With the tension mounting in the coming presidential election we are prone to overlook the insipid recession that is mantling Frederick County. Reports indicate that business in the county is off 22% from last year at the same period and unemployment figures are on the increase. Perhaps the biggest blow came this week when it was announced the Potomac Edison Co. was moving its business offices from Frederick County to Washington County near Hagerstown. This move is really a blow to the county and its financial structure. Estimates are that Frederick City will lose over $40,000 in taxes while the county will suffer a loss of $150,000. Everyone of us realizes what this will do to the county's economy and to the tax structure. With the constantly rising costs of county government and operation and the school building program the county can ill afford to lose such a substantial taxpayer. The resultant fact is that without a doubt, you the taxpayer, will be coerced into paying a larger share of this revenue loss. Gettysburg too is having its economic ills with two manufacturing concerns pulling out. It was a blow when the furniture factory quit the Pennsylvania town but a recent announcement that the rubber heel plant also was going, added even more woe to the town's economy. Yes there are definite recessive indicators prevalent and these should serve to galvanize all of us into action to offset the blows. I suppose there is only one answer and that is to seek replacements for those lost industries, some of which employed local citizens. Strict economy will not remedy the imbalance caused by the industrial loss. It is time for action and I feel that perhaps a meeting of all the chambers of commerce in the area should be called to ferret out just what caused this economic upheaval. Perhaps a meeting of business minds from Emmitsburg, Thurmont, Frederick and Gettysburg could devise a planned industrial drive.

I often wondered about the disposition of many of those congressional investigations and why they were lost to the public in such short order. For a time the papers are full of stories about this swindle and that one and suddenly there is no news at all. The thing just dries up and disappears for some reason or another. The affair is quickly forgotten. However, here's one that threatens to be revived again and that is the crooked TV quiz shows. At least three who were tried are back in the headlines this week and the rap this time is perjury. . . . an ugly word in every sense and one that carries a severe penalty. It is an old axiom however that usually if a person accepts tainted money he also will not hesitate to lie about it later on. Yea then, how about those payola guys? Can't they be nabbed on perjury also? After all, there's still a sizeable amount of questionable "music" coming over the radios and jukeboxes.

Phelan's Cage Team Has Good Prospects

Coach Jim Phelan's Mount St. Mary's College cagers began practices Saturday for defense of their Northern Division Mason-Dixon crown with more than fifty prospects competing for the 15 squad berths. The current season will be the fiftieth season of basketball at the Mount where the cage sport began in 1910 with no participation in 1919 or 1943. Over the years the Mountaineers have won 568 and dropped 351 for a .617 log.

During Phelan's six year mentorship, the Mountaineers have won 118 while dropping 43 for a .736 record including a gaudy 81-16 record in Mason-Dixon play.

Holdovers from last year's 19-6 squad are senior shotmaker Jerry Savage with a 16 point-per-game average; junior forward Dick Talley, 17.8 per game; Eddie Pfeiffer, soph back court ace at 12.9 per game; junior forward Dave Samuels, 8.7 per game. Back also are reserves Jack Thompson, Tom Rudderow, Mike McCarthy and Jim Smelas.

Key newcomers are John O'Reilly, 6'4 Philadelphia whiz, who is expected to handle rebounding and shooting chores, and sensational set shot Dave Maloney, 6' soph also of Philadelphia, both of whom sat out last season due to the transfer rule. Maloney will not be eligible until the second semester. Both are highly touted operatives who are supposed to give Phelan one of his strongest squads.

Also in contention for starting berths are agile 6'9 Dick Saylor, a 215 pound freshman, who won raves in Pennsylvania schoolboy play at Catasauqua High where he carried his team to a 26-1 record with a 26 point game average and 6'6 Joe Carroll, an all-county choice for 2 years at Newton, N. J. High. Newton had a 13-3 record with Campbell averaging 20 points per game. Saylor has a high game mark of 46 points, Campbell a 33 point mark. Both are rugged operatives lacking polish and experience but counted on heavily to give depth and rebounding to Phelan's starting club.

Highly touted also is Tom Wahl, 5'10 freshman out of Rahway High in New Jersey, where he was team captain and averaged 15 points per game in back court. Wahl is quick, a good driver and excellent shooter.

The rest of the freshmen prospects offer a sprinkling of high school captains and all-star choices who could make things interesting when Phelan gets to the point of cutting his squad.

Despite the bright prospects, Phelan faces a rough schedule of 14 road games against 9 home appearances. Besides perennial conference powers like Loyola, American U., Hampden - Sydney and up-and-coming Catholic U, the Mountaineers tangle with Hofstra (23-1), Adelphia and Rider in the New York area, Muhlenberg in Allentown, Georgetown and St. Vincents. The club plays 14 Mason-Dixon games, 8 on the road.

Elderly Woman Injured In Wreck

Two vehicles, both driven by elderly men, were in a collision Tuesday morning near the entrance to Mt. St. Mary's College south of here, causing serious injuries to an 82-year-old woman. The injured woman, Mrs. Lena Waldorf of Lake Worth, Florida, was listed in fair condition at the Annie M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg. She was under treatment for a fractured left hip and multiple bruises about the face and head.

Trooper E. F. Tracey, who investigated the accident on U. S. 15, reported that a southbound car pulling a house trailer had stopped at the college entrance because a northbound school bus had stopped nearby. The car pulling the trailer was driven by Ernest Gamble, 72, of St. John's Florida.

This machine was struck in the rear by another southbound car, driven by Lee Waldorf, 88, husband of the injured woman. Waldorf escaped injury.

Damage to the trailer was unofficially figured at $200. Damage to the car driven by Waldorf amounted to about $250.

Joseph Tydings Active In Behalf Of Jack Kennedy

Joseph D. Tydings, a member of the Maryland Legislature from Harford County, who was Senator Jack Kennedy's campaign manager last May, has been actively at work the last two months as Senator Kennedy's top regional coordinator in the states of Delaware and Florida.

Immediately after Senator Kennedy's victory in the Maryland primary he requested Tydings to become a part of his pre-convention organization for the Los Angeles convention. Tydings' assignments and responsibilities for the Kennedy organization at the Democratic convention included the states of Delaware and Florida, as well as Maryland.

Shortly after the national convention, when it became obvious that Florida and Delaware were leaning towards the Republican ticket, while the Maryland Democratic Organization appeared to be in good shape, Senator Kennedy assigned Tydings the post of regional co-ordinator for the two states of Delaware and Florida. Tydings is one of 30 such co-ordinators across the nation and is personally responsible to Jack Kennedy for organization and liaison in their respective states.

Tydings' responsibilities include the initial make-up and appointment of Campaign and Citizens for Kennedy Chairmen in each state the settlement and arbitration of local political disputes and personality differences which might cause trouble, and the overall coordination of all campaign efforts in their respective states with the Democratic National Committee, and the overall progress of the campaign.

When Tydings went to work in Delaware and Florida early in August, both states were listed in all national magazines and polls as sure Republican states. Tydings, who is spending most of his time in Florida until the election, stated this week he is confident that the "pollsters are going to be upset in Florida," and that "Senator Kennedy will receive all 10 of Florida's electoral votes."

Suit Develops From Wreck Here

Hazel V. Carmichael, represented by attorney Harry I. Kaplan, filed suit last week against William C. Renner, Baltimore. The plaintiff alleges that on July 8, 1960, while riding in an automobile owned and operated by the defendant on State Route 97 near Flat Run Bridge, Emmitsburg, it was caused to run into and strike in the rear a four-ton tricycle road roller operated by Martin Stouter of Emmitsburg. Deegan's Soccerites Face Tough Schedule

Coach Jim Deegan's Mount St. Mary's soccer team moves into the rugged part of its 12 game schedule with a surprising 4-1 record, the best the Mountaineers have ever been at this stage.

The current Mountie squad is a relatively young one with 2 seniors, 4 juniors, 4 sophs and a freshman on the starting team and 2 seniors, 1 junior, 5 sophs and 3 frosh on the second team.

One of the top surprises has been the play of soph goalie Jack Carr, Chester, Pa. In pre-season scrimmages Carr, who made every mistake in the book including pulling the ball back over the line and into the goal, has averaged 11 saves a game and is the best young goalie the Mount ever had, right now as good as two all-star goalies Jack Gunn and Jim O'Connor of the past two years.

Best shot on the team is frosh Dick Swomley who scored both goals in the win over Western Maryland. Deegan has been using him, however, at left fullback to improve the defense and has switched him into the line when the attack needs revved up. He has done an outstanding job.

Despite the four wins, Deegan's attack has been weak due to the fact that injuries have forced constant substitutions and has rarely seen the same line—either first or second team—in action. Defense has been good and should improve as the club learns to play together and synchronizes its actions. If the improvement continues the team should be hard to score on.

Deegan will settle for a .500 season since 6 of the eight remain games are on the road and the squad seems injury prone. If the club can stay healthy long enough to learn to work together the outlook could improve.

Thus far the Mounties have whipped American U. 6-2; Western Maryland 2-1; Towson 1-0; Georgetown 3-2; and bowed to Loyola 3-0. Remaining are Oct. 19, Baltimore, A; 26, Catholic U., A; 29, Randolph-Macon, H. Nov. 3, Frostburg, A; 7, Lynchburg, H; Doanoke, A, 10.

Safety For Little Spooks

Hallowe'en will be here shortly, and the cry of "Trick or treat!" will be heard in the land. Make this a worry-proof Hallowe'en for yourself with a little safety planning.

Kids in dark clothes and blacked faces are practically invisible to motorists until it's too late. Make light-colored costumes — of flame-proof material of course — and as an extra precaution apply some reflecting tape liberally to hats, broomsticks and anything else the youngsters may be carrying. Costumes should be kept short, so there'll be no falls, and with no streamers to catch on hedges or fences.

Use cosmetics and burnt cork to make up the children's faces. Masks are dangerous — they're difficult to see through and there's always the danger of suffocation with very young children.

Don't let a child carry a candle or torch. A flashlight inside a lantern or pumpkin head is just as effective and a lot safer.

No sharp objects, please, even if they're only made of wood. Unless you can buy rubber swords, knives or what have you, that type of equipment will just have to be left out.

If your child is very young, make sure he plans to make the rounds with others of his own age. Older ones may thoughtlessly leave him straggling behind, where he can get into trouble.

If you can work it out, inconspicuous supervision of the very little ones by a mother or two can avoid later heartbreak. This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by your Tuberculosis Association.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read II Corinthians 1:1-7.
Grace be to you and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. (II Corinthians 1:2.)

It was a stormy November day in a town in northern Norway. I made my way toward the hospital to make my regular calls upon the patients and to hold the preaching service there. In the hospital I found the usual silence—and the usual hurry.

Before the service, an anxious mother asked me to see her son who was seriously ill. She told me he was eighteen and wanted to talk to a minister. As I went into his room, the boy's mother left, closing the door behind her. He and I were alone.

I did not know him, but was about to begin speaking when something unexpected happened. The boy turned his face toward me. He smiled and said, "Peace from the Lord." This dying boy, with faith in the Lord, wanted to share with a minister the peace that Jesus Christ had given him. On a stormy day, in a house of pain and uneasiness, the boy knew the comfort and leavening power of Christ's peace. He passed on to me a feeling of peace, which I carried with me into many experiences.

Prayer
O God of Love, we thank Thee for Christ's peace. Help us to share Thy peace with those we meet, that it may be the leaven of life to them. In Christ's name. Amen.

Thought For The Day
In all circumstances, Christ's peace leavens life.

Looking Ahead

Our Governmental Foundation
A governmental constitution is necessary for the operation of a free society of people. This is another way of saying that freedom can only survive in a government of law; it cannot survive in a government of men. Men are corruptible. The law on the law book is not. Misinterpretations can prevail; but the law on the law book has one basic intention, and no other. In our American system, Faith in God is the basic fundamental pillar of our freedom. Constitutional Government is the second pillar. A Private Enterprise economic system is the third.

Our Founding Fathers were fearful of government. They had a right to be. They knew that nowhere on earth had there been a government that had not taken to itself sooner or later total power over the lives of its people. We should be fearful of government today. Government, through law, delegates power to the people who administer the law and who serve in the legal capacities of governmental functions. If they flaunt the law, freedom is destroyed.

Jefferson Still Afraid
After the Constitution was finally completed at Philadelphia September 17, 1787, Jefferson and other patriots were still so fearful of government, even constitutional government, that they demanded that the specific rights of individual citizens and states be further enunciated in the great document. And thus The Bill of Rights became the first 10 amendments to our Constitution. The rest of the Constitution is devoted to establishing the framework of our government—the carefully divided powers of the legislative, the judiciary and the executive branches. The preamble was, in effect, a basic statement of purpose:

"We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

Broad Base
The substance of the Constitution is broad, bedrock law. It is the spirit of this bedrock law that is important. The history of the Constitutional Convention should be studied by every American. All of us should understand the arguments put forth as each section, each sentence and phrase was subjected to the intellect and experience of the 55 men who created the document, with God's guidance.

The basic convictions of the consensus of these 55 men (there were 65 delegates but only 55 worked on the Constitution; the others did not attend) were these:

Mankind is created by God. Government is necessary for the progress of mankind on earth. Government is dangerous. Power corrupts. Thus the people must be safeguarded from despotic inclinations of government. A Republic, permitting representative government, is the safest and the soundest of all forms. Citizens in a Republic have certain citizenship duties. These are: To be self-reliant, law abiding, God fearing, active in community, political and governmental affairs.

Constitutional Concept
As I understand the thinking of the 55 men who hammered out the U. S. Constitution, the Federal government was to be a mechanism for safeguarding liberty, for maintaining the national defense, for establishing justice in the application of

Many Post Office Buildings Built

Nearly 5,000 post office buildings have been constructed since the launching of the Department's modern improvement program by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield shortly after his appointment to this position by President Eisenhower in 1953.

Postmaster Louis Stoner said that 54 of these new buildings were constructed in Maryland at an estimated cost of $3,212,000.00. While these facilities have been equipped and furnished with Postal funds, Mr. Stoner pointed out, the cost of the buildings themselves is borne by private investors who lease or rent them to the Post Office Department under the commercial leasing program devised by Mr. Summerfield to speed rehabilitation of the Postal physical plant.

On the basis of this experience, it is estimated that at least 1600 new buildings will be added to this total during the current fiscal year.

It was explained that this program not only reduces the government's original expenditure substantially but also means substantial additions to the tax rolls in the communities where the new structures are located since they are not tax-exempt.

"This type of operation has resulted in more and more new post offices each year since it was inaugurated," Postmaster Stoner laws, for safeguarding the economic system that would bring about well-being, for preserving liberty for each new generation of Americans. Specific governing would be done at the local and state levels. Thus, the framers of the Constitution aligned themselves against any form or function of government which might endanger these objectives.

They were for freedom; and against any force seeking to destroy it. Like the cotton growers of Mississippi, who are for cotton and against the boll weevils that ruin the crop, all Americans today need to reassess the fundamental purposes of our Federal government; align themselves for those purposes and against everything that might endanger and destroy the spirit of our Constitutional Government.

said, "and it is my understanding that the annual report which is now being prepared will reveal a new all-time high for the fiscal year 1960 ending June 30 when agreements were signed for 1,602 new buildings costing a little over $100,000,000. We have been told that this is part of a program to completely modernize between 12,000 and 15,000 postal facilities during the next few years."

"In addition to the fact that we are getting more and more brand new buildings, it is doubtful if the Post Office Department was ever before as careful in making preliminary scientific and engineering checks and surveys in order to be sure that the new facilities will adequately take care of present postal needs in their various communities, and future growth as well. And as a clear indication of just how much more rapidly this new program is being carried out, the new building total for fiscal 1959 was 655 representing a total investment by private industry of approximately $62,000,000."

As an indication of the type of agreements negotiated during fiscal 1960, it was stated that 1,125 of them—approximately 75 per cent—were on a lease basis while the remainder were for new buildings but on a monthly rental basis in order to simplify a change should it become necessary.

With reference to the facility improvement in addition to the new buildings being made available under the commercial leasing program, the Department completed plans during fiscal 1960 for modernizing post offices located in 106 federal buildings throughout the United States and that plans are already under way for 31 similar projects.

Another change worthy of attention is that while slightly more than 1,400 rural delivery routes have been consolidated with annual savings in excess of $4,000,000, this type of mail service has actually been extended to benefit an additional 1,500,000 families.

It should also be mentioned that more than 5,700 post offices which were found to be unnecessary have been discontinued at a saving of nearly $9,000,000 a year while at the same time we have established 629 additional classified stations and branches and 980 contract stations and branches in order to provide better service for the public.

On September 5, 1923, during naval bombing tests off Cape Hatteras, N. C., a smoke screen was first used to conceal ship movements.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kestmo

When fall comes our way, the majority of fishermen clean and store their tackle, believing the season has come to a close. Unfortunately, this group of uninformed sportsmen are missing out on perhaps the best fishing of their lives. Chilly fall days are now cooling the waters after a hot summer. Big sluggish fish that retreated to cool deep water, and were hard to catch, during the hot summer days, are now alert and feeding hungrily to store up for the cold winter months ahead. Fishing for all species except bluegills and crappies is by far at its best in the fall. To be more specific, you're unlikely to catch as many as in the earliest fishing of the season — but those you do catch will run far larger. How do you go about catching these late-fall fish? Let's take them by species. During the earlier part of the season you'll have the same weed beds as in spring and summer, so you fish for bass in the same way. A great majority of the time you can get more fish in the last hour or two before dark than in all the rest of the day, states Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

About the middle of the period in question, water weeds die and sink to the bottom. This means that the bass scatter—like gold, they're just where you find them. The best bet, nearly always, is in water from eight to 12 feet deep.

Use lures that run approximately four feet under the surface—retrieved slowly. Indeed, as freeze-up approaches, a bass can't catch a lure run at high speed, for he's become very sluggish. Therefore, you'll get only a poor, slow-motion fight from him; your pleasure must come from bringing in what are likely to be the largest lunkers of your life. Incidentally, from this very cold water, they'll have a better flavor than any bass you ever ate before. After the weeds are gone, the bass all scattered, is the one time of the season when trolling for them is likely to prove more successful than casting.

You'll probably find walleyes where you found them all summer, on a gravelly bottom, rather deep. Here, of course, bottom-skipping with a lure is best. You should catch more of them than you did even in spring, and they are practically certain to run far larger on the average.

Fish for pickerel in exactly the same places that you'd fish for bass. The same lures and methods will do very well, but a pickerel shows a preference for a spoon rather than a plug. If you're fishing specifically for pickerel make your retrieve faster, especially in the latter part of this season, than you would for bass.

Pike feed very actively all winter, and in late fall—generally after some fairly hard frosts—is the time to fish for him. You won't get as many as in spring, but they, even more about sure to run far larger. Pike are so closely related to pickerel that the two might be called identical except for markings and the great difference in size, and they have about the same instincts and feeding habits. Therefore a spoon is generally a somewhat better bet than a plug and your retrieve, in later fall, should be moderately fast.

All the foregoing was about the northern states. As we go south, that late-fall period comes later, naturally, owing to the milder climate. When one strikes the southern states it may not begin until the first of November. However, excellent though late-fall fishing can be in the South, I have never found it spectacularly so for big ones as in the North.

The peculiar thing, in the North, is that this best fishing of the season for big ones comes when most anglers believe that the fishing has long ended.

Now Legal To Import Rabbits

The Board of Health in Maryland recently took action on the State regulation which had been in effect since July of 1950, prohibiting the importation of live rabbits into the State of Maryland. The Board of Health recommended to the Game and Inland Fish Commission that, under the existing regulation, an exception be made to permit the importation of live rabbits into Maryland from the State of Kansas, only, and during the period from November 15 to March 1 until such time as evidence indicates further restrictions are again necessary, Ernest A. Vaughn, Director, announced this week.

The Game and Inland Fish Commission, at its meeting on Oct. 8, approved this recommendation of the Board of Health and rabbits may now be imported from Kansas during the above named period. However, those desiring to import rabbits must first make requests to the Game and Inland Fish Commission in Annapolis to secure permission to do so. In the letter of application the applicants must state the name and address of the rabbit dealer in Kansas, the number of rabbits to be purchased and the counties in which the rabbits are to be released in Maryland, Vaughn related.

The use of imported rabbits, unless they are released for dog field trials just prior to or during the trials, has been proven impractical, not only in Maryland, through studies conducted in 1956 and 1957, but also in other states such as Ohio, New York, Michigan, Kentucky and others. The failures occur through the inability of rabbits released to survive in strange environments more than a few days at best. The most that can be expected of imported rabbits released to supplement the existing breeding stock is from 1% to 15% survival. For this reason the Commission desires to caution those who feel that the stocking of imported rabbits is the answer, that no appreciable increase in the existing population can be expected, the Director emphasized.

Two Birds With One Stone
Indian summer days in Western Maryland have caused squirrel hunters to combine hunting and fishing along the tree covered waterways according to Albert Powell, Supt. of Hatcheries. More Trout In '61!

Trout fishermen are in for two more trout in 1961 according to Commission regulations made on October 8. The creel limit was increased from five to seven.

Farm Assets Increase Slowly

The American Farm Bureau News reports farm assets increased in 1959 at a much lower rate than the three previous years.

Farm assets and net worth hit new peaks on January 1, 1960, according to a recent report of USDA. Assets rose $1.3 billion to reach almost $204 billion, while

Donna Believes In Thrift

Donna Reed, star of the weekly television family comedy series, "The Donna Reed Show," is a member of the Columbia Studio Employees Federal Credit Union and was recently enrolled in a regular savings plan by James L. Peatross, manager of the credit union.

Like many other stars, Miss Reed, an Academy Award winner for her performance in "From Here to Eternity," likes the close convenience of the credit union at Columbia Studio, where employees can save regularly and obtain low-cost loans if they need them.

The credit union now boasts savings totaling $908,000 and outstanding loans of $658,000.

Since "The Donna Reed Show" is produced by Todon Productions in association with Screen Gems, the television sub-siary of Columbia Pictures Corp., Miss Reed is eligible for membership in the studio employees' credit union.

The 1,100 members of the Columbia Studio credit union will join some 14 million other credit unions—including about 11 million in the United States—in the annual celebration of International Credit Union Day on Thursday, October 20. Credit unions are nonprofit thrift organizations formed by groups of people with a common bond, such as working for the same employer or holding membership in the same church, fraternal group, or similar organization.

net worth edged up one third of a billion to a new high of $179.3 billion.

The $1.3 billion advance in assets during 1959 was a marked slowdown from the $8 billion bulge registered in 1956, and the even larger increases of $10 and $16 billion posted in 1957 and 1958.

Farm debts on January 1, 1960 totaled $24 billion, or about 12 per cent of the value of assets. This compares with 18 per cent in 1940, eight per cent in 1946, and ratios above 10 per cent for each of the past six years.

You don't have to join an association just because you get an invitation to do so.

PRE-EMINENT FEEDS DON'T COST... THEY PAY

If you are concerned with securing the greatest returns from your Dairy Herd, Hogs and Poultry (and what producer isn't?), then you'll want to take a good look at the ration you are feeding. It must not only support production at the highest potential of your herd, or swine, or poultry, it also must maintain high body condition so a High Level of Production is maintained. This calls for an adequate supply of protein, fat, carbohydrates, vitamins, minerals, and other essential nutrients . . . in the proper amounts and balance.

Our nutrition program is built on this sound principle . . . and has been proved outstanding on many producers farms. Advantages include high milk production, profit proved hog feeding program and fortified poultry feeds for body strength.
