BY ABIGAIL

With the completion of the new sewerage system the town is now the proud possessor of one of the finest ultra-modern plants in the state. Town officials have let it be known they are toying with the idea of having an "open house" to acquaint the general public with the operation and value of the plant to community life. Those of you who haven't inspected the project have a big surprise coming to you and should the opportunity of an open house be presented I'd like to suggest you take time out to see the heart of Emmitsburg's sanitation system. Installed at a cost of $300,000 the plant is designed to accommodate triple the growth of the present size of the community.

One not familiar with the amount of work and time demanded for such community projects would be amazed at the hours devoted by the loyal Town Fathers. From the time it was decided to proceed with the project until its completion this week, there has been a constantly increasing demand placed on the shoulders of the Commissioners and Mayor. Rights-of-way had to be obtained, bids let to contractors, engineers to hire, money to raise and finally the last minute details which always crop up. In the meantime the Solons have been discussing the purchase of the local water company and possibly a city-operated garbage collection system. When one considers the fact that these public servants receive only $200 a year salary, the thought comes to mind, why do they do it? The only theory I can come up with is that of loyalty and community interest. Certainly no one could suggest they took the job for the pecuniary reward for it is actually peanuts. Along with the regular burden of work is the hard part of it—those griping citizens who want to know why this isn't done and why it was done. These offices are no longer sinecure positions as they were in days of yore. Time was when all there was to do was to attend a meeting. Not so now. So pressing are the demands that nearly full time must be devoted to the business at hand. I wouldn't be at all surprised that in the near future a regular city manager will have to be appointed. At any rate, the present board is doing a magnificent job. We think taxes are high here but do you realize that they are actually low as compared to other county and nearby towns. For the benefits derived here the 70c on $100 tax rate is very reasonable. Our neighboring town, Taneytown, has a present tax rate of 85c on the $100... see what I mean?

It really was good news to Emmitsburgians recently when the Holy Father, Pope John XXIII, announced that he felt certain the canonization of Mother Seton was not too far off. Should such action be taken, unquestionably it would be a determining factor in the town's future growth. So great are the potentialities of future growth, business, spiritual and educational, that I couldn't even begin to enumerate them. Let it suffice to say though, it would be the biggest and best thing that ever happened to our fair town.

Halloween is fast approaching and to date there has been very little evidence of it locally. Sporadic instances thru the county where property damage occurred have been reported though. It is anticipated here that the occasion will be a trifle on the quiet side as our Town Fathers decreed that no "monkeybusiness" will be tolerated and that violators will be fined and vandals made pay for the damages they wreak upon local property.

I simply must commend the local Police Dept. for the acquisition of the two life-size traffic cops now being used at the Mother Seton School to warn motorists there are children crossing the highway. Really it is amazing how the traffic is obeying the slow down rule in that section. Prior to the use of the "tin cops" the lives and safety of the children were in real jeopardy.

Town's New Sewer System In Operation

Emmitsburg's multi-thousand dollar sewer plant has been placed in operation it was announced this week by the Burgess and Commissioners. Test crews operated the plant practically all day Wednesday to iron out any last-minute problems.

Today the W. F. Wilson Company, general contractors, announced the system was ready for operation and the Town Council gave the green light to local property-owners that the time had come for them to tap into the new line. The old WPA sewer line was merged with the new pipe line late this week and the plant is now operating.

The Town Fathers hereby notify the general public that all houses that were to be tapped into the new line must conform with the sanitation ordinance within the next six months.

With the new pumping station and disposal plant, located on ground purchased by the Town from Brookside Dairy Farm and Harry Swomley, Emmitsburg, has one of the most modern disposal plants in the State of Md. Built at a cost of $300,000 the system will accommodate three times the present number of home owners in the town.

Of the $300,000, $240,000 was borrowed by the Corporation of Emmitsburg by a bond issue, the balance was appropriated by the State and Federal Government.

St. Clair Maxwell, supervising engineer, was busy this week making last-minute inspections and adjustments before turning over the plant to local authorities. Work was started on the project about a year ago. The plant is automatically operated in every respect and in case of power failure, flood or other unexpected trouble, can be operated manually so there is no danger to the equipment.

Street Commissioner J. Norman Flax reported this week that repaving of DePaul Street and Federal Ave. was completed except for curbing and gutters to be installed in the near future. Many residents of that area took advantage of the opportunity to have their driveways macadamized while the road building equipment was on the scene and the section has been greatly improved in beauty by the new improvements.

"Why hasn't my first social security check arrived?" "Why does it take so long?" is a query from many individuals who have filed claims for old-age and survivors insurance benefits, says W. S. King, District Manager of the Hagerstown social security office.

Mr. King explained that while Government is frequently accused of the proverbial red tape (any delay is considered such), a certain minimum of time is required to process a claim for benefits. He states that his office frequently makes awards which, over a period of time, may represent $30,000.00 or more dollars in benefits and when such large sums are involved, the Social Security Administration must be careful and thoughtful in making sure the individuals are properly entitled to the payments.

"What I'm leading up to," says Mr. King, "is that anyone planning to file for social security benefits must expect the social security office to take a reasonable length of time to pay their claim." "But," he said, "each person can help considerably to reduce the time if he inquires in advance of filing and brings along evidence required to establish his claim."

TODAY'S meditation

The Upper Room
THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Hebrews 11:1-6. Without faith it is impossible to please Him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him. (Hebrews 11:6).

Some years ago in Halifax, Nova Scotia, a disastrous fire burned down a family hotel. Many lives were lost. Among the few saved was one small boy whose father threw him from an upper window into the firemen's net.

A reporter asked the boy, "Where you afraid when your father threw you down into the net?"

"No!" said the boy, "you see, my Daddy aimed me!"

Our faith in God ought to be like that. We need to have faith in our Father and trust Him for everything. Our heavenly Father has "aimed" us into life's tasks and troubles, and He will carry us to the end.

Without faith in God and in our Savior, we are bereft of that which makes life great and valid. Without faith, it is impossible to please God. The real quality of our spiritual lives is tested by the faith we live.

Prayer
Our Father God, grant unto us an unshakable faith in Thee. May our lives bear fruit for Thee, both in the life here and in the life to come. May our faith strengthen us for our own good and for the good of others. In our blessed Redeemer's name. Amen.

Thought For The Day
Faith in God gives us the assurance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.

Railroads' Very Existence Hinges On Abolition Of 'Featherbedding' Program

A stormy showdown between management and labor over the $500 million annual featherbedding waste on the nation's railroads is imminent. Reader's Digest reports in an article in the November issue.

U. S. railroads are determined to modernize the work rules dating from 40 and more years ago, according to the article by Alfred Steinberg. These rules require surplus men on trains, erect jurisdictional barriers between various work groups and otherwise promote waste and inefficiency among 200,000 operating employees, the article points out.

Contract negotiations on this explosive issue begin after Nov. 15.

To find out what extent featherbedding exists on the railroads, Mr. Steinberg rode locomotives, wandered about yards and terminals and talked to railroaders themselves.

"There can be no question that featherbedding abounds wherever one looks," Mr. Steinberg declares.

The toll, he adds, is measured in higher passenger fares and freight rates and dwindling business for the long-troubled railroad industry.

The fireman who "has no fires to stoke or boilers to tend" on the modern diesel locomotive is cited by the Digest article as a primary example of featherbedding in practice.

Another obsolete rule gives each engine-crew member a basis day's wage for every 100 miles he travels. This rule dates from 1919, Mr. Steinberg reports, and results in such "high pay for short hours" as an engineer's collecting 1.43 days' wages for clipping off 143 miles in two hours on the Denver Zephyr, and a Pennsylvania engineer's collecting 4 1/2 days' pay, or about $100 for making a 452-mile roundtrip between New York City and Washington, D. C., in a single day.

A companion featherbed rule splits the nation's railroads into divisions 100 or so miles long, with crews barred from crossing these borders. Thus, the Digest says, eight different engine crews are required to get the 20th Century Limited over the 16 hour course between New York City and Chicago.

To an outsider, many of the decisions of the National Railroad Adjustment Board in disputes over the rules fencing off "road work" from "yard work" bear a "tinge of lunacy," Mr. Steinberg writes.

He cites, for instance, how a road crew was awarded an extra day's pay for moving a train a few car lengths in a yard and how a yard crew got an extra day's pay for helping a train through snow just outside yard limits.

Correction of these rules, the article states, lies "in a greater sense of responsibility to the public on the part of the railroad Brotherhoods."

Mr. Steinberg believes that a key factor in the forthcoming showdown talks will be pressure from the public, now grown "sick and tired of costly, wasteful featherbedding."

The Digest article is titled "It's Showdown Time for Featherbedding on the Railroads."

ZENTZ—HATTER

Miss Janet Elizabeth Hatter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Hatter, Emmitsburg, became the bride of Morris Abraham Zentz Jr., Emmitsburg, son of Mrs. Estelle Zentz and the late Morris A. Zentz Sr., on Sunday, September 27 at 2:00 p. m. in Elias Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg. Rev. Philip Bower performed the ceremony, before an altar decorated with white garden bouquets and candleabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white antique satin and florentine lace dress, in a formal length, cut on princess lines with a chapel train. The lace bodice and long sleeves were embroidered with mother of pearl sequins and beads. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of mother of pearl. She carried a Bible which had been given to her mother when she was a year old, and belonged to her great grandmother. It was centered with a white orchid and a shower of satin ribbons tied with ivy leaves.

Mrs. Karl Brown, Thurmont, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an aqua crystal street length dress with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline, full skirt with an overskirt of net. She wore matching mitts, headband and shoes and carried a basket of lavender rose chysanthemums.

The bridal attendants were Miss Susan Daugherty, and Miss Martha Baumgardner and Joyce Meadows, a niece of the bridegroom. They wore gowns identical to the matron of honor in aqua and rose. They carried baskets identical to that of the matron of honor.

Rodney Herring, Emmitsburg, was best man. Ushers were Edgar Hatter, Sabillasville, uncle of the bride; George E. Delphey, Rocky Ridge, and John White Jr., Emmitsburg. Eddie Meadows, nephew of the bridegroom, served as acolyte. Charles Long, Westminster, was ring bearer and Betty Bowers, niece of the bridegroom, Taneytown, was flower girl. She wore an aqua gown and accessories identical to the other attendants including the flower basket.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Lutheran Parish House. Following a wedding trip through the New England States, the couple left to reside in Seattle, Wash.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Emmitsburg High School, the class of 1959. The bridegroom is now serving in the U. S. Army and is stationed in Seattle. The bride was formerly employed at Crouses's, Emmitsburg.

Miss Ruth Shuff, church organist, played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. George Martin.

The bride's mother wore a printed silk street dress in shades of turquoise and green with black accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a Dior blue street dress with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Spendthrift And Uncle Sam

Mrs. Spendthrift is a housewife (not a real one, of course). A few years ago, when the monthly household accounts she ran with local tradesmen were getting out of hand, her husband suggested they go on a cash budget. She approved. Each Monday he gave her cash allowances for her various expenses, so much for groceries, so much for incidental expenses for the children, so much for her personal use, etc. The allowance for groceries was $40. For a few months she kept within her $40-a-week grocery budget. Then, having use for some of the $40 elsewhere, she began running an account at a little neighborhood grocery store. She quickly found that this way she didn't have to be so careful to keep grocery expenditures at the $40 ceiling. She bought groceries with less restraint. There came a time when the husband's $40 cash for groceries each Monday barely paid her bill at the little store. Soon she was paying only a part of the bill each Monday, using some of the $40 at the beauty shop, some for frills that her regular clothing allowance did not permit, etc. Her indebtedness mounted. The little grocer finally had to suggest larger payments each Monday. Mrs. Spendthrift went to the bank and, without her husband's knowledge, borrowed a tidy little sum. Part went on the grocery bill, part to the dress shop, part to other creditors. Practice Didn't Change

In the succeeding months Mrs. Spendthrift maneuvered her husband into increasing all her allowances; the grocery balance went to $60. But her financing practices didn't change. Soon she was again in a serious plight. Her bank borrowings, in three banks, were rising, her grocery store account, although she was paying more each week on it, was staggering; her personal spendings were increasing.

Finally, there came the show-down. The little grocer was obliged to cut off her credit until she could pay half the staggering bill; and when she went to the banks she found she could not borrow another dime. She faced the reality, too, that her husband's income simply couldn't finance the measure of spending which she had practiced for several years. She had brought the family to literal bankruptcy.

Spendthrift Government

Probably there aren't very many housewives who practice such frenzied financing. But our Federal government does; it has practiced just such spending, and borrowing, and covering-up. Now it has come to the reckoning. It owes $290 billion on which it must pay $8 billion a year interest, and which it must constantly be financing and re-financing. Its "grocery allowance"—the annual take in taxes—is spent before it is collected. It must borrow about $85 billion this fiscal year to keep up with "grocery" back bills coming due—and the current grocery bill, as well as the rising national debt. Our spendthrift government's reputation as a money manager is tarnished in the money markets of the world.

All this would be ironic and perhaps even amusing if the Federal government were some far-off acquaintance, or cousin whose problems did not affect us personally. The fact is, however, that we are personally involved in the financial problems of the Government in two specific ways. First, the government must get the income from us—the citizens. It is our debt and all our possessions are its security. In the second place all of your dollars go down in value as inflation increases, and this could become serious.

A Prodigal Country

The Wall Street Journal says editorially: "The truth, in its simplest form, is that time has caught up with a prodigal country. For more than a decade this country has spent money like the proverbial drunken sailor . . . with a blatant disre-

Corn Support Price Remains Same

The price support rate on 1959 crop corn in Maryland will remain at $1.23 a bushel, unchanged from the minimum rate announced several weeks ago. William L. Dudley, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced today.

This followed a determination by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that the national average support rate will be $1.12 per bushel, the same as the minimum announced before planting time last spring.

As provided by law, the support price reflects 90 per cent of the average price received by farmers for corn during the three calendar years 1956-58. A minimum price was announced in February as a guide to farmers in advance of planting, subject to reassessment at the beginning of the marketing year. Current information indicates no change in the rate.

Under the present corn program, there are no acreage allotments and corn produced anywhere in the U. S. in 1959 that meets quality and storage requirements is eligible for support at the same national average level, with adjustments for grade, quality, location and other factors. As in past programs, corn will be supported through loans and purchase agreements available from harvest time through April 1, 1960. Loans will mature May 1, 1960.

Hope is the only good that is common to all men; those who have nothing else possess hope still.—Thales garded of the deficit the billions accrued in our accounts." Maurice B. Stans, director of the budget, says: "I must pass on to you a solemn warning. Unless we as a government insist right now upon living within our income, we face certain hard inevitabilities. Either there will be more tax increases piled on top of our already heavy tax load, or there will be a mounting national debt and growing inflation with disastrous rises in the cost of living and a dangerous weakening of our national strength. Either way the prospect is menacing."

Great minds, like heaven, are ungrateful subjects of their favored in doing good, though the losers are barren in return.

Babson Appeals To American Labor Unions
 Berlin, Germany Oct. 22—Although I am writing this in Berlin, one should not judge by Berlin since it is an independent and separate community of its own. Not only is it divided between different nations, but it is entirely surrounded by Russian-controlled territory. It is a free economic island floating in a "sea" of Communism — nothing like it anywhere else in the world. Now for an answer to the question frequently asked me: Is the United States facing serious unemployment? Every Country Has Labor Unions to China and can visualize what could happen to us if these 400,000,000 workers should be sold tractors to farm with and machines with which to make textiles, steel, and other materials needed for exporting goods to compete with us. This is probably also true as to Russia, which I visit this week.
 Even Germany has its labor unions, but practically no strikes. The union leaders and employers unite to make better goods to sell at lower prices. Hence, they are more industrious and more productive, due to longer hours and a lower cost of living. There is very little installment buying in Germany.
 American labor will try to keep German products out of our country by getting Congress to raise our tariffs. This would not only increase the cost of living in the United States, but might cause Germany to "gang up" with Russia, Japan, and China in an economic war. Germany may have another "Hitler" who could be an "economic Hitler", — just as powerful and ruthless as Adolf was in a military way.

 The above means that American labor leaders have a great responsibility. They could easily bring about much unemployment in the United States from which their membership, as well as their employers and all consumers, might greatly suffer. U. S. labor is now "pricing itself" out of its market, and our labor leaders could bring about a national depression of very serious consequences.
 What I Learn About Germany
 Germany may not yet have given up its ambition to be the leading power of Europe. The Germans believe that France and England have reached their peaks due to their desire for ease and so-called security. Italy is constantly being undermined by Communist influences. The three Scandinavian countries I have heretofore commented upon. I now forecast that Germany will be one of the world's greatest powers, on par with the United States and Russia.
 This could easily occur if Germany and China should work together, Germany supplying the "know-how" and machines while China supplied the raw materials and cheap but efficient labor. The two combined could crush either Russia or the U. S. in an economic war of unparalleled intensity that could bring our prosperity to a sudden end, with a stock market and real estate crash. If this happens, the blame will be laid on the doorsteps of certain selfish labor leaders.
 What About East Berlin?
 Anyone studying the map of Europe will see that Mr. K has some sense in desiring to solve the present crazy situation caused by dividing the great city of Berlin between the Russians and the Allies. With Berlin in the center of East Germany, which was given to Russia, a person cannot now enter or leave Berlin except by permission of Russia or by airplane. As I had not time to get a visa for East Germany, I was obliged to go from Copenhagen westward to Hamburg (one of West Germany's largest cities) and fly from there into Berlin.
 What the solution will be no one now knows, but the people of Berlin believe it will be settled in some satisfactory manner without any ultimatums or resort to war. World War III may come sometime, but not so long as Mr. K is premier. He knows that if World War III were started now, not only would the U. S., Great Britain, Germany, and all the allies be against him, but also China, which he fears most of all.
 To summarize this column, let me say that I worry more at this point about our United States labor leaders than I do about Mr. K.
 When the destination is desirable, expectation speeds our progress.—Mary Baker Eddy

 Sponsored by Americans thru private contributions, the seminar "presents to leaders of Western European thought, a unique opportunity to learn about America from Americans of academic and professional distinction." During the past 12 years, more than 3000 Europeans have attended 58 sessions in American studies.
 Over 300 Americans have served as faculty. They receive no salary, only transportation, room and board. Among the 1959 seminar faculty were Herbert Brucker, editor of the Harford Courant; Daniel Bell, Columbia University professor of sociology; Ralph F. Fuchs, Indiana University professor of law; James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University; and John S. Dickey, president of Dartmouth College.
 The 67th session, in which Dr. Jordan will participate between March 18 and April 11, will be on the subject of "Art and Music in America." Dr. Jordan will deliver 12 lectures on "Music in Contemporary America" which will include a consideration of all aspects of present-day American musical life.

Xmas Trees Must Be Inspected Prior To Shipping
 Christmas trees and other holiday decorative evergreens grown in areas of the northeastern United States that are under quarantine because of gypsy moth infestations must be inspected and certified before being shipped southward and westward, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reminded dealers and the public today.
 The area generally infested by the gypsy moth, a destructive forest pest, comprises Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, most of New Hampshire and Vermont, numerous counties in Maine, and sections of eastern and southern New York. In recent years, more than 4 million acres of moth-infested land have been treated with insecticides as part of the cooperative State-USDA Gypsy Moth Control and Eradication Program.
 The leaf-chewing gypsy moth caterpillars destroy shade and forest trees worth thousands of dollars each year, and if permitted to spread over a wider area could cause many millions of dollars worth of damage. Buff-colored egg-clusters of the gypsy moth, over-wintering on evergreens shipped out of infested areas, can spread the pest to new locations. USDA urges Christmas tree shippers to obtain certification of evergreens at loading points, where it can be done with a minimum of delay. Motorists are also cautioned not to take evergreens outside quarantined areas.

 Detailed information on quarantine regulations and scheduled certification at loading sites are furnished by inspectors of USDA and the States, located throughout the gypsy moth quarantine area. These inspectors may be contacted by consulting post offices, agents of common carriers, county foresters, or county agricultural extension agents, or by referring to telephone directories of towns and cities in the quarantine area.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
 By C. WILSON HARDER

Data developed by Sen. Paul Douglas on the operation of the 269 armed service commissary stores in the continental U. S., using almost 5,000 service men to push out groceries at subsidized cut rates in competition with local food stores, presents some confusing elements.
 For example, the total strength of the armed forces is around 2 1/2 million at the present time, of which a large part is based on foreign duty. In addition, due largely to the operation of the draft, et al, a heavy share of this total eats in mess halls.
 Yet, Sen. Douglas finds that 914,247 hold permits to buy at the commissary stores. Of this total, only 169,730 live on the posts. The balance, or somewhere around 80% of all the permit holders live off the post, where they have access to privately operated food stores.
 If just those on the post consumed the almost $400 million worth of food sold by these stores, it would amount to a whopping average of better than $2,100 per permit holder per year.
 Thus, if it can be assumed, with considerable logic, that the vast majority of the lower paid enlisted men are without family obligations, and eat in the mess-halls, and further, if the men overseas, on ship, etc., are deducted, it would appear higher paid armed forces brass are eating entirely too much, or else a private has become quite a rarity in the armed forces.
 © National Federation of Independent Business

Actually, the figures get even more perplexing when compared with the operating experience of privately owned food stores. With 269 outlets doing around $400,000,000 volume yearly, this averages almost $1,500,000 per unit.
 As anyone in the food business knows, a store that does a million dollars per year is considered a big enterprise. Probably not more than 10% of nation's private food stores do a million dollars per year or more.
 Thus, the question becomes even more perplexing. The commissary stores in the continental United States are huge business. Yet, after all the deductions are made of men eating in mess halls, men overseas, et al, it does not seem possible that bona fide service men, could support such a huge business alone.
 Of course, the taxpayers are furnishing the major amount of the money needed to operate these stores, hence they can sell for only a 3% mark up. As any businessman knows, if somebody paid his overhead and taxes, there would be no problem at all in operating a business.
 Of course, this does not take into consideration the waste of 5,000 service men qualified both physically and mentally for combat training, nor the injustice being perpetrated in city after city on independent stores.
 But the sheer magnitude of the operation in itself is staggering.
 Undoubtedly a full scale probe by Congress will turn up many things. It appears on the evidence at hand, that a lot of people, adequately paid to buy groceries through regular channels, are getting quite a good ride on the gravy train, paid for, as usual, by the taxpayers.

RAILROAD FEATHERBEDDING:

$500,000,000 LOSS

TO THE NATION — INCLUDING YOU — EVERY YEAR

Featherbedding on the railroads — pay for work not done or not needed — is costing the American people the shocking total of more than $500,000,000 a year.

You pay for it every time you shop, because featherbedding costs are hidden in the price of everything you buy.

Obsolete union work rules, involving the railroad operating employees, are responsible for this gigantic burden. Right now, for instance, these rules require every diesel locomotive to carry a fireman — even though diesels have no fires to stoke, no boilers to tend.

The forthcoming negotiations between the railroads and the unions are urgently important to the whole nation.

In asking the unions to drop these featherbedding rules, all the railroads ask for is a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

Academy Honors Physician As "Doctor Of The Year"

An Eastern Shore physician, and leader of the Heart Association of Upper Eastern Shore, won recognition at the Annapolis meeting of the Maryland Academy of General Practice. Dr. Harold B. Plummer of the town of Preston in Caroline County was named 1959 "Maryland Family Doctor of the Year" by his medical colleagues.

Climaxing its eleventh Annual Scientific Assembly, the Academy bestowed the "Doctor of the Year" title for only the fifth time since 1948. The presentation took place at a dinner in Annapolis, Saturday, October 10.

Dr. Plummer received a handsome engraved plaque as a memento of this exceptional occasion in his life. Dr. E. Paul Knotts of Denton, who presented the citation, told the 200 physicians attending the dinner that the selection of Dr. Plummer was based on his selfless devotion to his rural practice, and his active participation in professional and community life. He is a past-president of the Maryland Academy of General Practice, president of the Heart Association of the Upper Eastern Shore, and a past-officer of several Preston and Caroline County civic clubs. Dr. Knotts, who presented the citation to Dr. Plummer, is a long-term friend of the new "Doctor of the Year," and fellow Caroline Countian. Dr. Knotts himself received the award in 1951. "Doctors of the Year" for past years, in addition to Dr. Knotts, are: Dr. Bender Kneisley of Hagerstown, cited in 1953; Dr. Hugh Ward of Owings, selected in 1956, and Dr. Nathan E. Needle of Baltimore, honored in 1958. Dr. Plummer graduated from Jefferson Medical School in Philadelphia in 1935. Following internship at Delaware Hospital in Wilmington, he began private practice at Preston. He is the only physician in the small community where he has practiced now for twenty-three years. Married in 1938 to the former Cornelia deWilde of Preston, Dr. Plummer has two children, Ann, 18, a sophomore at the University of Maryland, and John, 15, a student at Preston High School.

Farm Bureau Advocates Farmers Run Own Business

The 1959 dairy industry production and surplus figures bear out Farm Bureau's long-time contention that farmers will regulate their production on a supply and demand basis if unhampered by Government controls.

Although consumer demand has increased because of growth in population and high purchasing power, milk production so far this year is running 1% and 2% behind that of 1958.

The United States Department of Agriculture reports that surplus dairy products totaled 33.5 million pounds at the end of the third quarter of 1959—far, far below the 217.6 million pounds which were on hand a year ago.

The 1959 surplus figure marks the lowest level since the latter part of 1952.

Robert M and Betty Jane Baer, Emmitsburg, have been elected to membership in the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri, announces Frank Richards, secretary.

The Baers were among the 267 breeders of purebred Aberdeen-Angus in the United States during the past month.

The 1957 record of $17 billion spent by Americans on their vacations in restaurants, resorts, hotels, gas stations and retail stores is expected to be met or surpassed in 1959. To help promote visitors, hotel and resort advertisers invested over $19 million in daily newspaper advertising. An increase of over 8% over the previous year.

WINNING IS NOT ALWAYS BEST

"I wanted to win that contest more than anything else in the world," the young man said ruefully. "I asked God to help me win. Instead of winning I lost. God let me down!"

It is easy to understand how disappointed this young man must have been. Everybody wants to be a winner. But he should not have been so quick to turn on God because of his own failure to win.

Perhaps the Lord had a reason for not wanting him to win. Maybe He used the contest as a "testing ground" to sound out the young man, to help him prove himself worthy of becoming a real champion.

Winning is not always the best for us. I know of one case in which the "winner" was sorry she won.

A woman had won an expensive fur coat on a nationwide television program. She competed with several other women for the garment and was thrilled when she won. But not for long!

"I am sorry I won the coat now," she said soon afterward. "I really didn't need it anyway. I have tried unsuccessfully to sell it for only a fraction of its true value."

"The cost of insuring the coat, the necessary maintenance to protect it from damage, and the large income taxes my husband is going to have to pay on the coat will work a real hardship on us financially.

"Why did I ever bother to compete anyway?"

God often helps those win who give Him the glory. A famous pianist who consistently won musical competitions said he gave God the credit for his accomplishments. "Recently, while preparing for a very important contest, I asked my folks to pray for me, not just to win because winning is not always the best thing, but that I might win if it were God's wish that I win."

"I won the contest with ease," he said. "As a result I have become a sensation. Now I am praying to God that He will help me become a success."

Are you a good loser? Are you a thankful and humble winner?

It is necessary that we learn how to win or lose, for God has a plan for each of us. The most important thing is that we are willing to accept his plan—no matter what that is. And if we do that, no one will ever really lose when pleasing God.

FELLOW MILK PRODUCERS

We are a group of producers who ship into the Baltimore market. We want more money for our product, not less—just as you do!

The recommended Federal Milk Order for the so-called Upper Chesapeake Bay Area (in reality, the Baltimore Market) will do a lot more harm than good.

- The recommended Order will cost us 5c per cwt. out of our present checks just to pay for administration of the order.
- The recommended Order will eliminate all can shippers—EVERYONE will be forced to go to bulk tank shipments.
- The recommended Order provides for Market-wide Pooling. Why should Pennsylvania PRODUCERS be allowed to lower our blend prices whenever it's to their advantage to do so?
- The recommended Order ties us to Philadelphia, New York and Chicago pricing. Because of their EXCESS SURPLUS, this HAS to LOWER our prices, unless we have an Individual Handler Pool.
- The Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., in their exceptions to the recommended Order, has asked for provisions for new producers in the area. DON'T WE HAVE ENOUGH SURPLUS ALREADY?
- We have asked the COOP for a list of their shippers, but they have refused to submit such a list to us. What is the COOP trying to hide?

NO MEMBER OF THE COOP CAN VOTE IN THE REFERENDUM TO DECIDE WHETHER HE WANTS THE ORDER OR NOT! THE COOP VOTES FOR THE MEMBERS—AS A UNIT!

EVERYONE SHOULD HAVE A RIGHT TO VOTE — and we feel that members of the COOP should INSIST on voting as individual farmers. So, if you're a member of the COOP, make your wishes known — fill in the blank on this page and mail it to us. We'll make sure your wishes are made known to the Department of Agriculture conducting the referendum. If you have any fears about COOP big shots finding out who you are—DON'T WORRY—we'll protect your name. Voting is by secret ballot and it is against the law to reveal the name of any voter.

Let the COOP know how you stand NOW — drop them a line now and tell them that you're against the recommended Order.

Clip the blank—get it in the mail today. Voting time's getting short!

BERNARD WELTY, DECEASED. ORDER OF PUBLICATION The purpose of this proceeding is to procure a decree to remove cloud upon the title of the Orators to the properties described, and declaring ownership of the properties. The Bill of Complaint states that the Orators are some of the heirs at law (and their respective spouses as indicated in the title to the proceeding) of Marie Celeste Welty who died intestate, a resident of Frederick County, Maryland, on or about the 3rd day of August, 1935, leaving no children her surviving but leaving her husband, J. Bernard Welty, her surviving. That the respondents, Tyson J. Welty and Ethel Welty Gelwicks are devisees of certain real estate hereinafter more particularly described under the will of J. Bernard Welty, also more particularly hereinafter described, who died a resident of Frederick County, Maryland, on or about December 25, 1957; that the respondents, William Sanders and Ida Sanders, his wife, are the tenants of said real estate devised by the will of J. Bernard Welty to Tyson J. Welty, and the remaining respondents are the remaining heirs of the said Marie Celeste Welty, deceased, (and their respective spouses as indicated in the title to this proceeding). That prior to her death, the said Marie Celeste Welty was the owner in fee simple of two parcels of real estate situate, lying and being in Emmitsburg District, Frederick County, Maryland, consisting of a house and lot in the Town of Emmitsburg, known and designated as Nos. 19 and 21 West Main Street, and of a farm on the Keysville Road containing 180 acres of land, more or less, both parcels having been conveyed to the said Marie Celeste Welty by James E. Elder and wife by deed dated the 7th day of October, 1905, and recorded in Liber D.H.H. No. 11, folio 302, one of the land records of Frederick County, certified copy of said deed being filed herewith, prayed to be taken as a part hereof and marked "Complainants' Exhibit No. 1". That on or about the 7th day of October, 1905, the said Marie Celeste Welty did execute a paper writing purporting to convey to the said J. Bernard Welty, her husband, an undivided one-half interest in the two parcels above described, "to have and to hold said undivided half interest with myself as joint tenants and not as tenants in common", such deed being recorded in Liber 271, folio 299, one of the land records of Frederick County, certified copy of said deed being filed herewith, prayed to be taken as a part hereof and marked "Complainants' Exhibit No. 2". That your Orators had no knowledge of their interest in the aforesaid real estate until after the death of the said J. Bernard Welty, on or about December 25, 1957, when a check of the land records of Frederick County, for the purpose of obtaining an adequate description of the aforesaid properties for inventory and tax purposes in the estate of the said J. Bernard Welty, disclosed the aforesaid deed and the interests of the heirs of Marie Celeste Welty in the above described two properties. That, as previously stated, the said J. Bernard Welty by his will dated February 2, 1955, purported to devise the aforesaid farm property to the respondent, Tyson J. Welty, and the aforesaid town property to the respondent, Ethel Welty Gelwicks, said will being probated December 30, 1957, and recorded in Liber D.H.H. #3, folio 381, one of the will records of Frederick County, certified copy of said will being filed herewith, prayed to be taken as a part hereof, and marked "Complainants' Exhibit No. 3" but such will is void and of no effect as to the interests of the heirs of Marie Celeste Welty in such properties because said purported conveyance is either (a) a nullity for the reason that there is a void attempt to create a joint ownership, in which case the said J. Bernard Welty would have been entitled only to the sum of $2,000.00 plus one-half of the estate of Marie Celeste Welty under Article 93, Section 127 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, as enacted by Chapter 387 of the Acts of 1933, or (b) such purported conveyance conveyed only an undivided one-half interest in such properties to said J. Bernard Welty. That despite the above, your Orators are advised and allege that the respondents, Tyson J. Welty and Ethel Welty Gelwicks are in possession of and claim the full and undivided fee simple title to such properties; that an actual controversy exists between the parties hereto. To the End Therefore: 1. That this Court may take jurisdiction in the premises and enter a decree removing the cloud upon the title of your Orators in and to the properties described in the Bill of Complaint. 2. That this Court shall declare the rights and interest of the parties hereto in and to the properties described in the Bill of Complaint. 3. That your Orators may have such other and further relief as the nature of their case may require. Upon the foregoing Petition, it is ORDERED this 15th day of October, 1959, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, that a subpoena be issued for the respondent defendants as recited in the titling hereof, returnable to the 30th day of October, 1959, commanding them to show cause, if any they have, within 15 days thereafter why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed therein. And further that notice be given to the non-resident defendants as recited in the titling hereof, as well as the unknown heirs of Marie Celeste Welty, deceased, by order of publication, of the object and substance of the foregoing Bill of Complaint in a newspaper published in Frederick County, Maryland, once a week for four weeks before the 21st day

There was such urgency in his voice that I lifted the plastic curtain and peered out right away. "Did it snow?" I asked when I could see nothing unusual, thinking their imagination was running wild. "No!" was the disgusted reply. "Look at the clouds. Aren't they beeyootiful?" The clouds in the eastern sky were scudding low over the horizon, blown northward by the same wind that the night before had blown in the first good rain in weeks. Here and there among their dense blackness you could see the fair blue of the morning sky. I thought about the clouds, and the rain, and the blue sky showing through. I looked at the trees, that were turning from summer's greenery to fall's brilliant hues, and I replied, "Yes," they're beautiful. Thanks for showing them to me. I'm Emulsified! during the summer. But soon as seedpods mature, the bugs swarm down the trunk and into the houses. These boxelder bugs are a pest all winter long. They come out of hiding places on warm days. To control them, kill the bugs on the tree on the outside of the house with a spray drench containing household detergent. Or, if you're looking for a permanent cure, replace your boxelder trees with a substitute shade tree. Clean-up And Compost You can make an objectionable job pay off by making garden refuse, old plants and leaves into compost. It's a valuable addition to the soil in the spring. Or compost can be used as a summer mulch. It's a good way to cut down on bugs and weeds pests, too. But there's more to it than just piling up leaves and letting them go. The material has to decompose to be real compost. So, you need to apply fertilizer (rich in nitrogen) to the material as it is stacked. You will need to sprinkle on lime, and topsoil, too, to help decomposition. Keep the pile moist and fork it over every three weeks or so. Your garden clean-up will go a long way towards cutting down the weed and insect population next year. But to kill the insect larvae and pupae, you'd best dig up the soil. While you've got it stirred up, put in a cover crop to help build inorganic matter. All's Well That Ends Well Oh yes, we promised to let you know how our plan worked out for having the kids help rake up leaves from the lawn. Dad bought himself a lawn sweeper to do the job. Lawn sweepers are built like a reel-type lawnmower, with a leaf catcher instead of a grass catcher. Instead of having a moving reel, they have a rotating brush that picks up the leaves and throws them back into the leaf catcher. I was skeptical, so I made sure I had a money-back-if-not-satisfied guarantee. But it works like a charm. It sure beats raking. And the best part of it, the kids love to push it! Best $21.00 I've spent for a long time! All I need do is dump the leaves into the compost pile. Garden Notes If you've got houseplants outside, better take them in. That is, if the frost hasn't already nipped them. Rake leaf mold away from the house foundations and spray with toxaphene or chlordane to kill millipedes. Destroy rat or mouse dens in, under or around the garage and house. Set bait boxes for rodents (built so that only they can get it, keeping kids and pets away from the bait) using an anticoagulant bait. Start checking the lawn for signs of that winter weed, chickweed. The earlier you treat it, the easier it is to kill. Use silvex (2, 4, 5-TP) anytime until March — the earlier the better. Carefully follow directions on the container. Fort McHenry—Our Historic Shrine

 Fort McHenry, located about three miles from the center of the city of Baltimore and within its corporate limits, is the birthplace of our national anthem and today takes its place as one of our many fine national monuments and historic shrines. The central feature of the area, some 47 acres in all, is the Star Fort, or Fort M'Henry proper, with its five bastions forming a five-pointed star. Within the fort are museum exhibits pertaining to its history, events of the War of 1812, and the Star Spangled Banner. The composition of the Star Spangled Banner and the successful defense of Fort McHenry against the British bombardment of September 13-14, 1814, which inspired Francis Scott Key to write the poem, are the historic events commemorated by this shrine, events which take high place in American tradition.

By Act of Congress, approved on March 3, 1925, Fort McHenry was set aside as a "national park and perpetual national memorial shrine as the birthplace of the immortal Star Spangled Banner," to be administered under the custody of the Secretary of War. This Act provided for the restoration of Fort McHenry as nearly as practicable to its appearance during the War of 1812. This restoration was undertaken by the War Department; many new buildings and structures erected during the World War were removed, and others were altered to conform approximately to their appearance in 1814. Fort McHenry was under the administration of the War Department until 1933 when, with many other historic sites in Federal ownership, it was transferred by Presidential proclamation to the Department of the Interior for administration by the National Park Service. By Act of Congress, approved August 11, 1939, the designation of the Fort McHenry area was changed to "Fort McHenry National Monument and Historic Shrine."

The circumstances that led to the writing of the Star Spangled Banner by Francis Scott Key have their origin in the events which followed the British attack on the Capital. The enemy fleet had anchored in the Patuxent River, and the attacking force had proceeded overland to Washington. Following the burning of the Federal buildings in Washington, the British returned to their base on the Patuxent, while raiding parties and stragglers roamed the nearby countryside.

The appearance of returning British troops at Upper Marlboro, a Maryland town about 15 miles east of Washington, led to speculation by some of the inhabitants on the result of the expedition.

History tells us that Dr. William Beanes and a group of his friends were enjoying a social hour when three British stragglers appeared. After an argument between the soldiers and Dr. Beanes and his companions, the stragglers were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace and placed in the local jail. One of them escaped and reached a scouting party of British cavalry which immediately marched to Upper Marlboro, captured Dr. Beanes and took him to the British base on the Patuxent, where he was turned over to Admiral Cochrane.

Francis Scott Key, a prominent attorney of Georgetown (now a part of our nation's capital) and a close friend of Dr. Beanes, undertook to effect his release. After obtaining permission from President Madison, Key and Col. J. S. Skinner, of Baltimore, proceeded on a packet boat from Baltimore under a flag of truce and met the British fleet which was preparing to attack the city. Admiral Cochrane agreed to release Dr. Beanes, but he refused to release any of the Americans for fear they would return to Baltimore and convey information of his plans to attack the city.

Taken aboard the Admiral's flagship, the Surprise, Key and his companions were compelled to accompany the British up the Patuxent River toward Baltimore.

Under a guard of marines, the Americans were then transferred to their own boat in the rear of the fleet as the British ships took their positions to bombard Fort McHenry. It was from this vantage point that Key witnessed the bombardment of the fort throughout the day of September 13, and the following night.

Historians tell us that at dawn, he saw that the American flag, the Stars and Stripes, was still flying over Fort McHenry and that the fortress and the city of Baltimore had not fallen to the British. That morning the attack was abandoned, and the British moved downriver toward the bay. Key and his friends were then released and allowed to make their way back to Baltimore.

There are many versions of the story concerning the writing of the Star Spangled Banner, but I believe the most reliable one is that given in a preface to the 1937 edition of Key's poems by Roger B. Taney, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, who had married Key's only sister.

Taney states that the verses were written on an envelope as Key and his companions came ashore on the morning of Sept. 14 and were rewritten in a hotel that night. The next morning Key showed the verses to Judge Joseph H. Nicholson, of Baltimore, his wife's brother-in-law. The judge was greatly impressed by the stirring quality of the poem, and his wife took the manuscript to the printing shop of Capt. Benj. Edes on the corner of Baltimore and Gay Streets and had the poem run off in handbill form. On September 20 the poem was published in the Baltimore Patriot, and in a short time it was being sung in taverns throughout the land as an expression of American patriotism.

Although the song was widely accepted at an early date as our national anthem, it was not until March 3, 1931, that Congress passed the necessary legislation formally recognizing this.

Francis Scott Key, a native of Frederick County, Maryland, was born on August 1, 1779, and was 35 years of age when he composed the words that have made his name immortal. He died on January 11, 1843, and was buried in Mount Olivet Cemetery, in Frederick, Md.

In 1914, the 100th anniversary of the defense of Fort McHenry and of the composition of the Star Spangled Banner, Congress appropriated $75,000 for the erection of a monument in memory of Francis Scott Key and the soldiers and sailors who participated in the battle of North Point

Tucson Foundation Care Averages Two Years for Each Asthmatic Child

Tucson, Ariz.—Average stay of boys and girls at Sahuaro school, operated on a non-profit, non-sectarian basis by the National Foundation for Asthmatic Children here, is two years, according to A. B. Sieh, foundation executive director.

However, more than 87 per cent of children receiving resident care at Sahuaro school can return home to stay after a sojourn at the rehabilitation center, he said.

Attending the school are asthmatic youngsters from six to 12 years of age from all over the United States and some foreign countries. They live in modern buildings, attend first through eighth-grade classes, have planned recreation and rest, mental, dental and medical care, balanced meals and special diets. An adequate staff is always on duty with a local medical committee directing any medical care required.

"Children are accepted for residency, regardless of race or creed, between the ages of six and 12 because of the desire to deal with reversible asthmatic changes and because experience of the foundation's medical staff substantiates the conclusion that this age bracket is one of great response and recovery," Sieh declared.

"Only those children are accepted whose medical histories show that they have not responded to accepted medical treatment in their home areas and it is indicated that they would benefit by a climatic and environmental change."

The National Foundation for Asthmatic Children is supported by public contributions which are tax deductible.

Trailer Owners Protest Assessments

Thirty-two house trailer owners in the county have filed appeals against proposed assessments for their trailers as made by the county assessors. The trailer owners are being represented by the law firm of Weinberg and Weinberg, which they employed in an effort to get what they term an equitable assessment. The appeals have been filed with the County Commissioners, the second step which taxpayers have in objecting to assessments. The Supervisor of Assessments had previously notified the trailer owners that their protest against the proposed assessments of their property was order passed as it appeared on the assessment notice. Manuel M. Weinberg, of the Weinberg and Weinberg law firm said that on August 28 the assessment office sent notices to trailer owners notifying them of assessments for the year 1959. He said the trailers had been assessed at cost, less depreciation. The trailer owners organized and hired a law firm to contest the assessments. They contend that they were not assessed as others are in the county in a personal property basis. They contend they should be assessed like all other assessments on personal property not held for resale and not as inventory which is assessed on an entirely different basis. The trailer owners feel they have been assessed the way corporations pay on inventory—and then some. It was pointed out that no allowances were made except for depreciation. They were not even considered for the fifty per cent or so allowance on an assessable basis, they say. Since the assessment office refused adjustment the trailer owners feel they are being assessed under a plan that is not constitutional. They are willing to pay their just share of taxes, said Mr. Weinberg in expressing the desire of the trailer owners. They feel they should be taxed solely on a personal property basis.
