BY ABIGAIL

Castro's tractor deal for prisoners seems to have hit a snag and it isn't a bit surprising either. Those concerned should have known that you just can't do business with a blackmailer, and especially one of Castro's ilk. The deal was ill-fated from the start and more than likely was a ruse just to get his foot in the front door to be in a position to make bigger and better deals for his nebulous activities. You'd have thought this country would have known better after the scrap iron episode with the Japs prior to the last war, but I guess the lesson went by the wayside.

Another instance of this sort of dealing with the enemy came to light this week when a whole shipload of Cuban molasses was landed and unloaded at New Orleans. President Kennedy was much perturbed over the transaction and is looking into the matter to see just who is involved and who is to profit. As in most deals of this sort it is hard to pin down the individuals and determine their motives but you can rest assured the executive branch of our government is vitally interested in just who is doing business with Castro and why.

I'm amazed at the public's apathy towards extravagant and unnecessary expenditures by public officials, bureaus and boards. Since Dr. Sensesbaugh asked for the public's opinion on a proposed $350,000 swimming pool for Frederick's new high school there has been little or no public clamoring, either for or against. Once the project goes through it is too late to object and the tax bill goes all the higher. The time for action is now. Either write to the Board of Education immediately, express your opinion in the newspapers, organize petitions or else forget the whole darn thing. To date there have been only a few objecting letters to the editor in the county papers. The majority of the papers have attacked the plan editorially but that is not enough. With classroom space at a premium the problem now is to increase this space and forget the frills of the physical ed side. Don't get me wrong. I am not opposed to phys ed instruction but it should not be overemphasized. After all the schools were started and are maintained for the primary purpose of educating the children intellectually, not muscally.

A friend advises me that a certain individual has some 500 gallons of Michigan water for sale. For further particulars, see Sterling White.

Jaycee Board Meets; Plans Formulated For Coming Year

The meeting was a planning session for the coming year, with committees selected and probable committee chairmen. The budget and plans on how to meet the budget with planned activity each month throughout the next year was discussed.

Patrick Boyle announced that the first Past Presidents' Night will be held July 13 at the VFW Annex at 7 p. m. Invitations are being sent to all members and their wives, plus any guests a member might like to invite.

David Glass announced that the Thurmont Jaycees have challenged the local chapter in a softball game, and the locals have accepted the challenge and the game will be played Sunday, July 16, at 2:30 p. m. on our local Community Field, the losers buying the refreshments.

August 6 has been selected for this year's Chicken Barbecue. A planned menu, time, price and place will be announced in another week or so. Please keep this date in mind when planning your affairs.

Directors present at this meeting were: President, Allen Stoner, internal vice president, William Boyd; external vice president, Pat Boyle, treasurer, Donald Eyer, and director, George Danner.

The next general membership meeting will be July 6, 7:45 p. m.

There are substitutes in some lines, but non for practice.

Jaycees Will Sponsor Check In Emmitsburg

"Join the Circle of Safety—Check Your Car—Check Your Driving—Check Accidents," Jaycee Safety Chairman Sterling White urged all area motorists this week. Emmitsburg's voluntary Safety-Check is scheduled for July 9, 1961.

"This voluntary Vehicle Safety-Check gives every motorist a chance to do his part in making our community a safer place to live," he said. "Even our best drivers are poor risks if they are driving cars with bad brakes, worn tires, or other neglected items."

"Equally important in our Safety-Check is the challenge to all drivers to check their conduct behind the wheel. Both safe cars and safe drivers are needed to check accidents," he declared.

White announced check lanes will be set up which will give motorists an opportunity to take advantage of the free and voluntary 10-point Vehicle Safety-Checks. The lanes will be open from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. and will be operated by qualified mechanics and volunteers.

"One out of six vehicles checked in the 1960 nation-wide Safety-Check needed immediate attention to one or more of the ten items affecting safe-driving condition," White reported. "The ten items safety-checked are brakes, front and rear lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers, rear view mirror and horn."

A "Safety-Checked" windshield sticker reassures owners their vehicles were checked and found in safe operating condition," White remarked. "Vehicles found to be unsafe permit owners to have dangerous conditions corrected before they become a factor in a traffic accident. Many motorists don't know they are driving cars that endanger themselves, their families, and their community. A Safety-Check is the best way to find out," he added.

"When you have your car safety-checked you have joined the 'Circle of Safety,'" Chairman White explained. "You will receive a copy of the folder Safe Driving Tips at the check lane. Each driver will want to keep this folder as a reminder to stay in the 'Circle of Safety' by checking his driving to check accidents," he said.

The Safety-Check in Emmitsburg is part of the annual National Vehicle Safety-Check for Communities sponsored by the Auto Industries, Highway Safety Committee and Look Magazine, with the cooperation of the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators. In 1960 nearly 3,000 communities in states not requiring periodic motor vehicle inspection conducted voluntary Safety-Checks. Over three million motorists had their vehicles checked and thousands had unsafe items repaired and their cars rechecked—thus demonstrating their personal responsibility for safe use of the roads and streets of their communities.

Health Inspector Here; Makes Recommendations

Letters have been sent to violators of the Town's Health Ordinance this week after an inspection by a State Health Dept. official here last week.

During his visit here the inspector uncovered numerous rat harbors, eyesores and other health menaces. Following his advice the Burgess and Commissioners sent letters to the responsible parties instructing them to take remedial measures immediately.

At the same time the Town Council and Health Inspector were quick to compliment all those who have kept their property in shipshape condition. It was with a deep sense of civic pride that they complimented citizens for having their lots mowed, property painted and repaired and other features which add to the general neat appearance of the community as a whole.

Street Commissioner Norman Flax announced that general repaving, some resurfacing and other repairing of streets had been done the past week by Maitland Brothers and that at the present time a new street was being laid in Emmitt Gardens.

Breaks Ankle

Bank Declares Best Dividend

George L. Wilhide, president of The Farmers State Bank, reported this week that the bank would pay a six-months dividend of 5% regular dividend and a special 2% dividend to the first six months of 1961.

The dividend was voted by the Board of Directors at its June 13 meeting and is payable to stockholders on record as of June 20. The dividend represents the highest paid in a six-months period in the history of the local banking institution.

Carl Wetzel Elected Knights of Columbus Grand Knight

Carl Wetzel was elected grand knight of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, Emmitsburg, at the annual election of officers held Monday night in the Council home on the Square.

Curtis D. Topper, present grand knight, presided over the meeting with 37 members and four guests present. District Deputy Frank Bush, Frederick, was present and spoke briefly. Other guests were from Hagerstown.

Other officers of the group elected were as follows: Deputy grand knight, Carroll E. Frock; warden, Clyde J. Eyer; recorder, Ray Lauer; treasurer, William L. Topper; advocate, J. Ward Kerrigan; inside guard, Thomas Seltzer; outside guard, Philip Wetzel; trustee, Curtis Topper; delegate to state convention, Curtis Topper; alternate to delegate, John Everett Chrimer; alternate to grand knight, Guy A. Baker Sr.

Man Is Injured In 2-Vehicle Crash Near Town

A charge of reckless driving was filed late Monday afternoon against a Westminster woman motorist involved in a rear-end collision in front of Mount Saint Mary's College. The accident occurred on U. S. Rt. 15 at the front gate of the school south of here.

Trooper Neil F. Bechtol of the State Police filed the charge against Mrs. Helen Cooke Billingslea, 36, of Westminster, one of the two drivers involved. The other driver was Miss Michelle Marie McKenna, 18, of Chevy Chase.

Six passengers were riding in Miss McKenna's station wagon and five passengers were riding with Mrs. Billingslea. Some of the passengers were injured enough to be treated at Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, before they were released.

Only person admitted to the hospital as a patient was the father of Mrs. Billingslea, Raymond W. Cooke, 65, whose home is in Wilmington, Del. He was riding alongside his daughter in the front seat of the Billingslea car when it bumped into the rear of the McKenna station wagon. Both cars at the time were northbound on Route 15 and Miss McKenna was preparing to turn her station wagon into the college entrance.

Mr. Cooke suffered a fracture of the left knee cap.

Trooper Bechtol said Mrs. Billingslea had turned to glance at the Mount Saint Mary's College buildings and failed to notice immediately that the car in front was slowing up to turn through the gateway.

The accident occurred about 5:15 p. m.

Damage to the Billingslea sedan was figured at $800. Damage to the station wagon was estimated at $350.

Trooper E. F. Tracey assisted Trooper Bechtol.

ROBERT J. CARTY

Robert Joshua Carty, husband of Vernie Grams Carty, died at the home of his daughter, 710 Park Ave., Brunswick, last Wednesday, aged 82 years. He was a son of the late Jacob and Ann Ingram Carty, and is survived by his widow and the following children: George W. Carty, Brunswick; Ellis G. Carty, Frederick; Mrs. Leta Fitez, Frederick; Mrs. Grace Wachter, Frederick; Mrs. Hilda Thompson, Brunswick; Wilbur Carty, Baltimore; Thomas and Elmer Carty, Frederick. One brother, Albert Carty, Emmitsburg, and seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were held Sunday at 3 p. m. at the Feete Funeral Home, Brunswick, with the Rev. R. E. Hartle officiating. Interment was in Park Heights Cemetery.

Election year is when a President is picked out; the next four years he is picked on.

Former Resident Describes Trip To Holy Land

A former Emmitsburg man and his family, just recently returned from a trip to the Holy Land, gives a graphic account of his journey with the hope that it might prove interesting to readers of the Chronicle.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fuss, daughter, Mary and son, John, left this country on May 12 and returned June 12. The trip was in Jerusalem. Twelve hundred Americans were in the entourage and eight countries were visited. The journey was made from the United States to the foreign countries by plane and the group returned also by plane. Visited were Egypt, Jordan, Israel, Greece, Italy, Switzerland France and England.

The farthest distance away from home was 10,000 miles and 2200 miles were covered by bus in continental Europe.

Of particular interest to the travelers was the Sphinx at Cairo. The group traveled by camel from Cairo to the Sphinx. Quite a number of historic spots were viewed at this city and included were King Tut's tomb and museum. The group was impressed by the poverty that was prevalent in Egypt and also the primitive methods of farming. In Jerusalem it was noted that the narrow streets, 10-12 feet in width, were heavily traveled and always crowded at all hours. Noted here also were the primitive methods of living and sanitation. In Jerusalem they visited many interesting points so familiar to Bible readers. Two of the group baptized themselves in the River Jordan. Bethlehem, the birthplace of Jesus, also was on the agenda and the group saw the home of Mary and Martha, Lazarus' tomb and the tomb of Jesus. In Israel it was noted that the Sabbath was strictly observed and that there were three Sabbaths all of which were observed by the three different religious factors there, on three different days. In Israel, Mr. Fuss says, the weather is much akin to that of Southern California.

Robert and his family who all reside at Covina, Calif., are visiting here at the present time. Mr. Fuss is a brother to Mrs. Carrie Fuss Long, John, Elmer and Clarence Fuss and formerly resided here.

Taxpayer Opposes High School Swimming Pool

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

I read with great interest your story regarding the proposal for a swimming pool in the new Frederick High School.

I believe there are many who oppose this idea as being without logic in our present situation. As to why their voices are not heard we can only guess. Public apathy is a problem not only in our country but all over the U. S. We are all guilty of it at some time. Perhaps we place too much dependence in our public officials, forgetting that they are there to serve the will of the people. Unless they know how the taxpayers feel, they can be pressured into making expenditures that are both as foolish and ill-advised as the one now proposed.

If we have $300,000 extra that can be used for public education, let's use it where it will truly make the Frederick County school system outstanding in our state. However, let our schools be noted for academic excellence, not as showplaces.

The youths who leave school prior to graduation, unprepared and looking for often nonexistent jobs, could use some help. We would like to see trade school classes to keep them interested in their education and trained as productive citizens. Perhaps we could use a larger and more efficient guidance department, special classes and teachers for the slow reader and gifted student, better salaries for career teachers, or simply extra space for the ever expanding school population.

There are, of course, many other useful things we could do with our tax money. We certainly hope our citizens don't lose $300,000 of it by default.

Thanks, Mr. Editor, for reminding us citizens and taxpayers that we have a duty not only to have an opinion, but to express it to others. It is only when we do that democracy proves to be a noble experiment.

Way Of Life

The really good resolutions lead to reform—and reform soon becomes a habit.

Bible School Has Large Number Enrolled

Monday morning, June 19, was the beginning of the Vacation Bible School which is held each year as a cooperative effort of the Protestant churches of the community and of Tom's Creek Methodist Church. This year the number of pupils enrolled by Wednesday was 144 children. The theme for the school is "Living For Jesus." The school is directed by Rev. Philip Bower and Rev. John Chatlos. Mrs. Frank Webb is the treasurer and Robert Zimmerman is the assistant treasurer.

The Nursery Department, with 19 children, is being taught by Mrs. Ralph Lindsey. Her assistants and helpers are Mrs. Weldon Shank Jr., Mrs. Gene Valentine, and Wanda Meadows.

The Beginner or Kindergarten Department is taught by Mrs. George Schaefer and Mrs. Frank Webb. There are 21 children enrolled. The other workers in this department are Katherine Richards, Mrs. Russell Andrew, Brenda Sanders, Mrs. H. Price and Mrs. F. J. Longpre.

Primary I, consisting of 31 children who completed first and second grade in school, is being taught by Mrs. John Chatlos. Mrs. Richard Heltibridge, Carolyn Umbel, Treasa Pfeiffer and Ellen Tokar are the assistant teachers and helpers in this department.

Primary II, children who were in third and fourth grade in school, is taught by Miss Audrey Baumgardner. Mrs. Austin Nussbaum is her assistant with Barbara Hardman and Ronnie Reeves as the helpers. There are 38 children in this department.

Junior I, or 5th grade, with 16 members in the class, is taught by Mrs. Abram L. Geist the first week and by Mrs. Weldon B. Shank Sr., the second week. Mrs. James Sanders is the assistant.

Junior II, or 6th grade, with 9 pupils, is being taught by Mrs. Wilson Franklin the first week and Miss Sally Gingell the second week.

The Teen-Age Department, for those who are in Junior High School, is taught by Mrs. C. C. Combs. There are 10 members of this class. Two members of the class, Phyllis Chatlos and Elizabeth Wilhide, are helping Mrs. Combs with the craft work.

The recreation for the school is directed by the following: Bill Zimmerman, Kenneth Swomley, Thomas Harbaugh, and Eugene Eyer. These boys have been of great help in getting the necessary tables and chairs for all the rooms and in helping wherever help is needed.

The daily light refreshments for the school are cared for by a committee of women: Mrs. Lula Bushman, Chairman, Miss Ruth Shuff and Mrs. Eugene Hardman. The committee wishes to thank all those who have donated cookies or drink for the school, or who have promised to do so.

The pianist for the school is Miss Ruth Shuff and the song leader, Mrs. John Chatlos. The transportation committee, whose job it is to see that all these children have a way to and from school, is composed of Donald Imler, Dr. J. W. Houser and John White.

The school will continue for another week, with the closing picnic following the last session on Friday, June 30th. That same night, at 7:30 p. m., a program will be presented by the children, showing some of the things they have been doing and learning during the two weeks of the school. All friends and relatives are invited to attend this service.

The school and all of the programs are held in the Elias Lutheran Parish House.

Jaycees Plan Past Presidents' Night

The Emmitsburg Jaycees announced this week that plans have been made for the observance of a Past Presidents' Night.

The affair will be held in the VFW Annex on Thursday evening, July 13 starting at 7 p. m. Dr. John J. Dillon Jr., Mt. St. Mary's College, will be the principal speaker and during the evening a number of awards will be presented to various committees for outstanding work performed in behalf of the group. It is planned to make the event an annual one, President Allen Stoner announced.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 2 p. m. from the Wilson Funeral Home, W. Main St., with Rev. John C. Chatlos officiating. Interment was in the United Brethren Cemetery, Thurmont.

Undergoes Surgery

Mr. Edward G. Stull, Gettysburg, underwent major stomach surgery Monday at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg. His condition is reported satisfactory at this time.

GIRL SCOUTS PLAN PARADE

The Girl Scout organization of Emmitsburg will again sponsor a parade on the 4th of July. This has been announced by the Neighborhood Chairman, Mrs. John C. Chatlos. The parade will form at the Doughboy at 10:00 a. m. Tuesday morning of the 4th, and will begin to move down West Main Street at 10:30 a. m. The program, following the parade, will be held on the ball field. It is hoped that the Boy Scouts will take up the challenge made by the Girl Scouts to another game of softball, immediately following the program.

Families are being asked to pack a picnic lunch and make this a family celebration at the park. Residents of town are also requested to show their patriotism by flying the Flag of the United States of America on that day.

Other patriotic organizations of town are being contacted to take part in the parade. Final arrangements will be made at a meeting of the Troop Leaders at the home of Mrs. John Chatlos tonight (Friday) at 8:00 p. m.

Man Takes Own Life With Gun

Norman Eli Dewees, 50, Rocky Ridge, shot himself in the forehead with a .22 caliber rifle late Saturday night and died almost instantly, Frederick State Police reported Monday. He was found by Robert D. Brown of Thurmont who called the police. Deputy medical examiner Dr. B. O. Thomas said death was a suicide.

Trooper Neil Bechtol said that Dewees had been despondent and in ill health.

He was a son of the late Edward and Effie Fry Dewees and had served in the Army.

He is survived by the following: Two daughters, Mrs. Allen Davis, Emmitsburg and Mrs. George Grossnickle, Middleburg; five grandchildren and nieces and nephews; brothers and sisters Howard, Westminster; Ray, Thurmont; Mrs. Dorothy Haugh, Thurmont; Mrs. Howard Martin, Baltimore; and Mrs. Marie Foch, Baltimore; stepmother, Mrs. Beulah Dewees, Milford, Mass.; sisters Mrs. Henry Chalmers, Milford, Mass., and Mrs. Lawrence Myers, Gracemah.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 2 p. m. from the Wilson Funeral Home, W. Main St., with Rev. John C. Chatlos officiating. Interment was in the United Brethren Cemetery, Thurmont.

Undergoes Surgery

Mr. Edward G. Stull, Gettysburg, underwent major stomach surgery Monday at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg. His condition is reported satisfactory at this time.

Fire Company Open House Next Week

All Emmitsburgians will have a first hand opportunity to view the new fire engine just purchased by the Vigilant Hose Co. The firemen have extended a blanket invitation to one and all to visit the Fire Hall on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 29, 30, and July 1, from 7 to 9 p. m. at which time the engine will be displayed and its operation and auxiliary equipment explained in detail to those interested.

During this "Open House" on Thursday, June 29, children will be given free rides on the truck and each will receive a red fire chief hat as a souvenir.

The new pumper arrived in Emmitsburg last Saturday afternoon and was driven to Washington the next day for testing. Returning to Emmitsburg Monday, the vehicle was then driven to Ocean City, Md. where it has been on exhibition all this week during the State Firemen's annual Convention. This open house will afford the citizenry an opportunity to see just how much good their donations each year do on behalf of the community. The sleek new red and white engine is a beauty and is the ultimate in modern design. The entire community is urged to attend this open house, see all the equipment and know how it operates and to inspect the premises in general.

The open house committee consists of Guy R. McGlaughlin, John Gilman, Frank S. Topper and Paul A. Keepers.

LEGION SHRIMP FEED JULY 1

The Francis X. Elder Post 121, American Legion, announced this week it will hold its annual shrimp feed on Saturday, July 1, at Bud Shorb's farm near town.

Included on the menu will be delicious barbecued chicken and other delicacies. Servings will commence at 7 o'clock on that date and the admission will be $2 per person. Entertainment will be provided from 9 to 12 o'clock and members will be permitted to take guests.

Civil War Movie To Be Shown In Frederick

It has been announced by the Frederick County Civil War Centennial Inc., that the premiere showing of a movie filmed in Frederick last February, will be shown at the Tivoli Theater on Tuesday evening, June 27 at 8:30 p. m.

Tickets to the movie sell at $1 each and represent a donation to the group which is sponsoring the show. Special tickets can be obtained at the Frederick Chamber of Commerce and will be on sale only on Monday, until noon, June 26.

As an added attraction, a supplementary movie from the Novel on the Civil War by John Fox, Jr., "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" has been included. Also, at the premiere performance, introductions will be made and the cast will be presented to those present.

The movie, filmed in color and sound, includes scenes in and around Frederick, the re-enactment of the Legislative Session of 1861 in Kemp Hall, the Dedication of the Plaque, and the scenes from the 1961 meeting of the Legislature in the National Guard Armory. It is a fine production and a credit to those that contributed to its success. The movie was produced by Monumental Films in cooperation with the National Brewing Company, at no cost whatever to the State or local Communities.

It is hoped that everyone can arrange to be present, and that you will take care of getting your reservations at once. Remember, the deadline for picking up your tickets for the reserved section of the theater is Monday, noon, June 26, 1961.

Announce Birth

Mr. and Mrs. John William Rooney Jr., Mobile, Alabama, announce the birth of a daughter, Catherine Regina, on June 7. Mrs. Rooney is the former Miss Theresa Rybkowsky, daughter of Mrs. Vincent Rybkowsky.

Next to being able to do it yourself, the great talent is to hail and appreciate those who can do it; such as writing a poem, a play, hitting home runs, or making a million dollars.

Scout Troop 72 Meeting Held

Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 72 held Court of Awards on Tuesday evening in St. Euphemia's Hall. The program included the Flag Ceremony with Barbara Fitzgerald and Sharon Ohler as color bearers and Debbie Baker and Karen Shorb as color guards. A demonstration was given by Joyce Sanders showing a splint for a fractured wrist with Lynn Shorb as 'patient.' This was a requirement for Joyce in earning her First Aid Badge. Mildred Harner spoke briefly on "Florence Nightingale"—a requirement in working for her Home Nursing Badge. "Girl Scouts Together" was sung by the entire Troop. Lynn Shorb showed and told how she took care of and made a flower planter from a cup and saucer as a requirement for Homemaking Badge and later served cupcakes she baked as a requirement for her Cooking Badge. Presentation of awards followed with pins and badges being presented by Mrs. Charles B. Shorb and Mrs. Ralph Ohler, leaders of the Troop. Barbara Fitzgerald and Wanda Rodgers were invested. A skit "We Have No Trains Today" was presented by Kathy Rodgers, Sandra Myers, Connie Seiss, Wanda Rodgers and Josephine Rodgers. The program closed with the singing of "Taps." Refreshments were served by the girls of the Troop.

Awards were presented to the following girls: One year membership stars to: Debbie Baker, Dale Elder, Mildred Harner, Margaret Masser, Sandy Myers, Sharon Ohler, Josephine Rodgers, Kathy Rodgers, Wanda Rodgers, Joyce Sanders, Connie Seiss, Judy Shorb, Karen Shorb, Lynn Shorb, Frances Webb, Mrs. Charles B. Harner, Troop Committee member, Mrs. Leah Ohler, assistant leader and Mrs. Charles B. Shorb, leaders. World Association Pins were awarded to: Dale Elder, Debbie Baker, Mildred Harner, Barbara Fitzgerald, Margaret Masser, Sandra Myers, Sharon Ohler, Josephine Rodgers, Kathy Rodgers, Wanda Rodgers, Joyce Sanders, Connie Seiss, Judy Shorb, Karen Shorb, Lynn Shorb, Frances Webb, Mrs. Ohler, Mrs. Harner and Mrs. Shorb. Second Class Rank Badges to: Mildred Harner, Margaret Masser, Joyce Sanders, Lynn Shorb; Home Nursing Badge to: Mildred Harner; First Aid Badge to Margaret Masser and Joyce Sanders; Cooking Badge to Lynn Shorb and Homemaking Badge to Lynn Shorb. The Troop will hold a food sale in the front of Shorb's Barber Shop on Saturday morning starting 10:00 a. m.

State Teachers To Convene

The annual convention of the National Education Association will be held in Atlantic City, N. J., from Sunday, June 25, to Friday, June 30. Of his group, 185 will serve as official delegates of the Maryland State Teachers' Association and affiliated local associations at the annual meeting of their national professional organization.

These delegates will represent the teaching profession of Maryland at all meetings of the NEA's Representative Assembly, the official policy-making body, composed of educators from all states and the territories of the nation. Guest speakers of international reputation will address the gathering of more than 10,000 school people representing the largest membership in the history of the NEA.

E. Guy Jewell, principal of Richard Montgomery High School, Montgomery County, serves as a member of the NEA Resolutions Committee. Mr. Jewell is also a past president of MSTA. Miss Hazel Gilmore, West Rockville Elementary School, Montgomery County, is a member of the Advisory Council of the Department of Classroom Teachers, one of the affiliated departments of the NEA which is meeting in conjunction with the NEA Convention.

Under the convention theme, "A Charge to Keep," selected by NEA President Clarice Kline as her theme for the year NEA committees, commissions, and departments will devote themselves to take improvement of educational opportunity for every child.

Among the speakers who will address the General Sessions are such notables as Dr. Jonas E. Salk, discoverer of the polio vaccine; Dr. James Robinson, pastor of the Church of the Master, New York City, and Sir Ronald Gould, president since 1952 of the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession.

All general and business sessions will be held in Convention Hall, one of the largest convention facilities in the world. The lower level of the Hall will be filled with exhibits of material representative of every phase of education.

Special guests of the NEA will be representatives of the national and state associations of the Congress of Parents and Teachers and of the School Boards.

The traditional Classroom Teachers Banquet will be held Tuesday evening and will highlight local associations selected under the local recognition program of the Department. During last year's convention, the Wicomico County Teachers' Association was honored during this program for its study project on the county.

NEA will honor its president at a reception on Thursday evening. The traditional Friendship Night ceremonies, including the presentations of candidates for NEA offices and the annual convention dance, will be held concurrently with the reception. Also on Thursday evening the Student NEA will sponsor the Notables Dinner.

Departments of the NEA will meet during the week to consider such topics as programs for academically talented students, adult education, foreign language teaching in the elementary school, new practices in staff utilization, and new developments in mathematics.

State delegations will meet on Monday and Wednesday mornings and Thursday afternoon for caucuses. The annual Maryland Dinner will be held on Monday evening, June 26 in the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel.

For those who wish to spend a day or more in New York City following the convention, NEA has arranged a post-convention tour of the United Nations Headquarters with a special luncheon in the UN cafeteria.

MRS. ORVILLE M. BAKER SR.

Mrs. Anabell Shriner Baker, 62, wife of Orville M. Baker Sr., of Rocky Ridge, died Friday afternoon at Frederick Memorial Hospital.

She was the daughter of the late Joseph and Laura Shriner and a member of the Rocky Ridge Church of the Brethren.

Besides her husband she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Morris Free, Mrs. Leon Stover, Mrs. John Eichelberger, Mrs. Norville Eyer, Wilson Baker, Ralph Baker and Orville Baker Jr., all of Rocky Ridge; Mrs. Howard Harmon, Baltimore, and Mrs. Hanford Cook of Woodboro. Three sisters, Mrs. Elsie Wastler, Thurmont; Mrs. John Cushon, Ladiesburg and Mrs. Ernest Delphie, Thurmont; two brothers, Robert Shriner, Woodboro and Clarence Shriner, Rocky Ridge; 24 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Rocky Ridge Church of the Brethren, with Rev. Arthur Rice, assisted by Rev. Samuel Weybright and Elder Oren Garner officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery. M. L. Creager and Son Funeral Home, Thurmont, had charge of arrangements.

FISHING LINES
By DICK WOLFF

Mention trout to a bass fisherman and you've got yourself an argument.

To hear him tell it, the trout "ain't worth a powderpuff!" but it works both ways . . . Nothing unreasonable about fishermen.

Both make good catching and good eating, but since the bass is a widely sought after game fish — let's talk bass for awhile. But which bass? There's a vast difference as you will soon discover, if you haven't already. Our purpose is to talk about the smallmouth black bass which is found in all but a handful of northern states.

The smallmouth is easily distinguished from the largemouth bass by its copper coloration and the fact that its mouth ends beneath the eye and its spinal dorsal fin is not separated from the soft dorsal fin.

The smallmouth bass is an insect and minnow eater. But during and after the spawning season almost any lure will do. If you head for the local bass hole, you'll see almost every type of lure and tackle made hard at work.

The most popular tackle will be spinning and spincasting equipment. If you don't already own either, you'll find an Abu-Matic 140 or 160 spincasting reel an ideal bass fishing companion. The reels come pre-wound with 125 yards of 8 pound test monofilament and with the addition of a lure you're ready for fishing. For anglers with an expert touch looking for something different — an ultra-light 308 Mitchell spinning reel on a 5 foot hollow fiber glass wand with 1-pound or 2-pound test mono will put the fun and fight back in fishing. A two pound bass can be a lion on light line.

Bass lures come in almost infinite variety. For good results why not get an assortment of Abu-reflex lures and fish them deep. Change lures from time to time until you hit the right number and then fish it for all your worth.

Tight lines, friend, and good bass fishing.

The International Game Fish Association record for smallmouth black bass is 10 pounds 8 ounces. The average runs around 2 - 3 pounds and 12 inches in length. It takes a bass about four years to reach that size. In poor water, longer. The smallmouth is most commonly found along rocky shorelines of large lakes and streams especially in May and June. So get out your tackle, sharpen up your casting technique and head for the nearest lake. During spawning, the fish are voracious feeders.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS
ARE YOU A HELPER?

Once I read a little poem that I liked very much. I can't recall its rhythm or rhyme, but its message stuck fast in my mind. The truth the poem taught was this: God has put us on the earth to make it a better place in which to live. But we often ask ourselves how one small and unimportant person can do anything in such a large and complicated place as the world. The poem answered the question by saying, "Just build a better you."

This is a great truth. The way to help the world is first to make yourself better able to help.

And strangely enough, the way to become better is to help other people. Actually, all you need to do is just practice Christianity—live it—let it work in your life. If it works in your life, many other lives will be helped.

Help someone else. When you do, you help yourself. The story is told about a man asking a little boy, "Is your father, the doctor, at home?"

"No, he's away," came the answer.

"Where do you think I can find him?"

"Well," said the little boy with a thoughtful look on his face, "you've got to look for a place where people are sick or hurt or something like that. I don't know where he is, but he's sure to be helping somewhere."

Could this have been said about you? Are you a helper? Helpers are the kind of people who change the world. They are people who have discovered abundant life. They are partners with God.

If you want to discover how to make yourself better, try active Christianity. It is not an exotic life, kept under glass or confined within a laboratory, abbey, cathedral or monastery. It is a life in the world, binding up its bruises and healing its diseases. Christianity is not an ethereal idea floating around in the sky. It is a man with feet on the ground, going God's way, absorbed with His business and praying, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

The person who dedicates himself to helping others is a happy person. He is happy because he is doing good. In his own small way, he is making his part of the world a better place in which to live. And since God is the author of good things, the helper becomes a partner with God, ministering to the world.

This is the answer to abundant life. It is available to you. Why don't you try it?

100 YEARS AGO

McClellan Advances Into Western Virginia

By Lon K. Savage

Major General George Brinton McClellan advanced from Ohio into Western Virginia 100 years ago this week amid the cheers of Unionists in both states.

McClellan, 34-year-old commander of the department of the Ohio, had watched and waited for a favorable opportunity for the move. In early June, when his troops had defeated a Confederate force at Philippi, he had stayed in Ohio to organize his department and to visit strategic points (among them: Cairo, Ill., at the confluence of the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers). But in mid-June, northwestern Virginians met at Wheeling and began the process of taking that part of Virginia out of the Confederacy and back into the Union.

That was enough. Leaving Cincinnati, McClellan and his staff headed east, meeting, he wrote his wife, "a continual ovation all along the road." At every station, he wrote, he was greeted by "gray-headed old men and women, mothers holding up their children to take my hands, girls, boys, all sorts, cheering and crying, God bless you!"

Crosses Ohio River

They reached Marietta, on the Ohio River, before daylight June 21 and immediately crossed by boat to Parkersburg. Within 48 hours, McClellan was setting up headquarters and enjoying the mountain air at Grafton.

There, McClellan issued two of his typically flowery proclamations, one to the people of the area and the other to his troops. "Soldiers!", he wrote in the latter, "I have heard that there was danger here; I have come to place myself at your head and to share it with you. I fear now but one thing—that you will not find foemen worthy of your steel."

Meanwhile, the convention at Wheeling also took important steps. On June 19, it passed an ordinance reorganizing the state of Virginia, and next day, Francis H. Pierpont was appointed governor of the re-organized state. A July 1 meeting of the state legislature was called—to be made up of the men who had been elected to represent the area at Richmond. This done, the convention adjourned until August.

Confederates in the area were active, too. On that same June 19, four companies of Tennessee volunteers waded waist-deep across the Potomac near Romney—120 miles east of Wheeling—and attacked a small Union detachment, sending the northerners fleeing in all directions and capturing two pieces of artillery. Across the mountains in the Shenandoah Valley, Thomas J. Jackson (just appointed brigadier general), destroyed a number of railroad cars and bridges on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. And at Beverly, only a short distance from McClellan's headquarters, newly-arrived Confederate General Robert Garnett was re-organizing troops to stave off the federal advance.

Grant Gets A Command

While these events were taking place in western Virginia, two other developments occurred elsewhere in the nation.

At the state fairgrounds at Springfield, Colonel Ulysses S. Grant assumed command of the 21st Illinois and began issuing orders to get the unit fit for battle.

And at New Orleans, Capt. Raphael Semmes weighed anchor on his newly-outfitted ship, the Sumter, and slipped down the Mississippi toward the Gulf. Within a month, his speedy, highly armed vessel was to have run the blockade and become a terror to Union commerce.

Next week: Plans are made for a battle at Bull Run.

ALL ABOUT BABIES...

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

Baby And Sleep
By Aline B. Auerbach
Director, Parent Group Education
Child Study Association of America

Most children fuss about going to bed at one time or another. They know when they are hungry, but they rarely know when they are tired, especially when they are very young.

Even when they are obviously exhausted many small children do not yet recognize that sleep will make them feel better. To them going to bed means being separated from the grownups and their fun. They will call you back, or ask for "another drink of water" just to keep your company.

Before your child's bedtime, it's a good idea to play quietly with him for a while, giving him all your attention. You might read to him or tell him a favorite story or look at a picture book together.

Let your child have a few minutes' warning, then go with him to his room to help him settle down. Most of all, let him know that you expect him to go to sleep.

This is a place where regular procedures make clear to him what he is to do and give him a pattern to follow that makes it easier for him to accept. Parents sometimes resent doing the same thing night after night, but a regular routine at bedtime seems to be a kind of magic which helps a young child move from waking to sleeping. The same steps followed in more or less the same way, reassure him that everything is all right and will be the same when he wakes up.

Your child may always want to take a special blanket to bed with him or a favorite toy. Many children do. These objects help a child to give up his wish to stay with the rest of the family and especially with his mommy and daddy. It is as if he were taking something with him in their place, to stay with him and comfort him. In time, he'll learn to go to sleep without these objects.

Never use going to bed as a punishment. This makes it something he surely doesn't like. If you understand that going to bed isn't always easy for small children, you will be better able to help your little one accept that this is a "must."

(For fuller discussion of this subject and of other problems that face mothers of young children, see Mrs. Auerbach's booklet, "How to Give Your Child a Good his father's lunch to him at noon. In order to reach him, the little fellow had to pass through a dimly lighted and, to him, a frightening area. Other workers regularly heard him repeating over and over: "What time I am afraid, I will trust in thee."

When we become adults, fears of some physical dangers generally leave us, but others replace them. We fear personal failures and wrong decisions. We fear that we may fail in directing our children properly toward the straight and narrow path, or that they will succumb to temptations they face on every hand.

Oh, the strength-depleting fears and anxieties we could avoid if only we would exercise the simple faith of the miner's son! May we never lose touch with the sustaining, protecting power of our loving Father in heaven.

Prayer
Our Father, give us, we pray, such a close walk with Thee that our fears may be replaced by the comfort and joy of Thy holy presence. In Jesus's holy name we pray. Amen.

THIS WEEK IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. (R-6th Dist., Md.)

Everyone on the Eastern seaboard of the United States should be aware of the startling changes that are taking place in America in the next forty years. For instance, Americans will need an area the size of the entire State of Indiana for the cities that are built in that time. We shall use more space for metropolitan development between 1961 and 2000 than we have used since the first permanent settlement at Jamestown in 1607. These were some of the startling facts which I discussed in the speech on the Floor of the House of Representatives on June 16th in which I called the attention of the Congress to the urgent necessity for planning for this revolutionary change in the landscape of America. I entitled my remarks "Ill Fares The Land" remembering Oliver Goldsmith's famous lines, "Ill Fares the Land to hastening ills a prey, Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

Perhaps the most interesting local news in the 6th District this week is the announcement by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of its plans to build a huge Environmental Health research center on a 690 acre site near Rockville in Montgomery County. The facility would deal with problems related to environmental health such as the effects of air and water pollution, radiation and chemicals on human beings. Expansion of existing PHS facilities for such studies has been considered for several years.

The site was chosen over five other sites in the Washington area. When the first stage of building is finished in 1965, the Center will employ an estimated 1600 persons. In the three years following, the Department speculates that employment may rise as high as 4000.

The buildings of the first stage will cost around $35 million. I hope that such substantial construction will go a long way to alleviate unemployment in this area. Congress is presently considering legislation which will authorize plans to be drawn and models to be constructed, so that full scale building can proceed. I am doing all I can to expedite this legislation.

The purpose of the Center will be to investigate the effects of environment and occupation on health. Air pollution and water pollution will be among the environmental hazards investigated. The center will also make tests on milk and various foods to find out the effects on humans of certain impurities in foods and the consequences of using insecticides and preservatives.

I commented on the Floor of the House on June 12 with regard to the Metropolitan Police Force stating that on May 17, 18, and 19 hearings were held by a Subcommittee of the House District Committee to determine what immediate legislative action might be taken by the Congress in order to provide emergency relief for the citizens of the Nation's Capital from the increase in violent crime which has been the subject of so much publicity in recent weeks. I would like to make it clear that, in my opinion, the bill before the House today, H.R. 7218, is a step in the right direction to the solution to this problem.

Favorable consideration of this bill should have the effect of lowering the crime rate in the District of Columbia. It is designed to prevent crime through better law enforcement that will have the effect of apprehending and removing known offenders from society.

The reasons for crime are highly complex and, to a great degree, unknown. Until such time as the criminologists, doctors, judges, law enforcement officers, social workers, legislators, and the entire citizenry know exactly what causes crime, an overall solution to this problem is unobtainable.

We do know that a high rate of crime is usually connected with certain symptoms that are evident in the society in the District of Columbia. Poor living conditions affect the rate of crime. Unemployed affects the rate of crime. Low wages affect the rate of crime. Large migrations of persons unaccustomed to life in a large city and unaware of the difficulties and temptations that they will face there, affect the rate of crime. We also know that crime is one of the most expensive cancers that a society may have. It is not only expensive to those who suffer directly from criminal actions but to the public at large in maintaining large police forces and prisons. There is also the incalculable loss of the talents, energies, and abilities of those people who turn to crime, instead of contributing to society.

The bill before us today, H.R. 7218, is to increase the authorized strength of the Metropolitan Police Force from 2,734 to 3,000 police officers. This bill aims to provide one of the available deterrents to crime. When Chief Murray, of the Metropolitan Police Department appeared to testify on this subject, he stated that in his opinion, the foot patrolman is the best deterrent to crime. Additional policemen should not only result in fewer unsolved crimes, but the experience of the police department demonstrated that many crimes will never take place if a policeman is known to be on the beat. The Washington press has cited many examples of policemen responding to cries and screams for help which enabled them to arrest an assailant in the act of committing a violent crime before the victim suffers the full consequences of the completed crime.

There is no way to ascertain the beneficial effect that good police work has on preventing crimes. I hope that the House will pass this bill today as an emergency measure and will in the future consider the possibility and need for additional legislation designed to remove the elements in our society which give crime a climate in which to develop. The passage of H.R. 7218 would be a step in the right direction and I hope that funds are made available to enable the authorized increase to be a realized post in the near future.

Employers Warned To Remit Tax

Irving Machiz, Director of Internal Revenue for the Baltimore District, which comprises Maryland and District of Columbia, today released the remarks of Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin who recently notified employers that the Internal Revenue Service has stepped up collection processes for taxes withheld from the wages of employees and not paid over to the Government when due. He explained these are trust fund collections belonging to the United States and are in no way available for use by employers.

Mr. Caplin said an increasing tendency has appeared on the part of some employers to defer as long as possible paying the Government the taxes withheld. He said the number of delinquent employment tax accounts also has risen in recent months.

Internal Revenue Service is putting into effect at once new, streamlined procedures, which will get enforced collection underway more quickly where timely deposits or prompt payments are not made. Notice of tax lien or other forced collection procedures now can be initiated within a few days after receipt of a return without full payment.

The Commissioner stated that, although the great majority of employers fully comply with this requirement, the Government continually has been faced with the problem of a relatively few employers who fail to pay over such taxes promptly.

He said Internal Revenue Service enforcement will be applied fairly, with due regard to the circumstances of each delinquency case, but that the service will be firm in seeing that withheld taxes properly due the Government are not dissipated by employers, or otherwise diverted to their own use for even a short period.

"To permit the continuance of these abuses places an unfair burden on law-abiding employers and the tax-paying public generally," he said.

Turkey Crop Sets Record

C. E. Wise Jr., Executive Secretary of Maryland Farm Bureau, is urging an intensive turkey promotion campaign to help move the record supply of turkeys into consumption.

"According to the most conservative estimate, turkey producers will furnish at least 10 per cent more turkeys this year than last," Wise said.

"Wholesale prices for the various classes of turkeys are running about 7c to 9c per pound less than a year ago," Wise continued, "and of course the prices farmers are receiving are correspondingly lower."

"The National Turkey Federation will propose specific dates for a special turkey merchandising campaign, and it will be to everyone's advantage, consumer and producer alike, if large numbers of turkeys are marketed at the earliest possible time," Wise concluded.

Don't make the mistake of being afraid you'll make one.

More About "Federal Aid To Education"

Recently, in my weekly letter, I set forth some objections to

"Federal Aid" in general and pointed out the wonderful job the local communities have been doing for their own schools—getting a dollar's worth of value for each tax dollar collected and spent locally, in contrast to what they would have been getting under "Federal Aid." These facts stand and need not be augmented. However, I want to make personal reference to the fact that, as ranking minority member of the Senate District Committee, I have supported every improvement suggested for District of Columbia schools and every teacher-salary increase in the District. In fact, I have introduced much of the D. C. school legislation. There is no inconsistency here; you see, schools are a local responsibility and under local control, and the U. S. Congress acts as the local "city council" for Washington.

Proponents of Federal Aid to Education have likened it to Federal support of the Army. On this point I could not agree. The Federal army is a Federal responsibility and should be run from Washington. You can't say this about a school in a local community in one of the 50 states. In our public schools, there always has been a personal relationship between teacher and pupil. This is part of our American heritage—something you do not find in the Moscow-controlled school of Russia. If Washington should take over the responsibility of our local schools and start issuing the kind of directives which naturally go with responsibility, we conceivably could lose the treasured teacher-pupil relationship. Our local schools should be kept under local responsibility.

There have been some crocodile tears over what was claimed would be the loss of aid for "impacted areas" should the Federal-Aid-to-Education bill fail to pass. The "impacted areas" feature was stuck into the Federal-Aid-to-Education bill as a trick or device to gain support for the bill. As many of you know, I was in the forefront of the successful fight to get the Federal government to accept its part of the responsibility for the areas where the Federal government moves in and establishes bureaus or projects or military bases. Wherever the Federal government takes real estate from the local tax rolls, I have felt it should compensate the local government with equitable payment in the form of "aid" or grants. This kind of Federal aid for "federally impacted areas" has been going on for years and would be continued regardless of the fate of the Federal-Aid-to-Education bill. To say that a vote against the Federal-Aid-to-Education bill is a vote against "impacted areas" aid simply does not reflect the truth and apparently is said to mislead the public.

Incomes Going Up!
Half of all American families had money incomes of at least $5600 in 1960, according to a Census Bureau report last week. Of the nation's 45,500,000 families, 9,000,000 had incomes between $3,000 and $5,000; 11,000,000 had incomes between $5,000 and $7,000; and 15,500,000 families—34% of the total—reported incomes of more than $7000.

Antlerless Deer Season Established In Parts of Allegany And Washington Counties

At a special meeting held recently by the Commissioners of the Maryland Department of Game and Inland Fish, provisions were enacted to open an antlerless deer season in a special area of Allegany County and the Hancock Election District of Washington County.

This action was made possible through legislation passed at the 1961 session of the General Assembly giving authority to the Commission to reduce the deer herd in specified areas suffering from crop damage.

On December 16, 1961, the Commission will issue 800 permits per county to only residents and landowners of Allegany and Washington Counties.

The three day season will begin December 28 and end December 30. Hunters will be permitted to take one deer by either bow and arrow or firearm.

Deep Creek Lake Fish Bulletin

The fishing has been very good at Deep Creek Lake and many other parts in Garrett County. Records of largest fish ever caught in Deep Creek Lake were made, and one fish tied the record of the largest crappie ever caught in Maryland. The white crappie record was also broken in Maryland last week.

The best fishing was reported in the Friendsville, McHenry, and Herrington Manor vicinities of Garrett County. The majority of fishing was still fishing; this was reported by Cecil Edwards, Assistant Fish Culturalist, and Mr. Coffee of McHenry.

A good bet for Crappie: An unidentified couple caught over 200 crappie fishing near #2 bridge at Loch Raven this past Sunday.

Mr. Alex Montgomery, Federal Aid Coordinator for the Fish and Wildlife Service, recently toured the State of Maryland with Game and Inland Fish Commission personnel for the purpose of acquiring new fishing ponds and pond sites which are to be purchased with Dingle-Johnson money.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Cool Animals Pay Profits

Some months ago this column mentioned that when cattle and hogs are shipped from this country to the tropics, the hogs often get along much better than the cattle.

Hogs not only hunt shade but use any excuse to start a wallow, and cool themselves in a way that cattle cannot ordinarily do. Cattle, instead, may spend a good deal of the time in open fields under a blazing sun, and then do a lot of panting.

Dr. Bohstedt

Cattle respond to good comfort management. This was shown at the University of California where Hereford steers in open feed lots gained 1.63 pounds daily per head; when getting an artificial breeze from fans they gained 1.85 pounds daily; and when in shade, or under both shade and fans, 2.15 to 2.28 pounds daily per head.

The feed consumed per hundred pounds gain was in keeping with the comfort of the steers, being 928 pounds, 872 pounds, and 790 pounds, respectively, from the least to the most comfortable.

Dairymen even in our northern states have found it a good practice to leave cows on pasture all night, and turn them back on pasture for only a couple of hours after the morning milking. Then keep them in the barn which is ventilated decently until the evening milking. This way the cows are at least reasonably cool during the hottest part of the day.

The summer season even in the northern states, especially in the corn belt, can produce tropical temperatures. In an experiment conducted in one of our southern states, Louisiana, hogs in dry lot gained 1.45 pounds daily; with a sanitary wallow 1.80 pounds; and with an earth wallow 1.85 pounds daily per head. Their feed efficiency was in keeping with their comfort.

It pays to be mindful of the creature comfort of animals. Question: What is an approved method of parasite control for sheep on pasture? Answer: Give all ewes a 1-ounce drench of phenothiazine at the beginning and end of the pasture season, and free access at all times to a 1-part phenothiazine, 10-parts trace mineralized salt mixture provided in a covered container.

Questions from readers will be answered in the column or by direct reply. Please send your questions to Dr. Bohstedt, 221 North LaSalle Street, (Rm. 507), Chicago 1, Illinois.

SCHOOL SAFETY PATROL HERO: Scott Neely, 13, of St. Maurice School, Pittsburgh, Pa., was cited recently by the American Automobile Association. A coveted AAA lifesaving award was presented to him by U. S. Attorney General, Robert F. Kennedy, at ceremonies held in Mr. Kennedy's offices in the Department of Justice, Washington, D. C. Representing the AAA was Judge Clarence E. Bodie, left, of Honesdale, Pa., president of the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety.

Young Neely's act of heroism occurred last year when he grabbed a hysterical girl from the path of a school bus as the youngster ran into the street in pursuit of another bus in front. The Neely boy held the girl, Lynn Kravetz, despite the fact that she protested by hitting and kicking him. His courage undoubtedly saved her life.

FUTURE OF POLIO—The Salk vaccine has had a dramatic impact on polio, but the disease still takes a toll. Last year, as the map above shows, 3,277 cases of polio occurred in the U. EDUCATION PROGRAM

Pensacola Band Plays For Freedom

One day last summer, William J. Holston, director of the Pensacola (Fla.) High School band, submitted an informal test to the 100 boys and girls in his splendid musical organization. The test was designed to determine how much the students know about American political history and philosophy, the checks and balances in our political system, our freedom safeguards and the economic and political advantages which the American system has produced in comparison to other systems. He was disturbed at what he found.

He had heard and read the report of the U. S. Army on what happened to the 7,000 American GI's captured and held prisoners by the Chinese Communists in North Korea. The reports showed that many of the prisoners—a cross section of our American population—were "brain washed" into cooperating with the Communists in projects detrimental to the United States and its fight against the Reds in Korea. He was especially shocked to read the Communists' own evaluation of American prisoners in Korea. Weak In Patriotism

"The American," said the Communists in a Red Army staff document that came into the hands of the U. S. Army, "has weak loyalty to his family, his country, his religion and his fellow soldiers. His concepts of right and wrong are lazy. There is little understanding of American political history and philosophy, of civil rights, freedoms, safeguards, checks and balances and how these things allegedly operate within his own system."

Bill Holston found that the boys and girls in his band had little if any knowledge of the basic facts of our American system. He set out to do something about it. By the first football game in the fall, the Pensacola High School band had perfected a half-time show that made everybody in the stadium stand up and cheer and want to throw their hats in the air as a salute to the United States of America. In the beautiful patriotic music and the marching routines, Holston's boys and girls expressed a moving reverence for the flag of their country and for the national anthem. And over the music, in many sequences, the narrator, speaking through the stadium loud speaker system, read the words of great American leaders—Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and others.

Stirring Performance

Many an eye in the stands glittered in deep emotion as these boys and girls saluted Old Glory with a feeling for their music that is seldom heard when a high school band plays patriotic airs. The stands echoed to tromping thousands of feet as Holston's youngsters played the great American marching music. At the end, the ovation shook the stadium. And it made 100 youngsters and their band master very happy.

Almost overnight the band became famous. It began to receive invitations from all over the South. Among the highlights of its winter tour were performances at New Orleans' famed Mardi Gras, at the Senior Bowl Football Game (on nation-wide television), at the inaugural of Florida's new governor, and finally, representing the state of Florida at the ceremonies in the nation's capital inaugurating the President of the United States, John F. Kennedy.

Boys And Girls Benefit

Bill Holston, however, feels that the greatest benefit of his patriotic program has come to his youngsters, the knowledge of America and its heritage gained by the members of the band and the fact that they are carrying this knowledge to their fellow students. "The future of America," he told us, "depends on the generation of students in our schools today. Our future will be only as strong as their concept of our ideology and our heritage makes it. Actually, moral and spiritual values are of first importance. Material things are secondary. Somehow we Americans seem to have gotten that order reversed and we need to correct it. In so doing, the music of our country is an important factor."

"It helps to arouse a sense of national pride, of obligation to carry the torch. Music, our national music, in conjunction with the national colors and the words of men like Jefferson and Lincoln—as true today as when they were spoken—all these affect and 'educate' not only the one hundred students of the band but everyone else within hearing."

Bill Holston, a Virginian, a band director, a teacher, a citizen, has looked for and has found a wonderful way to fulfill his responsibility for freedom. What he has done should inspire many of us to do something, too.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Powder Puffs And Poisons

Women's handbags contain powder puffs, string, bobby pins, rubber bands, pencils, scraps of paper, just about anything else you can think of—and pills.

There's hardly a handbag without its bottle of something... tranquilizers, heart medicines, hormones, cold remedies, aspirin. Add this to the fact that rummaging through mother's handbag is one of baby's greatest delights and you have a real hazard.

Sometimes mother gives baby her handbag to play with. Sometimes she just unthinkingly drops it where baby can reach it. The result is often a frantic trip to the nearest hospital emergency room and sometimes tragedy.

If you have to keep pills in your handbag, use a bottle or box difficult for little fingers to open. Some drugstores use a special safety cap for pill bottles. You can tell if you have one because you'll have a tough time getting the top off yourself. But if your drugstore doesn't supply safety caps, then get your own bottle or pill box. And don't underestimate baby's perseverance. He has nothing to do but keep working at that bottle cap. So be careful.

to trying to catch reasonably sized pike, using the best possible methods.

In a fairly good place you should land quite a number of pike from six to ten pounds. This is the size at which they put up their most exciting battle. Your best bet is to use tackle of the same strength as for bass, except that you should seldom use a line less than 15 pounds test. When fishing near snags or weeds, your line can run at least 25 pounds for casting and perhaps double that test for trolling. Where there are few weeds and snags the lightest casting line can land the largest pike in the hands of the skillful angler. The experienced angler generally prefers casting to spinning tackle and softer, braided line to monofilament where pike average fairly good size.

The temperature of the water is an important consideration in pike fishing. Pike are cold-water fish found in North America from the northern states to the Arctic Ocean. In cold, spring and fall water pike put up a fine fight, sometimes leaping often and as high as musky. In shallow warm lakes one will give a very poor fight.

When pike are hitting, the type of lure you use matters very little except that these fish often seem to have a preference for rather large, shiny spoons. The size of your lure is significant. In places where pike rarely run over eight pounds any bass lure of about 5.8 ounces is a good choice. If you're trying for a big one, musky-sized lures are best.

Most pike will be found about 50 feet or more outside large beds of weeds or lily pads, in open water. Pike seem to prefer deeper water in contrast to their larger relatives, muskellunge. The best time and place for a large pike is in quite a wind and along a rather steep shoreline on the windy side of a fairly large lake.

Ocean Downs

To Open July 7

OCEAN CITY, Md. — Harness racing, which returns to Ocean City July 7 when Ocean Downs Raceway opens its 24-night meet has been steadily growing in popularity throughout the country since the end of World War II.

During 1960 U. S. pari-mutuel tracks were host to 15,095,663 fans compared with 14,015,020 during 1959. These sulky enthusiasts bet a whopping $819,152,619 enriching the treasuries of the thirteen states where harness tracks are located by $55,781,653.84.

Last year 7,124 new harness horses were registered with the U. S. Trotting Association, an increase of 1607 over 1959. The 1960 campaign saw 17,702 harness horses competing for $31,581,922.54 in purses.

Ocean Downs, located off U. S. Route 50 between Ocean City and Berlin, Md., has a record attendance of 9,975 and a top pari-mutuel randle of $234,309.

The Eastern Shore is one of the nation's chief centers for trotters and pacers. Many of the sport's all-time greats were bred and trained on the Del-Mar-Va peninsula.

Many of the 1,000-plus stall applications received are from nearby stables. One reason for Ocean

Downs' popularity is that it affords residents of the Eastern Shore an opportunity to watch their neighbors' horses perform.

The resort oval will feature nine races nightly from July 7 through August 3.

n't because he prolonged the "playing" of the fish much longer than was reasonable just because he enjoyed it.

He had another bad habit. A lot of times he'd insist we quit fishin' and would go for a boat ride, just zooming around the lake and letting the wind blow past our ears.

"Givin' the fish a chance to cool off," he called it, but I suspect he was really doing the same for the fishermen instead of the fish, taking out a little heart attack insurance.

JUST PRACTICE

Sometimes if the fish were biting well on minnows he would tie on a surface plug and practice casting, shooting the lure into little coves and points all around our boat instead of continuing catching fish as I did, or tried to do until he talked me into joining him in a practice session.

"Why bother with all those little crappies," he'd say. "We need practice so when the bass start hitting we'll be ready for them."

Just in the last couple of years have I begun to realize just what kind of a fisherman he really is. He doesn't go for competition, he refuses to make work out of his fishin' and he just will not drag home a trunk full of fish. He'll quit fishing, first.

Norm is probably the best kind of fisherman. He just goes to enjoy himself.

Your Beauty

By Lady Esther

Adored by millions of fans, young, diminutive (5' 1") Joni James, America's Golden Girl of Records, is proof that good things come in small packages.

This young recording artist's career started out, ironically with the dream of becoming a great dancer. But a serious illness threatened the promising ballerina's future. During her long recuperation, Joni worked out a nightclub act with several songs to supplement the little dancing she was permitted. Audiences were immediately captivated by the warmth of her voice and the sincerity and depth she brought to her interpretations.

A tour of small towns and eventually, big cities, brought her to the attention of MGM records. Her recent tour of England and the Continent has truly made her an international star of the music world.

"Traveling is fun," she said, "if you know how to cope with the problems it presents. I have to arrive, ready to meet my wonderful fans, the press or get right to my engagement." Even with such a crowded schedule her natural fresh beauty and radiant complexion never seem to lose their glow. Her secret — "I give my skin the same care I give my voice."

Good skin care can start with daily cleansings with Lady Esther 4-Purpose Face Cream — the face cream created to provide the richer emollients needed for today's sensitive skins. It cleanses away effectively, city soot, dirt, and grime, and it gets deep down into the pores and skin crevices to remove the unseen dirt. It softens and lubricates even the driest skin.

As an overnight cream, Lady Esther 4-Purpose Face Cream restores the natural oils that are robbed by long activity in the summer sun. Used as a base, it keeps the skin moist under the tint of make-up, through a long busy day — powder will cling for hours.

So whether you travel for fun, or like Joni James, your work takes you around the world, packing one jar of cream that does the work of four is a boon to the millions of American women who are about to embark on that long awaited vacation.

BABSON

Writes...

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Supreme Court Decisions

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 22—As I study in Wall Street, I find that the first era of speculation was in gold. This was accompanied by some speculation in Government Bonds. Prices were based on mail reports from London. There were then no cables.

(2) The Glamorous Railroad Era

Following the Civil War, from 1875 to 1900, most of the speculation was in railroad stocks. New mileage was constantly being built, due to the large immigration and cheap labor, accompanied by good crops, which helped railroad earnings. The Northern Pacific stock sold at $1,000 a share. There was much talk about railroad consolidations, and the stock market was especially bullish over a proposed merger of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, and Burlington Railroads.

Then, suddenly, the Supreme Court issued a decision preventing this consolidation. This caused a quick drop in all stocks in 1907. A member of the N. Y. Stock Exchange invited me to come on the floor of the Exchange and help him. I actually saw men's hair turn gray within 48 hours.

(3) Era Of Great Industrial Trusts

Following the boom in railroad stocks there developed an interest in consolidation and big trusts. This began late in the 1890's. Then were formed the Tobacco Trust, the Standard Oil Trust, and other great trusts. During these years, the New York Stock Exchange took a great interest in industrials. It was then that Moody's Manuals and Babson's Reports were started, and investment services began to be popular.

Although the above-mentioned Supreme Court Decision directly referred only to railroads, it indirectly brought an end to this Consolidation and Trust Era. Hence, the panic following affected both railroad and industrial stocks. There were no big electric utilities in those days.

(4) The Electrical Era

The fourth era of glamour stocks centered around companies producing and distributing electricity. From 1907 to 1912 great speculation took place in these electric stocks, culminating in the 1928-1935 collapse of Electric Bond & Share.

The end came for this Electrical Era with the formation of the Securities & Exchange Commission. Its great powers enabled it to eliminate, rearrange, or break up any company manufacturing and distributing electricity across state lines. Although the use of electricity has continued to increase since Thomas Edison made the first dynamo, yet the utilities are no longer considered glamour stocks.

(5) The Present Space Age Era

I mention the above events thinking that the recent duPont—General Motors Supreme Court Decision may put a damper on speculation in companies producing missiles, space capsules, and various electronic devices. The previous Court Decisions which I mentioned have been unexpected. Each has "pulled the trigger" for a change in the stock market trend. Whether this means that the present bull market is now culminating no one knows, but we should always watch for the unexpected. Gold, railroads, trusts, and electricity were as glamorous in their day as space and electronics are today.

(6) Labor Union Era

The recent duPont—General Motors Decision may bring about a reverse effect. It may unexpectedly make Wall Street optimistic. The decision was basically against monopoly, as were the decisions of several years ago. Yet, the greatest monopoly today is that of Labor Unions. What if the Supreme Court should suddenly dissolve the Teamsters Union, as now operated by Hoffa, whom President Kennedy's brother, the Attorney General, knows from A to Z?

Such a decision could rule that previous Congressional legislation exempting Labor from the Anti-Trust Law is unconstitutional. Such a decision, instead of creating a bear market, could cause the Dow-Jones Averages to go sky-high. Surely this is a possibility, and a reason why readers are justified in keeping certain of their common stocks and swapping certain of the present glamour stocks for the old-fashioned blue chips. I forecast that some day some such a decision will be rendered, followed by Congressional legislation. If Democracy is to survive and dictatorship be prevented, such a Court Decision will come some day. Then, don't be short of good industrials.

Outdoor Sporting Tips

Fishing

The new plastic-worm lures are fine on the end of a hook, but many an angler has had cause for despair when upon opening his tackle box he has discovered the worms have melted all over everything. It's a sticky situation. Here's the answer. Next time, place your worms in a jar filled with water. The advantages are obvious.

When the action is slow here's a tip that will speed things up if you are fishing for pike or similar fresh-water game fish. Before you go out, get some fish blood, either from your local fish store or from your own cleanings. Soak several pipe cleaners in the liquid and let dry. When you're getting anxious for a strike, wrap one of the cleaners around your leader in front of your lure. When it hits the water the blood comes off and any fish in the area will be attracted to the hook.

Anglers who tie their own flies dislike the job of stripping peacock or chicken feathers. The stripped feathers form the bodies of dry flies. Feather stripping, however, need no longer be a chore. Try this: soak the feathers in hot liquid disinfectant bleach. The fuzz just fizzes away.

Camping

Being lost in the woods is one danger campers have in common with other sportsmen, such as anglers and hunters. Fishermen are often able to find their way back by following a stream. However, if a man is lost in the woods and can't locate water, he still has another good trick up his sleeve. A clue for the camper or hunter is secondary roads or trails. If the trail you follow forks off into two or more—you're probably going away from civilization. Trails fork away from home. Just follow the point of the "Y" and you are bound to make it back.

Boating

When your boat takes on water from a slow leak or a rain storm, don't scrape off the floor by using an old tin can for bailing. Here's a better way. Get yourself a paper milk carton and slice off the top. There will be no more scratched paint—one carton will last throughout the season.

(Try for a $50 prize. Send your tip to A.A. Contest, Sports Afield, 959 8th Ave., New York 19, N.Y.)

to attend graduate school on the side, a recent survey shows.

The survey, conducted by the university's placement service, under the direction of Lewis M. Knebel of the office of the executive dean for student life, also shows that 16% of those polled plan to do full-time graduate work.

Part-time graduate study expectancy of those planning full-time work after graduation was highest among agricultural students, 53%. Second highest was 49% from the College of Arts and Sciences followed by 47% from the College of Engineering. Also, 41% of those planning full-time graduate study are from the College of Arts and Sciences. Other plans of graduating seniors include military service, full-time work without attending graduate school, travel, and marriage.

In general, the overall results of this year's survey concerning graduate study expectancy are similar to those of last year except for some percentage shifts from college to college.

One interesting sidelight on the survey is an increase among women who plan to work full-time while married, at least immediately after graduation. The percentage of graduating women planning to work full-time while married is 38%, which is 5% above last year's figure.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Senator William Proxmire has introduced a bill in the United States Senate that would go a long way toward plugging one of the obvious major loopholes in nation's antitrust laws.

In essence, the bill, if passed, would impose greater penalties on corporate officers responsible for their corporations violating the laws.

For some time now, independent businessmen, voting through National Federation of Independent Business, have asked for stricter penalties.

Senator Proxmire's bill would apply in either a civil or criminal case that the government won a verdict.

For regardless of the type of case won, executives found responsible for illegal conduct of the corporation would suffer severe financial loss.

The bill provides that the wrong doing executives can be cut off from any remuneration from the corporation for as long as a year, the corporation would be enjoined from paying any type of compensation to such executives for the period of time prescribed by the court.

Commenting on his bill Sen. Proxmire says "A jail sentence is a very serious social penalty but may not impose any financial hardship if the convicted person continues to hold office and draw his salary. A one year suspension from office without pay is a much more serious financial penalty."

There are many American corporations with the highest standards of ethics. Unfortunately, there are some whose business morality and ethical standards are not of the highest. And it is these less ethical ones who can often persuade their executives to take illegal measures.

Or as Federal Judge J. Cullen Ganey expressed the philosophy in a recent antitrust case "Here we have the nonfictional case of the organization man and the question of conformity to the corporate line. As an executive he goes along with a way of doing business. Consider his stake in this... large salary, high position, seniority. He may realize it's risky; but he must either violate the law or give up his seniority and excellent remuneration."

Thus, there can be corporate executives persuaded to take illegal courses on the assurance of the corporation that their personal financial well being will be protected. Likewise, they can be informed unless they go along with the plan, regardless of its legality, their position with the corporation is in jeopardy. Thus, in desperation, many corporation executives, conceivably, could be induced to take a chance.

However, Sen. Proxmire's proposal would change all this.

Because the provisions of this bill, enacted into law, would make it clear to an executive that no matter how hard his corporation tried to pressure him into committing illegal acts, the game would truly not be worth the candle.

Safety Director Given Good Points

"Is Your Car Safe?" This question is asked by Paul E. Burke, Executive Director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission relative to the vehicle Safety-Check program which is being conducted on a community-wide basis throughout Maryland in co-operation with the auto industries Highway Safety Committee, the National Safety Council and the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

"Every driver of an automobile should be able to say 'Yes, my car is in operating condition'," the executive director said, "but it is impossible for anyone to give an honest 'yes' unless he has had his car Safety-Checked recently." "Frequent checking will uncover excessive wear or other damage when it first starts,"

Burke said. "At this point repair probably will be inexpensive, but if the trouble is neglected you may find yourself with a sizable repair bill on your hands." "A more important reason for frequent checking is to discover mechanical deterioration before it becomes a safety hazard," Paul Burke warned. "Neglected brakes, tires and other parts quite often contribute to serious accidents," he stated. "Obvious wear and other damage to such things as brakes, windshield wipers and horns can easily be detected," the executive director said, "and he urged drivers to check these items periodically themselves." "However," he said, "it takes a careful check by a competent mechanic to uncover more deep-seated troubles."

"There is no substitute for constant vigilance," Burke said. "For safety and economy have your car safety-checked without delay."

Stocks Not Reflecting Fully Earnings Of The Future

While major cyclical leaders such as stocks of large automobile and steel corporations have risen marketwise since the beginning of the year in anticipation of improving conditions many of the so-called secondary issues have not participated in this rise and thus perhaps this group is deserving of the greatest investor attention today. The sharp recovery in business has made possible improved earnings in many of these companies and there are several cases where dividends were in jeopardy, but where they now appear to be relatively safe. Obviously there are many stocks that fall into this category and it would be impossible to cover all of these in the limited space available. Therefore we have tried to select three or four which are particularly attractive, we feel.

The stocks we recommend sell at reasonable price/earnings ratios and offer an investment return of 4 1/2% or better. They are: E. W. Bliss, Freuhauf Trailer, Parker Rust Proof, Rockwell Standard and Warner & Swasey. Today the investor or speculator would be well advised to regard with much greater caution the so-called glamor growth stocks. In this category we include stocks in the electronics companies and other growth areas which are selling at very high price/earnings ratios in anticipation of substantially increased earnings in the future. At the moment there seems to be some investment disillusionment about these particular issues and we feel that the glamor stocks may be going to be deglamorized marketwise.

For those investors who are fortunate enough to hold profits in these stocks it might be advisable to cash in and for those people who are thinking about buying them it might be advisable to wait.

Cool Boy Responds Successfully To Heart Operation

The wonders of modern surgery can be attested here where a little nine-year-old boy is currently being transformed from a sick child to a normal healthy youngster.

He is Jerry Cool, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Cool, who is recuperating from major heart surgery.

On May 16, Jerry underwent open heart surgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, for correction of a coarctation of the aorta and to close a large hole inside his heart.

After being carefully watched and nursed at the hospital for three weeks, Jerry was allowed to return to his home.

Last week he had to return to the hospital for a checkup so that the doctors could determine if he was making progress from his surgical ordeal.

A close examination revealed that Jerry had developed an inflammation around the heart but the doctors said this was nothing to worry about too much, his parents were instructed to see that he keeps calm for another two weeks so the inflammation will clear up without causing any complications.

Except for the inflammation, the child was found to be making remarkable progress from the effects of his six-hour operation.

Doctors told the Cools that as soon as the surgical scars are completely healed he will be the same as any normal child. This was the most encouraging news of all because at first the doctors said that the boy still might not be able to run and play like normal children. However, they assured the family all along that he would be much better than before the surgery.

Mr. Cool said Saturday, "I'm sure everybody's prayers helped" as he proudly told of his son's progress. He said everyone he talks to wants to know about the boy and how he's getting along.

It was first believed that Jerry might have several holes inside his heart but when the doctors opened the organ, they found only one hole but that was about the size of a quarter.

Jerry's heart is about the size of a full-grown person, Mr. Cool said. This is believed to be due to the hole causing the heart to have to work so much more than another person's heart. The doctors believed his heart will stop growing now, Mr. Cool said.

Although the Cools are encouraged by the reports from the doctors, they said they can already see where the operation has done a world of good. Jerry already is looking better and when you put your hand on his chest now you can really tell a difference, Mr. Cool added.

Jerry still has to rest a lot and can only be up at present for a few minutes at a time, but this is not expected to last long.

With summertime here, all children long to go swimming and that's just what Jerry is going to do before long because the doctors told him last week that judging by the progress he is making, he'll be able to go swimming by the middle of July.

And when he's able to go swimming that will mean that he will also be able to run and play with his sisters and brothers and friends, too. And that's just what every little boy ought to be able to do.

The Cools are thrilled beyond words by what is happening to their little boy and everyone who knows the youngster is happy that he finally has a chance to live like any other normal child.

The family, in all their joy, remembers that if it had not been for the generous people of Frederick County who responded to a plea for blood donors, this whole miracle would not have been possible. But who could deny a boy in need?

SPINELLI-STAHLEY

Miss Shirley Marie Stahley, Alexandria, Va., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stahley, Emmitsburg, was united in marriage with John Steve Spinelli, Alexandria, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Farco Spinelli, Crab Orchard, W. Va., in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg, on June 10 at 10 o'clock. The nuptial mass was performed by Rev. James Twomey, pastor. The altar was decorated with peonies. Mrs. Louis Rosensteel was the organist, and Mrs. Marie Rosensteel sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The maid of honor was Miss Arlene Lingg, Emmitsburg. The attendants were Miss Pat Lingg, Emmitsburg, and Miss Vicky Straley, Littlestown. The best man was Charles Wright, Alexandria, Va., and the ushers were Gene Lingg, Emmitsburg, and Frankie Spinelli, Crab Orchard, W. Va.

A reception was held in the Emmitsburg VFW Annex. The couple left for a week to an unannounced destination and are residing in Alexandria, Va.

The bride graduated from St. Joseph's High School, class of '58, and is employed with the Department of Labor, Washington. The bridegroom attended Woodrow Wilson High School and is employed with American Security and Trust Company. He is also a member of the Air National Guard.

REDSOX BLAST GIANTS

Manager Tip Harbaugh's Red Sox opened defense of their Little League title Monday evening with a 13-7 win over the Giants. Pitcher Kerry Hewitt of the Giants helped his own cause with a three-run homer, but the Sox kept the pressure on without extra base hits.

Building Permit

A building permit was issued this week for the erection of a filling station to be located on Rt. 15 just north of the town limits of Emmitsburg. The station will be operated by Alfred Neal and Guy Kessler. No value was placed on the building.

Dr. C. D. Caskey, director of feed research for Southern States Cooperative, has just developed an electronic computer—known as the "Cowculator"—which determines the most profitable level of concentrate feeding for dairy cows. The machine's calculations places special emphasis on the

Refrigerator Tips Given

Keep Condenser Coils Clean

If you are looking forward to an enjoyable summer, there are some things that you might like to do that will keep refrigeration and cooling equipment running efficiently. The operating mechanism of a mechanical refrigeration system is sealed and should run for many years without attention. There is one part, however, of a refrigeration system that should receive special cleaning attention, points out Mr. A. V. Krewatch, Extension Agricultural Engineer, University of Maryland. This is where the hot gas, after it is compressed, is cooled. These coils are often exposed and need periodic attention. The coils accumulate dust which reduces the cooling efficiency. They should be cleaned about once or twice a year with a soft brush and a vacuum cleaner.

The attention of homeowners is directed toward air conditioners, household refrigerators, freezers and the dehumidifier. In addition, the attention of farmers is directed particularly to bulk milk tanks of the air cooled type. The condenser coils are an important part of the refrigeration system that has much to do with the rate at which the milk will be cooled on hot summer days. These coils should be protected, shaded and kept clean. Air conditioning systems also need periodic attention.

CYO PLANNING SUMMER ACTIVITIES

The Seton CYO will begin summer programs with a social to be held Wednesday night, June 28, at 8 p. m. A short business meeting in St. Euphemia's Hall will be followed by dancing and games. All members are urged to attend.

If the members are interested, the organization plans to sponsor periodic picnics and outings throughout the summer months.

Refrigerator Tips Given

Keep Condenser Coils Clean

If you are looking forward to an enjoyable summer, there are some things that you might like to do that will keep refrigeration and cooling equipment running efficiently. The operating mechanism of a mechanical refrigeration system is sealed and should run for many years without attention. There is one part, however, of a refrigeration system that should receive special cleaning attention, points out Mr. A. V. Krewatch, Extension Agricultural Engineer, University of Maryland. This is where the hot gas, after it is compressed, is cooled. These coils are often exposed and need periodic attention. The coils accumulate dust which reduces the cooling efficiency. They should be cleaned about once or twice a year with a soft brush and a vacuum cleaner.

The attention of homeowners is directed toward air conditioners, household refrigerators, freezers and the dehumidifier. In addition, the attention of farmers is directed particularly to bulk milk tanks of the air cooled type. The condenser coils are an important part of the refrigeration system that has much to do with the rate at which the milk will be cooled on hot summer days. These coils should be protected, shaded and kept clean. Air conditioning systems also need periodic attention.
