In an effort to make the initial step in obtaining mail carrier service for this community, this paper will gladly publish, if obtainable, a list of house numbers previously assigned a number of years ago. It is understandable that a great number of local residents have forgotten their assigned numbers and then again there are a number of new homes erected since the numbers were designated. Several annexations also have been effected. The numbering of houses it should be explained, is a prerequisite for obtaining such a postal service and as a public service this paper will publish free, the list of those numbers already assigned, providing this list is made available. The whole deal is contingent on whether or not this list is furnished. Should the list have become lost or mislaid then it should be most prudent and advisable for the Town to draw up another. Regardless of whether we are fortunate to ultimately obtain this service, this project should be followed through to its completion, if for only for the convenience of ourselves and any strangers "looking" up old friends and relatives here. It's high time Emmitsburg woke up and modernized itself. Towns just don't operate this way any more. Horse and buggy methods are obstructing the progress of the town.

It was recently discussed by several members of a local organization that perhaps the numbering of houses could be made a community project and the possibility that the project would include the nailing up of numbers by members of the organization. Going further into detail the group even thought it would be a good idea to purchase numbers for those who weren't able to afford purchasing them. This most certainly would be a worthwhile community project for any organization and would be a considerable asset to the town. Any volunteers?

This March undoubtedly will go down in the annals as one of the snowiest in history. With an accumulation of about 20 inches in the month to date, people are getting snow weary as well as shovel weary. On the contrary though it hasn't been as windy as usual, only during the big snow two weeks ago when the wind played havoc with the roads and drive-ways. With St. Patrick's Day in the background we now look expectantly toward the coming of spring next week. Under the present conditions Spring seems a bit incongruous but after all it is just around the corner. And while on the Spring theme this brings to mind that the deadline for tapping into the new sewer line is just a bit over a month away. By the first of May ALL houses in Emmitsburg MUST be hooked on to the line or their owners will be liable for a fine. This action should free Flat Run from all pollution immediately. However swimming in the stream should be prohibited for possibly the balance of this year affording the stream an opportunity to cleanse itself of the impurities which have been deposited in it from many decades.

License Applications All Mailed

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles John R. Jewell wishes to remind the motoring public that it is past the middle of the month and if they have not applied for their new license plates for privately-owned passenger cars and motor cycles, they should do so immediately to avoid waiting in long lines or being deprived the use of their vehicles; also that the Department will open for business on Maryland Day, March 25, even though it is a legal holiday.

Any application received in the mail at the Department by Monday, Mar. 21, will be processed immediately and the plates mailed in time for delivery before the deadline date at midnight, March 31, unless the address on application is incorrect. No extension will be granted and new plates must be displayed by April 1. Your cooperation in obtaining your tags now will be greatly appreciated.

Easter Seal Drive To Get Under Way

The Maryland Easter Seal campaign officially got under way yesterday, Louis H. Stoner, local chairman, announced. The drive will continue for a month until April 17. Clyde J. Eyer has been appointed assistant chairman in the Emmitsburg District.

The chairmen announced that all monies collected locally will be sent to the Frederick Center from which it will be used to further the treatment of crippled children and adults in this county.

Those individuals desiring to make contributions are asked to mail to or give them to the two local chairmen, Mr. Stoner or Mr. Eyer.

Serving the disabled of Frederick County at the Easter Seal Treatment Center, Frederick, is a dedicated group of therapists and volunteers, working hand in hand with the medical profession to help the residents of this area in their fight against disabling conditions such as strokes, post-polio, amputations, fractures, speech defects and many others. The Easter Seal Treatment Center provides occupational therapy, physical therapy and speech therapy. All the equipment necessary for training the disabled in activities of daily living, including a modern kitchen and bathroom, is available in the Center. Therapy can only be given upon the written prescription of the client's physician. Doctors work closely with the Easter Seal therapists and receive written reports regarding the patient's progress.

In a breakdown of finances expended last year the local chairmen provided the following statistics:

Care and treatment—$239,983. 2,461 crippled Marylanders, both children and adults, received services such as occupational therapy, physical therapy, speech therapy, social service, parent counseling in eight Centers throughout the state. In addition, there are residential camps for children and adults, a sheltered workshop, equipment loan closets, day camping programs and educational assistance for the disabled.

National Program and Research—$15,797. Easter Seal research funds were allocated throughout the nation. Program studies, scholarships, publications, library, films, consultants available from every field of rehabilitation were utilized in Maryland. Development of our program and relationships with national organizations created new support for the disabled.

State and Community Organization, $6,250. Work toward the development of a complete rehabilitation program covering all areas of Maryland was continued, so that regardless of location, the individual needs of the disabled can be met. A new Center was established in Elkton and has received strong support from local civic, social and professional groups.

Education—$40,256. Educating the disabled, the parent, the professional worker, the volunteer and the public to an understanding of the needs, the accomplishments and the prospects of rehabilitation of the disabled of Maryland has been a year around job. This has been done through publications, radio and television programs, press releases, conferences, professional meetings and special classes.

Fund-raising—$35,232. Informing the people of Maryland of the need for Easter Seal funds to help in the rehabilitation of Maryland's disabled, explaining how those contributions are being used, reaching in to every home in Maryland through Easter Seals and asking for support for the Easter Seal direct service program right here in Maryland has produced results. New methods, techniques and special events will go into effect this year.

Administration—$18,125. Efficient administration of the programs of the state, the affiliates and the treatment centers is vital. Bookkeeping, case records and files and the many facets of maintaining an efficient program of services to the disabled must be kept up-to-date in the state headquarters, the affiliates and the Easter Seal Centers.

To Hold Bake Sale

The Young People's class of Keyville Reformed Church will hold a bake sale Saturday, March 19 at the Firemen's Hall in Emmitsburg, beginning at 10 o'clock. Plenty of home prepared foods will be on sale.

Warner Hospital On Approved List

Annie M. Warner Hospital is among nearly 6,000 hospitals that have been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. It has been on the approved list for a number of years.

The accreditation program is a voluntary one and only those hospitals which request surveys are visited. Dr. Kenneth B. Babcock, commission director, said that of the 6,000 eligible hospitals over 4,500 have applied and of this number about 75 per cent are accredited.

The JCAH is an agency established by four organizations—the American College of Physicians, the American College of Surgeons, the American Hospital Association and the American Medical Association—to conduct the hospital survey and inspection program initiated by the American College of Surgeons in 1919.

"Accreditation of a hospital means," Dr. Babcock said, "that it has voluntarily submitted to a survey of its facilities and its patient care. It is a badge of recognition which the hospital can display to its community to prove that it conforms to high standards of patient care."

THREE ROBBERS SENTENCED

The men who assaulted a jail turnkey in an attempt to escape last month were given prison terms by Magistrate Edward D. Storm, Frederick, last week.

James Edward Carbaugh, 20, of Emmitsburg, and Kenneth William Stull, 22, of the Frederick area, were both sentenced to three months in the Maryland House of Correction.

They were charged with assault and battery upon Frederick jail turnkey Irvin F. Cronse, during a jail break on February 3 at 7:55 p. m. A second charge of jail breaking preferred against the two men was not pressed by State's Attorney Rothenhofer.

Carbaugh, who had been sentenced by the Circuit Court earlier in the week to a two-year term in the Maryland Reformatory for Males for breaking and entering and larceny at an Emmitsburg grocery store, will probably serve his reformatory sentence first before being sent to the House of Correction on the assault and battery charge.

Stull, who had also been charged with the robbery of Green's Esso service station in New Market on January 2, had his case continued in Circuit Court recently because of the weather. He will probably start serving his three-month term in the House of Correction for the assault upon the turnkey immediately.

Date Set For Alumni Banquet-Dance

The alumni banquet and dance of the Emmitsburg High School Alumni Assn. will take place on Saturday, June 11, it was decided this week at a meeting of the alumni association held in the VFW Monday evening.

President James Sanders presided over the meeting and it was decided to hold the banquet in the local public school, however, following the banquet the dance will be held in the VFW Annex and the general public will be invited to attend. The committee in charge is in the process of booking a popular orchestra for the affair and the selection will be announced just as soon as a band has been obtained. Honored classes this year will be those of 1910, 1935 and 1960.

Wife Asks Alimony From Thurmont Physician

Alimony and custody of a 14-year-old child was sought last week by Mrs. Louise C. Birely, Baltimore, in a Circuit Court No. 2 suit against her husband, Dr. Morris F. Birely, a throat specialist in Thurmont.

Mrs. Birely filed the action through Robert E. Clapp Jr., of Frederick, and Howard C. Brogel, Baltimore attorney. She alleged she married the respondent in November, 1944, in Carlisle, Pa., and that they have a 14-year-old child.

The wife contended that her husband has constructively abandoned her and asked the court to award partial and permanent alimony, custody of the child and support for maintenance of the child. She alleged her husband earns more than $16,000 a year.

Archbishop Presides At Medal Presentation

The dignity of an annual award ceremony, the presentation of the Saint Louise de Marillac Medal at Saint Joseph College, took on unexpected excitement Saturday when the Most Reverend Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, D. C., advised a capacity audience of the action of Pope John XXIII in issuing an Apostolic Brief proclaiming Saint Louise de Marillac as Patroness of the Works of Social Welfare.

A few minutes before the announcement, Archbishop O'Boyle had presided over the presentation of the Saint Louise de Marillac Medal for 1960 to Miss Mary A. Dixon, of Washington, D. C., whom he had nominated as the recipient of the award for his archdiocese.

The Saint Louise de Marillac Medal is awarded annually to a Catholic laywoman selected by the hierarchy of her diocese for self-sacrificing personal service to her neighbor. In 1959, the medal was awarded to Miss Alice R. May, assistant director of Catholic Charities in the Baltimore archdiocese.

Sister Hilda Gleason, President of Saint Joseph College, bestowed the medal on Miss Dixon, in recognition of her "outstanding personal service on behalf of her neighbors," during an honors convocation in the college auditorium.

Cited as "one whose life and labors eminently exemplify for a present generation . . . timeless advices of the holy heroine of Charity (Saint Louise)," Miss Dixon is librarian at the United States Naval Medical School of the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md. In addition to her duties as a professional librarian, she has been a lecturer and instructor in Library Science for colleges and other institutions and parishes. Active in the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, as well as the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, Miss Dixon is known for her many charitable and educational interests.

The Most Reverend Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of the Washington archdiocese, presided over the convocation program, and delivered the main address of the day. In his address, Archbishop O'Boyle declared: "If the world today dares not disdain the poor; and if our social legislation recognizes the human dignity of the poor and the weak, we owe it to the pioneering efforts of Saint Vincent de Paul and Saint Louise de Marillac." The Archbishop stated that Miss Dixon, who received the medal honoring Saint Louise, had "given unsparingly of her time, her talent, her energy in behalf of others."

The 1960 Convocation had special significance in view of the current celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the death of Saint Louise, foundress of the world-wide Community of the Daughters of Charity of Saint Vincent de Paul. The spacious campus of Saint Joseph College includes the Central House of the American Community of the Daughters of Charity, who conduct the college. In addition to a musical program offered by the Saint Joseph College Glee Club, the program for the day included a tribute to Saint Louise de Marillac by Miss Carol Dorr, of Silver Spring, Maryland a junior of Saint Joseph College, and recent winner of the Saint Louise de Marillac Speech Competition, an annual contest initiated this year by the college.

Local Lions Club Meeting Held

Twenty-two members were in attendance at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday night at Fitzgerald's Mason-Dixon Inn. President Ralph D. Lindsey presided over the meeting.

Four guests from the Carroll Manor Club were present and spoke briefly. Scoutmaster J. Edward Houck appeared before the meeting and announced his resignation as Scoutmaster, explaining that he was taking over the training of the local Explorer Troop. During the meeting it was discussed whether or not it would be feasible for the group to seek a co-sponsor of the local Boy Scout Troop, however no action was taken on the matter.

Mrs. Anna Montgomery has moved to the residence of her son, Roderick, New Oxford, Pa.

Pen-Mar League May Operate With Four Teams

Unless new entries are forthcoming soon, the Pen-Mar League will operate as a four-team circuit during 1960.

That decision was reached at a recent league meeting when a proposal to merge with the Franklin County League was rejected.

Blue Ridge Summit, Emmitsburg, Fairfield and Taneytown will definitely place teams in the league this season while Lattestown will decide in the near future on their status. It was announced that Lattestown has withdrawn from the league.

Alton L. Waterneil, Blue Ridge Summit, who was reelected president of the league, said that certain will be open in the league until the schedule is drawn and that teams interested in joining should notify any league officer immediately. Waterneil added he is confident the league will have six or eight teams for 1961.

George L. Miller, Union Bridge, was renamed vice president. A secretary-treasurer will be elected at the April meeting.

Also elected at the meeting were the following Board of Directors: J. Norman Flax, Emmitsburg; Glenn Brown, Blue Ridge Summit; Donald Weikert, Fairfield; and Fred Shank, Taneytown. The following board of arbitration was also named: Mr. Miller, Union Bridge; William Boker, Lattestown; Guy R. McGlaughlin, Emmitsburg; and Arthur Moorhead, Sabillasville.

The league decided to use members of the York County Umpires Association as officials. Bob Gebhart is the supervisor for the association.

It also was decided to play a split season.

Little Clyde Dale Ohler's unknown search for a home has ended, at least temporarily.

The 18-month-old tot was discharged from the Warner Hospital last Wednesday to Mrs. Robert Frye, Ligonier, Pa., sister of Mrs. Clyde M. Ohler who was killed in an accident with her husband on the Gettysburg Rd. March 1.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Frye met with Walter Dillon and Chester Ohler, paternal grandfather of the deceased couple, Emmitsburg R2, and Miss Ora Miller, a great-aunt of the child. At the time neither of the parties, who were seeking custody of the child, would submit to the desires of the other concerning temporary custody.

Dillon explained that the child was ready for discharge from a medical standpoint but would not be permitted to leave under the circumstances unless the parties agreed to a temporary custody of one party or by court order.

Wednesday the parties concerned reached an agreement as to the temporary custody.

School To Sponsor Clothing Drive

News-conscious Americans were shocked last winter by headlines marking a severe economic depression in our own American Southern Mountains. Reported rivaling the 30's depression, the after-effects of unemployment which prompted those headlines have left many children in desperate need. Again, children will be unable to attend school regularly in winter because they lack adequate clothing and shoes.

During the week of March 28, the students of Emmitsburg High School and Elementary School will gather good used clothing for children and adults in underprivileged areas of the Nation as well as for victims of disaster at home and overseas through the 18th annual nationwide Bundle Day Clothing Collection sponsored by Save The Children Federation.

Parents, friends and neighbors are urged to empty clothes storage areas of good used winter and summer garments their families no longer need. Low-heeled shoes and overshoes are especially needed. Also requested are serviceable coats, dresses, pants, underwear, socks, shirts, sweaters, skirts, caps, blankets, sheets and baby clothes. Clothing may be brought or sent to school in bags or cartons—it will be repacked for shipment.

This year the need for clothing is imperative. Even more and more clothing is desperately needed to clothe school children as well as entire families. Donated clothing is sent to the Southern Mountains where it is made available through SCF Clothing Centers at very low prices thus enabling a poor but proud people to maintain their self-respect. Additional clothing is distributed without charge, through county welfare and attendance officers to those who cannot afford to pay. Clothing also is stockpiled for disaster use in this country and overseas.

The Donated Clothing Program is an important part of Save The Children Federation's over-all work which includes the sponsoring of children in the United States and overseas, and the initiating of school and village self-help projects for children in this country and abroad.

Fire Company To Begin Financial Drive

The annual financial drive of the Vigilant Hose Co. will get under way next week when letters with return envelopes will be mailed to all property-owners and citizens throughout the Emmitsburg area.

Frank S. Topper, chairman of the drive reported this week that the letters would be mailed next Thursday. Over 1200 form letters and questionnaires with a financial report included will be sent through the mail.

The drive this year will assist the local fire company with the purchase of a new truck. Under State Underwriters' rules a fire department must keep its operating equipment in a state of modernization. This necessitates that a new truck be purchased at least every 10 years. The local equipment is exactly that old and therefore must be replaced. Meeting these specifications the fire company is instrumental in maintaining low insurance rates for the community.

Chairman Topper urges the general public to return the contributions early to avoid canvassing by representatives of the company at a later date. The fire hall has been recently remodeled at a cost of about $7000. Included in the improvements are a new sidewalk, electrically operated front door, new reinforced concrete floor and a number of other incidental improvements.

During the past year the company has purchased the following needed items: one portable pump to replace one which has seen many years of service; two walkie-talkie radios, which will enable the company to work with better cooperation and efficiency; two dry chemical extinguishers and nine lined fire turnout coats. These items add greatly to company prestige making it among the finest in the State. Now it is well equipped but the men through their monthly training have learned to efficiently meet every task put to them. During the past year it averaged 32 men per fire. Many hours of work are given at fires but these hours are more than doubled in keeping equipment in shape and training. The officers and men are always on the alert to find better ways to serve you.

Within the past year there has been a noticeable reduction in Fire Insurance Rates. Dwellings within the corporate limits are reduced approximately 20%; some commercial buildings, retail dwellings, churches, parish halls and Sunday School rooms, etc., approximately 25%; Lodge halls, community and meeting halls, clubs and funeral homes, approximately 35%. These reductions are due largely to the Vigilant Hose Company's never ending battle to meet the standards set forth by the Board of Fire Underwriters.

McNair Will Probated

Under the will of the late Robert McNair, Freedom Twp., Pa., filed for probate in the office of the register and recorder in Gettysburg, household goods and furniture are bequeathed to the widow of the deceased, Mrs. Eva G. McNair. She is also named executrix of the will, was granted authorization to convert into cash all assets of the deceased at public or private auction, and was bequeathed a sum of money equivalent to one-half the adjusted gross estate which was valued in excess of $80,000.

Explorers Meet

The regular meeting of the Explorer Post 265, was held in the Fire Hall on March 15.

The meeting was called to order at 8:15 p. m. after helping with the firemen's fund raising campaign drive earlier.

Plans were discussed on the dance to be held at the VFW Annex by the Explorers. The poster committee reported that all posters are finished and will be distributed to all places of business.

President Terry Byard reported that an Explorer a week would instruct different subjects to Troop 284 such as knot tying, first aid, compass, map study, etc. The meeting was then adjourned.

TODAY'S meditation

Read Psalm 32:1-5.

For we are consumed by thine anger, and by thy wrath are we troubled. (Psalm 90:7.)

A certain atheistic farmer once proposed to demonstrate that he could violate the laws of God without suffering any serious effect. Accordingly, he cultivated an acre of ground entirely upon the Lord's Day in deliberate violation of the Fourth Commandment. At the end of the season he reaped a good harvest and boasted of what he had done. A pious old neighbor said to him: "Remember, God doesn't always pay in October, but He always pays."

This is the common experience of humanity, God always pays.

Human misery, as Psalm 90 suggests, follows in the wake of human sin. Early man interpreted human misery as a result of God's anger at man's sin. Rather, it is because God has established the universe as a moral order, and those who violate the moral law suffer thereby. Horace Bushnell said: "We are punished by our sins and not for them. We are rewarded by our virtues and not for them."

Because God has made the universe a moral order, sin always makes for misery. Repenting of our sins and right doing always make for peace.

Prayer

O heavenly Father, we would come to Thee in true repentance.

Named Vice Chairmen For Frederick Hospital Fund Drive

Mrs. Paul S. Michael and Rear Admiral Allen G. Quynn, both of Frederick, will serve as vice chairmen for Frederick Memorial Hospital's $650,000 building fund campaign. Their appointments were announced this week by W. Jarboe Grove, the campaign general chairman.

Mrs. Michael and Admiral Quynn have long been active in local civic affairs, and both have positions of leadership in the hospital's present governing boards. Mrs. Michael is president of the 25-member women's board of managers. Admiral Quynn is president of the men's 15-member board of trustees.

Objective of the campaign, expected to enter the public phase next month, is construction of a new wing with pediatric facilities and a recovery room and extensive remodeling of present hospital facilities. Forty-one new beds will be constructed, permitting elimination of some temporary beds.

Mrs. Michael has been a member of the Frederick Memorial Hospital board of managers since 1942. She was elected president of the board in 1948 and chairman of the joint boards of managers and trustees in 1955.

Additionally, Mrs. Michael serves on the Hospital Council of Maryland, and on the Council of the Easter Seal Treatment Center. She is a member of the Maryland Society for Crippled Children and Adults and on the board of directors for the American Red Cross. She served two terms as treasurer of the City Recreation Commission and assisted in establishing the School for Crippled Children.

Admiral Quynn is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, and during World War II served successively as chief of staff to the commander of the service, Pacific Fleet; assistant director of the logistic plans division, office of the Chief of Naval Operations; and deputy commander of the service force, Pacific Fleet. For this service he was awarded the Legion of Merit with Combat "V" and the Distinguished Service Medal.

After retirement from the Navy in 1949, Admiral Quynn returned to Frederick and took over supervision of Allen G. Quynn and Company, a retail hardware business which has been in the family since 1796.

Admiral Quynn served three years on the Board of Alderman and as chairman of the Off Street Parking Commission. He is a director of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank and the Citizens National Bank of Frederick, and a member of the board of associates of Hood College.

He holds memberships in Rotary, VFW County Club, the New York Chapter of the Military Order of World Wars, and Columbia Lodge No. 58, Free and Accepted Masons.

Working with Mr. Grove, Mrs. Michael and Admiral Quynn are developing plans for a campaign organization to reach all communities in Frederick County served by Memorial Hospital. The campaign is scheduled to run until early June.

Pointing out that statistics prove that one out of every eight persons in the United States is a hospital patient each year, the campaign leaders stressed the necessity of expansion and remodeling of the present hospital to keep pace with the rapid advance of medical science and technology.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Practically all who fish running water for trout, and take their fishing seriously, use wading gear of some sort, as do many who fish streams and lakes for bass and other species.

They come in three lengths: thigh, waist and armpit. If the thigh-lengths have built-on boots they're called hip boots, though they don't reach the hip; if they haven't, they're called wading stockings. The two higher kinds are called waders. Since all three are available with either boot or stocking feet, this already gives us six types.

Should you get them with boot or stocking feet? If you don't have to walk far in them, you may find boot feet more convenient, since they're faster and easier to get on and off. But its pretty hard to dry their insides thoroughly, as you must if they're to last long.

You should wear a pair of heavy wool socks inside those of either type, to absorb condensation from perspiration, which forms rapidly with cold water so close to your feet, says Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. Wrap the lower part of your trousers around your ankles and pull the socks over them to hold them down. If you don't like the feel of wool next to your skin, wear regular light socks inside them.

You must have another pair of heavy wool socks outside stocking-feet waders, to keep them from chafing against the brogues, which would soon cause leaks. Roll this outside pair down over your brogue tops, covering the loops formed in tying the laces; this prevents the loops from catching on brush.

For a lake, or a somewhat deep stream with slow current, waist-length or arm-pit length is generally best, though even here you can sometimes catch as many fish wearing thigh-lengths. No rule will cover all such places so you, knowing where you'll fish, must use your own judgment. But remember that the lower the type you're wearing, the more comfortable they'll be to get around in, especially in hot weather.

Getting a good fit in hip boots or wading stockings is easy. You merely buy them the right size for your foot, being sure to try them on with the heavy wool socks inside. But in buying your first armpit-length waders you're practically sure to go very wrong unless you've had sound advice. Here's how to get a fit in a store, and not feel you've wasted your money on the wrong thing:

Of course you see to it that the feet, of either type, are a comfortable size with the one or two pairs of wool socks you'll use with them. Then stand up and fasten the suspenders, making sure that the crotch of the waders comes all the way up into yours. If it doesn't the things will have a hobbling effect and won't wear long. If it does and, looking in the store mirror, they seem a perfect fit—they're not. When you're standing, the legs should look somewhat wrinkled to show that they're long enough. Test them by squatting and making sure they don't pull.

How to store such rubberized waders so they'll last a long time is a simple matter. If there should be any oil spots wash them off well with soap and water, then make sure the waders are dry inside and out. Roll them as tightly as you can, and wrap them tightly with several layers of heavy brown paper. Tying this package will do, but sealing with paper or cellophane tape is better, since the idea is to keep out as much air as possible, as well as light. To exclude air still more, put them first in a plastic bag sealed with cellophane tape. Store them in some spot with a moderate temperature.

Women's Rights Take A New 'Turn'

Something new has been added to a woman's prerogatives—turning over the china!

It has long been an approved action, etiquette-wise, for the discriminating woman to rate dress or drape material by feeling it or to judge cleanliness by the casual finger-dusting test. But never before has the fair sex applied its 'show-me' techniques to dining out—until now, that is! The turnover or plate-flipping club, as it's being called with mixed feeling by restaurateurs from coast-to-coast, is burgeoning fast.

Club 'rules' are simple. The 'member,' sometime during or immediately after being served, picks up and examines a piece of the china on which she has been served. Then, she turns it over! She quickly but carefully notes who made the china, then where and when. With this inside—or other-side—information at hand, she is then in a position to form her ultimate opinion of the modernity and modishness of the particular restaurant.

The restaurant with the up-to-date, chic china, designed to please the eyes, as well as contain the food, of its guests, naturally passes the turnover test with flying colors—and you can be sure the ladies will remember and come flying back!

Protecting Our Freedom

Many Americans who have been watching the relentless expansion of Communist power throughout the world are gravely concerned for the future of our nation—and mankind's freedom. They are aware that in 40 years of extraordinary success the Communists have already achieved most of Lenin's blueprint for conquest, which has been summarized and paraphrased as follows: "First, we will take eastern Europe; next, the masses of Asia; then we shall encircle that last bastion of capitalism, the United States of America. We shall not have to attack; it will fall like an overripe fruit into our hands."

With infiltration, control of propaganda outlets, and cunning political maneuvering — while our nation looked on with only mild interest—the Communists gobbled up eastern Europe; then most of the masses of Asia, including China's 500 million. And now we witness Cuba, 90 miles from Florida, being converted into a Communist stronghold, the base for widespread Latin American activities. Thus Lenin's blueprint for expansion, no matter how fantastic it may have sounded through the years, has become a reality. The U. S. A. is encircled, and within our borders the Communists are undermining our will to resist.

Freedom Isn't Free

A few million alerted Americans have watched this step by step expansion of Communism and have worried about it. A small percentage of them have become actively engaged in some kind of citizenship work to alert and arouse the remainder of our population to the very real danger. But most Americans still know very little about the nature of Communism, its tactics and strategy. It's something unpleasant to think about and they hope and trust it will soon go away. Moreover, they pay scant attention to the source of their freedom. They take freedom for granted, as something that will continue forever without any effect on their part.

Last week a group of 12 people met one evening in this town of Searcy, Arkansas, population 8,000. In the group was a business man, a college professor, a school executive, the vice-president of a corporation, a preacher, the wife of an industrialist, two women office workers, a college student, a housewife . . . people drawn from various walks of life. They were meeting to plan a month's work on behalf of their nation. They are dedicated to the cause of freedom. They know that freedom isn't free. They are making personal sacrifices in work to pay for freedom—for themselves and for their children.

The John Birch Society

At the meeting a film on Communism was screened. A book review was given. The group's circulating library was discussed. Prospective recruits were listed. Each member of the group reported on his activities for February. Each had written a number of letters—to government leaders in Washington, pointing out, respectfully, things that might be done to strengthen our nation; to government leaders, complimenting an action; to the head of a nationwide organization, supporting a recent statement; to a corporation executive, making a suggestion; and so on. The meeting lasted nearly three hours. No one was in a hurry to get home. The month's work schedule ahead was discussed. A zeal in purpose and accomplishment manifested itself throughout the group.

This was the regular monthly meeting of The John Birch Society in Searcy. Across the nation, hundreds of similar small groups were meeting. The John Birch Society has one simple long-range purpose: to work for less government, more responsibility, and a better world. One of its short-range objectives is to become a citizen force capable of defeating the aims of Communism. In its first year of existence, without publicity or organized promotion, its growth has been remarkable—and heartening. Any American who loves freedom and is willing to work, work, work to protect it can find intelligent direction and companionship in a John Birch Society group. It is a unique movement. Its

Electrical Heat Economical

In the electric heated home all other uses are free.

If that sounds like a strange statement, so it did to the man who first thought of it. What it means actually is that when a family is enjoying the comforts of electric heating throughout its house, it can add as many appliances as the family wants without running up the monthly electric bill.

This is true of course only in the months when the house is being heated. The summer bills for appliances will be about the same as ever.

Electricity is sold to the customer at so much per kilowatt hour, which we abbreviate by calling it a kwh. Now a kwh does other things, lots of other things besides making sparks and heating a percolator. It heats everything that uses it.

When you try to measure heat you may logically think in terms founder is Robert Welch, nationally-known Massachusetts industrialist. Fifteen months ago, having already given up his business responsibilities to devote his full time to the movement, he invited eleven prominent American leaders to a meeting in Indianapolis. For 2 days he presented the shocking facts-of-life in our world today. Then he outlined the plan for the movement he was founding. His goal, he told them, was a working John Birch group in every American community. Only people, dedicated and working at the task could protect freedom and its blessings. He asked for their moral, financial and physical support. Whether he got it or not, he told the 11 prominent Americans, he was going forward with his plan.

He got their immediate and enthusiastic support. Society chapters are active in 20 states and are being formed in all 50. The movement may be contacted by writing The John Birch Society, Belmont 78, Mass.

of a thermometer, but that only shows the degree of warmth in a particular situation. The real measure of heat, is the British Thermal Unit, or Btu. That's the amount needed to raise the temperature of a pound of water one degree F. in one minute.

One kwh of electricity provides 3,412 Btu of heat, and it makes no difference whether it's consumed in the electric heating system for the home or in a light bulb, or the toaster or Grandma's heating pad. In other words, everything in your house that uses electric energy is doing a part of the home heating job. Your actual heating units, be they wall panels or baseboards or ceiling cable types, in reality just make up the amount of heat that is not provided by the total of all the appliances.

So when a family is enjoying electric heating, it can even forget to turn off the lights without wasting anything . . . the monthly bill won't go up. Or if the husband objects to getting a clothes dryer or dish washer because of what it costs to run them, the wife can say, "Oh no, you missed it that time dear, it costs nothing more, those happy labor savers just coast along the heating bill."

Local GI's Participate in Maneuvers

Army Pfc William J. Matthews Jr., whose parents live on Rt. 2, Thurmont, and Pfc Ronald R. Messner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Messner, Rt. 2, Emmitsburg, recently participated with other personnel from the 8th Division's 26th Infantry in Operation Wind Swept in Germany.

Operation Wind Swept, which included an attack against a simulated aggressor force under realistic combat conditions, was designed to determine unit effectiveness in cold weather operations, and chemical, biological and radiological warfare defense techniques.

A wireman in the infantry's Mortar Battery in Baumholder, Matthews entered the Army in October 1958, completed basic training at Fort Riley, Kan., and arrived overseas in April 1959.

The 18-year-old soldier attended St. Joseph's High School.

A combat engineer in the infantry's Headquarters Company, Messner entered the Army in October 1958, completed basic training at Fort Riley, Kan., and arrived overseas last April. Messner, 18, attended Emmitsburg High School.

The new aluminum railing on the inside of Laurel's turf course was designed by General Manager, George H. Martin. It has become a model for other tracks.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses
Summer Resort Property
BABSON PARK, Mass., Mar.
17—It may seem strange to readers of my column to see this subject
when New England, Northern
New York,
Michigan, and
other summer
resorts are buried in two
feet of snow.
I, however,
have definite reasons, as shown below, for writing under these wintry conditions.

Time To Buy Summer Property
Most people who are looking for a summer cottage, especially for a place to spend July and August, wait until a hot day in June before looking around for a cool spot. This is the height of folly as such property is always in greatest demand and sells at the highest price in June or July. The bargains always occur in March or April, and this will be especially true this year.

It also should be remembered that all classes of workers are getting longer vacations, longer weekends, and more time for recreation generally. In addition, the population of the country is constantly increasing, as is also—and most especially—the people's income.

I have already commented that land is the best hedge against inflation. Certainly, a modest summer home should be a better investment than a "second car."
It could be a place of refuge
in case of World War III.

Buy Water Frontage If Possible

While the government can print more bonds and dollar bills, "only God" can make more natural properly drained frontage on the ocean or on lakes or on rivers. Although, in Florida and in some other places, artificial water frontage is being made by pumping out adjoining sand, yet this amount is infinitesimal, considering the waterfront already available.
Even if you feel unable now
to buy or build a summer home,
you might well buy some land if it is properly located. In the meantime, your children should be taught to fish and swim.

Although I personally prefer Cape Ann, Massachusetts, as the finest spot in the nation
for a summer home, yet I realize that many people feel better on mountain land in the summertime. This especially applies to those with asthmatic
tendencies or chronic coughs.
Pine and spruce woodland is very agreeable to many. Such land is gradually increasing in price as the trees grow. When purchasing any kind of land for a summer place, be sure to have electricity and telephone connections. Good, pure water can always be secured by drilling a well. Such wells should be free from contamination, and should be safe from fallout in the event of atomic war. Some civil defense authorities claim that woodland partially protects against fallout dangers, but this has not been proved.

Don't Buy Sight Unseen

In closing, let me say a word to those who are looking for winter homes or for all-year-round homes in the South or in California and the Southwest.
Salesmen with maps and photographs should be treated courteously, but one should never buy a summer place or a winter home without first visiting the property. This is important in order to acquaint one's self
not only with the land, elevation, etc., but also with the neighbors. Increases in property values depend largely upon the neighbors.

It is also wise—although not essential—to get within reasonable distance of a community
with churches, schools, fine
apartments, library facilities, and stores. I assume that every reader desiring a summer or winter home has an automobile;
but in addition, it is a good idea
to be fairly near a bus route.
If one bomb should be dropped accidentally on a Russian or American city by some psychotic aviator, it would be almost impossible for the average citizen not employed in defense work to get any gasoline. The government will see that all living people get necessary, even if scantily rationed, food—but their provisions will not include gasoline.

Taxpayers Should Check Forms Carefully

Irving Machiz, District Director of Internal Revenue, today called attention to some of the errors encountered on income tax returns before filing, paying par-taxpayers carefully examine their
returns before filing, paying particular attention to these items:

Be sure name and address are legible. Taxpayers should print this information, making certain that their complete and current home address is furnished. Incomplete addresses delay receipt of refunds if due.

Check all facts and figures to see that they agree. Check additions, subtractions, and other arithmetic for accuracy.

Be sure to list the names of persons for whom exemptions are claimed, and remember to claim the correct number to which you may be entitled.

Signatures are an important part of an income tax return.
If a joint return is filed, the signatures of both husband and wife must be affixed.

Attach all W-2 withholding statements for all employers by whom you were employed during the year.

If you file Form 1040-A, do
NOT pin, staple, or scotch-tape
W-2, and do NOT fold the return.
These actions impair electronic processing and delay receipt of any refunds due. Withholding statements should be attached with an ordinary paper clip.

Mr. Machiz warned that many errors are occurring in taxpayers' claiming excess Social Security (FICA) tax as a credit against Federal income tax. This credit is allowed only if a taxpayer individually worked for more than one employer, and had more than $120 Social Security tax withheld from both employers. Social Security tax withheld from a husband and wife can not be added

together to establish an additional credit.

Many taxpayers fail to show
the correct total of income on line nine of Form 1040A.

"And finally," Mr. Machiz said,
"if you owe additional tax, mail your return and remittance to the District Director of Internal Revenue for your area. Maryland and District of Columbia taxpayers should mail their returns and remittances to 707 North Calvert Street, Baltimore 2, Maryland.
Remittances should be made payable to "Internal Revenue Service."

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Second Childhood

Those who wish to return to their youth might like to know that there's at least one way to feel positively infantile again.
Just become a hospital patient.

You are no sooner tucked into your hospital bed, then you surrender many of your rights as an adult. Privacy, for instance.
Nobody knocks on your door. Everybody just barges right in. You are likely to be poked all over and asked highly personal questions by a succession of people wearing white coats and stethoscopes. Without asking permission, somebody wraps a piece of rubber tubing around your upper arm, sticks a needle in a vein,
and helps himself to a syringe-full of your blood. No, they're not feeding vampires in the lab,
as you might think. Your blood is studied to help find out what ails you and sometimes to check the effects of the medicine you are getting.

Being sick is an upsetting experience any way you look at it
—upsetting to your self-confidence, among other things. Being put to bed is no fun, but it is calculated to get you well. And when you're seriously ill, you really learn to appreciate the things
a hospital can do for you!

There are a lot of minor irritations in hospitals. You may be awakened to take your medicine or to have your temperature checked. The medicine must be kept working on you. Its effect lasts only so long, and then it must be given again. And your temperature at different time of day tells the doctor a good deal about what's going on inside you.

Anyway, it's sensible to just take things as they come, so don't fret. Might send your temperature up. This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by your Tuberculosis Association.

Make Cereal Exciting!

Brighten up breakfast with "something new" in cereals!
This recipe is not only delicious, but it's a novel time-saver,
too. Prepare enough of the cereal for two mornings—serve half of it hot with cream and maple-blended syrup the first morning . . . then on the second morning, follow this recipe for Fruited Coconut-Rice Cereal Squares. For a party "brunch" add crisp bacon strips or savory little pork sausages.

FRUITED COCONUT-RICE CEREAL SQUARES

2 1/2 cups water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup quick-cooking
rice cereal

2/3 cup Angel Flake Coconut
Cooked pitted prunes
Additional flaked coconut

Bring water to a boil in a saucepan. Add salt and sprinkle in rice cereal. Cook for 30 seconds, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Cover and let stand 3 minutes. Add 2/3 cup coconut and mix well. Serve with cream and maple-blended syrup. Or press mixture into a shallow greased dish and cool. Cut into squares and saute in butter or margarine.
Serve with cooked prunes and a fluff of flaked coconut.
Makes 4 servings.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

Voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, almost 90% of the nation's independent businessmen have expressed themselves in favor of eliminating "good will"
in computing estate taxes.

As it stands now, the proprietor of a business dies,
and the tax boys, after toting up all the other assets which are tangible,
then throw in
for good measure
a sum based on the
"good will" of the business.

There is probably nothing
more fragile than goodwill.
Often the respect that a business enjoys disappears with the death of the founder and owner.

After all, if there is an element of good will attached to a business, it is largely based on the reputation of the owner
or management.

Thus, it seems almost impossible to place a tax on a good reputation. But through some hocus pocus computation,
the tax boys seem to find out how to tax a reputation.

So, while it might not be possible to take it with you, tax authorities seem to feel it possible to tax the reputation a man takes to his grave.

It would seem perfectly logical on this basis if an owner of a business died who was somewhat of a shady character, then the estate should be able to take a tax deduction for ill will.

take a tax deduction for ill will.

Of course, this is not allowed, but it would seem to make as good sense as computing a tax on whatever good will
a business may have.

As a matter of fact, it has been years since a good will item has figured very importantly in the selling and purchasing of a business.

In fact, many business firms
today carry on their statements a good will item at $1. In today's strenuous competition, it seems almost necessary for a business to build a new reputation every day.

Of course, the huge corporations never have to encounter
this problem as the corporation
goes on no matter who dies.

This matter of placing a value
and assessing a tax on the good will of a business is practically in its entirety a tax on the independent family owned business.

It would seem at times that the entire taxing philosophy of the nation is based on the premise that independent business is bad for the country and everything possible should be done to force all business into big corporate structures.

As evidenced by the splendid work done the past few years
by the Senate Small Business Committee, the House Small Business Committee, and the Small Business Administration,
this obviously is not the viewpoint of government leaders.
Yet this is just one more example of laws that are discriminatory toward independent enterprise in America.

Were you ever so emotionally upset that you were a menace to other motorists? Think back a little before you answer this question.

Remember the time you drove home from work in a bad mood because of that argument with the boss? Or the time that another car cut you off and you chased "that crazy fool?" Or any of the other times you've driven when you were too angry, worried or impatient to concentrate on driving?

At times like that, your mood could have killed you. Moods and attitudes DO kill thousands of drivers every year, many millions of others and costs billions of dollars.

All of us have our own ideas about what causes accidents. Some people say the cause is disregard of traffic laws, many blame young drivers, one group says roads are inadequate for today's heavy traffic, others insist there is just too much speed.

Studies of thousands of accidents indicate that emotional disturbances and improper attitudes of drivers are a major cause of accidents.

Get a good safe grip on life. Check yourself every time you drive. If you're worried, impatient, angry, in a hurry, or upset, think twice before driving. The second thought may save YOUR life.

Feed Grain Price Support Revealed

The price support rate for 1960-crop feed grains will be the same as for the 1959 crop, according to William L. Dudley, Chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. This means that the national average rate will be 77 cents per bushel for barley and 50 cents per bushel for oats. If the same State differential in effect last year is used this year the Maryland rates will be 88 cents for barley and 59 cents for oats.

The law requires, Mr. Dudley said, that price supports which are fair and reasonable in relation to the support rate for corn be established for the other feed grains.

Other factors taken into consideration are supply of the commodity in relation to demand, the ability of the Government to dispose of stocks acquired under price support, ability and willingness of producers to keep supplies in line with demand and support levels for other commodities.

With the national average corn support price reduced from $1.12 to $1.08 a bushel for 1960 and the support for the other feed grains maintained at the same dollar-and-cents level as in 1959, the differential between corn and other feed grain support levels is narrowed.

As in the past, barley and oats will be supported through loans and purchase agreements on grain stored on the farm or in warehouses. These will be available from harvest through Jan. 31, 1961. The basic support rate is for No. 2 or better on barley and for No. 3 or better in the case of oats. Discounts determine the rates for eligible grain of lower grades.

The amount of barley and oats placed under price support nationally from the 1959 crops was much smaller than for the 1958 crops.

Farmers, and most all persons working for themselves, have an obligation both to themselves and to their government at this time of year. That obligation is to report correctly their 1959 income to the Internal Revenue Service if their net earnings for the year were at least $400. This statement may seem incorrect to some, nevertheless it is true. You cannot overlook this very important obligation. One reason for this report is to pay your social security self-employment tax. Social security for most of the self-employed people is compulsory. Even though you may not have to pay any income tax you must pay your social security tax. You must pay the social security tax regardless of your age, and even though you may be receiving social security benefits, as long as your annual net earnings are $400 or more.

By paying your self-employment tax you meet your obligation to your government. And, at the same time you are building an insurance program for your retirement, disability, or death.

Make it a point to meet your obligation—don't cause yourself or others needless worry or loss. Remember, proper reporting of your social security now will permit payment of benefits when you retire or become disabled and to your family should you die.

Tranquilizer Sales Soar

Demands for products containing dihydrocodeine have been made by purchasers with such frequency that its use for a medical need has been questioned. Because of the manner in which such persons operate; i.e., use of several aliases, several addresses, and devious forms of identification and because dihydrocodeine has been abused to create euphoria, and a substitute for the more potent narcotic drugs, etc., the State Board of Health has passed the following regulation:

Pursuant to authority conferred upon the State Board of Health by Sections 284, 286 and 299, Article 27, Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 Edition), the following regulation, governing the sale of dihydrocodeine or any of its salts, is hereby established as a minimum requirement of the State Board of Health:

Dihydrocodeine or any of its salts in any preparation is hereby restricted to sale on prescription only, in accord with the State Board of Health's "Regulation Governing Acceptance of Oral Prescriptions for Certain Narcotic Drugs."

The above regulation applies to such commonly branded items as Cosanyl, Tussar, Endotussin, Coricidin Syrup, Bucoil, Dekal, and all imprinted goods, etc.

The regulation becomes effective April 1, 1960.

The Printed Word

Today when we settle back in our easy chair and begin to read the daily paper or magazine or even a book we seldom realize the long history back of the printed word and how it was developed through the year and the important part it plays in our every-day lives.

Printing, as we know it today, is the production of an intelligible design in the form of writing or illustrations on a surface such as paper with a pigmented material, which is known as ink.

Printing may be done in three different ways. In relief printing, also called letterpress, employing ordinary type, the printed type surface is inked, but ink is transferred to the paper only from the raised parts of the type. In intaglio, such as gravure and copperplate engraving, the design is incised into the plate; after the plate is inked, the ink is scraped or wiped off the flat surface and remains only in the incised portions, from which it is then transferred to the paper.

In planographic printing, such as lithography, all portions of the plate are level; portions of the plate which are not to bear the design are so treated that they repel ink. The plate is then inked, and the remaining portions of the plate receive the ink and transfer it to the paper. About twenty per cent of present-day printing in the United States is done by offset and gravure processes; both offset and gravure processes differ from letterpress in employing photographic methods for plate production. Today rapid strides are being made in the improvement of these processes, particularly color printing, which some newspapers have already put into use. Since letterpress printing is the simplest method of printing and represents about 70 per cent of modern printing in the United States, it is this type of printing which I shall cover in my article this week.

Letterpress printing was known for hundreds of years before intaglio and lithography were discovered. Printing from engraved blocks was certainly done by the Chinese and Japanese in the first millennium A.D., and possibly even before the Christian Era. The labor of engraving the characters or designs on a wooden block was so great that printing of this type had little advantage over writing or drawing by hand. The invention of movable type, which consists of pieces of type representing individual letters and signs. Movable type, assembled in a frame, can be used for printing a page, and then it can be dismantled, reassembled, and used for printing other pages. This invention probably took place in China in the 11th century, but because of the complex nature of Chinese writing was not extensively used before the 19th century. Movable types were independently invented in western Europe in the 15th century, either by the German Johann Gutenberg or the Dutchman Laurens Coster. Gutenberg is known to have printed a Bible in 1456, and during the next fifty years the art of printing rapidly spread over Europe. Wooden types were soon supplanted by types made of type metal, an alloy now made of lead, antimony, tin, and sometimes copper.

The first operation in letterpress printing is setting up the type in a line, an operation known as composing. The compositor, who performs this operation, may also be responsible for all other steps in preparing the type prior to delivering it to the press. Type today may be set either by hand or by machine. In either case, the type is supplied in a font which contains letters of all of a single size and usually of a single style, with the proper proportions of the different letters, letters with accents or other diacritical marks, numbers, and punctuation. In hand composing the letters are put into two casts, an upper case containing the capitals and small capitals, and a lower case containing the other letters. Each case is divided into boxes of various sizes, into which the individual letters are placed. It is interesting to note that the letter "e", which is very common, is represented by far more type in the font and has a much larger box than an unusual letter such as "q". The position of the boxes is standardized, with the most frequently used letters nearest the compositor's hand (and not in alphabetical order, as the average person would believe them to be). The compositor takes the letters one at a time and places them in a stick, a small rectangular tray which can be adjusted to the desired measure, or length of the line. At the end of each word he places a space, and when the line is nearly filled, he uses up the remaining area by adding further spaces between the words, so that all the spaces in a line have the same width.

This is known as justification, the margins of which are made even. After several lines of type have been set in the stick, they are then transferred to a galley (tray). When the galley has been filled, either with hand-set or machine-set type, the first proof is taken. The galley is inked, and a sheet of paper pressed on it to obtain an impression. This sheet, called a galley proof, is slightly larger than the finished pages to be printed. After the galley proof is read by a proofreader, necessary corrections are made in the galley by removing the lines that are incorrect, placing them in a stick, making the corrections, and justifying. The galleys may then be stored or made-up directly into pages.

For quick work, as in the printing of this newspaper, the operation of make-up involves little more than taking the proper number of lines from the galley and placing them into position. For a carefully printed book or magazine, a layout is first made for each page by an artist, showing the position of titles, illustrations, tables, charts, chapter headings, and spaces. The lines are then placed in their proper position with respect to other material, and with the folio or page numbers. The work of make-up is done on a flat-topped stone or metal table called a stone. In most cases, a number of pages of type are made up in a single large form from which a single impression is made on a large sheet of paper. This paper is then subsequently folded and cut by automatic machinery and the orientation and position of the various pages of type must be such that after the folding and printing the pages are all right side up and in the proper order.

This arrangement of pages is called an imposition. The lines of type are laid out on the stone and the spaces for margins and other purposes filled in with strips of wood or metal called furniture, which are set low enough so as not to take any ink. The pages are then imposed in a large metal frame called a chase, and the whole chase is then filled out with furniture. The type is then locked in place by means of wedges or other devices which squeeze the type and furniture together and against the sides of the chase. This entire array of type, furniture and chase is called a form. Page proofs are generally drawn from the form, last-minute corrections made if necessary, and the form is then stored until it is needed for printing.

This should give you some idea of what your editor must go thru with each week as he assembles this publication. This also will give you an idea why a special time must be set for all material to be in to insure it for publication in the current issue.

I sincerely hope that this will also give you something to think about and help you as a reader to sincerely appreciate your local newspaper. Any community, regardless of size, should be proud of their local newspaper for it plays an important part in the lives of its citizens in bringing the news, the latest bargains at the local stores and many other features to suit the individual tastes of its readers.

Yes, the printed word, by way of the local weekly newspaper, is as American as the hot dog, and yet we take it too often for granted. The next time you see your editor, or any member of his staff on the street, give him a pat on the back for his efforts in bringing you the printed word each week by way of this publication. Let him know that he is doing a good job. If you have something to sell, sell it through your local newspaper. A few printed words in the form of an ad will bring results.

In closing, may I take this opportunity to express my thanks to this publication for their efforts in bringing the readers of my column the stories and articles which appear here each week. Through these efforts and by means of the printed word, I am able to keep in close contact with my readers.

Navy Opportunities For Graduates

Chief H. R. Blackstock, Recruiter in charge of the Navy Recruiting Office, 10 West Franklin St., Hagerstown, announced today that prospective 1960 high school graduates may begin filing their applications immediately, for enlistment in the Navy after graduation in June.

Due to the possibility of restriction quota during the summer months, enlistments will be offered to those based on date of filing application. The Chief emphasized that by filing an application now does not obligate the applicant in any way. All necessary papers, test and physical examinations can be completed prior to graduation. This will allow a graduate the opportunity of reserving an enlistment in the Navy without making any binding obligation.

The whole story on the high school graduate training program can be obtained at the recruiting station in Hagerstown, where the screening test can be administered. This will show which of the five fields the applicant qualifies for: Aviation, Electronic, Medical-Dental, General or Nuclear, the newest and most challenging field with two years schooling offered.

The Navy Recruiting Office is open daily from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 8:30 to noon on Saturday. For appointment after office hours, call REgent 9-5680.
