BY ABIGAIL

Well the big sesquicentennial year at Mt. St. Mary's College has terminated, and what a climax to such a year of bustling activity, to have the Chief Executive of the U. S. as the honored guest. Jack Dillon, the Mount public relations manager, had the agenda of the President mapped out almost to the split second and the whole program Monday went off precision-like. Guests were seated 10 minutes prior to the arrival of the President who drove over from his Gettysburg farm and the academic procession had ended and all distinguished guests had been seated on the stage when Ike arrived just a few minutes before 11 a. m., as scheduled. He was hustled into the gym, escorted by the Marine Color Guard and a number of secret service men, and of course, M a m i e. Thunderous applause greeted the President and Mrs. Eisenhower as they approached the stage and the program immediately got under way.

I thought the kindness of the college chef, Frank Ligarano, was unabashed when he permitted his kitchen help to walk down to the gym to see Ike as he exited from his car. To the surprise of all Ike turned and greeted the kitchen help and shook their hands, just grinning all the time, then turning quickly he darted into the gym for the commencement activities. It is a well known fact that the Chief Executive has a feeling for the little fellow and Monday's exhibition only confirmed this conviction and reputation that he has a kind heart. Remember several years ago when Ike was traveling the Old Frederick Road and he pulled a local man out of a ditch when his car became stuck?

The President remarked he was glad to be present at the Mount and said he had often passed by the college and wondered about the personnel and that now that he had received degree from there he felt more welcome and probably would stop in more often. Needless to say he'll always be welcome after Monday. I am not aware of just who was responsible for the intelligent planning of the convocation, the commencement, fine hospitality and hundreds of other details, but I would like at this time, to express profound appreciation to Msgr. William F. Culhane and other college officials for their excellent hospitality during the affair and also for the many invitations they extended to Emmitsburg citizens, of all religious denominations, to be present at the activities. I am certain that a greater bond of friendship and appreciation of the college, has been created since the past weekend. We are now more than ever before, aware of the importance of both our excellent colleges. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, president of the college, has been responsible for perhaps the biggest year in the institution's history and his achievement of being able to persuade the President to come here was unquestionably the most notable during his, or any other president's tenure of office at the college. Since Msgr. Sheridan took over the reins several decades ago the college has made most of its progress, both financially and educationally. I consider it both an honor and a privilege to have been an invited guest at the several convocations and commencement during the college's great sesquicentennial year. Many thanks.

Father Shaum, in charge of the Glee Club, surprised Ike by singing two of the President's favorite melodies, for which he later thanked him.

Another improvement in traffic safety is about to take place within the corporate limits of the town. Father Twomey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, I am told, has consented to have dismantled the old brick wall surrounding the rectory grounds adjacent to Route 15. The intersection there is a distinct menace to traffic and the wall added to the treachery of the crossing onto the heavily traveled route from DePaul St. The wall will disappear in the near future and Father Twomey is to be commended for his splendid cooperation in consenting to have the impediment removed.

College Bares Sesquicentennial Plans

Plans for the commemoration of the Sesquicentennial observance of Saint Joseph College and the founding of the North American Community of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, have been announced by Sister Hilda Gleason, president of Saint Joseph College, and councillor of the sisterhood.

The sesquicentennial Planning Committee, Sister Hilda said, has decided on five major events for the year-long observance, beginning on March 14, 1959 with an academic convocation. At that time, Sister Hilda continued, the Saint Louise de Marillac medal will be presented to an outstanding Catholic woman in the Diocese of Baltimore. This person will be chosen by His Excellency, The Most Reverend Francis P. Keough, D.D., Archbishop of Baltimore. The Saint Louise de Marillac medal has been struck in honor of the co-foundress of the Daughters of Charity of Saint Vincent de Paul. This medal will be given for outstanding personal sacrifice on behalf of the neighbor.

Featuring in the plans, Sister said, the Alumnae will gather for a reunion that has been scheduled for the last weekend in April to commemorate the founding of the school. In addition to Saint Joseph's alumnae, the alumnae of Daughters of Charity nursing schools and high schools will join in this event. An original pageant is currently being written by the students of the College for presentation at that event, Sister said.

Sister Hilda pointed out that the entire Commencement Week of the Sesquicentennial year will be focused on the observance, including Baccalaureate address, Honors Convocation, and Commencement Exercises.

On July 31, an international observance will be held in conjunction with the tercentenary celebration of the deaths of St. Vincent de Paul and St. Louise de Marillac, co-founders of the Daughters of Saint Vincent de Paul. At this time they will gather at Emmitsburg groups of guests made up of the friends and benefactors of the Community, including the hierarchy, clergy, and laity. It was three hundred years ago that the Daughters of Charity were founded by Saint Vincent de Paul and Saint Louise de Marillac. The North American Sisters of Charity founded by Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton became affiliated with the international group about 1850.

The fifth and final event will be Valley Home Weekend in October 1959 when the parents of the students and other non-alumnae whose interest is principally in the college will be invited to share in the celebration. The student pageant will be presented and the High Mass and sermon on Sunday will center again on the Sesquicentennial commemoration.

Sister Hilda went on to explain that these are the major events, and that other activities will take place with the students and faculty of Saint Joseph College participating. The Daughters of Charity in this country were founded in 1809 by Mother Seton in Emmitsburg, Maryland, where the school is now located.

Legion Ball Team Begins Regular Schedule Monday

The first game of the season will be played next Monday evening by two teams of the recently-organized American Legion Junior League. A schedule of 12 games per team has been drawn up and Monday night C and A teams will engage each other while Wednesday evening B team will meet D team. Game time each evening has been set at 6:15 and all contests will be staged on Community Field.

It is hoped that each team will be made permanent after this week and names will be assigned each club. The age limits for boys to play in this league is from 13 to 17, providing the boy will not be 17 before August 1.

President Addresses 110 Graduates At Mount St. Mary's College Commencement

The President is pictured above as he delivered the address to the graduating class of Mount St. Mary's College last Monday morning. An estimated 4000 friends and guests witnessed the colorful commencement at the nation's second oldest Catholic college.

The most memorable commencement in the century and a half old history of Mount St. Mary's College was climaxed when President Dwight D. Eisenhower was presented an honorary doctor of laws degree and delivered the commencement address to the graduates Monday morning, June 2, before a capacity crowd in Memorial Gymnasium on the college campus.

It is estimated that nearly 4000 jammed the gym to hear the Chief Executive deliver the address during which he highly complimented the valedictorian, Charles Hodges, when he remarked: "That was the best valedictory address I have ever heard." The academic procession before the arrival of the President who drove over by automobile from Gettysburg, was studded with church dignitaries and educators including Archbishop Francis P. Keough, Baltimore, who presided over the commencement exercises. The procession wound its way through the thousands who awaited outside the gymnasium to witness the colorful spectacle, and came to an end when all were seated on the stage awaiting the arrival of Mr. Eisenhower.

The Chief Executive's extemporaneous speech reminded the graduates there are "more crusades to be waged than ever before in our history."

The President emphasized he did not intend to offer the graduates advice. Even if he had intended to do so, the Chief Executive assured them, he would have changed his mind after hearing the address of the youthful valedictorian. For individual inspiration, the President recommended the youth's speech to those who were graduating with him.

Although, as he explained, he did not intend to offer advice to the graduates, the President went on to outline the many heights waiting to be scaled and vital national problems waiting to be solved.

Among the major problems in the nation Mr. Eisenhower said, were those of slum clearance, solution of racial problems and reduction of juvenile delinquency.

"But beyond the crusades that will have to be waged for many long years before these problems are solved," he told his audience, "is the global struggle." This, of course, has at its core the struggle between atheistic communism and every kind of free government which has its true root in a deeply felt religious state.

The President urged the 110 graduates of the nation's second oldest Catholic college to "think of the mass of awakening people throughout the globe."

Mr. Eisenhower referred to the newly-founded nations, "people who have been denied all the opportunities of you young gentlemen in every kind of economic activity, everything in the way of education and spiritual development."

"They are trying to catch up with the 20th century overnight." The United States cannot enjoy freedom if it denies freedom to someone else, Ike said and therefore it understands its responsibility to "all this great awakening mass of people, to make certain that they do not fall into immense dislocation and strange misunderstandings."

The Chief Executive said that America recognizes the need to help these people. "We have tried to do so," he said. "Much has been done, not always wisely, but always with a good heart, and every person in this room has contributed to that help. We need to do more."

The President said he thinks it is a truism, which most Americans recognize to say: "America can no longer be isolated. It is part of the world. It must behave... in the belief, in the convictions, in the faiths that are America."

As the head of the nation spoke, Mrs. Eisenhower, scarlet-robed members of the college faculty, other church dignitaries and political officials sat behind him in the glare of television lights.

The First Lady was attired in a gray suit with pleaded skirt and white accessories, including a large orchid given her by the senior class of the 150-year-old institution of learning founded in 1808 by Father DuBois.

The President's address at the Mount, second only in age, to Georgetown University, among Catholic colleges, was the first of three commencements he attended in Maryland this week. He was given a standing ovation as he entered the sky blue draped gym and was introduced by Maryland's Governor Theodore R. McKeldin.

President Eisenhower received the only honorary degree of doctor of laws, inscribed in Latin, at the streamlined exercises. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, president of the college, gave the President his degree and a citation which referred to him as a "modern colossus against petty aims and mean ambition."

Ike passed out the diplomas to the graduates and shook their hands after they knelt and kissed the ring of the Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore.

"Ike" the Scholar, Smiles Contentedly

The President beams happily as he passes several members of the graduating class on his way to the stage to deliver the main address and to receive his honorary LL.D. degree from the college. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, president of the college, presented the degree to the President.

Heads District Lions Clubs

Russell H. Marsh, Union Bridge, Md., was elected District Governor of the 39 Lions Clubs in District 22-W at the annual multiple District 22-W convention in Atlantic City, N. J., which closed on May 31. Mr. Marsh succeeds Carl C. Tomas of Frederick, the present officer of the Lions District which comprises Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett and Washington Counties.

Marsh is chief clerk of the Union Bridge plant of the Lehigh Portland Cement Co. He is a former president of the Union Bridge Lions Club and served the past year as a deputy District Governor.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wivell and sons, Donnie and Gary, Spring Grove, Pa., spent Friday and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Wivell and family.

Sewer Project Bond Issue In Offing

Final plans for the adoption of an ordinance permitting the town to borrow sufficient money to complete its planned sewerage extension project were revealed at the regular monthly meeting of the Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg held Monday night in the town office. Chairman of the Board of Commissioners Charles R. Fuss presided at the meeting and members of the bonding agency of A. B. Colmus & Son were present as well as Mr. Roy Shives of the U. S. Government who explained the requirements of the Federal and State grants. Present also was the town attorney, Edward D. Storm.

Mayor Clarence G. Frailey disclosed the loan would total $240,000 and would be repaid over a 30-year period by floating a local bond issue. The Town Fathers have prepared an ordinance authorizing the bond issue which is published elsewhere in this issue of the Emmitsburg Chronicle.

The meeting was an organizational one being the first since the recent election. Mayor Frailey re-appointed Miss Louise Sebald as town clerk and created a new position of town treasurer which also will be filled by Miss Sebald. Salary of the clerk was set at $200 per year while that of the treasurer will be $800. Police Chief Robert L. Koontz also was re-appointed by the Mayor and will receive a salary of $5200. In another appointment Charles D. Gillelan was reappointed as tax collector at a salary of $600 per annum. The meeting was five-hours in length and was devoted mainly to the discussion of the proposed bond issue ordinance.

The new ordinance would authorize the Town Fathers to borrow $240,000 to complete the new sewerage extension and the bonds would be retired within 30 years. In all 240 bonds will be sold at a par value of $1000 each, and they will be payable at The Farmers State Bank, Emmitsburg.

Should the bond issue be authorized, contracts for the construction of the lines, pumping station and filtration plant will be let and actual construction can be started within 40 days, or sometime in July. It is estimated that the project will take almost a year to complete. The Town Council announced that new streetlights had been installed in the Emmit Gardens area this week. Present also at the meeting was R. Brooke Maxwell, the engineer who surveyed the town for the new system and who will act as chief engineer on the project.

Mother Seton School Exercises Today

Commencement exercises of Mother Seton School will be held today. Sister Mary Frances, principal, announces 30 students will receive their 8th grade diplomas, presented by Rev. Father Vincent J. Tomalski and Rev. Fr. Vincent G. Heary.

Father Tomalski will deliver the address to the graduates and the farewell address will be given by Anthony David Topper.

Following the exercises a buffet supper for the graduates and their parents will be served. Mrs. Louis F. Rosensteel will act as piano accompanist during the exercises.

Receiving diplomas will be the following: Catherine Gertrude Althoff, Ann Elizabeth Baitzell, Mary Elizabeth Barbe, Jean Darlene Fitz, Regina Irene Green, Rebecca Marie Haley, Jean Marie Herring, Holly Marie Jones, V. Wayne Joy, Thomas V. Kolb, Elizabeth Louise Little, Mary Regina Little, Mary Frances Marshall, Larry E. Messner, Doris M. Michael, Pamela Ann Miller, Edward J. Ridenour, Donald F. Rohrbaugh, Gertrude L. Rosensteel, Rebecca Ann Sanders, Gwendolyn Margaret Shorb, Thorton Patrick Shriver, Gay Thomas Scilla, Anthony David Topper, Dianna Jane Topper, Judy Ann Topper, John Ignatius Troxell, Mary Teresa Weedon, Linda Arlene Williams and Mary Genevieve Wivell.

FTC and Mrs. Herbert Glass and children, Mikey and Debbie, have returned to their home in Philadelphia, after spending the Memorial Day holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Glass, near town, and Mrs. Dorothy Trimmer, Gettysburg. Other guests at the Glass home were: Mr. and Mrs. William Sheeley and children, Ronnie and Shirley and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Glass and children, Vickie and Leonard of Taneytown.

 Three Cities Of Southern France
 Our second port of call after a night's travel from Barcelona was Marseilles, on the south-east coast of France, her second city in population and chief seaport, and also distinguished for her claim as the oldest town in Western Europe according to definitely established fact. But I am not including Marseilles in the three cities to be here reported on, as its day to be visited came on the return-stop three weeks later, and it was now merely the place from which we set out on our next excursion—to three much smaller but also very old and historic places in that famous area between the Rhone River and Italy known from the time of the Roman occupation as Provence (from the term 'Provincia Romana' then applied to it). These were Arles, Avignon, and Aix.

our guide on the tour, whose personality made her outstanding in the group of interesting different tour-leaders, who played a quite important part in our "Program of Sightseeing Excursions."
 "You see," said Robbie soberly, after her brief word of introduction and welcome to still another party of tourists, "we French people are very logical. Passengers are forbidden to smoke in buses ("Defense de Fumer"), but there is an ash-holder in every seat." Then as we got beyond the bustle of city traffic there was relaxed comment that gave meaning and interest to the scene around us: the fine canal connecting Marseilles with the Rhone, and the tunnel where it went underground; the wind-breaks of bamboo and cypress, grown in the locality, to protect fields from the strong cold wind, the mistral, that blows over the valley from fall till spring; olive trees with roots planted when the Greeks first came 2500 years ago; a small fishing village where fishing is no longer possible on account of contamination of the water from a new oil refinery (also responsible for the prosperous-and-incongruous-looking village for refinery officials); piles of stones still left in some fields from the many more which the Germans had forced French prisoners to collect to prevent the landing of Allied planes; and more that cannot now be mentioned.

And so with a variety of small additions to our store of mental pictures and facts and impressions we presently concluded our fifty-some-mile drive to Arles, and were introduced to this once very famous and important city in a melancholy but not inappropriate way, i.e., a brief visit to the forlorn remains of what is said by authorities to be one of the most famous cemeteries of the Middle Ages and before that a Roman burial-ground. Now one tiny dusty chapel at the entrance, some faded-looking cypress trees, and a short double row of plain stone sarcophagi, a few with unintelligible inscriptions, are all that remain of the place that for a thousand years (from the 4th to the 14th century) had a truly remarkable prestige, was filled with richly carved tombs, many of eminent persons whose bodies were brought from long distances, and contained as many as nineteen chapels. But gradually the prestige of the Aliscamps (an odd word derived from the French for Elysian Fields) declined, and the most beautiful sarcophagi were carried off, given away, and finally, as late as the 18th century, given shelter in the churches of the city, and still later in the pagan and then the Christian section of the chief museum.

I have given these details about a one-time famous spot in Arles which initiated our sightseeing there because its history illustrates in a general way the interestingly varied if somewhat depressing history of Arles itself and its historical monuments. The former I cannot go into here, and merely mention that the earliest of the monuments date from the period of Arles' greatest prosperity and prestige following the 1st century B.C. when it became a Roman city showing influences of the Greek settlement that preceded it and was filled with imposing and beautiful buildings appropriate for a city that came to be known as "Little Rome of the Gauls"; and that the later antiquities belong to the medieval period when the Christian-inspired civilization produced an altogether different kind of architecture and other art-forms connected mainly with church and related building. The history of both these groups of historically and often intrinsically very valuable things involves not only the usual ravages of natural forces but also the indifference or the misplaced zeal of human beings, continued on down to the present but along with a better attitude towards and wiser management of such treasures.

It may be rightly inferred that our actual sightseeing in Arles was a bit confusing to me but certain things remain clearly in memory besides the forlorn cemetery on its outskirts; among them two partly reconstructed Roman buildings, the huge amphitheatre for gladiatorial shows where now in summer theatrical performances and a less harrowing kind of bullfight than the Spanish are held, and the Graeco-Roman theatre from which centuries ago all the lovely decoration of statues, carvings, etc. was taken and disfigured and thrown into a piece of wasteland, from which, centuries later, fragments now in the museums have been recovered. And our visit concluded, more cheerfully than it began, on the small square of the Place du Forum. Here the old-fashioned Hotel du Nord-Pinus is located, where we had the refreshment of an appetizing meal (that included rice grown in the nearby marshes) and the attractive sight of the hotel proprietress dressed in the Arlesian costume of an earlier day—full black silk skirt and tight bodice, beautiful white lace fichu, and tiny black velvet and lace head-dress.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

WASHINGTON—The Judiciary Committee, of which I am a member, has favorably reported a bill (H.R. 3) designed to clarify the meaning of the provision of Article 6 of the Constitution which establishes the supremacy of Federal over State law. This bill is on which I commented last week. The Committee adopted my amendment.

 The bill as amended provides that where there is a conflict between a Federal and a State law so that the two cannot stand together, the Federal law would prevail. But if the Federal and State laws do not conflict and can stand together and be mutually enforceable and administered, the State law will not be unenforceable unless there is a specific provision to that effect in the Federal law.
 This bill has the support of the American Bar Association and the National Association of States Attorneys Generals. There has been great concern for some time that Federal law is encroaching on State law to a degree greater than is necessary for the orderly processes of government. As a matter of fact, many authorities feel that our Federal system of sovereign states itself is endangered by such encroachment. The amended bill received overwhelming support of the Judiciary Committee.
 I am happy to report that promptly after our hearing on May 27 before the House Public Works Committee approval was given to my bill providing for additional parklands for Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties under the Capper-Cramton Act.
 With the approval of the postal pay and rate increase bill by the President last week, we can be reasonably certain that the pay increase bill for classified employees will be passed and the bill signed by the President.

Stop On A Dime? Can't Be Done!
 By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant
 NEXT TIME you hear someone brag that he can stop a car "on a dime," stop him with the facts, ma'am.
 The reaction time of an alert, healthy motorist is three-fourths of a second. So a driver who is clipping along at 60 miles per hour will use up 66 feet before he even touches the brake pedal! To be more emphatic, if a car 55 feet ahead suddenly stops, he'll hit it before he hits the brakes!
 The National Conference on Stopping Distances has some more interesting facts for you to pass on. After the driver traveling at 60 miles per hour does apply the brakes, it will take him 300 more feet before he can stop—providing, of course, there's nothing in his path!
 And that figure is for dry pavement. On wet pavement, the stopping distance at 60 mph shoots up to 541 feet, and, on ice, it will take a monumental 1764 feet to stop the car . . . or more than one-quarter of a mile!
 Stop on a dime? Even at a conservative 20 miles per hour, the average stopping distance on dry concrete is 47 feet, on gravel 70 feet, on wet pavement 78 feet, and on ice, 235 feet!
 By using common sense about driving speed, and by following at a safe distance, most motorists can steer clear of accidents. They can stop in time when an emergency occurs. But they can't stop on a dime!
 Police and safety officials have come up with the "one to ten" rule: on dry pavement, keep one full car length between you and the car ahead for every ten miles per hour of speed. If driving conditions are bad, better allow two, three or four car lengths.

The Upper Room THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Philippians 2:5-12. He was named Jesus, Luke 2:21. Moffatt). Isaac was a Chippewa Indian. He got into trouble with the law. As a result, he came into my custody for eight months. Isaac knew only four words of English; namely, wife, son, home and Jesus—the latter learned from his Chippewa prayer book. While with me, he was a thousand miles from his home. Since there was no one with whom he could speak his language, Isaac became depressed. Meantime, I used my best efforts to get him a parole. At last his release was authorized. How to give him the good news

UNKNOWN SOLDIER SELECTED

On this past Memorial Day, two deceased servicemen, one who was killed in World War II and one who lost his life in the Korean Conflict, were placed in new marble crypts alongside the Unknown Soldier of World War I in the Arlington National Cemetery. The caskets containing the two heroes of World War II and the Korean Conflict were lying in state in the Capitol of the United States from May 28th until 11:30 on May 30th.

The American Legion, Department of Maryland, headed by their State Commander, John W. Sloan, along with Maryland Senators and Congressmen and Legion Color Guards from Prince Georges County, conducted a short Memorial Service for the two unknown heroes in the rotunda of the Capitol at 9:00 a. m. on the 30th. Commander Sloan announced that "The American Legion members assembled together at the Nation's Capitol to pay their respects in behalf of the citizens of Maryland to the hallowed memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice." Throughout the State of Maryland, The American Legion and other veterans groups held services for their deceased members. Some 75,000 graves of veterans were decorated with an American Flag and the traditional Memorial Day Poppy. At the Baltimore National Cemetery the Legion conducted services at 10:30 a. m. and shortly after 11:00 the Civil Air Patrol flew over the graves and dropped 5,000 Poppies donated by the Legion. The oldest Memorial Day service conducted throughout our nation is held on the Antietam battle grounds. Since the Civil War, the ladies living in that Western Maryland County have placed wild flowers on the graves of soldiers who died in battle. More recently, The American Legion Post in Sharpsburg has handled the Memorial Day Services. Plans for the celebration are begun by the men and women of the Antietam Post some six months prior to each year's Memorial Day service. The ladies in this small community scour the countryside collecting wild flowers two or three days prior to Memorial Day; the flowers are flown over the Cemetery and dropped on the graves from two planes chartered by the Legion. If you have trouble with blistering or peeling, it's doubtless the result of moisture being absorbed into butt ends of the blinds at the top. To prevent this rather common trouble, cap the exposed butt ends with sheet aluminum before repainting. High quality trim and shutter paint is highly fade and mildew resistant. WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Often in Washington there is talk of lobbyists. Presumably, because he is constantly appearing before Congressional committees to voice the majority opinion of the nation's independent businessmen who have expressed themselves through the National Federation of Independent Business, George Burger, vice president in charge of the Washington office, is also a lobbyist. But the greatest lobbying in Washington today seems to be behind the scenes on behalf of somewhere in the neighborhood of 2 1/2 million Federal employees. In the past few years federal employees have come a long way in welding into a cohesive unit. They operate their own credit unions; discount houses. And they seem to work together in many other ways. Thus, a threat to cut any department's budget, is seemingly a threat to all. It is significant that no sooner had Russia launched a Sputnik, than right out of Washington came big screams about how government would have to spend more and more money. And State Dept. seeking more billions for its foreign give away programs, claims if U. S. doesn't help needy nations, Russia will. But question comes up . . . Russia will help with what? The other day in Congress Rep. Frances Bolton of Ohio took first step in exploding this myth with a report of the National Bureau of Economic Research on Russian industrial progress vs. U. S. progress in the period from 1913 until the present. © National Federation of Independent Business

Despite all the ballyhoo both from Moscow and the U. S. State Dept. Russia is from 25 to 100 years behind the U. S. in per capita production in basic industries. For example, in rolled steel Russia was 24 years behind the U. S. in 1913, is now 52 years behind. In cotton and wool fabrics she was 43 years behind the U. S. in 1913, is now 58 years behind. In boots and shoes she was behind U. S. by 23 years in 1913, is now 65 years behind. Thus, go the figures presented by Rep. Bolton. Bearing in mind that despite the higher level of U. S. production, and a lower population than Russia's, it much more than 10% of the American production were shipped out of the country, there would be shortages at home. Thus, Russian threats to step in and supply the peoples of various nations with goods unless the U. S. supplies them is perhaps the greatest poker bluff of all times, because Russia cannot supply her own needs, let alone taking on anybody else. Yet, because Russia makes spurious promises which she cannot make good on, the State Dept. wants to grind American small business into the dust with oppressive taxation. It does not seem possible, according to observers in Washington, that these facts are unknown to officials. Therefore, it must get down to a matter of job protection. Administration of foreign give ways has created many jobs . . . some quite plushy. And with this new found feeling that a threat to any federal employee is a threat to all, there has been a lot of closing of ranks to fight the good fight for foreign give ways to keep more people on the payroll.

To Strengthen America's Defense

For several years I have urged on every appropriate occasion that our national defense be more closely organized and more effectively controlled in order to save manpower, American dollars, and to meet the demands of the atomic age.

Following are paragraphs from a recent speech by Secretary McElroy in which he defines the purposes to be accomplished by this reorganization. His arguments are given to the readers of this column in his own words follows:

"The proposed changes would clear command channels so that orders will proceed directly to unified commands from the Commander-in-Chief and the Secretary of Defense through the Joint Chiefs of Staff which would add an operations section for this purpose. As we go into a period when a potential enemy may have operational long range missiles in substantial quantities, our reaction time must be measured in minutes instead of hours.

"I am informed that in every war this nation has fought in the last century, we have had to change our military organization after war has started. We no longer have time in which to change command lines or to shift from a peacetime to a wartime organization. Any such shift must be made now. Under the new recommendation, orders would go from the President as Commander-in-Chief to the Secretary of Defense through the Joint Chiefs of Staff to the unified command without the intermediate step which now interposes one of the departments as executive agent between the Commander-in-Chief and the Unified Commander.

"The organization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff will be strengthened to provide the President and the Secretary of Defense with the professional assistance they must have for strategic planning and for the operational direction of our combat commands. Cutting Through Red Tape "The present Joint Staff is handicapped by a rather cumbersome committee system which acts on documents before they are reviewed by the Joint Chiefs themselves. This committee system is being eliminated and an integrated Operations Division will be added to the Joint Staff to provide the operational assistance necessary for the strategic direction of the unified commands. The important matters now constantly requiring the attention of the members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff demand so much of their time that they must be permitted to delegate major portions of their service responsibilities to their Vice Chiefs. By this action the Chiefs can give the majority of their time to their responsibilities as Joint Chiefs of Staff, which would constitute their principal function.

"The three military departments would of course be continued as the major operating divisions within the Department of Defense to perform the vast and important management, budgeting, research, personnel administration, training and logistic functions of the Department. Their responsibility would encompass many and complex activities that support the unified commands.

Clearly Defined Authority "The proposed reorganization would also make clearer the authority of the Secretary of Defense. The National Security Act gives the Secretary 'direction, authority and control' over his entire department. But at the same time this law provides that the military departments are to be 'separately administered' by their respective secretaries. The President has recommended eliminating the provisions prescribing separate administrations of the military departments as a means of reducing needless argument which adds to the difficulty of administering the department."

Here are some things the proposed reorganization will not do: "It does not set up a single chief of staff; the present Joint Chiefs will continue to serve

by WALDMAN

The art of swimming was first copied from animals and made a sport in the days of Pompeii. To give swimmers more freedom in the water, no clothing was worn.

This healthy pastime did not become popular until the turn of the 19th century in England. Bathers wore fancy swim suits that usually covered their entire bodies.

Today, almost every man, woman and child in the world is a swimmer. They wear swim suits for freedom of movement and style, and for comfort usually find it advisable to have a change from a wet suit to a dry one.

Convert Your Vitamin Jars Into Pretty, Practical Spice Holders

Would you like to add spice to your life? The art of cooking with spices has caught the imagination of the nation's housewives and there's a good reason for it: spice cookery is the easiest way to turn your everyday dishes into mealtime magic.

The spice experts report that there are 50 different spices and herbs available in America's food stores and supermarkets. And with just one-half that number, you can create 17 million flavor combinations.

All you need to join the spice bandwagon is a good sampling of tested spice recipes and a collection of some basic spices. Most spice recipes are simple and easy to follow. With just a bit of extra effort, your cooking experiments can produce results worthy of the most discriminating French chef.

A well-known manufacturer of pharmaceuticals—The Upjohn Company—has just come up with a spice notion that is as sensible and practical as sound nutrition. The starting point is the attractive, old-fashioned apothecary jar in which Upjohn packages its Unicap vitamins. Add a distinctive set of sixteen attractive spice labels, mix well with a brand new booklet of 150 spice recipes—and you're all set to go!

The black-gold-and-white spice labels are specially designed to fit the Unicap jar, which will provide you with a perfect spice container after your family has used up the vitamins.

Your local pharmacist can tell you how to get the set of spice labels and the recipe booklet entitled "How To Use Spices" Happy spice cooking!

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Stocks And The Threat Of A 48-Hour War BABSON PARK, Mass., June 5—I am convinced that international developments and the threat of World War III will have a great influence on our economy during the next few years. Events occurring abroad will be increasingly important factors in determining business, economic, and investment trends here in the United States. Likelihood Of World War III I do not expect a "World War III" in the near future. But the threat of a "48-Hour War" between Russia and the United States is very real. A Korean-type war could also come also at any time. So explosive are international conditions that a 48-Hour War between Russia and the U. S., if it comes, would most likely start from accident or unauthorized shooting. Under such circumstances, it is folly not to be well prepared for any fighting that may occur and for the atomic "fallout" that would accompany it. I predict that a "48-Hour War" with Russia would be fought from atomic submarines and airplanes. If we are to survive it, we must be economically as well as militarily strong.

The "cold war" cannot continue indefinitely. The possibilities in new nuclear weapons make a negotiated "peace" or "arms limitation" probably impracticable. Of course, we could make an agreement with Russia on existing weapons. But could we be sure the Soviets would respect such a pact? And how could we forestall new nuclear developments in and by other nations? I do not believe either Russia or the United States will abandon such research and development work. What Are The Alternatives To A 48-Hour War?

Some observers contend that the present stalemate will resolve itself by Russia becoming more conservative and the U. S. and Great Britain becoming more socialistic. Logically, such a course would result in these three nations federating. It all sounds fantastic to me. If it ever comes, I forecast that such a "federation" is far in the future.

Another alternative to war would be the emergence in Russia of a less ruthless, though probably still leftist, form of government. In my opinion, there is no immediate hope of this happening. Still a further alternative to war would be the appearance of a strong coalition of nations other than Russia and the U. S. as a third formidable world force. Nasser's federation of Arab states is not nearly big enough for such a task, but it is possible Britain, France, and West Germany together might eventually exert a new commanding influence.

Period Of Uncertainty Will Persist

None of the alternatives to World War III or a 48-Hour Russia-U. S. War, or to a continued "cold war," are likely to happen soon. So we must be prepared to make the best of what will be a more or less prolonged period of uncertainty in international affairs. At home, I predict we shall endure more inflation, with the value of the dollar trending steadily, though not rapidly, downward toward 25 cents.

In the light of these conditions, I favor wide diversification in stock market investments at this time. Certain retail chain store securities look good to me due to geographical distribution; but I would hold only two or three of the big transcontinental railroads. Railroads generally are faring poorly and will probably do worse except of course, if war comes.

I expect doubling of electric power output in coming years. But I would not care to invest heavily in public utilities stocks because they could suffer from inflation and/or war.

Bond Outlook Less Favorable

Since the underlying trend is toward more inflation, I do not favor long-term investments in bonds generally. This does not necessarily apply to those U. S. bonds which the government will accept at par value for payment of estate taxes. Of course, I do not mean bonds would not pay off,—but it would be in depreciated currency.

I repeat, the best investment policy today is a wide diversification in common stocks. Some land holdings in America's "Magic Circle" and a reasonable cash reserve are also desirable. The diversification in stocks could, of course, be obtained by purchasing some shares of mutual funds, but I do not advocate this. With mutual funds, your eggs are all in one basket. In a rapidly falling market, you might find it impossible to sell before it was too late. There could be a run on mutual funds as there was on bank deposits in 1933.

Vacation Plans

The seashore or the mountains? A long motor trip or a cottage at the lake? These are the dilemmas facing millions of families across the nation this month. How will your family decide?

The older girls want to go to a resort where unattached men abound. Your swimming camp is interested only in water. The boys have mapped out a 2,000 mile tour of national parks. Little sister gets car sick. Mother would like a vacation from meals and dishes. Who will win?

But wait just a minute. What about Father? Anybody ask what he wants? The youngsters will survive a disappointment, but his vacation could almost be considered a matter of life or death.

Name almost any of the major diseases. Then look at the vital statistics. It's the men in the middle years of life who seem to be hardest hit. Take TB, for example. Almost twice as many men as women have TB, and the proportion of deaths from the disease among men is even higher. Why should this be? We know that a healthy person can usually fight an invasion of tuberculosis germs to a standstill. It looks as if we aren't taking good enough care of Dad's health.

This year why not plan a vacation for the father and breadwinner of the family? What kind of recreation will recreate him? What will give him the kind of rest from the job he needs to build up his health for the year ahead? Ask him what he really wants to do. The shock of being considered won't hurt him.

This year let's invest our vacation in the future of that Very Important Person, Father.

The Class I railroads of the country install something like 25,000,000 crossties each year. The total cost runs to around $10.00 each.

BETTER SCHOOLS AND YOU

by HENRY TOY, Jr., President National Citizens Council for Better Schools

WE NEED MUSICIANS AND DIPLOMATS ALSO

According to the Department of Labor, there are 30,000 ways of making a living in the United States. No one on earth could devise a single course of study that would be the proper preparation for each one of those vocations.

And yet, even in the face of that statistic, there are those who today are trying to do something very like that. State and national spokesmen, as well as community leaders, are advancing crash programs to deal with our shortage of scientists and engineers. "Let every high school student study math and science for four years," they are shouting and they have suggestions for binding laws and regulations to push through these ideas.

Fortunately for America, there are other spokesmen. They admit the technological lead of Russia but their view is a longer one. In the race to the moon, they're saying, let's not forget the things that made us free. Some of these voices bear repeating:

Defense Secretary McElroy, who knows where we are in the technological race with Russia, says this: "Our country will be as great and as strong as the minds and will of the people who live in it, who operate its businesses and its improvements, and whose standard of living is keyed to the kind of education they receive."

Detlev Bronk, president, National Academy of Sciences, appearing before the Senate hearing committee in January, said this: "There is far greater need for an educated people here than in Russia where they are told what to do. . . Our people must have an educated mind to make decisions wisely."

In his Oklahoma City speech, President Eisenhower said this: "We must also have a people who will keep their heads, and, in every field, leaders who can meet intricate human problems with wisdom and courage. In short, we will need not only Einsteins and Steinmetzes, but Washingtons and Emersons."

I remember a couple of years ago, talking with John Hersey, Pulitzer-prize winning novelist. "Certainly we need scientists," he said. "We also need leaders. And we need poets. Who else can speak to us of our needs?"

If our household is like mine, your children are as different as day from night. They have different abilities, different desires, and different contributions to make to the world. What they need is an education that will bring out their full potential, whatever direction that potential may lead. If we force science down the throat of a child who could serve his country better as an historian or a diplomat or a musician or a political leader, we will do him and America irreparable harm.

HOW TO TRUST PEOPLE FOR TEN MILLION DOLLARS

Alexander Lake tells of two men, Paul Klein and John Habine. These two men grew up together and at seventeen joined the same Canadian Army outfit. When they were discharged they bought a little electrical shop.

From the beginning they prayed about this work. It was tough sledding for a while. But one day a Dukhobor farmer ordered a farm light and power plant from them and paid cash. The firm of Klein and Habine was on its way.

During the next two years light and power plants were sold to farmers all over Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Most farmers gave notes payable at harvest time. Harvest was good, and the notes were met promptly.

But the third year was a drought year. The bank had discounted many notes. These had to be made good. It broke Klein and Habine.

They said, "When we asked the banker for a loan to carry us along, he said, 'We can't gamble on another cropless year. But you boys can sue for most of your losses.'" "But," Johnny said, "those farmers can't pay. They've lost their crops. If we sue, they'd have to sell everything they own."

"We want to help those people. They'll pay up when they get a crop. Before we installed those light plants, those farmers lived hard. They had only lamp and lantern light."

The banker turned away. "Well, come and see me when you grow up," he said.

They stood on a street corner for a few minutes. Then Johnny said: "I'm going to the shop to pray. There's nothing to worry about."

Three days later a phone call came from a wholesaler asking Paul and Johnny to come over to his office. When they were seated beside his desk, he began, "I hear you boys told the banker you wouldn't sue the farmers. Right?"

Johnny answered, "Well, we sold the people something to make their lives easier and happier. Do we take it away now? A lawsuit would break most of those farmers, anyway. In some cases, it'd break their hearts, too."

"Do you owe the bank any money?"

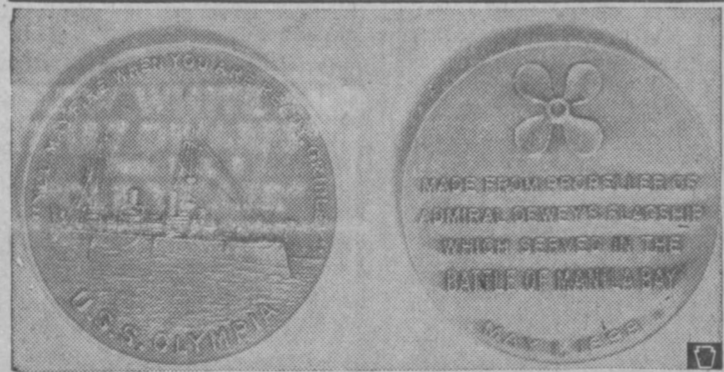

"No, we made those notes good. But we're busted."

"I'm glad you boys aren't going to sue anybody. I'm going to stake you for another year. Those farmers will all pay up some day."

The wholesaler smiled. "I'm a praying man too, you know." Then he added: "I've only one condition to make. After this, when a man's ready to buy a plant, tell him to mail you his notes after he's prayed about the deal himself."

And so this new arrangement was started. Each customer had to promise to pray before credit was given to him. During the last twenty years, Paul Klein and John Habine have sold more than ten million dollars' worth of goods on credit—and have never lost a dime. Do they believe in prayer? I'll say they do.

Souvenir Coins From Propeller Of Historic Cruiser "Olympia" To Pay For Conversion As Shrine

Souvenir coins, made from the melted down propeller of the historic cruiser OLYMPIA Admiral Dewey's flagship at the Battle of Manila Bay, on May 1, 1898 now are available to the public, Francis D. Pastorius, president of the Cruiser Olympia Association, Inc. announced today.

A coin or coins will be distributed to all persons who contribute $1.00 or any multiple thereof, to the Association to help to pay for repairs to the vessel necessary to make her presentable for exhibition as a national shrine. The repairs, estimated to cost $158,000, are underway at the yard of the Keystone Drydock and Ship Repair Company, Philadelphia.

After completion of the repairs, the vessel will be towed to a site of the Delaware River between Market and Chestnut Streets in historic old Philadelphia where she will be landlocked and placed on public exhibition a few blocks from Independence Hall. Part of the vessel will be used to house a Marine Museum. Philadelphia is one of the few ports which does not at present have such a museum.

"It is fitting that the propeller of this gallant old ship should provide the means of helping to rescue her from the scrap heap and preserve her for future generations as a symbol of one of our nation's greatest and most meaningful naval victories," Pastorius said. "I hope that the public will respond to our appeal and contribute to the fund to pay for repairs to the vessel. In the years to come, I am confident the coins will have a historical value, and certainly, for most Americans they will have a sentimental and patriotic value."

The Olympia has floated, in such poor condition that public visiting was prohibited, in a back channel of the Philadelphia Naval Base since her last voyage in 1921. On that occasion she carried home from France, for burial at Arlington Cemetery, Virginia, the body of America's "Unknown Soldier" of World War I.

The Keystone Drydock and Ship Repair Company has agreed to make the necessary repairs to the Olympia "subject to future reimbursement by the Association." Additional funds will be needed to equip the vessel as a shrine and museum.

Persons wishing to make a contribution and obtain a coin or coins should address their letters "Olympia, Philadelphia 3, Penna.," enclosing a check or money order drawn to the order of the Cruiser Olympia Association, Inc., a non-profit, Pennsylvania Corporation.

Under a ruling of the Internal Revenue Department, contributions to the Cruiser Olympia Association, Inc., are tax deductible.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, FREDERICK COUNTY, TO-WIT:

J. Vernon Summers, Trustee under a certain Agreement by and between Creditors of Bronson Corporation, Bronson Corporation, and J. Vernon Summers, as Trustee, on or about the 14th day of January, 1954.

NO. 18894 EQUITY

ORDER OF PUBLICATION The object of this proceeding is to procure the ratification and confirmation of a sale made on the 17th day of March, 1956, by J. Vernon Summers, Trustee under a certain agreement by and between Creditors of Bronson Corporation, Bronson Corporation, and J. Vernon Summers, Trustee, dated the 14th day of January, 1954, and a certain Deed of Trust from Bronson Corporation, of the First Part, and J. Vernon Summers, Trustee, dated the 31st day of January, 1956, and recorded in Liber 558, folio 446, of a certain tract or parcel of ground, or lots, described therein, as follows:

all the following described real estate situate, lying and being in Frederick County, Frederick County, State of Maryland, and being more particularly described as Lot No. 5 in Block "G," Lot 7 in Block "G," Lot No. 2 in Block "E," and all that lot or parcel of ground being comprised in Lot 13 in Block "D," conveyed by Bronson Corporation, a body corporate under the laws of the State of Maryland, to J. Vernon Summers, and Laverne S. Brunk, his wife, by deed dated the 7th day of April, 1950, and recorded among the Land Records of Frederick County in Liber 484 folio 524. And the ratification and confirmation of the deed and deed, and confirmation of the deed to the purchaser thereof, as therein reported, and ratification of the distribution of the proceeds of the Trust as therein reported.

The Petition reports that Bronson Corporation, a body corporate of the State of Maryland, being indebted unto divers and various creditors, and unable to pay its creditors, and that after due notice given to all of the known creditors of said Bronson Corporation, a Creditors' Meeting of said Bronson Corporation was held on the 22nd day of December, 1953; that as a result of said meeting an agreement was entered into on or about the 12th day of January, 1954, by the known creditors of Bronson Corporation, and J. Vernon Summers, as Trustee, and Bronson Corporation; that said Bronson Corporation, being so indebted was possessed of certain real and personal property; that the Trustee, in compliance with the terms and purposes of said agreement, assumed his duties and proceeded to liquidate the personal property, goods and chattels belonging to said Bronson Corporation, and collected the proceeds thereof; that among the assets of said Bronson Corporation were four lots in Spring Valley, Frederick County, Maryland, described as above; that by deed of trust dated the 31st day of January, 1956, made by Bronson Corporation, of the First Part, and J. Vernon Summers, of the Second Part, and recorded among the Land Records of Frederick County in Liber 558 folio 446, the aforesaid real estate was conveyed unto the said J. Vernon Summers, in Trust for the uses and purposes therein set forth, that in pursuance of the said Agreement and Deed of Trust the said Trustee proceeded to advertise the said real property for sale, and at public sale on the 17th day of March, 1956, at the Courthouse door in Frederick City and County, Maryland, sold the same unto Manuel M. Weinberg, and for the sum of Eight Thousand Dollars ($8,000), he being the highest and best bidder therefor, and upon payment of the purchase price therefor in full, executed and delivered a deed therefor to the said Manuel M. Weinberg, the same being a Deed and Confirmatory Deed dated May 8th, 1956, from R. Patrick Turner and Agnes G. Turner, his wife, and Bronson Corporation, a body corporate and J. Vernon Summers, Trustee, recorded among the Land Records of Frederick County in Liber 564 folio 342; that printer's certificate on the advertisement of sale of said sale being filed as an exhibit; that the Trustee deposited the proceeds of said in the account as provided by said Agreement, and made distribution thereof, after the costs, expenses, advertising, etc., of sale, in accordance with the provisions of said agreement; after the notice to the aforesaid creditors of Bronson Corporation by statements of financial condition of the Trust sent to the creditors on June 17, 1954, February 15, 1955, and March 3, 1955 and May 18, 1955, and finally on April 18, 1956, a first and final distribution of the proceeds of the Trust was made in accordance with the provisions of said Agreement; that the said Trustee, Petitioner, having filed corporate bond in this cause, prays that the said conveyance and distribution be ratified and confirmed by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting in Equity.

It is thereupon this 29th day of May, 1958, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, and by the authority aforesaid, do hereby ratify and confirm, and Order, that notice be given by Order of Publication of the object and purposes of the foregoing petition in a newspaper published in Frederick County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks before the 5th day of July, 1958, warning all persons interested in the said property and the trust to be and appear in this Court by the 5th day of August, 1958, to show cause, if any they have, why said sale, conveyance and distribution of proceeds thereof, therein reported should not be ratified and confirmed.

Legion Nominates For Post Offices

The regular monthly meeting of the Francis X. Elder Post 121, American Legion, was held Tuesday evening in the post home. In the absence of the post commander, the meeting was conducted by First Vice Commander Eugene Rodgers. There were 48 members present.

Blood donors for the month of May were as follows: Guy Baker, Jr., Margaret King, Luther Zimmerman, Charles Damuth, Louis F. Rosensteel, Joseph Sanders, A. Wayne McCleaf, William E. Sanders, Fred Wolfe and Karl Orndorff. Clarence Harner, commander of Hesson-Snyder Post 120, Taneytown, was guest of the evening.

Election for the Board of Directors was held with the following results: Donald Topper, Bernard Ott, Jr., Jack Rosensteel, Donald Miller, Andrew Shorb, Clarence Shorb and Charles B. Harner.

A report was made on the visit to Newton D. Baker Hospital where a bingo party was held for 70 patients. Those who made the trip were: Carroll Topper, Robert Shorb, William Rodgers and Charles B. Harner.

A motion was made and passed that Curtis D. Topper be appointed to the State Executive Committee. George Danner, baseball chairman, gave his report. Boys' State committee chairman, Harold M. Hoke reported that Terrence Best and Paul Beale had been selected to attend Boys' State being held at the University of Maryland beginning June 22. Memorial Day report was given by Curtis D. Topper. One new member, Irvin Tokar, was accepted into membership.

Acting Drill Team Captain, George Danner, reported that the firing squad took part in Memorial services at Fountaineale and Taneytown. A donation of $50 was voted to the Vigilant Hose Company.

Nominations for Post officers were made with the following results: Post Commander: Joseph Rodgers, William Rodgers and Curtis D. Topper; First Vice Commander, Eugene Rodgers, Paul W. Claypool, Wayne McCleaf and Robert Myers; Second Vice Commander, Carroll Topper, William Topper and Joseph Sanders; Finance Officer, Allen Bouey, Charles B. Harner and George Martins; Sgt-at-Arms, Andrew Shorb and Edgar Wastler; Historian, Everett Chrismer; chaplain, Raymond Baumgardner; Trustee for three years, William Sanders and Earl Topper.

The door prize was won by Philip B. Sharpe. After the meeting, refreshments were served by the committee and the ladies of the Auxiliary.

EHS Alumni Dance, Banquet Saturday

Two classes will be honored at the annual alumni meeting and banquet of the Emmitsburg High School Alumni Assn., to be held Saturday evening in the school cafeteria.

The graduating classes of 1908 and 1933 will be accorded special recognition at the affair, observing their 50th and 25th anniversaries.

Following the banquet, a business meeting and election of officers will take place. At the conclusion of the business meeting, dancing will take place and a social period observed.

"CRUMBS" BREAK LOSING STREAK

Emmitsburg split two games over the Memorial Day weekend, losing to Taneytown 5-3 last Friday, while routing Littlestown, 10-4 Sunday, for their first victory.

Taneytown squeaked out a 5-3 victory on errors that produced three unearned runs, while the Crumbs were getting all of their runs earned. Great pitching by Dale Deatherage who went the distance, only giving up four hits while striking out 10 to come off the field with the honors. All in all, it was an improved team effort. Don Little continued to rattle the ball at will, and some good defensive play was turned in by Tom Topper and Mike Joy. R. Kelly got the play of the game when he threw out a runner at first after singling through the infield. Ronnie came in fast, scooped the ball and threw a hard strike to F. Cool at first. Ronnie later sprained his ankle and had to leave the game. Ted Topper, jammed his finger while hustling and trying a shoe-string catch.

Sunday afternoon, the Crumbs routed Littlestown 10-4. Hitting, pitching and great defensive play by Don Joy is the story of their first win. The locals' scored four in the first inning and were never headed. The closest Littlestown could come was 5-3, when their rally was stopped by one of the four double plays turned in by the locals. M. Joy started for the locals' and left after giving up two runs and three hits in the third inning. Tommy Topper took over with two men on and allowed only a few hits and two harmless runs. Great plays were turned in by every player, while their bats were ringing out with base hits. Little tripled and D. Joy doubled with both of these hits being homers on the local diamond. D. Joy and Gene Long turned in a neat double play, Don snaring a hard line drive to his right, relayed to Long wild, the ball bouncing back to the playing field. Long scooped the ball and threw a strike to Little at home who tagged the runner. M. Joy, while playing short, went to his right, scooped a hard grounder and threw to first for a nice play. Good defensive play was turned in by Sterbinsky, Cool and Wivell in the outfield and J. Joy gave insurance at first with some flashy foot and glove work. Gene Long was the big insurance at third, while Don Little is always steady behind the plate, and also got four hits in six trips to the plate. D. Joy was two for three. It was a great team victory and their are more in site. "Stick With The E'burg 'Crumbs.'"

CHATTER-BOX R. Kelly is expected to be back in action this Sunday after a sprained ankle kept him out of the lineup Sunday. Good to see new faces in the game Sunday. Keep up the good work, Harpo (D. Joy). Welcome aboard Sid, (T. Saylor), that was a mighty blast in your pinch roll. Another new face will show up this Sunday in Johnny Mort, talented high school player with Fairfield high. Johnny lives on the line west of town. You can see one of his brothers on the Red Sox of the local Little League. Purchase is about to be made of a four inch wide, roll of adhesive tape, not for injuries, but for guys who squawk too much and get the old heave-ho from the game. Hey "Pizza," didn't you know "Bum" is a dirty name to call an umpire. "Silky", how did you know that last batter was going to hit a line drive where you were standing? Heard that play ended the game, nice going. The manager (CO) would like all the players to know that Houck's now have the new hats. If you want one, stop in and pick one out and sign your name. The board of directors also like to announce that a drawing will be held on July 4th at the local field. Let's all get back of this and help the boys along. Let's have another victory Sunday, team. Good luck! Yours in Sports, Surley Stovich
