As a lady columnist I am not very dextrous in the knowledge of the plumbing profession or sanitation rules but I have been told by interested parties that there's trouble afoot, and plenty of it, for those propertyowners who are going ahead and making preparations to connect to the new sewer line. I feel there's no better authority to admonish the offenders than a member of the State Health Dept. And that's exactly what happened this week in Emmitsburg. On an inspection tour here the department attache discovered one citizen already had made what he thought were the prescribed methods of correct plumbing. The individual was highly chagrined and embarrassed when he learned that he had made at least half a dozen infractions of the state plumbing code and will have to undo what he already has done. I am told the smart thing to do is to wait until the proper authorities come up with the "specs" for the job, and that isn't far in the offing as the line is fast nearing completion. There are certain connection traps, pipe sizes, etc. which must conform with the state code so before you go off half-cocked please be certain the work is inspected by some recognized, and authorized, party or else you'll be asking for trouble. There's really no hurry folks, you'll be given ample notice and allowed sufficient time to do the job the right way, so the wise thing to do would be to forget the matter for the time being.

The number of new registrants for the coming town election is marvellous. The interest being generated in the election. For the past two years registrations have been growing in volume until now a list of over 500 has been compiled. Additional symptoms of renewed interest are shown by the fact that several candidates have already filed for the coming election on May 4. The task of governing a town of this size has multiplied a number of times over during the past decade or so and it is well, I believe, to have a number of aspirants to the office, in the hope the best qualified one will win the post. One thing is certain and that is the more that run for office the better chance we have of electing a man with the necessary qualifications. The Town Council, with its ear attuned to public favor and sentiment, has loosened the reins of registration procedure and now the public will have three months to get signed up, instead of the usual half day which has been in effect for almost a century. I call this a step in the right direction and feel the Mayor and his Council should be commended for their action which should make it considerably easier for the general public to get registered and participate in our little elections here. Possibly another factor which spurred a number of citizens to register this year, was the newly-organized Junior Citizens Committee which went all out to get the registrants, and the voters. This is the kind of interest I like to see and which I feel will lead us to better and more intelligent voting in the future.

Alumni Dance

A May Dance, sponsored by the Emmitsburg High School Alumni Association, will be held on Friday night, May 1, in the Emmitsburg VFW Annex from 9-12 p. m. Music will be furnished by Phil Young's Orchestra from Chambersburg, Pennsylvania.

The public and fellow alumni members are cordially invited to attend this dance. Tickets are on sale now or may be obtained at the door the night of the dance.

Completes Course

John M. Fuss Jr., R2, Emmitsburg, recently completed the Executive's Data Processing Methods course given by the International Business Machines Corp. Machines studied included business machines and their adoption to accounting functions.

Mr. Fuss is senior accountant and auditor in the Philadelphia office of Arthur Anderson and Company, a world-wide auditing and administrative services firm.

Three File For Local Election

As was predicted, the largest number of registrants in a number of years, turned out for Monday's registration prior to the town election which will be held on Monday, May 4.

Registrar Charles D. Gillelan closed Monday's registration with 39 new names added to the election roster. This figure ran the total number of registered to over 500. For several days the number was well over 500 but after the registrar began clearing the list of ineligible voters the number shrank to a mere 442 after 60 names had been removed. Removals consisted of those people moving out of town or dying during recent years.

Interest in the coming election was generated by a local Junior Citizens Committee which had placards posted about town and advertisements in the paper urging local citizens to exercise their voting privilege by registering in the local election.

According to information at least two have filed as candidates for the office of Town Commissioner. To be elected at the coming election is a Burgess and one Commissioner. Friends of Burgess Clarence G. Frailey have been urging him to again seek the office and the incumbent Mayor has filed for re-election. Should Wales E. Rightmour decide to run for re-election a three-way race is in prospect. Two other local citizens, J. Norman Flax and Ernest "Pete" Duple, already have filed with the town clerk their candidacy as Town Commissioner, the post currently being held by Mr. Rightmour. Individuals desiring to run for office have until midnight, April 24, to file with the town clerk in writing.

Mrs. K. Wagaman New Service Director For Gas Company

The Hagerstown Gas Company has announced the appointment of Mrs. Carolyn Wagaman, Emmitsburg, as home service director to succeed Mrs. Betty Schmidt Coss, who has resigned.

Mrs. Wagaman has already assumed her duties with the utility company, and will be in her office daily to assist area homeowners with their problems and to arrange demonstrations for groups.

Mrs. Wagaman received her A.B. degree in home economics from George Washington University, with additional graduate studies at the University of Maryland and George Washington University.

Prior to her appointment, she was associated with Farm Security, O.P.A., and other governmental agencies in home economic capacities. She was a home economist with the Washington Gas Light Company and International Harvester Company.

She is an active homemaker and mother, participating in PTA and other civic organizations.

Mrs. Wagaman is the president of the Western Maryland Home Economics Group, a cabinet member of the Maryland Home Economics Association, and a member of the American Home Economics Association.

Youth Fellowship Meeting Held

The regular meeting of the Tom's Creek Methodist Youth Fellowship was held Sunday evening, April 19, with 14 present. The meeting was opened with singing of hymns. Robert Beale, president, then presided with the minutes of the previous meeting read and approved and the treasurer's report given.

It was decided that a skating party would be held Friday evening, April 24 at the roller rink in Waynesboro, Pa. All those desiring to attend the skating party will meet at the church at 6:30 p. m., where transportation will be furnished.

The topic for the evening presented by Warren Bentz, was "A Christian's Responsibility." Rev. Johnson discussed the possibility of holding a Bible School this summer, and he also stressed the importance of daily prayer.

A period of bible study was held, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. John Owens and children, Baltimore, spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Thornton Rodgers.

Alumnae Will Gather Here

Alumnae from every section of the nation will gather in Emmitsburg on Saturday to celebrate the 150th Anniversary of Saint Joseph College. More than 500 guests are expected to participate in the tribute to the college and its foundress, Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton, who emigrated from Baltimore to Emmitsburg in the college chapel. The sermon for the alumnae observances include the presence of the Most Reverend Francis P. Keough, D. D., Archbishop of Baltimore, who will celebrate a Pontifical Mass in the college chapel. The sermon will be delivered by the Most Reverend Jerome D. Sebastian, D. D., Auxiliary Bishop of the Baltimore archdiocese. Following a Sesquicentennial luncheon, the days program will feature a reunion schedule of activities to recall the various stages of the Saint Joseph College history, from the days of Mother Seton's arrival in Emmitsburg, in 1809, to the present.

The assembled alumnae will pay tribute to Mother Seton with a group visit to the tomb of their foundress, with comments prepared by Mrs. Edwin Grimes, of Baltimore. Mrs. Joseph May, also of Baltimore, will offer a special toast to the Class of 1934, who are celebrating their Silver Jubilee during the sesquicentennial year.

Miss Mary Lou Manning is National President of the Saint Joseph College Alumnae Association. Mrs. Rita Remavage is president of the Emmitsburg Chapter, Mrs. John Mick, secretary-treasurer and Miss Louise Sebald, is chairman of the Mother Seton Committee.

MATTHEWS CO. OBSERVING ANNIVERSARY

Emmitsburg's dean of businessmen, Francis S. K. Matthews, will observe the 25th anniversary of his entry into the gas business in this area on Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25.

Mr. Matthews has been in business in Emmitsburg since 1911 and at present operates two stores, one locally and another in Thurmont. For his anniversary the celebrant has planned a two-day open house for the general public and on display will be the latest models of household appliances including washers, dryers, fryers, ranges, water heaters, television sets and many others.

The management is offering as a door prize a dinette set, Corning cookingware and kitchen fryer. All guests entering the stores, both here and in Thurmont, will be given an opportunity to register free, for the drawing of these prizes. In addition, each one entering the store will receive some small gift in token of the management's appreciation.

In the 25 years Mr. Matthews has been affiliated with the Happy Cooking Gas firm, affiliated with Fuelane Corp., he has built up his list of patrons until at the present time he is servicing over 1000 customers in the area. During the two-day anniversary there will be a number of cooking demonstrations by experts in the field and the public is cordially invited to attend these demonstrations on the new Micro-Wave gas range. Fuelane Corp., one of the nation's largest, serves several million customers from Maine to Maryland.

Thurmont May Name Town Manager Soon

Thurmont residents have given the Board of Commissioners the "green light" to select a full-time town manager—under consideration for the past two years.

The action was taken last week at a town meeting attended by 50 to 60 residents, after a committee reported on the results of a study of the proposed system. The manager would plan town work and see that it was carried out. The Board of Commissioners would continue to be the governing body and the manager would see to it that the decisions of the board were carried out.

Also discussed and voted favorably upon at the meeting was the advisability of extending the term of the president of the town board to two years and the commissioners' terms to four years.

Miss Octavia Troxell, Westminster, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Troxell.

Local Couple To Celebrate 50th

Mr. Thomas H. and Rosa C. Martins, Thurmont R2, Kelbaugh Road near St. Anthony's, will observe their golden wedding anniversary on April 27.

The couple was married in Baltimore on April 27, 1909 at St. John's Catholic Church. They resided there until 1950 when Mr. Martins retired from the Baltimore Gas and Electric Co., after 45 years' service.

The Martins were not newcomers here, they spent their summer vacations at the home of Mrs. Martins' parents, the late Abraham J. and Margaret Bailey, St. Anthony's. Mr. Martins is 73 years old and is a native of Baltimore while Mrs. Martins is 72 years of age. They have four children, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The children are Mrs. Thomas J. Berger, Mrs. John M. Moore, Thomas J. Martins, all of Baltimore, and George E. Martins of St. Anthony's.

Committee Suggests Additional Safety Measures Be Taken

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

In the past five or six weeks two of our local schoolchildren have been hit by cars either going to or coming from school. We know that the Safety Patrol is on duty, but these are boys no older than the ones they are to control, even so are doing a fine job. Both accidents occurred in the area of the Square or the Post Office corner. We don't want this town to wait until one of the children is hurt beyond repair or killed before we wake up and see that this is a civic project. Taneytown and other towns close by have adult roadguards at the busy crossings, why don't we? After much discussion we feel that the next five or six weeks of school should not be overlooked. Spring and summer is a time for winters energy to be left out. This means the kids going to and coming from school may be jumping, running and playing as they go. Traffic will increase over Route 15 and our hazard is doubled.

Act Now! Give the following plan consideration and don't delay for the next accident could be a fatal one.

First—Couldn't the town officer be on patrol at the Square during the time from 8 a. m. until 8:45 a. m. and then 3 p. m. until 3:45 p. m. Just his being there would cause traffic to slow down and the children would respect his authority.

Second—Could we have adult roadguards both at the Texaco Service Station and at the crossing to Mother Seton School. These guards could be adults, either male or female who would give their time or even a retired man would be glad to get the job to have something to do. If need be give the guards each $5 a week for protecting our children.

Third—Why can't we have SLOW DOWN 15 MPH—SCHOOL ZONE signs for the middle of the road a safe distance south of the Mother Seton School—again at Prof. Greco's and again at Bucher's. The middle one to read from both directions. Don't let traffic speed up. This has been happening quite a bit.

The above plan is just a suggestion for the rest of this school year. Then in September with the new street being put into use, all school children could be asked to use it. This would then only call for an officer on duty at the Square.

Do not delay in acting for it may save a life.

Sincerely,
The Juniors Citizens Committee
Note: A copy of this letter has been sent to the Burgess and Commissioners.

Editor's Note: Prior to publication of the above article members of the Town Council indicated that positive steps would be taken at its next regular meeting on Monday, May 4, to provide additional protection for local school children at crossings. The matter has been under advisement for some time.

Patience is the art of solving problems by letting them alone.

Firemen Start Drive

Chairman Guy R. McLaughlin of the financial drive of the Vigilant Hose Co., announced this week that the drive was officially under way and that letters asking for contributions have been mailed to every property owner and tenant in the Emmitsburg District. Over 1200 letters containing self-addressed envelopes and a coupon for mailing in donations, have been placed in the mails.

For the past decade this method of obtaining financial assistance has been used and has produced remarkable results bringing annually almost $3000. The goal of $4000 has been set this year and it is hoped to meet this sum, most of which will be placed in the new truck fund. In another two years the local fire company will be required to purchase another new pumper if it is to retain its present rating with the Underwriters Bureau.

Chairman McLaughlin announced that the usual procedure of canvassing will take place except in the Corporation of Emmitsburg. On May 5, the firemen will man the fire trucks and canvass the town in one evening, and at a later date will canvas the rest of the District for all of those who do not respond or who haven't received one of the form letters. He urges early mailing of the returns so the drive can be concluded as soon as possible.

Local residents are urged to donate generously to the drive so the firemen can maintain its many useful pieces of equipment and possibly expand its present housing facilities.

The public's attention is called to a questionnaire which was enclosed in the envelope and other information data sheets this week. The firemen are quite anxious to compile an index of all local rural property owners and the exact location of their home and also the best routes to take to get there the quickest. It also is interested in what water supplies are available at the rural properties in cases of emergencies. The public is urged to fill out the questionnaire and return it with their contributions.

'Cyclist Killed In Mishap

A Carroll County motorcyclist was killed instantly when his cycle skidded as he attempted a left turn at the intersection of Route 194 and the Crouse Mill Road at Taneytown Monday at about 5:45 p. m.

Clifford Leroy Stansbury, 20, of Keymar R1, died of a fractured skull, Dr. James T. Marsh, Carroll County medical examiner, said. He also suffered a fractured left arm and leg.

Maryland State Trooper George C. Wachter Jr., said that apparently Stansbury lost control of his 1958 Hasley-Davidson motorcycle. The cycle skidded and overturned throwing Stansbury against a bridge abutment, Wachter said.

A son of William J. and Elizabeth Wilson Stansbury, the dead cyclist was a member of the Taneytown American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps.

Surviving are his parents; two brothers, Howard Stansbury, of Frederick, and Grover Stansbury, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Theodore Wolf, Emmitsburg, and Mrs. Junior Miller, Silver Run; two half-brothers, Charles Stansbury, Uniontown, and William Stansbury Jr., Westminster, and two half-sisters, Mrs. Charles Sullivan, Wilmington, Del., and Mrs. Paul Shorb, Taneytown.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at the Fuss Funeral Home, Taneytown, with the Rev. Cameron Johnson officiating. Interment was in the Keyville Cemetery.

PRE-SCHOOL REGISTRATION DATE SET

Parents of pre-school age children and transfer students planning to attend the local Public School next fall are urged to attend a meeting on Monday, April 27, at 2 p. m. in the local school. Children are eligible if six years of age on or before December 31, 1959. Principal Arvin P. Jones, the County Health Nurse and Mrs. A. L. Leary, first grade teacher, will meet the parents and explain the necessary regulations. Parents should bring the child's birth certificate at this time.

Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone in 1876, lived to be 75 years old.

High School Glee Club Concert May 3

The Glee Club of Saint Joseph High School will hold its annual spring concert, Sunday, May 3, in the high school auditorium. The Director, Rev. David W. Shaum, has planned an operetta based on life in the antebellum South. Preceding this, the group will sing a miscellany of songs from their repertoire, including selections from the Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals "Oklahoma" and "Carousel." Featured will be soloists, Antoinette Elliot, Rebecca Chrimer, Noreen Hayes, Alice Sherwin, Una Lee Simmons, Elizabeth Tepe, Terence Best, John Balmer, William Henshaw, Thomas Seltzer, Philip Wetzel and John Williams. William Henshaw will play a clarinet solo, accompanied by John Balmer. Father Shaum will direct the sixty-voice chorus.

OBITUARIES

LESTER E. CROUSE

Lester Lee Crouse, 61, well-known plumber and heating engineer of Emmitsburg and Thurmont, died suddenly Friday morning at his home in Thurmont. He was a son of Mrs. Elizabeth Ender Crouse, Gettysburg, and the late Ellsworth Crouse. He was a member of the Eagles and Moose lodges, Gettysburg, and the Emmitsburg Lions Club. He had been at his work as usual Thursday.

Ohler Rites Held

Funeral services were held from the Wilson Funeral Home, W. Main St., Saturday afternoon for Guy Willard Ohler, 51, who died at his home, Emmitsburg R1, last Wednesday. The Rev. Cameron Johnson officiated and interment was made in the United Brethren Cemetery, Thurmont.

The pallbearers were Willbur Umble, Guy Cool, Charles Knox, Joseph Geiselman, Benjamin Wetzel and James Bentz.

MRS. FLORENCE SANDERS

Mrs. Florence E. Sanders, 74, widow of Edward C. Sanders, died at her home in Gettysburg, Friday morning. She had suffered a stroke last Thursday and another on the morning she died.

Mrs. Sanders was born near Emmitsburg and was a daughter of the late William and Sarah (Turner) Hardman. She had lived in Gettysburg for the last 55 years.

For 35 years she and her late husband had operated a grocery store on Steinwehr Ave. and since her husband's death in 1952, she had continued the store business.

Mrs. Sanders was a member of the St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church and of the Women of the Moose in Gettysburg.

Surviving are these children: Mrs. Ray Sanders, Gettysburg; Anthony, at home; Mrs. Clarence Hardman, Mrs. Harry Small, Mrs. Patrick Bolen, Mrs. Richard Gardner and Mrs. Raymond Hardman, all of Gettysburg; Francis L. Sanders, Gettysburg R5; Mrs. Harold Miller, Gettysburg, and Mrs. Robert Hunter, Ashland, Ky. There are 27 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

These brothers and sisters also survive: Mrs. Marjorie Stouter, Emmitsburg; David Hardman, of Frederick; Joseph Hardman, Gettysburg; Vincent, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Clair Foulk, Gettysburg; Mrs. Irving Plattenburg, Cash-town.

Funeral services were held on Monday morning with requiem mass at the St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church with the Rev. Fr. Anthony Kane officiating. Interment was in St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery, Fairfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rodgers and son, Michael, Baltimore, visited over the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Topper and Mrs. Thornton Rodgers.

Mr. and Mrs. Carol Topper and family, Allentown, and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Topper and family, Harrisburg, visited recently with Mrs. Stella Topper and daughters.

Registration Procedure Amended

Emmitsburgians still not registered on the town's books for the regular election Monday, May 4, have been granted the privilege of registering up until the end of May, Mayor Clarence G. Frailey announced this week.

The Mayor made the statement after empowering the registrar, Charles D. Gillelan, to register all eligible voters. For some years now public sentiment has favored an extended registration period and after discussing the matter this week Council agreed to keep open the books until after the election, extending the period through the entire month of May for those desiring to register for next year's election.

The registration books will be open every Friday evening during the hours the tax collector operates, in the town office.

In addition, the Mayor stated that henceforth the registration books will remain open during the three months of March, April and May, for future elections. Those citizens who missed last Monday's registration have an opportunity to register for the Monday, May 4 election, on two occasions the next two Friday evenings prior to election day, which will be April 24 and May 1. It is understood that this procedure will be permanent and will be valid for all future town elections unless otherwise revoked.

KNIGHTS PLAN SUMMER SOCIAL AFFAIR

Delegates to the state convention of the Knights of Columbus, to be held in Ocean City, Md., May 22-24, were appointed at the regular meeting of Brute Council 1860, held Monday night in the council home, Grand Knight Guy A. Baker Sr., presiding with 40 members in attendance. Delegates and alternates are J. Laurence Orendorff, delegate, Francis Sanders and Everett Chrimer, alternates.

A communication from Prince George's Council was received inviting the local Council to attend its 20th anniversary observance on June 27. An invitation was received from the Westminster Council inviting the local group to attend its 50th anniversary in Westminster on May 9 and a number of local Knights is planning to attend the affair. A commendation from the Supreme Headquarters in New Haven, Conn. was received in recognition of the increased membership of the local Council during the past year, when it added 19 new members to its roster.

J. Laurence Orendorff, general chairman of the annual Communion Breakfast, reported the affair will be held May 17 in St. Joseph's High School cafeteria following the 8:30 Mass at St. Joseph's Church. Everett Chrimer, chairman of the hi-fi set raffle, reported an encouraging sale of tickets to date.

Applications for membership were received from Joseph A. Donnelly and Allen F. Krietz. The Grand Knight appointed the following nominating committee to select a list of nominees for council offices and to present the list at the next regular meeting: J. Everett Chrimer, Francis Arnold and Dominic Greco. The promotion of some type of summer social event was discussed and the following committee appointed to handle the arrangements: Lumen F. Norris, Richard J. McCullough, Frank S. Topper, William Sanders and William L. Topper. The affair will be held out-of-doors and members will be permitted to bring guests. It was agreed at the meeting the Fourth Degree members of the council would attend the communion breakfast in full regalia.

Baseball Practice Saturday

An important practice session of the Emmitsburg Baseball Club has been called for Saturday afternoon at 1:30 in preparation for the opening game of the Pen-Mar League on Sunday at Blue Ridge Summit. It is requested that all players be present for this practice as uniforms will be issued and other important items completed.

It is requested by the management that any one having a uniform from former years and not playing this year, turn it in at the local ball field Saturday afternoon.

Tulip Festival Colorful Affair

Ottawa, Canada's national capital, which each Spring presents one of the most colorful floral displays in North America, is anticipating that its plus million-blossom Tulip Festival, from May 15 to May 30, will be the most glorious in years.

Winter conditions have been ideal. Since November, a million tulip bulbs planted along the capital's 24 miles of scenic parkways have been protected by a thick but fluffy-light blanket of snow, which horticulturists say has provided the best wintering conditions in years.

The tulips and hundreds of thousands of other spring flowers — mainly crocus and daffodils — are in 29 main flower beds throughout the city. Most of the beds are set on slopes to provide sequence and balance to achieve eye-catching display.

Thousands of tourists come to Ottawa from all points in the United States and Canada to see the breath-taking mass of color that spreads out before the Parliament Buildings and along the Rideau Canal Parkway. There are some 200 varieties of tulips in the displays. While picture-taking possibilities are abundant, this year special attention will be given amateur color photographers. Last year, Holland's tulip queen, Leni Quant, presented several thousand bulbs to the city to make a special plot for photographers.

The new plot was created on Major Hill Park, behind Canadian National Railways' famed Chateau Laurier Hotel. The strategic location allows tourists to photograph the tulips with several striking backgrounds, including the Chateau, the Parliament Buildings and the beautiful Gattineau Hills across the Ottawa River from the capital.

Miss Quant's present is one of many from Holland. The festival began after World War Two,

Queen Juliana, of The Netherlands, annually makes a gift of 15,000 choice Holland tulip bulbs to Ottawa in appreciation of her wartime stay in the capital city and of the people of her country for the part Canadian soldiers played in liberating the Dutch homeland.

when Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, who spent the war years in Ottawa, sent 100,000 bulbs to Ottawa upon her return to The Netherlands. Every year since then she has sent 15,000. Thousands of bulbs have also been sent by the Associated Bulb Growers of Holland.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Unemployment

BABSON PARK, Mass., Apr. 23—Readers must be disturbed by the contrary reports from Washington about the employment situation. One report claims there are more employed today than there were a year ago—or perhaps ever—while another report says there are more unemployed than a year ago. Probably both of these claims are correct. It is easily possible, owing to the natural growth in population and to other factors which I will now enumerate:

Four Reasons For Unemployment

(1) Manufacturers, retailers, and labor are pricing themselves out of business. Most investors put all the blame on labor; but each group wants more and tries to raise prices or wages to secure additional money. Finally, the public buys fewer goods, which results in retailers laying off clerks, manufacturers laying off workers. It is a 'merry-go-round' with all groups to blame.

(2) Government imposes taxes for defense social security, old age, pensions, farm and foreign aid, roadbuilding, etc. These taxes make everyone mad and we unconsciously take it out on labor by reducing the number of our employees.

(3) Foreign imports are constantly increasing. Low wages in Germany, Italy, Japan, and other countries enable these nations to export to us all kinds of manufactured products at low prices which our own manufacturers cannot meet. This is even after the foreign manufacturers pay the import duties. Yet we dare not raise these duties for fear these nations will cease to be our allies and turn to Russia. Every store in your city is carrying some imported goods. When you buy them, you are putting good American wageworkers out of a job. Yet we must buy these goods or Russia will get the business and we will lose a valuable friend.

(4) Many manufacturers are either building plants abroad to hire very efficient workers at very low wages or are adopting automation. Retailers install "self-service" and build great supermarkets. These changes throw more wageworkers out of employment.

Four Ways To Increase Employment

(1) I believe in the American wageworker. He is fair and intelligent. Unfortunately, however, his union leader knows that to hold his own job, at $20,000 a year, he must get wage increases for his members. This he does by forcing members to agree to his threats to employees by the use of standing votes. The most helpful thing Congress could do for wageworkers and consumers would be to legislate that all strike votes shall be by secret ballot.

(2) The U. S. Justice Department should be encouraged to prevent monopolies by unnecessary consolidations. When employers combine, they usually do so either to raise prices or to reduce manufacturing costs. As a result certain wageworkers are thrown out of work. Might it not be fair to require a period of time—agreed upon in advance—before prices are raised or any employees discharged? Surely the stockholders should be willing to make some temporary sacrifice when they vote for these consolidations.

(3) Both aging employers and wageworkers should take advantage of Social Security and gladly retire from active work when reaching 65 years of age. The simplest method of decreasing unemployment would be to reduce the legal work week to 35 hours; but this would result in more foreign imports and "the cure would be worse than the disease." Please note that I include the older officers of corporations as well as the wageworkers. To reduce unemployment among the younger groups, more of them should be sent to college.

(4) Let me close by saying that the basic difficulty is that both employers and wageworkers are in "cold wars" with other nations. These economic wars will be settled fairly only when all groups are willing to "give and take." Employers, wageworkers and consumers all must be willing to abide by the Golden Rule rather than use force; strikes are only legalized wars. Also, all of us must be willing to fight the liquor evil, which is one of the causes of unemployment.

Shenandoah Downs Set For May 1 Night Opening

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. — Shenandoah Downs, the $4 million race track completed here this spring, introduces night thoroughbred racing here next Friday, kicking off a 62-night premier meeting.

Governor Cecil H. Underwood, of West Virginia will dedicate the colorful plant at 7:30, and present the trophy to the winner of the Governor's Purse, $5,000 opening night feature. Underwood's participation will begin a two-night opening program.

On Saturday, Sen. Jennings Randolph will officiate, receiving Miss Shenandoah Valley from the annual Winchester Apple Blossom Festival on behalf of the State of West Virginia. Randolph will preside at presentation ceremonies following the first running of the $3,000 Apple Blossom Shenandoah's salute to the Winchester spectacle.

Shenandoah Downs, the newest track in America, is lighted with more than a million watts, making it the best illuminated oval in America, according to lighting engineers who have tested it. Meters show the stretch lighting almost equal to that of a sunny afternoon. The track features dining in the terraced clubhouse for 580 patrons, a grandstand cafeteria where full meals are served, parking for 3500 automobiles, and chair seats in the second deck of the clubhouse.

The power to preserve peace is what we all pray for, hope for, today. One way to prepare for it is to buy U. S. Savings Bonds systematically.

Clean Up Cluttered Car Now

By Martha Johnson
Dodge Safety Consultant

THE FAMILY CAR needs a "housecleaning" this time of the year.

Get rid of the debris under the seat, in the trunk and on the rear window ledge.

Clean out that small library stuffed under the sun visor—receipts, bills, trading stamps...

And have you looked in the glove compartment lately? Discard those old emery boards, crumpled letters and torn, out-of-date road maps. Replace these "treasures" with necessary and useful articles—cleaning fluid and a clean rag or paper towel for the windows, a windshield scraper, flashlight, sunglasses and your automobile registration.

In the trunk, throw out emergency gasoline containers unless they are an approved metal type, painted red with a tight-fitting cap, the youngsters' torn boots, broken sled and sweep out the pine needles from last Winter's Christmas tree.

Put in gloves and a piece of carpet for changing tires and making small repairs, tire jack, a bag of salt or sand for traction on slick surfaces, tools for changing tires. Borrow an idea from experienced truck drivers, and include one of those reflectors he sets out when he is stopped by the side of the road.

You will be surprised, in most cases there is lots of room for all the important items—plus six passengers.

General Electric Boss Was Once a Dirt Farmer

General Electric head drove 33-horse team

Men Who Make America Great

Today he manages big electronics firm

By LOUIS JAMES

When he was in his teens Ralph Cordiner sat atop a big harvester on his father's 1200 acre Washington State farm and drove a 33-horse team all day long.

To do that you need powerful shoulder and arm muscles—and an iron-firm command. Cordiner had it.

Today, he sits at the helm of General Electric—one of the world's industrial giants—and manages about a quarter of a million employees in 166 plants in 132 cities in 31 states, 2 Canadian provinces and Puerto Rico.

His philosophy: delegate!

Short, wiry, keen-eyed, 58-year-old, Ralph Cordiner made this majestic leap from harvester to chairman of the board of GE with the aid of a philosophy. The day is over, he believes, when one man needs to drive a 23-horse team and, similarly, when a single genius can run a whole industry.

Cordiner insists on delegating work and responsibility to the utmost. Since taking over at GE in 1950 he has begun a decentralization process that is a marvel of the industry.

Every executive down to the plant manager now has broad authority to run his own show. "A man must have responsibility in his work," Cordiner claims. "This is one way of giving dignity back to the individual." And it works.

RALPH CORDINER

In the eight years since becoming president, he has doubled GE's sales volume. Last year, GE sold over $4.3 billion of electrical and diversified products and earned $248 million. Which, perhaps, proves his point.

Cordiner was born in Walla Walla, studied economics at Whitman College and sold washing machines to pay his tuition. Playing college football, he learned a vital fact. It is the basis of his business philosophy.

"To make consistent yardage a player has to be supported by other good players—especially blockers. And the man who calls the signals must leave the ball carrying to others in the backfield."

First job a minor one

In 1932 Cordiner went to Bridgeport, Conn., to work in GE's rapidly expanding appliance division. Six years later he took over as department head.

When World War II started, Cordiner proceeded to Washington as director general of war production scheduling. In 1945 he returned as assistant to GE President Charles E. Wilson. When Wilson retired in 1950, Cordiner became chief executive.

In early 1958 he was elected chairman to succeed Philip D. Reed.

Cordiner is paid $265,000 a year to manage this vast enterprise and, by his own admission, it is an exhausting job.

"It takes a lot out of you—this constant traveling and planning. Even when I'm home there's lots to ponder. I get great satisfaction from my job, but I never catch up with it."

"Facts today—history tomorrow" As the head of a science-based industry, Cordiner is as much concerned with tomorrow as with today. And, being a farsighted man—so farsighted he is already grooming successors against his retirement—he keeps an eye on the future by catching up on current facts and by doing lots of reading.

Books, trade magazines, Washington reports, company accounts, business papers and the Wall Street Journal, daily papers for current news—are all in his reading diet.

"In this business, the facts of today are ancient history tomorrow," he explains.

May issue of Esquire Magazine which documents the fact that the United States — the free world — is playing the sucker in a fatal game of international chess controlled by the Soviets. At stake is freedom for all mankind. The Soviets, says the author of the article, are winning the game with unquestionably sound strategy while the leaders of the West—thinking the game is poker and not chess—are sitting back hoping for "a lucky draw."

Thought-Provoking Facts
The author is Colonel William R. Kintner, attached to the operations directorate of the Army General Staff and at present doing special work in the Foreign Policy Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania. He has served on the plans division of the Korean Armistice Commission, the intelligence staffs, the National Security Council and with other important agencies.

His article is one of the four parts of a forthcoming book, "Protracted Conflict," to be published in May by Harper and Brothers. The Esquire article is entitled "The Orchestration of Crisis." In it Colonel Kintner contends that international Communism does not wish and cannot afford a big war, that it

Red Strategy Outsmarts Us

As the international Communist forces continue relentlessly to advance, gaining what appears to be total power in oil-rich Iraq, wiping out opposition in new areas of Asia, and making strategic gains in Cuba and other areas of Latin America, the security of every American citizen is further jeopardized. In the face of this fact, our American leaders seem to be unable to devise a plan to halt the Red advance. Everywhere we are on the defensive, forced repeatedly to develop stop-gap policy in an attempt to cope with the constant crises which the Communists are forcing upon us — here, there and everywhere.

Most of the free world leaders seem not to recognize that this piecemeal advance is the method which international Communism has carefully designed and is brilliantly executing to win the world. There is an important article in the expects to conquer the world without it.

Winning Bit By Bit

"The Soviet Union, the base of world revolution," he writes, "must not be risked in the pursuit of any one objective. Thus the problem of Communist strategists is now (as it was in the departed days of decisive U. S. nuclear superiority): how can the greatest freedom of maneuver be maintained, so that power and space may be gradually amassed without the risk of being plunged into a full-scale atomic war?"

"Protracted conflict is the obvious answer. A strategy of limited actions, of indirect threats, it is also one in which no single move constitutes adequate provocation for the unleashing of the West's engines of nuclear destruction. And for its success it relies most heavily on our fears that any introduction of such weapons would surely produce a global chain reaction. . . . We are still ill-equipped to meet the diffuse and dangerous challenges offered by that form of conflict at which the men in Moscow and Peiping are most proficient."

Errors In Korea

Colonel Kintner notes that our political and diplomatic leaders, during the Chinese Communist phase of the Korean War, played directly into the hands of the international Red bosses. "The chief fear," he writes, "was that an expansion of the theater of action (by air-raids on Chinese bases north of the Yalu) and of the weapons system (by the use of tactical nuclear arms might have sparked the Soviets into action and brought on a general war. There is good reason now to conclude that the West's fear was more emotional than logical."

The Communist doctrine of conflict, Colonel Kintner observes, synthesizes all the techniques which history has proved to be workable in psychological as well as military warfare, and includes: undermining anti-Communist morale (they have been successful in America with this); disrupting the social and economic structure of non-Communist nations (very successful with this); infiltrating and disrupting their institutions and organizations (astoundingly successful here too); causing them to make false political and strategic decisions . . . etc. It is to be hoped that everyone in Washington from the President down as well as citizens everywhere, will read the Kintner article.

Life is no more puzzling to man than death, but it has greater popular support.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Your Child and TB—I

Are you protecting your child against TB? "But children don't often get TB," you say. Right, depending on what you mean by "often." Speaking statistically, the tuberculosis age picture has changed. Formerly, most TB cases were among adolescents and young adults. Today, the proportion of cases and deaths among older people is rising. About half the cases are among people over 45. But this change in the statistical picture is not much consolation to the thousands of younger people who are still getting TB. Even in the age group where the lowest number of cases are found—between 5 and 14—more than 2,000 new cases are found a year.

Unlike most of the infectious childhood diseases, TB is not a one-time problem. You can't say, "Well, at least we won't have to worry about that one again." A child who has once had TB has to be wary of it for the rest of his life. The disease may be cured for the time being, but foci of infection remain in the body quietly waiting for another opportunity to start active disease.

Of course, you want to do what you can to protect your child against such a future. What can you do to protect your child? First, of course, he needs a healthy body fortified with good nutrition and good health habits which will enable him to fight back against any infection. Second, he should have regular tests to find out whether he has been exposed to TB. There may be a tuberculin testing program in his school. If not, the family doctor will give the test. If the result is negative, you have nothing to worry about except to make sure the test is repeated as often as the doctor advises. If the test is positive, the source of the germs will probably be found in some adult in close contact with the child. Chances are your child won't have active disease but the doctor may advise special measures to keep up his resistance.

Cattle Disease Virtually Eradicated

The highly-infectious brucellosis, or Bang's Disease, once a major problem in Maryland's livestock industry, has been virtually wiped out of the State's beef and dairy cattle herds, it was reported this week.

Dr. A. L. Breucker, director of the Maryland Live Stock Sanitary Service, said the disease, which reduces the productivity of cattle, has been cut to less than one per cent of the animals and less than five per cent of the herds in the State.

There are slightly more than 500,000 dairy and beef animals in Maryland.

In making the announcement, Dr. Breucker commended the State's practicing veterinarians for their part in eliminating the disease.

The reduction, he said, has been made in every Maryland county, to less than one per cent of the animals and five per cent of the herds.

When the State started its brucellosis control program in 1954, some counties had a herd infection rate as high as 20 per cent. "This has been a co-operative success, with the help of the State Board of Agriculture, the Maryland State Veterinary Medical Association, the Agriculture Research Service and the individual livestock owners," Dr. Breucker said.

"The vaccination of calves against brucellosis by veterinarians has been extremely valuable," he added. "Another major contributing factor has been the adoption of proper sanitary practices by livestock owners."

"But the attainment of this goal does not mean that brucellosis has been completely eradicated. We have cut its incidence to such a point that the Department of Agriculture now classifies Maryland as a 'qualified brucellosis-control State.'"

"We must continue the testing of herds, the vaccination of calves and the maintenance of good sanitary practices to see that the disease does not start and become a serious problem."

Guests in the house

by RUTH MYERS
PARTY DESSERTS
Webster's Dictionary defines dessert as: "A course of fruit, pastry, pudding, ice cream or the like, served at the close of a meal." But as a homemaker and frequent hostess, I can tell you that desserts make the meal. A fussy, fancy dessert served at the end of even the simplest dinner will send guests away from the table murmuring about your culinary skills.

Flaming Specialty
Baba au Rhum is one of those desserts considered so complicated and difficult that the serving of it sets a hostess apart. Today, Babas may be purchased ready-baked from the bakery or as gourmet items in containers. Important thing to remember is to add needed rum before serving to give the Babas the proper rum-soaked consistency and flavor. You can even touch a match to the Babas just before serving—and present them all aflame to your guests. There's no greater touch of luxury to end a meal.

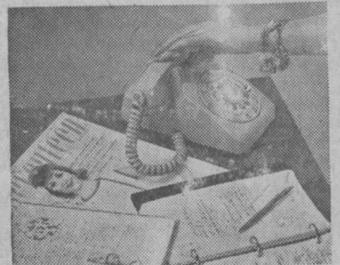

Helpful Device
Brand new on the market is a device which makes soaking the Baba no trick at all. Produced by the Myers Rum people, it is a handy dasher bottle of their fine Jamaica rum, designed especially for use in flavoring and cooking. This smart, convenient dispenser can even be used at the table and passed around at dessert time for a bit of rum flavor over ice cream, sherbet, and puddings, or for a lacing in black coffee.

Atomic Energy Contract Signed

John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, announced today that the Commission has signed a contract with East Central Nuclear Group, Inc., and the Florida West Coast Nuclear Group, Inc., for research and development on a gas-cooled nuclear power plant of advanced design. The plant will be constructed in the Florida West Coast area under the Commission's power demonstration reactor program.

Under the contract the East Central Nuclear Group, Inc., will conduct the research program to develop a heavy-water-moderated, gas-cooled, pressure tube reactor of advanced design. The cost of this research program presently estimated to be about $18,000,000 will be shared approximately equally by East Central Nuclear Group, Inc., and the Atomic Energy Commission.

The contract makes provision for atomic research and development work as required. The maximum Commission assistance provided for in the contract including waiver of use charge for fuel and heavy water is $13,180,000. Authorizing legislation for the project was enacted by the 85th Congress last August.

The Florida West Coast Nuclear Group will assume construction costs of about $26,000,000 and will operate the plant with excess operating costs — operating costs above conventional plant operation costs— estimated at about $5,700,000 for the first five years of operation.

The nuclear plant will generate about 200,000 electrical kilowatts and will be designed as the prototype for a 200,000 electrical kilowatt plant. The prototype plant will use a slightly enriched uranium fuel but the larger plant will be designed to operate on natural uranium fuel. It is expected that the prototype plant will be completed by June 30, 1963.

Prior to start of construction a determination of technical and economic feasibility of the plant will be made. The Florida Group may choose not to proceed with construction if the reactor is determined not to be technically feasible or if the cost of producing power would exceed by more than 50% the projected cost of conventional power in the area.

The General Nuclear Engineering Corporation of Dunedin, Fla., a subsidiary of Combustion Engineering Corporation, has been designated nuclear agent and the American Electric Power Service Corporation is expected to be the principal design and construction engineer for the project.

The Florida West Coast Nuclear Group consists of the Florida Power Corporation of St. Petersburg and the Tampa Electric Company.

The members of the East Central Nuclear Group, Inc., are the following companies: Appalachian Electric Power, Cleveland Electric Illuminating, Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric, Dayton Power and Light, Indiana and Michigan Electric, Indianapolis Power and Light, Louisville Gas and Electric, Monongahela Power Ohio Edison, Ohio Power, Pennsylvania Power, Southern Indiana Gas and Electric, Potomac Edison, and West Penn Power.

Block Salt Versus Loose Salt

I have frequently been questioned about the merit of block salt, and whether one can depend on dairy cattle getting enough salt from licking salt blocks.

In answer it may be said that milking cows do not consume enough salt that way to satisfy the Babcock specification. Babcock's experiments indicated that a milking cow should eat three-fourths of an ounce of salt per 1000 pounds live weight plus three-tenths of an ounce of salt for every 10 pounds of milk produced.

This means that a cow weighing about 1100 pounds and producing 40 pounds of milk daily should consume 2 ounces of salt per day for best results.

But in recent Cornell University tests it was shown that while cows and heifers ate considerably more loose salt than they did block salt, they seemed to get along all right on the block salt. The experimenters concluded that dairy cattle "will consume all they need from block salt."

In an open meeting at which Professor F. E. Morrison presented these findings, it was brought out that the Cornell tests with block salt were conducted in the summer time, with cows and heifers on pasture. Milking cows under these conditions consumed voluntarily a little over two ounces of loose salt as compared to the lot consuming about one ounce of block salt.

In another test of the same series, dairy heifers on a variety of different pastures "showed an overwhelming preference for loose salt. The average intake approximated one ounce of loose salt as compared to 0.07 ounce of the block salt per head daily," or only one-fourteenth the amount consumed as loose salt.

This raises the question whether under all conditions, such as during northern winters, with block salt as the only source of salt, perhaps located outdoors, and in subzero weather, the blocks would be licked readily enough to satisfy the salt needs of the cattle.

Many of us recall from our early youth the horrible experience of being enticed to lick a metal doorknob in freezing weather. Licking a salt block may not be as bad, but one cannot help agreeing with Professor Morrison when at the time of the meeting he said, "It is a good plan to have one per cent salt in the grain mixture and a salt block in the stall or stanchion or anywhere, or loose salt, either one." In this way, with block salt fed merely in a supplementary way for dairy cattle, we are far more certain that the cows will not be short-changed in this essential mineral.

Question: Why is it that fall pasture never seems as palatable or nutritious as spring pasture? Has it something to do with the temperature?

Answer: Somewhat, but more with the length of the days and brilliance of sunshine in the spring. This favors the process of photosynthesis of sugars and other nutrients. It was found at the Ohio Station that grass growing in the shade, for instance, as in a woods pasture, had less sugar in it and was less palatable than grass growing in the open where it was much more exposed to the sun.

Medical Milestones

Where We Stand With Arthritis

One of the great mysteries still facing medical science is the cause of arthritis and related rheumatic infections. In recent years, however, various important discoveries in the laboratories of our pharmaceutical companies have provided relief and even improvement for arthritics.

There is scientific evidence that prehistoric man, and animals, also suffered from these inflammatory diseases. Today arthritis and rheumatic infections affect more than 10 million people in this country alone, of whom more than one million are permanently crippled. Besides the incredible suffering caused by these diseases, they exact an annual loss close to $1 billion.

The first real advancement in treating rheumatoid arthritis came with the discovery that an adrenal hormone, cortisone, brought some relief. But its cost was staggering and only small amounts were available. Scientists knew that the answer was to synthesize the hormone so that it could be manufactured in adequate amounts, and inexpensively. In 1954 the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases announced the first really big step forward in this area when it revealed that Schering Corporation had produced the "Meti" steroids, more efficient synthetic hormones which produced fewer and less severe side effects than cortisone and hydrocortisone.

And now another advancement. Just a few months ago Schering introduced to the medical world another steroid that is more powerful than all earlier steroids. This one, known to the scientists as dexamethasone, was called Deronil. This steroid marks another truly important milestone in the quest for the answer to arthritis.

Deronil has an anti-inflammatory activity about six times that of prednisolone, its parent compound, and 30 times that of hydrocortisone. Just as with all the others, this steroid can be obtained only on the prescription of a physician.

It is an interesting historical fact that after a drug is developed and gains acceptance in the treatment of a particular disease, it is usually found to be effective against other and sometimes unrelated diseases. This has been the story of the steroids. Today the steroid drugs are also used in the treatment of heart diseases, tuberculosis, allergic skin conditions, eye diseases, and a number of other infectious diseases.

Just what lies ahead for the steroids? No one can say at this time, but continuing laboratory and clinical research indicates that eventually these compounds will be as useful to the physician as the antibiotics are. Millions of dollars are being spent on steroid research and it may be that these efforts will uncover the real cause of arthritis and rheumatism.

Foley Bill Introduced

John A. Foley, (D. Md.), today introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to establish a new and separate system of classification for engineering, scientific and technical positions within the Classification Act of 1949.

The measure includes a salary schedule which is in keeping with current practice in private industry. This will set up a "Scientific and Professional Schedule" of 74 separate classification to replace the current General Schedule grades for these personnel. Under the proposed schedule for example, an employee with the present grade of G.S. 5 will become a S.P.S. 1. This grade change will also include a basic salary increase.

Also included in Mr. Foley's proposed legislation is a measure

Politicians, like show people, give the public some truth and some hokum.

My voice shalt Thou hear in the morning, O Lord; in the morning I will direct my prayer unto Thee. — (Psalm 5:3.)

Each morning that God grants us is a new opportunity, a new beginning and a new life, if we choose to make it so. It should begin with prayer, thanking Him, seeking His presence. His love, His will—and then we will enter into the new day strong, confident and blessed.

WILL SHE LIVE TO GROW UP?

This child has leukemia — one of the most tragic forms of cancer. Only research has kept her alive. Ten years ago, children stricken with leukemia — cancer of the blood-forming tissues — had only a few weeks or months of life. Today, many of these children have had precious months, even years, added to their lives, thanks to dramatic research discoveries. Until science finds the means to save them, however, they live on borrowed time. The American Cancer Society's research program includes $1,500,000 annually for research related to leukemia. Millions of dollars more are needed to conquer this grim disease — which kills 2,000 children each year, and is taking an increasing toll of adult lives.

Help research find the answers that will save these lives. Give generously to the American Cancer Society's intensive research assault against leukemia and all other forms of cancer.

4-H Demonstration Saturday

Boys' 4-H Demonstration Day, will be held Saturday, April 25, at the Frederick Fairgrounds beginning at 10:00 a. m. The demonstration will be performed in the dairy pavilion. This will mark the first time for competitive demonstrations in all lines of project work to be given on a county-wide basis. Each boy and girl enrolled in boys agricultural project work, will have an opportunity to demonstrate his or her projects before the judges.

Seven classes — members may demonstrate as an individual or a team (two members) in seven different areas. Class 1—Dairy Production, includes projects that relate to a phase of care and management of dairy cattle or milk production. Class 2 — Livestock Production, deals with practices employed in the care and management of general livestock.

Class 3—Farm Machinery and/or Farm Safety, involves the care and operation of farm machinery or some recommended safety practice. Class 4—Electrical, relates to the construction or maintenance of electrical equipment or use of electricity. Class 5—Vegetable Production and Marketing, takes in some phase of production or marketing of vegetables. Class 6—Poultry Production, refers to a phase of the care and management of poultry and egg production.

Class 7 — All others, includes those agricultural demonstrations that cannot be classified under the preceding classes.

Space will be provided for housing exhibits prior to time of demonstration: Two areas within the pavilion will be designated as booth one and booth two, and a schedule of demonstrations will be posted. To qualify to demonstrate, the participant must submit to the judge a 4-H record book.

Cash awards plus ribbons, will be given to the top three individual and team demonstrators in each class. Fourth and fifth place winners will receive ribbons. A champion individual and team will be chosen by the judges. Gold plated medals will be given to these two demonstration winners. The first place winners in each class, both team and individual will represent the county in the state contest at the State Fair at Timonium in September.

Awards and prizes have been donated by local business firms and agricultural agencies including Excelsior Dairy, Farmers' Supply, Potomac Edison, and the W and W Poultry Market. Lunch will be provided by the 4-H Older Youth Group.

All members, parents, and the public is cordially invited to attend the demonstration day.

000,000,000 in goods and services. These figures were offered this week by H. J. Lipscomb at the Crusade headquarters of the American Cancer Society where he is serving as 1959 State Crusade chairman. The figures were coupled with an appeal to residents of Maryland to help the Society in its drive to cut the high cost of cancer in terms of human suffering and economic loss.

Mr. Lipscomb pointed out that many business and industrial firms have established regular health checkups as a step toward lowering the incipient cancer toll. Such checkups, Mr. Lipscomb explained, serve the purpose of diagnosing the disease in its earliest form, when it is most susceptible to treatment. He urged all residents of Maryland to get the "checkup habit" as the best way of guarding themselves and their homes from the nation's number two disease killer. The Society's Crusade slogan is "Guard your family — Fight cancer with a checkup and a check."

Medical Care Is Costly Item

The average cancer patient spends $885 for medical care annually, loses six years of gainful employment and $24,000 in income. To the nation's business and industry, cancer represents a staggering yearly loss of $12-

Forest Park Grand Opening

The new Forest Park, Hanover, will open for the season on Sunday, April 26. All the rides and equipment have been overhauled and painted and the picnic grounds renovated.

The restaurant and game concessions have been taken over by the park management and the restaurant has been completely modernized. Revolving counters, the only kind of their own, have been installed in the front of the restaurant and all eating and drinking will be served over them.

A new ride, called the C-Cruise, has been installed. The free attraction for the opening day will feature Earl Groft and the Twilight Entertainers, both afternoon and night. School tickets have been distributed as follows, good for free rides, reduced rates on other amusements and reduced rates for skating, contests and prizes. Saturday, May 2, Hanover School Day; Sat., May 9, Adams County School Day; Sat., May 16, York County School Day; Sat., May 23, Maryland School Day and Sat., June 6, School Day.

President Eisenhower recently said he knew nothing in the whole economic structure of the United States that is more important for the ultimate benefit of the country than the U. S. Savings Bonds program. Without it, said the President, the job of managing the public debt would be "well nigh impossible."

A Pecking Order in Every Flock or Herd

There are social stratifications not merely in the human but also in the animal world. Poultry men recognize a pecking order in a flock of hens, similar to what one calls a chain of command in the military services. There is a boss hen that can peck any other hen in the flock, another one that can peck any but the boss hen, and so on. This principle also applies to a self-assumed right to help themselves at will to feed or water ahead of the rest. Haven't we all seen a boss cow butting other cows out of the way in getting what she wants, with others in the herd more or less in rotation following her example?

Dr. Bohstedt

Some of our more perceptive herdsmen have made fascinating observations in this respect showing that there are leaders and followers in most every herd, and that each group settles the right of precedence among its own members. A newcomer will have to find her own place, sometimes at the expense of plenty of bruises. I recall a swine-herdsman who for lack of sufficient paddock space was obliged to put two boars in the same enclosure. There resulted the inevitable fight, foaming mouths, and vicious jabbing. One of the pair seemed to be getting the upper hand. Did the herdsman take the part of the underdog? He did not! He simply helped the bully by whacking the prospective loser over the rump. This quickly decided the contest and brought peace. The "pecking order" had been established. But at the feed trough, bulies among a bunch of pigs are likely to "hog" the feed, and for that reason plenty of trough space must be provided to encourage unhurried and more uniform consumption. Where pigs are slop fed and the trough space grows shorter as they grow larger, feeding-time competition has caused pigs to voraciously consume excessive amounts of harmful ingredients in the feed that they would not have consumed at leisure. This competition sometimes accounts for dead pigs. Similar situations occur with sheep and other livestock.

Question: We have a chance to buy some three-year-old hay. It has good color and seems all right, but please indicate what if any nutrient value has been lost during this length of storage?

Answer: Even though this old hay has a good green color, the carotene or provitamin-A is all but gone. Usually about half of the carotene is lost during the first six months of storage. There are other but minor losses. The palatability is affected because the stems of this hay are likely to be so brittle as to injure the gums of the livestock if this hay is eaten in any quantity.

ABUNDANT LIFE
by ORAL ROBERTS
HOW TO GET GOD'S ATTENTION

I have to laugh every time I think of an incident in Mark Twain's book, "Tom Sawyer."

It was Sunday and visitors had come to the little church. These were a judge and his family.

The little church was rustling with excitement. The Sunday school teachers moved here and there, eyeing their students and shaking their fingers coyly at them. The Superintendent went from class to class very importantly. Tom Sawyer pulled a little girl's hair, pinched one of his buddies and made a general nuisance of himself. The older people sat dignified and pious.

Everyone was doing his best to look like something special. They were, as we would call it, "showing off."

The portly judge and his family sat in their pew and smiled with benevolent kindness upon everyone else. You see, he was showing off, too!

This incident is thoroughly and genuinely human. We all like to get attention, to be needed and wanted.

It is possible that not all of us will ever have the attention of the whole world. In fact, we may never stir more than just a ripple of excitement. But there is one thing certain: Everyone of us can get the attention of God.

Lee Shelton attended one of our Crusades. You will enjoy the story of how he got God's attention for his need. This account has been documented and medically checked.

"I was a mere speck in a sea of people that rippled in and out around the fringes of the huge tent cathedral. This was my first opportunity to attend and this was the closing night. "I had been wounded in World War II. For 12 years I had struggled through the streets of Danville, Virginia, burdened with a brace and cane, dragging a useless, shrunken leg. My discharge papers read: . . . deformity acquired from injury; peroneal nerve paralysis."

"I stood there swallowed up among the multitude. The hopelessness of getting to be prayed for swept over me. After all, I thought, who am I among so many thousands of needy people! "As I sat in my chair watching the sick being prayed for and meditating upon the goodness of God, the minister stopped. He looked out into the vast crowd and said, 'If there is an afflicted person in the audience tonight, who will place his hand upon his affliction and pray with me, God will heal him.' "I did as he had said and before I finished praying, the power of God rocketed through my leg. It vibrated through every fiber of my flesh with such energy that it snapped the straps that held the brace upon my leg. I threw down my cane, leaped to my feet and ran down the aisle shouting and praising God!

"I attracted everyone's attention around me that night, but better still, I had attracted God's attention—I was instantly healed."

Antoinette Elliot, class of '59, has been appointed a member of McCall's Teen Fashion Board. At a recent assembly, Sister Mary, Principal, presented Antoinette with a certificate and pin from the McCall Corporation.

The National Poetry Association of Los Angeles awarded certificates to the following students of Saint Joseph High School: Seniors—Noreen Hayes, Jean Topper and Thomas Zurgable; Juniors — Patricia Martins, Rebecca Chrismer; Sophomores — Jay Elliot, John Balmer, Una Lee Simmons; Freshman: Darlene Fitz. Their poems will be published in the spring anthology of this association.

A large delegation of Children of Mary will leave Saint Joseph High School by bus, Sunday, April 26, for Seton High School, Baltimore, where a regional Marian Congress will be held.

The C.S.M.C. held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Thomas Zurgable, president, presided. He had recently attended an executive board meeting of the Blue Ridge Conference at the Francis Scott Key Hotel in Frederick, and announced that the Oratorical Contest was scheduled for May 5, at Saint Marie Goretti High School in Hagerstown. Noreen Hayes is the entrant for Saint Joseph's. A large delegation of students is expected to attend. A Mission Rally is to be held at Saint John's High School, Westminster, where booths of mission activities will be visited. A panel discussion on Latin America countries was conducted by Noreen Hayes. Members of different classes were on the panel.

The Blue Ridge Conference recently held a dance in Saint Joseph's auditorium. A spring motif was carried out in the decorations of palms, forsythias and jonquils. Elkins Orchestra from Frederick furnished the music. Mary Louise Chesley, president of the Conference, pinned a corsage of spring flowers on the statue of our Lady.

Zoning Law Awaits Final Amendments

At an executive meeting of the Frederick County Planning and Zoning Commission held last week in Frederick, it was decided not to present the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance to the Frederick County Commissioners until a few last-minute changes are made in wording.

The commissioners will hold an open hearing on the proposed permanent zoning law at 1:30 p. m.

on April 27 in the Hiram Winchester Room of Winchester Hall.

They must decide by mid-May whether to adopt the new 72-page zoning ordinance or to continue the present Interim Zoning Law. It had been presumed that the Planning Commission would deliver the final revised copy of the proposed Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance to the commissioners as soon as possible.

But County Planner Arthur Hutton announced on Friday afternoon that a final study of all objections made to the proposal at the Planning Commission public hearing last Monday would be made first.

Also studied will be various private proposals for improvements in the permanent zoning ordinance before its passage, such as those made by utility leader Carl V. Weakley and John W. Morgan at the open session of the Planning Commission.

The executive session of the Planning Commission held last week decided not to forward the final version of the ordinance to the Commissioners until these studies have been completed and any technical changes of wording in minor sections of the ordinance approved by the Planning Commission are made.

Hutton is now rewording some sections of the ordinance.

Hutton urged any member of the general public who wishes to make changes in the ordinance to see him at the Planning Office before the proposed permanent zoning ordinance is presented in final form to the commissioners.

The Commissioners have a copy of the original text of the ordinance, free copies of which have been available to the public for the last several weeks at the Planning Office.

Treated At Hospital

Robert Gingell, 15, Emmitsburg, was treated at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, for a fracture of the left leg suffered while playing baseball Friday.

Louis F. Rosensteel, 48, Emmitsburg, an employee of the Inductive Equipment Corp., Gettysburg, was treated Friday at the hospital for a chip fracture of his left ankle suffered last week.

Also treated at the Warner hospital was Wayne Andrew, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Andrew, Emmitsburg R1, with a laceration of the scalp and cerebral concussion received when struck by a car in front of his home operated by Frank Tyler.

WASHINGTON AND 'SMALL BUSINESS' By C. WILSON HARDER

Judged by correspondence received by this column, the majority of the people in this nation are all in favor of fighting inflation. And in nationwide polls of the country's independent businessmen through the National Federation of Independent Business, nobody is in favor of inflation.

Basically, inflation is caused by spending more than you can reasonably receive. When businessmen adopt inflationary principles, they can very well end up in bankruptcy. It takes longer for a government to reach this point, but it has happened in history.

Thus, there is wonderment in the land as to just how the nation can hold down inflation and in the same breath demands are made for even greater funds for foreign give-aways.

In the vernacular of the time, the question is being asked "what gives?" For there is still unspent some $3 billion in foreign give-away funds, on top of over $2 billion more readily at hand.

For the U. S. Treasury now holds in foreign currencies a value of more than $1.5 billion, plus over another half billion dollars derived from the sale by foreign governments to their people of give away commodities from the U. S.

Thus, at a time when a drive is underway to make the state schools systems dependent on federal aid, there is in the United States Treasury unused, about as much money as is requested for the super-colossal, socialistic plan to give federal aid to schools.

Actually, however, most of this money should probably be applied toward paying off a part of the gigantic debt incurred by the farm program.

For most of this over $2 billion was realized from the disposal of surplus American farm products. In most cases the deal worked out revolved around the U. S. turning over to foreign nations big shipments of these farm products taking in return their foreign currency on deals worked out on an individual basis with each government. It suffices that at no time did any nation pay anything near the equivalent of their American dollar value.

These foreign governments in turn, sold their peoples these commodities and deposited money realized with the U. S.

Now under the various foreign give away laws, in theory, after taking 10% off top to defray expenses of sending a lot of bureaucrats around world to administer projects, these funds were released for projects to rehabilitate war torn economies of Europe.

But of course, by this time the economies of Europe, if they are torn, are no longer torn by the war. It would appear the only economy still torn by the war is the American economy.

Perhaps it would be quite diplomatic for the United States to lay claim to these funds to pay off a portion of the American deficit, even though they were derived from the sale by foreign governments of goods received from America to their own people. But a nation with money on hand should not stay on the gravy train.

Q: I have very heavy hips and legs and no matter how hard I diet, I only seem to lose weight on top. Is there anything I can do about it?

A: If your problem is more a matter of bone structure and muscle than excess fat, the right clothes will help your legs and hips to seem slimmer—just as the wrong ones will make a point of showing off their size. For instance:

Don't wear your skirts too tight or too short. Do choose skirts softened by pleats (one of the most hip-slimming lines is the side panel). Keep the hemlines about four inches below the knee.

Even if the rest of your crowd is wearing them, you should avoid Bermuda shorts or skin-tight slacks. A kilt and dark-colored tights will be just as comfortable and casual while keeping your underpinnings from appearing overly hefty.

Invest in a good, light-weight girdle. This will give you a smoother outline—will actually pare inches off your hips.

Accepted For

Aeronautical Training

Paul Anthony Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sanders, 316 East Main St., Emmitsburg, has been accepted by Northrop Aeronautical Institute, Inglewood, California, for enrollment in the Airframe and Powerplant Mechanics Course. He is joining hundreds of young men from all parts of the United States and from many foreign countries, who are pursuing their aeronautical studies at Northrop. This accredited institute is located in the heart of the Southern California Aircraft Industry, and is one of the nation's largest sources of trained aeronautical engineering and aircraft servicing personnel.

A veteran of the Korean war with service in the United States Air Force, Paul is a graduate of St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg, Maryland.

Paul expects to complete his intensive Airframe and Powerplant Mechanics Course in 50 weeks. He will be graduated qualified to apply for his Federal Aviation Agency Certificate as an "A & P" Mechanic and will then be in a position to choose from many types of employment and companies within the aircraft industry.

Sgt. and Mrs. Maurice Fitz and daughters, Air Force Base, Littleton, Mass., are visiting Sgt. Fitz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fitz and family.

Mounties Downed

Catholic University came from behind Wednesday to beat Mt. St. Mary's College, 4-3 in a Mason-Dixon Conference baseball game. Catholic broke a string of 36 scoreless innings with a three-run outburst in the seventh inning to tie the score 3-3.

EHS MAKES IT 4 STRAIGHT

Emmitsburg High School ran its winning string to four games and no defeats, downing Taneytown Tuesday 5-4. The Liners were behind in the sixth inning, 4-3, and scored two runs in that frame to win.

Don Sweeney relieved Zentz in the third and allowed but two hits during the last four innings to grab his third victory of the year. Dick Swonley got a single with the bases loaded to bring in the winning score.

The Liners have an away game scheduled with Frederick this afternoon.

GARDEN CLUB MEETING HELD

Mrs. E. L. Annan, Emmitsburg, was hostess to the Silver Fancy Garden Club on Thursday, April 16.

The Club's entry for the Federation Flower Show at Hagerstown on April 28 and 29, will be made by Mrs. Andrew Eyster.

Plans were completed for the Annual Bridge Party to be held at the VFW Annex in Emmitsburg on May 11. The speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. W. C. Jester of the Biglerville Garden Club. Mrs. Jester read many interesting excerpts from "The World in Your Garden."

Mrs. John O'Donoghue presided at the very attractive tea table. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Louis Miceha and Mrs. John O'Donoghue.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. A. A. Koswick, Gettysburg R. D., on May 21.

MOUNTIES DROP TWO

Unbeaten Loyola took both ends of a Mason-Dixon Conference doubleheader from Mt. St. Mary's Saturday afternoon here, 6-5 and 10-0.

In the first game the Greyhounds pulled the game from the fire with two runs in the top of the final frame.

An eight-run fourth inning sealed the verdict for the visitors in the second contest.

Loyola is now 4-0 while the Mountaineers are 1-5.

Surprise Party

A surprise open house party was held Sunday afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rosensteel, DePaul St. at their residence by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rosensteel, of Frederick, in honor of their 40th wedding anniversary.
