Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

Americans are usually of a docile nature but when such incidents as the picketing of Fort Detrick this week by a group of individuals opposed to warfare via the germ method took place I was sort of provoked and I feel certain that most everyone who read of the incident felt the same way about the matter. The pickets were present most of the week and were sponsored by an organization under the name of Fellowship of Reconciliation - Middle Atlantic Region.

The group claims that "the nation that would be a peacemaker must learn how to make war on germs instead of war with germs." This would be well and good and I would highly concur with the idea except that under the circumstances with the Russians as obstinate and provocative as they have been towards war, I feel that in the best of interests of all concerned we must not relax our constant vigil of preparedness, under no circumstances regardless of what religious sects feel about the matter. Fort Detrick has proved an invaluable instrument in obtaining vital data concerning the Russians' progress with germ warfare as well as rockets, missiles, etc. Samples of the air from all over the world are analyzed at this particular military station and it has been a proven fact that a number of samples of polluted air from countries adjacent to the Red Country show the extent of activity which the Reds have made. To close down the Fort would be sheer folly. It could easily be that the movement was Communist-inspired. We must keep up our guard against the possibility of war at all times.

Goods news pertinent to traffic safety was received this week when the traffic fatality toll ran well under estimates by the National Safety Council. Previous predictions by that organization placed the estimated toll of dead over the Fourth at 350. To the surprise of many of us who are almost always expecting a new record of some sort the total reached only 276.

A staggering figure to be sure, but a welcome diminishing trend instead of an increasing one. I'm certain that a lot more families are happy today because of this fact. It's encouraging to read news of this nature, especially with more cars being placed on the roads every day. I don't know whether this was an influencing factor or not, but most churches took up the battle against road fatalities this year, urging everyone to please use safety and caution over the holiday. Whether it helped or not there was a decided drop in the total number of accidents and subsequent deaths via the highway.

Extreme caution should be used around the farm these days as the farmers are working from dawn to dusk. Farming machinery appears to be harmless but it has maimed and killed thousands in recent years. Let's just take our own little Frederick County for instance. Within the past two weeks four fatalities have occurred, the latest being a seventeen month old child. Accidents will always happen and any of these unfortunate individuals certainly have our deepest sympathy. We should however be on guard so that such accidents do not occur in the future. And while we are on the subject of accidents and misfortunes, please, please follow the advice of the National Safety Council and local subordinate organizations and destroy any plastic cleaning bags, etc., that may be around your home. With the recent death of a child in Baltimore this brings the total also to four recent deaths by suffocation in this manner within the past few weeks. While we have shown a very great improvement on the highways regarding accidents let us also exercise every precaution in preventing any of the aforementioned accidents within our homes.

THREE INJURED In Wreck Near Town

Two Pennsylvania residents were injured slightly last Saturday when the car in which they were riding left the road and struck a tree. The mishap occurred when the 1949 Ford sedan, driven by Russell Lemaster, 18, Gettysburg, traveling east on the Hampton Valley Road about a mile west of town left the road and hit a tree. Injured also was Morris Miller, 18, Two Taverns, Pa., who was a passenger in the Lemaster vehicle. Damage to the car was estimated at $550. A third rider in the car, Glenn Smith, 24, Gettysburg, also was slightly injured.

The injured were taken to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, in the local VFW ambulance. Miller received multiple lacerations of the face and arms and a fractured jaw. Both Lemaster and Smith were treated at the hospital and released. Trooper William G. Morgan who investigated the mishap, charged Lemaster with reckless driving and his trial will be held before Magistrate Richard J. McCullough, Emmitsburg on Saturday, July 11.

Million Dollar Orchard Sold

The D. M. Wertz Orchards, near Waynesboro, Pa., have been sold. All of the fruit holdings of the organization were involved and the sale price is reported to be around a million dollars.

Purchasing the 764 acres at Quincy, Mont Alto and Rouzerville were Paul F. Esser, Gettysburg, and Lee F. Esser, Camp Hill.

It was reported that 624 acres of the property are planted in cherry, apple and peach orchards. The Quincy orchard has been held by the Wertz family since 1744 and was an original grant under the William Penn Charter. Possession was given July 1.

The new owners, who are executives of Knouse Foods Cooperative, Peach Glen, will continue the operation under the present management as D. M. Wertz Orchards and will pack fresh peaches and apples under the Triangle Brand Label, as well as continue the sale of fruits to processors.

Town Purchases Walkersville Water System

The Walkersville Water Company has been purchased by the Burgess and Town Commissioners of Walkersville for $60,000.

The purchase, which went into effect on July 1, was recorded on Wednesday by Clerk of the Court Ellis C. Wachter.

Under the terms of the purchase, according to Walkersville Burgess Gilmore C. Trout, the town paid $15,000 as a down payment on the $60,000 water system and agreed to pay the remaining $45,000 to the stockholders over a 10-year period, with options for payment before that date or extension of payments.

This reinvestment of the original stockholders in the firm for the next ten years made it necessary for the town to float a $45,000 bond issue for the purchase, Burgess Trout pointed out.

The $60,000 purchase involves the 250-acre Walkersville watershed, located on Daysville Road four miles northeast of Walkersville, plus all of the water mains, plugs, fire hydrants and other assets of the Walkersville Water Company.

Communities Organize For State Mosquito War

There has been a phenomenal increase in the number of communities participating in mosquito control work since its inception three years ago. At present there are 255 towns, villages and communities in 13 Maryland counties being sprayed or fogged for relief from mosquito annoyance, reports Dr. George S. Langford, Maryland State Entomologist.

During the summer of 1956 only 82 communities participated in the program, as compared with 200 for 1957 and 255 this year. A survey showed that an estimated population of 188,300 permanent residents and approximately 1,900,000 people visiting summer resorts benefited from these spraying.

In 1958, approximately 438,136 gallons of spray mixtures were used. The principle insecticide employed was benzene hexachloride (BHC), but DDT and Malathion were also used in limited amounts. Some larviciding was done in a few communities.

Mosquito control work in Maryland is a function of the State Board of Agriculture which is also the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland. All of the mosquito control programs operate through the Dean of Agriculture and the Department of Entomology, under the guidance of the State Entomologist, Dr. Langford. The Entomological staff consists of Dr. J. R. Foster, Stanley R. Joseph, Robert A. Berry, Lawrence W. Smith and Jerry Mallick. The Engineering staff consists of E. Elwood Lynch, Lester F. George and Charles R. Rohm. Dr. Foster is responsible for program coordination and Mr. Lynch gives direction to engineering activities.

Miss Caldwell Retires After 35-Year Teaching Career

Retirement this year ended the thirty-five year teaching career of Mrs. Hazel K. Caldwell, of the Emmitsburg High School faculty.

For the past fifteen years, Mrs. Caldwell has taught a variety of subjects including Latin, English, and Core at the Emmitsburg school. Her previous teaching experiences included sixteen years in a South Dakota high school, three years' teaching in a one-room country school in Colorado, and one year of teaching in Iowa, her native state.

Mrs. Caldwell completed high school and received her college training in Iowa. Post graduate work was done at Chicago University, Northwestern University, and the University of Maryland.

Very much devoted to traveling, Mrs. Caldwell has made four trips to Europe and has traveled extensively throughout the United States. Her travels provided additional insight into people and places which were the topics of her teaching.

Mrs. Caldwell's only vocational experience aside from teaching was gained during the three years she spent in the United States Government Office of War Information during the second World War.

CIVIL DEFENSE SURVIVAL PLAN COMMENDED

Work of the Maryland Survival Project, which has been the Federally-financed planning arm of Civil Defense in this and all other states, has been praised by State Civil Defense Director Sheryle Ewing as the project closed its doors on July 1.

Mr. Ewing said that many of the plans needed for the survival of citizens in a nuclear attack had been written by the project staff and that it had accomplished much valuable survey and study work. He added that it had been hoped that the Federal Government would continue to finance such planning work by providing funds to maintain adequate State and local staffs but he said that Congress has not yet seen fit to provide funds for State and local Civil Defense expenses.

Mr. Ewing said that the planning functions previously done by the project staff would now fall back on State, City and County authorities. He said that in many instances the Civil Defense staffs are already overburdened with the regular day to day Civil Defense responsibilities. In Maryland a majority of the Civil Defense staffs are volunteers.

He pointed out that everybody except the Congress seems to recognize that Civil Defense has become considerably more complex since the strength of weapons has been increased and the threat of radioactive fallout hydrogen bombs has developed.

The Survival Project began its work in February 1956, first working on a plan for the Baltimore area and later its work was expanded to include the entire State. Colonel Arthur L. Shreve (Ret.) formerly Chief, Maryland Military District and Deputy State Civil Defense Director, has been the Project Manager and Brigadier-General Kenneth S. Sweany (Ret.) has been the Planning Officer. Many people prominent in business, professional and governmental fields in Maryland have served with the project as staff members, consultants and advisors. The paid staff strength has averaged about eight during the period of its activities. As a result of its work a seven-volume master State Survival Plan has been published plus plans for the Baltimore and Washington areas and a prototype plan for the counties. Sixteen counties have formally adopted the proposed model plan.

Frederick County is one of the sixteen counties that has completed and formally adopted its Plan, known as the Frederick County Operational Survival Plan, which has been approved and signed by the Frederick County Commissioners.

The project staff has taken a lead in the problem of economic requirements control and had begun planning with industry representatives for such vital matters as food and fuel supplies and rationing. The plan, however, broadly covers all facets of life that would be affected by nuclear attack.

Congress now has before it a measure that would provide $12,000,000 so that local and state Civil Defense units could get Federal funds to augment their staffs. If this measure is approved, said Mr. Ewing, some of the gap left by the termination of the Survival Project could be closed. Maryland's share of the 12 million dollars would be about $20,000. The request has been strongly supported by all of Maryland's Senators and Representatives as well as by Governor Tawes and such groups as the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, the State Junior Chamber of Commerce and others.

Yanks Win Close One

Four runs in the bottom of the first and two more in the third gave the Yankees a thrilling 6-5 win over the first place Giants in the Emmitsburg Little League. It was the first loss for the league leaders.

Manager Jack Dillon's Yankees played errorless ball on defense and doubles by Norris, Bowers and Dillon bolstered their offense. Jackie Dillon went the distance on the mound for the winners.

Byard, Bell and Kelly hit two-baggers for the Giants with Dennis Stahley clouting a home run.

Balanced judgment is a rare commodity, and one of the highest forms of human progress.

Council Plans Crack-Down On Garbage Burning

Ordinances pertinent to roadside dumping, raw garbage burning, and loitering are being studied in preparation to enforcement it was learned at the regular monthly meeting of the Burgess and Commissioners of the Corporation of Emmitsburg held Monday night in the Town Office. Chairman of the Board of Commissioners J. Allen Bouey presided over the meeting with a full board in attendance.

Numerous complaints have been received by Council concerning the burning of raw garbage within the town's limits and after an investigation the Town Fathers discovered that at least 50% of the town's residents have no visible way of disposing of their garbage. Trash collector's figures reveal that only half the residents subscribe to a garbage removal service leaving the other half to either burn it or haul it out of town and dumping it onto other people's property. A number of complaints from outside the corporation limit residents has been registered with the town solons concerning this garbage dumping and some action on the part of the Council is in the making. The clerk's and secretary's reports were read at the meeting by the town clerk, Louise Sebald.

Tax Collector Charles D. Gillelan reported $5,275.52 collected during the past two months, in addition to $145 for peddling permits. Police Chief W. E. Law filed his monthly report with the Council and parking meter revenue for May and part of June was reported at $400.58. In an effort to justify all purchases, the Town Fathers decreed that all future purchase orders by town employes and officials be signed by those individuals making the purchase.

Taxes collected to date, since January, amounted to $16,678.85, Tax Collector Gillelan reported. Included in this amount was $1300 in sewer taxes paid by Saint Joseph College. Thirty-one meter and traffic fines were levied by the Police Department during the month. Chief Law reported all traffic lines had been repainted, meter posts straightened and painted and the two steel poles supporting the traffic light on the Square repaired with aluminum. Bills of $15,752 for expenses on the construction of the new sewer line and $5,136 for work to date on the Emmitt Gardens sewer line were ordered paid to the W. F. Wilson Co., general contractors on the project.

In other action taken during the meeting, the town Fathers authorized a quarter page advertisement in the convention booklet of the Vigilant Hose Co., ordered a street light installed in the rear of Welty's Store on Lincoln Avenue and discussed the mosquito problem confronting the East End residents. A discussion was held as to whether or not it was feasible to spray Flat Run or have the stream dredged in an effort to eliminate the mosquito menace, however no final decision was reached on the matter. Discussed also was the revision of the peddler's ordinance and the repairing of all damaged streets following the installation of the sewer system.

Several requests for the purchase of the town's lot on S. Seton Avenue were discussed but were rejected, Council feeling at this time that it was inadvisable to sell the plot of ground.

Yanks Gain Tie In Little League

The Yankees moved into a tie for first place in the Emmitsburg Little League by walloping the Cards 21-9, Tuesday evening. The Giants, who won the title last year, will meet Manager Jack Dillon's Yankees next Tuesday evening.

One of the highlights of the ball game was Jackie Dillon's home-run to deep center in the third inning with no one on base. It was his first round-tripper of the season.

Investigate Robbery

State and local police are continuing their investigation of the robbery of Tom Gebhart's Tavern north of town last Saturday. Police say that a quantity of hams and beer was stolen as well as a number of hard-shelled crabs.

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kestmo

Every vessel, every work boat, has its captain, and so has every yacht. But when it comes to small boats, such as outboards, it usually seems formal and silly to designate anyone as captain. Still, from the important standpoint of safety and common sense, it is just as essential to have someone in charge of a small boat, reports Willard Crandall, Boating Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.
The fact that the captain of an outboard is an informal one makes it all the more important that the area of his responsibilities be well understood, not only by him, but by his passengers as well. No sportsman who is captaining a small boat wants to be abrupt and insistent to guests aboard. No sportsman passenger wants to embarrass his host by unwittingly urging him to do something beyond what is safe practice for the boat, load and water conditions. That's a chief reason it's vital to all who go out on the water to understand the captain's job and the universal, if unwritten, code he operates under. It is the same for all small boats, from canoe to cruiser, for all waters, from the blue of the Pacific to the slow or fast currents of a Minnesota creek.

Who is the captain of a small boat? It is the owner, or the man who has borrowed the boat, not caution against back-seat-driving driving at the time. This placing of final or over-all responsibility conforms in general to law and court decisions. Don't take this to mean courts are in the habit of not holding drivers responsible.
The captain must be on the job, of course, before the boat casts off. It's his place to check on the boats seaworthiness, the motor's condition. The captain not only sees that everyone gets safely aboard—rowboats can be tippy, cruisers have slippery decks—but, in an open boat, he decides where everyone is to sit. This head-waiter job is not just a matter of comfort and courtesy. Every outboard boat must be balanced properly, side to side and fore and aft, for fastest, most efficient and safe operation. The smaller the boat, the greater the load, the more effect each passenger's weight has, and the more important all this becomes.

When someone else is driving circumstances are somewhat changed. The captain must give part of the responsibility to the driver. Fortunately, situations calling for drastic split-second decisions are, in motor boating, rare. Usually, there's much more time. A boat is not a car, and caution against back-seat-driving should not be carried too far. It would usually be silly, for example, for the captain to refrain from calling attention to a small floating log that suddenly popped up ahead; the driver might not see it. It's part of the captain's job to know when to speak up, shout if necessary to me heard and when not to.

Charles Motter, 68, Emmitsburg, was treated at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Tuesday for a laceration of the right forearm sustained when he slipped while inserting a light bulb.
Receives Suspended Sentence
Francis W. Eiker, near Emmitsburg, appeared in Frederick County Court Tuesday morning on a nonsupport charge. He was originally tried June 16 and ordered to pay $25 a week but his attorney, Sherman P. Bowers, asked for the order to be made $15 weekly stating that the defendant could not raise $25 weekly.
Bowers said that Eiker expects to enter a veterans' hospital and said an arrangement has been made to see that the man's wife receives $15 weekly.
In reducing the order to $15 a week, Magistrate Joseph J. Coady said he would give Eiker a suspended 30-day sentence.

Are You Wearing The Right Collar?

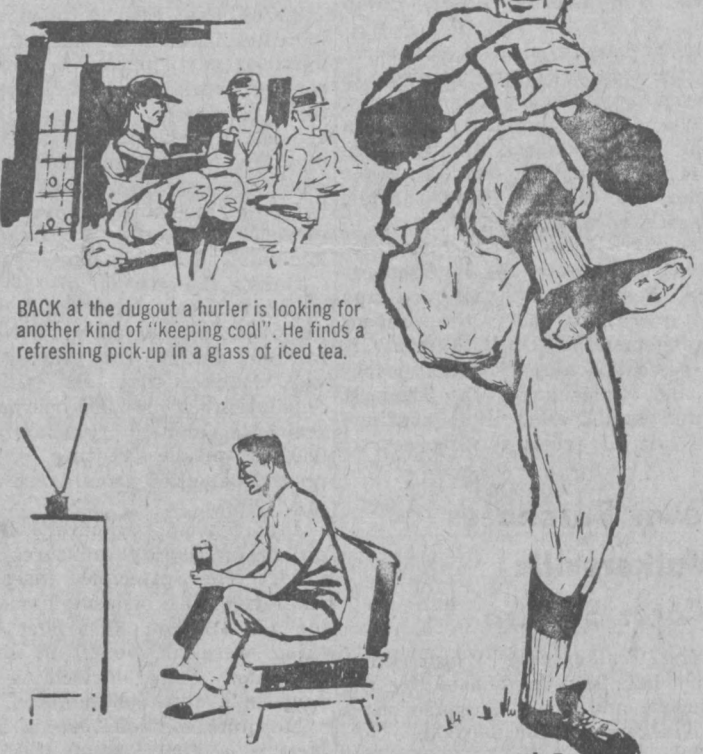

The finest clothes won't help a man's appearance much—if his shirt collar doesn't suit him. Yet, three out of ten American males are wearing collars that don't even fit!

is: a fairly wide spread collar is the favorite for a long, oval face... a narrow-to-medium spread collar gives length to a fuller face... a button-down is well suited to the man with a strong jaw line—chosen by active types of all ages. A new tab collar is a handsome addition to the wardrobe of an "average face" man.

Talking with thousands of men from all walks of life, the clinic also concluded that wearing the wrong collar brings other disadvantages besides bad looks—it makes a man feel below par (with a loose-and-sloppy or tight-and-choked sensation). Fortunately, collar styles are available in enough variety to meet the needs of any facial type—so the solution's easy. Best rule of thumb to follow

Of all the places a young man can take his date these days, one spot that's a top favorite with young people, is the local ice cream parlor.

For snacks after a session of golf or tennis, nothing could be more welcomed than a delightfully cool and refreshing ice cream treat. For example, the young couple pictured above at one of the popular Wil Wright's Candy... Since millions of Americans including the young people are now taking part in active leisure like sports and do-it-yourself projects, sweet and satisfying ice cream sodas make tasty and nutritious "breaks" in a

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read John 3:31-36. Our Father who art in heaven. (Matthew 6:9.) An elderly woman wished to join the church. She had never learned to read or write. As a part of her training, the pastor sought to have her learn the Lord's Prayer. "It starts this way," he said, "Our Father who art in heaven."

What Jesus teaches us about God. "Then, pastor," the woman replied, with tears upon her cheeks, "I don't need to learn anymore. Since God is my Father, that's all I need to know." What a glorious blessing it is to know and believe that God is our loving Father! How wonderful to know that every moment of our lives He loves us and cares for us! He seeks us when we go astray, even as we do our own children.

New Decorating Tip

When you are faced with an awkward room that seems to defy all attempts to make it inviting, or when you simply become bored with a monotone of painted walls, try wallpaper in any of a number of decorative ways. Scenic murals, solid-color textures, decorative panels and a half dozen other types will double the distinction of a room without dipping heavily into your decorating budget. For example, a decorative panel or a scenic mural background for a commode, a musical motif panel behind an electric organ, a "see-through" paper for a wall in a small room to give the illusion that there is more beyond, are just a few of the ways to use wallpaper. Various types of patterns fool the eye and solve special decorating problems. Wallpaper can seemingly raise or lower ceilings, move walls backwards or forwards, rub out bumps, jogs, moldings, make doors invisible, even transport you to another climate. It will hide cracks in a wall, and if you want to eliminate boxiness in a room of uninspired proportions, paper one wall—preferably one unbroken by windows, doors or a fireplace—and paint the others.

We need not fear! In moments of doubt and discouragement, His eternal presence is ever near to give strength and faith. Never can we say that we face life alone, for God our Father is always with us. He will strengthen us when we open our hearts to Him.

Prayer
We thank Thee, our Father, for the wonderful knowledge of Thy eternal presence. Help us always to know that Thou art not far from us at any time. Help us to trust in Thee; through Jesus Christ Thy Son, our Lord. Amen.

Thought For The Day
God our Father loves us and will care for us every day of our lives.

what we know about
STROKES

PUBLISHED IN COOPERATION WITH THE HEART ASSOCIATION

A "stroke" is the sudden starvation of a part of the brain. The nerve cells of the brain control the way we receive and interpret sensations. They also control most of our bodily movements. A nerve cell, cut off from its food supply of blood, will die and no longer act.

You are reading the first in a series of four articles on "What We Know About Strokes" prepared by your Heart Association for your information, and as a particular aid to the family and friends of persons who have had a stroke.

Optimistic Attitude
Today's greater medical understanding is beginning to be reflected in a more hopeful and optimistic attitude on the part of those who live with or care for the stroke patient.

Knowledge of how strokes occur, how doctors treat them, and the part family and friends can play in recovery and rehabilitation may help develop a more constructive approach in handling strokes and stroke patients.

As we have already pointed out, a stroke occurs when the blood supply to a part of the brain tissue is cut off, and as a result, the nerve cells in that part of the brain cannot function.

Activity Impaired
When some of the nerve cells in the brain are not able to function, then the part of the body controlled by these nerve cells cannot function either. The result of a stroke may be, for example, a difficulty in speaking or an inability to walk, or a loss of memory.

The effects of a stroke may be very slight or they may be severe. They may be temporary or they may be permanent. It depends in part on which brain cells have been damaged, how widespread the damage is, and how effectively the body can repair its system of supplying blood to the brain, or how rapidly other areas of brain tissue can take over the work of the damaged brain cells.

What a person is like before he has a stroke will determine to some degree how he will react—whether he will struggle to overcome this handicap as best he can or whether he will resign himself to helplessness. Although many people associate strokes with the later years of life, it is not necessarily an affliction of old age.

Next Week
In this space next week, we'll explain how the blood supply system to the brain works, and what goes wrong in some people to cause a stroke.

Sun Can Cause Sickness

Unspoiled Summer Days
Picnics and barbecues are fun, but bellyaches aren't. The long hot summer is a time for rest and renewal. It's no time for cramps, nausea, or diarrhea. But you probably have more upset stomachs in summer than at any other time.

For one reason, people eat more informally in the summer. Too often, that means eating irregularly, eating "a lot of junk", swallowing gobs of iced drinks and frozen custards, and skipping cooked meals altogether. Then, too, in this day of refrigerators and home freezers we're prone to forget that food still spoils, especially in hot weather and especially certain kinds of food.

Mayonnaise, milk and milk products, pastries made with custard or cream fillings, cold cuts like ham and liverwurst and various luncheon loaves, chopped meat, fish—these are all highly perishable and demand particular caution.

Cases of food poisoning occur even where food is prepared under professional supervision, so it can happen when Mom's in the kitchen, too. The cases that get into the newspapers are those where large groups are stricken all at once, after eating tuna fish or cream puffs or some such perishable food that was, no doubt, prepared in advance and left standing around before being served. It doesn't take much time for such food to spoil on a hot day.

Just remember to keep perishable foods refrigerated, use frozen foods soon after thawing, and serve only food that is fresh and unspoiled. A salad may be made ahead of time, but should be kept in the refrigerator, and the mayonnaise—always refrigerated—should be stirred in just before eating time.

Since germs cause spoilage, dirty fingers, open cuts, a boil on a food handler, and so on, can increase the risks. Where you are not sure care has been exercised, avoid certain foods altogether. Don't let spoiled food spoil summer fun!

The good old days was that period when people were referring to another time as the good old days—The Greensboro (Ga.) Herald-Journal.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

ARE YOU LETTING YOUR LIGHT SHINE?

A famous man once purchased an old abandoned farm house which was situated on the slope of a mountain in a sparsely settled area. The man and his wife wanted seclusion from the world, and this place offered it. No "nosey" neighbors to pry, no noisy traffic, no neighborhood children to trample the flower garden! They truly wanted to be alone.

But after the man and his wife had repaired the house and had become settled, they both admitted reluctantly that things were "too quiet." They were bored.

"Let's take a walk down into the valley and see what's down there," said the man. So he and his wife started exploring their "neighborhood."

When they got down into the valley, they came, quite suddenly, upon a tiny house situated on a slight rise on the side of a ravine.

"Hello," they called. No answer. "Anybody home? Yohoo!" they cried and pounded on the door.

They were met by a little old lady, hobbling with a cane. "Glory be!" the old lady said, "and welcome to me little home. Be yours the window with the light across the valley?"

The man and his wife admitted that it was their light the old woman had seen. "Yer light sure has meant much to me," the old woman said. "It's been so lonely out here in the dark." Then she asked them: "Be ye agoin' to stay on your side of the valley and keep yer light burnin' nightly?"

The man and his wife then realized that the old lady was depending on their light. Just to know that someone was near—even though on the far side of the valley—gave the old woman comfort.

"We'll keep our light burning every night, just for you, dear, and you're welcome to visit us anytime," the man's wife said. Then they went home and pulled back the curtains so their light would shine brighter across the valley.

Are you letting your own light shine?

There are many who desperately need and want the light that shines from the window of a Christian experience.

Sometimes people will tell us how they are blessed through our own individual testimony or influence. Sometimes they do not. We may be assured, however, that somewhere someone "on the hillside across the valley" is watching for our light.

If we radiate our light so people can see what God has done for us, we can serve as a guiding light for those who need help, particularly when those people are depressed and upset.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY

The shares of the brewing companies during the nineteen fifties have shown a poor market performance. In the early postwar period the earnings record was respectable but deteriorated because of overcapacity and declining per-capita consumption, with a resultant depressing effect on profit margins. However, the sharp wartime and immediate postwar increase in the birthrate is producing a growing adult population and there are therefore grounds for the belief that this segment of the population is usually the largest beer consumer.

The industry is still far from the growth category; but the larger, well-financed concerns can now expect continuing revenue gains and a slow betterment in profit margins.

Production is steadily moving into stronger hands as the small units retire from the field, and this tendency toward concentration should have a favorable effect on pricing policies over the next few years.

The well-established brewing companies thus offer the investor an attractive yield with above-average security and the prospects of modest growth in earnings and dividends.

The size of the individual brewery has grown as the number decreased. Large capacity not only brings lower production costs, but the advertising dollar is spread over more barrels with a resulting lower cost per barrel. This is where the large national brewers have a decided advantage over the local operator.

In order to serve the national market the large companies have established branch plants in various sections since the war so that transportation expenses can be

Let's End Foreign Aid
A group of distinguished Americans recently organized the Citizens' Foreign Aid Committee to acquaint the taxpayers with the facts about the spending of billions of tax money in a seemingly never-to-be-ended foreign aid program. The Committee includes such people as Clarence Buddington Kelland, the writer; Gen. Robert E. Wood, longtime chairman of Sears Roebuck; J. Howard Pew, chairman of Sun Oil; Chief Justice M. T. Phelps of the Arizona Supreme Court; Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, chief U. S. military planner in World War II; and approximately 50 other leading citizens.

The Committee's first report, just released, is entitled: "Foreign Aid and You." It examines the facts of the U. S. government's foreign aid program and recommends that it be reduced drastically this year and ended entirely within 3 years. The report shows that $64 billion of American taxpayer's hard-earned cash has been doled out to foreign governments in recent years—mostly to Socialist governments which have to put a great deal of the money into Socialistic enterprises. Aiding Communist Dictator

About $2 billion has gone to Communist Tito's Yugoslavia—which means to dictator Tito to spend as he alone sees fit; vast amounts to Communist Poland; millions to nations calling themselves "neutralists" in our war with international Communism. The great outflow of our money and resources to these Socialist and Communist governments goes on in spite of the fact that our own continental defense against bombers and missiles is inadequate.

"Suppose dozens of our cities are wiped out in an all-out nuclear war," the Committee asks; "what excuse can our political leaders who survive offer for such a tragedy, if we continue to arm other nations while neglecting adequately to defend our own people. A number of the Central European, South Asian, and Far Pacific countries have received in all more than $10 billion in military assistance. Yet some of these recipients are hostile to the United States. So it is possible that some of our own weapons might one day be turned against us. This has happened before."

Reds Spend Our Money
A friend of mine was in Yugoslavia recently. While in Belgrade, an official of the Communist Party, which rules the country with an iron hand, pointed out to him a brand-new hotel, The Metro, in which Communist dictator Tito was preparing to entertain the Communist dictator of North Vietnam. It had been built, the Communist said, entirely with economic aid from the U. S. The Communist Yugoslavia Army has obtained a substantial amount of its armament from the United States government.

If Russia—homeland of international Communism—moves against the West, these guns and planes likely would be turned against us.

The Committee's report states it is a mistaken idea that Communism breeds on poverty. "There is no proof," the report says, "that a high standard of living is the enemy of Communism. . . . For instance Communists (in Europe) are strongest in Italy and France. In Italy the Communists are stronger in the prosperous northern industrial areas, while in southern Italy, where the people are poorer, the conservatives have built a stronghold. In France the Communists are stronger in the prosperous cities; they are weaker in the poorer rural areas. . . . Squandering Money On India

"In India, which has received substantial U. S. aid. . . the Communists have increased their vote from four million to 12 million. Today the Communist Party is the second largest in the Indian Parliament and actually controls the government in the State of Kerala."

Unless foreign aid is soon terminated, our country, the Committee declares, "faces economic peril. The peril is inevitable because neither this nor any other Congress will reduce or restrain spending at home so long as it votes colossal foreign handouts. Our Congressmen know that so long as they dissipate billions of dollars overseas, to be re-elected they must also continue expensive domestic benefits."

The Committee recommends that citizens request their Congressmen and Senators to reduce the $3.9 billion requested foreign aid item in the budget to $2 billion this year, "and that each year thereafter foreign aid be substantially reduced until terminated within three years." This makes good sense.

Laundry Equipment Off Your Bedroom? Today's Home Planning Says 'Yes'

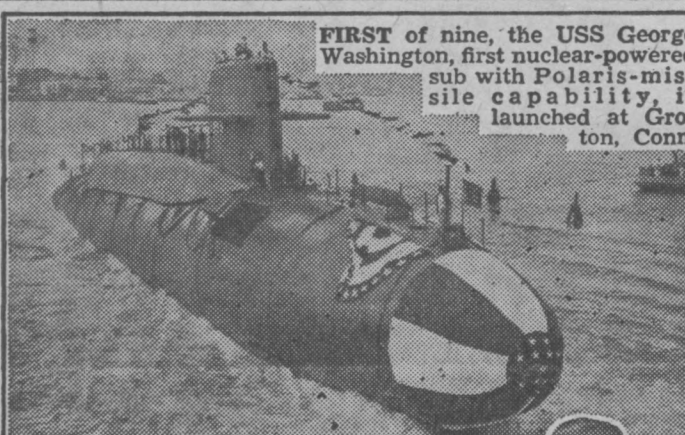

Upstairs, downstairs—like telephones, washers and dryers are appearing "all around the house." An increasingly popular trend is the placement of home laundry equipment as near as possible to the bedrooms and bath. Other locations might include the upstairs hallway, a walk-in closet, a corner of a large bathroom, or, as here, in a dressing room. The compact design and straight-line design of the General Electric 5-Cycle Filter-Flo washer and matching automatic dryer, permit installation of both pieces in just 54 inches of running wall space. Color? Of course—both washer and dryer are available in a choice of five decorator colors: yellow, pink, turquoise, woodtone brown, white.

Q: "I have square hands and short, stubby fingers. I think they're ugly and always feel like hiding them. What else can I do?"
A: You can make them look as attractive as possible and learn to use them gracefully. You'll only draw the wrong kind of attention to your hands when you awkwardly try to hide them.

Get into the habit of using a hand lotion whenever you've been dipping into soap and water. This will keep the skin soft, pretty and free from unsightly chapping.

File your nails into neat ovals, about one-eighth of an inch at their longest point, and tint them with a pale pink polish for a dainty, shell-like effect.

Avoid wearing heavy rings and chunky, dangling bracelets that tend to make your hands and fingers appear heavier and shorter.

OVER THE GARDEN WALLS

Kill with kindness—that's what some over-anxious home-owners do. They forget that you can overdo. Too much water, too much fertilizer, too much pruning are just as bad as not enough. And, too much is often worse.

Take lawn watering. Now that summer is really here, bluegrass lawns tend to dry up. Lots of homeowners like to get out the hose and sprinkle the lawn. Chances are, they sprinkle a little here, and a little there. They figure they're helping the grass.

But these little dabs of water do more harm than good. Light sprinkling may make you feel better. But they don't help the grass.

Here's why: It's natural for lawns to lose the dark green color that came with well-fertilized spring growth. Light sprinkling will help shallow rooted weeds like crabgrass more than they will your deeper-rooted lawn grasses.

So, if you want to irrigate, be sure you put enough water to soak down 4-6 inches to where the bluegrass roots are. The same with gardens. Shrubs and trees need deep soaking, if you really want to help them. How Much Is Enough?

Here's a simple way to gauge your irrigation: Place coffee tins near your sprinkler. When they have an inch of water in them, this should be enough to soak down to 4 or 5 inches. If you want to check, dig a little hole after you're done. A little experience will serve as your guide for putting on the right amount of water.

The same kind of moderation fertilizing, pruning, or most any will be a good guide to follow in garden chore.

Know what's best for the plants. Then try to do the right thing at the right time.

That's where your county agent comes in. He's got lots of helpful free publications to help you know what's best for your plants. Cultivate With Care

If you've done a job of keeping ahead of the weeds up 'till now, you've just about got it made. Even so, frequent light cultivation will stir the topsoil so it will readily absorb rain, as well as control weeds.

Now that plants are bigger you've got to be careful so you don't prune their roots, and set them back.

That's why frequent, light cultivations are best.

Epsom Salts For Tomatoes?

Believe it or not—Epsom salts can help tomatoes yield better and cantaloupes taste sweeter.

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY

The aphorism, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Maryland's Agriculture Experiment Station uncovered these facts a few years ago:

Light, sandy soils often are low on magnesium, as well as boron. Plants need both of these minor elements for normal growth.

No matter how much fertilizer you put on, if your soil is low in magnesium or boron, tomatoes and cantaloupes won't produce well.

Commercial vegetable growers apply these two elements by adding Epsom salts and borax to their insecticide and fungicide sprays. As a result, they've increased both yields and quality.

You could do the same, if your garden is on light, sandy soils. Add 1 tablespoonful of Epsom salts and 1 teaspoonful of borax to each gallon of spray material. Do this twice in the season (at the right times).

Here's when to spray the nutrient materials for the best results: Spray them on tomatoes first when the crown fruit begins to turn pink, and later, during the third week of harvest.

Spray borax and Epsom salts on cantaloupes when the vines first begin to run, and again when the early fruit is 1 or 2 inches in diameter.

Garden Notes

You can give your vegetables a midsummer pickup by a sidedressing (with 1 or 2 pounds per 100 feet of row) of complete fertilizer.

After vegetables have been harvested, destroy the vines for better insect and disease control. Spray your garden every week or 10 days for best control.

Transplant Bearded Iris now. Divide root clumps and replant them so the heavy fleshy part is just barely covered by 1/2-inch of soil.

Seed perennial flowers now in a carefully prepared seedbed. You can transplant them to your flowerbed in early fall.

has been given even more meaning by a University of Maryland professor and an Anne Arundel County school supervisor. They have devised a technique whereby children can learn to read and play at the same time.

The new reading approach is based on the ideas that children learn by doing, and that pleasurable physical activity is the best learning medium for children.

More than 10 stories, which contain simple directions for a game with an invitation to play the game at the story's end, have been developed by the two educators on the basis of the application of a readability formula. When the play period arrives the children try to follow the directions outdoors.

Introduced in 30 classrooms throughout the State of Maryland, the stories have been read by approximately 508 children. Between half and 91 per cent of the groups could follow directions.

And how do the children react to the integration of physical educating into reading? One youngster was overheard to say, "This is better than reading our book in school."

Weekly Stock Market Round-Up

Prepared by The Investment Research Department of Hemphill, Noyes & Co. Members of the New York Stock Exchange June 10, 1959

Common Stocks For Various Investment Objectives

It is our custom from time to time to provide a list of stocks which we believe are good purchases for various investment objectives. Each time this list is prepared it is revised with new stocks being added and some being eliminated. Five new recommendations are listed here.

For growth we recommend Phillips Lamp, whose 50 Florida Certificate foreign shares are traded over-the-counter around 88 and which offer an excellent opportunity to participate in the growth of Western Europe. A leading company in the electronics field, it has had a record of increased sales and earnings every year since 1949 and this pattern is expected to continue.

Be a Wise and Beautiful "Weekend Vacationer"

Unfortunately, many of us must be "weekend vacationers", cramming into a few days an active burst of sunbathing, sports and sightseeing. The result is often a strain on our beauty—peeling noses, painful sunburns, bites, scratches, aching feet and muscles.

DO prevent painful sunburn, ugly peeling. Now, you can tan smoothly, beautifully in just two days with a new Noxzema discovery, High Noon. Because this lotion contains an exclusive sunscreen you can stay in the hottest sun for hours longer, tanning faster. And your tan is more lasting, a tan that gets deeper and richer each time you are in the sun—even if you get out only on weekends.

DON'T over-exercise if you've been inactive. Swimming, walking are good starters to help you get into condition. If muscles ache, a hot, soaking bath will give relief.

DO treat cuts, scrapes, insect bites promptly. A first-aid kit should go on all trips. Include a wonderful painless formula, Nozain, which gives immediate relief from pain and itching. It fights infection and speeds healing, too.

DON'T neglect "sightseeing feet." Treat them to a brisk brush scrubbing, alternately under hot, then cold water. Dry thoroughly with a towel and massage with Nozain to relax and refresh.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT.

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry University of Wisconsin

Bulk Can Be Overemphasized

In discussions on feeding, especially in the case of dairy cows, concern is frequently expressed as to whether a mixture has sufficient bulk.

It is sometimes thought that a mixture of corn and perhaps barley, corn gluten feed and maybe one or the other oil meal might lack bulk and might not be as acceptable or efficient for a cow as it should be.

This concern always seemed to me to be uncalled for. Sure, we like oats for both the kernel and for the hull which has been found to have a feed value half as high as the feed value of corn.

And we like corn-and-cob meal for the presence of the cob, which like oat hulls, if reasonably finely ground, has about one-half the feed value of the corn grain itself.

We also like wheat bran for its composition, including phosphorus that cattle can make excellent use of, especially at times when phosphorus is a deficiency in the cattle rations. These three feeds depend on fiber or cellulose for their bulk. Other feeds, linseed meal, and dried beet pulp, depend on their swelling properties for supplying bulk to a ration. Linseed meal makes for a nice colloidal suspension in a slop, and a slop-like condition does indeed exist in the digestive tract of an animal.

What really counts far more than the mere physical condition of a feed is its chemical constitution, its palatability and the kind and quantity of protein, fat or carbohydrates and minerals and vitamins.

These things sustain good growth and milk production. Bulk may be of concern to a herdsman or owner grooming a cow for a high production record, and where at the peak of production, with a high grain intake, a fickle appetite has to be catered to.

We do not need to worry over necessary bulk in the grain part of the ration for an average or even above-average cow. This is particularly true if the grain is fed on top of, and becomes mixed with, the silage. What more bulk than that does any cow want?

Question: Is it advisable to add salt to freshly stored hay in a hay mow or stack? Salting is an old custom in this community.

Answer: Salt added in amounts of from 10 to 15 pounds per ton of new hay generally improves its taste, especially if the hay should heat unduly in storage. Some benefits have also been observed in reference to green color retention and less dustiness. One should not go so far, however, as to depend on salt to prevent spontaneous combustion if real damp hay is put into a barn.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

And without faith it is impossible to please Him. For whoever would draw near to God must believe that He exists, and that He rewards those who seek Him.—(Hebrews 11:6.)

Even those of us who begin with but little faith are sometimes rewarded by a sudden demonstration of God's love and of His existence. It is an unforgettable experience, which fills us completely with such wonderful warmth and light as can only come from the Holy Spirit.

ago. The reason is that these lands, which have had no rains during the past century, are very rich in vitamins and minerals, while our normally fertile lands have had these washed away down the rivers and into the oceans. When I was in Africa last year I was told that the Sahara Desert will "blossom like a rose" when it has water.

Present Irrigation Very Wasteful

The only way we are now able to give these "no rain" lands sufficient water is by irrigation. This usually means building an expensive dam, together with canals to the area. These canals are, of course, open and the water is subject to serious evaporation. As a result, all present forms of irrigation are very wasteful, even if the water is obtainable. I believe that very few new irrigation systems will be built.

The lands, however, must have some equivalent of water, but this will be "synthetic" water. I am certain of this after my few weeks spent in New Mexico and Arizona, from which states I have just returned. There you can buy "norain" land for $10.00 an acre; but to have it irrigated—even if that is possible—will cost you over $100.00 per acre.

How Water May Be Manufactured

Those of us who have studied chemistry know that water consists of two elements, hydrogen and oxygen. In the chemical laboratory we were taught how to decompose water into these two gases of hydrogen and oxygen; in fact, this is now being done in a commercial way by means of a beam of light. I remember, however, that it was dangerous to reverse the process. It created much heat and sometimes an explosion. This in rough, is the process which will take the place of present system of irrigation; but it will be greatly simplified and costs cut. This new process can be used for all land, however far away from water it may be in this country or in any part of the entire world.

Oxygen gas can be secured quite cheaply, but hydrogen gas is expensive and tricky. We may need a "trigger" to combine the two, but this will not long be true. Moreover, I am convinced that it will soon be easy to buy diluted hydrogen gas which will work with oxygen. This will be shipped directly to the farmer and he will make the mixture in his furrow. Furthermore, he will want a limited explosion so as to loosen the earth before he plants his seeds.

How These Gases Will Be Applied

The "no rain" farmer, after plowing and leveling the land, will disk or harrow it preparatory to planting his seed. The disking machine which he rides will carry two tanks, one containing the hydrogen and one containing oxygen, both under pressure. These gases will be led in very small tubes to be applied to the ground directly after the disk or the harrowing machine passes. If all goes well, after or accompanying a small explosion, the hydrogen and oxygen will form water or its equivalent. This will be automatically covered with soil after the seed is dropped. This planting should result in marvelous crops.

Please do not write me for further particulars as I am neither a farmer nor a chemist. Write the company from which you buy the insecticides you use for spraying. They will be the manufacturers and distributors of these gases. Otherwise, write the company from which you buy your fertilizers. The simplest thing would be to cut out this column and send it to such manufacturer of insecticides or fertilizers, asking him if my forecast is crazy!

Hearing Scheduled For Increase In Hospitalization Rates

F. Douglas Sears, Insurance Commissioner for Maryland, today issued notice of a Public Hearing to be held on July 15 to consider a request of Maryland Hospital Service, Inc. for an increase in rates. The proposed increase will apply to standard contracts only. The application for an upward adjustment in rates, to be effective October 1, 1959, was filed with the Insurance Commissioner May 28.

In addition to the rate increase, the Blue Cross has also asked authorization to amend its standard contract and to offer a deductible type of contract and cer-

NO. 19174 EQUITY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, MARYLAND, IN EQUITY PEGGY ANN BLOSSER VS. PAUL WILLIAM BLOSSER

The object of this Bill is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Complainant, Peggy Ann Blosser, from the Defendant, Paul William Blosser. The Bill states in substance that the Oratrix is a resident of Frederick County, Maryland, where she has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, who now resides in Stanley, Virginia; that your Oratrix was married to the Defendant on the 4th day of August, 1950, at Luray, Virginia, by the Reverend Mr. Sudduth, a regularly ordained Minister of the Gospel; that two children were born as a result of the marriage, namely, Deborah M. Blosser, aged seven years, and Danny L. Blosser, aged six years, both of whom are now in the custody of your Oratrix; that your Oratrix and the Defendant lived together as man and wife until on or about the 25th day of September, 1956, on which date the Defendant, without just cause, deserted and abandoned your Oratrix and declared his intentions to live with her no longer; that the desertion is final and deliberate and has continued uninterruptedly since said date which is more than eighteen months prior to the time of the filing of this Bill of Complaint; that the separation of the parties hereto is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation. The Bill prays that the Oratrix be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant; that she be granted the care and custody of the two infant children born as a result of the marriage, and that she be granted general relief and process.

It is thereupon this 24th day of June, 1959, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the said non-resident Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 1st day of August, 1959, commanding him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 1st day of September, 1959, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree shall not be passed as prayed.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

DON'T BE A QUITTER

John and Jim were vying for the one available job at the local hardware store.

The store's owner knew both boys well, but he could not make up his mind which one to hire.

"Each of you fellows will have to try out for a day," he told them, "so I can figure out which one will work permanently."

He told them to go up into the loft at the rear of the hardware store. "Start sorting out all the nuts and bolts, screws and nails in that big hopper up there," he said, "and be sure to put each piece in its proper bin."

So both boys climbed the ladder to the store loft and began working.

After about two hours John came down.

"Have you finished already, John?" asked the owner.

"Well, yes and no," John replied. "I'm finished . . . but the job isn't."

Then John tried to explain that the job given to him was too time consuming. "It is going to take me too long to sort out all that mess of stuff," John said.

Needless to say, John was sent on his merry way by the hardware store owner!

The rest of the morning passed. The lunch hour went by. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon the owner decided he had better check on Jim. He has been up in that loft a long time, he thought. I haven't heard a peep out of him. Maybe he slipped out during the lunch hour and has given up, too!

So the owner climbed the ladder to the loft. There he found Jim, absorbed in his work, patiently and meticulously pawing over the huge pile of hardware putting each small screw and bolt into its proper place.

"How're you coming on, Jim?" asked the store owner.

"Just fine," Jim replied. "My progress is slow, but I'm determined to get the job done, no matter how long it takes."

"You've passed the test with flying colors, Jim," said the owner. "Come on down and let that stuff go. You've just landed yourself a good job."

Which one of these boys fits your character best—John or Jim?

Can you pass the test that life has given you?

It is easy to quit when the going gets rough or when we feel we're not progressing as fast as we ought.

But don't be a quitter like John!

If you have some particular problem that you are facing in life, don't give up. Ask God to help you with that problem.

Things You Never Knew About Alaska

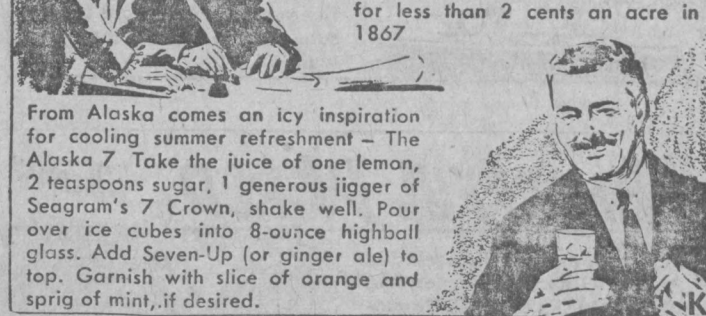

Alaskans are the "flyingest" people in the world! More than 250 airfields and 40 seaplane bases dot the new State's 586,400 square miles. With few roads (4,000 miles), fewer railways, both passenger and freight travel by plane from Juneau to the Bering Strait.

In Eskimo language, the word "alaska" means "great land". Rich in mineral treasures, furs, and fertile farm land, our 49th State sold for less than 2 cents an acre in 1867.

From Alaska comes an icy inspiration for cooling summer refreshment - The Alaska 7 Take the juice of one lemon, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 generous jigger of Seagram's 7 Crown, shake well. Pour over ice cubes into 8-ounce highball glass. Add Seven-Up (or ginger ale) to top. Garnish with slice of orange and sprig of mint, if desired.

Salmon Souffle - King of Souffles

The most effective and delectable dish in the world, which can be prepared from simple ingredients, is probably the souffle. What other dish can combine such basic ingredients as eggs, butter, milk and flour with meat, fish or fowl to produce such a glamorous elegant poof which the French call a soufflé? And of all the souffles in the world, the salmon souffle is undoubtedly the most savory and delicious. The delicate pink meat of the salmon lends its distinctive flavor to the souffle, making it a family favorite in addition to a dish which will mark you as a hostess of distinction.

SALMON SOUFFLE 3 tablespoons butter 3 tablespoons flour 3/4 teaspoon salt Pinch of cayenne 1 cup hot milk 4 egg yolks, beaten 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce 1 can (7 1/2 oz.) salmon, flaked 5 egg whites, stiffly beaten

In a saucepan melt the butter. Stir in the flour, salt and cayenne. Gradually stir in the hot milk and cook, stirring, until the sauce is smooth and thickened. Remove sauce from fire and stir in the egg yolks, mustard, Worcestershire and salmon. Cool. Then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, pour into a buttered souffle dish and bake in a preheated 350°F. oven for 45 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika and serve with mushroom sauce.

Tip-Top Shape - With Tape!

Stretchy conformable plastic tape is ideal for wrapping the handles of tools and sports equipment to get a smooth non-slip surface.

Wading pools, beach toys, and garden hoses can be quickly repaired with waterproof plastic tape—it sticks at a touch, hugs any contour.

Inside the home, plastic tapes (including clear) can mend shower curtains, plastic kitchen chairs, decorate cupboard doors and kitchen shelves and can match or contrast any decor.

Leisure Time -- U. S. A.

Americans are the most recreation-conscious people in the world. For example, the boating craze has reached new heights.

A favorite pastime is group singing at churches, meeting halls or at home.

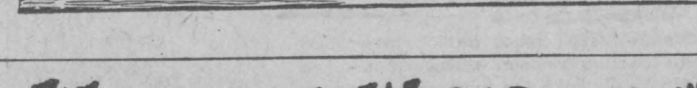

Golf has become a popular national pastime, with courses dotting the countryside everywhere.

Indoor games, such as "Rook," are increasingly popular in the home, as they make the hours fly by.

Travel has jumped in the past five years, as Americans use leisure time to make trips hither and yon.

Wonderful World by Waldman

Electricity was first discovered in Ancient Greece by Thales, the philosopher, in 600 B.C. He produced light by rubbing amber, but could develop no practical use for his discovery.

Not until Thomas A. Edison produced the first commercially practical incandescent lamp in 1879 was man able to harness electricity for the everyday uses in home and business.

Since Edison's contribution, many variations of electric lighting have bettered mankind. The latest of these—Life Lite Rechargeable Flashlights—even provides a life-time battery; you just plug the unit in a wall socket when it needs recharging.

FANCY THAT! by Waldman

When Henry Ford touched off a rush of car buying with his economical Model T, the roads became filled with box-like and unadorned—but practical vehicles.

As the market became more competitive, manufacturers started dabbling lines of colored paint along the side to make the automobile more attractive. In a short time this added paint would fade and chip detracting from the appearance.

Today's sleek and streamlined car models come with stainless steel brightwork to insure lasting beauty. The stainless steel is easy to clean—won't pit, rust or corrode and raises the value at trade-in time.
