A quick appraisal of the traffic fatality count for the first five months in Maryland discloses the amazing fact that the rate already is 10% over the same period last year. State Police statistics show that so far this year 227 persons have been killed by cars. In addition there were 2,282 persons injured in car accidents. You might wonder where this large number of mishaps and fatalities occur as you never get to read about all of them naturally. Well last month our own Frederick County was the highest in the state (for fatalities) when five vehicular deaths occurred. Think of this, right in our own back yard. Multiply this by the other 22 counties in the state and you can readily ascertain that it isn't hard to see how it can and does happen. Forty-seven citizens met the grim reaper last month alone in Maryland. Need I urge you to use more caution and safety?

There'll be a benefit baseball game Saturday folks. The affair is for a very noble cause. I'll make it as simple as possible and give you a brief resume of the circumstances which brought about this charity game. Some weeks ago two of our baseball players were injured while playing. One received a broken foot, the other a broken hand. You all are well aware of medical costs these days and the expenses incurred by these mishaps in addition to the loss of time off work, imposing a considerable hardship on those involved. Also you are aware that baseball in small towns is on the wane and it is almost financially impossible to carry any insurance on the players. Attendance at the games is so low that it is almost impossible to pay the umpires. That my friend is the predicament the local club is in at the current time. That's the story folks. Admission to the game, which will feature the best players of all the teams in the league, will be only 50c. Be sure to make it a point to be present Saturday evening after supper and to help this humanitarian cause along by your moral support as well as your little financial contribution.

Cuba's Castro seems a bit surprised and perturbed over this country's decision to shrink up its sugar trade with that country. What else could you expect when you are actually doing business with Communist Russia, our present threat to the peace of the world? I personally wonder why we haven't boycotted the country economically long ago since the Cuban dictator has developed such a defiant attitude. Weeks ago Castro said the American Eagle's claws had become dull. A change about this week elicited the statement that the Eagle was again extending its sharp claw into Cuban affairs. Military force isn't necessary to handle this dictator... economic restrictions can accomplish the same means—without bloodshed.

Horrible superstition came to the fore this week when a six-year-old boy and an 86-year-old woman were beaten to death by a medicine man in Chile this week. The reason given for the massacre was that the gods that created the recent earthquake and tidal wave in the area several weeks ago which devoured almost 1,000 persons, had to be appeased. The bodies of the victims were tossed into the ocean as an appeasement to the gods. A macabre situation in this so-called era of civilization.

Grand Knight Curtis D. Topper presided at the regular meeting of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus held Monday night in the Council Home.

St. Mary's College Knights of Columbus to use the local Council if and when needed. It was agreed by the group to suspend the first meeting in September, the date being Labor Day and it was agreed that the regular meeting would be held on the third Monday of that month. The Council was in receipt of a letter from the Supreme Council in New Haven, Conn., that it was awarded the membership plaque for the years 1959 and 1960. Five local members attended the June 10 retreat at Manresa, Annapolis, it was reported. A certificate for being elected six years as grand knight was awarded to Jacob E. Baker.

Bible School Open; Large Enrollment

Monday morning, June 20, the Community Daily Vacation Bible School opened for a two-week session in the Elias Lutheran Parish House with an enrollment of 160 pupils. This is a school conducted annually by the Protestant Churches of Emmitsburg, for all the children of the community. A great deal of work and planning goes into a school of this kind and the staff members are very much gratified by the wonderful response of the children.

The daily schedule is as follows: 9 a. m., first class period; 9:45, recess for the younger classes; 10 a. m., general assembly for the school; 10:30, second class period for the younger classes and recess for the two older classes; 10:45, second class session for the two older classes. Closing time, 11:30 a. m. Refreshments of cookies and a cool drink are served to the children up to and including the Primary Class. The donations for this part of the program have been very generous.

The Nursery Class has 11 children with the following workers, Miss Connie Baker, Mrs. Elsie Andrew, Miss Frances Rowe, Miss Thelma Herring and Clyde Hahn.

The Beginner Class has enrolled 38 children with these workers: Mrs. Morris Zentz, Miss Harriet Hahn, Miss Nancy Eyster, and Mrs. Frieda Longpre. The Primary Class, with 43 pupils, has Mrs. John Chatlos, Mrs. Helen Hildebride, Miss Harriet Harner, Miss Carolyn Umble and Miss Ellen Tokar working in that department. The Junior Class is the largest one, with 47 children enrolled. Rev. John Chatlos is teaching this class the first week with Miss Katherine Springer, Miss Mae Rowe, and Ronald Reaves as assistants. Rev. Philip Bower will conduct the class the second week. The Teen-Age Department has 21 members. Mrs. C. C. Combs is working with this group of young people.

The School is under the direction of the Rev. Philip Bower and Rev. John Chatlos. Mrs. Eric Glass is the pianist. Mrs. Lula Bushman and Miss Ruth Shuff prepare the refreshments and serve them each day. Robert Wagerman, Kenneth Wormley and Bill Bowling have been helping with the recreation and other activities of the school. Dr. J. W. Houser and Mr. John D. White have enlisted a crew of volunteers to help them with the transportation of the children. Mrs. George Willhide is the teller of missionary stories. Rev. Philip Bower has been directing the assembly period every day.

The closing program will be held next Friday, July 1, at 10 a. m. at which time each department will tell something of its program and work for the two weeks. Everyone is invited to attend this program. Following the program will be a picnic for all the children, their parents and friends.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry Scott Sr., were hosts to about 150 guests at an open house at their home, Villa Rest, Emmitsburg, on Sunday, June 19, in celebration of their parents' 25th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott were married at a nuptial Mass in Saint Joseph's Catholic Church, Baltimore, on June 21, 1935, by Rev. Fr. George H. Trappesser, former pastor at Saint Anthony's Shrine and personal friend of the Scott family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Parker Smith Jr., brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Scott, were the attendants. They also were present at the silver celebration Sunday. The couple are the parents of four children, Joseph H. Jr., Mary

Miss Fitez Bride of Kenneth Glass

Saturday, June 11 at two o'clock, the marriage of Miss Harriet Roberta Fitez to Kenneth Fred Glass, was solemnized in St. Anthony's Shrine, Emmitsburg, by Rev. Fr. Vincent J. Tomalski, pastor. The double-ring ceremony was used.

Miss Fitez is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Fitez, Rocky Ridge and Mr. Glass is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Glass, Emmitsburg.

The church was decorated with white gladioli, pompons and lighted tapers. Mrs. Alma Seltzer, the church organist, played traditional wedding music. Mrs. Marie Rosensteel was soloist. Acolyte was Ned Remavage, Emmitsburg. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight delustered satin. It was accented with a fitted bodice, three-quarter length sleeves and a floor-length bouffant skirt ending in a full sweep chapel train. A full panel of chantilly lace accented the front neckline, waistline and sleeves and it was lace embroidered with mother-of-pearl sequins and seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil was of candlelight imported bridal veiling caught in a rosebud crown of satin. She wore a double strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom and carried a white Bible topped with white orchids and tsephanotis.

Bridal attendants were: Mrs. Mary E. Valentine, Rocky Ridge, sister of the bride; and bridesmaids, Mrs. William B. Ennis Jr., University Park, Md., sister of the bride, Mrs. Richard Lohr of Waynesboro, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Mary M. Fiery, Emmitsburg; and Mrs. Thoms L. Fogle, Woodsboro.

The matron of honor wore a mid-rose taffeta street-length gown with decollete neckline accented with light pink nylon chiffon bow, and dress-length floating panels. She wore matching bandeaus, shoes and mitts. Her flower arrangement was of pink feathered pompons with a center accent of white. She wore a strand of pearls a gift of the bride.

The bridesmaids' gowns were the same as the matron of honor. They carried feathered pompons and wore pearls, a gift of the bride. Vickie Lynn Valentine, Rocky Ridge, niece of the bride, was flower girl and was attired in a floor-length gown, the model of the bride's. She carried a basket of pink and white feathered pompons and wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bride.

The ringbearer was Steven D. Fitez, Fairchild, Pa., nephew of the bride. Robert E. Glass, Emmitsburg, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and ushers were: Robert S. Fitez of Fairchild, brother of the bride; Chester S. Shriver Jr., Gettysburg; Tommy L. Fogle, Woodsboro and George L. Danner, Emmitsburg.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the Emmitsburg VFW Annex.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Fitez wore a sheath dress of dior blue imported chantilly lace over taffeta with blue and white accessories and a white rosebud corsage.

Mrs. Glass, the bridegroom's mother, wore a beauty pink lace dress with white accessories and a white rosebud corsage.

For the wedding trip to Florida, the bride chose a powder blue linen sheath with white accessories and the white orchid lifted from her Bible. The couple is now residing on R2, Emmitsburg.

Mrs. Glass is a graduate of Emmitsburg High School, class of 1955 and attended Towson State Teachers College and the Waynesboro Business School. She is now secretary to the assistant superintendent for instruction of the Frederick County Board of Education.

Mr. Glass also is a graduate of the class of '55, Emmitsburg High School and served a four-year tour of duty with the Air Force spending three years in Germany. He is presently employed in a clerical position at the Ox Fiber Brush Co., Frederick.

Accident Damage Suit Settled In Court Action

A complicated double suit in which the owners of both vehicles that collided at the Emmitsburg Square on May 8, 1959 claimed to have the green light and each sued the other for damages sustained in the accident was settled by a jury decision in favor of the defendant in both case last week.

Involved were Supervisor of Assessments Lumen F. Norris, a resident of Emmitsburg, and the Kelly Pie Company, whose large tractor-trailer truck was involved in the accident.

The Kelly Pie Company sued Norris for $670.21 for damages received in the accident to its tractor-trailer truck. The supervisor of assessments filed counter-suit against the pie company for $1,282 in damages to his station wagon. No one was injured in the accident.

Chief Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer, presiding at the trial, instructed the jury that the only question pending was which driver had the green light at the intersection and told them if they could not determine this they would have to find for the defendant in both cases.

After 45 minutes of deliberation, the jury returned verdicts in favor of both defendants, allowing no recovery in the case by either sides, since the evidence was contradictory and did not show clearly which driver passed the red light.

The pie company truck was driven by Gerald Taylor of R2, Frederick, who testified that the light was green for him when he reached the intersection. Wilbur Kline, a supervisor for the pie company who was traveling with Taylor, also said the light was green and that the truck was only going about 20 miles an hour.

Norris and Ellen Groffley, a waitress, who happened to be standing at the Square corner at the time of the accident, said the light was green for Norris.

Officer Robert Koontz of the Emmitsburg Police disputed a statement of the pie truck driver that the light "had turned yellow" as he was "coming in on U. S. 15" by pointing out that there is no yellow light at the Square corner. The light turns directly from red to green.

Attorneys William W. Wenner and Richard F. Zimmerman represented the Kelly Pie Company and its owner, Guy Kelly. Attorney Robert E. Clapp represented Norris in the case.

WORMLEY-WETZEL

Miss Sandra Lee Wetzel, Emmitsburg R3, daughter of Mrs. Roselle Wetzel, Emmitsburg, and the late Mr. Wetzel, became the bride of James Leo Wormley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wormley, Emmitsburg, on Saturday, June 4 at 2 p. m. in St. Joseph's Catholic Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Martin J. Sleasman, assistant pastor. Music was played by the organist, Mrs. Louis Rosensteel. The bride wore a ballerina length gown of white nylon lace, shoulder length veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses and bridal wreath. Mrs. Virginia Hyde, of Westminster, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow satin gown and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. Charles Hyde, Westminster, was best man.

The bride's mother wore a dress of powder blue with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother also wore a powder blue dress with white accessories.

A reception was held at the home of the mother of the bride immediately following the ceremony.

The bride attended Emmitsburg High School. The bridegroom attended the same school and is now employed at the Green Parrot Tea Shop.

Consolidation Plans For School Opposed

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

On Friday, June 17, 1960, schools closed all over Frederick County. Emmitsburg High School may not be opened and students could possibly be transferred to Thurmont High School.

This is interesting to the people of Emmitsburg because this very same topic was discussed three years ago. Delegations from Emmitsburg appeared before the School Board, the County Commissioners and other political authorities requesting that the high school remain. A petition with more than 1000 names was filed with these agencies, indicating the will of the Emmitsburg people. But, on Friday, June 17, 1960, the last day of school, a two page bulletin from the office of the School Board stated that "The enrollment in September in grades 10-12 in Emmitsburg will be approximately 95 while at Thurmont there will be approximately 275. Also, in 1965, the enrollment is estimated to be 100 at Emmitsburg and 330 at Thurmont." These figures, we believe are correct. Certainly the School Board should know how many students they intend to haul to Thurmont and how many students they intend to haul to Emmitsburg. They are in absolute control.

But why should this shuffling of school children on the various bus routes become the basis for higher taxes? If the students from Emmitsburg are taken to Thurmont, the Thurmont High School will be so very much congested that another new high school will have to be constructed. This will be very costly to the people over the entire county. A new high school of the size and type the Frederick County School Board is building these days would cost over one million dollars. Even now, the board is talking about paying $1,000 per acre for land near Royer's Restaurant. If this expenditure is permitted, your taxes must increase an additional 6 or 7 cents per each $100 worth of property you own in order to finance the project.

Instead of the above expenditure, if a small number of students who are now going to Thurmont High School were assigned to Emmitsburg, the congestion spoken of in Thurmont could be relieved, taxes would not have to increase, everyone would be happy, especially the citizens of Emmitsburg.

It becomes apparent at this point that integrity and sincerity are lacking. Why should this community, the fourth highest tax paying community, be required to make an annual plea to the School Board? The people of Emmitsburg feel that the most important consideration has almost been forgotten—the education of the children. Ask the colleges about the condition of high school students. They will tell you that for two years after a student enters college, he must be taught subjects that should have been learned in high school. They will tell you, further, that high school students are lacking in fundamentals.

Emmitsburg respectfully suggests that the Frederick County School Board advise their superintendent to stop stalling and get to the business at hand. The beautiful schools in Frederick County will perpetuate the names of those responsible for their construction, but beautiful schools are secondary to a sound educational program.

It is a disservice to the people of Frederick County to continue spending tax money loosely. It is an insult to the intelligence of the voters to think that they cannot recognize the difference between building construction and the education of children. It is crystal clear that fancy buildings, school lawns and plush administrative offices are not the answer to our educational problem. We need an educational program consisting of substantial subjects, taught by qualified teachers, administered by a School Board dedicated to the education of children.

This attack on the community of Emmitsburg is being felt very keenly and we, the voters and taxpayers, remind those responsible that we are not divided in our thoughts.

Dept. Of Education
Acquires Privileges
Of Pratt Library

The State Department of Education is pleased to announce that the Enoch Pratt Free Library of Baltimore becomes the State resource center to supply the libraries of the counties on July 1, 1960. A contract between the Board of Trustees of the library and the State Department of Education makes the vast holdings of the Pratt Library available, free of charge, to the people of the counties through public libraries, through State-supported hospitals and correctional institutions, and to individuals who live where there are no public libraries or the public libraries are open less than 20 hours each week.

Adult circulating materials, including books, pamphlets, films, and periodicals, will be available for loan under this agreement. The State resource center is expected to be used for books needed infrequently by county readers, expensive books and those too specialized for general purchase, old and out-of-print titles, circulating periodicals and serials, and educational films.

Materials for reference use only, and not available for loan to the citizens of Baltimore, may not be borrowed, but, where information is available only in non-circulating materials, photographs will be supplied, providing the inquirer pays the cost of the photographs, as do the citizens of Baltimore. When requested to do so, the Pratt Library will make arrangements for borrowing from other libraries books not in its collection, in accordance with accepted A.L.A. Interlibrary Loan Policy, or will provide information to assist requesting libraries to make such arrangements.

The public libraries of the counties are expected to stock books and materials wanted frequently by their readers. The Pratt Library will not, therefore, be the source of recent adult books of the type referred to as "best sellers," recent popular fiction and other materials in current general demand, issues of recent popular periodicals, and children's books (defined as titles for children of the eighth grade and lower). Phonograph records, slides, filmstrips, and Maryland photographs will not be lent.

Your public library will be glad to request materials for adult readers, secondary school libraries, and college libraries. The librarians of State hospitals and institutions will ask for materials for their residents. Individuals should contact the Pratt Library directly, only if they live in a county without county library service or within the service area of a municipal public library which is open less than 20 hours each week or does not give free service to all residents.

Home Air Conditioning for All
Predicted in Decade Ahead

The 1960's promise to be the decade when home air conditioning will become standard equipment in nearly every climate zone in the country.

This is a prediction agreed upon by home-minded leaders in government, industry, science, and medicine, as well as by builders and home owners who now enjoy air-conditioned houses.

What has caused these men to believe that before the end of the '60's nearly every American family will come to accept central air conditioning as they now do bathrooms and electricity?

Here are a few facts:

1. The Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute estimates that more than 200,000 homes were air conditioned in 1959. This is more than double the home installations in 1954.
2. Surveys by House & Garden magazine show that air-conditioning equipment prices are about two-thirds lower than they were in 1947.
3. The costs of equipment are lowered even more by engineering advances in the installation of insulation. Exhaustive studies have shown, for example, that mineral wool installed in proper quantities actually can reduce the size—and consequently the cost—of equipment by as much as 50 per cent.
4. Operating costs have been engineered downward so that average income families can afford them easily. This is because properly installed mineral wool reduces heat gain so markedly that smaller equipment requiring less electricity can do an efficient cooling job.
5. Homes are better built today, and can be sited and designed to shrug off much of a summer day's heat. For example, wide overhangs shade walls and windows, while a roof of white or light-color asphalt shingles reflects much of the sun's heat.
6. The federal government has recognized the advantages of air conditioning.
7. Home owners themselves, and families planning to build or buy houses soon will demand air conditioning, not for comfort alone but for better mental and physical health and general home cleanliness.

Farm Bureau Favors Same Agriculture Bill

Farm Bureau, original sponsor of Public Law 480 (the Agricultural Trade Development Act), has recommended to Congress that the Act not be further amended.

A Farm Bureau spokesman told a House Agriculture Committee hearing that, "in light of the difficulties involved the Department of Agriculture has done a good job in administering P. L. 480."

"There is no doubt that under P. L. 480 vast quantities of surplus agricultural commodities have been exported—in fact, about $9 billion worth up to the present time," states Noah E. Kefauver, Jr., president of Maryland Farm Bureau.

"Naturally we are disturbed over the fact that in spite of this tremendous movement of agricultural commodities, we still have a surplus in the hands of Commodity Credit Corporation of about $9.5 billion compared with $6 billion at the inception of this program," Mr. Kefauver continues, "but it is Farm Bureau's contention that this situation exists because Congress has not taken effective action to revise domestic farm price support programs."

Babson Discusses How Different Stocks May Act In Case We Are In A Bear Market

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 23—I have been thinking of this subject for sometime, and have about concluded that seeing what happened in the last bear market may be the best way of answering this question. It will be noted that I have arranged the industry groups according to their percentage of decline.

Stocks Which Declined Only 10 to 20 Per Cent

Among the industry groups that suffered the least are the shipbuilding and tire and rubber-goods stocks, which declined about 15%. Home electric appliance stocks fell 17%, department - store stocks went off 19%. This listing is likely to change, however, and stock groups which may suffer the least in the next bear market may be those relating to the supplying of electric power, the oil and gas producers, and bituminous coal mining. Fertilizers should have increased use, with the need to feed a growing population; this should enable this industry to come under the category of relatively small declines. Stocks of companies owning large tracts of timber lands which supply the basic raw materials for certain synthetic fibers and plastics may also be able to hold their own, especially because of their inflation-hedge characteristics.

Stocks Down 20 To 30%
The industry groups which showed up next best included the following: soft drinks and canned foods, which declined 20%; shoes, down 23%; chemicals, publishing and motion picture, down only 25%; building materials stocks, down 26%; farm machinery off 27%; aircraft manufacturing down 28%; and industrial machinery stocks down 29%. Aircraft manufacturing, however, may fall off more.

Stocks Which Declined 30% To 40%

Stocks in the auto, sugar refining, brewing, mail order, general chain store merchandising and cement groups declined around 30%. Paper stocks fell 32%. Stocks in the textile and apparel and steel industries declined 30%. Radio broadcasting group declined 37%. Meat packing stocks declined 39%. Because of their timberland and ore holdings, certain of the paper, steel, coal and gas stocks may do better in the next bear market. Unless there is massive unemployment, the merchandising and apparel groups also may suffer to a lesser degree than in the last bear market.

Stocks Which Declined More Than 40%

The groups which suffered the most included the radio and television manufacturers, and mining and smelting—which were off 41%. Truck manufacture stocks dropped 42%. Air and rail transportation stocks were off 45%. Copper, lead and zinc stocks fell 49%; also aluminum stocks. The carpet and rug group declined more than 50%. Over the long run, stocks of natural resource companies should ultimately prove valuable to the investor with patience.

What About Electronics Stocks?

During the last bear market the electronics stocks were not popular. There was then no attempt to fire long-range missiles or to circle the moon with rockets. This is something which has developed during the present bull market, which has been in existence for about 10 years. This electronic and space work might change the positions of many of the groups listed above.

My own opinion is that these electronics and space stocks would be listed with those which showed a decline of over 40%. I, of course, am in favor of a gradual reduction in armaments. On the other hand, if gradual disarmament comes about, I fear that the electronic and space stocks could severely suffer. In fact, a good many of the other stock groups mentioned above would do well to hold their record of the last bear market.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

GOD CAN MAKE IT POSSIBLE!

If we let God have His way in our hearts and lives, He will surely see us through all our trials.

A minister friend of mine relates how his trust in God enabled him to attend Bible school and later to enter the ministry over vehement objections of his father.

"When I accepted Christ as my Saviour and felt that I should enter the ministry," he says, "Dad was very indignant, abusive and angry. He simply could not understand what had happened in my heart. He had planned a career for me and had been sending me to the university. The cost was appreciable and it became a real burden on him."

"When I told him I must leave the university and enter Bible school, he eyed me coldly and said, 'What are the prospects, financially?'"

"I told him prospects for money were nil, but this was not my interest. Rather, I wanted to be paid off in souls won to God."

"Father felt that I had let him down. He ordered me out of the house and told me never to set foot in his door again. It was a heart-breaking experience, but I could not put my parents above God, so I left."

My friend tells how he worked the night shift at a manufacturing plant to earn enough money to meet his meager needs. Soon, he had saved enough to enter Bible school.

The story has a happy ending. The struggling young ministerial student graduated, was appointed to a church, and became a successful minister.

"Before Dad died," my friend says, "he came to me and asked my forgiveness. You see, I had obeyed him . . . I had never entered his home again, which was his command."

"He was gloriously saved in my own church and made full amends. Dad finally realized that a man must do as God commands him. And if he does so, God will take care of him."

"I am glad I obeyed God, and my father was glad, too," he says.

Yes, God will take care of us, for He is our ever-present help in time of trouble.

Are you facing a decision that may affect your life and the lives of others? Ask God for guidance in making the decision.

SPEAKING OF CARDS

DO AS I DO

Card tricks, especially those simple to execute, never fail to entertain an audience. Here's one involving two decks of cards that always brings surprise at its outcome.

Start by asking someone in your audience to pick up one of two decks of cards and you take the other. The exact sequence of moves from here on is important and must be followed closely. Simply tell the other person to "do as I do."

First, put the deck down on the table. Second, cut the deck around the middle, putting the top half beside the bottom but in such a way that you will not become confused as to which half is which.

Next, take the top card of the bottom half of the deck, look at it, but don't show it to your helper and put it face down on the table. Now close the deck by putting the top half of the deck back on the top.

Your next move is to put the selected card on top of the complete deck. Then cut the deck several times, closing the cut each time. These are all honest cuts that reverse the two parts of the deck each time.

Square the deck up so as to make it obvious that you haven't kept track of where your selected card is. Now change your deck with your helper.

Then tell your helper you want him to find the same card he selected in your deck which you have just given him. Tell him not to take it all the way out—just continue to "do as you do."

While he runs through the deck in his hands, you run through the other deck. Having located the card you want, pull it halfway out of the deck and then turn the deck face down. When your helper has similarly got his card projecting halfway out of the end of his deck, pull your card slowly out of your deck and face it on the table. The helper does the same.

The two cards thus faced on the table are identical. Here's how it's done. Be sure to remember the bottom card of each deck when you give your helper his choice of the two decks at the start. If you will go over the moves in order, you will see what happens is that your helper selects a card and cuts the deck so that it comes next below the card originally at the bottom of his deck.

Suppose the deck he chose had the four of hearts at the bottom. The moves you get him to make will bring his chosen card just under the heart four and all the subsequent cuts do not separate them.

After the exchange of decks, you simply run through his deck and select the card just under the heart four. He meanwhile locates the same card—his original selection—in your deck. Naturally, the two cards exposed are the same.

Potatoes have gone hand in hand with America's development... their nutritional value and resistance to spoilage made potatoes one of the frontiersmen's most important foods.

Today they have gone modern in a variety of forms and uses. They are the most widely used vegetable in the United States and in the world. A rich source of Vitamin C, they are an important energy-giving food.

Most reducing diets include baked or boiled potatoes because of their important vitamins, minerals, and starch... so necessary for people who are losing weight.

Yardstick On Congress

Very, very few American citizens will accept Socialism as a way of life for America—IF it is properly identified as Socialism when offered. But there is grave danger in the bit by bit growth of Socialism under some other label. Many people in Europe and Scandinavia nations, that the Socialism which now largely dominates their countries was identified not as Socialism but as government aid programs, welfare state measures, and so forth.

Because of this insidious growth of Socialism many European nations now are so deeply enmeshed in it they may never throw it off. And Socialism gets worse, not better, as it evolves toward the totalitarianism—big powerful central government—will gradually take over under the guise of social welfare or some other label. Significant Study

Human Events, the weekly news letter from Washington, has just published a significant study on the voting records of Senators and Congressmen. It was prepared by the staff of Americans for Constitutional Action, a non-partisan, constitutional-conservative organization. It is called "The ACA Index." It analyzes all the votes of every Senator in the 84th, 85th and the first session of the 86th Congress; and the votes of every Representative from 1957 through the first session of the 86th Congress.

The analysis is not based on whether the vote was for or against "Agriculture" or "Labor" or "Big Business" or "Federal Aid" or any other category of legislation. The basis of measurement is: How did the vote effect the fundamental principles of traditional American government; what did it do to liberty for all Americans. Naturally some groups in our American society will not like the analysis; for in many cases minority groups have benefited by legislation while at the same time the whole citizenry of the nation has suffered bit by bit injury to its freedom through passage of such legislation.

The $64 Question

In a sense, the ACA Index shows how each member of Congress has voted on the question of whether to adopt more Socialism or continue to have the kind of American political and economic system which has been the envy of the world for more than a century. The measurement of Senators and Congressmen thus given will astonish many citizens. They will find that most of our elected representatives in Congress are wittingly or unwittingly voting to dilute the fundamental American principles and replace them with the doctrines and functions of Socialism.

For instance, in the House of Representatives, only 13 Congressmen scored a perfect 100 per cent. Not a single Senator did, though six scored above 90 per cent. On the other hand, 20 members of the House of Representatives and three members of the Senate failed to cast a single key vote (according to the ACA yardstick) which upheld traditional American constitutional principles.

No Disloyalty Charged

This is not to say, of course, that these Representatives are disloyal; nor does the ACA suggest that they are for the establishment of Socialism in America. What it does say is that on the key votes their action did undermine constitutional principles and carry

Will Emphasize Mathematics In County Schools

The importance of updating the mathematics program to meet the challenge the space age has been recognized by the teachers and administrators in Frederick County for some time. The first step toward improving the curriculum in the elementary school was taken during the month of May.

Mrs. Mildred Sowers, state supervisor of elementary education, provided the services of Dr. Francis J. Mueller, author of "Arithmetic, Its Structure and Concepts," as a consultant. At this meeting, which was attended by staff members, principals and teachers, plans were made for carrying on an intensive study program during the 1960-61 school year under the direction of Dr. Mueller.

Emphasis will be placed on developing an understanding of the basic concepts which underlie arithmetic, desirable changes to extend and enrich the program by getting more content into the primary level, suitable methods of teaching through which the pupil may understand what he is doing as well as how to do it, and the development of the pupil's capacity to react intelligently and confidently to unfamiliar problem-solving situations.

Some of the junior and senior high school mathematics teachers will be invited to participate in this study program for the purpose of seeing what can be done in the elementary arithmetic program that will carry over into the junior high school program and to study the requirements that junior high school general mathematics and algebra impose on the elementary arithmetic curriculum. Wood Window Seal Insures Top Quality Prospective home buyers or families planning to build or remodel should look for the Seal of Approval of the American Wood Window Institute on all wood windows.

This certifies that the window meets the rigid requirements of the U.S. Bureau of Commerce in its commercial standards. The Federal Housing Administration requires that all wood windows in homes with FHA-insured mortgages meet these commercial standards.

INVESTING IN LEISURE TIME STOCKS

The key to success in purchasing stocks in today's market is growth and we are selecting a group which we feel will be a prime beneficiary of expansion in sales and earnings over the coming years.

The spread of automation in industry plus pressure from labor unions should result inevitably in a shorter work week. This increase in time for leisure pursuits coupled with higher personal income per capita has made available to many such luxuries as yachting, golfing, traveling, etc., formerly enjoyed only by a few. This trend towards a shorter work week is a continuing one and with a greater number of people seeking such activities we are preparing this study and discussing herein a few selected companies that are expected to be prime beneficiaries.

A few sound companies are particularly representative of this field with many more available for the more speculative-minded investor.

Bowling, golfing and yachting are three of the favorite sports of the public and in the field of recreation we favor one stock, particularly, which is Brunswick Corp. This company is No. 1 in the bowling equipment field and has recently expanded into boating through the acquisition of Owens Yacht Co.

A. G. Spalding, a more speculative recommendation, is a manufacturer of athletic goods, while Outboard Marine is the largest manufacturer of outboard motors.

Another important activity for those with greater leisure time is travel. For a participation in increased travel, American Express appears to be the best stock. As one of the leading travel agencies it does a very important business in its widely-used travelers' checks.

With increased travel there is a much greater demand for cameras than in the past. Eastman Kodak may well be regarded as the No. 1 company in the camera field, but Bell & Howell and Polaroid would also benefit from this trend.

Sportswear comes into increasing use and in this area we recommend two stocks—Kaysen-Roth and McGregor-Doniger.

Finally, movies, TV sets, radios and sound equipment all play an important part in the leisure time program. Although movie stocks are not market favorites, Paramount, Twentieth-Century Fox and United Artists all offer good values. American Broadcasting-Paramount through its theatres and TV network and Columbia Broadcasting Co. through its TV network and its records both merit consideration. In the field of radio, TV and stereo sound equipment, especially hi-fi and stereo, we favor Magnavox and Motorola.

THERE'S ARSON, fourteen murders and a shootin' round the bend,

(The Radio Kiddies Hour)

ACTRESS ANNE FRANCIS had double trouble with her role in "Twilight Zone." In a segment titled "After Hours," Anne's double was a most life-like mannequin made in Anne's exact image.

When the MGM makeup expert had touched up Anne's plaster alter ego, he brought it on the set in complete deshabille to show to the actress. The likeness was so startling that several workmen commented, "Which one is Anne?"

"I'm the one with clothes on," said Miss Francis, "and before I'm more embarrassed, will someone please throw a towel around that dummy."

ALFRED HITCHCOCK contends that he is his own toughest competition in this turbulent turmoil of television. He has become so fabled as a master of suspense with a switch-ending gimmick that numerous imitators have sprung up. This puts him constantly in danger of unconsciously including something in one of his "Hitchcock Presents" episodes that he has done before and which has been copied several times by others in the meantime.

"I find myself fighting myself," said the portly "profile." "Many of the so-called 'touches' I used to inject have become cliché with over use, and part of my job is to avoid those clichés. So I have to strive to find new ways of doing the same things or it might look as though I am imitating someone else imitating me."

YOU'D NEVER GUESS that flamboyant Don McGuire, 41, producer and co-owner of the "Hennessey" TV show, was one of the most retiring men in Hollywood. He is a former newspaperman whose talents and powerful personality made him successful in a number of fields. He's been a first class news photographer, reporter, press agent, actors' agent, screen writer, producer and TV director. Retiring? He has retired twice, once at the age of 20 when he wanted to enjoy a "few grand I had tucked away," and again in 1956 when he retired from show business to travel in Europe.

"Whenever the pressure gets too great, I tell myself, 'What the heck, I can always retire again,'" says "Congo Bill." This was the swashbuckling title role he carried in a series of movies.

A QUICK CHECK of the mailbag over at Screen Gems discloses that the Goodyear Theater episode, "Author at Work," starring Ernie Kovacs, has pulled in more mail than any show in a long time. There was no middle ground among the fan letters, they loved it or they hated it. Most of them looked upon it as a fantasy in which Kovacs, as a mystery story writer, had slain 22 victims and written each experience as a novel. Those on the horrified side of the fence objected to a confessed murderer going unpunished. No one seemed upset about the final killing by Kovacs of a blackmailer who had fared out his previously unsuspected murders. This one gave the novelist his first actual motive and a plot for novel number 23.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

One thing that can be said about Earl Kintner, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission is that he is not a man to be diverted by major issues when there are minor issues to be concerned about.

Mr. Kintner is the one who made wide-spread headlines for himself on his intrepid and daring foray on disc jockeys. Of course, he was neglecting the ruinous of independent business by failing to stop predatory business tactics, which is also supposed to be his job, and which several Congressmen, including Sen. Hubert Humphrey have reminded him.

But now the FTC, which always claims it doesn't have enough money to stop predatory action in the market place have a new angle.

Somehow, according to the FTC's chief nit picker, money has been found to implement the staff by twelve more people, of which ten are lawyers.

These twelve men, presumably all good, tried and true, will perhaps be known as the Library Commandos.

Because their job will be to continuously read the nation's newspapers and magazines to make checks of the advertising being run in these periodicals.

Now from the banks of the Potomac to the mile-high city of Denver is some 2,000 miles as the crow flies. Out there, there is a real issue at stake.

Some months ago one of the big Chicago headquartered food chains bought out a large locally owned grocery chain. Today in Denver, it is estimated over 60% of the food retail business in Denver is tied up by chains.

But regional packers who have long held a place in the Denver market with good consumer acceptance, are fighting for their very lives.

The Chicago headquartered chain has been pushing out local brands to put in their own and controlled brands.

Thus Denver, a major market, and the leading one in the Rocky Mountain area, is rapidly sinking from sight as a place where independently produced foods can be sold.

There seems to be substantial evidence that in Denver anti-trust laws have been violated more or less openly. Yet apparently, the FTC hasn't heard anything about all this.

Thus, as Goering burned the Reichstag to keep people from knowing what was going on, it is perhaps just as clever a strategy to burn disc jockeys to keep obscure that the job to be done is not being done.

And it is doubtful that the 12 new FTC employees, including ten lawyers, comfortably ensconced in an FTC reading room, reading newspapers and magazines all day long, will ever become aware in Denver, the battle for freedom in the market place is all but lost.

Labor Responsible For Constantly Rising Hospitalization, Group Maintains

Increased payroll costs have been named the major cause of the state's fast-rising hospital costs and charges by John Baldwin Rich, president of the Hospital Council of Maryland.

In a recent analysis of 33 general hospitals throughout the state Mr. Rich said the Council had determined that 72% of the rise in operational costs during the period 1958-59 was due directly to payroll increases.

"And these payroll costs are bound to rise sharply during 1960," Mr. Rich said, pointing out that only a handful of hospitals now pay the Federal minimum wage of $1 per hour, while most hope to reach this figure as soon as possible.

In 1950 the total operational costs of the reporting 33 hospitals increased $6,018,541 over the 1958 period, the analysis showed. Of this sum, $4,354,035, or 72%, went to payroll hikes.

Total 1959 expenses of the 33 hospitals amounted to $68,460,507, of which $43,435,609 or 63.4%, was paid out in wages and salaries. This compares with a typical payroll cost in Maryland commerce and industry of 30%, according to Mr. Rich.

Cost per patient day in the same period rose from $28.49 to $30.57, the analysis showed, and approximately $1.50 of the $2.08 increase went into payroll.

As a result some 10 Maryland hospitals have been forced to raise rates since January 1 and others are contemplating increases during the remainder of the year, Mr. Rich said. Growing automation gives American industry increased man-hour productivity, he pointed out, but "hospital care by its nature must remain always a direct service to people by people."

"However," Mr. Rich added, "when 63 cents of every operating dollar goes into payroll, the prime duty of hospitals is to effect all possible economy in personnel practices. To this end the Hospital Council's first priority is the more effective and efficient use of employees by its 38 member institutions."

Garden Club Plans Flower Show

Members of the Board of District V of the Federated Garden Club of Maryland met with the presidents and delegates of the 19 clubs now in the District recently, at the Woman's Club in Hagerstown. Mrs. L. T. Thomas, district director, presided at the meeting.

Reports were heard from the various chairmen and of special interest to all was the report of the flower show chairman, Mrs. M. K. Talley of Westminster and her co-chairman, Mrs. L. K. Billingslea.

The Fifth District flower show will be held on Sept. 29 and 30 at the Westminster Armory. The show will be open to the public. The theme is "The Joys We Share," taken from an original poem.

The horticultural division is called "From Our Gardens," and includes specimens of every fall blooming plant, such as Marigolds, zinnias, roses, chrysanthemums, celosia, asters and others. Members are urged to consult the June issue of Garden News for the complete schedule of this show. They also are urged to protect, spray, dust and disbud their favorite flowers so that the horticultural display at the show will be as lovely as the artistic division promises to be. The District V silver bowl will be awarded to the club winning the greatest number of points in both the horticultural and artistic classes which should provide stimulating competition and a delightful show for the public to see.

The Junior Garden Clubs will participate as well with horticultural, artistic and educational exhibits as well.

Minimum Milk Price Announced

The minimum price that producers will be paid for their deliveries of base milk during the month of May 1960 is $4.67 per cwt. of 3.5% milk, according to an announcement made today by E. Hickman Greene, Market Administrator for the Upper Chesapeake Bay Marketing Area.

For their deliveries of excess milk during the month of May producers will be paid at least $2.85 per cwt. for milk of 3.5% butterfat content. These prices will be adjusted by a butterfat differential of $.07 per each 1/10 of one per cent variation from 3.5% butterfat content, and are subject to deduction for marketing services performed by the Market Administrator.

The blend, or weighed average of base and excess prices, announced for the month of May is $4.34 per cwt. The blend price is announced for informational purposes only and is not used on a basis for settlement with producers.

Deliveries of producer milk increased 8.5% on a daily average during May as compared to April. Class I use of producer milk decreased nearly 5% on a daily average for the same periods. 65.77% of producer milk was classified as Class I.

Mrs. Vivian Ackerman had looked into her mirror hundreds of times since she was a little girl, but this was the first time she had seen the image of "Mrs. United States Savings Bonds of 1961." The Tucson, Arizona, housewife won the coveted title over 52 competitors in the "Mrs. America" finals at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., last week. As the Treasury's leading women's volunteer during the next 12 months, she will spend part of her time touring the country in the promotion of Savings Bonds and Savings Stamps. "The Greatest Show On Earth"

Soon the banners will be waving and men will be cheering. Loud music will fill the summer air. Americans everywhere will be watching "The Greatest Show on Earth." Throughout the years this title has been associated with the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus, but the show of which I speak is the greatest show in politics, the national political conventions, soon to be held by both parties to nominate candidates for President and Vice President of the United States.

At the present time half a dozen "hopefuls" are busy working for this office in our government. The national conventions will narrow the voters' choice to two... the Republican and the Democratic nominees. The Democrats will hold their convention in Los Angeles, California starting July 11. Beginning on July 25, the Republicans will meet in Chicago, Illinois to pick their candidate.

These conventions will be alike in many ways. The convention hall will ring with shouts, speeches, and campaign songs. Packed into the convention hall along with dozens of reporters and hundreds of cheering spectators, will be more than a thousand delegates. Each state's delegates will sit together, wildly waving their own state banners and campaign posters at exciting moments. Once the convention is called to order, the greatest show in politics will begin to dispel its thrills and excitement as the world watches with eager eyes.

How did this all come about? Our Constitution doesn't mention political parties or national political conventions. In fact, it doesn't say anything about nominations for President. The makers of the Constitution thought that nominations wouldn't be necessary. Their plan was for each state to choose its outstanding citizen as "electors," who would choose a President (see Article II, Section 2, and the 12th Amendment). In the first election, back in 1789, just about everybody wanted George Washington as their first President, so the electors had no troubles in agreeing on him. Soon after this, political parties were formed. Each wanted to have one of its own members elected as President. Then the question arose, how could all the members of the party agree on one man as the party's candidate?

Early in our history, Congressmen from each party met to pick the party's candidate. These meetings were called "congressional caucuses." This system lasted until 1824... when the caucus of the leading party chose a very unpopular candidate. Most of the members of his own party voted against him. As a result a new way of making nominations arose.

This new system grew out of the method used in some states for making nominations for state offices. Party members in each part of the state elected delegates to represent them at a state convention.

The next step was for party members in each state to elect delegates to meet with delegates from other states. Thus the national convention was born. The first ones were held to nominate candidates for a President in the election of 1832. Since 1840 the convention has been the regular way to make the Presidential nominations.

Yes, politics is the "greatest show on earth," and now let us look at the people who make up this great show.

Each state has a fixed number of delegates, based chiefly on the number of Congressmen from that state. In addition, states that voted for the party's candidate in the previous election get a bonus of several extra delegates. Delegates to the convention come from all the 50 states and from Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, the Canal Zone, and the District of Columbia.

To be nominated for President, a man must receive a majority of the votes at his party's convention. This means at least 761 of the 1,521 votes in the Democratic convention, 666 of the 1,331 votes in the Republican convention.

Most of the delegates are chosen by the party's state conventions or state committees. In some states the Presidential primaries name the delegates.

Once the delegates are chosen, the show is then ready to open. When the conventions meet in July, the chairman of the party's national committee calls the meeting to order. Paul Butler is the Democrats' chairman and Meade Alcorn is the Republicans' chairman. Then, after the meeting has been called to order by the chairman the "keynote speaker" gives a fiery speech to get everybody pepped up to work hard for the party.

The days that follow are filled with speeches. Behind the scenes, important work is being done by committees. One committee sets up rules for running the convention. Another committee chooses the convention officers. A third decides who can vote. A fourth committee writes the party's "platform." This committee tells what the party plans to do if it wins. The "platform" is read to the convention, which votes to accept it... sometimes with a few changes.

By the third or fourth day, sometimes even longer, the convention gets to its main job... choosing the party's candidate for President. A secretary then calls the roll of states in alphabetical order, starting with the state of Alabama. Each state has a chance to propose somebody. Some states nominate a "favorite son"... that is, a man from that state who doesn't have a real chance of winning.

Each candidate is then nominated in a dramatic speech. Then shorter speeches follow which "second the nomination." Speeches for each candidate are usually interrupted, or ended, by a "demonstration."

It is during this demonstration that the delegates wave flags, shout, and parade around the convention hall, sometimes for more than an hour. When one is watching the convention activities on TV these demonstrations appear to start on the spur of the minute, but they are usually carefully planned, well in advance... like a football cheering section.

When all the names have been presented before the convention, the roll is called again. This time each state in turn announces its vote. If one candidate receives a majority of the votes, he then becomes the party's nominee for the President of the United States.

If, on the first vote, a candidate does not receive a majority of votes, the roll is called again, and then again until somebody does get a majority.

In most cases there are only a few roll calls before a majority vote is received. However, in my research work for this article, I found that in 1924, at the Democratic convention the roll was called 103 times before a nominee was chosen.

This same process is repeated to choose the nominee for Vice President. This however, doesn't take near as much time for the nominee for President often suggests his choice for a Vice President, and the convention quickly accepts it.

It is indeed interesting to note the changes that take place over the years. Years ago, party nominees usually were not present at the convention. A committee was sent to tell them officially that they were chosen. In 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt hopped into a plane in New York as soon as he had been nominated for President by the Democratic party, and went to the convention in Chicago, where he made a speech accepting the nomination. This is the custom today. The Presidential nominee comes before the convention, and here again, there are cheers and flag waving and sometimes demonstrations to show appreciation for the candidate they have chosen.

After the noise of the conventions have died away, both parties then begin a three months campaign. It is usually during this time that thousands of party workers conduct meetings, shake hands, make speeches, give out campaign buttons, and ring door bells to talk to the voters. The Presidential candidates then trav-

Dessert With A Tropical Flair

Imagination is the hidden ingredient that makes this charming tropical dessert so distinctive. Shredded fresh (or canned) pineapple, folded into a chocolate-rich mousse makes a delightfully unexpected flavor combination. Serve it in pineapple halves for a dramatic touch that will call forth the admiring comments of guests.

Pineapple Chocolate Mousse

3 squares unsweetened chocolate
1/3 cup water
3/4 cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups cream, whipped
1/4 cup sugar
1-1/3 cups finely shredded fresh pineapple or canned crushed pineapple, drained
Combine chocolate and water in saucepan. Bring to a boil over low heat, stirring vigorously until blended. Add 3/4 cup sugar and the salt and simmer 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour slowly over egg yolks, stirring well. Cool. Add vanilla and fold in whipped cream.
Add 1/4 cup sugar to pineapple and let stand 20 minutes. Fold into chocolate mousse mixture. Spoon into freezing tray of refrigerator, set control for coldest freezing temperature, and freeze 3 to 4 hours. Garnish with bits of pineapple. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

ODDLY ENOUGH by WALDMAN

Finnish baths originated—not in Finland—but in an ancient European country called Scythia. Around 500 B.C. Scythians crawled inside fleece tents, threw hempseed over red-hot stones and took the first steam baths.

Roman women—shunning the communal public baths—bathed privately in concoctions such as "twenty pounds of crushed strawberries and two pounds of crushed raspberries" but no soap!

In the days of knight-hood, soap was a special honor bestowed on a young warrior. He was bathed thoroughly in cold water while a knight lectured him on the rules and tradition of the Order.

Deodorant soap now does the complete job—the cleansing of steam and beauty treatment of strawberries. Not only does it get and keep you clean, but, as Dial research laboratories point out, it affords under-make-up protection against skin bacteria.

el around the country and meet with the voters and outline their "platform" they will follow if elected to the office.

Not only during the conventions, but all through the campaign period, our newspapers, radio and TV are full of politics to the extent that the average housewife is about to go insane for she is forced to give up her daily programs. Soon my household will echo, as will millions more, with the words from the "lady of the house," "I'll be so darn glad when the election is over and things get back to normal."

Yes, things will get back to normal in due time, for it all ends when the voters make their decision... on November 8th... Election Day.

And now, if you will permit me, I'd like to leave you with this bit of advice. No matter which party you belong to or which candidate you choose to support, exercise your right as an American citizen. Vote for the candidate of your choice, but above all... VOTE.

If you can't think of any other way to flatter a man, tell him he's the kind that can't be flattered.

Emmitsburg Priest Devises Catechism Instruction System

An Emmitsburg Catholic priest, Rev. Fr. Philip E. Dion, has revolutionized the approach to catechism study by developing a less difficult and more dramatic means of studying the subject it was disclosed this week. Father Dion spent 10 years developing the system which has won high praise from many of the church's hierarchy.

Comments from Catholic prelates range from absolutely sensational to it already has revolutionized the whole approach to the subject.

"It's absolutely sensational," says the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John P. Wodarski, of Hartford, Conn. "It's a dream come true."

It provides means for the staid old question-and-answer method of instilling church concepts to be enlivened with pointed vignettes and modern - life situations in sound and color films, geared to a child's ordinary associations.

The new series is called the St. John's catechism.

Its completion, involving the work of 24 church scholars and specialists and costing $300,000 over the last decade, came in the 75th anniversary year of the familiar Baltimore catechism.

The Baltimore catechism, first published in 1885, is the standard question-and-answer text on doctrine used in Catholic schools throughout the country.

Its content, setting forth church teachings about God, the creation, the Redemption, the Sacraments and the Commandments, is covered in the new catechism—but in the form of stories, illustrations and analogies.

"It's not a series of Bible stories, but genuine philosophy and theology for children," says the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles M. Walsh, of New York. "It translates doctrine clearly and memorably in terms of everyday life."

Portions of the new catechism, including altogether 30 film strips of 10 minutes each along with recorded voices and sound effects, already are in use in 10,000 of the church's 17,000 parishes.

Some adult classes also are using parts of it. So are a number of Protestant churches. Foreign language versions also are being turned out.

"It already has revolutionized the whole approach," says Msgr. Walsh, one of several diocesan doctrinal experts serving as advisors on the project.

Others, besides Msgr. Wodarski, include: The Very Rev. Msgr. Lawrence W. Lynch, of Chicago; the Rev. David J. Coffey, of Providence, R. I., and the Rev. Thomas Savage, of Manchester, N. H.

Scripts for the catechism were written by Father Philip Dion and the Rev. Lawrence A. Loneragan, of St. John's, who also supervised the art work. Vincent Colabella, of Yonkers, N. Y., did the color drawings.

Sponsored by St. John's, the new catechism is not intended to replace the Baltimore catechism, but to supplement it, and add interest and clarity to the more formalized and difficult statements of belief.

CORL-KUYKENDALL

Miss Joyce Ann Kuykendall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kuykendall, Fairfield R1, became the bride of Claude H. Corl Jr., son of Rev. Claude H. Corl, Sr., Sabillasville, and the late Mrs. Corl, Saturday at 2 p. m. in St. Stephen's United Church of Christ, Highfield. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza, fashioned with a sabrina neckline, fitted bodice and brief sleeves with matching mitts. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a dark centered white orchid on a white Bible with attached streamers of staphanotis. The church was decorated with candelabra, shrimp gladioli and white pompons. The soloists were Raymond Gilland and Eugene Cline. The organist, Mrs. Mary Higbee, is the bridegroom's grandmother.

The maid of honor, Miss Mildred West, Fairfield R1, a classmate of the bride, wore a ballerina-length gown of turquoise blue lace over silk organza, fashioned with a sabrina neckline, short sleeves and a cummerbund with large bows and a bouffant skirt. The bridesmaids, Miss Mary Corl, Sabillasville, sister of the bridegroom, and Elizabeth Dick, Greenstone, classmate of the bride, were attired in gowns of ballerina-length with shrimp lace over silk organza, fashioned with a sabrina neckline, short sleeves and a cummerbund with a large bow in the back and a bouffant skirt.

The best man was Lewis Corl, brother of the bridegroom. Norman Kuykendall and Ray E. Kuykendall, both brothers of the bride, were the ushers.

The reception was held at the Wesley Chapel social hall, Fountaindale, with approximately 250 guests.

For their wedding trip to the New England states and Canada, the bride wore a mint green dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage. Upon return the couple will reside at a furnished apartment on Fairfield R1.

The bride is a 1959 graduate of Fairfield High School and is employed at the Emmitsburg Manufacturing Company, Emmitsburg. The bridegroom is a graduate of Towson State Teachers College and had two years of military service. He is a teacher at Emmitsburg High School.

Dr. Sensenbaugh Asks Salary Increase For Teachers

Dr. James A. Sensenbaugh, Superintendent of Schools, made another personal appeal to the Board of County Commissioners this week for reconsideration of a desired raise for teachers.

Dr. Sensenbaugh also asked the Commissioners to be considering a raise for the coming calendar year.

He reiterated his stand for the necessity of an immediate pay raise for teachers—a $200 raise for accredited teachers to be effective this September through December. The immediate raise he said would cost the county about $28,000.

Dr. Sensenbaugh then told the Commissioners they should plan to include $120,000 in the 1961 budget to allow for a continuance of the proposed raise.

Armed with facts and figures concerning the teacher pay situation Dr. Sensenbaugh showed that Frederick County now ranks low in the salary scale list of the counties of the state.

He said the board is faced with a problem of hiring teachers and to date has little incentive to offer them, especially new college graduates.

Dr. Sensenbaugh said he is only asking for the money for accredited teachers. He said he felt this differential in a salary scale—if granted—places the county in a better bargaining condition.

The Commissioners on previous occasions have turned down the requested pay increase for teachers, pointing out that the county does not have the funds in the current budget to permit such an added expenditure.

The Commissioners have said that they will give utmost consideration to the proposed pay scale in the 1961 budget.

Camp David Fire Destroys Workshop

A fire last Thursday gutted the electrical shop at Camp David, Catocin Mountain Presidential retreat, and did an undetermined amount of damage.

Tight security at the Camp prevented any detailed information concerning the fire.

However, it was learned from Charles E. Shank, manager of the Catocin Mountain Park, that most of the equipment used for maintenance of electrical service at the retreat was destroyed in the blaze.

The fire started about 10:45 and was not under control until about 12:45.

Shank said the fire equipment was used from the Park Service, from Camp David and from the Guardian Hose Company of Thurmont.

The electrical shop is located in about the center part of the Presidential Retreat, Shank said. He said as far as he knew there was no fire threat to other buildings. He also reported that the recent rains eliminated a fire threat in the woods of the heavily forested area.

Shank described the shop as a medium sized, concrete block structure.

A member of the Guardian Hose Company said after returning from the fire that firemen were given orders by government officials not to discuss the blaze.

Since the building was in a heavily wooded area, the blaze was hardly visible to residents of the area.

Shank said the cause of the blaze is also undetermined.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Are You Welcome?

When Mrs. Brown left the hospital after visiting hours, she was pleased with herself. She felt she'd done a good job of cheering up poor Dorothy. But back in her hospital room, poor Dorothy was having hysterics.

Mrs. Brown meant well but she broke most of the rules for making a hospital visit a welcome one. Here they are:

Call the hospital to find out if the patient wants visitors that day. A hospital patient who is feeling particularly tired or ill or who has been given a sedative may not want to see anyone.

Don't say, insincerely, "How well you look." But also don't say with obvious shock, "Good heavens, you poor thing, you look awful."

Don't complain about the tough time you had getting to the hospital or how long you had to wait downstairs because you arrived too early.

Don't make the patient dissatisfied with the way the hospital is run or with the treatment given. This is especially important in long-term illness such as tuberculosis, when the patient may be anxious to leave the hospital anyway, though against medical advice.

Don't talk about your own ill health or hospital experience.

Don't press for details if the patient seems unwilling to talk about the illness.

Don't tout a pet home remedy that's "every bit as good as a hospital—such expense!"

Enter a hospital room quietly, keep your voice low, don't lean or sit on the bed, and don't stay more than fifteen minutes unless the patient insists. This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by your Tuberculosis Association.

Poor work, completed, is usually better than a brilliant performance postponed.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read II Corinthians 6:14-18.

Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, (II Corinthians 6:17, 18).

John Bunyan tells us in The Pilgrim's Progress that Christian and Faithful, while on their way to the Celestial City, had to pass through Vanity Fair. Because they were different they met opposition, at first amused but later angry. They saw nothing they wished to buy in the city or Vanity Fair. When asked what they would buy, they looked gravely at the questioner and said, "We buy the truth."

The world through which we pass is in some aspects another "Vanity Fair." If we are Christians, we must remain free from the enticements to do evil.

So much of our failure as Christians is due to low aim than to the effect of evil upon us. We resist what is evil, but are inclined at the same time to conform to worldly standards.

Separation from the world means laying aside "weights" as well as avoiding sins.

Prayer

Lord God, we seek Thee because of Thy purity and power. Fill us with lofty desires that we may seek first Thy kingdom and righteousness and so set no store on other things which have no permanent satisfaction for us. We ask this in the Saviour's name. Amen.

Thought For The Day

"Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth."

Michigan Poll

Favors Sen. Kennedy

A poll sponsored by the Detroit News shows that, among Democrats throughout the State of Michigan, Senator John F. Kennedy is the overwhelming choice for the 1960 presidential nomination.

Kennedy received 62.5% of all first preference Democratic votes in the statewide tabulation which was conducted by Market-Opinion Research Co. This was nearly a 4-to-1 margin over the runner-up, former Illinois Governor Adlai E. Stevenson, who received 16.3%.

The poll was conducted by secret ballot. Each person polled was asked to name his favorite presidential candidate in either the Democratic or Republican Party, but not both. In the statewide results 52.3% of the ballots were Democratic and 47.7% were Republican.

The Democratic ballots listed five possible candidates: Senator Kennedy, Governor Stevenson and Senators Hubert Humphrey, Lyndon Johnson and Stuart Symington.
