The Weekend Weather Forecast

Somewhat cooler and less humid over the weekend. Mostly fair until possible showers on Sunday.

Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

The tragic demise of beautiful Marilyn Monroe this week graphically portrays the Hollywood story of rags to riches and back again. The story has been repeated numerous times with well-known figures near and dear to all of us. Money and fame but no friends tells the story. Apparently Miss Monroe had money, millions of admirers—but no staunch friends. She was unable to cope with her problem and apparently committed suicide by taking an overdose of sleeping pills.

Maryland's present road fatality record of deaths on the highways is apparently soaring to a new record this year despite all known methods of road safety and caution pleas. To date the total is almost 100 ahead of last year at this time. Well over 300 have been slaughtered in this small state so far this year and all safety agencies and commissions are hard put to come up with any solution. The Traffic Safety Commission is desperate and has issued invitations to hundreds of people to offer suggestions and attend a meeting in an effort to solve the problem or at least slacken the pace a bit. Legislators and a sizeable number of citizens are calling for a general auto inspection system like many other states have and which Maryland had a quarter of a century ago. You'll find several schools of thought on this subject. Apparently it would be okay if it were run properly but too many made a racket of the inspection in former years and abused the motorist to gain profits by gouging them. We don't want to return to that system I'm certain. However it is apparent that we must have safe vehicles on the roads at all times and this would almost necessitate an inspection of some sort under state supervision. At any rate this needless slaughtering of our citizens must stop.

Some consternation was felt here when I wrote that a rumor was making the rounds that Emmitsburg High School would receive two Negro teachers starting the fall semester. At the time I stated that it was strictly a rumor and that was exactly how it turned out. I have been informed by an authoritative individual that one part-time colored teacher would be on the local scene this fall. This teacher will act in the capacity of physical education instructor, dividing her time between Emmitsburg and Thurmont High Schools. Welcome aboard, teacher!

X-Ray Unit Here Next Week

The annual Chest X-ray survey provided by the Frederick County Health Department and the Frederick County Tuberculosis and Public Health Association will be conducted in Emmitsburg on Friday, August 17. Everyone 18 years of age and over is urged to take advantage of this service. The schedule for the day is: H. O. Toor Shoe Co. from 9:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.; Emmitsburg Manufacturing Co. from 11:00 a.m. to noon and on the Square from 12:30 to 3:00 p.m.

Water Company Explains Delay In Improvements

"Because of many inquiries from customers regarding the delay in improvements to the system, the Company feels it should explain its position," said Water Company President, Samuel C. Hays, today.

"Early this year the Company filed a petition with the Public Service Commission, asking for permission to borrow funds for needed improvements. At the hearing on this petition several months ago, in Baltimore, it appeared that Town Officials were about to file Eminent Domain or condemnation proceedings against Company property. As a result, the Public Service Commission took no action, but postponed any further hearing. The Company position was that it would be impossible for it to obtain financing while the threat remained that the Company would be put out of business by Eminent Domain action on the part of the Town.

"No papers have yet been filed by the Town," says President Hays, "and we do not know how soon they will be filed. And until they are filed and we see what the Town seeks to do, we cannot say what position the Company will take. In the meantime, we cannot undertake the extensive improvements which are necessary."

Balloting For Queen Continues

Connie Sanger, sponsored by the Optimist Clubs of Frederick County, still maintains the lead in the Maid of South Mountain Contest, according to official tabulations made this week at the third turn-in held at the Francis Scott Key Hotel in Frederick. Reporting and tabulation is being handled by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Frederick.

In commenting on the results, C. Lease Bussard, Executive Vice President of the Antietam-South Mountain Civil War Centennial Association said, "With only two more turn-ins, the contest is really picking up momentum, and the race for the top spots is surely getting tight." "All girls are still in contention, and it is highly possible that the lead could shift many times during the next two weeks, as all contestants put on the final surge to become the Maid representing Frederick County who will reign throughout the period of the Commemoration in both Frederick and Washington Counties. The winner will become the recipient of the brand new Studebaker Lark furnished by the Kaufman Sales and Service of Frederick."

The regal costume which will be loaned for the occasion is still on display at Henry's, 17 North Market St., Frederick. The third place Maid will also receive a complete wardrobe from Henry's. Other prizes will consist of a $600 Mink Stole furnished by Gilberts, luggage, radios, wrist watches, and many other items. Each girl entered will receive an award at the close of the contest.

The "Maid of South Mountain" will reign with her court of nine, which will consist of the nine runners-up in the contest. She will also be assisted by attendants from each community in Frederick County. These will be selected following the close of the contest.

The coupons being sold by the Maids are now redeemable for both General Admission and Reserved Seats at the Civil War Office in the Francis Scott Key Hotel. They can be exchanged for reservations for an amount that is more than the price paid for the coupon.

Reunion Sunday

The Eigenbrode reunion will be held Sunday at Mt. Tabor Park, Rocky Ridge. All members of the clan are urged to be present and to bring their lunch.

Former Local Resident Killed In Vehicle Mishap

Charles G. Gartrell, 51, former resident of Emmitsburg, the driver and only occupant of his car, died in a head-on crash on Md. 75 south of Libertytown at 9:25 p.m. Saturday. The five occupants of the other car in the accident were all treated for minor injuries and released from Frederick Memorial Hospital.

Tpr. Top E. Barnes, who investigated the collision, reported that the driver of the other car, Kenneth L. Poole, 18, of Libertytown, was headed south on Md. 75 when he observed Gartrell's car approaching from the opposite direction, in the wrong lane of traffic and at a high rate of speed.

Poole swerved to the right to avoid striking the approaching car, but Gartrell's car struck Poole's head-on.

Gartrell was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by Dr. B. O. Thomas Sr., county medical examiner. Dr. Thomas said death was due to a crushed chest.

Tpr. Barnes reported that the accident was probably caused by Gartrell's failing to drive in the proper lane of traffic and driving at an excessive speed.

Gartrell was employed by the Hahn Transportation Service at New Market, and was a veteran of World War II. He attended the Methodist church and was a member of the Woodboro Post of the American Legion. He was a son of the late George W. and Anna Baumgardner Gartrell.

Surviving are his wife, Mary E. Valentine Gartrell, two children, Mary Anne and Agnes Marie, at home; five sisters, Mrs. Bertha Reese, Westminster; Mrs. Gilmore Becraft and Mrs. Florence Keefer, Mt. Airy; Mrs. Doris Wilson, California; and Mrs. John Rippeon, Shookstown; one brother, George E. Gartrell, formerly of Emmitsburg.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the M. L. Creager and Son Funeral Home, Thurmont, with the Rev. Philip Bower officiating. Interment was in the Keysville Cemetery.

ALBERT S. TABLER SR.

Albert S. Tabler Sr., 81, of Mt. Airy, died Wednesday at Vindobona. He was born at Etchison, a son of the late Levi and Verta Lewis Tabler, and was the husband of the late Eva Care Tabler. Mr. Tabler was a retired member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Railroad Engineers Veteran Association.

Surviving are the following children: Ralph L. Tabler, Emmitsburg; Mrs. Virginia E. Dayhoff, Dickerson; Mrs. Eva E. Deer, RFD Frederick; Miss Edith I. Tabler, Mt. Airy; Mrs. Vivian Howes, Etchison; Albert S. Tabler Jr., Rocky Ridge; Harvey W. Tabler, Mt. Airy, and Howard Tabler, near Damascus.

One sister, Mozella Bosley, of Sykesville; 15 grandchildren, and six great grandchildren also survive.

Friends may call at Olin L. Molesworth Funeral Home. Services will be held at the funeral home on Saturday at 2 p.m. Interment will be in Providence Cemetery, Kempstown.

MRS. CATHERINE SAUM

Mrs. Catherine Rosalia Saum, 76, wife of Harry Lee Saum, Hagerstown, died at the Western Md. State Hospital Saturday at 6 a.m. of complications after an illness of 12 weeks.

She was born at Emmitsburg, and was the daughter of the late John and Mary (Houpt) Favorite. She had been living in Hagerstown for the past 60 years. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Hagerstown.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Catherine G. Dickens; son, Robert Lee Saum, Hagerstown; one grandchild; sisters, Mrs. Simon Stock, Harrisburg, and Mrs. Irene Irwin, Cleveland, Ohio; a number of nieces and nephews.

Requiem Mass was said in St. Mary's Catholic Church on Tuesday at 10 a.m. by the Rev. Fr. Paul Byrnes. Interment was made in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Students Active In Workshop

A group of Mother Seton School students are participating in a demonstration class, A Workshop in Methodology for Secondary School Teachers of French and Spanish, being conducted at St. Joseph College through Aug. 14, from 10 to 10:40 a.m. each morning. There is a demonstration lesson in French of the new audio-lingual approach to language learning.

DAMUTH—GREEN

A pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday afternoon, July 31 at Grace Moravian Church in Wayne, Mich., when Miss Cecelia Rose Green, daughter of the late William Russell Green of Thurmont, became the bride of Brooke James Damuth, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Damuth of Emmitsburg.

The double-ring ceremony of the Moravian Church was read by the Rev. John R. Hoeman, present pastor of the church and was performed on the channel in the sanctuary which was prettily decorated with seasonal flowers. Tall candles on the candelabra to each side of the wedding group added to the setting. Mrs. Helen Juteason Hoeman of Nazareth, Pa., was matron of honor and John Lich of Flint, Mich., was the male attendant.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white chiffon, street-length, with white lace jacket and white accessories. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings. She carried a white leather Bible and for a shoulder corsage wore a ribboned orchid.

The matron of honor was dressed in a pink lace dress and wore white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

A wedding dinner was served afterwards at the Grace parsonage with the principals of the wedding all present.

The bride and bridegroom took a Lake Erie wedding trip following the events of the wedding day. They are at home to their relatives and friends at Lloyd Marshall's Apartment, Route 1, Emmitsburg.

LAYMAN—SAYLER

Miss Lois Ann Saylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Saylor, of Rocky Ridge, and Robert Marcellus Layman, Rocky Ridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Layman, Thurmont, R2, were married last Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Graceham Moravian Church with Rev. Frederick Morgenstern officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Clara Green, organist, accompanied James L. Fisher, soloist, who provided the traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza with an appliqued lace basque bodice and long tapered sleeves. The scalloped shell neckline was accentuated with seed pearls and sequins. The organza skirt was decorated with sequins in the front and a bustle in the back. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a white orchid with white carnations.

The maid of honor was Miss Ida Jane McConnell, classmate of the bride. She wore a yellow gown with a full skirt of nylon chiffon and a short jacket accented with lace. Her bouquet was of rosebuds and carnations.

Bridesmaids were Judy Kay Valentine, classmate of the bride, and Jeanie Layman, sister of the groom. Both wore mint green gowns with full skirts of nylon chiffon and a button-back lace jacket. They carried yellow rosebuds and carnations.

Thomas Layman, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Paul Wivell, friend of the groom and Richard Layman, brother of the groom.

The mother of the bride wore a blue and white print dacron dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a green and white print dacron dress with beige accessories and a white carnation.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church social room with the following persons assisting: Mrs. Frank Ralston, Mrs. Frances Angleberger, Mr. Roland Beall, Mrs. Raymond Boller and Mrs. Anna Burrier.

The bride chose a black sheath dress with white accessories for her wedding trip.

Mrs. Layman is a graduate of Emmitsburg High School and the Waynesboro Business School. She is a secretary at the Board of Education.

The groom attended Thurmont High School and is presently employed at the M. J. Grove Lime Co. He is a member of the 29th Division, Co. B, of the National Guard Unit of Frederick.

County's Longest Parade Seeking Participants

Prizes for participation in "The Lost Order" Civil War Centennial Parade on Frederick Day, September 12, 1962, were announced this week, according to Robert Dudrow, General Parade Chairman. The 25 division parade, the largest ever attempted in Frederick County, is expected to draw 75,000 persons or more, and will be represented by uninformed groups from more than 15 states. Official sources have announced that all schools in Frederick City and County will be closed during the entire day, which will permit the youngsters to enjoy one of the most educational events ever scheduled in this area.

The prize list represents the largest ever used in a Frederick County Parade. They are:

Senior Bands: $200.00, $150.00, $75.00, $50.00; Junior Bands: $100.00, $75.00, $50.00, $25.00; Drum & Bugle Corps: $200.00, $150.00, $75.00, $50.00 (with at least one prize to a Junior organization); Floats: $100.00, $75.00, $50.00, $25.00 (Commercial boats not eligible for prizes unless they carry a civil war theme); Organizations: $65.00, $35.00, $25.00, $15.00, $10.00 (at least two prizes to youth groups); Reactivated Units: $40.00, $30.00, $20.00 and $10.00.

All winners will be announced and prizes will be awarded at the shopping center, according to Mr. Dudrow. The prize office will be located in the model fall-out shelter. The parade will begin at the Fairgrounds, and will feature General Reno's departure from Wayside Inn. It will then proceed West on Patrick to the Barbara Fritchie House, where General Reno and his contingent will visit Barbara Fritchie; then going North on Bentz to Church; East on Church to Market; North on Market to Seventh; and then West on 7th to the Shopping Center where it will pass in review and then disband.

Entry blanks are being prepared, and will be forwarded to groups and organizations in the near future. They can also be obtained from Civil War Headquarters, Francis Scott Key Hotel, in Frederick, or by phoning MO 2-2022, if desired by mail.

Student Granted Fellowship

The Department of State has announced the awarding of a Fulbright Travel Grant to Kathleen Dolores Seely, of Jersey City, N. J., a 1962 graduate of Saint Joseph College. The grant provides travel funds to be used in conjunction with the French Government Teaching Assistantship received by Miss Seely, and under which she will teach English conversation at Lycée Municipal de Jeunes Filles, in Nive, France.

Miss Seely received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Mathematics and French from Saint Joseph College in June. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Seely, of Jersey City, she will sail on the S.S. Waterman on September 12 with other Fulbright Graduate Assistants and Fellowship recipients. A special program of activities will be provided for the American scholars on board ship enroute to the European universities.

Fulbrights, the grants for graduate study abroad, are awarded under the international educational exchange program of the Department of State. The program is designed to promote a better understanding of the United States in other countries and to provide opportunities for foreign nationals to study in American colleges and universities.

Touring Japan

Mrs. James J. Kelly of 317 N. Seton Ave., arrived in Tokyo this week from Hong Kong, to begin the final portion of a two-month around-the-world pilgrimage tour.

The tour group will visit the Franciscan and Jesuit Centers and the new memorial church in Nagasaki, the city where twenty-six Christians were martyred in 1597. They will also see the Catholic University in Nagoya, as well as the principal tourist attractions of Japan. The tour group will board a Japan Air Lines jet August 20 for Honolulu. The tour will conclude four days later with a flight to the West Coast.

According to JAL, earlier stops on the tour included Rome, Athens, Istanbul, Jerusalem, Cairo, India, Bangkok, and Singapore. Arrangements for the group were made by the Catholic Travel Office of Washington, D. C.

Library Receives Clock; Seeks Volunteer Workers

An anonymous donor has given an electric clock to the Emmitsburg Public Library. The quick and enthusiastic response to the request for a clock in last week's Chronicle is truly appreciated by the Board of Trustees and the Librarian.

Plans for the library are progressing well. The outside painting is next in view as is a return book slot in the door so that books can be returned outside of library hours. The Explorer Scouts plan to complete the painting of shelves. There are still a few more bookshelves to be installed. Books which have been donated are still being processed. Hearty thanks to everyone who has contributed books to the library.

Mrs. John Warthen, Librarian, would be glad to hear from reliable, interested adults who would like to do volunteer work in the library. The library is very dependent upon the volunteers, adults and teenagers, who give their services so generously. No previous knowledge of library work is necessary as the Librarian will explain the duties. Call HI 7-3647 if interested.

Volunteers are asked to check the monthly schedule carefully and see Mrs. Warthen about any changes in schedule which should be made. If for some reason your name is not listed and you would like to work, see Mrs. Warthen. If, for some reason a volunteer is unable to come at the last minute, it is the responsibility of the volunteer to provide a substitute. (A list of substitutes may be obtained from the Librarian). If it is impossible for the volunteer to find a substitute, please call Mrs. Warthen. The Librarian is not responsible for providing substitutes. However, she should know in advance if no one can be working on a certain day. If the volunteer cannot find a substitute, it is quite possible that the library will be closed.

Two books recently received are:

"No Man Tells Everything" by Libbie Block—this is a lively humorous collection of some of the most surprising stories ever written (quoted from the dustjacket). Libbie Block is a regular contributor to many women's magazines including "Good Housekeeping" and "Ladies Home Journal."

"Doniphan's Ride" by Les Savage Jr.—"An exciting novel about a little-known aspect of the war with Mexico."

Graceham Firemen's Carnival Scheduled

The Graceham Volunteer Fire Co., Inc., will hold its annual Carnival at Mt. Tabor Park, in Rocky Ridge, on Friday and Saturday evenings, Aug. 17 and 18. There will be many free attractions for the children including a huge sliding board, swings and see-saws.

Ham, tuna and hamburger platters will be served nightly. All kinds of sandwiches will be served at a nominal charge. There will be bingo, games and all the usual carnival attractions.

The recently-purchased Fire Engine will be shown at the carnival with all the equipment, which is first line. There also will be cake walks.

Free music will be featured both nights, with the famous Yellow Springs Concert Band, Charles C. T. Stull conducting, providing the music Friday night. Jimmie Mayhue and His Legionnaires will be the attraction for Saturday evening. Come spend an enjoyable evening in the park and help the firemen in a good cause.

2-Car Accident Injures Five

Five persons from the Bethesda-Silver Spring area were injured in a two-car accident on Route 15 two miles north of Thurmont Monday afternoon.

Admitted to Frederick Memorial Hospital was Edward King, 5, who underwent surgery Monday night for a ruptured spleen. He was reported in uncertain condition at the hospital.

Released after treatment were Nancy S. King, 32; Mrs. Jules Stoddard, 30; Philip Stoddard, 5, and Douglas King, 2. All the injured were passengers in a vehicle operated by Jules Stoddard of Silver Spring.

Trooper Paul Sanders said the accident occurred when the Stoddard car rammed into the rear of a vehicle operated by Mrs. Marilee P. Favorite, 22, R2, Thurmont, who was making a left turn off the highway. Mrs. Favorite was uninjured.

Inattention on the part of Stoddard was blamed for the mishap.

Consolidated School Plans Advance

Prospects for a joint senior high school which would accommodate students from both the Emmitsburg and Thurmont Districts appeared brighter this week when the Board of Education reported it had been negotiating with several parties for the purchase of suitable land in the area.

It has been known for some years that the Board was planning such a move but nothing has been heard of the matter for the past two years until this week.

Under consideration is land in the vicinity of U. S. 15 and the Orndorff Road about 3½ miles south of Emmitsburg, belonging to J. Norbert Wivell and Charles H. Jamison of Poolesville. The location is about half way between the two towns.

A tract of about 40 acres is being sought for the new school which in future years will house students from both of the north-county towns instead of having separate schools as is the present practice.

In addition to this site, other possible sites are being explored. However, the committee of residents from the two communities working to get a consolidated school, had recommended the area around Orndorff Road as being most acceptable.

Long-range planning has the school being strictly senior high, however, it was reported that the ninth grade students from Thurmont might also attend the school.

GOP Schedules Party At Park

The Republicans of seven northern districts of Frederick County will sponsor a "Get Acquainted Party" next Wednesday evening at Mt. Tabor Park, Rocky Ridge. A crowd of 500 or more is expected to attend according to the general chairman, William Kolb. The chairman says "we think the method used many years ago of meeting the candidates face to face and chatting with them still is the best way to get acquainted."

The program is being sponsored by these Northern Frederick County districts: Haver, Thurmont, Emmitsburg, Creagerstown, Johnsburg, Catoctin and Lewistown. We are planning to feed and entertain more than 500 persons said Cy Manahan, a former resident of Emmitsburg, and chairman of the refreshment stand. Happy Johnny of Radio Station WFMD will act as emcee for the program.

TRUCK DRIVER FINED

On a charge of disorderly conduct a Texas truck driver was fined $15 at a hearing before Magistrate Richard J. McCullough Wednesday afternoon. The charge was placed by Emmitsburg police chief, Wilmer E. Law. Fined was D. Davis of Dangerville, Texas. Chief Law arrested the man on a complaint by William Parracco of Hyattsville, Md., after Parracco complained that Davis had run his small truck off the road at the intersection of Rt. 15 and Old Frederick Road at Toll Gate Hill. The two continued their journey to Emmitsburg where Parracco accused Davis of the action. An argument ensued and Davis was fined for disorderly conduct. Davis threatened to strike Parracco with a pipe section.

Playground Events

Coming events scheduled for the Emmitsburg playground are a doll and car show today (Friday) and a hat and dress-up show on Friday, August 17. The shows are open to children between the ages of three and 12 who have been registered in the playground book.

The playground, sponsored by the local Veterans of Foreign Wars, is open daily from 9:30 to 12:30 and is under the supervision of Mrs. Gloria Martin and Mrs. Loretta Adelsberger.

Hospital Report

Admitted
Raymond Roop, Emmitsburg R2.
Mrs. George S. Andrews, Emmitsburg R1.

Discharged

Douglas W. Long, Emmitsburg.
John E. Cool, Emmitsburg R1.
Mrs. Charles F. Eyer Jr. and infant daughter, Rocky Ridge.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. McCusker, Emmitsburg, son, Wednesday.

SPEAKING & CARDS

COMBO-CANASTA: NEW GAME

Ever since Canasta's phenomenal popularity of the late 1940's, its fans have turned to developing variations of the game until in recent years hardly anyone plays Canasta according to the original rules. Instead, such exciting games as Samba, Boliviana, Mexicana and Chile have been in high favor on the nation's card tables. Now along comes a game called "Combo-Canasta" that claims to be the newest and most exciting game of the Canasta family.

Combo-Canasta is so-called because it combines many of the most interesting features from Boliviana, Samba, Mexicana, and other games of the Canasta family to make the most exciting and challenging game of its type to date. It is played with three 52-card decks, plus six jokers. As in other three-deck Canasta games, players in turn draw two cards and discard one card. The discard pile is always frozen.

A special feature of Combo-Canasta is that a special bonus of eleven cards from the top of the stock is awarded the individual player who completes the first canasta (of any kind) in a deal.

These bonus cards become part of his hand and he may meld any or all of the bonus cards in the same turn of play. There is only one such bonus in each deal.

Other highlights: Penalty Cards. At the end of any deal there is a penalty of 200 points for each black three and 500 points for each seven left in a player's hand.

Red Threes: A side scores minus for red threes unless it has completed a bolivia, an escalera, or a natural canasta of sevens. All six red threes score 200 points plus. In Combo-Canasta, a meld comprising exactly seven cards is a Canasta. The possible Canastas and their base scoring values are:

Bolivia (wild card canasta)	2,000
Escalera (sequence canasta)	1,500
Sevens (natural, no wild cards)	1,500
Sevens (mixed, with wild cards)	1,000
Red Canastas (natural, no wild cards)	500
Black Canasta (mixed, with wild cards)	300

Initial meld requirements are:

Accumulated score	Minimum Count
0 to 3495	60
3500 to 6995	100
7000 to 10495	140
10500 or over	180

For a free copy of the official rules for playing "Combo-Canasta," write to the Playing Card Association, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York 17, N.Y.

Girl Scouts

Camp Overnight

Senior Girl Scout Troop 88 went on an overnight camping trip last Friday evening and returned home Saturday evening. The girls who made the trip were: Betsy O'Melveny, Jean Myers, Lynn Shorb, Joyce Sanders, Harriet Harner, Phyllis Chatlos with chaperones, Mrs. Charles O'Melveny and Mrs. Robert Myers. Each girl brought her own supper for Friday evening. Saturday morning breakfast, made by the girls, consisted of bacon, eggs, toast, tomato juice and hot chocolate; dinner of barbecued chicken, corn on the cob, baked potatoes, lettuce salad, iced tea and watermelon. The next meeting of the girls will be held on September 12.

Gambling earnings must be included as income on Federal income tax returns.

Farm Bureau Opposes Fiscal Irresponsibility

To lower one's income and increase one's spending is fiscal irresponsibility which leads to bankruptcy whether it is a farmer, a business, or a government, stated A. Kenneth Miller, Executive Secretary, Maryland Farm Bureau.

"The Administration is talking about the desirability of lowering taxes as an incentive to business," said Miller, "but at the same time it has not withdrawn any of the Government spending proposals which require additional revenue."

"To stimulate our economy, it is preferable to have a tax reduction than to increase spending," noted Miller. "At the same time, any tax cut needs to be coupled with a reduction of federal expenditures if we are not to threaten our future economic and political freedoms."

Miller said that the basic responsibility of the government with respect to economic matters should be to create a favorable climate for the private initiative, enterprise, innovation, savings and investment that are essential for economic growth and development.

Jehovah will guide thee continually. (Isa. 58:11)

100 YEARS AGO

JACKSON WHIPS BANKS ON NEW BATTLE FRONT

By Lon K. Savage

The hard-fighting, hard-praying Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson came upon an old enemy 100 years ago this week.

The enemy was Gen. Nathaniel P. Banks, the former Massachusetts governor and speaker of the House of Representatives, whose army Jackson had whipped in the Shenandoah Valley and had sent flying across the Potomac River to safety earlier in the year. Now, Banks was back in Virginia at Culpepper, near the juncture of the Rapidan and Rappahannock Rivers, commanding the advance guard of federal Gen. John Pope's newly-organized Army of Virginia.

Jackson had come up to the Rapidan from Richmond shortly after the Seven Day's fighting, and his men looked forward warmly to the prospect of fighting Banks again. "Commissary Banks," they called him, because Banks had left behind food and provisions in his hasty retreat from Jackson the last time the two had fought. Now, they were itching to fight Banks again.

There was a tactical consideration, too, that called for an attack. Jackson knew that Pope and Banks were expecting reinforcements, and he wanted to attack before they arrived.

Jackson Attacks

So on August 8th, Jackson crossed the Rapidan, and Banks moved in toward him. Next afternoon, the two armies collided on the banks of a stream called Cedar Run and in the shadow of Cedar Mountain, and the battle—called both "Cedar Run" and "Cedar Mountain"—was fought.

This time, Bank's men gave Jackson stiff resistance. The battle opened with an artillery duel, followed by a Confederate charge which the Yankees received without giving way.

Banks then advanced his troops, driving back some of Jackson's troops and, according to one report, sending the famous "Stonewall Brigade" back in disorderly retreat.

But as the sun began to set, Bank's artillery was forced to retreat, and Jackson's right advanced crushing the federals before it. From there it was a rout, as Jackson's men pushed forward all along the line and Bank's defenses caved in everywhere. By dark, Banks had been whipped again. His army of 17,900 had suffered more than 2,300 casualties (including 622 captured or missing). Jackson, with an army of 20,000, had suffered a thousand fewer casualties.

A New Front

The battle, in addition to its significance as a Confederate victory, marked the opening of a new and important front in the Civil War. For while Jackson and Banks fought, Gen. George B. McClellan's army—the one that had unsuccessfully besieged Richmond—was withdrawing from the peninsula east of Richmond and moving by water up the Chesapeake Bay to join Pope. In Richmond, Gen. Robert E. Lee watched McClellan's withdrawal and made plans to turn his attention on Pope.

Within a week after Jackson's victory, Lee ordered his army northward to join Jackson at the newly-formed front stretching along the Rapidan in central Virginia. It was now a race between Lee and McClellan to see who got to Pope first, McClellan to save him or Lee to whip him.

Next week: Confederates on the offensive.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Gold

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 9.—The history of gold dates back to very ancient times. Bible students will remember how the "Wise men" 2000 years ago brought "gold, frankincense, and myrrh" to the Christ Child. The temples of Moses, Mecca, and Buddha are decorated in gold. Gold has always been sought after because it has an indestructibility, scarcity, and beauty which no other metal possesses. The world is getting "smaller" due to advances in transportation and communication. Some day an international currency system will be inevitable, and gold will probably be the basis. The present excitement over Telstar is further proof of what lies ahead. Devaluation Of The Dollar Gold is widely discussed at this time because of its relation to the value, and possible devaluation, of our dollar. Some people talk as if "by a nod from the President", the world's economic troubles would cease, but it is not so simple. Among the reasons: (1) All the other leading countries would also "devalue" their dollar (or equivalent) . . . (Franklin Roosevelt learned this 25 years ago); (2) there is now no agreement among the nations as to an international currency and its relationship to their own domestic currency; (3) the question as to our own budget and deficit must be resolved in advance; (4) the other nations could raise their tariffs against us; and finally, (5) President Kennedy proclaims he will prevent devaluation with a big "No".

For these and other reasons, I now believe that this "devaluation" talk will be harmful to the stock market and surely to the price of gold bonds. On the other hand, devaluation would increase our "paper" reserves and automatically reduce our aid to underdeveloped countries. Theoretically, agreements could now be made with the large banks of other countries which would, for the present, quash all talk of devaluation. This could be helpful to the U. S. stock market, especially if the bankers will take President Kennedy seriously.

Fear Of Losing Gold

Many people feel that the very talk in Congress of "devaluation" would cause foreign banks to withdraw their gold. But without the consent of Congress, President Kennedy could—by Executive action—put an embargo on gold. This, of course, he would do simultaneously with recommending "devaluation" to Congress. With all the President's other troubles, I doubt if he would now do either.

Only Two Real Political "Cures"

After several weeks of no gold loss, foreign takings of our dwindling gold stock have again occurred. This loss simply points up to the ineffectiveness of government efforts so far. Indeed, the immediate impact of our problem has been blunted by certain fortuitous developments in recent weeks. Collapse of the Canadian dollar caused a sharp demand for American dollars. France repaid us some $300 million in remaining Marshall Plan loans.

However, there is an end to this type of one-shot relief. What is needed is a cure for the causes. Proposed hiking of interest rates for foreign deposits held here is a step in the right direction—but again it is a palliative. No matter how much we pay foreigners to hold dollars here, it will not prevent them from converting to gold if they lose confidence in our dollar. We have got to cut out foreign outlays or build up our favorable trade export surplus high enough to cover them. There is no other way.

My Personal Solution

If I were President Kennedy I should be honest with all nations of the world and make an active effort to increase the supply of gold. This would help Canada and also Africa in their present difficulties. It also might be considered a friendly gesture by Russia, which has much gold underground. This would lower the free market for gold, which is what we should have.

Then as the supply of gold increased, our dollar would be slowly devaluated without hurting any country. Of course, the "silver states" might put up a cry against this. But I think that missile and electronic developments could fully offset their fears. The world needs more gold. There should be some honest, slow change in the price of gold through increasing its supply in keeping with the growth in populations and trade activities.

WHAT'S NEW in AGRI-BUSINESS?

For years farmers were unable to safely store wet grain at low cost because oxygen in the air spoiled it. Preventive measures were too expensive.

Purdue scientists experimented with a new "breathing chamber" for wet grain storage. Its purpose: to prevent air (oxygen) from touching the stored grain. It does this by controlling the movement of protective carbon dioxide gases formed by fermentation of air and moisture in the grain.

Breathing chamber, built into foundation of wet grain storage tanks, stops spoilage caused by oxygen. Now it's possible to store 4,000-20,000 bushels inexpensively.

Under Health's Flag

International Experts Work For World Health

The health flag international experts meet under combines the United Nations emblem, in white, with medicine's traditional symbol, the Aesculapian staff and coiled serpent, in gold, superimposed on a blue background. Aesculapian is the ancient Greek and Roman god of medicine.

The three were among the delegates from WHO's 115 member states that met to map the WHO program for the coming year. During three week sessions, the delegates voted in favor of a $30 million budget for '63—the highest ever in WHO history and higher than this year's by $3.9 million—to run more than 800 public health projects around the world.

About one-seventh, $4 million, will go for campaigns to rid the world of malaria—since 1955 a main WHO goal—and $700,000 for training of African and other newly independent nations' medical and paramedical personnel.

Also earmarked are research projects in cancer, cardiovascular diseases and immunology, as well as projects to control and eradicate communicable diseases, such as cholera, smallpox, leprosy, tuberculosis, and yaws.

The global health program is administered by six WHO regional offices throughout the world. In the Americas the office is the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, Washington, D.C.

ALL ABOUT BABIES...

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

By Kenneth S. Shepard, M.D.
Director, Well Baby Clinics
Northwestern U. School of Medicine
Colic

Colic is something that concerns many new parents. In this column, I would like to answer several common questions about colic asked by parents of infants with this particular distress.

1. What are the signs of colic?

In answering this question, I would first say that we often think of colic in infants as the crying of discomfort. The infant with colic draws up his legs, his abdomen becomes slightly to moderately distended and he passes much gas.

2. What is the cause of colic and of the pain associated with it?

The true cause is not fully understood and there may be different causes in different babies, sometimes, it may be swallowing excessive amounts of air. Air or gas distention of the loops of the small and the large bowels will cause colic pains.

3. How does the baby swallow air?

There are any number of ways. One of the most common is via improper nipple holes. If the holes are too large, the baby will gulp his food and so may swallow excessive amounts of air. If the holes are too small the baby will not get enough milk while sucking and when he swallows his mouth will contain mostly air.

4. Are there any other causes of colic?

It is hard to say though some babies may get colic when they are either overly tired, excited, overfed, underfed or are exposed to tensions created by the people around them or by any number of other conditions.

5. Is allergy a cause?

Allergy is not an actual direct cause of the symptoms associated with colic but your physician no doubt will consider it in his examination.

6. How is colic treated?

First, I would like to suggest that parents who think their baby has colic, see their physician. If it is colic he may decide to prescribe medication to relax the baby. I would also check the nipples of baby's bottles to assure proper sucking. Check the temperature and the humidity of the nursery so the baby is comfortable. Sometimes, there is really little one can do except to comfort the baby as best as he can. One added assuring though, Colic is not serious and regardless of what is or is not done, the baby will recover from these pains at about three months of age, if not earlier.

Around The World In 80 Days

By Anabel Hartman

(Note: I think I should call attention to my error in last week's article in writing the heading, No. 17, for our last stop on the Cruise: it put Panama City in the Canal Zone altho I said in the text that it is in the Republic of Panama. The heading should have been written: Canal Zone: Balboa; Panama: Panama City. However, I was not responsible for reporting that it was here that we were free to "fake" our own tour—but perhaps my readers did not notice this slip!)

The Panama Canal
A few facts out of those given by our regular travel lecturer and the ship's special tours sheet may be in order here as relating to what is considered one of the world's greatest engineering achievements, carried out by the U. S. Army Engineers Corps. Readers already familiar with this story may look ahead to where it ends and begin reading again there.

1. In 1880 a French engineering company, having secured a concession from Colombia, of which Panama was then part, attempted to build a canal across the Isthmus of Panama under direction of the French engineer De Lesseps, but nine years later, with little accomplished but with an expenditure of several hundred millions, the company went bankrupt on account of mismanagement and the very high mortality among workers from malaria and yellow fever.

2. In 1903 the revolt of Panama from Columbia took place, followed at once by U. S. recognition of the new Republic and soon after a treaty providing for this country's building and operating of the Canal and including the leasing forever from Panama of a ten-mile strip of land across the Isthmus in the middle of which the Canal would be built—the Canal Zone, to be operated by the Panama Canal Company, a U. S. Government Corporation.

3. In 1904 the United States took possession of the Canal site and related property ($40,000,000) and cuttings were begun the next year, but in a short time they were practically suspended on account of the same bad conditions as to yellow fever and malaria that had so seriously affected the French effort. Thus it was that the first great task for the Canal builders was a medical one, the stamping out of these diseases thru the discovery and elimination of their cause in a particular type of mosquito, ably accomplished by W. C. Gorgas of the Medical Department of the Army.

4. Actual construction of the Canal took about seven years. It was under the direction of Col. Goethals and involved cutting thru some 50 miles of mountainous tropical country, making a very large artificial lake, cutting an 8-mile-long channel thru solid rock, and constructing six sets of locks. It was completed in 1914.

The Panama Canal is known as a high-level lock canal, contrasting greatly with the other Canal passed thru on this Cruise, the Suez, which is the sea-level type, running thru sandy deserts, having two natural lakes near its center, and needing no locks.

Our actual transit of the Canal took most of the daytime of April 10, the Rotterdam leaving the pier at Balboa shortly after 5:00 a.m., proceeding to the entrance and starting thru soon after. The first link-up with shipboard activities on the day's printed program was the announcement for 6:00 a.m.: "Early Panama Canal Viewers. Coffee and rolls will be served on deck." I missed this first glimpse of the end of the Canal (for us the beginning) not intentionally but regretfully, but when I got on deck stayed there for most of the rest of the transit in spite of the program of regular shipboard activities going on as usual. In addition to the sources of information about Panama and the Canal mentioned above we had the additional one of a direct broadcast, going on almost continually, by a member of the Panama Canal Company who had been engaged by the Holland-American Line to explain all details of the transit as it occurred, and this Mr. Christie was such a completely informed and yet pleasantly informal speaker that Cruise members had a special treat in his presentation. Here I can give only the main stages in the progress of a ship passing from the Pacific (Gulf of Panama) to the Atlantic (Caribbean Sea), noting that the Canal runs in a north-south direction, not east-west as one might suppose; and that luxuriantly green rolling hills or low mountains border it along the way.

Follows 8-mile-long channel to last two sets of locks (Miraflores) where raised above the level of the Pacific according to height of tide there, then into Miraflores Lake and raised again by single Pedro Miguel locks (ship pulled here by electric locomotives called "mules" that run on concrete platforms along both sides of the double locks), next crosses Continental Divide thru the 8-mile Gaillard Cut and then man-made Gatun Lake, and finally lowered by three sets of Gatun locks to the Atlantic sea-level and passes into Limon Bay, arm of the Caribbean, not stopping at the Atlantic ports of Cristobal in the Canal Zone or Colon in Panama. Our time-schedule is further reflected in two more announcements in the printed ship's program for the day: "1:00 p.m. Panama Canal picnic on the Lido Deck. Enjoy your lunch while viewing the sights of this piece of American ingenuity." "4:00 p.m. Music with your Tea while passing Cristobal, the Atlantic end of the Panama Canal."

And so our transiting of 50 miles in about 10 hours was over, and all that remained of our 80 Days and total Ocean Travel of 25,967 miles was our curving course of 3 1/4 days and 1972 miles across the Caribbean between Cuba and Haiti (not seen), out into the main body of the Atlantic and on back to New York. All thru this time up to the night before landing on April 14 Shipboard Activities continued in full swing, the last one, at midnight, being the Gala Farewell Show Buffet, where on an inside upper deck there was an amazing display of "our Chef de Cuisine's Art," flood-lighted for camera fans! But a good many Cruise passengers spent a large part of these last days packing their 20-some pieces of baggage. How pleasant it was to have only the original suitcase and hat-box plus a shopping-bag and light case for the acquisitions!

In the first of the articles reporting this World Cruise I called it remarkable in more ways than one, and I trust in concluding them that my readers will agree I had good reason to use that term. Now, finding it hard to write "Finis," I am adding some odds and ends by way of a very miscellaneous Postscript, items appearing in our two Cruise publications.

P.S. Here And There
The British Colony of Aden at the end of the Red Sea is one of those places connected with very old Biblical legend: (1) that this is the Eden mentioned in the Book of Ezekiel, Ch. 27, (2) that Noah's Ark was built in its shipyards, (3) that the ship which took the Queen of Sheba to visit King Solomon was built here (this a more likely possibility).

2. An odd-shaped peak in Southern Ceylon is perhaps the holiest mountain in the world; over a billion people revere it for the foot-shaped impression on a rock at its top. Moslems believe it to be Adam's footprint made when he came to Ceylon from Paradise; Buddhists consider it Buddha's mark; Hindus, the god Shiva's; Eastern Christians, Saint Thomas'.

3. At least 114,000 persons are living on licensed boats in Hong Kong harbor, in keeping with the long-time custom of the people of Southern China.

4. In the large cities of Japan in cherry blossom season, "Cherry Dances" are presented at the leading theatres. This form of entertainment is a show of Japanese classic dance in gorgeous setting, often with a plot, by colorfully kimonoed dancers to the accompaniment of gay music.

5. In the Palace Garden of Bangkok in what was then Siam,

King Mongkut first served tea to the English schoolteacher who was engaged in teach his children English and who later wrote "Anna and the King of Siam" (movie: "The King and I").

6. The Egyptian Museum in Cairo, with most of the treasures from King Tutankhamen's tomb, is one of the most exciting in the world.

Nautical Notes

1. The Mediterranean is the largest body of water which has no appreciable tide—can hardly be noticed.

2. There are 12 velocities of winds, rated by numbers. For example: 1-7 miles per hour—Light Wind; 7-35—Moderate Gale; 11-70—Storm; 13-80—Hurricane.

One of the Global Mercury's Little Jokes:

She: "You remind me of the sea."
He: "You mean mysterious, romantic, full of variety—?"
She: "No, you make me sick."

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

The action of the Canadian government in reducing the value of the Canadian dollar as compared to the U.S. dollar by 7 1/2% promises more trouble for weird U.S. farm programs.

Theoretically, the U.S. and Canada are in competition. For example, Italy imports large quantities of hard winter wheat needed for the macaroni and other pastas. While Italian officials will say they would rather buy U.S. wheat, they cannot pay the higher price. The competitive margin is now widened.

U. S. farm price supports will probably continue. The result is that the storage costs of surplus farm products running around $1 1/2 million dollars per day will continue, probably go up. It is estimated that the total $1 million per day is the cost of storing wheat alone.

In the meantime, there is widespread hunger around the world. Wheat, the oldest foodstuff known to mankind, is acceptable to all people. Thus, there is a good product, and one that many people need.

It seems obvious that no one will say that the government handling of surpluses has been anything but a failure. Some of it has been given away for foreign give away schemes such as to communist Tito's Yugoslavia and Moscow's loving Nehru's India. But there seems little doubt that if these rulers had to, they would have bought wheat to avoid revolt.

© National Federation of Independent Business

Thus, the only barrier to selling U. S. wheat is the price based on a price support program. Roughly speaking, the people of the U. S. still consume about one-third of the American wheat supply, even though per capita consumption in this nation has dropped 25% since 1935. One-third is shipped out of the nation one way or the other, and the remaining one-third causes the trouble.

There is a market for this one third of the crop, but not at the prices American farmers must have to remain solvent. After all, the average national rate for farm labor is now 95 cents per hour, or about twice Italian factory wages.

Thus, even if tariffs on all imports from Italy are eliminated, to give Italy more dollars, that does not mean, as claimed, that more U. S. farm products will move into export.

Because Italians, or any other people, are not simple. When they buy wheat, they are going to buy where it is the cheapest, whether that be Canada, Australia, or South America.

Nations will all accept the American dollar in exchange for their wheat. Thus nations like Italy will merely buy where they can get the most bushels for the dollar. And for example, with the recent Canadian government action on their dollar, an American dollar costs 46 lire more than a Canadian dollar. Thus, it seems quite difficult to understand propaganda being issued that a new trade law cutting U.S. protective tariffs will open new markets for American farm products unless it is anticipated that the American farmer will be forced to sell at the same price as foreign farmers.

Vacationing In Ontario

Two thirds of Ontario boasts lakes and streams to thrill the vacationing outdoorsman. The exciting Muskoka Lakes Association regatta is shown here as spectators look on from the docks at Port Carling. The Muskoka Lakes area is also the site of an annual 15-mile Boatcade.

Ribbons of sleek, modern highway speed tourists from one Ontario vacation paradise to another. Here, a relaxed couple stop along Trans-Canada highway #17 near Wawa, before continuing on to the lovely wild lands to the north.

Speeding along the serene waters of Georgian Bay near Honey Harbor, Ontario, these vacationers look forward to a full day of fishing pleasure. Just around the bend, they'll meet a group of refreshed travellers completing a beautiful 5-hour sightseeing cruise of the lovely 30,000 island resort.

Colleges Meet Crisis

National Community Chest For Higher Education Formed

Nearly 500 private institutions in 46 associations of colleges are cooperating in the Independent College Funds of America.

It's no news today that higher education is in a state of financial crisis. Bankruptcy looms for many fine colleges and universities. Big news is what has been done to meet this challenge by formation of a national community chest for private higher education—the Independent College Funds of America, Inc.

Several outstanding universities have recently been forced to "go public". The Universities of Buffalo and Houston are examples. These institutions have had to turn to their state governments for funds which enable them to keep operating. Numerous good colleges will have to merge or close down altogether for lack of funds, according to a report published recently by the Ford Foundation.

Inflation is rapidly shrinking the endowment incomes—traditionally relied on by colleges to meet operating expenses. Tuition covers one-half of a student's education. Tuition fees are rising, but they are already a heavy burden on the average family's budget.

The next ten years will be the decade of decision for America—decision as to the future of its private colleges. The alternatives are clear cut: government intervention or business investment. If the money comes from government, it must be accompanied by tax increases levied against corporations and individuals.

To make a unified approach to business and industry for support of private higher education. Nationally, these groups are represented by the Independent College Funds of America, Inc., Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel, New York City.

In 1961, American business and industry invested more than $10 million dollars in private higher education through the state associations. A few of these major investors in higher education are: United States Steel Corporation; Mobil Oil Company; New York Life Insurance Company; Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company; International Harvester Company; Weyerhaeuser Company; Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation; Chase Manhattan Bank; Parke, Davis & Company; General Foods Corporation; Union Carbide Corporation; Firestone Tire & Rubber Company; Sperry & Hutchinson Co.; Schenley Industries, Inc.; Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.; and Standard Oil of Indiana.

In addition to these large corporations, nearly 10,000 small and medium size business organizations, from Maine to California, use the state associations equitably to distribute their contributions to the private colleges across the nation.

Democratic Leader Assails Birchers; Hails JFK Progress

By John M. Bailey

Chairman, Democratic National Committee

JOHN M. BAILEY

There is only one unchanging law—everything changes. Like people, nations never stand still. And this nation, on many fronts, moves ahead again! The British historian Macaulay expressed it exactly: "A single breaker may recede but the tide is coming in."

Our economic, military, and psychological situation has strengthened appreciably since the stagnant and often gloomy days of 1957-60. The United States again is No. 1—and we intend to keep in first place.

Today a nation is not only measured by its human, social, and cultural advances but by its peaceful achievements in outer space. We all can be proud of what has been accomplished this year. And we are going to put men on the Moon and go to the planets. This is the most exciting age in history. This is another age of exploration.

Militarily, we have established a true deterrent force through increased production of Polaris submarines, Minuteman missiles on hardened sites, and the modernization of SAC bombers. We have created flexible, mobile forces capable of dousing brush-fire wars before they spread into dangerous conflagrations.

More than anyone else, perhaps, The President of the United States realizes that we live in a nuclear tinderbox—because it is The President who in the final analysis is responsible for the lives of 180 million Americans.

The President, at the same time, has made it very plain to the Kremlin where we stand, and I believe this is another reason why we hold the peace.

There is a "no peace" faction in the Republican Party, composed of the Birchers, lunatic fringe, and their allies. Out of one side of their mouths they whisper that this Administration is "soft on Communism," a phrase inherited from Mc-Carthy. Out of the other they bemoan The President's necessary expenditures for maintaining and strengthening our military establishment as a shield against Communism. I don't know how they manage to do this, but then, I don't understand the Birchers anyway and I doubt if they understand each other.

Bemoaning the state of the national economy, we also have "economic Birchers." But at a time when they were moaning their lowest, I noted that the automobile manufacturers were elated at the prospect of their second biggest year in history, and steel orders had turned upward.

The "economic Birchers" have accused President Kennedy of a policy of both inflation and deflation, which would be a neat trick. Actually, the price line has been held and the wage-price spiral halted. And we have sharply cut our outflow of gold.

Summing up, the nation is on the move with confidence and new vigor.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY

Will Labor Hold The Line?
It seems characteristic of the American personality to want the biggest and the best, in a hurry. This is an essential element of the enterprise system: a peppy, get-up-and-go spirit. We have reaped bountiful rewards from this system, and we would be foolish to change it. But when some groups push their luck too far, one question whether enterprise is then "free." Even our national leaders have said they will tolerate no coasting in the economy, but must have an ever bigger and bigger production rate for an expanding and prosperous nation.

It is realistic to suppose that we can go on and on, whether spurred by blinding optimism or pushed by various forms of duress, without expecting periods of adjustment? It is possible that this bull-market viewpoint, so essential in spurring growth and developing confidence, may be carried too far in some areas? Optimism, as seen in efforts to drive the economy onward to inflationary heights, can result in disaster the same as depression - fear hypnos administered as federal spending.

All hands need to practice self-restraint these days.

Guidelines Exceeded
One area that desperately needs self-restraint is the ever soaring price of American labor. Such restraint has been recommended by President Kennedy through his "guideline" system, but there are indications that unions are widely exceeding his recommendations in their push for wage increases. Holding the line voluntarily, in the face of other government policy that encourages just the opposite, is very difficult. But I believe that it would be to the decided advantage of labor to do it at this time.

So far this year, the record is not encouraging. The record shows that labor in the construction industry has been asking increases far above the Kennedy guideline of 3 per cent. Wages in construction on the average have risen 57 per cent in the past ten years. Yet, this year, for example, New Jersey carpenters were asking for increases of 80 cents an hour that would bring their pay to $45-plus for an 8-hour day. Plumbers in San Francisco won boosts that average 14 per cent in a three-year period, bringing their rate to $7.55 an hour by 1965. Kill The Goose?

Increases estimated at $105 million were won from the railroads by the non-operating unions, with government approval. But many roads are so deeply in the red that they say they will have to lay off thousands in order to pay the increases. The New York Central, for example, lost $10.3 million last year, yet its workers won increases that are expected to reach $8 million a year. Increases will cost the Pennsylvania Railroad $10.5 million next year, about three times what the road earned in 1961. And the operating unions have yet to begin their push.

It is to labor's advantage to exercise restraint in holding down the wage spiral. At the risk of over-simplifying, we might remind ourselves that Mr. Khrushchev has expressed himself in favor of "much higher wages" and "much shorter hours" for Americans. Here is our nation's most vicious enemy, who has promised to bury us and to preside over the general economic collapse that he hopes will make possible a Soviet take-over. Is there any question why Mr. K has advocated a policy for America that is identical with that of some of our unions and their leaders? Long Range Look

When Gus Hall, the U. S. Communist Party functionary, returned from Moscow following the 1960 strategy pow-wow, he set about building the line that Khrushchev had ordered. Communists, Hall said, would work for higher wages and shorter hours. They are still aware that such an achievement tends to price America out of essential world markets and spark economic chaos at home, which in turn will help break the nation and bankrupt us into submission. American labor has largely repudiated Communism. Now is the time to repudiate Gus Hall's Communist objectives.

Everybody understands that labor is organized to bargain for wages. But this is a time when big labor should examine realities. It is a time when big labor should look toward long range objectives that are in keeping with the needs of the hour. The real concern of labor now should be to maintain our job opportunities and to secure for posterity the productive jobs this country affords, under the best working conditions and highest living standards any employees ever enjoyed. Although some will not welcome the advice, this is a time when such goals are hindered by continual pushing toward higher pay for fewer hours.

OUTDOOR SPORTING TIPS

Screenwire Leaders

Zounds! What to do when a run of big bass or pike starts and you find you left the wire leaders to hold 'em at home? Try this simple but ingenious idea: unravel an old screen! Braid the tiny wires together. Attach swivels. You'll have light, small, strong, tooth-proof leaders by the score.

Plastic Gas Can

(And Sometimes Can't)
Sportsmen have found dozens of uses for new plastic jugs. (They make dandy baiting cans, funnels, floats and the like.) Recently we suggested another possibility as emergency gas cans since the breakage danger that makes glass jugs so dangerous is eliminated. However, some jugs now appearing on the market are not formulated sufficiently stable to store petroleum products over long periods. Some areas have passed laws against using any of them for this purpose. All of which gives us the occasion to say again that getting an idea here doesn't relieve anyone of the responsibility of checking same carefully under local conditions and with local safety and/or legal authorities.

Foil Lighthouse

Locate your lake camp site in the dark with a 10 cent bike reflector (get green, everybody else has red) or a lake edge tree wrapped with aluminum foil. Either reflect the beam of your flashlight.

Slug Fest

Not generally known is the fact that a given shotgun will shoot different patterns with the shells of different manufacturers. Difference is slight and has nothing to do with the quality of manufacturing. It's just, well, guns, (like people), have their quirks. Now's a good time to make some experiments, especially if you live in the growing number of Shotgun-Only deer states. Pattern your gun with shells from several makers now. Pick the best, and stay with it come fall.

TV Repair Tray

Those TV dinner trays make fine dishes to hold assorted parts when you're making repairs to hunting or fishing gear. If tiny parts are involved, further insure against loss with this tip: tape on a strip of clear tape, sticky side UP. Tiny screws and springs stay put even when elbows bump 'em.

No Slip Sling

Now's a good time to sew buttons on the shoulders of your favorite hunting shirts. Will keep your rifle sling from slipping off while you walk with both hands free.

NO. 19943 EQUITY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, SITTING AS A COURT OF EQUITY
JOSEPH K. LENTZ
Frederick, Maryland

VS:
Rt. 4, Sand Hill Road
Canandaigua, New York
ORDER OF PUBLICATION
The object of this Bill is to obtain a Divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Plaintiff, Joseph K. Lentz, from the Defendant, Dorothy P. Lentz.

The Bill states that the Plaintiff married the Defendant on the 17th day of January, 1948, at Yellow Springs, Ohio, the marriage ceremony having been performed by an Ordained Minister of the Gospel. The Bill further states that the Plaintiff is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where he has resided for more than one year last past, but the Defendant is a non resident of the State of Maryland, and resides in Canandaigua, New York. The Bill avers that as a result of the said marriage two children were born. The Bill further alleges that your Complainant and the Defendant have been voluntarily living separate and apart without any co-habitation for more than eighteen months prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint, and said separation is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.

The Bill prays that the Plaintiff be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, that the Court determine the custody of the infant children, and for such other and further relief as the nature of his case may require.

It is thereupon this 31st day of July, 1962, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity Ordered that the Plaintiff give notice to the said non resident Defendant, of the Object and substance of this Bill by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 8th day of September A.D., 1962, commanding her to be and appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 9th day of October, 1962, and show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

One day we went to see an ancient and historic castle. There were numerous interesting things to be seen, but to me the most interesting of them all was the well inside the castle. In a time of siege a garrison could hold out for quite a long time; for they had an unfailing supply of water a well within.

Some people depend upon things outside themselves. Some live for their work or for pleasure, or to achieve some ambition.

The Christian has a well within. Jesus said, "The water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

All those who trust Christ find that they have an unfailing source of strength.

Prayer

O God, our Father, who art the source of all strength, help us this day to drink from the unfailing fountain of life. For all the tasks we have to do and the temptations we have to face, may we find within us the strength Christ promised to all who trust Him. In His blessed name we pray. Amen.

Thought For The Day

The Christian's security is in Christ's indwelling presence.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Gore Supports JFK On Campaign Funds

By Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.)
Former Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections

During his first year in office President Kennedy acted to promote additional safeguards for the most vital institution in a democracy—the election process.

Last fall, in announcing the appointment of a Commission on Campaign Costs, the President described the election of a President of the United States as "the supreme test of the democratic process in this country."

President Kennedy shares the concern felt by many thoughtful citizens over the influence of money in elections. Campaigning for office is becoming increasingly expensive. Only the extremely wealthy candidate could underwrite a major portion of the cost of an important statewide campaign.

Where does the money come from and for what is it spent? These are questions in which every citizen should be interested.

In 1956, the Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections, of which I was Chairman, tried to find these answers by conducting a survey of campaign contributions and expenditures during the 1956 National Campaign.

While this was the most exhaustive survey of its type ever conducted, the Subcommittee fell far short of accounting for all the money that was spent. Still, several conclusions were amply supported by this study.

Our Federal law regulating money in elections is archaic and wholly ineffective. It has remained, basically unchanged since 1925, while the cost of campaigning, including TV, radio, and other media, has soared.

There is no effective limit whatever on how much may be contributed by an individual or how much money may be spent on behalf of a candidate for Federal office. Moreover, the requirements for reporting money received and spent are so full of loopholes that the public never gets anything like the full story.

Many public-spirited persons contribute small sums, in the interest of good government, and with no special axe to grind. But, frequently, these small contributions are not enough.

ALBERT GORE

Often candidates become increasingly dependent on larger contributions, sometimes made by those who have a special interest they seek to protect in this manner.

This is not a healthy situation. As President Kennedy said, "To have Presidential candidates dependent on large financial contributions of those with special interests is highly undesirable."

The same can be said of a candidate for United States Senator or Representative—or, for that matter, a candidate for County Sheriff.

A Presidential Commission, headed by Dr. Alexander Heard, of the University of North Carolina, has recently submitted its report to the President. This bi-partisan commission took note of the inadequacies of existing law and recommended reforms that are long overdue.

The Commission endorsed proposals to encourage wider participation in campaign financing by recommending tax credits and deductions for modest campaign contributions.

I am hopeful that this action initiated by President Kennedy will find broad public support which will result in action by the Congress. We must eliminate unhealthy influence of money in elections to insure that Government reflects the will of the people, freely expressed.

When a person thinks about applying for his Social Security retirement benefits, almost everyone remembers that before he can be paid, he's going to have to prove his age. For some reason, this one requirement of the law, more than any of the other requirements, is given consideration by the person about to retire. This is a good thing, of course, because it's true that without proving your age you won't be able to receive retirement benefits. However, this concern with the age requirement has its bad sides too. A great deal of false information has been circulated as a result of the tremendous interest shown by people worried about how they'll prove their age.

This false information may have reached you! For example: Have you heard that you must have a birth certificate to prove your age? If you've heard this, forget it. It's not so. An original birth certificate (that is, one made at the time of your birth) is the best proof of your age that you can have, but, if you don't have one, don't worry about it because you can probably establish your age without it.

The Social Security Office will accept many things as proof of your age. For example an old family bible record can be used. Old insurance policies can also be used. Have you ever worked anywhere they made a record of your age? If so, a statement from that employer can sometimes be used. Old school records are good too. There are many other documents and records besides the few I've mentioned that can be used to establish your age for Social Security purposes.

So, if you've put off applying for your Social Security because you've felt that you couldn't prove how old you are, get in touch with us immediately. The people at the Social Security Office will make every effort to help you in obtaining proof of your age.

The Social Security Office serving this area is located at 59 North Cannon Avenue, Hagerstown.

Veterans' Benefits are not taxable income for Federal income tax purposes.

The first shipment of foreign game birds to this country came to George Washington just ten years after the Declaration of Independence. To date nearly 16,000 birds of 18 species have been brought into the country.—Sports Afield.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day Back Door Entry

Belmont Park has a great 2-year-old race named after a beverage — The Champagne, but New Jersey has a drink named after a great 2-year-old race at Monmouth Park. Mixologists in the H. M. Stevens laboratories concocted the Apple Sapling in honor of The Sapling Stakes which next week will bring together contenders for championship in the 2-year-old division. While fillies are eligible for the Sapling, few have started, and why should they? Amory L. Haskell, President of the Monmouth Park Jockey Club schedules an equally attractive romp for them in The Sorority Stakes. Both races are under futurity conditions, which means that the eventual starters had to be nominated months in advance and both have an incentive guaranteed to gross $100,000. Just in case, anyone with a 2-year-old of championship calibre failed to nominate him at a fee of $25 last January, he can, by payment of $5,000, make his horse a supplementary nominee. This rather expensive "back door", which closes five days prior to the race, was used to good advantage last year by Meadow Stable's Sir Gaylord. The only supplementary nominee in the field of 11, Sir Gaylord won with ease, repaying his owner's confidence with $74,046. Monmouth Park, incidentally, is a track that believes in "touting". Prominently displayed over the infield Totalisator board is the slogan: "Your BEST BET — U. S. Savings Bonds."

4-H CLAIMS 23 MILLION ALUMNI, HONORS MANY Awards Program In 10th Year.

The 4-H Clubs of America can claim the largest alumni of any co-educational youth organization in the world.

Today's former 4-H members number nearly 23 million men and women, according to the Federal Extension Service. They can be found in virtually every rural community and in cities as well.

Within the next decade, an even larger number will reside in suburban towns and big cities because 4-H is rapidly extending into these areas as the farm population continues to shrink. The latest U. S. census reports the smallest farm population in history in proportion to the entire population. About one person in 12 resides on a farm.

Awards Given

The national 4-H Alumni Recognition program was launched just 10 years ago when 4-H grads numbered around 15 million. Its purpose is to inspire today's youth by citing men and women who credit 4-H with making a valuable contribution to the success and satisfaction they now enjoy.

Award sponsorship of this unique 4-H program was undertaken at its inception by Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation, Chemicals Division, Agricultural, of Little Rock, Ark. The Cooperative Extension Service supervises selection of award nominees.

Since 1953, the national gold alumni key has been presented to 80 men and women from 35 states. Several thousand have gained county and state recognition and awards. They represent occupations or professions ranging from homemaker to astronaut.

Candidates may be nominated by anyone. Nomination forms can be obtained at the County Extension office. A judging committee then selects two individuals who best measure up to standards set for meriting county 4-H alumni certificates.

Plaque to Four

From all those receiving county recognition, as many as four can be chosen for the state award. The winners receive a handsome, engraved, burnished copper and walnut plaque.

Eight national award recipients are invited to Chicago to attend the National 4-H Club Congress as guests of Olin Mathieson. Each is presented with the 4-H alumni key during the annual alumni banquet attended by 500 national and state 4-H leaders, educators, business officials and other friends of 4-H.

Fair To Utilize
"Local" Talent

The annual South Mountain Fair, scheduled to be held from Sept. 3 through 8 at the Arendtsville fairgrounds, nine miles northwest of Gettysburg, this year will be closer than ever to its goal of being an "all local" presentation.

After 30 years during which entertainment was secured from agencies handling Broadway, television and night club acts, the fair this year resolved to act on the comment they have heard for years—"Why not give some of our local talent a chance? They do just about as good a job as the professionals!"

This year the local artists will be the "professionals" for the entertainment. The Hanover Community Players, who have gained an enviable record for skill in the area, will present a three act comedy, "A Mighty Man Is He," Sept. 4 and 5, at 7:30 each evening.

On Sept. 6 at 7:30 p.m., a record hop will be held with "The Pixies," a Hanover group that is winning wide acclaim, making a guest appearance.

Friday, Sept. 7, the evening entertainment will be presented by the York Barbershoppers Chorus, and Saturday, Sept. 8, a ten act local amateur talent competition will be held.

Sept. 4 will be "Preparation Day" during which exhibitors place the thousands of displays entered in competition prior to the official opening at 6 p.m.

Sept. 5 will be "4-H and Judging Day" when approximately 500 4-H club members will be present for special activities and Pennsylvania State University judges will select the winners in the various competitions between "the best products of the farm and home."

Sept. 6 is listed as "Old Acquaintance Day." Sept. 7, 300 Future Farmers of America from Adams and Franklin Counties will take part in numerous judging and other contests at the fair.

Saturday, Sept. 8 will be Horse Show Day with an unusual horse show scheduled for this year. For 11 years the adult horse clubs of the area have presented a horse show. This year the show will be put on by the 4-H pony clubs made up of youngsters aged 10 to 20.

Fair officials anticipate an unusually large display of livestock this year. Many of them will be housed in a new building being constructed by the 4-H club members and their parents. The new building was decided upon when the 4-H livestock exhibits far outgrew the space available. It marks the second increase in the livestock exhibit space in the last few years. Several years ago one of the breed associations constructed a new building for their

Some additional tips for traveling dogs from the Purina people: Take along a clear snapshot of your pet to help locate him if he should wander. Also, have him wear a collar carrying his identification tag, and your local dog license. This will help make it twice as hard for him to get really lost.

If your dog has a tendency to get car sick, consult your veterinarian. Preventive drugs are now available. Don't permit a dog to hang his head out the window of a moving car.

show the best of their products. From the art displays by the school youngsters to the fruit, needlework, art, 4-H and FFA displays, to the livestock displays, we believe we have some of the best in the country on display right here."

Man About Baltimore

By H. George Hahn

Perhaps one of the healthiest signs in Maryland politics was the recently televised debate between State Comptroller Louis Goldstein and Baltimore lawyer, Hyman Pressman.

It was brought into the living rooms of State residents via WBAL-TV. Mr. Pressman, the challenger, contended that Goldstein and the Board of Revenue Estimates were underestimating the state revenue surplus. Pressman had statistics for three consecutive years as backing for his contentions.

In 1961 the Board estimated a near one million dollar surplus; at the end of fiscal year 1961, the actual surplus was in excess of $29 million. Therefore, Pressman called the Maryland Sales Tax of 1961 unnecessary.

And an under-estimation by the present administration in this instance may prove a wise political move. Prior to election time, a tax-cut may occur; the incumbents would dig into the accumulated surpluses to fill the deficit garnered by taxes, such as the 1961 Sales Tax. This action would certainly place them in a favorable light before the voting (and tax-paying) public.

But anyway the surplus hubbub was aired to the public, thanks again to Hyman Pressman. Call him a civic watchdog, a Socratic gadfly, or whatever you may, but it seems that whenever the public interest is at stake, Mr. Pressman emerges to the fore, whether it be in form of a legal suit, a letter to the editor, or a state-wide televised debate.

Another champion of the majority proposed a constitutional amendment to allow voluntary non-sectarian prayers in the nation's public schools. Maryland Republican Senator J. Glenn Beall went on record as disagreeing with the Supreme Court ruling that official prayers in the public schools are unconstitutional.

Senator Beall agreed with Justice William O. Douglas' view that "the atheist or agnostic—the non-believer—is entitled to go his own way." But Beall feels that the "believers are entitled to go their own way, provided that the minority rights of the others are observed."

This solution is just another into which drifts that always-present, sometimes obscure and nebulous concept called freedom of choice. In a living democracy this basic and subsisting is necessary for all of our other freedoms. We have freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion, and so on. But these are non-existent if we are not free to choose what to speak about, what to print, and which religion, if any, to embrace.

And it is all in keeping with this basic freedom if the future citizens, as students, see this freedom in action, and participate in it, if only it means the joining in a prayer or the abstaining from it.

A shattering blow to this substrate freedom would be dealt if the prayer-saying were thrown out altogether.

Increasing in popularity for the last few years in the city have been the open-air park concerts. Picturesque and quaint Mount Vernon Place was the scene for last Thursday's weekly band test. The event called to mind reminiscences of the pre-World War II concerts, when the program was in full swing. A star-filled sky and towering Washington Monument fashioned a dreamy background for the musicians, who, provided an enjoyable evening for all present—from the older people resting on benches, to the younger set reclining on the grass—as strains of their sweet music rode on soft summer breezes past the monuments and down Charles Street.

Souvenir Plates Now On Sale

The special Souvenir Plate, which has been designed for the September 12 Souvenir Plate and Medallion Buffet at the Francis Scott Key Hotel, Frederick, has now been ordered, according to C. Lease Bussard, President of the Frederick County Civil War Centennial, Inc.

The plate, which can only be gotten by attending the Buffet, will complete the fourth of the series of plates commemorating the Antietam-South Mountain area and will be obtainable only by the 600 persons that will be fortunate enough to purchase a ticket for the Dinner. Tickets are now on sale at the Francis Scott Key Hotel Civil War Office, and at the Antietam - South Mountain Civil War Headquarters, 29 East Washington Street in Hagerstown. 300 tickets will be sold in Frederick County and 300 in Hagerstown.

All four Civil War Centennial seals grace the center of the plate, and it will be the only one of its kind ever to be produced bearing all four emblems, and will be copyrighted. Surrounding the center is listed the names of each state that participated at the Battle of Antietam, and around the outside edge is shown the official titles of the four Centennial Commissions.

In commenting on the plate, Mr. Bussard said, "The previous three plates were beautiful in their design, but in my opinion, this is one of the most outstanding plates ever produced, mainly because it contains scenes never before used and which were loaned because there is no commercialization to be made of them through their use." "With more than 3000 Souvenir Plate collectors in the two counties, these 600 that will be available will be valuable collectors items before they are even distributed." "Each person will be served on the plate, after which it will be washed and placed in a bag for them to take home." "We are adding something extra, which will be equally valuable in the form of a Bronze Medallion showing the Gathland Arch, which will also be given to each of the 600 persons attending." "None of these will be sold." Both of these items plus a marvelous buffet will be included in the ticket with no extra charge or gratuity."

The Pattern Copyright appears on the reverse side of the plate, with the following inscription: "On September 12, 1962, Frederick Day was commemorated, featuring 'The Lost Order Parade,' General Reno's Visit to Barbara Fritchie, and the Official Centennial Ball."

"The dinner was served on this plate which was then presented to the person using it. The plate features the Official Emblems of the Civil War Centennial Associations and lists the States that participated in the Battle of Antietam."

"The plate completes a set of four sponsored by Washington and Frederick Counties, and will not be offered for sale. Only 600 were distributed to those attending the dinner."

Other tickets for Frederick Day events are now ready and are on sale at the Civil War Office. They include: Seats for the 25 division parade; Tickets for the Official Centennial Ball at the Armory; and Tickets to the Luncheon and Style Show at Calvary Methodist Church. Only limited numbers of these are available, since one-half of all tickets must be shared with Washington County which is co-sponsoring the Civil War events from August 31 thru Sept. 17.

Pre-School Check-Up Advisable

Jimmy is a smart boy, but you'd never guess it from his report cards. Billy's friend Mary is far ahead of her age in reading, but her other school work is poor. What's wrong?

Well, Jimmy is nearsighted and he can't see the blackboard. And Mary's hearing isn't up to par. She can't hear a lot of what the teacher says. Both children are unnecessarily handicapped. A child whose general health is poor or who has defective sight or hearing could have a top flight I.Q. but not a chance of doing well in school.

At the beginning of the school year take your youngster to the doctor for a thorough physical check-up. Be sure to ask about a tuberculin test to detect hidden TB germs. Inquire about booster shots to back up the protective vaccinations he had as a baby. Don't forget about the three polio shots he needs, with a fourth added if enough time has elapsed since he got the third one. Ask the doctor to test the child's hearing and sight.

Take your youngster to the dentist. The teeth of a growing child need excellent care and perhaps some dental work if they are to last him a lifetime.

The once-a-year medical check-up is a good habit for the whole family to get into. Many of the ailments that plague us so in later life can be successfully treated if they're caught early. And to protect the whole family, don't forget a regular TB check-up for adults, too . . . tuberculin test or chest X-ray.

It's Time For... EYE CARE

Dr. Newton K. Wesley
CHILDREN'S EYE ACCIDENTS

No one is immune from eye accidents. Youngsters, especially boys, run a big risk of eye injury because of pointed sticks, BB guns, bows and arrows, fireworks, and the many pointed objects that boys either find or invent for their games.

It is the parent's responsibility to see that the toy fits the age of the child. There are many toys on the market today that were manufactured with the thought of eye safety in mind. These toys do not have sharp corners or instruments, yet they have a high value of entertainment.

If a child wears glasses, the parent should see to it that safety lenses are used. The National Eye Research Foundation has records that show vision has been saved by contact lenses. One such case is described as a child being hit in the eye by a pellet from a BB gun. Luckily, the child was wearing contact lenses. The pellet hit the lens and cracked it, but the eye was not injured.

It will be necessary for parents to be doubly careful in the days ahead. I refer, of course, to the vacation period. When school is out, children are especially active and require more supervision. Be sure that your child has plenty to keep him busy at play and around the house, but be doubly careful that his playthings are safe for his vision.
