Once again our state-wide election is before us and we face the task of selecting the candidates best fitted to the jobs. This is more than just an election this year as we have a certain amount of local interest involved. We are fortunate to have a local candidate interested in running for an office and feel that he deserves our support. I don't like to delve into politics personally and I strive to keep this column on the local community chatter side with tidbits of information designed for easy and interesting reading. However the fact that we have local individuals interested in elections and representing our town I feel that we do owe our support to this candidate and I strongly urge you to support him.

While Thurmont isn't Emmitsburg by any means, it is still just next door and it is the northern part of the county. Down there they have a similar situation and I feel certain that they feel just about the same way about their candidate as we do about ours, regardless of party affiliation. I am not advocating the election of other candidates in this column as there is no local interest involved in the sense that they do not reside here but I feel that the support of all of us for these two candidates is warranted. The main thing at stake is representation from this end of the county. Just a decade ago there was a dearth of candidates from this area. Through constant plugging through this column almost a half dozen persons have been induced to run for office from this area, but sad to say, none have been elected to date. We get closer every time and this I believe encourages others from this area to seek office.

Halloween is upon us and as usual it has been preceded by various acts of vandalism. No amount of admonition seems able to deter this nefarious type of activity and each year sees a certain amount of abrogation of the civil law. Most of the damage is minor to be sure, but there is always prevalent the dangerous kind such as blocking roads, etc. There is plenty of fun to be had if it is accomplished in the right way. There are parties, confetti or corn tossing, trick or treat, masquerading and parading and I'd settle for a little soaping of windows, although I'm not advising it. The police will deal with the menace in the usual manner. They don't want to take all the gawd-out of Halloween . . . all they want to do is to neutralize the string a bit. Should the kiddies wish to have a little masquerading and trick or treating . . . there's no harm in it at all. If your youngster is a bit older be sure he doesn't destroy property, block highways or set fire to any property or corn shocks. Just how much trouble one can become involved in was manifested last week when several boys from a nearby town set fire to a straw stack near a large barn. The resultant conclusion was the barn disappeared at the terrific price of $20,000. I'm certain you parents wouldn't care for this type of "fun."

Police Dept. Issues Halloween Warning

The Emmitsburg Police Dept. issued its annual warning pertinent to Halloween activities this week. The malicious destruction of property will not be tolerated. Any blocking of streets or removal of personal property is positively prohibited and offenders will be prosecuted. It is not the aim of the Department to take all the gawd-out of the occasion but destruction of property levied will result in fines being levied and consequent restitution. Good clean fun is permissible but good common sense is to be exercised at all times the police warn.

James Edward Houck, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Houck, Emmitsburg, suffered a broken left arm in a fall from the seat in their car.

Spook Parade Gets Under Way Tonight At 7

Weather permitting, an estimated 500 children from the Emmitsburg District will march down Main Street in the mammoth annual Halloween Parade being sponsored by the Francis X. Elder Post, American Legion.

Joseph Rodgers, general chairman of the parade announced that six prize categories have been established. The event has been growing in size during the past decade since its origination and this year's affair is expected to draw even more of the local kiddies and parents.

March-off time has been set for 7 p. m. this evening. The parade will form in front of the Dough-boy monument in West End and will proceed down West Main Street, pass the Square, and continue down East Main Street to Federal Avenue where it will turn and continue to DePaul Street terminating at the rectory grounds of St. Joseph's Rectory. Following disbandment the participants will be served refreshments including cider and cookies.

Leading the line of march will be the color guard of the American Legion Post, followed by a number of other units including the Emmitsburg Municipal Band, the Fire Trucks, a number of vehicles and the costumed marchers. The reviewing stand will be located on the Square. The general public is cordially invited to participate in the parade and to view the spectacle. Following the parade a public dance will be held in the Legion Home with music being furnished by The Debonaires. Dress will be optional.

Prizes will be awarded to first, second and third places respectively, as follows: Funniest costumes, $5, $2, $1; best looking costume, $5, $2, and $1; most original costume $5, $2, and $1; funniest costume with pet, $5, $2, and $1; best looking costume with decorated bicycle, tricycle, or wagon, $5, $2, and $1. In addition, two mystery prizes of $5 each will be awarded.

Election Will Close Unemployment Office

The unemployment insurance section of the Baltimore Office of the Department of Employment Security will remain open Tuesday, Nov. 4, Election Day, Robert B. Kimble, Executive Director, announced this week.

The employment service section of the Baltimore Office and all county offices of the Department will be closed on this State holiday.

In the counties, unemployment insurance claimants who would normally receive benefit checks on Tuesday, Nov. 4, will receive them instead on Monday, Nov. 3, as will claimants regularly scheduled for Monday, Nov. 3.

Mr. Kimble said the Baltimore Office was being kept open because the size of the claimload in Baltimore makes it difficult to pay two days' claims in one without long lines and undue waiting.

Driver Fined

Glenn Walter Brown, R2, Thurmont, paid fines totalling $115.50 at a hearing Saturday morning before Magistrate Charles D. Gillelan, Emmitsburg.

Brown was arrested by Police Chief Robert L. Koontz and charged with drunken driving and reckless driving. On the first charge he paid $100.75 and on the latter, 10.75. At the trial he pleaded guilty.

Local Juveniles Face Charge

Three juvenile boys, students at a local school, were placed under arrest this week by Police Chief Robert L. Koontz and were charged with malicious destruction of property. The three were charged by the officer with puncturing bicycle and automobile tires of other students and faculty members. The juvenile court has waived jurisdiction over the trio and they will be given a hearing before Magistrate Charles D. Gillelan.

Food for thought is the only kind that hasn't been affected by the high cost of living.

Land Being Taken For New Road

Nine land acquisition cases for property which the Maryland States Roads Commission said is necessary for improvements to U. S. Route 15 near Emmitsburg have been filed in the clerk's office at Frederick.

Amounts ranging from $30 to $6,300 have been paid into court registry by the commission as its estimates of the fair market values of the properties being acquired.

The cases name the following persons, extent of land to be acquired and amount of payments into court registry.

Mrs. May S. Kefauver, Frederick, 4.78 acres in fee simple, 1.13 acres in slope and drainage easements, .24 acre for stream changes and outletditches, and the underlying fee in the bed of U. S. 15 and the Orndorff Road; $1,945.

Mrs. Margaret E. Franklin, Emmitsburg R2, 4.24 acres in fee simple, .96 in slope and drainage easements, $6,300.

Anna Quinn Graham, Ottumwa, Iowa, .22 acre in fee simple, .04 acre in slope and drainage easements, $56.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph M. Wasilifsky, Emmitsburg R1, 1.34 acres in fee simple, .05 acre in slope and drainage easements, $805.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. O'Leary, Binghamton, N. Y., 5.8 acres in fee simple, .10 acre in slope and drainage easements, underlying fee in beds of Old Frederick and Keysville Roads, $2,235.

St. Anthony's Shrine Parish, Baltimore, 16 acre in fee simple, underlying bed of Motter's Station Road, $530.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Wivell, Emmitsburg RD, .05 acre in fee simple, .01 acre in slope and drainage easements, $30.

Reconstruction of a portion of Route 15 south of Emmitsburg has begun under contract. Much of the work will be on relocation. Although a single 24-foot width will be paved at present, plans are such that another similar lane can be added later.

Sportsmen's Club Plan Shooting Match

Vice President Lewis E. Hahn presided at the regular monthly meeting of the Indian Lookout Conservation Club held Tuesday evening in the Fire Hall. The presiding officer expressed sincere appreciation on behalf of the club, to the committees which worked so faithfully during the recent carnival, and also the public for its excellent patronage.

Arrangements for a series of shooting matches were made and the first of the series will be held at the Civic Grounds on Sunday, Nov. 9, at one o'clock. The public is invited to the affair. Another match will be held in conjunction with the Blue Ridge Sportsmen's Club on their range at one o'clock on Sunday, Nov. 23.

Feather Drive Doing Well Here

Emmitsburg's United Fund Drive Committee, in its first accounting, reports that to date $741 has been collected. This sum is reported to be the largest of any district reported so far and the committee is continuing its work in this area. The committee feels confident that it will reach its designated goal. The Walkersville area was the first to exceed its goal.

The Fund Drive is headed in Emmitsburg by Mrs. Andrew Eyster and Mr. Albert L. Leary.

PROMOTED

George H. McDonnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McDonnell, E. Main St., who is employed as a salesman by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., Westminster, has been promoted to business manager of the same company in Winchester, Va. Mr. and Mrs. McDonnell and family, who are now residing in Westminster, plan to move to Winchester in the near future.

The man who tries to please everybody shows little respect for his own way of thinking.

Local Marine Is Cited For Bravery; Saves Crew's Lives

M/Sgt. Frederick B. Bower received a Letter of Commendation from Lt. Gen. M. B. Twining, CMCS, at a formal inspection at the Quantico Air Station recently. Col. J. P. Coursey, CO, MCAS, presented the letter.

M/Sgt. Bower, Ordnance Chief of AES 12, was commended for his "outstanding presence of mind, complete disregard of his own personal safety, and actions subsequent to the crash of a Navy AD-6 aircraft last November at the Air Station."

The plane, armed with two MK-10 Chemical Smoke Tanks, crashed on takeoff. One of these tanks exploded on land and the other was torn loose from the aircraft upon impact with the water. Although the tank was submerged in about four feet of water, it was smoking considerably and presented a severe hazard to nearby personnel.

M/Sgt. Bower, upon arriving at the scene and realizing the immediate danger to the members of the crash crew and other personnel, leaped into the chop-up, cold water, made his way to the still smoking tank and completely immersing himself in the water, disarmed the tank.

By this action, M/Sgt. Bower prevented possible serious burns to the members of the crash crew and other personnel, enabling salvage operations to be conducted without casualties.

Bower is the husband of the former Jean Bollinger, daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Bollinger, Emmitsburg, and is the father of four children, Patty Jean, Ricky, Johnny and Jimmy Bower.

FOUR INJURED IN EARLY MORNING CRASH

Four persons, two of them Marines from the Wilkes-Barre area, were treated at the Warner Hospital Saturday morning for injuries suffered in a two-car crash near Mt. St. Mary's College.

The two Marines are Cpl. John Lutzman, 19, who sustained a fracture of the left ankle and bruises over the left eye, and Cpl. Frank Bucholtz, 20, Glen Lyon, who suffered lacerations of the right elbow.

Lutzman was removed to the Carlisle Barracks Hospital. Bucholtz was treated and resumed his trip home.

Mrs. Clement Fegley, 46, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., was admitted with lacerations of the forehead, lacerations of both knees and cerebral concussion. Clement Fegley, 46, was treated for a sprain of the neck. He was not admitted.

Maryland state police are continuing their investigation of the crash which occurred when the one car, a 1950 Ford driven by Lutzman, met head-on with a southbound 1954 Cadillac, driven by Fegley, on a curve about two miles south of Emmitsburg.

Police investigation was hampered by the fact that the Fegleys are mutes. A sister of Fegley, who lives near Wellsboro, came here to help with communication.

Charges Against Balto. Livestock Market Settled

On Sept. 22, 1958 the United States Department of Agriculture charged the Baltimore Livestock Auction Market, Inc., West Friendship, Md., and one of its officers with various technical violations of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

The United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., announced this week that all charges against the market and its officer have been dropped or satisfactorily settled without a hearing.

Civil Defense Kits Are Being Given County Schools

Radiological defense instrument kits are being distributed to 6,000 senior high schools throughout the nation for use in science classes, the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization announced this week.

The instruments will serve to acquaint students with the general principles underlying radiation phenomena. They also will be used as training aids for instruction in survival in the event of nuclear attack.

Each kit contains nine instruments, two comparison standard sources for food and water, and a manual of instructions. The instruments contained in the kit are of two basic types; those which measure the rate of radiation and those which measure the total radiation accumulated. These are the instruments which would be used to measure the intensity of radioactive fallout which may be deposited on building areas, equipment and persons in the wake of a nuclear attack.

The equipment is being furnished free to each state under a nation-wide program set up by OCDM. It is planned to supply at least one set of instruments to the 6,000 selected schools with an additional distribution planned later for other schools. An estimated 1,000,000 students will receive some instruction in radiological defense by the end of the current school year.

The U. S. Office of Education has assisted in the development of this program. State Departments of Education and State civil defense directors cooperated in the selection of schools which will receive the kits.

The High Schools of Frederick County which have been designated to receive Radiological equipment kits from OCDM are: Frederick, Brunswick, Middletown and Thurmont. Courses in Radiological Monitoring will be made available to students in the science department in these High Schools.

Frederick High and Brunswick High have received their "Kits." Middletown and Thurmont High have received word that the Kits have been shipped from OCDM warehouses, but have not been received.

DEMO RALLY DRAWS WELL

A well-attended rally was held Tuesday evening in the VFW Annex by the Emmitsburg Democratic Central Committee. Over 100 individuals were present for the event and heard remarks by a large number of candidates aspiring to county offices.

Lumen F. Norris, local chairman of the central committee, acted as master of ceremonies and all candidates present were introduced by Mr. Norris. Precinct captains and the local committee officers were given a vote of thanks for the diligent work they have done in informing the public about their candidates for the coming election, Nov. 4. Following the business meeting the candidates took advantage of the opportunity to meet personally all those present for the occasion. A buffet luncheon was held following adjournment of the rally.

He gained business experience in Chicago and upon his return to his native state, at the turn of the century, was engaged in the soda fountain business. He was better known, later in Baltimore as the operator of six different restaurants. He was instrumental in the forming of the Restaurant Association of Maryland and was a charter member of the Association. Upon his retirement he was made honorary vice-president of the organization. He was also a member of Elias Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg.

Besides his wife, Mary Elizabeth (McDonnell) Gillelan, he is survived by one son, George Howard Gillelan, Baltimore; four grandchildren; and one sister, Miss Ruth B. Gillelan, Emmitsburg.

Funeral services were held from the Allison funeral home, Emmitsburg, Wednesday at 1:00 p. m. with Rev. Philip Bower officiating. Interment was in the Elias Lutheran Cemetery.

One thing about living in Russia . . . you'd never lose an election bet.

School Plants Number Of Trees

In recognition of the great work of Theodore Roosevelt, lover of the out-of-doors, 21st president of the United States, and often referred to as the "father of conservation," Dr. Pullen, State Supt. of Schools recommended that schools throughout Maryland pay tribute to this great American in the Centennial of his birth by incorporating a special tree planting ceremony into their program.

Arvin P. Jones, Principal of the local High School appointed a committee consisting of Mrs. Mary S. Scott, chairman, Mr. Harry Weber, and Mr. Cleon Elliott of the High School and Science Department to plan such a program for our school.

Representatives from each class participated in the planting of trees on the western boundary of the playground. An oak by the Elementary School, a maple by the Junior High School, and a tulip poplar by the Senior High School being chosen for the fall planting.

The planting was completed by the Agriculture Class. In the spring this planting will be supplemented by additional trees planted for each homeroom unit.

The following program was presented in the school auditorium: Bible reading, Psalm 67, Mary Ann Sharrer, followed by the Lord's Prayer and flag salute; The Green Cathedral, 11-12 grade chorus; Roosevelt, The Conservationist, Audrey Springer; Novelty Song, The Tree In The Wood, grade 6; Choral reading, "Who Loved The Tree Best," grade 3; Importance of Trees in Our Daily Life, grade 7; Trees (solo), Susan McLaughlin; Why We Should Conserve Living Things, grade 6; Choral reading, Johnny Appleseed, grade 7; Three poems—"For The Beauty of the Earth," Pierpont; "Trees," Kilmer; and "Trees," by Ogden Nash—grade 7; Closing Song, America The Beautiful, Audience.

All music was under the direction of Miss Ruth Stull, music instructor of both High and Elementary School.

Nearby Wreck Injures Six

Six persons sustained minor injuries and two cars were demolished in a Sunshine Trail collision east of Blue Ridge Summit late Sunday afternoon.

State Police said a 1951 Mercury driven by Mrs. Rosie I. Dick, 52, Fairfield R1, pulled from the Fountaindale Road onto Route 16 into the path of an east-bound 1953 Plymouth driven by Theodore F. Schneider, 24, Gettysburg.

Mrs. Dick and her five young passengers including Gail Fellows, 10, Emmitsburg R1, who suffered contusions of the right eyebrow and right shoulder, were removed to the Waynesboro Hospital for treatment following the collision. All were released following treatment.

All State Offices To Be Filled Tuesday

Emmitsburgians will trek to the polls Tuesday to elect practically every county and state official in what appears to be an interesting election, barring inclement weather.

Acute interest has been created locally with a local man aspiring to the House of Delegates and a Thurmont man also seeking the same office. An excellent turnout is anticipated in an effort to place these two men in office to represent Northern Frederick County. The two candidates are Samuel C. Hays, local business man and William Houck, Thurmont, insurance agent.

The Board of Elections announces the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. The three precincts in Emmitsburg will vote at the following places: Precinct No. 1, Fire Hall; Precinct No. 2, Magistrate's Office and Precinct No. 3, Schoolhouse, St. Anthony's.

To be filled by Tuesday's election are the following offices in Frederick County: State Senator, Sheriff, State's Attorney, Clerk of Court, Register of Wills, County Treasurer, three County Commissioners, three Judges of Orphan's Court and six members to the House of Delegates.

State offices to be filled include the Governorship, U. S. Senate, U. S. Congress, State Comptroller, and Attorney General. Included on the ballot are three referendums which require a bit of studying by the public.

A number of tight races has developed for several county offices. One of these pits young Thomas Eichelberger against the incumbent Harry D. Radcliff, for the Office of Register of Wills and still another, Edwin F. Nikirk opposing Thomas S. Glass for State's Attorney.

The Democratic party enters the general election Nov. 4 in what would seem to be its most advantageous position in the county's political history as far as registration majorities are concerned.

Since the last general election four years ago, the Democratic party has had a net gain of 1022 in the county as compared with an increase of 147 Republican registrations.

That has upped the Democratic book majority from 2,996 in 1954 to 3,881 when the registration books closed several weeks ago until after the election. The net gain of nearly 1000 places the Democratic majority at what must be a high water mark for the party in Frederick county, which for many years was a Republican stronghold.

But no one knows better than Democratic leaders that a book majority can be mighty misleading. The days of voting straight tickets are over and, especially in county elections, the voting frequently is more for the individual than for the party. The result has been that in the county elections of recent years, the Republicans have elected as many — and often more — candidates than the Democrats, despite their ever-increasing registration majority.

Few are likely to forget the election of 1950 when, with a book majority of around 3,000, the Democrats elected only two candidates for county offices.

The total registration has increased from 28,401 in 1954 to 29,716 this year, a gain of 1,315. The Democratic registration has jumped from 15,549 to 16,571, while the Republican registration has increased from 12,553 to 12,690. The number of unaffiliated voters is 455 as compared with 319 four years ago.

The figures are net and take into consideration both gains and losses in registration. During the four-year period, as an offset to registrations, the Board of Election Supervisors cut from the registration rolls a large number of persons who had failed to vote at least once within a five-year period. That is required by law.

Eyler's Valley Church 100 Years Old

By Nicholas Yinger
Sparkling like a blue-white diamond in peaceful Eyler's Valley, about five miles west of Emmitsburg on the Hampton Road near the foot of Derr's Hill is Eyler's Chapel. It is about midway between Owen's Creek on the south slope of sylvan Catoctin Mountain, and Friend's Creek on the north not far from the Mason-Dixon Line.
Dedicated on consecrated ground in 1857 this spiritual sanctuary was built to fill the growing need for Christian fellowship in faith, hope and love. Long before the Civil War these early settlers knew there was adequate physical vitamins and minerals in the rich alluvial soil to nourish bodies—but what about spiritual nourishment? They held a meeting at the crossroads Wilderness Indian trails to build the Chapel of nearly field lime and sandstone. Wood was hand-cut from the virgin forest—limestone was burnt to mix with creek-sand for building mortar. Deer, bear, elk, buffalo, wild-turkey and grouse were plentiful in the majestic hills as they had from aboriginal or Indian days. Even today this is still the best deer country in Frederick County I know of. We found bones of all the animals listed above in archaeological excavations from Fairfield in Adams County, Pennsylvania, to the mouth of placid Conococheague Creek where it flows into the Potomac near Williamsport, then down river to Seneca in Montgomery County. This includes many islands.

On Derr's Hill near the Emmitsburg reservoir are many Indian rock-shelters that the aborigines used on their hunting trips from their villages on the Potomac and Monocacy Rivers. A rock-shelter is an over-night camp. One finds charcoal from their fires, broken pottery, arrowheads, bone fishhooks and many artifacts in these shelters. Indians used them when on the warpath too.
About five years ago juveniles entered this chapel and wantonly destroyed church property including a copy of the Holy Bible. This premeditated act of sacrilege again points up the need in cy. This edification of daily Bible Reading is one way to help young contemporary Juvenile Delinquents. Many, don't even know that the Bible is the sacred symbol for everything we hold dear.
Eyler's Valley is truly a beautiful place. One has not really lived in essence until he has stood on a mountain-top and watched the eloquent sunrise to paint the forest floor a golden plover-brown. Life takes on a different meaning when one turns their heart toward the radiance and warmth of the Divine Healer. Indeed, these are the golden bracelets that make psychosomatic unity in body and mind in the transitory sanctuaries of creation.
Mankind's dignity and freedoms have their source and substance in the effervescent Jems of the Bible—an indispensable and ultimate source of inspiration, serenity, and sublime equanimity—enabling humans to take, or renew, the religious concepts of equality, justice, love, faith, veracity and integrity. These are indeed the lasting fundamental characteristics for peaceful living without fear even in death. Did you ever turn a blue-white diamond from side-to-side and watch in fascination the tranquility and placid serenity in magic beauty as real introspective colors light the horizon in all that's good and noble? That is indeed what thousands of Eyler's Chapels the world over signify in retrospect. "I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins: return unto me; for I have redeemed thee." Isaiah 44:22. K.J.V.

Bare limbs are to be seen all the year 'round—in winter they are on trees.

TODAY'S meditation

The Upper Room
THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read I John 4:6-11. I lay down my life for the sheep. (John 10:15.)

If you were in a very difficult situation, imagine knowing that you were completely unable to help yourself. If in that situation you happened to hear about somebody who would be willing and able to help you—by forsaking all his riches and comfort; by undertaking a long journey to be at your side; by offering the days of all his life to be with you; by causing himself toils and sufferings; by bringing himself finally to death for your sake, as if you were the only one on earth worth caring for—would you not then realize that this person felt an unusual interest in you, and would you yourself not begin to take an interest in him?

This has already happened! That is what Jesus Christ has done for you and me. He did not spare Himself to come to our salvation. He deals with a person as if that person were the only one in all the world to care for. Christ loves us. Is He not worth loving?

Prayer

O God, we can never measure what Thou in Jesus Christ hast done for us and what Thou art still willing to do. We open our hearts to Thee to receive Thy love and be saved and transformed by it. In our Redeemer's name we pray. Amen.

OF A NUMBER OF THINGS

(Postscripts to "Mediterranean Cruise," recently published series of Travel Articles by Anabel E. Hartman.)

2. Treasures From The Land

This second additional note to the report on last spring's cruise has to do with a few of the innumerable treasures recovered from just one small portion of the land of one of the Mediterranean countries visited. It takes us to Cairo and the second floor of its Museum of Egyptian Antiquities, where are exhibited the "find" resulting from English excavations at Luxor some thirty-five years ago. I am referring of course to the greatly publicized discovery of the tomb of the Pharaoh Tut-anh-amen, containing not only the mummified remains of this ruler of around 1400 B.C. but what has been described by archeologists as a collection unique in the world, buried treasures of which gold objects to the amount of two tons made up only a part. Some readers may recall that I mentioned, without time for detail, our thrilling but wearying visit to this part of the Museum and our guide's disappointment at the gradual depletion of his party when there was still so much to see. I am returning there for two reasons: (1) to point out two facts not generally known,

I think, that seem interesting in connection with this amazing mass of tributes to a dead monarch, and (2) to note how very modern objects of this collection seem and how very ancient many others.

King Tut was not one of the strong or important kings among the Pharaohs but had a short and inconspicuous reign. His tomb, however, happened to have been "almost the only tomb of a Pharaoh that was not subsequently broken into and plundered" but survived intact down into our own time; which statement leaves us to wonder what other man-made treasures were precariously entrusted to the keeping of Mother Earth on such occasions and what was their ultimate fate.

We might have been looking into the window of an exclusive shop of today as we viewed the beautiful gold jewelry, much of it set with precious stones, the set of exquisitely carved chessmen, the polished wooden walking-stick, the finely embroidered leather gloves and slippers; but we were looking at objects that expressed the religious and political belief of a far-distant time when we saw these things; two large gold-covered figures made to guard a tomb, a fox of wood to guard a cemetery, a boat to carry the dead across the River of Death, an elaborately decorated chair with enameled figures of the king and queen on the back and an accompanying footstool with enameled figures of slaves, symbolizing their proper position — under the monarch's feet.

3. Athens Stadium

I now take Chronicle readers back to Athens to visit a place not mentioned in the previous report of crowded sightseeing centering around memorable spots the Stadium, where the very old and ruins of the ancient city—lives on impressively in the very new.

We looked admiringly at the large and beautiful marble structure bordered along its curving top with tall pointed cypresses, and heard with interest the guide's notes on its remarkable history. It was first constructed in the 4th century B. C. in a natural hollow on the edge of the city, the spectators sitting or standing on the grassy sides to witness the 'Olympian Games' (the name applied to these contests in foot races, jumping, boxing, javelin throwing, and other sports, from the city of Olympia, where they originated in 776 B.C. and were held every four years from that date for hundreds of years.) Two centuries later the first simple construction was rebuilt by an 'Athenian plutocrat,' all in marble and large enough for 50,000 spectators; but after 400 years (by the 2nd century A.D.) the games were discontinued and the Stadium fell into disrepair and gradually disappeared entirely! (During the long period that the Turks were in possession it was used as a ready-made quarry, with results that can be imagined.) And then, fairy-tale-like, over 1700 years later, excavations in the area revealed some broken marble seats, another 'Greek plutocrat' and patriot appeared, rebuilt it in marble (now to accommodate 70,000 persons) and in 1896 the first modern Olympic Games were held there. The word 'stadium,' by the way, has its own interesting history. It is the Latin form of a Greek word not meaning a place at all but some fixed standard of length and so used in the term 'Olympic stadium' as meaning the exact length of the foot-race course at Olympia (about 600 English feet). And finally, in English at least, by one of those odd changes in meaning that frequently happens to words, it stands for just one thing—the place where sport contests on a large scale are held.

Community Chorus Being Formed In County

Joseph Victor Laderoute, the new Professor of Voice at Hood College, will begin immediately the organization of a Community Chorus for Frederick and vicinity, the College announced this week.

Both President Andrew G. Truxal and Peter Flanders, Chairman of Hood's music department, have heartily endorsed the project, Mr. Laderoute said. The new Community Chorus will be under the sponsorship of the College, and will rehearse on the Hood campus, but the College cannot assume any financial responsibility, he explained.

As soon as all organizational problems have been taken care of, Mr. Laderoute plans to set up a schedule of rehearsals. The Chorus will meet once a week on the Hood campus at a time convenient to all. He hopes that a chorus of 200 singing voices will be achieved during the campaign for singing membership.

Anyone interested in joining the new Community Chorus is invited to communicate with Mr. Laderoute, The New Community Chorus, Hood College, Frederick. "If you love to sing, even if you cannot read music, and if you are interested in learning the best in choral music, come along and join us," he said.

Mr. Laderoute is also a member of the music faculty of the Peabody Conservatory College of Music in Baltimore, and is on the Hood campus three days a week. In addition to his work in the music curriculum of the college, he also gives private instruction to local voice students. He is available for private lessons on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Besides teaching, Mr. Laderoute is also widely known as a concert musician and tenor soloist. He has sung with the NBC Symphony, the New York Philharmonic, the Boston Symphony, and the orchestras of many other cities. He has also been engaged by Arturo Toscanini, Leopold Stokowski, Eugent Ormandy, Howard Barlow, Sir Thomas Beecham, Leonard Bernstein and other distinguished conductors for solo appearances.

He has had concerts with such choral groups as the Fishers' Mendelssohn Chorus, the Opera Guild, and has had seven seasons with the Bethlehem Bach Society. He also organized and directed for several years the choral group in Harford County, Maryland.

This is the time of the year when the average chap has more off days than days off.

HARRY D. RADCLIFF Candidate for Re-Election

FOR REGISTER OF WILLS for Frederick County

To The Voters of Frederick County

As the campaign for the Office of Register of Wills draws to a close, I would like to take this means of expressing to you, my friends in Frederick County, my thanks and appreciation for the many evidences of support which I have received from you, and for the splendid work so many of you are doing in my behalf.

I shall always be deeply grateful for your friendship.

There is only one issue in this campaign. The issue is simply whether you want to continue in office the administration that has gained long experience and whose record is not just simply a satisfactory one, but has been an outstanding one in efficiency, understanding and intelligent performance, or whether you want to take a chance on a candidate who has never had the slightest experience in the settlement of estates, has never probated a Will, has never been called upon to interpret the law, and has never administered even a small part of any complex business organization.

As the officer entrusted with the administration of the office, I did not start at the top for that position represents the crown of a lifetime's effort, I started as a clerk and advanced through the years to my present position and the experience which I gained came only through years of application and service for which there is no substitute.

My case is thrown exclusively upon the voters of Frederick County; and, if elected, they will have conferred a favor upon me for which I shall be unremitting in my labors to compensate.

Sincerely yours,

HARRY D. RADCLIFF REGISTER OF WILLS for Frederick County, Maryland

Less farmers, with fewer but better dairy cows, produce more milk each year. But even a record 126.4 billion pounds of milk in 1957 still resulted in less milk per person (738 pounds) because population increased faster than milk production.

More milk could be produced and consumed, says the National Dairy Council. If people were to consume only reasonable amounts of milk and milk products recommended for good nutrition, America would need about 150 billion pounds of milk annually.

The real price of milk has declined consistently for many years. The average factory worker had to labor 15 minutes to earn the price of a quart of milk in 1929. Today, though costs have greatly increased, a worker labors only 7 minutes for a quart of milk.

Our County Library

Frederick County does not have a county-wide library system. A "campaign of information" to inform Frederick countians of the economic advantages of establishing county-wide library service in 1959 is being conducted by the C. Burr Artz and a Citizens' Committee headed by Mrs. J. Homer Remsburg, Middletown. To acquaint readers with all aspects of the project, which is now being presented to organizations, The Emmitsburg Chronicle will publish a series of weekly articles.

Article Four

Government And Finance Of A County System

Rural library extension service would be governed locally thru a contract agreement worked out between the Frederick County Commissioners and the C. Burr Artz Library trustees.

To encourage development of rural library service, the U. S. Government has provided for grants to States. This Federal aid is an establishment fund for rural service only. It is limited to June 1961. It is administered by the State Division of Library Extension.

Frederick County's share would be $26,000, if Frederick county takes advantage of the full three-year offer. It would be divided as follows: 1959, $20,000, which would be spent for a bookmobile and its book stock; 1960, $4,000; 1961, $2,000 for books.

The first share of Federal aid has already been allotted to Md. Allegany and Frederick are the only two on Maryland's Western Shore without a county system. State Aid Also Besides Federal aid, State aid of $10,000 annually would be available. This is a continuing fund and is for rural service only. It too, is administered by the Division of Library Extension. Frederick county has lost a total of $75,000 in State funds since 1946 by not developing a county-wide system.

To become eligible for Federal and State aid, the Frederick county Commissioners would, in accordance with the Maryland Public Library Law of 1945, levy at least two cents per $100 or appropriate equivalent for county service.

Rising costs since 1945 require five cents on $100 valuation of Frederick County assessable property, or $69,644.

The C. Burr Artz Library, a city library in a city of five square miles without county service has in 1958 for operating expenses $1.27 per capita based upon a 22,000 population.

Under the proposed plan of 1959, the Artz Library, serving the largest county in the State in land area, 664 square miles, by a bookmobile and branches and by more books and services in Frederick City, would have $1.35 per capita, based upon a 70,000 population.

The total operating income as proposed for 1959 would be: Frederick County, $69,644; Frederick City, the same amount as in 1958, $10,000; Artz Endowment, $5,000; State Aid, $9,965, a total of $94,609.

As explained above Federal aid of $20,000 the first year would provide the bookmobile and its book stock.

Comparisons The cost of public library service to Frederick County's neighbors in 1956-57 according to the latest Department of Education report based upon 1950 population was:

Enoch Pratt Free Library (a city library) $2,365,000, or $2.49 per capita; Baltimore County Public Library, $297,588, $1.10 per

Tawes Advocates New Traffic Laws With Safety In Mind

To reduce highway accidents and fatalities, J. Millard Tawes recently pleaded for changes in Maryland's traffic laws. "Maryland must establish its safety laws along the line charted by the uniform Motor Vehicle Code, which is recognized throughout the nation as representing the best in modern safety regulation," he declared.

Tawes called for the following:

capita; Montgomery County Department of Public Libraries, $415,000, $2.68 per capita; Washington County Free Library, $101,500, $1.29; Carroll County Public Library, 1958 budget estimate, $36,185, $1.25 per capita; Takoma Park Public Library, $20,000, $1.57 per capita.

Previous articles have explained that the C. Burr Artz Library would be the hub for county service, that a county-wide system would benefit Frederick city as well as the county, and why it is economically important to establish such a system in 1959.

The next article will tell what other Maryland counties are doing, and what citizens and groups can do to insure rural library extension for Frederick county.

FOR JUDGE OF ORPHANS' COURT

NO. 18976 EQUITY In the Circuit Court for Frederick County, in Equity CHARLES RUSSELL BAKER vs. GERTRUDE E. BAKER

The object of this Bill is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATROMONII by the Plaintiff, Charles Russell Baker, from the Defendant, Gertrude E. Baker.

The Bill states in substance that the parties were married on April 8, 1946 in Cashtown, Pennsylvania, by a regularly ordained Minister of the Gospel; that the Plaintiff is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where he has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a resident of the State of Pennsylvania, her last postoffice address being R.F.D. No. 1, Orrtanna, Pennsylvania; that one child was born as a result of the marriage, this being Jeanne Marie Baker, who resides with her mother; that the parties voluntarily separated in or about the year 1951 and since said separation they have not cohabited or lived together as man and wife and have continued to voluntarily live separate and apart; and that there is no reasonable hope or expectation of a reconciliation between the parties. The Bill prays that the Defendant be divorced A VINCULO MATROMONII, and for general relief.

It is thereupon this 20th day of September, 1958, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Plaintiff give notice to the said non-resident Defendant of the objects and substance of this Bill by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 1st day of November, 1958, commanding her to be and appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 2nd day of December, 1958, and show cause, if any she has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

2. "Laws with teeth in them that will promptly deprive chronic offenders of their right to drive a car.
3. "Adoption of some sort of motor vehicle inspection.
4. "Extension of driver education courses.
5. "Expanding state police force so that roads may be more adequately patrolled.

The gubernatorial candidate pointed to many inadequacies in present regulations. "Maryland is today the only State which issues a license for life," he said. "In the eyes of the law in this State, you can be blind or completely paralyzed and yet be legally entitled to drive a car. The recent re-registration law is totally inadequate, providing merely for re-registration by mail, and serves no purpose other than to clear some of the dead wood from overloaded files." Tawes also pointed out that "a Maryland driver can have accident after accident, commit every violation in the book and still drive; as well as operate a car legally with nothing but baling wire to hold on the steering wheel."

Tawes stated that "authorities agree that the unimproved policeman on the highway is the best accident prevention measure there is. Yet, your chances of seeing a State Police patrol car in Maryland are slim. Accounting for those on leave or on other duty, there are only slightly over 100 men on highway patrol, on the average, at any given time. Since Maryland has about 4500 miles of state highways, this means you will meet a trooper once every 45 miles. Maryland is in the process of expanding its police force from 471 to 511 men. Yet, last year, the International Association of Police Chiefs said that Maryland ideally should have a state police force of 623.

In conclusion, Tawes explained that he intends to provide vigorous leadership "to get off dead center in this vital problem." "The people of this State will no longer tolerate needless deaths caused by failure of the State Government and the State Legislature to pass modern highway safety laws."

Some families can trace their ancestry back 300 years but haven't the slightest idea where their children were last night.

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Ocean Wealth

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Oct. 30—Those who invest in mining stocks should save a little money for investment in companies extracting minerals from oceans, lakes, and rivers. Every student knows that the oceans own incalculable mineral and food wealth. The bottoms of lakes have been collecting minerals from the surrounding watershed for thousands of years, while gold and uranium is still being secured from river beds. But this trip of 17 days from New York to Cape Town has impressed me especially with the mineral wealth of the oceans which cover three fifths of the earth.

The Greatest Undiscovered Treasures

The greatest boon to mankind was the discovery of fire; then the discovery of the wheel for transportation; then the discovery of steel and of electricity for industry. The latest great industries have been in connection with the telephone and the internal combustion engine, both of which are used by almost every householder. Yet there are other far more important things which few readers realize. For instance, that an acre of good sea floor can produce nine tons of clam meat, against one ton of beef, pork, or lamb on an acre of pasture. On land we farm only a few inches of topsoil, but the water turns out vegetable matter in far greater quantities and of far greater value. The ocean has a producing potential 200 times that of the land.

The valuable mines of the world today will be found in the ocean. We have barely begun to tap the chemical resources of oceans, rivers, and lakes, which contain most of the mineral wealth which has been washed off the land during millions of years. This includes hoards of gold, silver, iron, copper, lead, and, of course magnesium and iodine. This is my first thought as I land in South Africa.

What Of The Future?

Readers really interested in the subject should visit the institution founded by the Rockefellerers at Woods Hole, Mass. This institution has six vessels afloat with heavy cables to dredge the floor of the ocean several miles down. Many mines on land are developing ore discovered a mile or more below the surface, while oil wells extend down two or three miles. The ocean we know, however, is only as far down as fishermen can operate nets and draggers, the distance of a few hundred feet. The Navy is just waking up to the great importance of oceanography, as the next war will be fought both in the air and under the water.

I am much pleased that the government has selected Gloucester, Massachusetts, where I was born and raised, as the location of its fisheries laboratory. This laboratory's first work will be in connection with discovering, catching, processing, and marketing fish products. I hope however, it will begin the study of the wealth of the ocean in other ways, as is now being done in Africa. Readers will probably be offered stocks of new companies which will build private laboratories in the U. S., because a cubic mile of sea water contains more than 5,000,000 tons of useful essential chemicals. The most active U. S. company in this field today is the Dow Chemical Company, which has been successfully securing magnesium from sea water. Recently Merck & Company has been using this product to produce milk of magnesia, citrate of magnesia, and antacid powders. These last are extensively used in making steel, rubber, and ink. I am giving special attention to learning what Africa is doing along these lines.

Opportunity For Chemists

Just now "electronics" is the fad and many young men—not properly equipped in mathematics and physics—are rushing into this new industry. If, however, I were a young man just entering college, I would specialize in industrial chemistry with special reference to the oceans, which contain such huge quantities of magnesium, bismuth, iron and silver salts, and many other valuable compounds. In addition to the industrial products, the ocean provides vitamins for bread and flour enrichment, antibiotics to control infection, and stimulants for farm feeds.

I have great respect for doctors, but instead of training to be a doctor I should train to be a chemist or a manufacturer of pharmaceutical products. Otherwise, I should attend a school of business administration and learn to sell products made in electronically controlled automated factories or else the chemicals found in the ocean or air. Personally, I would rather be in the selling end of the business than in the manufacturing end if I lived in the United States. The great opportunities in South Africa should be to educate and capitalize the huge native labor force for manufacturing and exporting. Where To Secure Profits

As a hedge against inflation, I purchased some land near Eureka, Kansas, which has been planted in alfalfa. This gives me three crops a year, given normal rainfall. Most of it is baled and sold for cattle feed at about $20.00 per ton. Recently there has been a demand from a man in Indiana who is willing to pay $25.00 a ton for finely ground alfalfa. Checking through this profit, which comes from the processing, but I use it as an illustration that profit in the U. S. comes from manufacturing and merchandising rather than from agriculture. Another illustration of what I have in mind is the great success of the Nutrilite Company of Buena, California, which has thousands of men and women selling products which come from the ocean, or from the land or the air. I hope to find in Africa even greater opportunities for profit from products heretofore wasted. The exportation of "lobster tails" to the United States is the first to catch my eye.

You can't push someone else getting pretty close to the top to the top of the hill without yourself.

1958 Corn Crop Establishes Record

The Nation's corn crop is expected to average more than 50 bushels per acre this year for a new all-time high, according to information received by Julius P. Parran, Chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee. This chiefly accounts for the fact that the 1958 corn crop will set a new record, even though the acreage for harvest this fall is only slightly higher than the acreage harvested last year.

The 1958 national corn yield of 50.4 bushels per acre is well above the previous record of 46.8 last year and nearly a third above the 10-year average of 38.8 bushels per acre. In the Corn Belt, the average yield is indicated at 54.5 bushels, compared with the previous record of 53.1 last year.

Maryland's estimated yield per acre for 1958 is 67 bushels, topping the previous record set in 1956 by seven bushels and exceeding the 1958 average yield in the Corn Belt by 12.5 bushels, Mr. Parran states.

Robert B. Kimble, Executive Director, said the drop from August to September was due to the tapering off of the food-processing industry as the close of the growing season approaches.

He said the September increase over last year—only the second month this year in which there has been an increase over the comparable month of 1957—was the result of a fine crop yield this year and its corollary, increased activity in the food-processing industry. Last year's crops were hit by drought.

In Baltimore City, where food-processing is less a factor, September placements increased slightly over August, but were down 534 from September of last year. Last month's placements were distributed among all major segments of industry in the area.

The Department referred 10,083 applicants to employers in September, a decrease of 5.4 per cent from the 10,654 of August and a decrease of 4.8 per cent from the 10,593 of September of last year.

In Baltimore City, placements rose to 2,338 in September, up 4.2 per cent over the 2,243 of August, but down 18.6 per cent from the 2,872 of September, 1957.

Openings received in the Department's Baltimore Office in September totaled 3,066, a decrease of 1.1 per cent from the 3,100 of August and a decrease of 19.8 per cent from the 3,821 of September of last year.

The total number of openings available through the Baltimore Office in September was 4,512, up 7.9 per cent over the 4,180 of August, but down 28.1 per cent from the 6,281 of September, 1957.

Applicants referred to employers by the Baltimore Office in September totaled 4,712, an increase of 1.6 per cent over the 4,638 of August, but down 17.5 per cent from the 5,710 of September, 1957.

YOUNG IDEAS
from Polly Ponds

Q: "My hair is sort of mouse-colored. Do you think I'd look better if I dyed it a more interesting shade?"

A: No. Naturalness is your most appealing asset—and that includes the color of your hair.

Your hair will appear less neutral in tone if you wear light, bright colors—complexion make-up with a slightly rosy tint to it—and clear red lipstick.

A clean and shining head of hair is a dozen times more attractive than a brightly, but artificially, colored one. Shampoo yours once or twice a week and brush it dry. You'll discover it has all kinds of lovely highlights that completely take away its so-called "mousey" look.

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR Under The 'Virginia' Clock

by Wilma Dobie

Recently a cable was received at the Philip Morris Pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair: "Please tell the pretty brunette standing under the Virginia clock at 4 P.M. my leave cancelled. (signed) Frank." Promptly at 4, one of three charming hostesses in the pavillion carried the message to the beautiful but disappointed visitor.

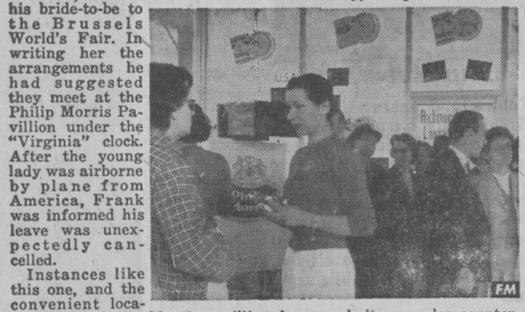

Frank, a U.S. airman stationed in Germany, had planned to take his bride-to-be to the Brussels World's Fair. In writing her the arrangements he had suggested they meet at the Philip Morris Pavilion under the "Virginia" clock. After the young lady was airborne by plane from America, Frank was informed his leave was unexpectedly cancelled.

Instances like this one, and the convenient location of the Philip Morris pavillion, have made it a popular counterpart of New York City's famed clock in Grand Central Station, as a handy meeting place. Visitors from all over the world, and particularly Americans at the Fair, have found the streamlined little building ideally located in the Belgian Section by the Esplanade Gate.

There is not just one clock, there are seven clocks flanking the inside of the pavillion. Each marks the time in two American States (Kentucky and Virginia) and in five nations—England, Panama, Venezuela, Australia, and Switzerland—where the cigarette company has manufacturing plants turning out its Marlboro, Parliament, and Philip Morris cigarettes. The flags of these states and nations fly there, too.

The lush, fertile soil of the two famous tobacco-growing states, sent by Governors James L. Almond, Jr. of Virginia and Albert B. Chandler of Kentucky, is on exhibit. In a congratulatory letter to Philip Morris, Gov. Chandler wrote: "... Kentucky salutes you in your efforts to assist the people of the world to have a better and more basic view of our Nation. Friendship among nations is based on an understanding of the people of all countries. The recognition of your efforts in this undertaking are reflected in the warm greetings of Kentuckians in extending to you our best wishes for the success of your exhibit."

Inside the air-conditioned pavillion's interior (which is pleasantly heated on cool days) soft music plays while attractive hostesses answer questions about the cigarette company's exhibit in English, French, Spanish and German. Chief attraction is a 7½-minute color film, narrated in four languages, describing the modern manufacturing operations in Philip Morris plants. Rendezvousing in this American pavillion is not only convenient, but interesting—and fun!

FRUIT
Apple harvest is moving to a close. It is time to plan for the clean-up in the orchard by picking up drop apples, or raking up rotted peaches under trees in home plantings. These fruits carry brown rot over the winter. Harvested apples should be stored in a place where the temperature is as near 32 degrees F., as possible. Apples should be moved into this cold place soon after picking.

The storage unit should have proper ventilation around the containers. Ventilation is usually provided by allowing proper space between the containers and the walls, also between the stacks of containers. There should be stripping on the floor under the stacks to allow for ventilation at the floor. Humidity is also essential to prevent fruit shrivelling.

The usual commercial equipment allows for these things, but in the case of home storage, where temperature depends upon outside night air, it is necessary to have proper flues, windows, or fans. Moisture may be provided by sprinkling the floor or the fruit if stored in field crates or slatted bins. Fairly good results are had in home storage where the apples are stored in sheds, or back porches, being first placed on straw, then covered sufficiently with more straw and some heavy building paper or old carpets, to allow fruit to get cold but not to freeze.

Examine the orchard carefully for mouse damage to trees. Use a spade or mattock to remove some soil from around the base of suspicious-looking trees. If mouse injury is serious, plan to use an endrin ground spray in November.

The strawberry planting may be weedy again, especially with chickweed. Clean it up. After about 10 days, apply a spray mixed at the rate of one pound Chloro-IPC powder or one quart of the liquid plus two pounds of Sesone powder in 50 gallons of water, to cover an acre. Or use five level tablespoons of Sesone powder, and two level tablespoons of CIPC in three gallons of water to cover 1000 square feet.

It's time to begin cleaning up tools and equipment and checking fire hazards. Better drain the spraying equipment before it's forgotten and freeze later. There is a growing feeling that engines are better off with anti-freeze over winter as the dry machine may develop rust flakes and later clog up. Drain and use rust inhibitor in summer.

The question of all fertilizing of fruit trees may come up. Fertilizer applied in September or October does not affect the color of fruit still on the tree. There may be some loss of material by leaching from the soil. Whatever is taken into the tree roots is stored there. Winter injury does not seem to be influenced by fall fertilization in this area.

If fall fertilization must be done, use some slower-acting materials like sulfate of ammonia, or cyanamide. However, it is better, if possible to wait until mid-March and apply any of the nitrogen fertilizers desired, either alone or with a complete mixture of phosphorus and potash carriers.

It's not too early to think of ordering that new nursery stock to replace old, weak, unsatisfactory trees or to try some new dependable varieties.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Unlike many birds and insects, man has no homing instinct or sense of direction, says Col. Townsend Whelen, Camping Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. This has been proved scientifically many times. Homo sapiens, however, has his five senses—sight, smell, hearing, touch, taste—which, if applied as they should be, will guide him surely and safely. But there are many of us who do not trust our senses, cannot apply them to strange problems.

Keeping from getting lost is simply a matter of remembering where you go, where you are at any moment and the direction and distance from your starting point. It will be obvious to you that if you start off from your base in a northern direction, travel three miles or an hour that way, then turn east and travel a similar distance, that a course of about 4½ miles in a south-west direction will bring you back to your starting point.

But you must travel in fairly straight directions. That is, you must always know which way is north, east, south and west. In other words, you must keep oriented. Ordinarily this is easy. In the United States the sun always rises in a general easterly direction and sets in the general direction of the western horizon, and in the Northern Hemisphere it is always in the general direction of south at noon. Bearing in mind the time of day, you can thus tell the points of the compass from the shadows cast by the trees.

But what about cloudy weather when these natural signs are not visible? For such weather, if you are wise, you will always have a pocket compass with you. Be sure you choose one in which the north end of the needle is positively marked.

If you keep track of your progress through the woods by making a map as you go, noting the direction and time of your travel, you should never have any trouble returning to your starting point.

Habitual worry simply puts the headlight on the tail-end.

Your Personal Health

That Nagging Backache

Few complaints are more familiar to a woman's doctor than a nagging backache. Yet, because it is a common ailment, many women think it's not important enough to bother the doctor about.

It's foolish to suffer a backache in silence, and it can be dangerous. Pain in the back can be a symptom of many ailments, some trivial, some serious. It's important to give the doctor a chance to find out the cause. Once he knows the cause he can tell what should be done to ease or cure it or prevent it from happening again. When relief may come from something as simple as a change in shoe style, it's silly to do nothing.

Women really do have more trouble with their backs than men do. This isn't because they're the weaker sex, but because of their different anatomy, body functions, and job habits. No male occupation is more likely to cause back strain than a woman's housework and child care. Pregnancy causes more abnormal strain on the bones and muscles of the back than the most strenuous sports.

Many pregnant women don't take proper precautions against lifting, reaching, stretching, and pulling motions which may easily displace ligaments and cartilage. The results of carelessness show up as many as fifteen years later. It's especially important to be careful during the latter months of pregnancy. A woman who persists in straining her sagging back by wearing high heels, carrying heavy bundles of groceries, picking up squirming children, sleeping in a bed that's too soft, or sitting in a chair that doesn't give back support, is guaranteeing herself an immediate backache and possible serious trouble later on.

Tavern Operator Acquitted Of Charges

An Emmitsburg tavern operator and an employe were found not guilty Saturday on charges of illegal sale of alcoholic beverages to minors at a hearing before Magistrate C. D. Gillelan in Emmitsburg. The verdicts freed George Wagerman and Clarence Ohler, the defendants.

A State source said the acquittals came on a legal technicality. State Trooper 1/c William G. Morgan preferred the charges after taking a statement from two 18-year-old boys after he had stopped the car in which they were riding on a motor vehicle charge. He said he confiscated some beer which was in the machine. The boys were alleged to have purchased the beer from the defendants October 12. Edwin F. Nikirk represented the defendants.

Utterback's Tavern at Lewistown was completely destroyed by fire early Saturday morning.

The frame structure, located on U. S. 15 at the southern end of Lewistown, was beyond saving when firemen from the Independent Hose Company of Frederick, Thurmont and Walkersville arrived on the scene. Water was pumped from nearby Fishing Creek on the burning embers. Efforts were concentrated on preventing spread of the blaze to nearby properties.

The tavern, owned by Lester Utterback, has been operated for the past year by John Ramsburg of Lewistown.
