It seems to me that some comment should be forthcoming regarding the recent newspaper coverage in areas of the sports world, namely that of racing. No one can deny that a sizeable sum of money is expended each year by horse lovers on their show horses, thoroughbreds, etc. Locally, we see an exposition of real class when the Annual Horse Show is put on by the Lions Club for the benefit of underprivileged children. The town and many persons from outside our locale support this affair and do so mainly to see the grace and precision with which an animal is able to handle itself. There is no doubt that exhibitors at such an affair expend large sums of money for training and equipment and then display their horses for the pleasure of the general public. Another area of the sporting world involving horses is that of racing and pari-mutuel betting on the outcome of a race. Recently in the news there has been a question as to whether or not the Maryland State Racing Commission should be expanded in size and probably this in part is necessary due to the increase in interest in racing by the general public. Not so long ago there was consideration given to consolidation of Pimlico, one of the oldest tracks in the country, with another track within the state. Strong objection was raised since public opinion felt that the track should remain where it is presently located. At the present time there is a question regarding the licensing of an existing track and again there will be protest throughout the state since the residents do not wish to see this form of entertainment taken from their midst. This coming weekend there will be a new race track opened in neighboring West Virginia and I am certain that their meet will see many prominent figures from Frederick County in attendance throughout the racing meet. Now comes the real reason for my great interest in this form of entertainment—why can't we have some of it in Frederick County? The State of Pennsylvania does not have pari-mutuel racing and I believe that a trip to any track will show that most or many of the cars in the parking lots are residents of that state pouring money into the coffers of our Free State if we are fortunate enough to have the track located in our domain. Several years ago there was a vote taken in Frederick County and pari-mutuel betting was banned by this vote. However, it seems to me that public opinion along these lines has changed greatly during the past few years and I personally would like to see another vote along these same lines. It appears that taxation has been imposed to the utmost and new means of producing revenue must be searched out and I can think of no better way than income derived from a race track. We have harness races at the county fair each year and those who go merely to watch the affair could still do so but for the benefit of those who wish to make the outcome a bit more lucrative they could do so and enrich the finances of the state and county at the same time. I really feel that we are faced with a tremendous problem in the financing of new schools, larger enrollments within existing county schools, additional aid to the aged, better care for the sick, etc. It must come from some source and I would much prefer to have non-residents assist us with the burden rather than going it alone by increased taxation. If this wise old gal is wrong I'd welcome letters from any of you so that I can get my thinking back on the right "track."

OPEN HOUSE SUCCESSFUL

The Matthews Gas Co. held a very successful 25th anniversary celebration at his Emmitsburg store on Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25. The open house was well attended and the owner was pleased with the attendance at this affair. The prizes awarded were as follows: Dinette Set, Kermit Love, Emmitsburg; Silver set, Don Byard, Emmitsburg; Coikie Gun, Mrs. Earle Frazier, Frederick; Mr. Wilmer E. Law conducted the drawing for the awarding of these prizes.

New Sewer Connections To Be Inspected

The Emmitsburg sewerage system additions and the new sewerage treatment plant will be placed in service in about 60 days. In anticipation of the use of these new facilities many property owners are installing or preparing to install, connections to the public sewerage system. Plumbing in these properties which may have been satisfactory when a private sewerage disposal system was used may be dangerous and unsatisfactory for a connection to a public sewerage system.

In the interest of safeguarding your health and in an effort to endeavor to assist the public in securing a reasonably trouble-free sewerage system, a State Plumbing Code was adopted by the State Board of Health on November 7, 1949. This Code specifies that certain minimum requirements be met to insure the protection of your health. By specifying the size and type of material to be used, your pocketbook is also protected.

Emmitsburg's Town Council advises that as you prepare to arrange to connect your property, you should require your plumber to make the installation in accordance with the Plumbing Code. Some of the requirements which should be insisted upon are listed below.

1. Every fixture must be provided with a vent. If the fixture is located more than five feet from the main vent, a separate vent is required. This will provide a means for sewage gas to escape harmlessly to the atmosphere.
2. A trap must be provided for all fixtures. This will prevent the escape of sewage gas into the residence.
3. No bituminous or other pipe can be used on a connection to a public sewerage system.
4. If vitrified clay, locally known as terra cotta pipe, is used, it must be in at least three feet lengths and no less than five inches in diameter.
5. Concrete asbestos and cast-iron soil pipe may be used for all outside underground installations and may be four inches in diameter.
6. No running traps are permitted on the sewer connection line.
7. Cleanouts must be provided at the property line and at each 90° bend in the sewer. The cleanouts must be installed so as to serve the purpose for which they are intended.

These are but a few of the items mentioned in the Plumbing Code. For your protection, see to it that these regulations are observed when your property is connected.

Senior 'Hop' Scheduled

The Senior Class of Emmitsburg High School will sponsor a "Spring Record Hop" on Wednesday evening, May 13 from 8-11 p. m. The dance is for teenagers and young people and will be held in the VFW Annex.

Featured at the dance will be "The Playboys," rock and roll group from Frederick, who won in the Lions Club Talent Show held here last month.

Mark this date on your calendar and plan now to attend. Admission is 50c. For lots of good music and plenty of entertainment, you won't want to miss this hop.

Sportsmen's Club Nominates

Nominations for election to offices of the Indian Lookout Conservation Club were made at the regular meeting of that organization held Tuesday night in the Fire Hall, President Clay Green presiding.

The club expresses its appreciation to those who helped distribute squirrel boxes in this area recently. A special meeting of the group will be held on May 10 at 1 p. m. in the Fire Hall and all members are urged to attend.

Nominated for the presidency of the group were Herbert Rohrbach and James Kemp. Subordinate officers to be filled and those nominated were: Vice president, Joseph May and Maurice Michael; secretary, Gene Myers; treasurer, William Martin; directors, Samuel C. Hays, Jason Sanders, Gilbert Eiker, Clay Green, Fred Moore, Harold Hoke, Carroll Wills, Frank Topper and Paul Keepers.

Financial Drive Progresses

Guy R. McGlaughlin, chairman of the Vigilant Hose Company fund drive, reports that the drive is progressing and at the present compares favorably with the drives of recent years. Approximately $1000 has been received to date. It is hoped that many donations will be received prior to May 5 since members of the company will canvass the entire town on Tuesday evening in an effort to complete the drive within the Corporation limits. It is the plan to canvass the rural districts the following week and the committee has every hope that it can complete the drive in its entirety by May 15. The cooperation of all residents within the corporation limits is asked so that the volunteers can complete their canvass on Tuesday evening. If you have not mailed your contribution it will be appreciated if you will have it ready so there will be no delay in covering the entire town in one evening.

Chairman McGlaughlin has stated that only 75% of those in the rural areas making contributions have returned the information requested on the questionnaire. Any individual having returned their donation without the information regarding location of the property, water supply, etc., is asked to return the information so the file can be completed on all properties within the district. This completed information will enable the fire company to better serve the area with the greatest expediency in the event of any emergency.

Senior Play Date Announced

On Thursday, May 21 at 8 p. m., the Senior class of Emmitsburg High School will present the annual senior class play. The play this year, under the direction of Mrs. Hazel K. Caldwell, is a hilarious comedy in three acts entitled, "The Daffy Dills." The play unfolds as Richard Dill, the father of the Dill family, and a widower for many years, brings home a new wife. The family, unfortunately, does not approve of this and throughout the rest of the play, they perform some hilarious antics to try to get rid of their step-mother. The play ends in a complete surprise finish which no one will want to miss.

The characters of the play are as follows: Richard Dill, Morris Zentz; Carol Dill, Becky Nail; Rodney Dill, John Krom; Doris and Dunley Dill, twins, Janet Hatter and Ronald Baker; grand-mother Dill, Susan McGlaughlin; Cousin Maude Maddox, Mary O'Melveny; Elaine Escott, Audrey Springer; Aimee Lovewell, Becky Hays; Pete Norton, Mike Hummerick; and the Widow Woogles, Martha Baumgardner.

The play is being produced by special arrangement with the T. S. Denison and Company, of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

State Police To Wear Identification Bar

"A name plate has been added to the uniform of the Maryland State Trooper," Colonel Elmer F. Munshower, Superintendent, announced this week.

"Beginning May 1, State Troopers will wear a name plate over the right pocket of their uniform. The identification bar is gold with black lettering bearing the name of the individual and conforms in appearance with other uniform accessories."

In further comment Colonel Munshower stated, "It has been the practice for a number of years for our State Trooper, upon contact with motorists, to immediately introduce himself. We have received many favorable comments on this procedure and we now feel that the name plate will create better relations with the public."

The jurisdiction of the Maryland State Police is state-wide and its enforcement personnel are necessarily wide spread, being stationed at nine different barracks and several outposts. Seldom do the men in one area become closely associated with those assigned to areas more distant. Such infrequent contact makes it difficult to name a man when contact is made. Thus it is the thought that the new name plate will work to the advantage of the Department personnel as well as to the advantage of the public.

Keeping a secret from some people is like trying to smuggle daylight past a rooster.

Local Men Find Huge Mushroom

Mr. Thomas "Tip" Harbaugh, East Main St., Emmitsburg, reported the finding of one of the largest mushrooms in recent years in this area. Mr. Harbaugh, accompanied by Mr. William F.

Sanders, also of Emmitsburg, found the corn-cob type mushroom in the Fairfield area on the morning of April 24. The rare specimen weighed in at 2 1/2 pounds.

LAYMAN—ORNDORFF

On Saturday morning, April 25, at ten o'clock, in St. Anthony's Shrine, Emmitsburg, Miss Frances Lillian Orndorff, Thurmont R2, daughter of Mrs. Iva E. Orndorff and the late James F. Orndorff, became the bride of Mr. Richard Harrison Layman, Thurmont R2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Granville M. Layman. The double ring ceremony and nuptial Mass was performed by Rev. Vincent Tomalski, pastor of the couple, before an altar banked with bridal wreath. The acolytes were Edward Orndorff, cousin of the bride and Thomas Seltzer.

Mr. Guy A. Baker Jr., Emmitsburg, a former classmate of the bride, was the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Alma Seltzer, church organist. During the singing of Mother at Your Feet I'm Kneeling, the bride presented her bouquet to the Blessed Virgin Mary. During the Mass, Ave Maria, Panis Angelicus, On This Day O Beautiful Mother and O Lord I am Not Worthy, were sung.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Russell Topper, Baltimore. Her gown had a bodice of chantilly lace with a sequin and seed pearl embroidered collar. The long sleeves formed points over the hands. The floor-length skirt had tiers of pleated net over satin and net with lace panels at the sides. The illusion veil was attached to a lace crown embroidered with sequins and seed pearls. Leaving the church, she carried a small white prayer book, carried by her mother at her wedding, covered with gardenias and stephanotis. Her jewelry was a cultured pearl, a gift of the bridegroom.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Mary Wivell, Smithsburg, sister of the bride. She wore a light green dress of organdy with net forming a wide belt and flowing down the back of the street-length skirt. The bodice had a high neckline with short sleeves. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Helen Fry, sister of the bride, and Miss Martha Jane Layman, sister of the bridegroom, both of Frederick. Mrs. Fry wore yellow and Miss Layman wore a green dress identical to the matron of honor's. The attendants carried bouquets of green daisies and yellow rosebuds. The flower girl was Adlene Miller, Emmitsburg, cousin of the bride. She wore a yellow carnations centered with yellow nylon dress and carried a basket of white narcissus and bridal wreath. All the attendants wore braided head bands with a circle veil of net, gloves to match their dresses, and an aurora borealis pendant, a gift of the bride.

The best man was Mr. Charles Wivell, Smithsburg, brother-in-law of the bride. Mr. Robert M. Layman, Thurmont, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Walter Fry, Frederick, brother-in-law of the bride, were ushers. The ring bearer was Master Edward Wivell, Smithsburg, nephew of the bride. The mother of the bride wore beige and the mother of the bridegroom wore blue. Both wore pink carnation corsages.

The reception was held in the Parish Hall following the ceremony. The couple left for a trip through the northern states. For her going away the bride chose a beige dress with green and beige accessories and the white gardenia corsage lifted from her prayer book. Upon their return, the couple will reside at the home of the bride.

The bride is employed as switchboard operator at Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, and was graduated from St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg. The bridegroom graduated from Thurmont High School and is employed on the farm of his father.

Committee Urges Citizens To Vote

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

To the people of Emmitsburg—Monday, May 4th, 2 p. m. till 7 p. m. is the day to voice your opinion in our town government. It is your RIGHT to vote. It is your DUTY to vote. So exercise your right and do your duty and VOTE! Vote for the person you consider best qualified for the job. We would like to see a record number of persons show interest in the town's affairs.

For those of you not yet registered for the town elections, you may do so Friday evening—tonight—from 6 till 8 p. m. at the town office. DO IT NOW.

No one has the right to criticize the running of our town anything connected with our town unless he is registered and votes to get a voice in the government. We have heard many statements in the past weeks such as: "I haven't voted yet, why should I vote now," or, "Why should I vote, my one vote won't make a difference." Well, for these persons who think this, may we ask that you never complain about our town. Now, for those persons who want our town to move ahead—go cast your ONE vote and let the town know you were interested enough to take part in our election. Then, for those persons elected, they will do a better job knowing there is more interest behind them.

We are not urging you to vote for a special candidate. We only ask that you check the qualifications of those persons running and select the one you would most want to represent your town and then VOTE for him.

The men who are running for the town offices are interested in Emmitsburg and in seeing it progress. Give these men a chance to prove it and VOTE for your choice.

Sincerely,
The Junior Citizens Committee

3-Way Race Develops In Town Election

Emmitsburgians will trek to the polls Monday to elect a Mayor and one Commissioner in the annual Town Election to be held in the town office on May 4.

Last minute developments have created a three-way race for the Commissionship. The turn of events came late in the week when Dr. Gilbert Oddo, local college instructor, let it be known that he would enter the race via the write-in route. Dr. Oddo's name will not be on the official ballot as the deadline for filing was reached on April 24. However, Dr. Oddo, after discussing the situation with his many friends decided to enter the contest and will accept the post, if elected.

Mayor Clarence G. Frailey will be unopposed on the ballot, however the Commissionship will be sought by three contestants, viz., J. Norman Flax, former local baseball star and team manager, Ernest Dubel and Dr. Oddo.

The recent change approved by the Town Council regarding registration procedures has resulted in additional registrants for the coming election. Additional names have already been placed on the books and with additional registrations anticipated for this evening it is hoped that the number of eligible voters will near the 475 mark. The election will be held in the Town Office and the polls will be open from 2 to 7 p. m. D.S.T. The present commissioner, Wales E. Rightmire is not seeking re-election due to other pressing duties.

It is expected that a heavy turnout will be experienced in the coming election due to the candidacy of three men for the office of commissioner.

The remainder of the town council is constituted by Charles R. Fuss and J. Allen Bouey, who will continue to serve until their respective terms of office have expired.

Announces Candidacy

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Niw that Commissioner Rightmire has decided not to seek re-election, some of my friends have urged me to be a candidate for the office. Since I did not file for the office they have asked me to be a write-in candidate.

I consider it a great privilege to have the opportunity of serving our community as Commissioner. If elected, I pledge to do everything in my power to make Emmitsburg an even finer place to raise our families. Respectfully, then, I seek your support in Monday's election. Please write my name on the ballot for the office of Town Commissioner.

Schools Plan
Musical Activities
During Month

During the month of May the Frederick County Schools are sponsoring three major music activities. These activities will involve nearly 300 high school students and over 400 junior high school students in a series of culminating music events.

On May 5, 200 senior high school students selected from the various high schools in Frederick County, will participate in the twentieth All-County High School Chorus. The chorus will be under the direction of Mr. Peter Flanders, Chairman of the Music Department of Hood College. The students will rehearse with Mr. Flanders during the school day.

The following day, May 6, 375 students from the junior high schools will rehearse with Mrs. Mary Hunter, Chairman of the Music Education Dept. of the Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore. The evening of May 6, both the junior and senior high school choruses will present a concert, free of charge, to the general public. This concert will be presented at the West Frederick Junior High School. The program will begin promptly at 8:15 p. m. in the school auditorium.

For those students enrolled in the instrumental music program throughout the county, two major events have been scheduled. The Senior High School All-County Band, composed of students selected from the various high schools will rehearse May 12 during the school day and present a concert free of charge to the general public the same evening in the Frederick High auditorium beginning at 8:15 p. m. Mr. N. Linwood Seibert, Mr. Sperry Storm and Mr. Howard G. Andrews, instrumental music teachers, will conduct the band in a program of varied concert music.

The Junior High School All-County Band will rehearse Wednesday, May 27, and will present a concert the same evening at the West Frederick Junior High School beginning at 8:15 p. m. Mr. Calvin J. Wacker, Mr. Thomas E. Silliman and Mr. James G. Marrone will conduct the band. One of the most outstanding features of such music events is the thrill students receive from making music with so many others. The thrill of participation coupled with the joy of self-expression tend to qualify music as one of the basic objectives of education.

The All-County rehearsals and concerts are a part of the regular school program of the Frederick County Schools. Students who participate in these activities will have an opportunity to practice and perform under the direction of outstanding student musicians of Frederick County.

The participating music teachers will be able to observe the teaching techniques of the guest conductors and have an opportunity to observe the teaching techniques of the guest conductors and have an opportunity to observe the teaching techniques of the guest conductors and have an opportunity to observe the teaching techniques of the guest conductors.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

During World War II a famous warning of the U. S. Navy was "Loose talk sinks ships." Now the Navy is finding that loose talk can stir up the people of the State of Maine.

Up in remote Brunswick, Maine, there is a naval air station. Recently the Navy announced plans to open a commissary for the sale of foodstuffs to the station's personnel.

But what really stirred up the people of Maine was when the navy purported to have made a survey on which this decision was predicated.

This survey alleged that the commissary could sell groceries 26% cheaper than the prices being asked by the 53 grocers in area.

That was when the feathers of the fan, Citizens of the area immediately asked how it could be possible to sell so much less than they were paying for food.

And the U. S. Navy neglected entirely to explain these service owned and operated stores are heavily subsidized by taxpayers.

For in the Hoover Commission report it was found that in 1955, in the continental U. S., the Defense Dept. was operating food stores doing $185,000,000 in annual sales volume.

The Hoover Commission report also found that out of the 7,411 people engaged in working in these commissaries, over half, or 4,084 were military personnel. The report said they cost taxpayers over $15 million yearly.

© National Federation of Independent Business

Whether or not this figure is high enough is hard to determine.

In addition, there appears evidence that not all who buy tax subsidized food are wearers of any uniform. The entire operation has been expanded so that in many cases civilian employees of the Defense Dept. are able to buy at this cut rate. For example, in 1954 the Hoover Commission found that the five commissary stores in the Washington, D. C. area doing a business of over $9 million per year.

But in addition to the absurdity and unfairness of tax paying, independent merchants being forced to compete with tax subsidized government operated stores, there is also the bad public relations for the local business community in general.

If the armed forces in opening a new store releases publicity to the effect that it is possible to sell for less than the independent merchants in the area, then it should also be explained these savings are actually paid out of taxes.

And obviously, any store that can get more than half its help from the armed forces can sell for a lot less.

Presumably, men in the armed forces are training to defend the U. S. against total war. But if this present trend continues, it is not amiss to believe that at some future date every candidate for a commission in the armed forces will have to show proficiency in trimming lettuce, slicing bologna, and handling a cash register. And perhaps for outstanding performance in grocery store operation, Congress should design a medal of merit. Perhaps two crossed bananas on a field of cheddar cheese would reward military personnel who perform valiantly in the super market.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Ecclesiastes 12:17-18 or 1 Timothy 3:10-17.

Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it. (Proverbs 22:6.)

To a birthday supper, one friend came accompanied by a small child. All was quiet and calm as we went into the dining room. When the guests began to eat without first saying grace, the little girl cried out: "Mother, they are already eating up the supper without saying thanks to God." Her mother calmly answered: "You give thanks for all of us."

IN THIS WORLD

BRAINLESS WORMS OUTSMART PEOPLE!

NEMATODES... TINY SOIL-INHABITING WORMS NO BIGGER THAN THIS COMMA (,) ONCE THOUGHT HARMLESS, NOW ARE BLAMED FOR RUINING ONE-TENTH OF ALL THE AMERICAN FARMER GROWS.

GREATLY MAGNIFIED, THIS ROOTKNOT NEMATODE IS TYPICAL OF THOSE THAT ATTACK 1700 DIFFERENT PLANTS.

SEEDLINGS NEED PROTECTION...

FUNGI, INSECTS AND WEEDS ALSO ROB VITAL NUTRIENTS FROM TENDER ROOTS. NOW, FARMERS AND NURSERYMEN CAN BANISH THESE SEEDBED BANDITS. SCIENTISTS HAVE DEVELOPED MYLONE FUMIGANT WHICH DISINFECTS SEEDBEDS, SAFELY KILLING SOIL PESTS AND WEEDS.

GRANULAR MYLONE IS EASILY SPREAD AND MIXED WITH SURFACE SOIL. SPRINKLED WITH WATER, IT TURNS INTO A GAS. SEEDLINGS PLANTED AFTER 3 WEEKS ARE SAFE FROM SOIL PESTS.

THUS, SOIL SCIENCE WORKS TO PROTECT FARMERS AND THEIR CROPS.

In many homes Christian practices are neglected, though they have great importance, especially in homes where there are children.

Each Christian is a temple of God. We need to be careful that, with the help of God, the attitudes and daily practices in our home are what they should be. This is necessary in order that everything may be done for the glory of God.

Prayer

Our Father, help us today to testify and put into practice our Christian beliefs. Thus may they have their dwelling place not only in our homes, but outside. May they be seen and we be used as means to encourage others. We ask this in the name of Christ. Amen.

Racing At Rosecroft Next Week

OXON HILL, Md. — Trotting and pacing returns to Maryland on Monday, May 4, for another action-packed spring-summer session of 96 nights, as Rosecroft Raceway, plush half-mile track on the outskirts of the Nation's Capital, opens the season for a 24-night stand.

Post time will be 8:15 for the nine-race nocturnal programs.

The $257,000 Harness Tracks of America Pace for 4-year-olds will highlight the first week's sulky battles on Saturday, May 9, when one of the largest fields in the rich series is expected to start.

Thirty-nine pacers were nominated for the HTA classic which will be raced at 18 American tracks and at Blue Bonnets in Canada. The Rosecroft dash inaugurates the series for 1959. It will be attended by many top officials of the Harness world.

Among the potential starters is the 3-year-old pacer of last season, Shadow Wave, from the S. A. Camp Farm, Shafter, Calif., handled by veteran reinsman Joe O'Brien. The Adios-Shadow Gratitan horse, unbeaten in competition at Rosecroft last year, was winner of the 1958 edition of the $75,000 Little Brown Jug, and capped the second leg of the $85,000 American Pacing Classic at Hollywood Park, Calif., in a record-shattering 1:56 3/5. The time set a new world pacing mark for sophomores.

Grand Circuit Week at Rosecroft will be highlighted by performances of many of the country's top 2-and-3-year-old pacers and trotters, May 25-30, with four stellar events carded for the youngsters.

Renowned as a "springboard for champions," Rosecroft will kick off this major league of harness racing with the estimated $35,000 William E. Miller Memorial Pace, on Monday, May 25. Exclusively for 3-year-olds, the rich classic lists two-score-and-three of the classiest sophomores in the business. Twenty-two have been made eligible by their owners for the famous Triple Crown of Pacing, including 15 eligibles to the Little Brown Jug.

General Manager James M. Lynch announced that if more than 14 declare in, qualifying dashes will be held for the Miller Memorial on May 18.

The race perpetuates the memory of Rosecroft's founder and first president who died in 1954.

New spice added to the 1959 early-closing serving comes in the way of two baby classics, dubbed the National Capital Colt Races, which will be presented on Tuesday, May 26, and Wednesday, May 27. Added - money events, they have an aggregate estimated value of $20,000.

The Governor's Cup Trot, Rosecroft's final major classic of the season, Friday, May 29, will bring out many noted 3-year-old high-steppers. Among the potential starters are eight $110,000 Hambletonian nominees. The Governor's Cup has a possible $9,550 value.

In addition to the abbreviated but rich schedule of early-closing events on tap at Rosecroft, there will be the usual overnights with purses ranging from $800 for Class C goers to $3,000 for Class AA starters and $4,000 for Free For Allers.

Rosecroft president John W. Miller announced that Dr. A. C. Goff will be back in his role as official starter for the 11th year, and Roy Shudt will be in the roof-top booth once again to call the races. Ted Leonard will serve as racing secretary.

Deadline Reached For Wheat Farmers

May 1 of this year is an important deadline for certain owners of wheat farms which have been acquired by an agency having the right of eminent domain, according to Julius P. Parran, Chairman, Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The May 1 deadline applies to those owners who were so displaced from wheat allotment farms during the period January 1, 1954 to August 28, 1958.

The chairman explains that such an owner may file a notice of his displacement and a request that the allotment be pooled and used to the extent necessary to establish an "equitable" allotment for other land owned or purchased by him.

Tenants on such land are not eligible to file such requests and in order that the transferred wheat allotment may be effective for the 1960 wheat crop on the other farm, however, the owner must file the required notices in the local ASC county office not later than May 1, 1959.

Mr. Parran points out that today (Friday) is the deadline for requesting such action. He urges, therefore, that wheat farm own-

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY

Program chairmen of Maryland groups and organizations are effectively solving knotty meeting program problems through the University of Maryland's Speakers Bureau.

Operated under the Office of University Relations, the bureau has made available more than 100 faculty members for speaking engagements.

A brochure listing available speakers and more than 300 subjects on which they are authorities may be obtained by writing Speakers Bureau, Administration Annex, University of Maryland. The publication contains special forms for engaging speakers.

Choice of subject matter ranges from "History and Development of Ice Cream" to "Developments in Indonesia."

There are speakers from each of the nine colleges at College Park and five professional schools in Baltimore, as well as specialized areas and administration.

University President Wilson H. Elkins is not a member of the bureau because pressure of his duties permits only a very limited number of speaking engagements. Speakers on the subject of the university's role in the State include: Dr. Albin O. Kuhn, executive vice-president; Mr. Alvin E. Cormen, assistant to the president; Dr. R. Lee Hornbake, dean of the faculty; and Mr. Robert J. McCartney, director of university relations.

Women Jockeys To Compete At Pimlico

BALTIMORE — The Powder Puff Preakness—only regulation horse race in the country for lady jockeys—will be run for the seventh time at Pimlico on Saturday, May 16. The unique event is part of an all-day program of entertainment preceding the 83rd running of the $150,000 Preakness, middle jewel in the Triple Crown.

Conditions for the race call for a run of five furlongs with a start from the automatic gate. The film patrol, photo finish camera and teletimer are all in use for the race, but the jockey scales are not. A lady's weight is her secret on or off the track, Pimlico officials feel.

The race is open to three-year-olds and up (horses, that is) with a purse of $250 to the winning owner, $250 and a trophy to the winning jockey and special mementos to all of the other girls who compete.

Doris Riley, 27-year-old Baltimore mother of two children, defeated eight other housewives, debutantes and a secretary in the 1958 Powder Puff Preakness.

DAYBREAKS

Oddities about people, places and things you'll see on the shows that comprise ABC-TV's new "Operation Daybreak" (Mondays thru Fridays)

Danny Costello, the young singing personality scheduled for December appearances on "The Peter Lind Hayes Show," makes a living with his voice instead of with his good right arm because an injury cut short his promising baseball career. Danny was under contract to the Pittsburgh Pirates at one time and managed the Tallahassee ball club after his discharge from the army.

Recently, in his sign-off speech, Liberace thanked his studio audience for having come to see him. Said he, laughingly, "You don't have to buy anything just to see the show. If you liked it, tell your friends. If you didn't like it, you — too — can do us a favor." With a wink and a loud stage whisper, Liberace added: "Keep it to yourself!"

Hank Simms, commercial announcer on "Day in Court," is from Oklahoma. So is his wife, nee Elinor Eastman. But they met for the first time in Hawaii, where Hank was a member of the staff of KONA-TV, just 4500 miles from Tulsa. Married later in their native state, Hank says, "We went back home for the hangin'."

Bill Gwinn, who portrays the domestic relations judge on the "Day in Court" series, has a secret — he's a musician. He admitted that he once fronted a four-piece band which played for dancing aboard the passenger ship, "President Harrison." "We were pretty bad," he recalls, "but once we were out to sea they couldn't get rid of us. Even in those days, there were laws against throwing musicians overboard."

After finishing one of his daily "Operation Daybreak" programs on ABC-TV, Liberace prepared to play some post-show request numbers for his studio audience. Kid-ding his well-known penchant for flamboyant attire, Liberace quipped: "Excuse me a moment. I'm going to slip into something a little more — spectacular!"

Without attendant publicity, Bud Collyer, the affable emcee of "Beat The Clock," quietly goes about making appearances to help worthy welfare organizations in which he's interested. He'll be quite active in this work during the Christmas holidays, making benefit dates whenever his schedule permits.

New Look At Castro

News of great importance to Americans is coming out of Cuba—showing up the Castro "revolution" in its true light after he had been portrayed as Cuba's savior. Dale Francis, one of the top journalists for the Catholic press in America, did more to build up Fidel Castro into a "George Washington of Cuba" and his rebel hordes into a 20th Century Christian crusade than any other newspaperman. He spent much time in Cuba immediately after the rebel take-over of the country and his reports back to America, published widely in the Catholic press and quoted as authentic by many topflight American newspapers, gave glowing tribute to Castro and his rebels.

Mr. Francis publicly denounced the two or three outstanding American authorities on Communism who warned the nation that Castro had been working with Latin American Communists; that important Communists agents were leading his rebel forces, and that Cuba appeared to be getting a dictator who would be worse for Cuba and far more dangerous to America than the one overthrown. One of the men he denounced was Dr. J. B. Matthews, whose article establishing some of the Communist connections of Castro's rebels, and some of the Communist connections of Castro's rebels, and some of the facts about Castro's personal connections with Communists was written within 72 hours after dictator Batista fled Cuba and the bearded one took over.

Buildup For Castro
Here are some excerpts from Mr. Francis' widely published first report: "Despite what you may have read, the Cuban rebels are not Communists. There is absolutely no doubt about Fidel Castro . . . There is no Communist indoctrination in the rebel forces, not even the slightest degree of Communist propaganda." His long dispatches were filled with defense of Castro for the wholesale executions, praise for the character of the man, confidence in his rebel forces. He called Dr. Matthews' a "propagandist" and denounced as "false" the message of warning in Dr. Matthews' article.

A good deal of Mr. Francis' "facts" about Castro came from Castro himself, from the Catholic clergy of Cuba (Cuba is 90 per cent Catholic) and Catholic lay "action" groups. Both the clergy and the lay groups have said publicly they gave "most effective support" to the "triumphant revolution." On March 15, the influential lay groups, in a formal statement beamed to America, said: "The Castro government has re-established a regime of freedom."

Clear-Eyed Look Needed

Our column written late in February and published early in March was entitled: "What About Castro?" The column said: "Americans need to take a long clear-eyed look at Fidel Castro . . . there are facts about him and his rebel forces which indicate he is not all that he has been built up to be by some important facilities of American communications." Then were cited some facts about Castro's Communist connections. A few readers wrote in to tell me I was unduly alarmed. They declared that Castro was Cuba's great savior. They inclosed copies of Mr. Francis' articles.

Now comes the latest Francis article. He returned to Cuba in mid-March, and his article published in the Catholic press of March 21 reports as follows: "The Red move to take over started early in March. I arrived in Cuba and a cold chill crept over me as I realized what had happened . . . The Unpleasant Truth

"It is an unpleasant truth for me to face . . . but for the welfare of not just Cuba but all of Latin America and of the United States, it is a truth that must be made known . . . For the first two months after Batista's flight the mirage of peace was allowed to continue. Then difficulties began to creep in and the Communists finally made their move . . .

"Classes were announced for soldiers and they were compulsory. But they were not classes to teach men to read and write. They were classes to teach Marxism . . . the man who directs the classes in La Cabana is Alfred Guevara, a known Communist." (The new head of Cuban education proclaimed himself "a free thinker") . . .

"Castro is practicing a tyranny as great as that of his predecessor . . . He has openly proclaimed that anyone who in any way disagrees with him is a counterrevolutionist . . . there have been executions with no trial at all . . . The proof that Castro cannot be believed, that he never intends to hold free elections, is in his absolute denial of the right of any other parties to form . . .

"Known Communists have worked themselves into high places in the government." (Francis names 12) " . . . the stabilizing influence of older men in the cabinet is gone. The president, Manuel Urrutia, is joked about in public . . . I am sorry I was proved wrong, not because of my pride, but because it saddens me to see Cuba fall under a new tyranny." Next week: Further details on Castro.

Social Security Structure Explained

Do you know where your money goes when your social security tax is paid? Many do not. Yet, residents of Frederick County should be vitally interested, as these social security payments are their insurance against loss of earnings due to old-age or disability.

Your Social Security Program is financed through two separate trust funds. The Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund, created in 1939; and the Federal Disability Insurance Trust Fund, created in 1956. Each of these funds is kept separate from all other accounts in the U. S. Treasury. As of June 30, 1958, the Old-Age and Survivors Trust Fund had assets of $22.8 billion dollars. The Disability Insurance Trust Fund had assets of one billion, ninety-seven million dollars. The money deducted weekly from your salary or paid by you at the end of the year as a self-employed person goes directly into these trust funds.

What happens to your money when it is received? Most of the receipts of the trust funds are used to pay current benefits and for administrative expenses of the program. The remainder is invested in Federal Securities which can readily be converted into cash when needed to meet expenses.

Trust fund investments are limited by law to securities issued or guaranteed by the Federal Government. There are two principal reasons for this restriction. First, it is designed to insure the safety of the funds; Government securities are the safest form of investment.

Second, it keeps this publicly operated program from investing funds in competitive business ventures thereby avoiding direct public intervention in business management.

Your Social Security Trust Funds are lenders and the U. S. Treasury is the borrower. The trustees of the funds receive and hold Federal securities as evidence of these loans. Likewise, the Treasury Department uses this money just as it uses the money borrowed from other lenders, to help pay the expenses of the Government. The purchase of Federal obligations by the trust fund does not increase the national debt, neither is the public taxed twice in order to pay interest on or to redeem the securities held by the trust funds.

Should you have further questions regarding the way your funds are handled by the Social Security Trust Funds, send a letter or post card to your local Social Security District Office, located at 59 North Cannon Ave., Hagerstown, Maryland. Ask for the booklet, "Facts about the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund and the Disability Insurance Trust Fund."

Large Sum Will Be Spent On Heart Research In Maryland

An estimated $130,000 will be invested by the Heart Association in medical research in Maryland institutions this year.

Specific national awards to 8 local scientists were announced this week by Nelson T. Offutt, president of the Heart Association of Maryland. These total $57,600.

The awards were among 182 totaling $1,562,243 given to scientists throughout the country under the national research program of the American Heart Association. Of the Heart Fund contributions provided by the Maryland Heart Association to support the national program aimed at combating the cardiovascular diseases, more than 50 per cent is allocated to research.

Today's awards are for the 12 months beginning July 1, 1958.

Mr. Offutt pointed out that research support still to be made public will bring the total aid to Maryland projects to $130,000. This is an increase of 13% over the $115,400 given in 1958-59.

Those named are in the "fellowship" category of awards from the American Heart Association. To be announced are recipients of awards by the Maryland unit, and others supported by grants-in-aid from the national association.

In announcing the awards, Mr. Offutt emphasized that the scientists are engaged in a broad range of research studies, most of them in the category of basic research, aimed at pinpointing the underlying causes of heart and blood vessel disease.

KITCHEN CORNER

Many homemakers today recognize that running a household is somewhat like operating a small business—and sometimes not too small at that. Women increasingly are facing up to that fact, and are meeting the needs for home organization and efficiency through an "office" or planning center located in or adjacent to the kitchen.

The importance of the kitchen locale for the planning area is pointed up by home economists who say that a typical American homemaker may spend from 30 to 40 per cent of her waking day about the kitchen.

Useful elements in a kitchen planning center are a desk, a bulletin board, a comfortable chair, good lighting, a clock, telephone and note pads, receipts, telephone and a classified directory. It's at this center that the busy homemaker does her telephoning, plans meals, makes out grocery lists and keeps household records.

Having a telephone right at the heart of the planning center makes it easy for the homemaker to keep in touch. She can conveniently keep up with her civic and social activities, carry out many kinds of shopping, and take messages for other members of the family.

New, lighter shades are now a part of the telephone color lineup, making it easy to give extra sparkle and color flavor to any planning center. The list of decorator colors includes pink, ivory, light beige, light gray, moss green, white yellow, cherry red, and light blue.

Advance planning for the kitchen "office" is an important consideration in any kind of kitchen building, remodeling, or redecorating project. Through such forethought, whether a wall or desk phone is chosen, all phone wiring can be channeled behind the walls to give the kitchen planning center a neater, more efficient appearance.

It is estimated that over 60,000,000 replacement auto tires will be sold this year. And practically everyone will be purchased by a newspaper reader.

Twenty-three per cent of the U. S. families that earn between $7,500 and $10,000 own a second car. Eighty-eight per cent of these families read a newspaper every day.

J. Edgar Hoover of the F. B. I.

On New Year's day in 1895, the child who was to become America's foremost fighter against crime, was born in the very shadow of the nation's Capitol.

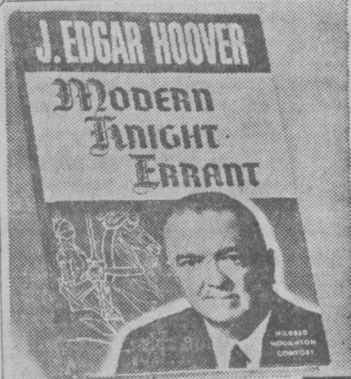

Christened John Edgar, he was to become the feared enemy of all criminals, famous throughout the world as J. Edgar Hoover of the F. B. I.

Although Mr. Hoover's exploits have long been well known, only now, for the first time, has there appeared in book form a biography of America's Number One G-Man. Written by Mildred Houghton Comfort, and published by T. S. Denison & Company of Minneapolis, it is aptly titled: "J. Edgar Hoover, Modern Knight Errant."

The book describes not merely the hitherto little known factors that shaped Mr. Hoover's life, but his fight to modernize the F. B. I. and make it an incorruptible and vigorous organization.

Miss Comfort's book is not history in any dry sense, however. It is alive with anecdotes. There is, for example, the story of Alvin Karpis, once the country's No. 1 Public Enemy, who had sworn to kill J. Edgar Hoover. Meeting the challenge, the F. B. I. chief personally directed the gangster's capture. When Karpis was traced to a New Orleans hideout, the stage was set for a memorable moment in criminal annals. It was the scene of Karpis' walking out of the trap set for him, and coming face to face with J. Edgar Hoover himself. As Mr. Hoover reached for him, Karpis grew suddenly pale, his bold threats faded. Without a word, he gave up meekly to the man he had sworn to kill.

While rooting out kidnapers, counterfeiters, spies and saboteurs, Mr. Hoover has not neglected a program to prevent future crime by emphasizing proper upbringing of the nation's youth. Advocating healthy family life, he says: "Youngsters who have love, understanding, and adequate discipline in a poverty-ridden home are far less 'underprivileged' than those who may be surrounded by material wealth but who lack affection, understanding and discipline."

In "J. Edgar Hoover, Modern Knight Errant," Miss Comfort describes in the most graphic terms how his own upright family life produced in the head of the F. B. I. a model for American youth, and an outstanding citizen and fighter against crime.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Bank Stocks As Investments
BABSON PARK, Mass., Apr. 30—I have recently been talking with a prominent General Motors official about small cars. He is rather skeptical as to whether small cars built by General Motors would sell after the first year or two.
Reason:—"Most people buy cars—large and small—for prestige, not for transportation. This desire for prestige causes us to build larger and heavier cars."

The average buyer wants to keep up with or go ahead of his neighbor! In fact, this is the real reason he buys small imported cars, to have a car to talk about, not to save gas. "In fact, I believe"—he continued—"that the present buying of Ramblers is largely a fad. Style and fashion now apply as much to automobiles as to the length of skirts, size of hats, or color of shoes worn by women."
Careful Supervision
I have taken a long time to get to my point, which is this: You can make no expenditure of money which will give you such prestige as will owning a few shares of stock in your best local bank. But, be sure to get the stock of your most conservative and most highly regarded bank. Owning stock in "second stringers" will not give you prestige.

But there are other more important reasons for owning some shares in such a bank. Banks are the most carefully government-supervised form of investment. Once or twice each year the Federal Government Examiners call (unannounced in advance) to make an audit of your local National Bank; this is in addition to certain State examinations. This means that the stock which you buy should be of a National Bank, or else you should get a letter from one of the bank officers stating that it has joined the Federal Reserve System, which includes certain qualified State Banks and Trust Companies.
Diversification And "Hidden Assets"
The assets of National Banks and of many State Banks and Trust Companies are exceedingly well diversified. As owner of a National Bank stock, your money is loaned to hundreds of different companies or individuals, most of them the best risks in your city; but loans are also made to large national companies. No Mutual Fund or Investment Trust has its assets as well diversified; furthermore, a condensed financial statement of the bank is published in your local paper once or twice a year.

Whenever a bank examiner thinks an investment or loan is questionable, he asks that the bank collect it, or sell it, or charge it off to one dollar! Usually, the questioned asset is charged off even though the directors believe it will turn out okay. On the bank's books it will henceforth appear at a value of one dollar. These charged-off assets are known as "hidden assets." Many of them will someday become valuable. The older a bank is, the more such hidden assets it will have. Hence, this is one reason for buying stock in an old bank. Market And Yield
With the exception of stocks of large banks in New York City and a few others, their marketability is not good. This means that local bank stocks are hard to buy or sell—that is, they are not "listed" nor are they officially traded "over the counter." So, when you wish to buy or sell ten shares, you should go to the President or to one of the other higher officers who will invite you in to sit by his desk and give your story. He will want to know whether you will be an asset to the bank's reputation or not. Secondly, such a stock is much like joining an exclusive club.
Bank stocks are issued at various par values from $10 up to $100. Most sell at a premium over their book values. Before talking with your banker about buying, you should call upon one of the directors whom you may know. Ask him to explain all this to you. Ask the approximate price and the annual dividend. The latter, divided by the price, gives you the yield. That is, if the stock sells at $25 and pays an annual dividend of $1.00, then

THS Mapping Out Spring Concert Card

Over 150 people in the Thurmont High School Glee Club, Band and Junior High Chorus are now in the process of completing the planning of its spring program, "An Old Kentucky Garden," an operetta based on the music of Stephen Foster. It will be presented May 2 and 4 in the school auditorium. This operetta is set in the year 1850 in Kentucky. A birthday party for Jeannie Staunton, a pretty young Southern belle is being held.

Other characters are introduced as the plot thickens. A "deaf" widow and a mustached gold prospector, add comedy to the charming story. Suspense is added when Jeannie's pigeon-blood ruby is stolen. But romance does triumph in the end.

The delightful simplicity of Stephen Foster's music has been preserved in the arrangements of the songs of "An Old Kentucky Garden." The costumes of the period will be worn by the characters and chorus—the wide, hoop-

S.S. Princess Sophie Vital to Defense

NAPOLÉON SAID: "An army travels on its stomach." Today's military forces travel on their fuel tanks. America's B-52 Hydrogen bomber, for example, takes 35,000 gallons to "fill 'er up." Since most of the free world's bases are thousands of miles from major oil supplies, the ability of our Armed Forces to operate depends on ocean-going tankers, like the new PRINCESS SOPHIE, biggest merchant ship ever built in the U.S.
The 71,282-ton, 859-foot flagship of the Niarchos Fleet was built for peaceful commerce. She cost $20,000,000 and provided American workers with 6,000,000 manhours of employment. She can carry 27,000,000 gallons 12,000 miles from the Middle East to California for little more than a penny a gallon. Her expert crew have private staterooms, air conditioning, an elevator and an automatic laundry. Military considerations, however, are reflected in the PRINCESS SOPHIE's speed of 17½ knots. This, with her great size, makes her the equivalent of five of the standard T-2 tankers of World War II.
Launched at Quincy, Mass., last November by Queen Frederika of Greece, the new ship is the largest ever to fly the flag of that Allied nation, whose principal industry is global shipping. Greek ship owners and seamen have added millions of tons of tanker capacity to the free world's defenses. Since their tiny country does not have large military or domestic oil requirements of its own, in time of war these ships can support American air and ground forces, whose demand for tankers would greatly exceed the U.S. supply.

Top Rug-To-Consumer Firm Got Its Start In A Cottage

Olson Rug Company began in 1874
By LOUIS JAMES
Chicago has written some celebrated events into U.S. history—apart from that famous fire.
Not the least of them occurred one mid-summer day in 1874. On that day O. B. Olson moved into a small cottage at Ohio Street near Ogden Avenue and started to weave rugs.
He worked alone. When he finished a rug he tucked it under his arm—and sold it. From that modest start to the huge enterprise it spawned is a story of a dedicated man—and an equally dedicated son.

Young Olson sparks huge growth
By the turn of the century, Olson was delivering rugs to lots of Chicagoans, and to a few in the outlying areas. In 1901, "O.B." died and teen age Walter Olson, son and heir, took over.
With the paternal training, supplemented by his own youthful energies, he soon pushed the Olson Rug Co. into high gear.
Like his father, Walter Olson got to the factory at 8:00 A.M. Some evenings he didn't leave until 10:00 P.M. Like his father, too, he knew his business and liked people. Again, the success formula was there.

Awarded "First Honors"
In the 1930's, when rug demand dwindled, due to the big depression, he started on a project of improving the landscaping around his factory—to give employment to his trained textile workers. As a result, Walter Olson gained fame as one of the pioneers in the beautification of factory sites. He was awarded "First Honors" for this by the city of Chicago.

WALTER OLSON
Carloads of limestone were brought in. A rock garden was built. A thirty-five foot waterfall erected. He tided his people over the depression.
Later he added gay lawn furniture, umbrellas, live trees. Result: One of Chicago's real show places. Almost 8 million visitors have come from all over the U.S. to view Olson Park.
From 1874 till now, the company hasn't stopped growing. Today it is "The Largest Maker of Rugs and Carpets in the World dealing Direct with the Home."
Olson employees have a stake in the business through an employee savings plan which pays double the bank rate.

A man with ideas
The company creates, designs, weaves and sells rugs and carpeting of all types direct to the public—from the famous inexpensive Olson Reversible Rugs to the finest grades of Wiltons—

Men Who Make America Great
One of Chicago's Show Places
which require over 1600 employees, trained in the "Father-to-Son" tradition of excellence.
One of the big features of the business which Olson has expanded far beyond the visions of the founder, and even of his own early estimates, is the mail order side. Olson sells most of his rugs by mail. He also brought other innovations to the rug and carpet business, notably the "Reversible Rug." The firm specializes in this, and produces more than the rest of the industry together.
With offices and representatives in thirty cities, Walter Olson still has his fingers closely on the pulse of the business.
Besides his home on Lake Shore Drive in Chicago, he maintains a winter residence in Miami Beach, has a summer home in northern Wisconsin—where he also maintains 30 lodges for Olson Rug employees.

"Just call me 'rug man'"
Olson has hobbies, besides his business. He is a top-notch golfer, shooting in the low 70's. He operated his speed boat to 3 championships in Wisconsin waters. He is a patron of the opera, a voracious reader and many times has been invited to run for the office of Mayor of Chicago.
The septogenarian president of Olson Rug has been called a rug "tycoon" but doesn't like the title. Sometimes referred to as a "celebrity," the word makes him scowl. He is a philanthropist but the word doesn't cheer him.
"How shall we refer to you?" a reporter once asked after an interview. The answer snapped out, "Just call me Walter Olson, rug man."

THIS 'N THAT

By George W. Wireman

Editor's Note: With this issue we introduce a new feature entitled "This 'n' That", written by George W. Wireman. In this column each week Mr. Wireman will feature subjects that plan an important part in our every day life, yet are taken for granted by most of us. We sincerely hope that this feature will add greatly to your reading pleasure.

Abbreviations

Broadly defined, abbreviations, contractions, and diminutives belong together as forms of abridged language. While it is true that all language is symbolic in the sense that its components refer to meanings, it is also true that man has invented numerous kinds of sign language, ranging from those used among primitive peoples to elaborate lists used in mathematics, the sciences, and religion. Verbal abbreviations appeared early in written language and have become well nigh essential for efficiency in many phases of our modern life. Such abbreviations as G.O.P., A. F. of L., and C. I. O., contractions like

"it's" and "don't" and diminutives of names such as Dan and Sue are well entrenched in English script. In the field of sports, K. O. needs no explanation; and in ordinary talk about ailments, T. B. is equally well known.

In the business world there are many abbreviations which we use daily such as B. L. for bill of lading, P. O. which stands for Purchase Order, T. T. meaning teletype, and many many more.

We all use abbreviations in our work and yet we too often forget their origin and true purpose. Obviously abbreviations save time and space, and these purposes doubtless have been dominant from the early origins of abbreviations. They appear on ancient coins and frequently in ancient emblems and inscriptions. IHS was used among the Greeks as an abbreviation or symbol of Jesus. This form and its shorter variant, IH, later were thought to denote Jesus Hominum Salvator, (Jesus, the Saviour of Mankind).

The practicing of abbreviating was common on tombs. Inasmuch as ancient inscriptions usually were chiseled on stone, it is likely that lack of sufficient space accounted for many of the abbreviations, a theory supported further by the exclusive use of capital forms, which required more space than the later uncials and cursives and minuscules. Many abbreviations were the basis of symbols and codes.

Currently, abbreviations have become so numerous that they may be regarded as technical languages within language. Within the many branches of government, abbreviations by the thousands have been developed. The armed services and the United States governmental agencies are two areas within which abbreviations have become a highly form of communication. Within educational circles, degrees and, to some extent courses are known through abbreviations, such as in the subject of Problems of Democracy, known to the students as P. O. D.

The sports world has evolved an abbreviation argot without which the sports pages of our newspapers would be much tamer. Code words are essential in governmental and business communications.

The use of abbreviations is becoming so general that eventually they may wholly displace large numbers of words. Indeed, such abbreviations as AEC, FBI, SPCA and GI, already have displaced their more cumbersome originals. This development is both the cause and result of the tempo of modern life today. Quick means of communication accelerate the conduct of human affairs, and, in turn, the highly geared movement of living stimulates the need for further short cuts to understanding. So essential have abbreviations become that knowledge of their meaning is requisite for efficiency.

There are no basic rules governing the formation of abbreviations as a whole. Although certain forms become conventional or official, large numbers of them merely express an individual's preference.

In the absence of an over-all role applicable to the spelling of abbreviations, at least six patterns of abbreviational forms may be noted:

1. Initials. This type is most popular in abbreviating names or titles. Examples: U. S. or U. S. A., R. R., G. ., Y. M. C. A., need no explanation, nor does M. B. F.

2. First and last letters. Examples: Pa. (Pennsylvania), Me. (Maine), Mr. (Mister).

3. Beginning letters. Examples: N. H. (New Hampshire), E. E. (Electrical Engineer).

4. Key or identifying letters, as in Sgt., Ltd., Bldg.

5. Syllables. Examples: Wash., Prof., Colo.

6. Mixed. Examples: Many commercial items such as Amoco (American Oil Company), Nabisco (National Biscuit Company), Sunoco (Sun Oil Company), Texaco (Texas Oil Company).

Although dictionaries of abbreviations are available, none of them is exhaustive. In fact, an exhaustive listing probably is impossible, since many abbreviations have only local or regional interest and others are ephemeral. Many of us have created abbreviations of our own to speed up our work, and find that they are essential for true efficiency. If you are one who feels that they are unimportant try working without them and you will soon realize their value in everyday life. Yes, abbreviations are taken for granted by most of us and we seldom stop to consider the important part they play in our everyday life.

Women Voters Group Organizing

Following several months of discussion among interested persons, and after receiving assurance of support from many others, a group of women of Frederick County have decided to establish a chapter of the League of Women Voters. The purpose of the League of Women Voters of the United States is to promote political responsibility through informed participation of citizens in government. The League has about 125,000 members in over 1000 chapters located in every state of the Union. The League is non-partisan. While it takes action at local State of National levels on specific issues, it does not support or oppose political candidates or parties. The League concerns itself with governmental issues selected by the membership. For example, the chapters of the Maryland League are at present studying the sources and methods of taxation in the State. Action is taken and recommendations made only after extensive study and upon agreement of a majority of the members. At election time, the League provides information about the issues and the candidates to the voters. For instance, it publishes explanations of the items submitted for referendum on the ballot, and it organizes meetings at which candidates from all parties appear together to answer questions of the interested public.

The next meeting of the Frederick League of Women Voters will be held on Wednesday, May 6 in the basement of the Hood College Chapel. All women in Frederick County who are interested in the League are cordially invited to attend. At the May 6 meeting, a film history of the League will be presented by Mrs. Haig Dermen of the Maryland League State Board, elections will be held and a program for the Frederick County League will be discussed. Women who are unable to come to this meeting may have their name added to the League mailing list by calling Monument 2-5083.

Lutheran Women Meet And Elect

"Power to Witness" was the theme of the Middle Conference of Maryland Synod, United Lutheran Church Women, which met at Elias Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, April 23.

Mrs. Carroll Boyer conducted both the morning and afternoon sessions.

The Rev. Philip Bower of the host church, extended greetings. Mrs. Stanley Jennings gave the response.

The four functional committees headed by Mrs. Robert Daugherty, Mrs. Richard Shanebrook, Mrs. William Landis, and Mrs. G. Thomas James, gave their reports in the form of launching a rocket.

Mrs. Dorothy Auxt Feil the guest speaker, related most interesting experiences of her life in Japan as a missionary. The Rev. and Mrs. Feil have started a mission Evangelical Lutheran Church in southern Japan. She spoke very well of the relationship of the Japanese with the United States.

Mrs. Reginald Zepp and a sextette of girls from Emmitsburg High School, furnished special music.

Mrs. Carl Schaeffer, president of Middle Conference, presided at both sessions. Two synodical officers, Mrs. Dwight Wahaus, president, and Mrs. Carlton Zahn, statistical secretary, brought many helpful suggestions for each U. L. C. W.

The following officers who will serve Middle Conference for 1959-1960 were installed by Mrs. Dwight Wahaus: President, Mrs. Carl Schaeffer; vice president, Mrs. Stanley Jennings; recording secretary, Mrs. Naomi Kauffman; statistical secretary, Mrs. Paul Dinterman; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Koller; publicity chairman, Mrs.

Carroll Dougherty; Christian service chairman, Mrs. William Landis; educational chairman, Mrs. Richard Shanebrook; offering chairman, Mrs. G. Thomas James and membership chairman, Mrs. Robert Daugherty.

During 1957, newspapers in the United States invested $129,991,529 to improve their plants and equipment — the better to serve both readers and advertisers.

What To Do In Big Cities

By Martha Johnson

NEW YORK — City driving can be fun.

If you are not used to driving in congested city traffic and are contemplating a trip to New York or another big city during your summer vacation, these hints should be welcome.

Stephen P. Kennedy, police commissioner of New York, one of the most traffic-congested cities in the world with more than two million cars using its crowded streets daily, feels city driving requires greater intelligence and perception than any other type.

Commissioner Kennedy, whose traffic division is manned by 2,284 safety specialists, offers these three broad rules for city driving:

KNOW YOUR REGULATIONS, since 90 per cent of all accidents involve a breach of regulation. In New York the speed limit is 25 miles per hour, considered ideal for car and driver control in heavy vehicle and pedestrian traffic.

- Obey all traffic laws, including the speed limit.
- Check your car for safety at regular intervals.
- Follow at a safe distance.
- Slow down and signal before turning or stopping.
- Slow down at intersections.

CHECK YOUR ATTITUDE AND BEHAVIOR and follow the three C's of safe driving—Care, Courtesy and Common Sense.

- Don't drink and drive.
- Don't "fight" for the right of way.
- Don't weave in traffic.
- Don't "jump" traffic lights.
- Don't make sudden stops.

Pedestrian Safety—Our Biggest Problem states Mrs. Hellen Tullis, chairman of the pedestrian program for Maryland. Maryland's pedestrian traffic fatalities increased in 1958 although the overall deaths due to traffic accidents decreased. The need for an extensive pedestrian education program is most vital. By learning the rudiments of good pedestrian behavior, each citizen will be made aware of his responsibility. Mrs. Tullis, chairman of the pedestrian programs for the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission and her new guiding eyes dog, Jana, shown above, plan a speaking trip throughout Maryland. They are available during May, which is known as Pedestrian Information Month, to address clubs, organizations and schools.

Program chairmen, please contact the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Guilford Avenue and 21st Street, Baltimore 18, Maryland, to request a date for Mrs. Tullis's services.

President Proclaims Law Week

WHEREAS, a free people can assure the blessings of liberty for themselves only if they recognize the necessity that the rule of law shall be supreme, and that all men shall be equal before the law; and

WHEREAS, this nation was conceived by our forefathers as a nation of free men enjoying ordered liberty under law and the supremacy of the law is essential to the existence of the nation; and

WHEREAS, by directing the attention of the world to the liberty under law which we enjoy and the accomplishments of our system of free enterprise we emphasize the contrast between our freedom and the tyranny which enslaves the people of one-third of the world today; and

WHEREAS, in paying tribute to the rule of law between men, we contribute to the elevation of the rule of law and its application to the solution of controversies between nations;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Friday, May 1, 1959, as Law Day in the United States of America.
