A salute for the Emmitsburg Jaycees is in order as this is National Jaycee Week. After reading of the activities of the local chapter of the order I must offer commendation for the tremendous advancement made by this group of outstanding young men in less than a year since they organized. Yes, in just a few short months activities included a Road-E-O, barbecue, two car wash projects, a number of dances, charter night celebration, minstrel show and several other activities which I cannot recall offhand. The list is impressive though and there are many other projects now in committee which will benefit the town when carried to their completion. I feel that every young man should join this group and serve his community. United they can accomplish a lot, singly, little or nothing can be accomplished. Vive la Jaycees, let's join up young men!

Congratulations President Kennedy. We feel that you will have the support of the entire Nation and with so many essential and vital matters to attend to you will not only need the Nation's support but that of the whole world. Tremendous problems confront the world at this time and it will take courageous and intelligent handling to keep the world at peace. . . if it can be accomplished. Naturally the Russians are sword rattling at their best as the new President takes over. Nothing like creating a good first impression you know. Only I don't think this impression will go over so well because we all know where we stand and President Kennedy is well aware of the situation also.

I was elated to read this week that several groups of individuals in Frederick County are protesting the type of shows that have been permitted to go on at the Frederick Fair. This is the booking season for fall fairs and the groups are asking that Fair officials change their attitude towards what the groups term indecent shows. I have heard many stories concerning these nebulous shows and often wondered just how our school officials could give the students a day or two off to visit the fairgrounds where young boys would be exposed to these filthy type girly shows. It is really hard to conceive just why parents haven't protested to the school and fair board about these shows because they have been going on for many years, I have been told. At any rate our school PTA's should voice their opinions on the subject and if the stories are true remedial action should be taken immediately.

It's been a severe and fluky winter so far and the end isn't anywhere near in sight. Weathermen have been missing their predictions right and left and surprise snows come floating down on us. It is not unusual anymore to listen to the late weather report at night, go to bed with confidence that the 'morrow will be a fairly nice day, only to be surprised by several inches of the white stuff upon rising. With approximately three more months of winter remaining we could have a record year for snowfall. . . we hope. . . not.

Record Hop Saturday Night

National Jaycee Week in Emmitsburg will come to a close Saturday night when another in a series of Teen Hops will be held in the local Public School, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Jaycees.

The dance is open to all teenagers and will commence at 8 o'clock in the evening. Music will be furnished by Charlie Buffington, disc jockey from Radio Station WHVR in Hanover. Admission to the affair is 60c per person. Refreshments will be on sale during the evening.

Sgt. Irving Miller, U. S. Air Corps, has been transferred to Washington State after completing a two weeks' furlough here visiting relatives and friends. Sgt. Miller has just completed a four-year tour of duty with the Air Corps in England where his wife and three children reside.

Water Co. Rejects Town Offer

Efforts of Emmitsburg's Town Council to negotiate a deal for the purchase of the Emmitsburg Water Company have failed it was announced Tuesday night at a meeting of the Burgess and Commissioners.

Members of the Town Council reported the water utility had flatly rejected a proposed offer. It was known for some time that an offer had been extended the Water Company and that there has been friction between the parties concerned over condition of fire hydrants and pressure. Chairman of the Board of Commissioners Dr. J. W. Houser announced that a petition would be drawn up and circulated among all water consumers in the town to appeal to the Maryland Public Service Commission to force the company to either correct the pressure condition existing or sell the company to the Town of Emmitsburg.

Present at the meeting was a delegation from the Vigilant Hose Co., headed by the president, John J. Hollinger. The delegates pointed out that a serious menace to local life and property existed due to the condition of the hydrants and that the Fire Company would check every single hydrant as to its working condition, capacity and pressure and to send a copy of its report to the Underwriters Bureau, the Town Council, Public Service Commission and the Emmitsburg Water Co. Firemen stated they would seek a meeting with officials of the Water Company in the near future. Fire Chief John S. Hollinger presented the Council with a letter he received from the Maryland Fire Underwriters Bureau back in 1957 which stated that the town had a serious inadequacy and inefficiency in both water supply and pressure, and that the company had not taken any remedial measures in the past three years. Should this condition continue to prevail, the Chief stated, fire insurance rates could take a decided jump at any time. Mayor Clarence G. Frailey told those present that letters from the State Health Department had been repeatedly received over the years warning the Town that the bacteria count was too high in the water and that it was dangerous for human consumption. Council reported it had engaged a Baltimore engineering firm to check the value of the Water Company holdings and the amount of improvements needed and when the firm's report and appraisal was offered the Water Company the offer was refused.

The Fire Company delegation present asked the Council to make its annual financial contribution of $1000 and to make some effort to correct the water pressure situation which they maintained was serious. Council informed the delegation that it was doing all that was possible at the present time to induce the Water Company to make the proposed much-needed improvements and that it already had suspended payment of yearly rental on the fire hydrants until the matter is attended to. During the session the Fire Company offered to deed the parking lot now being maintained by the town, to the Town, and also the local Community Field. Council said it would take the several matters presented to it under advisement and that an answer would be forthcoming in the near future. Should the Town accept the property it more than likely would be made into a public park with Federal and State grants possibly available to improve the grounds.

The Fire Company delegation consisted of John J. Hollinger, Guy A. Baker Jr., Paul A. Keepers, George L. Danner, John S. Hollinger, Sterling White, Kenneth Vaughn, Charles F. Stouter, Guy R. McLaughlin and J. E. Houck. There was no spokesman for the Water Company present.

License Revoked

The State Motor Vehicle Dept. this week announced the revocation of the driver's license of Allen Turvin, R2, Keymar. At the same time the Dept. reported it had suspended the license of Worth Bagley Draper, R1, Emmitsburg, for one month. The Dept. reissued the license of James Wesley Smith of Thurmont.

Who can remember the old days when a long-distance phone call, or a telegram, was an omen of disaster or death?

Nobody ever gets anything for nothing, but a lot of people keep trying.

THURMONT EXPERIENCING WATER SHORTAGE

A growing water shortage in the Thurmont area has resulted in a request for all possible conservation steps until further notice.

Mayor Charles R. Ambrose of Thurmont issued the appeal after disclosing that the community's water supply is now being drawn entirely from a mountain stream, High Run. "And that isn't in any too good condition," he added.

Engineers asked Thurmont officials to turn off both of the community's water pumps for at least a 12-hour period, forcing the switch-over to the mountain stream supply. High Run flows from the watershed west of Thurmont.

Ambrose explained there was no immediate indication how long pumping the regular supply will have to be suspended, and for that reason officials are unable to set a time limit on the water-saving appeal.

The water shortage has been gradually building up on Thurmont for the past several weeks, Ambrose said, when moisture from melting snows was unable to soak sufficiently into frozen soil. "Until further notice," Ambrose said, "I hope everybody will save water as much as possible."

K of C Meeting

Grand Knight Curtis D. Topper presided over the regular meeting of Brute Council 1960, Knights of Columbus held Monday night in the Council home, 35 members in attendance.

A thank-you note from Mother Seton School was read in appreciation of the recent donation of safety patrol flags by the Council. Also a letter congratulating the Council on its membership growth was received and read from C. Edgar Dukehart of Baltimore, also a member of the Council.

A message from Frank Bush, district deputy and Maurice Kline, State Deputy was received expressing appreciation for the work done recently when the local Council in conjunction with the Mt. St. Mary's College Council of the Knights of Columbus when the second and third degrees were exemplified at the local college. A number of candidates for the fourth degree to be conferred in Baltimore on Feb. 19 were signed and a busload of local members will make the trip to Baltimore to witness the degree on that date. A letter from Supreme Headquarters in New Haven, Conn. was received notifying the Council that it had been placed on the insurance honor roll.

Clyde Eyer presented the Council with a new gavel which was carved from lumber taken from a former home of Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton. Prayers were said for the departed brother of Dominic C. Greco, a member, who passed away suddenly in California. The closing prayer was led by the chaplain, Rev. Fr. James Twomey.

EHS Continues Win Streak

In a hum-dinger of a game, Mighty Mite Don Sweeney, amid a chorus of howls from the highly partisan Walkersville crowd, sank two foul shots with 35 seconds remaining in the game to propel the Emmitsburg Liners to a 53-49 upset victory over the Lions of Walkersville on the loser court last Thursday night.

Sweeney, the smallest man on the floor, kept the Liners from being dumped after leading the entire game. Walkersville had tied the score 49-49, on Isadore Troxell's one-hander with 1:34 remaining, but Emmitsburg gained control of the ball after Ron Dorsey missed at the foul line.

The 5'6" guard then dribbled the ball into front court and deep into the left corner, then along the base line. He tried to get the ball up and under the backboard until Ron Linton stepped in his way to block the shot and, in the process, fouled him.

After the Liners had taken a time-out, Sweeney calmly ripped the cords twice to give the lead back to the Liners, 51-49, and eventually the victory, their eighth in nine starts.

Big Bill Zimmerman, ironically the tallest man on the floor at 6'6", insured the Emmitsburg victory by tipping in a lob pass to make the score 53-49 with 14 seconds left.

Emmitsburg played inspiringly in the first half as it took the lead at 5:48 of the first period on a corner shot by Terry Fleagle. The Liners outbounded the Lions throughout the opening 16 minutes and outthrusted Walkersville on both offense and defense.

Town Officials Study Sanitary District Proposal

Representatives from six county communities outside of Frederick city voiced approval Monday evening to the suggested inclusion of existing municipalities into the proposed Frederick County Sanitary District.

The representatives gathered at city hall in Frederick at the request of City Alderman Emmert R. Bowlus who is serving as chairman of a special sub-committee investigating whether it is desirable to have an integrated sanitary and water supply system for all of Frederick County or whether the proposed district should include only those areas where such systems do not already exist.

This question was put to the representatives of the various communities after it had been discussed in detail at a previous meeting of the special sub-committee last November 22.

Those delegates in attendance were as follows: C. G. Frailey, Burgess and J. Norman Flax, Commissioner, of Emmitsburg; Charles R. Ambrose, mayor of Thurmont, and Jules Shapiro, Thurmont Commissioner; Floyd Stine, Burgess of Middletown; Lucian K. Falconer, New Market Commissioner; Paul M. Smith, Burgess of Burkittsville; Gilmore Trout, Burgess of Walkersville, and Robert McLar-en, Walkersville Commissioner.

In voicing their approval to the inclusion of all of the county's municipalities into the proposed Sanitary District the representatives noted that they were not speaking officially for their communities but were offering their personal opinions.

Alderman Bowlus introduced the topic of the delegates by explaining that this was one of many questions which arose when the general commission appointed by the County Commissioners first met last September to discuss the proposed creation of a sanitary district in this county.

The alderman further explained that James H. Grove, president of the general commission, had subsequently set up five sub-committees for greater study of the more important questions raised concerning the proposed district. In addition to the sub-committee headed by Bowlus, other sub-committees were formed to discuss such questions as the legal creation of such a district; the size of the district; the methods of financing such a district; and areas within the county having the greatest immediate potential for the creation of such a district.

It was the general opinion of the delegates in attendance that the Sanitary District proposal was acceptable so long as a fair and equitable transfer of title could be worked out between the commission and these communities already owning water and sewerage facilities.

One of the great advantages of a sanitary district in this county, if established, was pointed out by Robert Whitegord. The city engineer said that it would make possible the development of sites in the county for potential industry outside the corporate limits of communities in the county by offering an adequate water supply and sewerage facility.

Other advantages noted by the group were that a county-wide commission of this nature would relieve the county's local governments of many headaches concerning individual water and sewerage problems. A more uniform fire insurance rate for all of the county's communities would also be made possible as would a greater exchange of equipment for water and sewerage purposes between communities.

Whiteford suggested that one possible negative consideration to the creation of the district would be that parts of the county might not yet be ready for it since they may wish to still remain predominantly agricultural. But he added that the creation of the district would involve only sections of the county at first and would increase in size as the situation required. Burgess Smith of Burkittsville summed up the general feeling of the group when he commented: "We in this county are going to have to take steps forward like the proposed sanitary district or we as a county will run the risk of someday becoming what they call a depressed area."

There are very few young men, starting out in life, who do not believe that, within a few years, they will be rich.

Mountaineers Cop Three More Victories

Coach Jim Phelan's Blue and White Mountaineers racked up their fifth straight basketball victory Saturday night by downing easily, Loyola of Baltimore on the foe's court, by a 90-61 score. The Mountaineers led all the way. The victory gives the Mountaineers a 6-0 conference mark and a 9-2 record for the season. Loyola is 3-3 in the conference and 3-8 overall.

Jerry Savage, 6'2" senior, turned in a brilliant performance for the Mount against the Greyhounds and pumped through 22 tallies. Five teammates also hit in double figures with Ed Pfeiffer bagging 16, John O'Reilly and Jack Campbell, 14 each, and Dick Talley and Dave Samuels, 10 each.

The Mounts jumped out at the start at 9-5 and by half time were on top 41-31.

Outside shooting by Pfeiffer and lay-ups and rebounding by O'Reilly and Samuels shot the Mount ahead 60-41 early in the second half to erase all doubt as to the ultimate outcome.

The Mounts connected on 38 of 74 field goal attempts while the Hounds made only 22 of 65 shots. John Heagney of Loyola was high man for the game with 25 points. Monday night the Phelamen chalked up one of their easiest victories by out-classing the Frostburg State Teachers College dribblers 82-54 on the local court.

It was the sixth successive victory for the Mountaineers to give them a 10-2 record.

Dave Samuels dominated the boards for the Mountaineers while Ed Pfeiffer sparked the fast breaks for the winners.

False Claims Clarified

Claims that you can "add air conditioning to your heating system at a later date" are frequently misleading, warns the Better Heating-Cooling Council of Maryland.

Many prospective home buyers are led to believe that some types of heating systems are especially adaptable to air conditioning and therefore can be combined with cooling equipment with ease and little expense.

According to the Council, there is no "right type" of heating system or "cheap way" for add-on air conditioning. The Council points out that any heating system—regardless of type—must be specially designed and properly installed during original construction of the house if cooling equipment is to be combined with the heating at a later date.

Make sure your heating system is properly installed for air conditioning if you plan add-on cooling, advises the Council. On the other hand don't sacrifice good heating.

If you want to concentrate on good heating to start with, says the council, it is always possible to have a separate cooling system installed at a later time, often at a cost comparable to an efficient combination heating-cooling system.

State Farm Income Rising

Gross cash income from farming in Maryland in 1960 is estimated at 275-280 million dollars, according to Creighton N. Guelow, Agricultural Statistician in Charge of the Maryland Crop Reporting Service at College Park.

"Even though final information is not yet available on marketings of farm products during the fall months," Guelow said, "it now seems evident that gross cash receipts from farming in Maryland in 1960 were 5 to 6 per cent above 1959, and larger than in any previous year." He pointed out that the increase from a year earlier came mainly from increased output, though the overall price level also averaged slightly higher than in 1959. The previous record-high was established in 1953, when cash receipts from farming totaled 267.0 million dollars. Income was down in 1954 and again in 1955, but has increased every year since that time.

Commodities contributing heavily to the increase in 1960 included corn, soybeans and commercial broilers, all of which registered sharp increases in output from the previous year. A more complete report on 1960 cash farm income will be available later this year.

Flute Exhibition At Peabody

An exhibition entitled Flutes and Flutists has been assembled in the Reading Room of the Peabody Institute Library in Baltimore.

Flutes of every kind from many lands are included. The instruments and related materials have been loaned by private collectors and well-known flutists. Lambros D. Callimahos, Sidney Forrest, Britton Johnson, Miss Bonnie Lake and Wilfred Robillard are among the contributors.

The exhibition will continue through February, running simultaneously with Fashions In Furniture which occupies cases in the adjoining Stack Room.

Mrs. Anna Topper and granddaughter, Debbie, visited last Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell and family.

Year's Traffic Statistics Listed

Five hundred and eleven human beings lost their lives in traffic accidents on Maryland's highways during the year 1960. Now we are working on the grim statistics of 1961—twelve persons killed in fifteen days and six of these pedestrians.

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission stated, among last year's victims, one out of seven were children. For the rest, death picked indiscriminately from those who were in the prime of life and those who were aged and feeble. To some, the end came swiftly; to others, only after crawling hours of pain and suffering. But whether the agony was long or short, none of the 511 were returned alive to the streets or highways on which they had set out for their last journey.

Statistics bore most of us, but if we could only make these figures of careless killing come alive we would see a picture of appalling human waste and needless tragedy afflicting the families and friends of both the killer and killed. Responsibility for death or injury on the highways is not something that can be assessed only by the courts. The guilt of those who have caused death or injury, through some want of responsibility, is a moral guilt also. If conscience would assert itself and be heeded, advised the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, accidents might never occur.

Safety on the highway is a matter for the conscience of every individual and they should not disguise their misdemeanor as merely bad luck but show a true aversion for life by assuming their true responsibilities.

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission requests you to: Remember the golden rule of driving—Your car must always be in the right place on the road, at the right moment with the right gear engaged, and travelling at the right speed.

Do You Know?

When driving your car, it is wise to remember that the glib expression "you can stop on a dime" is a myth. A full stop, from a speed of only 20 mph, would require a dime measuring 40 ft. in length. At nominal "city and village" speeds of 30 mph, you will travel 77 ft. before stopping. Allow 128 ft. to stop your car traveling at 40 mph. Going 60 mph, you can stop in 5 seconds, but you've covered 263 ft. of pavement. At "super-highway" speeds of 70 mph, you need 346 ft. of precious stopping distance.

From the standpoint of automobile safety, your car's brakes are the most important components of today's four-wheel wonders. According to safety engineers in the brake linings division of Johns-

Manville, more than 60 per cent of all fatal accidents on the highway are the result of excessive speeds and faulty braking mechanisms. Your safety, and that of your family, depends on proper use and care of these brakes.

It is friction that stops your car, reports J.M. Actually, the brake system employs friction to change motion energy into heat. The material that causes friction, and then absorbs and dissipates the resultant heat, is asbestos brake lining.

Thus, it is highly important to your safety that the automobile you drive is equipped with thoroughly dependable brake linings. They must always respond to the pedal on steep grades as well as on the level, at fast speeds as well as slow, in summer or in winter, in wet weather or dry. For added safety, have your brakes inspected and adjusted regularly every 5000 miles.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

Salt Halts Urinary Calculi

Among nutritional diseases of livestock, it is stated that urinary calculi is exceeded only by bloat and poisonous plants as a cause of death. Feeding extra salt in rations has proved helpful.

The calculi, or stones, are deposits of single stones or aggregates of large and small stones in the kidneys and bladder. When they are so large as to block the flow of urine the accumulation may lead to the condition of "water belly," more frequently seen in males than in females, among both cattle and sheep.

Canadian and State of Washington workers have observed that feed-lot calculi are mostly of the calcium-and-magnesium-phosphate variety. These result from feeding good quality legume hay rich in calcium. It is alkaline and produces an alkaline urine.

The calculi found in range cattle and sheep is composed mostly of silica; a simple form of this is common sand. Range grasses are high in silica and produce an acid urine. The Canadian experimenters speculate that the silica can come out of urine solution and form calculi.

It seemed that an answer to the calculi problem would be to feed something to the animals on feed lot rations to make their urine acid, and something to range animals that would make their urine alkaline.

This theory, when tried, has had some measure of success, but it needs further study.

Acidity or alkalinity of urine and its high concentration largely determine whether calculi are formed and grow to a size that will give trouble.

To help prevent a high concentration of urine, the research workers have suggested constant access to clean drinking water of moderate temperature to encourage liberal consumption of water for dilution of the urine.

To further encourage adequate water intake State of Washington workers, and many others, tested high salt rations. At Washington they found a 10 percent salt level in the grain part of the ration favorable. Later work indicated even a 5 percent level of salt effective in reducing the number of afflicted animals.

Where these practices are adapted to feed-lot conditions, the self-fed salt-oilmeal mixtures on range pastures can be depended upon to stimulate a generous water intake, at least during the period of the year when such mixtures are used.

Question: I've run across a firm advertising that they can prescribe detailed fertilizer and feed nutrients by chemical blood analyses made on the livestock. Is this scientifically feasible?

Answer: There are few blood analyses that are indicative of nutritional deficiencies, and then the deficiencies really have to be severe. To think that a chemical blood analysis can reflect a whole array of possible deficiencies in varying degrees and then to believe they can be corrected by specific fertilizer practices is carrying things too far.

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Declares $1.25 Minimum Wage Will Increase Unemployment

BABSON PARK, Mass., January 19 — President Kennedy's proposed $1.25 minimum wage would result in many employers reducing the number of their wage-workers. They must do so to avoid bankruptcy. But this is not the only dangerous result of such legislation, if passed. Wage Changes Affect

All Groups

If this $1.25 proposal could stop with those now getting less, it could have certain advantages. In addition to aiding several million deserving persons, it would come back to farmers and manufacturers in increased purchasing power. None of this increase would be saved. This could be all to the good, but such legislation could upset all wage scales.

Wageworkers think more of prestige than they do of money. Most people are proud by nature, and well they should be. Furthermore, workers who are now satisfied with $1.25 per hour naturally would not like to see inexperienced workers raised 25% without a corresponding raise for themselves and others more experienced. Hence, the proposed minimum wage could upset the entire wage scale for millions of workers with resulting price increases for foods and consumer goods and services. Unfortunately, President Kennedy's economic advisors have never had a payroll to meet and are wholly ignorant of the intricate subject of wages and prices.

Unfair To Millions Of Small Storekeepers

Eighty per cent of all shopkeepers employ only one or two clerks. These shops could be severely hurt as they are now barely making a living. Not only will most of them be obliged to put one of their clerks on half-time and thus reduce his or her "take-home pay" to 62% cent per hour, but many of the small shops will feel obliged to close up and go out of business. President Kennedy's professors say—"Very well, there are already too many stores in every city and town." Such a statement is very misleading, as such salesmen and others who are now calling upon them will lose their jobs, the local news papers will lose advertising, and more vacant stores will be seen on every business street.

To a certain extent this same principle applies also to the merger of railroads, banks, and various other large concerns. When the merger is announced, the statement is made that "no executive or other employee will be discharged." The policy of "no fire, but no hire" will be adopted. This means that as employees die or become 65 they will not be replaced.

Foreign Competition Causing Unemployment

Even today, with present wage scales, our wageworkers are "pricing themselves" out of work. Many manufacturers in our country are now suffering because of goods imported from Germany, Japan, and Italy, where wages are low and working hours long. As we Americans buy these imported goods, we are increasing unemployment here at home. Hence, any move to further increase our U. S. wage scales at this time will result in the importation of more foreign goods. This would cause unemployment here at home. Fearing this $1.25 minimum wage some corporations are already building factories in these foreign countries. Hence, I foresee that much more unemployment in this country is inevitable, whatever Congress does as to our wage scale.

Aid For "Depressed Areas" Is Justified

President Kennedy deserves support from Congress for his appeal for certain cities which are suffering from exceptionally large unemployment. These are areas which have depended too heavily on one certain industry such as hard coal, coarse textiles, and some farm crops. I am very sympathetic with the report of Senator Douglas on this subject.

It is only fair that the entire country which is enjoying fair prosperity should be taxed to subsidize such unfortunate areas until they get back on their feet again. The money given them should, however, be used partly to develop new industries and not merely be distributed to the unemployed for temporary relief.

bee. All these are regarded as almost purely bass lakes by those who have graduated from the worm-and-bobber stage — and by the expert who fishes for bluegills with flies.

Okeechobee might be called the southern limit of the true bass country, though some are found south of there in spots. This is the largest fresh-water lake contained entirely within one state, and it's so shallow that its whole bottom is covered with vegetation — the number of large bass in it is enormous.

Snook is by far the favorite of sportmen in southern Florida. Size for size, a snook puts up about the same fight as a bass, except that it does not leap so readily nor so high. To at least compensate for their lack of acrobatics, snook, at certain times of the year, can occasionally run up to 18 pounds.

You fish for snook exactly as you would for bass, with the same lures, except that a faster retrieve is generally better. Indeed, you'll sometimes find bass and snook in the same place, so you don't know which you'll catch next.

The Jack crevalle is flat, but not quite as much as a bluegill, and he has very bright, pretty colors. Jacks will average roughly the same size as snook. They have been written up as one of the gamest fish of their size in the world. When first hooked, one will sometimes make a long, fast run that would make a bone-fish feel ashamed of himself. You also fish for jacks as you would for bass and snook, with the same lures; in fact, you'll catch some along the shoreline while fishing for those other species.

Ladyfish look like pure silver and when hooked seem to spend more time high in the air than in the water—they fight like rainbow trout, only better. They're small fish, rarely over two pounds, but they're terrific sport, especially on fly tackle.

Catching tarpon on a fly rod is a type of fishing suitable only for expert, cool-headed anglers, and if you're not that it might be well to take a dozen or so rods and lines out in your boat, each of which may be broken a second or two after hooking a tarpon. For these are probably the world's gamest fish. Some anglers use fresh-water spinning and casting tackle for them.

Fishing is good for everything but tarpon until nearly Christmas, when the first cool wave strikes. Throughout January and February, bass fishing is spotty. In March, bass fishing begins to pick up, but there will be no great improvement in fishing for other species until about the first of May, when all of them, including tarpon, begin to strike well, though at first tarpons are inclined to strike only around dusk, June is invariably the best month in the year for the sea-run, warm-water species.

Strides Are Made In Cancer Cure;

Quick Action Urged

BALTIMORE—One million and six hundred thousand Americans cured of cancer?

The American Cancer Society says "yes," but with a qualification.

In its booklet "1961 Cancer Facts and Figures" issued this week the Society says:

"There are now more than a million Americans, alive today, who have been cured of cancer. By 'cured' we mean they are alive without evidence of the disease at least five years after diagnosis and treatment."

"An additional 600,000 cancer patients diagnosed and treated within the last five years will live to enter the ranks of those we call cured. This means that there are actually 1,600,000 cured of cancer, although 600,000 will not be formally counted as cured until five years from completion of treatment."

The booklet, containing scores of pertinent facts about the cancer problem, says that in 1961 an estimated 37,500 Americans will die of lung cancer, 32,400 of them men, 5,100 of them women. It also adds that 1,000,000 children now in school will die of lung cancer before they reach 70, if present trends continue.

The Society reports that while the death rates from most forms of cancer have been stabilized and some, especially uterine cancer, have declined, lung cancer continues to show an increase.

"Facts and Figures" says the U. S. death rate from uterine cancer has declined 40 per cent among white women in the last 25 years and 25 per cent among Negro women. It attributes this drop to earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment.

The Society says there are more than 180,000 women alive who have been saved from uterine cancer. Still some 14,000 women die each year from uterine cancer. Most of these deaths are unnecessary, "Facts and Figures" says, because new detection and treatment methods make uterine cancer nearly 100 per cent curable.

Some other facts from the Society's booklet:

The annual hospital bill for cancer is estimated at about $350 million. The average annual hospital bill for cancer is $675.

Each year cancer costs the national economy nearly 50,000 man-years of productivity; about $250 million in services and salaries; almost $189 million in estimated spending earnings; at least $26 million in income taxes, plus loss of other tax moneys at least equal to that.

More men than women died of cancer last year. This has been true since 1949. The ratio in 1961 will be about 54 men to 46 women.

Ford Magazine Will Feature Civil War Tales

"Ford Times," read each month by more than 5,000,000 people who enjoy touring America, will devote most of its March, April, and May issues to articles on the Civil War Centennial.

The magazine is sponsored by Ford dealers and is distributed to car owners throughout the United States. The special issues were planned to increase national interest in the centennial events.

As a car owner's magazine, "Ford Times" will follow the centennial observances from the point of view of those who drive thru the South to observe it.

To spur travel to historic Civil War sites, Ford dealers in the southern states will distribute thousands of additional copies of "Ford Times," and will have four-color maps of famous battleground areas available.

Ford dealers in the South also will give illustrated talks to civic groups on historic areas which have appeal for tourists.

The centennial issues, planned for more than a year, are illustrated for the most part with original paintings and color photographs.

The March issue, for example, has articles on Fort Sumter — "First Shot and the Longest Siege," Charleston — a blend of azaleas, armament, she-crab soup, and knights with lances; "Remembered Terrains" — a background story on the great war, modern muzzle-loaders; "Sounds in the Stillness"—a nostalgic revisiting of battleground sites, and a list of events to see during the first centennial year.

Amplified in all three centennial issues will be these tourist attractions—re-enactments of Civil War battles, colorful pageants based on Civil War history, and many tours of ante-bellum homes in the South.

In addition to articles directly connected with Civil War observances, there will be articles appealing to tourists in the South, including one in the March issue on interesting things to buy along the southern roadsides.

The popular "Favorite Recipes of Famous Restaurants" feature in the "Ford Times" will be devoted to southern restaurants and recipes in all three special issues of the magazine.

The commemorative section of the March issue is based on observances during the first year of the Civil War Centennial planned under the guidance of the Civil War Centennial Commission, Washington, D.C., with the aid of 43 state Civil War commissions and many historical groups.

Americans had to save money systematically the hard way until twenty years ago when the Treasury introduced the payroll savings plan for the purchase of Series E' bonds. Americans now own $37½ billion worth of these bonds, and hold six times as much in individual savings as in 1941.

HISTORICAL HORSEPLAY: A leading attraction in the 17th century town of St. George, in Bermuda, is King's Square with its stocks and pillory and costumed town crier. Visitors are invariably delighted to have their pictures taken in the pillory, a device once used for publicly punishing offenders. The dog—as witness his expression—has grown weary of all the hoopla. The town of St. George, founded in 1612, was once the capital of the mid-Atlantic British colony. In 1815, the government moved to Hamilton, the island's largest city. FNS

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kest

A rapidly growing number of people are now taking winter vacations. Probably nearly all people, especially those from the East and Midwest, will go to Florida. The only part of the United States where you can find a combination of at least fair fishing and a climate so warm that you can wear only shorts practically every day.

Let's take Florida from north to south, as you'd drive down, and see what fishing you'll find. Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, tells us that Tallahassee is mostly wooded hill country, and noted chiefly for large pickerel. And big pickerel taken on lighter tackle, are excellent game fish.

A glance at a road map will show you that most lakes lie in a very long district beginning inland from St. Augustine and running down to Lake Okeechobee.

National Jaycee Week Being Observed Here

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AIM OF LOCAL JAYCEES

By J. Edward Houck

The Community Development Program that our local Jaycees are now working on has for the last few years been the Number One External Program of Jaycee organizations all over the United States. This program is broken down into three phases: Survey, Analyze and Action. The program is developed in such a way that the Jaycees have a clear picture of the major and minor needs of the community.

In lining up our local Community Development Program the Jaycee organization named a five-man committee to begin the operations. The committee consisted of J. E. Houck, Robert Simpson, George L. Danner, John S. Hollinger and Guy A. Baker Jr. These individuals gave much time and thought in launching our drive to the public. Survey forms were printed and circulated and questions were asked of people from all walks of community life. The survey forms were made with simple but direct questions that all persons could readily answer.

Organizations were the first to receive the survey forms and within a week results began to flow in—we were now officially in business. The major desire of the organizations was the need for a Community Hall with planned activities and for Job Opportunities for all educational levels. Next the Educational Leaders were surveyed and again the same major problems came forth. Along with the Community Center and the Job Opportunities came the call for an improved Library in Emmitsburg, with hours when the students could attend, both for research and for enjoyment and knowledge found only in a better-organized library. The local Educators even went a step farther in asking that the citizens of Emmitsburg and vicinity take advantage of the cultural and educational programs at the local colleges which are open to the public. It should be noted here that with the many teachers at both our colleges, the different groups and organizations are passing up a very fine opportunity to have qualified guest speakers to add to their programs. The retention of the Senior High School and the need for adult night courses also were high on the list of local needs.

The Businessmen were the next group surveyed and their problems are those of businessmen the world over. Job Opportunities again topped the list. Parking, street-lighting, retention of the Senior High School and a civic-owned Water Company were their thoughts on the town's needs. To stimulate their own businesses they were in favor of starting a Retail Businessmen's Assn. to discuss and work out their problems. Some thoughts were Christmas decorations, Sale Days, Credit Reference Lists, etc.

The General Public found survey forms in the stores, in the newspaper, at the door and even a booth was placed outside the bank and the postoffice in order to reach as many persons as possible. Great cooperation was given this task and soon the public's voice was heard: Job Opportunities in town for the high school and college graduate; a community center with planned activities and a program for the adult, teen and child. A place where meetings could be held; an improved Library in Emmitsburg where reference books as well as reading material could be studied and read.

The Library should be a well-lighted and organized place where it would be a pleasure to go for a few hours in the evening or when you have the time. Several women offered their time to help out and act as librarians for a few hours each week. Retention of the local Senior High School was a popular demand. On this form we asked for the major gripe of the people of Emmitsburg and it was almost 100% that the attitude of the people themselves toward Town Government, town organizations, etc., was so poor that something must be done. Local elections drew so few candidates that it was almost no use to go to the polls. In the last year or so the public began to wake up to the fact that it had a duty to perform, and through our survey more interest has been aroused.

The last group surveyed was the Teen-Age Student. They wanted the Community Center where activities could be held and planned and under supervision, could be open during the week for use as a recreation hall. They would like to see a swimming pool and tennis court available to the public. They also would like to see a Library available. The Teen also was asked if he would work in Emmitsburg if the type of work he was studying or desired, was available. The majority of the answers were YES.

From these surveys the Jaycees have come up with many projects which are now in the working stage. The Safety Committee is working to get action on the dangerous curve at the corner of North Seton Ave. and DePaul Street. The Youth Activities Committee has planned several Teen Record Hops. The House Numbering Committee is working with the Town to complete this project as a prerequisite to house mail delivery. This committee spent many hours making a complete map of the town to be certain the project would be executed properly. A committee is checking with all other local organizations and the Town to see that Welcome Signs are placed at the four main approaches to town.

The Industrial Development Committee now is in the process of making a brochure which will answer any questions which industry might have if it is interested in locating here. This brochure will state such pertinent facts as tax rates, assessments, available land, available water, buildings, housing, insurance rates etc. These booklets will be distributed to the Maryland State Economic Development Board, the Frederick County Economic Development Board and the Area Development Section of The Potomac Edison Co. in Hagerstown. Through these groups, and our own searching, we will be able to contact industry and invite it to settle here—if we can give it what it is looking for! This committee also has contacted the managers of the two local manufacturing firms and offered any assistance to them that they might request. Since the survey was begun we have been in contact with one small electronics firm which is interested in locating in this area. We have located buildings, land, and have a listing of persons wishing to work in such a plant. These all were made available to the firm and negotiations still are in process.

One other major item is the Community Center and Library. The committee has met with persons in this line of work in other towns and we have started a move which we hope will answer the problem of a Community Center, Better Library facilities, Teen-Age Program and meeting hall. This is a long-range project but with the support of the people of the town, the organizations and the Town Officials, we know it will be a great asset to the Community.

All other committees have a start and a finish but the Community Development Committee of the Greater Emmitsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce knows that when one problem is remedied there will be two to take its place. We are ready and willing to face our responsibility!

PRESIDENT DONALD EYLER PROVIDES RESUME OF YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

By Donald Eyer, President, Emmitsburg Jaycees
Sunday, January 15 was the official opening day of Jaycee Week 1961. This week commemorates that time in January, 1915, when young men from 24 cities met in St. Louis, Mo., to launch a new organization. This group now is known as the Jaycees. The Jaycees now function in over 3700 communities with over a quarter of a million members. Jaycees do not function as a social organization, but as a group of young men who wish to see their respective communities develop and grow. Their aims are: better government, community development and last, but not least, leadership training.

On Feb. 29, 1960, the Greater Emmitsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce was officially chartered. Since then our chapter has sponsored a Teen-Age Road-e-o, two car washes, record hops for teenagers, a chicken Bar-b-Que, minstrel show and a pancake supper. At Christmas we had a Nativity scene in front of the Reformed Church and a Santa Claus house on the Square for the local children.

It has been found over the years that Jaycees function best through committee work. Our local chapter has the following committees: Community Development, Special Events, Youth Activities, Safety, Profit-Making, Americanism, Membership, Publicity and Public Relations, Orientation, Programming, Social Activities and finally, Records and History.

Our Community Development committee is currently working on the suggestions that were made by you, the citizens of Emmitsburg, through our splendid co-operation in our Community Development Survey. With further encouraging support from you and from the local town officials we may soon see these suggestions take the form of real assets to our community.

The Jaycees have devoted many hours to membership meetings, board meetings, and various committee meetings. There is a great deal of work involved in the activity of a Jaycee chapter during the course of a year. The only reward we ask is to see that work bring needed results.

The Jaycees welcome any young men between the ages of 21 and 35 who would like to become a member of our chapter. The dues are $11.00 per year.

Best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year.

Jaycees Began Existence 46 Years Ago; Chapters Now Number Thousands

Jaycee Week, the annual anniversary observance of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, commenced last Sunday in Emmitsburg.

The week celebrates the founding of the Junior Chamber in 1915 in St. Louis, Mo., the brainchild of Henry Gies-senbier, Jr., who called together members of a St. Louis dancing club to form the Young Men's Progressive Civic Assn. The name later was changed to the Junior Citizens, starting the abbreviation "JC."

In 1918 the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce invited the Junior Citizens to become affiliated as the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The affiliation was so popular that the "St. Louis plan" soon spread to many cities in the nation. The Jaycees, however, are no longer an arm of the Chamber of Commerce. Though the similarity in name remains, only the aim of civic betterment is similar.

The movement spread so fast that within a year the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce was formed with 24 cities represented.

The organization has reached such proportions that today there are more than 3700 chapters in the National Jaycees with a quarter of a million members. The Jaycee movement also has reached to 90 nations and territories with over 350,000 members in more than 4500 chapters. Junior Chamber International, the world's third largest international club, maintains headquarters in Miami Beach, Fla. The United States Jaycee headquarters is in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Young Men Urged To Join Jaycees

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is a civic service organization for young men between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive. It is dedicated to two purposes: (1) Improvement and development of the community; (2) improvement and development of its individual members to train them for business advancement and civic leadership.

In short, the Junior Chamber of Commerce is an organization of young men learning civic consciousness through constructive action. It is an organization specifically designed to meet a young man's need. ONLY in the JAYCEES is it possible for you to assume leadership in community betterment at an age when such leadership would be denied you if you were competing for offices with older and more experienced men.

WE INVITE YOU TO BECOME A JAYCEE!

Internal Veep Explains Inner Works Of Chapter

By George McDonnell

On the Internal side of our organizational structure are seven committees. These committees and their chairmen have a somewhat different type of work than the external side of the chapter. They deal primarily with the activities of leadership training through competitive state and national projects. These include the Speak Up Jaycee and My True Security programs.

The Records and Recognition committee has as its chairman Robert Seidel. This committee is responsible for making awards to the winners of our local contests, which include the Teen-Age Road-e-o and Speak Up Jaycee.

The Orientation committee is under the chairmanship of Michael Boyle. This committee is responsible for explaining to new members how a Jaycee chapter functions, the duties of the individual officers in the chapter and what is expected of them as Jaycee members.

David Glass is the chairman of our Programming committee. Dave is responsible for making arrangements for our meeting places, dinner meetings, and securing speakers for these meetings.

The Social Activities committee is headed by Patrick Boyle. This committee was responsible for our chicken bar-b-que which was held for the first time in this area last summer. It proved to be a huge success, both socially and financially, and was well attended by the townspeople. Pat did a terrific job on this activity and is admired by the entire chapter for this accomplishment.

The chapter has temporarily lost the services of our Historian and former Internal Vice President Joe Elliot. Joe was a very active member and seldom was a project completed without his help. Michael Topper has assumed the duties of this office.

Last, but certainly not least, we have our Publicity and Public Relations committee. Allen Stoner is chairman of this committee. He is responsible for publishing our monthly news-letter and also for keeping the public informed of our activities.

The future will see the internal structure of our organization sponsor a Bosses' Night, in which each Jaycee member will invite his employer to a dinner in his honor. This night is dedicated to the bosses who support the Jaycees and recognize the value of the organization.

We will also hold a dinner at which time Emmitsburg's Outstanding young man for the year will be honored. The winner will receive the Jaycees Distinguished Service Award. The Distinguished Service Award winner from Emmitsburg will be entered in the Maryland Jaycee Contest, which picks the five outstanding young men—21 through 35—in the state. The state winners will in turn be entered in the national competition, which chooses the nation's 10 outstanding young men.

Activities Group Remains Busy On Local Projects

Charles Long, Chairman

Teen Hops seem to cover our Youth Activities. We have had two Hops which were well attended. Another dance is scheduled for this Saturday night, January 21.

SAFETY

GENE MYERS, Chairman

Our Safety Committee is working to obtain a much-needed traffic signal at the corner of North Seton Ave. and DePaul Street. This intersection has been the scene of a number of accidents in past years. The help of the public will be necessary for the completion of this project.

PROFIT-MAKING

DELBERT PIPER, Chairman

This committee is quite important to the effectiveness of the Jaycees because it provides the funds to enable them to carry out those projects of a civic nature. To date the club has had two Car Washes and a Pancake Supper. These events were well supported by the community and the Jaycees give grateful acknowledgment to the public.

AMERICANISM

JACK BLAKE, Chairman

This committee had its chief public function before and during the November election. Many posters, made by students at the Emmitsburg High School, were placed over town. Flyers urging people to "Get Out And Vote," were distributed by the Boy Scouts and Explorers. On Election Day the Jaycees ran a "Car Lift" providing voters with transportation to and from the polls.

On a USO questionnaire one of the queries is—"Whom do you want notified in case of injury?" In answer to this, a matter-of-fact actor wrote, "The nearest doctor."

Spectators Witness Road-E-O, First Local Jaycee Event

One of the first community projects of the Emmitsburg Jaycees was the Road-E-O held at the local public school. The event drew about 20 contestants and a good crowd. State Police, assisted by the Emmitsburg Police and Thurmont Police Depts. were on hand to aid the Jaycees.

A Wet Time Was Had By All . . . At the First Jaycee Car Wash

Another successful project of the Jaycees in their initial year was the car wash held at the Fire Hall. On that day approximately 100 cars received a bath at $1 per head. This event was followed by another car wash several months later.

Young Men Serve Your Community By Joining The Jaycees

All-Out-Drive For Votes Is Successful

Kennedy or Nixon, take your choice . . . but VOTE. This was the slogan of the Emmitsburg Jaycees last November when the group sponsored a get-out-the-vote drive. The Jaycees provided transportation to and from the polls to all those desiring this accommodation.

External V. P. Cites Committee Activities

By Richard Toms
The Teen-Age Road-E-O, Sterling White chairman, was held in May of 1960. The turnout of young drivers was considered very satisfactory, with a total of 20 contestants. The Jaycees also responded very well with 16 members helping to handle the event.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT
J. EDWARD HOUCK, Chairman
This is one of our biggest projects not only because of the variety of smaller projects that are included but also because of the extended period of time involved in accomplishing its aims.

1—House Numbering. This project consists of giving each building and vacant lot within the corporate limits of Emmitsburg a street number. This is the first phase toward meeting requirements for postal delivery service for the town. After giving each place a number this committee will endeavor to have each number prominently displayed.

2—Community Center. This involves erection of a multi-purpose unit consisting of a library, meeting room and large recreation room.

3—New Industry. Involves compiling data pertinent to industry and attempt to contact that type industry which would provide opportunity for the more aggressive individual to progress.

4—Welcome Signs. Erection of signs at the four approaches to Emmitsburg which would announce the organizations in the area and provide a friendly welcome to visitors.

SPECIAL EVENTS
James Sanders, Chairman
The first special event was the production of the Jaycee Minstrel Show in November. Much work and preparation from both the club and members of the community. Both nights were well attended by the public and it is hoped by the Jaycees that this will be an annual affair.

During the Christmas season the Jaycees erected a Nativity scene on the premises of the Reformed Church and provided a "Santa Shanty" for the children of the community. Many compliments were received concerning these projects and it most certainly will be continued in the succeeding years.

Important Jaycee Data Listed

1—You pay the obligation that every citizen has to the community in which he lives in the pleasantest possible way—through civic service in cooperation with others.

2—You meet and become friends with the very people you would be likely to seek for companions and acquaintances. Jaycees are alert, enthusiastic, ambitious young men representing all walks of life.

3—Your contacts with the young men of the Jaycees and with older businessmen and civic leaders with whom you will be associated in committee work are valuable to you and even apart from the friendships.

4—Jaycee banquets, luncheons, parties and dances meet a young man's need for an active social life.

5—Your activity in Jaycee affairs will help you develop the sense of responsibility which you must attain if you are to succeed in business or in life. You will be entrusted with assignments which ordinarily would not be accorded a young man by his superiors.

6—Responsibility resulting from committee memberships, offices and the like, will put you on your own for decisions, with the consequence that your powers of initiative, originality and ingenuity will necessarily expand.

7—Speaking ability—an asset which too few men can boast—is attained by practice in speaking before audiences. Your reports, your talks in meeting discussions and your addresses before civic groups as a Jaycee speaker, will give you that practice.

8—At the same time you are improving yourself in all these ways through JAYCEE work, you will be receiving recognition both in the organization and through the local press for your accomplishments as committee chairman or officer.

9—Finally you will come to know the outstanding young men of the entire nation through your eventual attendance at conventions, and you may enjoy the same friendships and contacts with young men of other cities you enjoy with your fellow Jaycees at home.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the civic bodies and service organizations of our community and the departments of the local government recognize the great service rendered to this community by the Greater Emmitsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, and

WHEREAS, the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and its affiliated State and Local Organizations have set aside the week of January 15-21, 1961, to observe the founding of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and to commemorate such founding, and

WHEREAS, this organization of young men has contributed materially to the betterment of this community throughout the year,

THEREFORE, I, C. G. Frailey, Mayor of the City of Emmitsburg, do hereby proclaim the week of January 15-21, 1961, as Jaycee Week and urge all citizens of our community to give full consideration to the future services of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

conducting criticality tests since full licensed reactor power of 10 kilowatts was achieved on December 20. During this period, members of the university's department of chemical engineering faculty have been undergoing specialized training in the operation of the reactor and its experimental facilities.

One of several similar facilities in operation on university campuses throughout the nation, the Md. reactor was authorized by the Atomic Energy Commission and was financed by AEC grants totalling more than $180,000.

Physically, the new facility is made up of about 300-tons of concrete and aluminum. It is two stories high, and is about 20 feet in diameter at its base.

The pool type reactor is cooled and moderated by light water and employs plate-type fully enriched uranium-aluminum fuel elements. It will be used primarily for both training and research at the graduate level.

WASHINGTON—President-elect John F. Kennedy has announced the appointment of Michael Monroney, Administrative Assistant to Congressman John Brademas (D-Ind.) for the past two years, as Executive Assistant to the Postmaster General.

JAYCEE FACTS

Young men have a personal gain in civic service, even beyond the knowledge of a job well done. The greater part of a young man's life is ahead of him. Anything that he does now to train himself and develop his abilities assures him direct returns in the years to come.

The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce is a federation of over 2500 local organizations.

The National Headquarters of the U. S. Jaycees is located in Tulsa, Okla. The modern headquarters building, erected in 1951 at a cost of $300,000, has become a "must see" on the lists of places to visit for tourists in Tulsa.

From the local, state and national arms of the Jaycees flow the ideas and efforts of young men devoted to community improvements. The three-cent postage stamp is the link in this nationwide chain of command which runs the fastest growing young men's organization in the nation.

Postmaster General-designate Day on the transition of the Post Office Department from the Republican to the Democratic Administration.

A former Montgomery County, Md. public official and a reporter for The Washington Post and Times-Herald for five years, Monroney has served as Brademas' top aide since January of 1959.

He served on the presidential campaign staff of Adlai Stevenson in 1956, played a national role in the Draft Stevenson movement before last July's Democratic Convention in Los Angeles, then campaigned all this past fall in northern Indiana for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket and for the re-election of Congressman Brademas.

A Navy veteran, Monroney moved into nearby Maryland following his graduation from Dartmouth College in 1951 and has been active there in Democratic politics, serving in 1958 as campaign manager for the Hon. James H. Pugh, successful candidate for Associate Judge of Maryland's Sixth Judicial Circuit.

He is the son of Oklahoma's junior U. S. Senator, the Hon. A. S. Mike Monroney. The younger Monroney lives with his wife and three children in nearby Bethesda, Maryland.

Congressman Brademas, commenting on Monroney's appointment, said "Mike Monroney will do a first-class job in the high-ranking position in the U. S. Post Office Department. During the 2 years he served on my staff, I came to have a great respect for his ability and integrity. Although I will miss Mike Monroney in my office, President-elect Kennedy and the new Postmaster General have made a fine choice."

Alien Registration Continues

H. L. Woolwine, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service today urged all aliens in the State of Maryland who have not yet filled out alien address report forms, to do so before January 31, at the nearest Immigration Service or local Post Office.

The Immigration official pointed out that the law requires all non-citizens except persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives to the United Nations and Mexican National Contract laborers to report their address to the government each January.

Mr. Woolwine added: "The parent or legal guardian of alien children under 14 years of age must fill out the address report form for such children, in order to comply with the law."

He declared: "We have tried to make it as convenient as possible for non-citizens to meet the address report requirement, and in view of serious penalties for willful violation, all persons subject to the address report law are urged to fulfill this obligation before the end of January."

Mr. Woolwine advised: "It is easy for an alien to meet this requirement. He just goes to the nearest Immigration Service office or Post Office, fills out the address report form, and returns it to the clerk. Any non-citizen who is ill may send a friend or relative to obtain the card for him, and return it to the clerk after it has been completed by the alien."

The Immigration official said 8,500 aliens already have filled out address reports. He estimated that 30,000 such reports must be filed in Maryland before January 31, most of which are in the Baltimore metropolitan area.

More than 44 million of the 50 million U. S. households will receive a newspaper today.

Fuel Tax Up

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein today announced that net collections from motor vehicle fuel taxes totalled $28,345,237 in the first half of the Fiscal Year 1961, the six months period ended December 31, 1960. This compares with the net collections of $27,111,394 in the same period of a year ago.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There is little doubt that one of the important matters the new Congress will act upon is that of making revisions in the taxing structure.

At the time when the platform committees of each major political party met last summer, officials of the National Federation of Independent Business appeared by invitation to advise the nation's small businessmen, members of the organization, have long requested revised depreciation schedules.

Subsequently, both party platforms pledged themselves to work for such revisions. Later in the summer the U. S. Treasury Dept. granted authority to the Small Business Administration to conduct a sampling of the nation's independent businessmen to determine what revisions would be most helpful in expanding the economy.

The Federation offered its services to the SBA to make such a survey among nationwide membership. With approval of Treasury Dept. this poll was taken on the government's form. Results are in the hands of the government officials studying situation.

A great deal of the data gathered is quite technical, but on the major points, it does highlight some of the greater drags on the American economy.

It would appear that there are many firms among the 4,000,000 or so small business enterprises in the U. S. who would build new premises or modernize, if the expenditures could be more closely geared to current earnings.

In many cases the revenue bureau, guided by laws it must follow, compels a business to stretch out depreciation allowances for tax purposes over an over long period.

For example, if a building or piece of machinery, costs $10,000, and it is required to take ten years to depreciate this amount for tax purposes, it works out something like this. The first year, only $1000 can be deducted for income tax purposes, and income tax must be paid on the other $9,000.

This means in case of a small corporation, that $10,000 improvement cost at least $12,250, as the $10,000 in the first place was derived from profits, of which $9,000 would be taxed a minimum of 25%.

Now this is a problem that is peculiar to the small, independently owned business. It is not necessarily shared by the big public owned corporation which has access to Wall Street through the securities market for new capital.

But in average small business, the proprietors have all their resources tied up in their enterprise, and any money for growth must come out of operating profits.

There seems little question that a revision of the tax laws as they are presently applied to small business capital investments could result in development of many millions, if not billions, in new business and wages, and at same time, improve facilities of small firms, making them better able to compete.

ful contribution to the enlightenment of the American people on the facts of the war for survival in which our nation is engaged. Mr. Campaigne is convinced we are losing the war and the Communists are winning it. He documents a powerful indictment of our U. S. foreign policy — its lack of traditional American character, its continuing aid to the enemy.

"In the earliest years of our existence," write Mr. Campaigne, "we established certain principles in dealing with other governments. While history has made the application of these principles different in technique, it has not outmoded the principles themselves, nor can it permanently alienate them from our national character, without damaging that character beyond recovery or repair."

George Washington's Code

He cites the character of foreign policy enunciated by President George Washington: "Observe good faith and justice toward all nations. Cultivate peace and harmony with all. Religion and morality enjoin this conduct. . . It will be worthy of a free, enlightened and, at no distant period, a great nation to give to mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a people always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence. Who can doubt that in the course of time and things the fruits of such a plan would richly repay any temporary advantages which might be lost by a steady adherence to it."

Mr. Campaigne says, "Until the United States begins again to operate its own foreign policy in the interest of its own people, and to follow its own historic principles and to reestablish its authentic national character, it will continue to fail. The Soviet Union will continue to win the cold war. Until our policy becomes a United States policy, no United States government can hope to succeed in matching the determination and ruthlessness of the Soviet masters."

U. S. Is Mighty

Mr. Campaigne's book, as the title suggests, assesses the "myth" of Soviet might which has seemingly caused the United States to retreat, to give ground, to complain but finally accept the continuing advances of Communism in nation after nation—at a time, he contends, when a determination on our part and a show of our unmatched power would have halted the Reds.

"Too many people in the United States," he says, "have surrendered weakly to the Soviet psychological offensive. Only twice in recent years have we actually called a Soviet bluff—once in Quemoy and once in Lebanon. On both occasions the enemy backed down. He will back down every time—in Berlin, the Middle East, the Far East, anywhere. We have only to knock the chip off his shoulder, and he is suddenly quiet."

Reds Run From Fight

Khrushchev and the other Communist leaders, Mr. Cam-

paigne says, "know who has the stronger force: economic, political, ethical, military, and every other. It is we who are not sure. With great cunning (Khrushchev) has exploited our growing weakness of character to create in us this dangerous uncertainty. It is time we saw ourselves as the enemy sees us, formidable and in fact unbeatable."

He says in the conclusion of his provocative book: "As long as we seek 'peace' in the Soviet sense more than we seek freedom and liberty, we will remain on the defensive, and the Communists will keep on winning. If we wanted that sort of peace at Quemoy, we could have had it at the price of surrender. We can end the whole cold war at the price of surrender. There is only one reason for carrying on the cold war. That is to preserve our liberty and extend all human liberty. If liberty is important, nothing should deter us. Our foreign policy must be based on this concept. Until it is, we will not even begin to succeed."

New Door, Window Units Save Costs in Remodeling

Home modernization has itself been modernized by assembly-line techniques. Many building units once assembled on the job now can be bought, pre-built and ready to install, from building material dealers.

The homeowner launching a modernization project can save labor costs by choosing from a wide variety of stock window units and panel doors of ponderosa pine, which have been precision-built and completely assembled at the factory. A carpenter—or the homeowner himself, if he's skillful with tools—can quickly install the complete wood window or door units, which include the frame.

Complete units are ideal for new construction as well as remodeling because the choice of styles in both doors and windows is wide. Door designs, pre-hung in their frames, vary from 6- or 8-panel Colonial, copied exactly from authentic Early American architecture, to 3-panel "ranch" contemporary. Others have removable panels so the homeowner can design his own door by choosing the lower or panel combination that suits his taste and the architectural style of his house inside and out.

Window units of ponderosa pine include double-hung, casement, awning and hopper models in many styles that vary according to the manufacturer. All hardware is provided. Most have removable storm sash and screens. Insulating glass is available.

Stationary wood window units range from large, single-pane "picture" windows to multi-pane bay and bow windows. Some include the complete portion of wall in which the unit is installed.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

... By Any Other Name

Many of those who have swelled attendance at Thoroughbred race tracks to 35,000,000 may find the terminology of the sport strange if not confusing. For example, the "solid-hooved herbivorous mammal, equus caballus", is popularly . . . but not always correctly . . . called a horse. In Thoroughbred racing and breeding parlance, however, a horse is a male animal 5 years old or over.

Prior to becoming officially a horse he is known by a number of other terms (not including some colorful, if unflattering, appellations given him by racing fans when he finishes "at the eighth pole"!)

A foal is a young horse of either sex and while unweaned is known as a suckling. When separated from the dam, or maternal parent, he or she is known as a weanling until January 1, when he, or she, becomes a yearling. If male, he becomes a colt and remains so, unless he becomes a gelding (unsexed) until he is 5 years old; a female is a filly until 5. From 5 on they are horses or mares and when they become parents they are sires or dams. Collectively, horses by the same sire are his get; foals from the same dam, her produce. All are maidens until they win a race.

FAMOUS AMERICAN TAVERNS

The Blockhouse Inn, Whidbey Island, Wash.

A Wandering Irishman Knew a Snug Harbor

Because a wandering peg-legged Irishman knew a snug harbor when he saw one, the Blockhouse Inn on Washington's Whidbey Island, north of Seattle, is celebrating its hundredth anniversary. John Alexander trokked in 1861 with his family by covered wagon across the United States, then by boat to Whidbey, the nation's second largest coastal island. In a cove of the island's long arm, Alexander came to a natural, deep-water harbor, fringed by tall fir trees, lace-like ferns and lush grass and populated by browsing deer.

There were Indians, too. They looked friendly, but the Irishman wasn't taking any chances. He built a sturdy blockhouse, complete with rifle slits. It stood always ready as Alexander busied himself with cutting timbers for California's flourishing gold mines. Later he built a two-story, ten-bedroom frame house, with four brick fireplaces. The house overlooked the port, where four-masted schooners tied up to local Alexander's timbers.

After Alexander died in 1860, his widow turned the house into an inn, which it has been ever since. It was a restful place for the early sea captains where they could sip ale, dine on venison steak, and watch their ships riding safely at anchor.

All that was needed was to give the harbor a name. A group of captains therefore one day placed their own names in a hat. One was drawn out, that of Captain Thomas Coupe, and thereafter the place was known as Coupeville.

Today sailing men still dock at Coupeville to dine at the friendly inn beside the old blockhouse. And many tourists travel to the island haven by ferry.

"Don't Push That Rock, Mister"

It's not all squid-jiggin' around Conception Bay in Newfoundland. "Teetering Rock," seldom given a second look by fishermen, is a never-failing attraction to non-fishing visitors. The rock is balanced on the side of a hill overlooking Conception Bay. How long it has been there nobody in Newfoundland knows. How long will it stay there? "As long as there's squid-jiggin' in Conception Bay," the old-timers say.

Combined Benefits Being Offered By Social Security

Workers who are reaching retirement age in 1961 may now receive more in combined social security benefits and earnings even though they exceed the $1200 limitation, according to an announcement today by W. S. King, Manager of the Hagerstown Social Security District Office.

This is so, King explained, because the method of charging excess earnings over the $1200 limitation has been changed by recent amendments to the Social Security Act. The new method provides that $100 in benefits will be withheld for each $200 earned between $1200 and $1500; and for every $100 earned over the $1500 $100 in benefits will be withheld from total family benefits payable.

This important change will now make many more workers eligible for some social security benefits in 1961 and future years than under the old law which disqualified a worker for any payments if he was working in all months of the year and his earnings exceeded $2080.

Here are just two examples of how the new retirement test works:
(1) A man and his wife receiving monthly social security payments of $180, the highest amount now payable to a retired couple, may receive some benefits during the year if the husband earns less than $3510. Under the old law, he and his wife would have been disqualified if he had worked in all months of the year at this level of earnings.

(2) A worker receiving $120 a month in social security benefits could earn up to $2790 in 1961 or a future year, and still receive some of his benefits.

The provision still applies that all monthly benefits may be paid if earnings do not exceed $1200 in the year. Also there has been no change in the provision that a benefit is payable in any month in which the beneficiary does not earn more than $100 in wages or render substantial services in self-employment, regardless of his total earnings during the year.
Benefits may also be paid for months in which a worker is age 72 or over, regardless of his earnings.

King urges all workers who are nearing retirement age (age 65 for men, 62 for women), or have reached retirement age and have deferred filing a claim for benefits because they were earning over $1200 a year, to call at the Social Security District Office, 59 N.

Cannon Ave., Hagerstown, for further information. A free pamphlet entitled "If You Work
While You Get Social Security Payments" (OASI-23), which explains the new retirement test in detail, may be obtained upon request.

Forestry

America has 664,000,000 acres of forestland... and only 17,000 qualified foresters to estimate tree growth, supervise cutting and reforestation, diagnose and treat tree diseases and prevent insect and animal damage to our nation's forests.

Most of all, the forester must know how to prevent forest fires—and how to fight them if they start. America needs healthy lumber for new home construction, furniture, paper, chemical and defense products.

Forty colleges of forestry graduated 1,470 young men last year... not nearly enough to fill existing jobs. Industrial foresters can earn as high as $20,000 a year. Write New York Life Insurance

Busy mother of three finds telephone gives 21 extra hours in two weeks...saves $17³⁸ and 200 miles of traveling

Mrs. Duden uses her phone to find out if a local fabric store has some material she needs.

Mrs. H. Richard Duden of Annapolis recently kept a two-week record of all her family's telephone calls. For each call she also estimated any expense, time and traveling that were saved by being able to telephone.

At the end of two weeks, her tally showed that the telephone had given them almost a full day of extra time, and had saved far more in traveling expenses than the cost of their telephone service.

Whether it was a call to summon a washer repairman or rounding up the youngsters, the phone made busy days easier.

Mrs. Duden found, too, that some calls provide pleasure and peace of mind that can't be measured in time or money saved. For instance, her husband who is an insurance representative and football coach, had to make a business trip to Florida. His Long Distance call to the family went into a "special" category of her telephone diary.

Perhaps you might like to keep a diary to see what your telephone does. We think you'd find, too, that your telephone saves much more in time, trouble and expense —than the cost of having it.

Household Hints

by Joan March Worden

Remember all those things you've told yourself you're going to do "this week" or "next week" to make your housekeeping easier and more efficient?
The trouble with most resolutions about housekeeping is that they're so hard on the housewife that she throws in the sponge before she even uses it, so to speak. Here are five easy-to-keep New Years resolutions about housekeeping:

1. I will stage a sit-down strike: There are some things I will not stand for — such as ironing (which can be done sitting down with the aid of an adjustable board) and chopping up cups of things like celery, nuts and potatoes for salad (which can be chopped just as well from a sitting position on a counter-top stool).

2. I will stop being a con-veyor-belt: I will make up two sets of cleaning equipment for bathroom and kitchen, thus keeping one in each room and saving stairs and/or steps. In this set will be only the three basics: a scouring powder, a pine cleaner and a sponge with one surface for mopping up and one for scrubbing.

3. I will bring back spring and fall: I will stop tearing my house apart twice a year for spring and fall "housecleaning" and go back to enjoying these two most glorious seasons of the year. I will clean one room a month — thoroughly — and thus never blast my house apart at the seams but always keep it in good shape the easy way.

4. I will change the color of Monday: No more blue Mondays, if there are no more washdays. Instead, I will wash two loads of wash two or three times a week, tucked in between other chores. By adding a pine cleaner to each load of wash, I can get clothes cleaner without scrubbing so that I don't have to do so much sorting of individual collars and cuffs and the like. I will also make use of two of the plastic sprinkle bags — one for white and one for colored clothes — so that the clothes can be sorted as I take them from line or dryer.

5. I will make use of the 25th hour: The 25th hour in the day is the time (more or less than an hour) a woman has to herself. I'll take it when the children are napping or at school or, if possible, just before dinner. I'll take a hot bath, a short rest or read something to keep my mind as active as my muscles have been. One hour to myself for such a small indulgence will help me remember that it is no longer true that a woman's work is never done — if she stops before she's done in.

The church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth. (I Timothy 3:15.)

Thirty-five years ago, Nazel El Nassara, meaning "Village of the Nazarenes," was poor, backward, and miserable. This village in Egypt had no schools, no social center, no means of help. It was utterly neglected by all.

A true shining light—a small church, with a young devoted pastor—brought hope to that village and neighborhood. Vital preaching, praying, Bible reading, and a teaching ministry awakened the community to meet its needs thru the power of the living Christ.

The village, now having 2,400 persons living in it, has become a dynamic center of useful service. It has given to Egypt more than one hundred pastors, doctors, chemists, teachers, and engineers, plus scores of efficient business men and leading officials.

Lately, it started a Laubach literacy campaign, which swept over the place and neighborhood, with a Bible team as follow-up.

What a blessing is the church in a needy world!

Prayer

We thank Thee, O God, for all Thy church has meant to us and to our community. We pray Thee to fill it with power needed to change and save communities of people from sin and sorrow, pain and ignorance. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Farm Bureau

Passes Resolutions

At the final session of its 45th Annual Convention held in Baltimore last week, Maryland Farm Bureau members passed Resolutions dealing with welfare, cigarette taxes, rural electrification, Federal aid to education, standard time, and various other matters affecting farmers' interests. Excerpts from these Resolutions follow.

Welfare

"We commend the Governor and other agencies of government for their recent efforts to correct the welfare situation, and are gratified to note improvement in some areas. There remains urgent need for further regulation and revision of the program throughout the State, and we ask that these efforts be continued. We urge legislation to provide more local authority to permit county authorities to make decisions in emergency welfare cases."

Cigarette Taxes

"With cigarettes already taxed beyond the point of diminishing returns, we urge that other sources of revenue be sought when necessary and that no further taxes be levied on this already over-taxed product."

Rural Electrification

"Largely through the successful Rural Electrification Administration program and its stimulation of others, about 95% of our farms are now receiving dependable electric service, making a sizeable contribution to the economy of our country, directly and indirectly. We recommend that the REA be continued as it has been administered in the past, i.e., on a non-partisan basis, and with necessary loan funds from Congress. Interest rates should always be set at a level that will permit rural electric cooperatives to continue servicing their members adequately and reliably."

Federal Aid To Education

"We oppose Federal aid, except in emergency areas, for classroom construction and teachers' salaries, since it may develop into Federal domination of the Public school system throughout the Nation."

Baltimore City Milk Permit

"We deplore and oppose any effort to place a fee, charge, or impost, on any farmers' right to produce and market a commodity, such as the $15 fee imposed by Baltimore City on dairy farmers, and request legislation to prohibit any such levy as a means of raising public revenues."

Raceway Names General Manager

BALTIMORE—J. Frank Cashen has been appointed to the position of General Manager at Baltimore Raceway, C. William Hetzger, President of the track, announced Tuesday.

Cashen, who has served as assistant general manager and director of public relations at the Raceway for the past two years, succeeds M. Joseph Lynch, who resigned to accept the position of Executive Director of the State of Pennsylvania.

Before joining the Raceway staff, Cashen worked in the sports department of the Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American for 15 years. Born in Baltimore and a graduate of Mt. St. Joseph's High School, Loyola College and the University of Maryland Law School, Cashen also has done radio and television work and contributed to national magazines.

He is a former president of The Sports Reporters Association of Baltimore, The Baltimore News Union and The Esquires, Inc., and a former officer of the Baltimore Press Club and Loyola College Alumni Association.

Cashen and his wife, Jean, and their six children reside in the Greenbriar section of Baltimore County.

Baltimore Raceway, which recently purchased controlling interest in Bel Air race track, has not been assigned its 1961 racing dates by the Maryland Commission. However, Cashen said that Baltimore is well advanced in its planning for the pending season and has gotten excellent response to its Lord and Lady Baltimore Stake program.

STATE GAME HIGHLIGHTS

By Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission

Law Enforcement Highlights
In the fiscal year that ended

June 30, 1960, Maryland game wardens made 1,085 game and fish cases which netted the State $24,252 in fines, according to George Shields, chief of law enforcement, Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission.

There were 759 game cases which cost the violators $20,747 and 926 fish cases with fines assessed at $3,505.00.

Fishing without a license was the most common violation with a minimum fine of $10, Shields stated. "It is puzzling why so many anglers would take a chance when a fishing license costs only $3.00. It is about the lowest-cost piece of year-round equipment a fisherman can buy," the chief reported.

Also the leading game violation was hunting without a license or an improper one. Many non-residents secure improper licenses by falsifying residency in the state in order to purchase resident hunting licenses. "This practice does not work," the chief said emphatically, "as we are constantly checking on this violation and will eventually apprehend the violators."

The price tag on this violation is a minimum of $50.00.

Beavers Move To Maryland

For years beavers have been steadily increasing throughout Allegany and Garrett Counties. Frequently they have dammed streams in Garrett causing them to overflow along county roads, reports Joseph Minke, regional game warden. They also have dammed small tributaries creating ponds which have been stocked with trout and are now producing excellent fishing. However, last summer a pair of eager beavers carried their damming operations a little too far, Minke stated, by erecting a dam just above the water intake of the Koppers Tie Treating Plant at Green Spring, W. Va. The dam went unnoticed until the shut-off water stopped plant operations temporarily. The dam was removed but the beavers rebuilt. This operation went on for seven consecutive times until the beavers gave up and decided to move across the Potomac River to the Maryland side.

Deer Goes To Virginia

A doe deer with tag number 310 was killed near Lovettsville, Va., recently. It was ear tagged and released by the Dept. of Game and Inland Fish in the Brownsville section of Washington County, Md., on Feb. 3, 1954, according to Chester Kerns, chief of game management. The deer was live-trapped at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds of the Army in Harford County, Md. on the same date. It travelled approximately eight miles almost directly south from the point of release to the location of the kill.

Wildlife Notes From Shore

With plenty of ice and apparently plenty of fish, anglers have enjoyed one of the longest periods for ice fishing in the North East River in recent years reports Guy Rogers, regional fish culturist. Several hundred fishermen were observed fishing each day over the past weekend. The predominate species caught were largemouth bass and yellow perch or yellow neds as they are called locally. In Carrot Cove, according to reports, nice size white perch were taken.

Wild Turkey Observations

The Dept. has received very encouraging reports from fieldmen in the three westernmost counties on the carry-over of wild turkey in the woods since Nov., 1960, according to Chester Kerns, chief of game management. Three employees reported seeing at least 100 birds in widely separated areas in Allegany and Washington Counties, many of them at feeding stations.

Legislative Action

Bills introduced: H.B. 99 by Moore—To remove the Susquehanna Flats and certain tributaries of Chesapeake Bay from areas wherein fishing before or during the duck season is prohibited.

Tax Insert Explained

District Director of Internal Revenue Irving Machiz said this week that his office is receiving hundreds of telephone calls daily concerning an insert mailed by the Service Center at Lawrence, Mass., with the Employers Quarterly Federal tax form 941. Some employers seem to be under the impression that Social Security tax rates have been increased effective January 1, 1960.

There has been no change in the amount of tax to be withheld from wages for social security purposes. The social security tax rate is 3% for employees and 3% for employers, or a total of 6%. These rates apply to the first $4,800 of wages paid to employees, Mr. Machiz said. The social security tax rate for the self-employed remains at 4%.

The insert, Machiz said, calls attention to a change in the tax rate of Federal Unemployment Tax, FUTA. This rate changes from 3+ to 3.1% applicable to wages paid on and after January 1, 1961. This tax is paid entirely by the employer annually and is reported on Form 940, Employer's Annual Federal Unemployment Tax Return.

Celebrates Birthday

Master Robert Henke, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henke, celebrated his sixth birthday at party given at his home on Jan. 19. Those present were Jimmy Phelan, Jimmy Deegan, Lee Joy, Bobby Seidel, Eddie Thomas, Bruce and Gene Martin, and Paul Joly. The boys played games and refreshments were served.

Miss Jenny Wivell spent the weekend with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoff and family of Taneytown.

In the early nineteenth Century, seven out of every 10 persons worked on the land in the United States. Today the average is one of every 10.

If success made the heart swell like it does the head, this would be a far better world.
