least appreciated. We notice it only when it is dirty or diseased, when it hurts or itches. Yet the skin is the envelope which protects the whole of man's delicately balanced machinery.

The skin is so sensitive to outside influences because it must function as "air conditioner" for the body. The pores which play such a vital role in maintaining or reducing body heat also act to admit all kinds of particles to contact with the delicately balanced sweat glands, hair follicles and other parts of the apparatus. Goose pimples, for instance, are simply a sign that the skin is tightening to keep blood away from the body surface and thus prevent it from radiating heat to the outside world. This acts to keep us warm in cold weather.

Because the skin is so sensitive, it is particularly subject to irritation, infection, and inflammation. Fortunately, however, researchers have provided the skin specialist with a number of medicines which act to relieve skin troubles in different ways. For instance, creams derived from coal tar have long been known to be powerful remedies for such skin conditions as eczema, allergic rashes, and scalp diseases. But the tar material is so strong a stimulant to skin that in serious conditions where the skin is severely irritated, red and weepy, tar sometimes makes matters worse.

With the development of the new hormones, a way out of the dilemma was opened. Recently two dermatologists from Cincinnati reported they had tested a combination of coal tar and the hormone hydrocortisone in treatment of a wide variety of acute skin rashes. They used the new medication, called Tarcortin, in 367 cases of hard-to-treat dermatoses. Tarcortin, they said, scored 75 to 100 per cent success against eleven different types of skin conditions in all but a handful of the 367 patients.

The doctors stated that they got their good results because the hydrocortisone reduced the inflammation immediately, allowing the use of coal tar without fear of aggravating the rash. The combination, they reported, was more effective than either the coal tar or the hormone alone.

Skin diseases against which the combination was effective include eczemas of the hands and scalp, where itching and scaling is a major problem, infant eczema, and other skin rashes including those caused by allergy

The brothers, assigned to Company D of the division's 38th Infantry, entered the Army in September 1957 and completed basic training at Fort Benning.
