Further proof that the right-hand of the Maryland State Roads Commission doesn't know what the left hand is doing is manifest by the lack of co-ordination with the Pennsylvania State Roads Commission. When the first section of the 10-year plan of the Maryland Commission was announced a decade ago the bypass of Emmitsburg was one of the important pieces of business in those plans. Here it is a decade later and the bypass hasn't been effected as yet and probably won't be for some time. It has been known all along that Pennsylvania had planned a new Route 15 to be completed in time for the centennial observance of the Battle of Gettysburg in July of 1963 and that state will have its share of the project completed in plenty of time. Our own fair state of Maryland has been lagging and probably will continue to do so under the present system it is operating on. It is now apparent that the most important section of new Route 15 south from Gettysburg to Washington, the Emmitsburg bypass, will not be completed in time for the centennial observance. Even if work were started today it would be impossible to complete the project in time for the big event. The resultant conclusion is that Emmitsburg will be jammed solidly with traffic during the first half of 1963. When the present stretch north of town is completed there will be a dead-end at both the north end of town and the southern extremity. We are all familiar with the one atop Toll Gate Hill and now we will have to contend with another in the near future. With an election on the horizon someone ought to tell Governor Tawes that this bypass should and must be completed in time for the centennial observance. Or maybe perhaps the Governor is somewhat like the State Roads Commission which doesn't seem to be aware that there is a western section of our fair state can take it from here.

The tragic drowning last week of 18 children in a crowded 14-foot boat down South is a stern warning to all that this practice must cease. It is positively foolhardy to pull such a stunt and is not in line with adult thinking. Many such tragic mishaps have occurred in recent years but the practice continues. Really folks, a boat that size should and will accommodate six persons. That boat was loaded three times its capacity, is there any wonder the tragic incident occurred?

It is becoming more apparent every year that conservation dams must be built throughout the eastern coast. With streams almost dry and some really are dry, the practice of conserving and holding water back must be increased. The proposed Six's Bridge Dam project can't get started too soon in my opinion. Just the past decade or two the water table on the East Coast has dropped several feet and wells must be dug deeper and deeper every few years. Why shouldn't there be more dams? If there aren't more constructed we face the prospect of becoming a dust bowl as happened to the Midwest.

Sodality Plans

Covered Dish Social

The Sodality of St. Joseph's Church will hold a covered dish social on Tuesday, August 28 at 7:00 p.m. in the grove at the Rectory, weather permitting. If the weather is inclement, the affair will be held in the hall of St. Euphemia's School. The social is being held by the members as a farewell to Rev. James McAvoy who has been Spiritual Director of the Sodality during his assignment as Assistant Pastor of St. Joseph's Church. Father McAvoy will leave the last of this month for his new assignment.

Internal Revenue Service today employs more than 57,000 people, who use electronic computers and modern management methods, to collect the money to meet our government's complex and broadening responsibilities.

337 Use Free X-Ray Service Here

The Mass X-ray Survey, made available to all residents of Frederick County 18 years of age or older and now in its fifth week of operation has x-rayed 5,559 individuals to date. This service, provided by the Frederick County Tuberculosis and Public Health Dept. will continue until Sept. 7, stated Mrs. Freda S. Doll, Executive Director of the Tuberculosis Association.

On Friday of last week the Mobile Unit operated in Emmitsburg for the convenience of residents of this area. The response was exceptionally good. A total of three-hundred, thirty seven persons received x-rays. One-hundred, fifteen were x-rayed at the H. O. Toor Shoe Co., 38 at the Emmitsburg Manufacturing Co., and during the two and one half hours the unit was located on the Square, 184 persons were x-rayed. The project was sponsored by the Emmitsburg Homemaker's Club.

Mrs. Paul L. Beale was the chairman for the area. Mrs. Beale was assisted with registering those who were x-rayed by Mrs. Francis Sanders, Mrs. Luther H. Cregger, Mrs. George Eyster, Mrs. C. C. Combs, Miss Ruth Shuff, Mrs. Charles A. Harner, Mrs. Jack Umber, Mrs. Doris Stouter, Mrs. Marcelene Piper, Mrs. Anna Green, Miss Harriet Harner and Miss Dorothy Humerick.

Report of the results of x-rays should be received by individuals within about two weeks. If no report is received within that time it is usually an indication that the result of your x-ray is negative. If, however, no report is received within a month and further information is desired, a call can be made to the Tuberculosis Association office. Also, persons desiring a chest x-ray who have been unable to obtain one to date may come to any of the locations yet scheduled and receive this service, stated Mrs. Doll.

Appreciates Support

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: The Frederick County Tuberculosis and Public Health Association is taking this means of expressing grateful thanks to you and to the members of your staff for the excellent coverage given us for the Mass X-ray Survey in your community.

The health project sponsored by the Emmitsburg Homemaker's Club, was most successful—we thank Mrs. Paul L. Beale, the President of the Club, for her cooperation and interest in so ably taking care of the preliminary work and in securing volunteers to register who came for x-rays.

We feel especially indebted to the community as a whole for their participation in helping to make this one of the most successful x-ray surveys ever to be conducted in this area.

Library Officials Express Appreciation For Gifts

Mr. Vincent Spartana of Baltimore read in the Chronicle of the Library's need for a clock. Thanks to Mr. Spartana's generosity, the Library now has a beautiful new clock. To others who offered to donate clocks, the Library Committee expresses appreciation.

Mr. William Ryder, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Library, announced the receipt of $50 from the Town. This gift is indicative of the interest shown by the Town and is greatly appreciated.

Miss Evelyn Sabol, librarian from the Burr Artz Library in Frederick, plans to spend Thursdays working in the Emmitsburg Library.

Mrs. John Warthen, Librarian of the Emmitsburg Library, will be glad to arrange for the loan of books from the Frederick Library. If there is a book which you particularly want to read, and it is not available in our library, Mrs. Warthen will make every effort to obtain it as soon as possible on the interlibrary loan system.

Thanks to Mr. Arthur Elder for the poster paper.

Miss Glass Recent Bride

Miss Velma Jean Glass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Glass, Emmitsburg R2, and A/1C Fred G. Stambaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Stambaugh of Thurmont, were married at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Tom's Creek Methodist Church. Rev. Martin Case, pastor of the church, performed the double-ring ceremony. Miss Martha Baumgardner, Emmitsburg, church organist, accompanied the soloist, Robert Baumgardner, Fairfield.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta with tight fitting bodice of lace trimmed with tiny pearls encircling the scalloped neckline. The gown also featured a wide panel of lace down the front with tiny buttons in the back reaching below the waist, then accented with a large bow. The skirt ended in a sweeping chapel train. Her shoulder length veil of bouffant style was attached to two lace crowns trimmed in tiny seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white full roses centered with a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a miniature opal, a gift of the groom.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Mumma, Thurmont, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. William Usittan, the Misses Patty and Nancy Glass, Emmitsburg, all sisters of the bride, wore floor length gowns of soft turquoise chiffon with lace bodices. The matron of honor carried a colonial bouquet of white full roses and pink daisies. The bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of pink full roses and white daisies. All wore headpieces of matching crowns with nose-length veils. Each wore a tiny cultured pearl.

Richard Stambaugh, Baltimore, served as best man for his brother. The ushers were Charles Eyer Jr., Rocky Ridge, brother-in-law of the groom; Charles E. Stambaugh, Thurmont, and Kenneth Stambaugh, Littlestown, brothers of the groom.

Miss Debra Ann Mumma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mumma, Thurmont, and Miss Charlene Eyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eyer Jr., Rocky Ridge, were flower girls. Both wore matching floor length gowns of white chiffon with lace bodices and featuring a turquoise cummerbund. Headpieces were small white lace crowns with tiny veils over the back. They carried miniature colonial bouquets of white carnations and pink daisies. Their only jewelry was a miniature cultured pearl, a gift of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a pink lace sheath dress with pink and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses and pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a beige lace sheath dress with beige and bone accessories and corsage of white roses and pink carnations.

Following a reception held in the social room of the church, the couple left on a wedding trip to Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island. For traveling the bride chose a forest green sheath dress with white accessories and the white orchid lifted from her bouquet. After September 4 the couple will reside at Cape Cod, Mass.

Mrs. Richard Valentine, Mrs. Charles Valentine, Mrs. Donald Wantz and Mrs. Maurice Moser served at the reception.

The bride is a 1957 graduate of Emmitsburg High School and until recently was employed at the Emmitsburg Manufacturing Company. The groom is a 1955 graduate of Emmitsburg High School, and has served with the Air Force since 1956 and is now stationed at Otis Air Force Base, Mass.

Anyone desiring to sponsor a uniform for a local player is asked to contact any of the Babe Ruth Club officials.

County Has Sufficient Teachers To Staff Schools

Only a few vacancies remain on the teaching staff of the Frederick County Board of Education, it was learned this week.

With less than three weeks before the new school year begins on Sept. 6, a Board of Education spokesman said that the teacher situation appeared to be well in hand.

As usual, more vacancies remain open in the elementary field than in secondary, but it was reported that there are not too many remaining to be filled in either field.

Earlier this month, the Board of Education approved the appointment of 30 teachers for the coming year while only ten resignations were granted. Four teachers were also granted leaves of absence.

Water containing only a small percentage of potassium cyanide will dissolve silver and gold.

Traffic Fatalities

Continue In State

There were 14 fatalities on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly summary issued by the Maryland State Police for the week ending August 19, 1962. Seven operators, 3 passengers and 4 pedestrians were the victims for this period.

In 11 of the fatalities a driver error was a contributing factor. Speed was a contributing factor in 8, and in 6 of them alcohol played a prominent part.

"Week after week," said Colonel Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "the figures clearly indicate the need for more positive action along the following lines:

"First, a licensing system that focuses attention on mental attitude, driver competence and driver responsibility to himself and to others.

"Second, penalties that will impress unequivocally upon the violator the importance of his license.

"And third, positive action aimed at the driver under the influence of alcohol."

Many people could retire comfortably on what their experience has cost them.

Monday Really Was Hot Day

The hottest day in more than three years and the hottest August 20 in local history had Frederick Countians reeling from the sweltering 100-degree temperature recorded Monday afternoon at the official weather checking station at the Frederick airport.

Although the official high reading was an even 100 degrees, even hotter marks were reported from hot weather sufferers who kept an eye on the thermometer outside while they appreciated their air conditioner inside. Those who didn't have an air conditioner just sweated and moaned as the mercury pushed higher.

Unofficial readings as high as 105 degrees were recorded at different sections of the county.

The mercury touched the 100-mark Monday at 2:30 p.m. and moved down and up to 100 again several times over a period of two hours before beginning a descent. The mercury still stood at 80 degrees at midnight but dropped to the 71 degree level early Tuesday morning before climbing upward again Tuesday.

A brief thunderstorm produced a little rainfall shortly after 9 a.m. Tuesday but in no time the ground was dry again. The county still needs rain badly. The official measurement was reported as .03 of an inch.

Never before Monday had the mercury touched the 100 degree mark on an August 20 but the reading is by no means the hottest August temperature. During a week-long heat wave in the first few days of August in 1930, six of seven days had readings above 100 degrees with the hottest being on the fourth with a mark of 106½ degrees.

Incidentally, that was not the record high temperature ever registered here. That distinction belongs to July 26, 1930 when the mercury touched 108½ degrees.

Local Chairman Expresses Appreciation

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

I would like to thank those who helped the Emmitsburg Homemaker's Club sponsor the Mass X-ray Survey in the Emmitsburg community last Friday.

I should like to quote from the letter written to me from Mrs. Freda S. Doll, Executive Director of the Frederick County Tuberculosis and Public Health Association:

"As you perhaps know, three-hundred, thirty seven persons had chest x-rays and forty-three community service hours were given in promoting the service and in registering those who came for x-rays."

"Will you kindly relay our appreciation to Mrs. George Eyster, Mrs. Francis Sanders, Mrs. Luther H. Cregger, Mrs. C. C. Combs, Miss Ruth Shuff, Mrs. Charles A. Harner, Mrs. Jack Umbel, Mrs. Doris Stouter, Mrs. Marcelene Piper, Mrs. Anna Green, Miss Dorothy Harner, and Miss Dorothy Humerick for the very capable assistance given in registering those who came for x-rays."

"If it were not for the cooperation and interest of groups such as Homemaker's Clubs, it would not be possible for us to conduct such a successful health project—we are indeed grateful to all who contributed in any way to help make this service a success."

I just want to add my thanks for those club members and those who were not members in helping with this project. We probably will not know just how many lives were saved, or will be saved by this community service. Only by way of the town paper can all those who helped be adequately recognized.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Paul L. Beale

South Mountain Fair Opens Sept. 4

Friday night store hours have caused a change in the entertainment schedule of the South Mountain Fair.

The annual exposition of the finest products of the Adams County area at a huge fairgrounds 9 miles north of Gettysburg near Arendtsville, scheduled the York Barbershoppers for a Friday night appearance as part of its free entertainment. The show was one of a number to feature "outstanding local talent" during fair week, September 4 through 8.

As the time for fair week grew closer the president of the Barbershoppers began to have more and more calls from members. They stated in effect: "The store is open Friday night and I can't get off." Finding himself losing his chorus, the president called fair officials. They found then that having outstanding local talent appear pays off in more ways than in providing good entertainment. "The Pixies", a group of Hanover area girls who have won a wide following and who were to appear Thursday, were able to switch nights. As a result the Barbershoppers will appear Thursday night, Sept. 6 and "The Pixies" will be at the fair Friday night, Sept. 7.

Fair officials expect to have the largest fair in 39 years when the exposition opens at 6 p.m., Sept. 4. Committee reports show "an unusual interest" among farmers, artists, homemakers, and even the youngsters in having outstanding displays of their work exhibited at the Fair. The 4-H boys and girls of Adams County are so interested in increasing the number of cattle they will have on display that they are engaged in constructing a special exposition shed—and are being helped in putting up the barn by their parents. Outstanding photography and outstanding painting and crafts work is promised in larger numbers than ever before by area photographers and artists. And despite the drought, the displays of fruit and all types of farm crops are reported as scheduled to be "the best ever."

Expected to be an outstanding attraction at the nightly entertainment in Memorial Auditorium is a three act comedy "A Mighty Man Is He," to be presented by the Hanover Community players Sept. 4 and 5. In preparation for the play a number of changes are being made in the stage at the auditorium.

"Do you have to have a birth certificate in order to draw your social security?" This question has bothered a great many people and has caused a lot of worry. The answer to this question is "NO!"

It is true, of course, that you must prove you are at least 62 to draw your social security retirement benefits. But to do this it is not necessary to have a birth certificate.

The social security office will accept many different things as proof of your age and chances are you have one or more of these "acceptable proofs" right now. Here are just a few of the age: an old insurance policy, an old Bible record, old school records, voting records and employment records. You also could use your marriage record, your baptismal certificate or a military service record.

If you have any of the things mentioned you should have no trouble in proving your age to the social security office—provided that these proofs are old enough and otherwise acceptable.

Many people delay applying for their social security because they do not feel that they can prove their age. Actually there are very few cases in which a person cannot obtain some proof of his age.

We advise you to come in to the social security office as soon as you believe that you are old enough to apply for benefits. If you do not have satisfactory proof of your age when you come in to apply, the people at the social security office will make every effort to help you get it. If you already have proof of your age do not forget to bring it with you when you apply for benefits—it will speed your claim up a great deal.

New and Easy Money-Saving Main Dish

A whole supper—right in one skillet—is a dream come true! This skillet main dish is a combination of favorites—plump meat balls, potato and onion slices, and peas—all cooked to flavorful goodness in tomato juice.

The secret of the juicy meat balls is the use of evaporated milk as a binder—a good idea for meat loaf, too. This double-rich milk holds the ingredients together—no egg is needed—and keeps the meat mixture tender and moist throughout the cooking.

BEEF SKILLET SUPPER

3 medium onions
1 pound ground beef
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
2 teaspoons salt, divided
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1 1/2 to 2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter

5 medium potatoes, peeled and sliced thin (about 5 cups sliced)
1 can tomato juice (about 1 pint)
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 package frozen peas (about 10 oz.)

Peel onions. Chop sufficient onion finely to make about 1/2 cup. Slice remaining onions. Mix chopped onion, beef, bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon of the salt and evaporated milk together lightly but thoroughly with a fork. Divide mixture and roll lightly into 12 balls about 2 inches in diameter. Roll each ball in flour to coat and set aside. Melt butter in a large skillet that has a tight-fitting cover. Add sliced onions and cook over low heat until transparent, stirring occasionally. Remove onions and save. Add meat balls and brown on all sides over medium heat. Cover meat balls with sliced potatoes and the cooked onions. Pour tomato juice over all, then sprinkle with 1 remaining teaspoon salt and pepper. Cover and cook until potatoes are almost tender, about 15 minutes. Add frozen peas from package, cover and cook 10 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

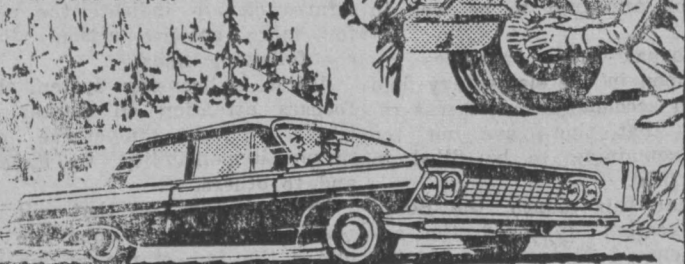

Tips For The Travelbound

For a smooth, carefree motoring vacation, prepare your car as carefully as you prepare your itinerary by following these three steps suggested by Tyrex Inc., association of Tyrex rayon tire cord producers.

First step is a stop at your service station. See that the car's lubricated... have lights adjusted if needed... ask the attendant to check oil, battery, transmission fluid, brakes and wheel alignment.

Second step is up to you. For safety's sake, Tyrex urges you to let your tire dealer check your tires. Look for wear and cuts... make sure your spare is in good shape.

You're finally ready for the road and step number three: have you remembered roadmaps, flash light, litter bag, first aid kit and enough games to keep the kids occupied on those long stretches ahead?

LINCOLN AND GREELEY ARGUE ABOUT SLAVERY

By Lon K. Savage

Horace Greeley's widely-read newspaper, "The New York Tribune," made news itself 100 years ago this week.

Greeley, spokesman for northern abolitionists, came out with an editorial in his August 19 issue severely criticizing the President's slavery policies.

"We think you are strangely and disastrously remiss in the discharge of your official and imperative duty," the paper said in the editorial, entitled "The Prayer of Twenty Millions."

"You are unduly influenced by the counsels, the representations, the menace of certain politicians hailing for the border Slave States," the editorial continued. And it added: "We complain that a large proportion of our regular army officers with many of the volunteers evince far more solicitude to uphold slavery than to put down the rebellion."

The article, which was read by thousands, drew forth from Lincoln one of his most famous writings: a clear, simple statement of his thoughts toward slavery and the Civil War. Lincoln answered it three days after Greeley's editorial appeared, and the answer—a letter—was printed throughout the land.

The Answer

"... I would save the Union," Lincoln wrote simply. "I would save it the shortest way under the Constitution. ... If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time save slavery, I do not agree with them. If there be those who would not save the Union unless they could at the same time destroy slavery, I do not agree with them."

"My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union, and is not either to save or to destroy slavery. If I could save the Union without freeing any slave, I would do it, and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves I would do it! and if I could save it by freeing some and leaving others alone I would also do that. What I do about slavery, and the colored race, I do because I believe it helps to save the Union; and what I forbear, I forbear because I do not believe it would help to save the Union. I shall do less whenever I shall believe what I am doing hurts the cause, and I shall do more whenever I shall believe doing more will help the cause. I shall try to correct errors when shown to be errors; and I shall adopt new views so fast as they shall appear to be true views."

"I have here stated my purpose according to my view of official duty; and I intend no modification of my oft-expressed personal wish that all men everywhere could be free."

Emancipation

At the time Lincoln released the letter, he already had in mind issuing an emancipation proclamation to free slaves and, in fact, already had discussed the proclamation with his cabinet.

Even at that time, Lincoln realized that his personal wish—"that all men everywhere could be free"—probably would coincide soon with his official duty—to save the Union.

For as each month went by, Lincoln was becoming more aware that freeing the slaves would help save the Union.

Next week: Second Bull Run.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses The Business Cycle Of Your City

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 23—Every community has its own cycle of business activities. These usually include:

(1) Some basic industry of the city, such as the manufacture of textiles, steel, or shoes.

(2) The building industry, which depends largely on population growth.

(3) The money distributed by the State to the unemployed, which is constantly increasing.

(4) The automobile and gasoline businesses, which are constantly draining money out of the city to support Detroit or Texas.

(5) The liquor business, which does the city no good and perhaps much harm.

Take a moment to analyze your community and decide how your city or town stacks up with neighboring communities. Is Your City Going Ahead Or Falling Behind?

The answer to this question depends largely upon the percentage of unemployment over the entire year. If your town needs little unemployment insurance money to depend upon, and if most everyone works, your city is a good one to live in. If, on the other hand, the reverse is true, then you should think of moving elsewhere with your children. Hence the question arises, "Are you living in the best state?"

The state which has probably the best record is Utah. The Mormon religion teaches everyone to work. During the last World War Utah was the only state which made no Federal Aid. The Mormons believe that if a person cannot get regular employment at some given town, he should go out and work without pay to make a better Utah. I have written many books, but the one which had the largest circulation is "Fundamentals of Prosperity." Actually, 80% of these books were purchased by Mormons.

Mutual Funds Give Safety

Just how many families are moving to California, which is greatly profiting from the defense industry, including the manufacture of missiles, airplanes, submarines, and electronics. Of course, we will never see full disarmament. As a last resort, people would fight with spears and rocks. Yet I do expect that nuclear warfare will be strictly limited. California could temporarily suffer from such a movement, notwithstanding the fact that it would be good for the nation as a whole.

Fortunate are you readers who live in a city with activities which are fully diversified,—that is, not dependent too much on any one industry. The safety of your employment depends largely upon diversification, as does the safety of your investments. One should not put too much money in Mutual Funds, though they surely provide protection through sound diversification. No one ever got rich buying Mutual Funds. There is an old saying: "We cannot eat our cake and have it too."

Importance Of Natural Resources

After graduating from high school or college, settle in a section which has great natural resources. This may be a fine harbor, either on the seacoast or on some large river or lake. The center of good agricultural or mineral land always offers opportunities for young people. Big discount houses, shopping centers, and even chain super markets may be temporary "fads."

There will always be opportunities for young people of good character who are anxious to work. My experience teaches that poor young people often rise to the top while the "well-to-do" boys often sink to the bottom. Another favorite saying of my father's is: "Only three generations from shirt sleeves back to shirt sleeves." The wheel of opportunity keeps slowly revolving. The great national finance corporations tell me that the so-called "poor boys" are the best financial risks, if they have good wives. "A woman usually makes a man or breaks a man."

What Should My Boy Do?

If your boy intelligently decides that he should move to some other state, do not hold him back after you have visited the territory. But if he decides to move, be sure he takes a good character reference from a local banker, teacher, librarian, minister, priest, or rabbi. Have him start right with the right people.

A big-business employer once said to me: "When I want a young man to enter my business, I visit a public library and get acquainted with the girls at the desk. They know who the most promising young men are. These librarians have found the young men who have become my junior partners."

Urges Farmers To Vote On Wheat Quota

An appeal has been made to Maryland farmers to be sure to vote in the wheat referendum on August 30 by A. Kenneth Miller, Executive Secretary, Maryland Farm Bureau.

Miller is of the opinion that their will be an increased "no" vote, in view of farmers' recent rejection of marketing orders for turkeys. "When a program fails to work," stated Miller, "farmers can be expected to indicate they believe it has served its time."

"Congress deserves to know what farmers want in a wheat program," said Miller. "Our representatives recently responded to farmer opinion when they defeated the strict controls program proposed for agriculture." "We can expect them to develop a sound program for wheat if farmers let them know what they want."

The wheat program of quotas and allotments in effect continuously since 1954 has not solved the problem of surpluses. Wheat supply has increased from 1,784 billion bushels in 1953 to 2,409 billion bushels today.

"While the alternatives are limited and heavily weighted in favor of marketing quotas," Miller said, "wheat growers should carefully consider how their vote may affect future programs rather than be concerned with the present crop."

Every wheat grower in the state who produces at least 15 acres is urged by Miller to cast his vote in this referendum.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Old Age Needs Cited As Key Election Issue

By U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (D-N. J.)

Chairman, Speakers' Bureau, Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee

You're soon going to hear from your candidates for Congress, if you haven't already. And, in practically every campaign you're going to hear something about the Senate vote this July on the health care for senior citizen issue.

The only way to resolve this issue is at the polls, because the Republicans have proven that we can't do it any other way.

Why do we think so? Let's review majorities and votes.

When we Democrats filed into the Senate on July 17, we had the wild hope that the Republicans would give us some much-needed votes for passage of the critical amendment. We knew the vote would be close. We knew we probably couldn't pass it without Republican help. We had hoped for a program. We didn't want an issue. And all we got was a partisan rebuff.

When the final vote was taken, only five Republicans had joined 43 Democrats in the vote for health care.

Five is a very paltry showing for the Republican Party. Their record on this vote proves to me—and, I think to most citizens—that the great majority of Republicans will never vote for this program, no matter how desperately it is needed. And it is, after all the majority of a party that decides policies for a party. The Republicans therefore, have made it crushingly clear that they won't help build a coalition for progress.

There was a time, not so long ago, when the Republicans had a majority in the White House and a majority in Congress. It should not be forgotten that the Democratic minority again and again took constructive stands on vital legislation. We didn't want to kill legislation and weep for it after it was buried.

The defeat of Health Care for our older citizens was particularly painful because the need for it becomes more obvious each day. We on the Senate Committee on Aging get new evidence every day on this need. Here are just a few of the facts reported by the Committee for everyone who wants to give this issue a few moments of thought: —The median income of persons over 65 who live alone is only

—More than three-fifths of the women over 65 have no husbands to depend on.

—More than two-fifths of the beneficiary couples and roughly three-fifths of the single or widowed beneficiaries who were in a general hospital in 1957 did not meet all the year's medical costs out of their own income, assets, or health insurance.

—Of the aged with family income under $2,000 only 33 percent had hospital insurance in 1959—as compared to 60 percent for those with an income of $4,000 or over.

—Even new, liberal insurance policies specifically tailored to meet current needs would take nearly one-sixth of the income of the average aged couple and one-fifth of the median income of single persons.

—One-in-five new cases under Old-Age Assistance is opened because of increased need for medical care or because medical care costs have reduced assets.

There are many more arguments, but we who support this bill are tired of arguments. Has it become so difficult for our nation to remember that all is not affluence and comfort for every American citizen today? Many millions of Americans do not receive full economic and social justice. It is the job of Congress to speak for them if they cannot speak for themselves, and we're going to need the voters' help this November to give us the kind of Congress which will respond when a clear call to duty is sounded.

Time Out For Trimming

Trimming extra inches off your waistline can be as simple as eating a between-meal snack. Melozets, the pleasing diet wafer which looks and tastes like a graham cracker, complements almost any weight reduction program, especially the new 900-calorie liquid diets.

Taken with a glass of water or your favorite beverage before meals or at snack time, the wafers curb your appetite. They satisfy the urge to eat fattening foods at mealtime by supplying bulk, the element many other reducing aids don't have.

One or two Melozets wafers with a glass of a 900-calorie diet food beverage makes an ideal luncheon menu for weight reduction. They provide bulk to help promote normal body processes while the metered calorie liquid dietary aids provide essential nutritive needs.

Ask your doctor about Melozets for your dietary program. Weight reduction will be easier and you'll feel better, be trimmer, too.

ris' death, his successor was appointed. At least that's what we're told; a quorum of the Baltimore Democratic State Central Committee, ten of eighteen, met behind closed doors, and guarded doors to fill the vacant position. Four committeemen, allied with Jack Pollack, Northwest Baltimore political leader, called the meeting by telegrams sent out at midnight on the preceding day: Shades of John Adams' midnight judges, who were appointed the midnight before he left office.

Mr. Pollack instructed a half dozen private policemen who acted as sentries "to throw out" several persons who were not members of the committee. They did. Among those ejected was Harry T. Gross, acting chairman of the Maryland Democratic State Central Committee. Mr. Gross attended, or intended to attend, to warn committeemen that they had to follow a unit rule. By this rule, since three districts were not properly represented at the meeting, and at least two of the three members of each district committee must agree before the district's votes can be cast, Gross contended that the appointment was illegal.

Agreeing with Gross is James T. Murphy, who ran third in the Democratic Primary race for state's attorney. Murphy will challenge the certification of Francis J. Valle, the appointee of the closed-door meeting, before the Baltimore Elections Board.

Since the position in dispute is a state capacity, Murphy holds that the Maryland rather than the Baltimore State Central Committee should nominate a successor to the deceased Mr. Harris. This seems only logical, but who's to wield a syllogism before such vote-getters like jobs, or any other political grapes.

A structural engineer has been hired to study unexplained causes of cracks in the City Hall's dome. And an observer of the stately edifice mentioned that the solution lies in a mere application of simple high school chemistry. "Baltimore's recent cold spell outside and the hot air inside the structure were just too much for the 87-year-old dome."

Forty-six thousand wildly eager football fans jammed Memorial Stadium as the Colts cracked skulls in the traditional intra-squad tilt. The contest was highlighted by a short appearance of the untouchable veterans, while most of the scrimmage watchers saw a spirited melee by an anxious crop of rookies, possibly the best in years. There was Ezekiah Braxton, a hard-running, pass-catching halfback with a Biblical handle who scored three touchdowns and two extra points to pace the Whites to victory over their Blue-jerseyed squad mate opponents.

Bill Saul, Dan Sullivan, and John Diehl, three top draft choices, stemmed the enemy tide with hard-nosed and aggressive defensive play. Tom Matte, last year's first draft pick, who sat the bench bedridden with injury, this year ran the roll-out option play to perfection every time, and performed admirably on defense.

Then, one week later, playing as one club, the Hosses routed Philly's Eagles in a 56-28 reflection of the Colts of old. The following week Washington's Red-

Do You Know?

If all of the passenger and freight cars along with the diesel locomotives used on the Canadian National, which is North America's largest railroad, were assembled end to end, the rolling stock would form an unbroken line from Boston to Chicago—1,018 miles—and a line longer than from Halifax on Nova Scotia's Atlantic Coast to Kingston on Lake Ontario.

The Canadian National, which serves all ten Canadian Provinces and reaches into 12 of the United States, has 26,089 miles of main track mileage—exceeding the distance around the earth at the equator by 1,187 miles.

With an additional 8,879 miles of secondary track yards, siding and spurs to serve industry, the big Canadian Railroad has grand total mileage of 34,968 miles along with 7,000 bridges and more than 5,000 stations ranging from flag stops to immense and complicated electronic yards and terminals.

skins fell 34-14 to Baltimore's pride. Maybe it's the $50 per exhibition game salary (no other team pays its players for pre-season games), or rookie desire or veteran hunger that sparked the team, but there'll be no joy in Baltimore if it can't come true in '62—Coltstyle.

Veterans Warned On House Sales

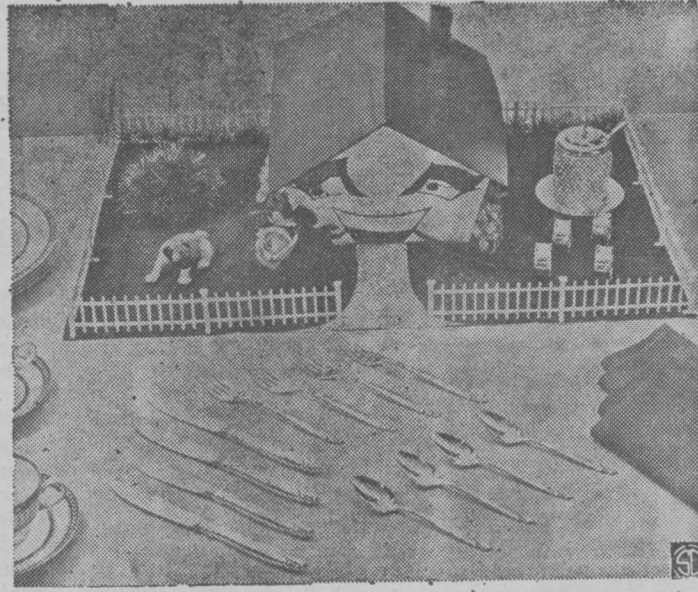

Mr. F. E. Quinn, Manager of the Baltimore Regional Office of the Veterans Administration, said today that any veteran who has purchased a home under the guaranteed or direct loan program should check carefully on the reputation and credit rating of any prospective purchaser of his home who wishes to assume the G. I. mortgage as part of the purchase price.

Mr. Quinn pointed out that unless the veteran applies for and receives a release of liability, he remains liable to the Government for repayment of the loan. Should the purchaser default in his payments and allow the mortgage to be foreclosed, the veteran may be indebted to the Government for any loss which is incurred.

From 1817 until the Civil War no internal taxes were levied by the United States, as customs and sale of land provided sufficient revenue.

Sterling Silver Graces Housewarming Table

One of the bride's happiest occasions is entertaining new friends in that first "home of her own." For her housewarming, the bride has set a friendly table with this cheerful, easy-to-make "house" centerpiece and her new sterling silver. Knowing her table setting is just right does much to give a bride self-assurance when she entertains. Gleaming silver and china and an attractive arrangement create a gracious atmosphere for even the simplest menu. This is one reason that so many parents today are following the age old tradition of giving their daughter sterling silver flatware for her marriage.

More Fun For Less Money

Boating is like bringing up a baby...upkeep is a lot more expensive than the initial cost. But there is a slight difference, with boating you can do something about the cost.

Initial cost of a boat can be kept down by careful shopping and selection of the right equipment to meet individual needs. A boat should not be overloaded with "extras" which have no use out on the water. The hull material should be chosen to provide maximum performance. A light metal boat is less expensive than other materials. Aluminum gives more speed per horsepower making possible selection of a smaller, less expensive motor. The combination of a small motor and light boat means less fuel consumption and overall operating economy. Money can also be saved on a trailer since light boats need smaller equipment. Pictured above is a sleek 18-foot day cruiser designed to help boating families step up to more luxurious cruising. The craft combines high style with low maintenance at a retail cost of less than $1600. Because it is made of aluminum, she only needs a 40 horsepower motor to operate satisfactorily. Total cost for boat, motor, trailer and safety equipment is about $2800. In another material, it would cost about $3500.

Household Hints by Joan March Worden
Director, Pine Cleaner Information Center.

Next month more than 46 million junior Americans will trundle off to the schoolhouse. For mother this means back on a schedule — and back-to-school clothes care.

Here are five suggestions for quick upkeep of small-size garb.

1. If you're buying new clothes, stick to easy-care garments — wash-and-wear and stretch clothes require little if any touch-up ironing, are tough and durable — and the stretch clothes grow along with your young ones.
2. For working clothes like gym suits, launder often, and add a good dose of pine cleaner to the wash water to help banish stains with little scrubbing.

4. For shoes and sneakers that pick up tar and chewing gum, sponge a pine oil cleaner on the stains, and tracking won't mess up floors and rugs.
5. Add an old toothbrush and a gentle scrubbing pad to your laundry supply shelf — these help in treating collars, cuffs and hard-to-clean spots and stains.

Senator Byrd's Objections

When a warning about government policies comes from a man who has spent 30 years in Congress, much of it as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, it ought to carry some weight. Actually, a series of warnings have been issued lately in several dramatic statements from Senator Harry F.
Byrd of Virginia. The Senator is not given to histrionics, but this "watchdog of the treasury," as he has been called, has been yelping with pain as a result of recent events.

In his 30 years service, the Senator has seen the national debt rise from $19 billion to $300 billion. He has recently seen the end of a fiscal year in which the federal government paid out, according to Treasury reports, some $6.3 billion more than it took in. (He had predicted $6 billion, not being given to exaggeration.) This happened in a year in which the nation enjoyed the highest revenue ever but still could not keep its expenditures with its income.

Two Reprimands

Is it any wonder that Senator Byrd, in opposing the Administration's successful effort to lift the limit on the national debt to $308 billion, should ask: "Is it possible for us to destroy ourselves from within?" Senator Byrd firmly believes that it will be impossible for our form of government or our system of enterprise to survive if we bring about fiscal insolvency. This is a sobering thought, when one considers that if the U.S. should go broke freedom could not be preserved anywhere in the world.

Again, Senator Byrd spoke out against the action of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in calling for an immediate tax cut without a commensurate cut in expenditures. Once a member of the Chamber's board of directors, the Senator said he was both sorrowful and angry. The Chamber's position was "fiscal irresponsibility in the highest degree" that would reduce federal revenue by $9.5 billions and the proposal was untimely, dangerous, and panicky. It could build up deficits by the end of the next fiscal year amounting to well over $15 billions. The Chamber got its knuckles rapped!

Startling Figures

But that was not all. Perhaps the most startling statement came from Senator Byrd when he reported, after some pencil work, that the U. S. is right now committed to obligations totaling $1 1/4 trillion, not including "untold billions" of commitments that were impossible to calculate. In other words, no one really knows just how much the federal government does owe. But the Senator can see $1,250 billion, or $1 1/4 trillion. This is far above the assessed value of all the real and tangible property in the nation, as estimated by the Department of Commerce at $300 billion.

For most of a generation, the government has been spending more than it "makes" in taxes and other income. In fact, if present prospects materialize for the next fiscal year, the Congress will have allowed 27 federal budgets to run into def-

ALL ABOUT BABIES...

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

By Hope Lewis Diaper Service Information Bureau A Mother's Time

Often, after the first baby, a mother to some degree overcomes the many anxieties attendant on a new experience. She feels more relaxed. She's no longer under the compulsion of proving herself a satisfactory mother.

So, when the other babies come along, she's not so anxious anymore to do everything "just so."
Feeling more capable and more sure of herself, she's willing to take chances with things that are "just as good."

This attitude is most apparent when it comes to diaper service, according to a motivational study we completed. The study shows that mothers, as a matter of course, usually subscribe to diaper service for their first baby.

With the arrival of the second or third child, some mothers however, mistakenly conclude that the experience they've gained in raising their first born makes it obligatory for them to perform all the duties of child care—even the most menial tasks.

What these mothers fail to realize is that by taking on the added chores of the new arrivals, they're increasing their work-load. There is the older child or children who still require attention, the new baby, and the husband.

I sincerely feel that even if a mother has every automatic convenience for doing her own diapers at home, it is still a wasted effort because it takes time away from her children and her husband. Believe me, a mother's time is as valuable as a mother's labor. And when she does diapers at home, she spends 547 hours washing 7,410 diapers during a baby's diaper wearing age.

Diaper service like prepared baby foods is not only a convenience to mother but also a benefit to baby. The high standards of professional diaper service are constantly checked by strict laboratory control to guarantee diapers that are clinically clean and free from irritating residual soaps and detergents. Diaper services put their diapers through as many as four suds baths, nine rinses, a special antiseptic treatment and a softening bath, all formulated to help eliminate the chances of diaper rash.

So, to every mother, whether she has one child or many children, I say use every modern aid or service to baby care you can.
Not only will they help make your

This is the "Wall of Shame." With tons of concrete and

TODAY'S meditation

The Upper Room
THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read I Corinthians 13:1-7. Let brotherly love continue. Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have entertained angels unawares. (Hebrews 13:1-2.)

Once when Mother was preparing our morning meal, we heard an urgent knock at the door. Father opened it, and there stood a stranger in the bitter cold. His white hair and flowing beard denoted great age. His apologetic manner in asking for "a bite to eat" touched my parents' hearts with compassion.

Later, in our breakfast room this man sat with bowed head. This prompted Father to ask him kindly, "Would you like to offer the blessing?"

Quietly, and with deep reverence, the stranger spoke warm words of gratitude to God for guiding him to our home. His parting words were so full of emotion, we scarcely heard him say, "God bless you."

No greater tribute could be paid the memory of my parents than this—they lived by the golden rule, loving as Jesus loved.

Prayer
Loving Father, we thank Thee for the gift of Christians—Parents and friends—who have taught us much about unselfish love. May we be ever mindful of the needs of others. Teach us, most of all, to love as Jesus loved. In His name Amen.

Thought For The Day
Golden deeds prompted by Christ-like love can make heaven on earth.

Wheat Growers To Vote August 30

Wheat growers will vote on Thursday, Aug. 30, on marketing quotas for the 1963 crop of wheat. The issues on which they will vote will be the same ones voted on for the 1961 wheat crop, as provided by permanent legislation in effect before the 1962 emergency program.

In announcing the date for the referendum, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman said:

"With winter wheat planting near at hand, time will not permit any further delay in completing arrangements for the 1963

wheat program. Any Congressional action this summer on new legislation will apparently come too late to be put fully in effect for next year's wheat crop since farmers are at the time of year when their plans must be completed for 1963-crop winter wheat seedings. "... it may still be possible for the Congress to enact legislation to be effective for the 1963 crop which would improve farm returns, avoid accumulation of stocks, and reduce Government cost by continuing some of the features of the 1962 emergency wheat program. Holding the referendum on August 30 will not preclude this possibility."

William L. Dudley, Chairman, Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, points out that, in general, the 1963 wheat program under existing legislation provides for farm acreage allotments set on the basis of a minimum 55-million-acre national wheat allotment. Minimum price support would be at a national average of $1.2 per bushel (7 per cent of parity) if farmers approve marketing quotas by at least a two-thirds vote in the August 30 referendum. Growers with more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain (but not those taking part in the feed-wheat program) who exceed their 1963 wheat farm allotments would be subject to marketing quota penalties on their "excess" wheat under a quota program.

If farmers disapprove marketing quotas, support for the 1963 wheat crop would be based on a national average of not less than $1.21 per bushel for cooperators (who stay within their acreage allotments), with no support for noncooperators.

All eligible voters are urged to cast ballots in the Aug. 30 wheat quota referendum. Those eligible to vote are all growers in commercial wheat States who will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain in 1963, but not farmers taking part in the "feed wheat" program. (Under this "feed wheat" provision, wheat growers may arrange to grow up to 30 acres of wheat for use as feed only on the farm where grown.)

Farmers will receive notices of their 1963 farm wheat allotments in advance of the referendum, the chairman said. Polling places will be announced by the local ASCS county office at an early date.

OUTDOOR SPORTING TIPS

Handy Chart Case
Got any golfing friends? Who doesn't. Ask them to save the plastic tubes new clubs come in. Make dry, handy cases to carry nautical charts or topographical maps.

Action Movies
And who wouldn't like to live and relive the thrilling shooting moments when you cracked down on game. A roll of ordinary masking tape and your home movie camera can capture the scene forever. Tape the camera to the forestock of your shotgun or rifle at a time that's right. Then punch the button when you go into action. You'll have the whole thing there on the screen in front of you when the film is developed. Only trick is to remember to start the camera when game breaks.

Salmon Egg Holder
Western fishermen know how effective salmon eggs can be for trout and steelhead... and what a nuisance they are to store and carry. Try slitting a tennis ball. Squeeze to open. It closes by itself, won't drip, can be washed out, costs nothing, fits in a pocket, floats if dropped, is non-breakable, and has other advantages. Oh yes! it holds the eggs inside too.

Kerosene Fire Starter
Here's a good idea for the permanent camper. Fill an old hand pump fly sprayer with kerosene. Propitious squirts help stubborn fires to start.

For Whom The Bell Tolls
The bell tolls for skin divers, that's who! Newest tip for the divers is a brass bell mounted under water at the end of the boarding ladder. A line comes back to boat's cockpit. A tug on the string rings the bell whose sound carries sharply through the water for long distances. A set of communication signals can be quickly worked out.

Barrel Muskrat Trap
Try the farm boy's method of catching muskrats. He takes a stout wooden barrel and cuts a 6-inch hole in the top. Then anchoring it in likely territory, he

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

With the strong obedience to labor in Washington the past few years, there is some wonder as to just when it will be required for the chairman of the Federal Trade Commission to be a member of Equity, which is the actors' union.

Because as is well known, every actor seeks to build headlines for himself, and no greater "hams" have been sprung on the public than by the FTC.

And the present chairman, Paul Dixon, appears to be in every way as ardent a wooer of the headlines as his predecessors. In meantime, FTC fails its main job.

Recently, in a headline making coup, Dixon's boys swept up from grocery shelves some 5,000 jars of a well known instant coffee. The jars were labelled as "giant economy size." FTC found cost per ounce of product, as priced on the grocery shelves they visited, was more than the per ounce price in regular size containers. Therefore, on the basis that the public was somehow being misled, FTC made big headlines.

It is doubtful that the FTC had the authority to move into this area. However, subsequent court decisions will decide.

But if the courts do decide that FTC is empowered to protect the consumer from misrepresentation, then FTC should be held liable permit-

"FAMILY SECURITY THROUGH SOCIAL SECURITY"

by Dr. Benjamin Spock

As a pediatrician, it is my job to help parents give their children a healthy start in life. This is one of the reasons why I strongly support President Kennedy's health insurance plan for the aged through Social Security.

You may wonder what the connection is between health care for the aged and the children of this country. Actually there is a very close one.

As a doctor, I have gone into the homes of young parents and seen what the tremendous hospital costs of a grandparent can do to the entire family. These bills are a financial strain on the family budget. They also result in emotional stress for the parents who are raising their own families and paying for their children's education.

The burden most often falls on parents in their thirties or forties, when their children are growing up but are not yet self-supporting. The bills for food, clothing, housing are at their maximum and cannot be easily reduced. Fortunately a majority of children are healthy at this age. But some of them need expensive long-term treatment for orthopedic, ocular, dental, or other conditions. Many families have teenagers getting ready for college or already there. At this stage in a family's development a whopping hospital bill for an aged grandparent suffering from a stroke or a fracture or one of the chronic illnesses affecting about 70 percent of our older population, can be shattering.

To see the problem in its acute form, take the case of a family where there is a child who deserves braces on his teeth or an eye operation or, because he shows such promise, music lessons. Suddenly, his aged grandmother breaks her hip and requires weeks of hospitalization and subsequent nursing home care. Since primate health insurance premiums are so costly and the benefits are so limited for those over 65, most of the elderly don't have this protection. What do you do—as the breadwinner of the family—to meet this crisis?

Do you allow your retired parents to go on public relief, which will subject them to a humiliating "means test"? Or do you exhaust your own savings, mortgage your home, dip into the fund for your children's education, or even use some of the money intended to pay for the special medical needs of a handicapped child?

Neither you nor anyone else would choose to do any of these things. And yet you might have to face such facts. A situation like this often arises when people are least prepared for it, and many have to sacrifice the interests of either their children or their parents to make both ends meet.

Fortunately, there now is a sound and sensible answer to some of these problems. President Kennedy's health insurance plan for the aged through Social Security will help the entire family. Actually, it is a plan for "family security." It will enable you as a young parent to more easily carry out your responsibilities to your own parents, to your children and to yourself and, at the same time, lessens the drain on the family.

Your Congressman wants to know how you stand on the Kennedy Program for Health Insurance through Social Security. Write to him. Also, for further information about President Kennedy's proposal for health care for the aged, write to the National Council of Senior Citizens, 200 C St., SE, Washington 3, D.C.

State Fair Opens Monday

Spectators to this year's 81st Maryland State Fair, at Timonium, which opens Monday, will have a chance to see many interesting features.

They will see white cucumbers, Calif. banana squash, white egg plant, lemon cucumbers, red and purple lettuce, yellow watermelons and many types of vegetables and fruits not frequently seen while marketing in their favorite stores.

Other than fruit and vegetables on exhibition, folks from all parts of Maryland and surrounding areas will be exhibiting cattle, swine, sheep and horses. The Exhibition Hall will be bursting with canned fruits and vegetables, freshly baked cakes, pies and bread, candies of many variations, and flowers from the local gardens. Demonstrations of all types will be going on as the visitors stroll through the newly decorated and freshly painted Exhibition Hall. All the wares, arts and crafts exhibited will be judged during the Fair and the winners will receive cash prizes. Many blue ribbons will be distributed to the winners in each individual class.

What's more, there will be daily races, livestock judging, farm and garden exhibits, horse shows, and horse pulling contests, 4-H exhibits and free grandstand entertainment every night.

Not to forget the midway this year, it is bigger and better than ever and promises thrills for both old and young. Once again the team of Ben Weiss and Dave Endy have brought the newest and best rides to Timonium Fair for all the visitors to enjoy.

Various Types Of Pleurisy

Pleurisy
Pleurisy is a bewildering ailment. There's wet pleurisy and dry pleurisy. Sometimes it hurts and sometimes it doesn't. It may be an illness in itself or a complication of some other chest disease.

Pleurisy is an inflammation of the pleura, pleura is a two-ply membrane, one layer enclosing the lung and the other lining the chest wall. There's no space between the two layers. A very thin film lubricates the inner and outer linings. This fluid gives the lung free movement within the chest for normal breathing.

"Primary" pleurisy is an inflammation of the pleural tissues either as the result of a germ attack or perhaps from an injury or a growth.

"Secondary" pleurisy is an added effect of some other chest disease, such as pneumonia, tuberculosis, lung abscess.

Dry pleurisy is an inflammation that has not formed fluid. It can be very painful, especially when the two layers, perhaps stiffened and swollen, rub against each other.

Wet pleurisy, or as the doctors call it, "pleurisy with ecusion", is inflammation with the accumulation of extra fluid in the pleural space. The fluid may be blood, lymph (supplementary body fluid), or pus. In wet pleurisy, the fluid may expand the pleural space enough to restrict the movement of the lungs and hamper breathing.

In addition to knife-like pain with breathing, the symptoms of pleurisy may be shallow or difficult breathing, dry cough, weakness, headache, loss of appetite, as well as chills and fever.

Anyone who has the symptoms of pleurisy should consult a doctor without delay. This discomfort of primary pleurisy can be relieved. And it is important that the doctor find and treat the underlying cause of secondary pleurisy.

Local Man Develops Employment System

County businessmen who served as guinea pigs in an employment experiment which proved so successful. It has now been adopted state-wide, have been honored by the Frederick office of the Department of Employment Security.

The businessmen, mainly county storekeepers, served as agents to provide farm laborers for their respective communities. The plan has been dubbed Volunteer Farm Representative program.

A certificate citing participation was given to E. R. 'Judge' Glass, operator of a repair garage south of Emmitsburg.

William G. Morgan, who is in charge of the farm labor program at the local Employment office and for Montgomery County, presented the certificate to Glass this week.

Certificates are being sent to them along with letters of appreciation by Miss Mayetta Hershberger, manager of the local employment office.

The program was started here in 1960 on a trial basis and proved as an immediate success in recruiting labor for the heavy farm work load in the summer.

The program which is in force primarily during the cropping season is a convenient one for area farmers since they can gain day laborers to help out when they are particularly loaded with work.

The operation is almost like an employment agency right in a given community. The businessmen participating in the program have a list of persons, usually school or college youths, who desire work.

A farmer in the area who needs additional help a certain day notifies the community representative. The farm laborer is then notified by the representative and reports to work as scheduled.

Morgan said that under this program the employment office goes to the center in the community and less travel and time is required of the farmer and the laborer.

Participating in the program the first year were very few. Last year, however, 35 youths were employed through this method. Already this season about 22 youth have been getting part-time work.

Young Democrats Plan Endorsements

The Western Maryland Caucus of the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland met last week in Hagerstown to make their annual pre-convention endorsements of candidates for state-wide office.

Attorney Walter D. Hansen, Bethesda, was unanimously chosen by the group, representing the five counties of Western Maryland for the office of First Vice President of the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland.

Mr. Hansen will run on a ticket headed by Charles Moylan, Baltimore City Assistant State's Attorney, who is the candidate for president endorsed by the entire Baltimore City delegation. Mr. Moylan's candidacy was also unanimously endorsed by the Western Maryland Caucus.

A past vice president of the Montgomery County Young Democratic Club, Mr. Hansen is presently serving on the Advisory Board of the Young Democratic state organization. Long active in Montgomery County politics, Hansen has figured importantly in the Congressional campaigns of John R. Foley, James H. Mann, and Graham Walker. As the chairman of a Bethesda precinct, Hansen has seen his local unit lead in every "Dollars for Democrats" drive.

Presently serving in the Young Democratic State Organization from Western Maryland are Goodloe E. Byron, Frederick, State President; Patricia Reid, Hagerstown, National Committeewoman; Mary Storm, Frederick, Second Vice President; and Joseph M. O'Connell, Montgomery, Treasurer.

The annual Young Democratic State Convention will be held on Sept. 14 and 15 at the Washington Country Club, Montgomery County.

Recreation Night Held

Members and parents of the Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club enjoyed a recreation night last Monday night at Mt. Tabor Park. A softball game was played between two teams of members and others threw horse shoes. After the exhausting game, the eighty people present had a wiener roast. This was the second time that the club had tried this venture. Most agreed they had fun in spite of the near one hundred degree temperature.

Attend Installation

Dian Small, Beatrice Umbel, Nettie Ashbaugh and Madeline Harner, attended the installation of officers at the Francis Scott Key Unit 11, American Legion Auxiliary, Frederick, on Wednesday evening.

Birthday Party

Miss Dale Ann Elder was tendered a birthday party last Friday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elder. The occasion was Dale's 12th birthday.

Present at the affair were: Yvonne Welty, Maureen Waters, Mary Ellen Hobbs, Ava Hobbs, Karen Shorb, Josephine Rodgers, Kathy Rodgers, Kathleen Sanders, Eddie and Trina Hahn and David Elder. Games were played and refreshments served.

License Suspended

The State Motor Vehicle Dept. this week announced the suspension of the driving licenses of Gerald Kermit Anders, Thurmont and Carroll Franklin Hahn, R2, Taneytown. At the same time the Dept. announced it has reissued a license to Anthony David Topper, R2, Emmitsburg.
