You may think taxes are sky high at the present time but have you given any thought to the future? Within the next five years, it has been estimated, taxpayers in Frederick County will be paying a cool million dollars more than they are at the present time. These estimates were made by county officials who should know their business so be prepared to pay through the nose, a little more every single year. Taxes never get lower but they always manage to rise a little higher. Now please don't become alarmed over the situation because as the taxes climb, naturally your income also has to. Therefore you businessmen will have to charge a little more for your product or service. As for real estate, well you can readily visualize that it will cost more to build a home and to maintain one already constructed, so therefore some of you will be obliged to pay a little more rent. As I have stated before, every time you ask government officials, on any level, for favors, such as new roads, more teachers, more schools, etc., some one has to pay for these favors, or improvements, and eventually those who asked and received must also bear part of the burden.

You can imagine the perplexity of a local lass who experienced an embarrassing situation in a nearby town the other day. Seems as though the lass was parked in the family car in Thurmont while her Mom kept a dentist's appointment. With time on her hands the lass nonchalantly played with the steering wheel of the vehicle. Suddenly she realized one of her fingers had become stuck somehow in the wheel. In an effort to free herself, and to avoid self embarrassment before her Mom arrived, she struggled desperately to extricate her finger, all to no avail. When Mom arrived she went hastily to work with soap, oil, etc., but that also was in vain. Finally the finger was released when a mechanic was called and the wheel taken completely off, after a large crowd had gathered about the machine to see what was happening. You can imagine how chagrined the party was when she returned to Emmitsburg and found the word had leaked out.

The Cuban situation is a lot more serious than we are led to believe. Fidel Castro, the Cuban dictator, and Communist ally, has seized to date almost one billion dollars worth of American property. Just what the answer to the situation will be remains a matter of conjecture but you can rest assured "heads" are working overtime on the matter and anything could happen at any time.

With the big election in the offing, Emmitsburg residents will be afforded an opportunity to register when a field registration will be held throughout the county in the coming weeks. There are quite a number of unregistered persons who are eligible to vote in this area and an all-out effort is going to be made to get these persons on the books in time for the election. The Board of Election Supervisors for Frederick County announces that a special registration has been scheduled for Emmitsburg on Tuesday, August 16 at the local Fire Hall. This my dear friends, will save you a trip to Frederick, so if you aren't already registered here's an excellent opportunity to get it done.

Yanks Nip Cards In Little League

A homerun by J. Valentine pushed the Yankees into the lead which they never lost as they edged the Cardinals 7-6 Tuesday evening in the Emmitsburg Little League. The loss drops the Cardinals into second place in the tight race which will be decided Monday when the Cardinals face the Giants in the season's final game.

Local Jaycees Announce New Projects

President Donald Eyler presided at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce held Wednesday evening in the Fire Hall.

Patrick Boyle, chairman of the recent barbecue gave a report of the affair and announced that it was both a financial and social success. He also expressed appreciation, on behalf of the Jaycees, to all who helped in any manner and also those who patronized the affair. The affair was voted to be made an annual one and the first Sunday in August was selected as the date for the barbecue next year.

The next activity of the chapter will be the sponsoring of a teen-age hop to be held on Aug. 26 at Emmitsburg High School and Robert L. Koontz was named as chairman of the event. Other activities planned by the group in the near future include a corn and watermelon feed in early Sept.; a pancake and sausage supper in October; a get-out-the-vote campaign; a minstrel show in November and December was set aside as a religious project when emphasis will be stressed on the real meaning of Christmas.

The Jaycees plan a covered dish social for all members and their families on Sept. 11 and that affair will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Simpson, Waynesboro Road. Fried chicken will be served at the social and all members are asked to bring a covered dish of food with them. Robert Simpson was elected to fill out the unexpired term of Secretary Charles E. Baker who has moved from town. The next meeting of the group will be held at the Fire Hall on Sept. 14 at 8:30 p. m.

Have Feature Roles In New Mother Seton Picture

The life of a woman, who will probably become the first native-born American saint canonized by the Catholic Church, will soon be seen on television screens across the United States, thanks to the efforts of an anonymous benefactor, a Pittsburgh nun, and a producer and director associated with Pittsburgh's educational television station, WQED.

The Life of Mother Seton, a 45 minute documentary film depicting the life of the founder of the Sisters of Charity in America is being premiered for an invited audience on August 28 (Mother Seton's birthday) and soon will make its television debut over WQED. National distribution to television outlets will follow the first showings in Pittsburgh.

The idea for the documentary film came from John Ziegler, producer in charge of special projects for WQED. Mr. Ziegler got the idea after seeing an article about Mother Seton in a national magazine.

He discussed the idea with Sister Rosalie, S.C., director of the Pittsburgh Diocesan Radio and Television School. She, in turn, talked with Mother Claudia, Mother-General of the Sisters of Charity of Seton Hill. Mother Claudia agreed to the proposed project; money for the production came from an anonymous donor, a friend of the Seton Hill Sisters of Charity.

Upon receiving the go-ahead, Mr. Ziegler asked Mathias von Brauchitsch, a volunteer member of the WQED staff to assist him in the project. Matt, a native-born German and formed research chemist, wrote the script and acted as producer for the film.

James Blair, a widely experienced free lance photographer, was enlisted to do the filming and the entire production was placed under the technical direction of the WQED staff with Sister Rosalie acting as coordinator.

The actual filming was done at five locations: Old Economy in Ambridge, Pa.; Ligonier, Pa.; Emmitsburg and Baltimore, Md.; and Leghorn, Italy.

Old Economy was used to depict New York street scenes in the late 1700's and early 1800's as well as Paca Street in Baltimore, where the Sisters first wore their habits. The rustic Ligonier site simulates the Sisters' journey by covered wagon from Baltimore to Emmitsburg. The Emmitsburg scenes show the actual locale of milestones in the religious life of Mother Seton. Background footage and the actual grave of William Seton, the husband of the future Mother Seton, were filmed in Leghorn, Italy.

To bring the greatest degree of authenticity possible to the filmed narrative of Mother Seton's life, the archives of Catholic University in Washington, D. C. and Seton Hill College in Greensburg, Pa., were used as research sources in the preparation of the script.

A total of 26 days of shooting and 8,000 feet of exposed film was used in the production. Of this footage only 1,500 feet will actually be used. Music for the motion picture was prepared under the supervision of Louis Huybrecht, music director of Sacred Heart Church in East End, Pittsburgh. Costumes were provided by the drama departments of Seton Hill College and Elizabeth Seton High School.

Members of the cast were drawn from the Catholic Theatre Guild of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, Duquesne University's Red Masquer dramatic group, the Pittsburgh Playhouse and the Diocesan Radio and Television School.

Mary Alice Miklancie, a graduate of Seton Hill College, and presently studying for her Masters Degree in Drama at Catholic University, portrays Mother Seton. John Ziegler is narrator.

This film is available for showing to clubs and organizations by contacting the Radio - Television Department, Diocese of Pittsburgh, 111 Boulevard of the Allies, Pittsburgh 22, Pa.

Mother Seton was born Elizabeth Bayley, the daughter of Episcopal parents, in New York on August 28, 1774. She married William Seton in 1794 and bore him five children. Following her husband's death in 1803 in Italy, she became a convert to Catholicism in 1805 and four years later founded the Sisters of Charity community in the United States at Emmitsburg. She is also credited as the founder of the parochial school system in this country, having opened the first free school in 1810. She died in Emmitsburg on January 4, 1821. On December 18, 1959, Pope John XXIII solemnly proclaimed the heroism of her virtues and declared her Venerable.

Council To Have Open House Inspection Of Sewer Plant

Few Emmitsburgians are cognizant of the investment the town has made in its new sewer system, pumping station and disposal plant. Although highly publicized for over a year, before and after its construction, a very small number of local citizens has taken the opportunity to inspect the installation just east of town.

The modern plant and its surroundings have been well-kept. Blacktop has been laid around the plant and a fine cover of grass is maintained, giving the installation a neat and clean appearance. Odors are kept at a minimum and the efficiency of the plant has been kept at a maximum. The ultra-modern, multi-thousand dollar installation was begun in August of 1958 and completed in July of 1959 at a cost of $300,000. Of this amount state and Federal aid amounted to about $60,000 leaving a bond indebtedness of $240,000 for local taxpayers to pay off over a 25-year period.

The town solons are mighty proud of the efficiency and appearance of the new plant and feel that the taxpayers and general public should be aware of just what was received for the money spent. This pride is a justifiable one, one which the Town Fathers would like to share with those who are paying for the plant. An "open house" is being planned for Sunday, Sept. 11 to afford the general public to view the plant and witness its operation. Officials will be on hand to explain and demonstrate the mechanism and operation of the system and a cordial invitation is extended to all to visit the plant on that day. Other times the disposal plant and pumping station are closed to the public.

Elmer St.C. Maxwell, engineer on the project, says the plant is one of the finest in the state of Maryland and has been designed by the engineering firm of Knecht & Maxwell, of Pikesville, Md., to take care of Emmitsburg's proposed growth for years to come. The system has been mapped out strategically so that expansion can be accommodated in all four directions of the town. The capacity of the filtering plant, with its component parts, will handle sewage for at least 3500, better than twice as many inhabitants as the town has presently. Engineers estimate that the average sewerage in gallons per person, is 100 per day. Should the town double its size, or population, the plant could treat 350,000 gallons on a daily basis.

One of the main component parts of the system is the new pumping plant located where the old disposal plant was situated, on Creamery Road. The station will force sewage a distance of 1800 feet changing then to gravity flow for another 1500 ft. to the main treatment plant which enters into Tom's Creek, near the confluence of Flat Run and Tom's Creek. The engineers on the project said there is 30 miles of water shed feeding into Tom's Creek and about 12 miles feeding Flat Run. The combined total flow of these two streams will be more than ample to dispel any affluent coming from the disposal plant.

Legion Robbery Nets Thieves $1200

Thieves entered the American Legion home here between 12:30 and 6:45 a. m. Monday and removed $1,200 in cash and checks from the Legion Home safe.

The 400-pound safe was dragged to a back room of the Legion home for the robbery, Legion sources said. The safe, which was valued at $600, was apparently beaten open and was completely destroyed in the robbery.

Nothing else in the Legion Home was molested by the thief or thieves, who entered the home by breaking a window in the basement of the building.

It was estimated that only $27.90 of the $1,200 stolen was in checks, the remainder being in cash. This represented the entire week's receipts of the local service club.

Trooper Douglas Rogers of the State Police is investigating the robbery. Legion sources said that there were no suspects as yet in the robbery but State Police were believed to be checking all possible angles. A search was made Monday in the vicinity of Thurmont for possible suspects.

The Legion home is operated by the Francis X. Elder Post 121 of the American Legion. Legion officers said that the amount stolen would not materially affect the operation of the home.

Explaining the more or less complicated system of operation, authorities in charge of the project relate it operates as follows: The pumping station is the first piece of equipment to go into action, picking up the sewage and sending it a distance of 2800 feet to the heart of the system, the disposal plant, where the first piece of equipment there is the clarifier, a huge reinforced concrete tank 30 feet in diameter and 25 feet deep. There two sets of agitators break up the sewage and sending it on to the next step which is another large reinforced concrete tank called the biofilter. This tank is 42 feet in diameter and 25 feet deep. This structure is filled with a special stone and iron rock, imported from Virginia and which is resistant to acids etc. From this operation the third step in the process of breaking up the solids is still another large circular tank called the secondary tank eight feet high and 30 feet in diameter. The sewage by this time is practically reduced to fluid state and is re-pumped and circulated through the three tanks a second time where the solids are relegated to the drying beds (five of them) and the liquids are sent through chlorination at the control house. It is claimed that the fluids leaving the system after chlorination, are 88% pure and cannot possibly harm humans or livestock.

GEORGE W. WIREMAN

Taking a Look at the Candidates
JOHN F. KENNEDY

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of four articles covering the candidates for the office of President and Vice President of the United States on both the Republican and the Democratic ticket.

With the political conventions over the candidates picked and the platforms written, the great game of politics is beginning and there will be no let-up until election day, when the American people will go to the polls and express their desire for the next President of these United States. John Fitzgerald Kennedy, age 43, if elected in November, will be the 35th President of the United States. If Kennedy is elected by the people he will be the youngest man ever chosen by the voters for this office. He also will then be the nation's first President of the Roman Catholic faith.

To win Mr. Kennedy must defeat Vice President Nixon. Here is to be a race between two political strategists who have been tried and tested. Each has his strategy for winning and both are confident. The race should prove to be a most interesting one indeed.

The Democratic nominee, as he points his sights toward November, has founded his planning on a basic strategy that once carried Franklin D. Roosevelt to four victories.

What is this strategy that Kennedy plans to use in his campaign before the American voters? He plans to seek the support of organized labor, of the large and growing blocs of Negro voters in Northern cities and the vote of other minority groups centered in the big-city states of the North.

The Kennedy strategy calls for concentrating on the 10 states that contain the nation's biggest cities. These states are Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri and California. How do these states compare with the electoral votes? Together they have 235 electoral votes just 34 short of the 269 needed to win the presidency. With this in mind one can plainly see why Kennedy is going to cover these states and cover them well.

In shaping his campaign, Kennedy is, as I stated above, following the tactics of the Roosevelt campaigns, in two of which Mr. Kennedy's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, had an active part. This strategy can be classed in three parts. First, is to be the use of the regular party machinery. Early in the campaign Kennedy will talk with party chairmen and local leaders. He will make an effort to tie the regular drive to local efforts to elect Democrats. Next is the creation of various independent and amateur political groups. This will be used to enlist workers who do not ordinarily take part in politics. . . . young people, college professors and businessmen. And finally there is to be a strong reliance on the work of union labor. Mr. Kennedy expects to get all-out help from the unions.

The choice that voters make is likely to be a fundamental one. Kennedy favors a much larger role for Government, more planning and more direction, bigger spending. He accepts the view that there must be more national attention to the "public sector" of the economy, somewhat less to the "private sector" of the economy which Nixon favors. There is no doubt in this writer's mind that Kennedy, in time of trouble, would turn to bigger spending. He would be inclined to use tax policy to divert some income from individuals so that more could go to schools, hospitals, slum clearance, parks, urban redevelopment and other things. Kennedy would have Government take more responsibility for providing prosperity.

Both Kennedy and Nixon oppose socialization of industry, but Kennedy would favor more control over business and labor policies.

And so as time moves on so does the Kennedy campaign and from now until November the public will be hearing more about this young man, what he stands for and what he proposes to do if elected to the highest office in this great country of ours.

And now let us get a brief look at his personal history.

John F. Kennedy was born on May 29, 1917, in Brookline, Mass. He is one of the youngest men ever to seek the presidency, being 43 years of age. His education consists of Choate School, Harvard (1940). During World War II he served as a navy lieutenant and was wounded. He also won several medals for his heroism.

Now let's take a peek at his political record. In 1946 he was elected to the House of Representatives and re-elected again in 1948 and 1950. In 1952 he was elected as a U. S. Senator. In 1956 he almost was nominated for Vice President. In 1958 he was re-elected Senator. As a lawmaker he helped to write labor legislation and supported internationalism in foreign affairs.

His other activities included news correspondent; author of two books . . . "Why England Slept" in 1940, and "Profiles in Courage," a 1957 Pulitzer Prize winner. A number of times his health has been questioned and some wonder if he would be able of the presidency. As far as can be determined, he has had only one major operation, and this was a spinal operation to correct a war injury.

Kennedy is married and has a daughter, age three. If Kennedy takes up residence at the White House, come next January, youthful zest and originality could become the key to life in the presidential home.

His wife Jacqueline is known to have some of the same qualities that have brought political success to her husband. These are said to be confidence, resourcefulness and an inquiring mind.

At their home in Georgetown section of Washington, the Kennedys have led a quietly informal life which has been punctuated by small dinner parties for their many friends. Mrs. Kennedy is said to have indicated that she does not plan to give up hiding to hunt meetings in nearby Virginia if she should become the First Lady.

If Jack Kennedy and his family does move into the White House in January, one thing remains certain, they will be joined from time to time by three sisters and two brothers. . . . plus their husbands and wives and a total of 15 young children. They form a closely knit clan and, if victory does come their way, their many friends look ahead to the most youthful and lively occupancy of the Executive Mansion in many years.

In closing I leave you with this thought: Whether it is Nixon or Kennedy who wins in November, it is the American people who will decide the issue. Here again is democracy in action. The citizens of this country make the choice by going to the polls on Election Day and voting for the man of their choice. Where else in this world do the people have such an important part in their government. This is one right that every American should cherish and come Election Day every American citizen should exercise his right to vote.

Next week I shall cover the candidate for Vice President on the Democratic ticket, Lyndon B. Johnson.

Women Indicted in Baby Case

A Frederick County woman who claimed on a birth certificate that she was the mother of a child, was one of two women indicted by the York County grand jury last week on a charge of conspiracy to do an unlawful act.

Indicted were Mrs. Frances Leatherman of near Thurmont and Ruth O. Rinker, of Hampton, Pa.

The charges were the outgrowth of an investigation by Pennsylvania State Police concerning a falsified birth certificate.

According to a York County source, the Rinker woman was also indicted on a second charge, falsification in a matter within jurisdiction of a state agency.

A baby girl was born to Ruth Rinker on June 6, 1959, and, according to information supplied by state police, both women conspired and agreed to state in an application for a birth certificate that the child was born to Mrs. Frances Leatherman.

The women were arrested on July 17, 1959.

They were held for grand jury action following a preliminary hearing on July 24, 1959, before Alderman William M. Nickey. They were released and are still

Health of Americans Making Great Progress

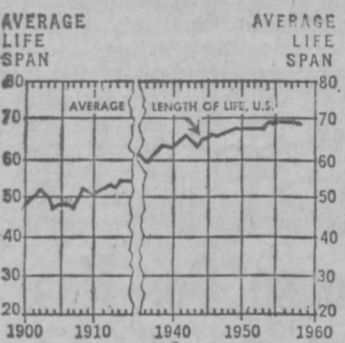

The health of Americans is making such progress that a new population explosion is taking place at the other end of life's cycle. Back in 1900, the average span of life in the U.S. was about 47 years. Today the average lifetime is nearly 70 years. Americans 65 years or older today number 16,000,000. By 1980, these "senior citizens" will number about 26,000,000.

Facts such as these are forcing a closer look at many unfounded and unsubstantiated "health scares" that occasionally hit the headlines.

They have led, for instance, to the issuance of a report called "Tobacco and the Health of a Nation" by The Tobacco Institute, Inc. This leaflet cites facts and figures from U.S. Government and other authoritative reports to show the great advances in health made since the turn of the century.

Deaths from all respiratory diseases have plummeted in the past 60 years to about one-seventh of the level in 1900. The height and weight of young people has increased. The death rate from heart ailments has declined, when the age of the population is taken into account. Reprinted from the leaflet, the following chart shows the trend in the longer life of citizens of the U.S.

ESTIMATED AVERAGE LENGTH OF LIFE IN YEARS

Source: U.S. Vital Statistics

"These facts and figures show the tremendous advances made in the health of our people," said Edward F. Bagland, vice-president of The Tobacco Institute, Inc. "Tribute should certainly go to the medical profession and the drug industry, as well as to our high standards of nutrition, for helping to give us a longer, healthier life."

An extensive program in this area is supported by the Tobacco Industry Research Committee which by 1960 has provided $3,700,000 for independent scientific research into such problems as cancer and heart disease. Grants are made to research scientists who then independently conduct their work and publish their findings. Scientific studies show that much more research needs to be conducted into many possible factors before definite answers to cancer, including lung cancer, will be forthcoming.

Babson Discusses Population

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 11—One of the reasons given for anticipating the prosperity of the "Golden Sixties" is the constantly increasing population, both in this country and in the world as a whole. It is true that investors must recognize population as a factor in stock prices; but it is only one of many factors. Teenagers

Considering the United States alone, the age factor is now a vital force in manufacturing, business, college enrollments, investments, and other considerations. Many of today's young people will become voters for the first time this year, and may be a factor in the November elections. The high birth rate of World War II is now showing up in the large number of teenagers reaching college and/or employment age. For a while, those dealing in baby foods, clothing for youngsters, etc., profited greatly; more recently, teenagers have been a source of good business for retailers (and of headaches to many parents!).

Now, these young people are about to be thrown on their own, to make good either in college or in the competitive business world. This is something which should be recognized by employers, parents, and by the young people themselves. Just now there is a shortage of workers in many lines of industry, especially of office employees. After the summer vacation is over, there should be a letup in the demand for such jobs, and the shortage of workers might develop into a surplus during the next year or two.

Growth In Foreign Population
In China, with its population of over 600 million, 1,200,000 babies are born every week. The same is true proportionately of India and Pakistan, with their combined population of about 500,000,000. It is true that measures are being taken to limit the birth rate. On the other hand, new means of sanitary living, free medical supplies, and proper nutrition are causing fewer babies to die. Hence, I see no prospect at the moment of a limit to the net growth of these nations.

The Malthusian Theory advanced in 1898 contended that the world will some day run out of arable land to feed the expanded population. Although the land surface from which to feed people is limited, (and far surpassed by the area of lakes, marshes, and oceans), yet the growing shortage of water required to sustain life and industrial activity may be even more serious.

Two Sides Of The Coin
Increase in population cannot be taken, at face value, as an optimistic factor for the future. In order to translate people into producers and customers, we must have a social and moral environment which will generate initiative and ambition. Only as the proper en-

New Features Planned For Fair

This is for the women: there will be brand new demonstrations in the Exhibition Hall when the Maryland State Fair opens at Timonium on August 29.

Ladies, would you like an orchid for church every Sunday? Take your husband to the Timonium Exhibition Hall any day during the Fair; the Maryland Orchid Society will demonstrate how to grow orchids at home. It's simple, they say, and how those gals on the side of the aisle will stare—jealously.

Like to have a nice pair of decoy ducks—decorative, not real? Hurry on out to the Exhibition Hall; two youths from down the Eastern Shore way will be there, carving away. They're real experts, reports Mrs. F. R. Bull, Superintendent of the Home Arts Department, who has charge of these things.

There'll even be a "grandma," Mrs. Bull adds. Under the auspices of the Hillsdale Homemakers Club, in Carroll County, every Timonium Fair day will see exhibitions of real, old-fashioned quilting. Chairman of the quilting project is Mrs. Lester F. Stem, of Westminster and chief demonstrator is "Grandma" Leister, who is 91 and Mrs. Stem's mother.

Also on hand will be groups of booths containing exhibits of an educational nature, these erected by organizations such as the Pomona Granges of the state, the Homemakers' County Councils and the Federated Garden Clubs.

The floral decorations will change every few days as one Garden Club's exhibit is over and another puts on the show.

These and other new appearances will provide interesting action for the Fair visitors from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., Mrs. Bull states. Along with the new shows will be the usual exhibits of the homemaking profession, the products of the home baker and canner, the rug making and all of those things which the women do to make life pleasanter and easier to live.

Baby Know How High Is Up

A baby as young as 7 months can tell when the floor is a dangerously long way off, according to two Cornell University experimenters. They found that not even mother could coax baby from a table onto an adjacent sheet of thick glass covering a drop to the ground. Conclusion: When baby tumbles off the furniture it's a slip of the muscles, not the mind. He knows the danger.

No Place For The Country Cousin
The big city is the wicked place the farmer always thought it was. A study of the drinking of some 1,200 Iowans showed that the boys drink a lot more after they move from the farm to the city. Only about half of Iowa's rural dwellers drink, two-thirds of the city slickers.

Muscle Rustle
A doctor and an electronics engineer, experimenting with a new amplifier and frequency scanner, picked up high frequency signals from muscles in the form of rustling noises. Muscles sometimes crunched, but mostly they just rustled. Possible application: diseased muscle gives off different signals from healthy muscle, so maybe the gadget can be used in diagnosis.

Still Can't Buy Happiness
You'll never get happy taking "happy pills." In fact, quite the reverse, according to Dr. Frank Berger, discoverer of Miltown, first of the tranquilizers. Someone looking for a lift won't find it in Miltown or any similar drug, says Dr. Berger, and may even feel worse. Tranquilizing drugs are useful, but let the doctor decide when and how!

Not Much But How Often
Putting away three square meals a day may be rougher on the system than day-long nibbling of the same amount of food. So says researcher Dr. Clarence Cohn of Chicago's Medical Research Institute. Animal experiments suggest that taking on a heavy load of food three times

American Automobile Makers Use More Galvanized Steel

There is a definite trend among American automobile makers to use more and more galvanized steel sheets in car manufacture.

The Committee on Galvanized Steel Sheet Research says that latest available estimates show well over 60 pounds of this durable metal is used in the production of the new cars, against less than 9 pounds in the 1954 models.

For the automobile owner, the Committee says, the advantages are that the galvanized steel makes for economy of maintenance and is corrosion resistant, as well as providing added strength and greater durability.

The Committee predicted that when 1960 figures are compiled, the year will see another increase in consumption of galvanized steel sheets by the automotive industry. This will result both from an increasingly wide number of applications for galvanized steel in the average automobile, and a probable increase in the sales of compact cars, which use the product most extensively.

Over 300 million pounds of galvanized steel sheets were shipped to the automotive industry during 1959, the Committee noted, as compared with less than 50 million five years earlier, reflecting the desirable qualities galvanized steel provides the owner of the modern American car.

Electricity Use Above Average

The average residential customer of the Potomac Edison System continues to rank well ahead of his national counterpart in the use of electricity, and as a result recently passed a significant mark.

John W. Morgan, District Manager of The Potomac Edison Co. announced yesterday, that for the first time, the annual average usage of electricity by residential customers of the Company reached and passed the 4,000 kilowatt hour mark. The actual figure, for the 12 months ended June 30 was 4,008 kilowatt hours.

The new kilowatt hour usage figure puts PE in a group of less than 25 per cent of the nation's electric light and power companies whose annual average power consumption per residential customer is 4,000 kwh.

According to the Edison Electric Institute, the national figure, for the 12 months ended May 30, was 3,692 kilowatt hours, which is 316 kilowatt hours less than the local mark.

The company official pointed out that power usage by residential customers in this area has considerably more than doubled during the past decade. In June 1950

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY

For the second year in succession the Student Placement Committee of the University of Maryland has surveyed this June's graduating seniors to discover their future plans.

Results of the survey, made May 2 and 3, in cooperation with faculty placement representatives within the seven major College Park divisions, were made available in the past week.

In all, 71 per cent of the 957 anticipated graduates replied.

Of the 559 seniors expecting to work full-time after graduation, 40 per cent had actually accepted a job offer at the time the survey was made. Another 27 per cent were in the equally favorable position of considering one or more job offers.

The survey attempted to discover the best sources of job contacts for seniors, among its other objectives. Although much of the Student Placement Service's work takes place after May 3, when the survey was made, 155 of the seniors with job offers already lined up credited the placement service.

A very close second source of job contacts, the survey showed, is previous work, including sum-tal represents 882,000 more visitors or nine per cent, than in 1958 and sets a new public-use record for the ninth consecutive year. When the visitor records were first compiled in 1951, only 3 1/4 million persons had found their way onto the refuge areas.

Sixty-three per cent of 1959's visitors went to enjoy photography, picnicking, swimming and nature studies. The second most popular activity was fishing—32 per cent. Hunting of waterfowl, upland or big game, constitutes five per cent of public use on the refuges and was permitted on 138 areas in 1959. Some of the country's best bow- and - arrow hunting for deer can be found on the national wildlife refuges.

National forests also were visited by record numbers. Visits in 1959 totaled 81,521,000 or 19 per cent more than in 1958. This is the biggest gain of any single year since 1946. Forest Service reports show that recreation use has been moving up steadily for the past 15 years as public appreciation of the national forest recreational opportunities has increased.

Some of the heavier use of underdeveloped areas was owing to the increased number of visits by hunters and fishermen. Such visits jumped from 17 million in 1958 to 20 million in 1959. The most popular purpose for recreation visits was general enjoyment of the national forests. Picnicking, fishing, hunting and camping followed.

Picnicking and camping increased at about the usual annual rate of seven per cent. Hunting and fishing visits rose 13 per cent.

Areas administered by the national Park Service also came in with record-breaking reports on visitors for 1959 with a total of 62,812,000. This amounted to 4,135,000 more visitors than the 58,677,000 recorded in 1958. The previous record was 59,285,000 in 1957.

Visitors to the 29 national parks rose to 22,392,000 during the year, a 3.3 per cent increase in the record 1958 total of 21,671,000.

Authors Book to Combat Growing Indifference to U. S. Heritage

Revival of good, old-fashioned American patriotism and a reappraisal of our national heritage is called for in "The Quiet Betrayal," a book by Sidney L. DeLove, Chicago banker and lawyer recipient of many of the country's leading patriotic and national awards.

In this, his first book, Mr. DeLove decries increasing distortion of basic values, marked by growing spiritual indifference and material reverence, and calls this our greatest danger.

DeLove's theme is that if we do not take immediate steps to strengthen our individual characters, we cannot survive as a free nation.

"Uncle Sam" of the twentieth century is not the man he was in the nineteenth century, says Mr. DeLove. Uncle Sam of today is described as being drunk with material comforts and power and thinks security and happiness can be bought with guns and jet planes.

To combat the growing lethargy and indifference of the average American insofar as a realization of his priceless national heritage is concerned, the author calls for better education in primary and secondary schools to emphasize the positive values of Americanism and Democracy. The time has come, he says, to reacquire ourselves with our own traditions and way of life. The meanings of citizenship and patriotism must once again find their ways into our lives and into our educational systems.

As adults we have set aside our birthright, the author contends, in adjusting to the pressing tempo of twentieth century life. Our schools have forced Americanism out of the classroom to make way for temporary trivialities.

This is a good book for the younger generation—that which came to adulthood since World War II—as it will acquaint them with what conditions were like before the government started to play such an increasingly important role in their daily lives. The book will also appeal to oldsters who decry the nonchalant, take-it-for-granted attitude of the younger people of today.

The Stowe House in Brunswick, Maine

"The War Between the States Began Here"

Literary history fairly envelops The Stowe House in Brunswick, Maine. It was in this old colonial home (now turned into a sumptuous New England inn) that Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the book which had such a profound effect that, some say, it launched the War Between the States. Mrs. Stowe wrote "Uncle Tom" in an effort to supplement the income of her husband, a professor at nearby Bowdoin College, and help support their seven children.

Whatever fortune the book brought to Harriet Beecher Stowe, it brought fame to her house after publication in 1852. Cultural leaders, including Oliver Wendell Holmes, Lyman Beecher, Mrs. Stowe's father, and Henry Ward Beecher, her brother, were frequent guests.

The Stowe House had even earlier literary associations. In a small quiet room at the back of the house Henry Wadsworth Longfellow lodged while a student at Bowdoin from 1821 to 1825. The desk he used is still in the room. Two of his classmates who visited frequently were Nathaniel Hawthorne and Franklin Pierce.

Built in 1804, The Stowe House has a high square front section with a white stoop and a long narrow one and one-half story ell trailing to the rear. Its Dutch oven, imported marble fireplaces, built-in laundry cauldron and wood-pegged hand-hewn beams are typical of the substantial houses of the day.

Retaining all of its colonial graciousness, The Stowe House of today, open all year round, is one of Maine's finest inns. The 30 rooms are completely modern in comfort and facilities, yet authentic antique furniture and period decorations maintain the colonial atmosphere. The public rooms have distinctive personalities as signified by their names—the Open Hearth, the Captain's Corner and the Dutch Oven. The Main Spar Taproom is an authentic ship's cabin geared to the joviality of a college town. It specializes in draft beers and snacks,

4-H Members Learn Farm Programs

Killing bugs can mean reaping a rich harvest to a farmer. But saving the right bugs can be just as important as 4-H Club members enrolled in the 4-H field crops and entomology programs can tell you.

Under the direction of the Extension Service, boys and girls in the field crops learn everything from how to test, fertilize and till their soil—to how to harvest, store and market quality crops.

In between the preparation of soil for planting in spring and the fall harvest, comes some practical entomology like learning to control crop destroying insects and to use beneficial ones.

Relationship and application of scientific research to agriculture is demonstrated to these two educational programs, says the Extension Service.

The young 4-H entomologist need not confine himself to crops. He is ready to tackle such annoying pests as mosquitoes, too. Along with bug identification, bug history, and bug control, there also is plenty of room in this program for the budding lepidopterist, with a yen for chasing butterflies and moths to add to his collection.

These 4-H specialists have a chance to display their crops, collections, and records in competition for honors ranging from county awards to trips as state delegates to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November. At the congress $400 scholarships are presented to six national winners in each program.

The field crops awards are presented to six national winners in each program.

John O. Whitman, Justice Of The Peace, Has Vast Backround in Law Enforcement Work, Recognized By All For Fairness And Capability

John O. Whitman, Justice of the Peace, RD 2, Gettysburg, has an extremely interesting background. He comes from Detroit, where he gained vast experience in law enforcement. He served on the Detroit police force for 34 years, having started as a regular patrolman. He moved up the line quickly until his retirement in the late 1940's as Deputy Chief of Detroit detectives.

This background made him a natural for the Justice of the Peace job he now holds. He came to the Gettysburg area in 1951 and in 1955, his neighbors, recognizing his background and ability, elected him to the post. He took office on January 2, 1956.

Many perplexing problems daily confront the bench, but Judge Whitman has always given the fullest measure of his experience and knowledge of judicial endeavor to dispense unbiased judgment in every case. His activities are confined strictly to acting as a J.P. He has no side business, other than that of Notary Public, which is a must for a Justice of the Peace. He may be contacted at EDgewood 4-2817.

Tunisian Waters Yield Precious Catch!!

The waters near the little-known Tunisian town of Mahdia, one of the most ancient seats of archaeological discovery, have yielded enough treasures to fill six rooms at the famous Bardo Museum.

More than 2,000 years ago, when Carthage was the center of Mediterranean maritime commerce, Tunisia had developed a thriving sponge and coral fishing industry. As the 900-mile Tunisian coastline, which varies greatly in form and depth, began to take its toll of heavily-laden merchant vessels, Tunisian underwater fishermen found their waters becoming even more profitable.

Perhaps the most important discovery made off the coast of Mahdia in recent times was an ancient ship which the sponge fishermen found three miles out and at a depth of 19 fathoms. This find sparked organized expeditions in search of sunken treasures. Five such expeditions were launched between 1908 and 1913.

One of the ancient vessels which was discovered in this area contained numerous pieces of Greek art which probably came from the pillage of Athens by Sylla during the 2nd century B.C. This find has been described by archaeological scholars as second only to the discoveries made at Pompeii.

Placing The Blame

As we view the menacing tentacles of Communist power at work—agitating turmoil between the Black and White races across the continent of Africa, leading immature university students in decisive revolts in Korea, Japan and other nations, building mighty strongholds in nearby Cuba and other Latin American countries, guiding actions of Mexican governmental leaders against us, and influencing, to a frightening degree, the decisions of the United States government—we must do some soul searching in America.

At stake is our survival. In spite of the millions of words spoken and written on every conceivable subject during the political party conventions last month, the fact of our intensifying war with world Communism transcends all else. As of now, we are losing it. This is the most important political fact in the world today. And we can rightfully blame nobody but ourselves. In our Republic the people rule. We still have freedom of speech and action. We are expected, as citizens, to evolve a 'public opinion' on which the decisions of our governmental leaders are based.

What "Public Opinion?"

But in America we long ago ceased to have a genuine "public opinion." Most of the public has defaulted the citizenship responsibilities of political learning and thinking and acting to small, militant minority groups in the population. Most of us are too busy enjoying life in a prosperous, free America—and preoccupied with our small personal problems—to become active in the political responsibilities of citizenship. So just a few tightly knit, militant and talkative groups are calling the shots. This is a wonderful situation for the Communists to exploit, and they are doing it.

The most vocal "public opinion" in America today is calling for the abolition of the House Un-American Activities Committee, one of our last bulwarks against internal Communist subversion. Yet, only a few small groups are moulding this "public opinion." When everybody else is silent, they can be decisive; they can call the shots.

The Welfare State

The most vocal "public opinion"—loudly proclaiming in pressure or self-interest groups —is calling for the Federal government to take over the responsibility for solving most of the problems of our society, even to underwriting your economic welfare and mine. The most vocal "public opinion" is advocating the end of our nuclear armament research program, trusting the Russian Communist leaders.

Many other "public opinion" wishes are being expressed, and our political leaders are listening. It is worth repeating that this "public opinion" is coming from only a small segment of the American public, and in some cases even it is based on misinformation, or lack of information, or short-sightedness.
Therefore one of the greatest needs of this moment in our nation's greatest crisis is for all citizens to become well informed and active politically.

Apathy Widespread

John Ward, reporter on the Arkansas Democrat staff in Little Rock, set out on July 4th to find out how many citizens knew what was being celebrated. He interviewed people on the street all day long.
"Sixty per cent hadn't enough information in their brains," he reported, "to indicate even an inkling of what they were celebrating this or any other Fourth of July. Apparently this group looks upon the day as no more than a break from work. They aren't interested in questioning any further than that. Another 20 per cent knew enough to be considered reasonably well informed about the day and its significance."

I wonder how many of the "reasonably well-informed" 20 per cent had an active part in the selection of the Presidential nominee of the party of their choice, and how many had a part in the writing of the platform which enunciates their party's governmental philosophy? Unless they took part (indirectly) in these vital decisions, they are defaulting on their political responsibilities, and if they wind up one day as prisoners of an alien dictatorship they have nobody to blame but themselves.

Cancer Society Conducts Study

The Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society announced today that 1,100,000 Americans participated in the Society's Cancer Prevention Study conducted last fall.

In Maryland, 20,317 persons furnished information as to their living habits and present physical condition.

This epidemiological study of cancer is the largest medical survey ever undertaken in this country. Of outstanding significance is the fact that the survey was conducted completely by volunteers.

The study is being carried out in about 1,100 counties in 29
Divisions of the American Cancer Society: Arizona, California, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisi-

Can Save Money With Electric Heat

If your modernizing plans call for the construction of an extra room—be it bathroom, bedroom or for general family use—how to heat it is a question that's bound to arise.

Electric heating will save on your construction costs, since it doesn't call for ducts or pipes. It will be more economical in the long run, too.

For one thing—independently of the rest of the house—it can be turned off when the room is not in use. And it's cleaner—no fuel to burn—thus saving considerably on annual cleaning of draperies or upholstery.

There are several kinds of electric heating systems you'll want to consider.

Ceiling cables embedded in the ceiling plaster are favored by many women; with the heat source for a room concealed from view, decoration totally is unimpeded.

Heating controls are a simple thermostat device mounted on the wall. The temperature for a room can be varied at a touch.

Baseboard electric heating, too, is popular, and simple for your electrician or contractor to install. Or you electrical heating system can be installed either in or on the wall. The first type takes the form of wall insert panels, with wires coiled around a ceramic coil.

Radiant space heaters may be mounted directly on the wall. These are especially comforting in the bathroom, or wintry mornings.

Proper insulation is a "must" for any type of heating, to insure against heat loss in your extra room. This is a saving, too, because less electricity will have to be used to reach and maintain comfortable indoor temperatures.

Your town has several local businessmen-electricians, contractors, dealers in electrical goods—who can explain the various heating systems to you in full detail.

Your electric utility can be helpful, too; home owners can obtain modernizing advice—on electric heating, lighting and wiring as well as many other subjects.

The great Count Fleet ran 50 of his 21 lifetime races at Pimlico and won them by a combined total of 43 lengths, including an eight-length victory in the 1943 Preakness.

"Many disabled workers over 50 years of age may have overlooked taking action to 'freeze' their social security account," W. S. King, Manager of the Hagerstown District Office, said today. This failure to investigate may be due to the fact that the present law does not provide cash benefits to such disabled workers. Before the disability provisions were included in the social security law, a worker who became completely disabled for work before retirement age would have a gap in his social security record. In cases of prolonged disability, this could have meant that future benefits payable to the worker or his family would be greatly reduced or lost entirely.

Under the freeze provision a qualified worker may be able to keep his social security rights intact and keep his benefits from being reduced because of his inability to work. This is because the benefit amount depends upon the average monthly earnings of insured workers. If a disability "freeze" is established before age 50, it means that the period during which the worker was disabled would not be included in figuring his average monthly earnings, thereby keeping his benefit at the highest possible level.

To be eligible for the "freeze" the wage earner must be under age 50; he must have worked under social security at least 5 years out of the 10 years before he became disabled; the disability must have prevented him from doing any work and been in effect at least 6 months, and it must be established with medical evidence. Any disabled worker who meets the above requirements is urged to contact the District Office, Social Security Administration, Hagerstown, as soon as possible.

There has never been a disqualification or foul claim against the winner in 84 runnings of the famed Preakness at Pimlico.

"I do not have a good complexion and would like to know what kind of make-up would help conceal it best."

"You'll be wise if you depend on color rather than heaviness in make-up to face the appearance of your blemishes. A thick, clogging cosmetic mask might only serve to irritate your skin."

Choose a powder and foundation-in-one—in other words, a compressed powder that gives total covering powder with one very light application. Shades with tan undertones will help make blemishes less noticeable.

On special occasions, match your powder and foundation-in-one with a tinted liquid base in exactly the same shade. Apply it over your entire face, smooth it in with your fingertips, then pat on your compressed powder.

County Group
Seeking Industry

The Frederick Industrial Development Corporation was officially organized on July 27 at a special meeting of the board of directors of the Frederick Chamber of Commerce. The directors also constitute the directorate and membership of the corporation.

This corporation has been under study and preparation for several months and has been formed to be of service to present and future Frederick County industry in an effort to provide more employment for Frederick County residents.

The charter of the corporation allows for a wide range of activities but the only immediate option, purchase, or a firm objective is to make available commitment industrial sites. Initial funds for the use of the corporation in obtaining sites will be obtained by subscription, the amount of such funds and the time for the fund drive are to be determined at a later date.

Officers and directors of the corporation were emphatic in pointing out that the corporation is interested in helping industry to locate anywhere in Frederick County and that this is a county corporation. It also was pointed out that the objective of the group and the objective of the Chamber of Commerce is to try to obtain only such diversified industry as will provide employment for those presently living in Frederick County and those young people who graduate from our county schools each year and who wish to remain here. The corporation does not wish to bring in large industries which would cause an influx of population and does not wish to secure any one industry that would dominate the economy of the area, or which would compete with existing industry. Members feel that Frederick County has been very fortunate so far in obtaining diversified industry and would like to help preserve that condition.

Officers of the corporation are: President, James H. Grove; vice-president, Guy E. Kelly; secretary, Eugene A. Kefauver; treasurer, Richard D. Hammond; directors are: Joseph M. Kline, Frederick W. Wetzel, Guy W. Nusz, Carl V. Weakley, Raymond C. Brehaut, J. Harold Hooper, Robert F. Nicodemus, Noah E. Kefauver Jr., Dr. Melvin E. Lea, Donald B. Rice, J. Ralph Austin, Casper E. Cline Jr., Richard F. Kline Sr., and Ray H. Smith.

Scouts Planning
Swim Meet

As a part of the Golden Jubilee of Scouting in America, the Francis Scott Key District, Boy Scouts of America, will hold its Sixth Annual Summer Swim Meet at the Fort Detrick Pool.

Theron D. Green, Chairman of Activities, announced the event and issued invitations to all Boy Scout and Explorer units to take part in the competition. It is hoped that every Troop and Post in the District will begin their practices and tryouts so that they can take part.

Events will include individual swim events, relays, diving and rescue for time. Although incomplete at this time, judges and officials include John S. Herrick and Lt. William F. Hahn. Lt. Hahn, who has been giving diving instruction at the Fort Detrick pools, during the summer, will head a team of judges for the diving events.

Each year has seen a large number of boys taking part in the meet and Mr. Green hopes that this year will see the largest number yet. Because of these numbers, all events are run in

Milk Producers
Meet Saturday

The meeting will start promptly at 1:30 p. m.

Outstanding among those activities was the trip on May 19 of some 100 MCMP members to Washington, to appear before the Dairy Subcommittee of the House of Representatives Agriculture Committee at a hearing involving Federal Order procedures. The turnout received national attention in milk producer circles.

Presiding at the meeting will be President Edgar G. Emrich. Those attending will hear reports from Business Manager W. P. Sadler and Secretary - treasurer R. L. Strook.

Mr. Sadler will also outline activities and prospects under Federal Order 127, which became effective February 1.

Wet Road Causes Crash Near Town

A Pennsylvania man was slightly injured and damage amounted to about $1,450 in a two-vehicle collision on U. S. Route 15 about one-half mile south of Emmitsburg about 12:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Treated at Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, for a laceration of the lower lip was Edward Leroy Duttera, 38, Hanover, Pa. He was released following treatment.

State Police said the accident happened when a 1955 Chevrolet being driven south on Route 15 by Duttera went into a skid at a sharp curve at the intersection with the Old Frederick Road and skidded into a GMC two-ton truck being driven north on Route 15 by Joseph Richard Beers, 40, Cornwell Heights, Pa.

Trooper Leo L. Shank, who investigated for the State Police, said that the road was slippery from a shower at the time of the accident.

The Chevrolet was damaged to the extent of $1,200 and the truck received $250 damage.

Duttera was charged with failing to drive to the right of center and Beers was charged with driving at a speed too great for existing conditions.

A veterinarian was called and, finding that the horse could not be treated, shot the horse.

First Quarter Cigaret Tax Return Disclosed

Frederick County received $41,307.35 for the first three months the cigarette tax has been in effect it was learned this week from C. Burton Cannon, clerk to the County Commissioners.

The special tax, a fund raising measure instituted by the County Commissioners, went into effect on May 1. Cigarettes are taxed two cents per pack.

The total figure to date is for funds received from the state administrative agency for the period from May 1 through July 29. The state is handling the special tax for the county under a setup which dispels the county from unnecessary administrative and handling costs.

Douglas Woods, county auditor, explained that the county receives a check twice a month for the cigarette tax. The first check accounts for 65 per cent of the tax collected and the second check for the remainder.

The largest revenue return for the year is expected for the quarter just ending. It was explained by Cannon, that the county cannot use this quarterly figure as a basis for the year's estimated return, since a goodly number of tax stamps were purchased to cover stock on hand when the tax went into effect.

For the May period, the county received two checks totaling $13,689.60. Other payments to date have been: $7,262.20 in June; $5,941.80 and $14,413.75 in July.

Cannon said the county hopes to receive about $125,000 per year from the cigarette tax. The money has been earmarked for the general fund to cover current expenses of the taxable year.

Moravian Church In Install Pastor Legion Auxiliary

The installation of the new pastor of the Graceham Moravian congregation, the Rev. Frederick L. Morgenstern, will take place on Sunday morning, August 14, at 10:30 a. m., with the Rev. Dr. F. P. Stocker, of Bethlehem, Pa., president of the Executive Board of the Eastern District of the Moravian Church, in charge. In addition to the special ceremonies connected with the installation of the new pastor, the congregation will observe the love feast and Holy Communion commemorating the August 13 Festival of the Moravian congregations in all parts of the world as a day of high spiritual significance commemorating the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the infant Moravian Church in Herrnhut, Germany, on August 13, 1727. Since that time this date has been observed as the spiritual birthday of the Renewed Moravian Church.

On Sunday morning as a part of the installation service the pastor will preach his introductory sermon, after which the congregation will join in the historic love feast. This portion of the service consists of the distribution of coffee and buns to all of those present in the service. While the choir sings an appropriate anthem, the congregation eats the bun and drinks the cup of coffee as a sign of Christian fellowship and brotherliness. At the conclusion of the love feast service, the congregation will join in the Lord's Supper remembering especially the significance of this Church. The special choir anthem Festival Day in the Moravian for the day will be "Lord Our God," a composition of Jeremiah Dencke, a Moravian musician of the 18th Century. The choir is under the direction of James L. Fisher. The organist is Miss Clara Green.

The new pastor, the Rev. Frederick L. Morgenstern, of Phillipsburg, New Jersey, is the son of Harvey and Clara Lambert Morgenstern. He attended the public schools of Phillipsburg, where he was a member of the high school band. After graduating from high school, he enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps and served until September, 1948, when he was discharged with the rank of corporal. In the fall of 1949, Mr. Morgenstern enrolled in Moravian College, Bethlehem, Pa., to begin preparation for ministerial service. While in college he was a member of the college band, of the Archaeology Club, of the Pi Mu Fraternity, and for two years served as a representative on the Student Council.

He graduated from Moravian College in 1953, and in the fall of that year entered Moravian Theological Seminary, Bethlehem, from which he graduated on May 29.

He was united in marriage with Lois Bachman, at Easton, Pa., on September 9, 1950. The family now includes two children, Denise Ann, aged six, and Frederick Lambert Morgenstern II, aged six months.

From 1955 to 1958, Mr. Morgenstern served as student pastor of the Salem Congregational Church at Wind Gap, Pa.

One of his favorite avocations is flying, for which he holds a private pilot's license.

As a part of a steady program of improvements, the Graceham Moravian congregation has just erected a new commodious parsonage for the new pastor and his family, who moved into the parsonage on Thursday. The former parsonage, which was attached to the historic church building of the Graceham congregation, is now being converted for use in the Christian Education program of the congregation.

A public reception in honor of the new pastor and his family will take place at an early date sponsored by the Graceham congregation and community.

The former pastor of the church and has now moved to Nazareth, Pa., where he and his wife will be joined by the Rev. John R. Hoesman, who had served in the community since 1957, closed his pastorate on Sunday, July 31, in retirement.

The regular monthly meeting of the Francis X. Elder American Legion Auxiliary was held last Tuesday evening at the Post Home. President, Kathleen Shorb presided with 20 members and guests present.

After the report of the secretary and the treasurer, the president's message was read, along with thank-you notes. The new invalid walker was on display. Mrs. Irene Ohler, Gold Star member, was congratulated on her 84th birthday which she celebrated on Tuesday, August 2.

Ann Topper and Kathleen Shorb reported on the Department Convention recently held in Baltimore.

Mrs. Harry Warner, past District Vice President, was guest of the evening. She spoke briefly to the group thanking them for their cooperation during her term of office, and announced the first District meeting of the new year will be held on September 18 at Camp Ritchie Unit.

Draw prize was won by Mrs. Warner and Earleen Motter's name was called for the door prize, but she was not present. Refreshment committee for next month is Nettie Ashbaugh, Melva Hardman and Kathleen Shorb.
