BY ABIGAIL

With the election over we perhaps now can settle down to normalcy once more. As elections go it was a spirited one here even though only 50% of the voters exercised their franchise. A factional dispute in the Democratic ranks caused the opening to two headquarters here, one of which was "silenced" on election day. The results of this factional dispute show more than ever a need for a reorganization of our local Democratic Committee. So close was the battle between the two major parties that the Democrats just barely squeaked out enough votes to carry the County, Emmitsburg by just a little over 100 votes and the County slightly under 1,000.

The news that Mother Seton's body has been exhumed, changed to another casket and identified before her beatification in 1963 leads us to believe that her canonization is not far away. These are some of the final steps to be taken prior to canonization to sainthood. Should this ever occur Emmitsburg undoubtedly would be a boom town. Gettysburg has its battlefield and Emmitsburg would have the home and burial place of the first American-born Saint. This would bring millions of pilgrims to the portals of Emmitsburg with a resultant boom the town never before realized. I don't think anything any greater could happen to this town. Motels, restaurants, etc., would spring up here and naturally a flock of houses would mushroom as Catholics from all over the Nation more than likely would choose to make their homes here in the quiet shadows of the college and tomb of Mother Seton.

I must compliment the Town Council on the nice appearance of the Town's streets. A recent blacktopping job and newly-painted traffic lines adds greatly to their appearance and I believe they look better now than they ever did in the history of the town. Keep up the good work men. The recently-enacted curfew seems to be working smoothly as streets appear vacated late at night. Somewhere along the line we apparently slipped on the interpretation of the new ordinance. Seems as though we mentioned individuals being excused by obtaining written permission to be out after the required hour. Chief Law informs us, politely of course, that there is no wording to that effect in the ordinance. This brings to light the importance of publishing such an ordinance for the enlightenment of all concerned and where citizens can have ready access to the law by clipping it from the newspaper. After all a well-informed public usually is a well-behaved one. This is not written in any intent to increase this newspaper's advertising volume but just posting the law in two store windows just doesn't adequately inform the public, in our opinion. While it is legal to pass an ordinance in this manner we feel that it is an inadequate in the sense that it doesn't adequately inform the public in general. In the future we feel that any newly-adopted ordinances should be published to the best interests of all concerned.

Mother Seton Cause Advances; Remains Viewed

Officials connected with the Cause of Mother Seton gathered in Emmitsburg recently to preside at the canonical exhumation and recognition of her mortal remains. Since the death of the founder of Saint Joseph College in 1821 the foundress of the American Daughters of Charity has been buried in the private graveyard on the grounds of the Central House of the Emmitsburg Province of the Sisterhood.

In 1846 her remains were taken from the ground, transferred to a new casket and placed in the floor of the small cemetery chapel built in her memory. After her nephew, James Roosevelt Bayley became Archbishop of Baltimore, he requested to be buried near her. So the crypt was enlarged and her remains placed in still another casket, probably about 1876.

Since the beatification date approaches for Venerable Mother Seton, it was necessary that her remains be properly identified and that a number of relics be taken.

This led to the unusual procedure enacted recently in Emmitsburg. Her coffin was first lifted from the crypt and then taken by special workmen to a large room in the Central House.

In the presence of a number of priests, sisters, medical men and workmen the coffin was opened and the body examined. Eye-witness accounts of the 1846 and 1876 openings led to the suspicion that very little of the saintly woman's body would be found intact. Actually the major part of her skeleton was well preserved in the midst of a considerable amount of soil. Also identified were a number of rosary beads, a metal crucifix and hand-made nails.

The unusual procedure was conducted by Rt. Rev. George L. Hopkins, Vicar General of the Archdiocese and Fathers Joseph Gossman and Frederic Dugan of the Archdiocesan Tribunal. On hand was the Vice Postulator of her Cause, Father John McGowan, C.M. It was his privilege to set aside some relics but most of the remains were put into a solid copper coffin and will be kept locked in a small room in the Central House until the actual beatification, tentatively set for next March 17, 1963. Then this fourth casket will be transferred to a place of honor in the chapel of the Central House in Emmitsburg.

Livestock Show At Timonium

More than 1,500 of the nation's prize beef cattle, lambs and hogs have been entered in the sixteenth annual Eastern National Livestock Show which opens at the Maryland State Fair Grounds, Timonium, on Saturday.

The prize livestock will compete in the tank-covered show ring during the six-day show for the more than $52,000 in prize money and some 1,700 ribbons and trophies.

Jack I. Matthews, show manager, reported that this year's entries have come from 20 states. The majority of the exhibitors are from Eastern Seaboard states, although there are other entries from as far away as Texas, Iowa, Illinois, Alabama and the New England States.

The Eastern National gets underway at 8 a.m. Saturday with the weighing and weeding of market hogs and fat lambs on arrival and with several special judging events. These include the Intercollegiate and 4-H Club Livestock Judging Contests and the Maryland finals of the Make-It-With Wool Contest.

The second annual Eastern National Quarter Horse Show also gets underway Saturday with halter classes and the first go-round of the performance classes, including open cutting, open roping, barrel races and novice cutting.

As a sizeable number of parents and spectators gazed on as the youths tackled the business at hand like veteran gridmen as they competed for honors and trophies. ## Roads Board Ends Year With Surplus

The Frederick County Roads Board spent nearly a million dollars for road construction and maintenance during 1961 and still had a sizable surplus of funds at the end of the year.

More than $500,000 was spent for new road construction, including federal aid projects, while more than a half-million dollars was spent on maintenance projects.

Figures in the Frederick County audit for 1961 show that at the end of the year there was a surplus of $119,179.79 on hand. The expenditures for new construction projects amounted to $441,641.90 in the county districts was $521, and the cost of maintaining roads 004.91.

Repairs to roads in the Emmitsburg District were the most costly. Spent in this area was $50,412.92.

Woman Injured In Car Crash

Mrs. Marian Matthews, 59, of Washington, D. C., was admitted to the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, for treatment of a broken knee, suffered in an accident at Mt. St. Mary's College Saturday at 6 p.m.

Tfc. Earl F. Tracey of the State Police reported that Mrs. Matthews was driving south on U. S. 15 when a 1953 Chevrolet driven by William Shockey, 73, Emmitsburg, pulled into the path of her 1959 Rambler from College Lane.

Tfc. Tracey said damage to each car was about $200. Shockey was charged with failure to grant the right-of-way.

As part of the entertainment program, Ronnie Reeves gave a trumpet solo and Miss Sue Martin gave a vocal solo. Group singing was led by Mrs. John Chatlos. The reorganization of Internal Revenue in 1952 had the objectives of removing certain remaining positions from political patronage and covering them into career service and decentralizing to provide better service to taxpayers.

Tawes Carries County In Close Election

Despite almost perfect weather only 63% of the eligible voters in Frederick County cast their ballots in Tuesday's gubernatorial election. Actually the vote was heavier than anticipated as there were few vital issues at stake.

With a 5000 registered majority for the Democrats in Frederick County they just barely squeaked through to victory carrying Governor Tawes, reelected, by under 1000 votes. In Emmitsburg the Governor and his ticket fared even worse, winning by slightly over 100 votes with a two-to-one Democratic registration here.

A recheck in the unofficial precinct votes tabulated shows that E. Earl Remsburg, Buckeystown District farmer, was the apparent winner over Ray H. Smith for the sixth seat in the House of Delegates.

The recheck totals show Smith, who was announced as winner, with 8,151 votes to Remsburg's 8,314.

With more than 200 civilian and service personnel absentee ballots out, a change in this standing may be possible.

An estimated 63 per cent of the 30,463 voters went to the polls to end the lackluster campaign for county, state and federal offices. Four years ago 70 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls while 66 per cent voted eight years ago.

Republican Russell Z. Horman will join incumbent A. Irvin Renn and Lawrence A. Dorsey for the first GOP seat on the Board of County Commissioners since 1954.

Renn led the race for commissioners in an unofficial count with 10,877 votes compared with 10,872 for former Woodsboro Mayor Dorsey.

This is probably one of the closest races in the county for a political office with only five votes separating the men on the unofficial count. Final tabulation could shift the lead. As a general rule, the Commissioner who garners the largest number of votes is elected president of the board. Both men are safely in office having nearly a 2,000 majority over their closest contenders.

Horman, the only Republican successful in his bid for a board seat, edged incumbent C. Burton Cannon 8,986 to 8,479. Republicans Charles P. Staley and Harry A. Zentz received 7,691 and 7,431 votes respectively.

The voters sent former Frederick City Mayor John A. Derr to the State Senate for four years with a 9,250 unofficial vote compared with 8,978 for former House of Delegates member Charles H. Smelser. In pre-election predictions, Smelser appeared to have an edge as favorite.

Derr will occupy the seat now held by Samuel Barrick, who lost a bid for the office of Attorney General in the May primary. Eight years ago voters sent former Mayor Jacob R. Ramsburg to the Senate for four years.

Longtime incumbent Horace M. Alexander will stay in the Sheriff's office four more years. Voters pulled the lever 10,422 times for Alexander compared with 8,610 times for Democrat Crummel P. Jacobs.

Ellis C. Wachter, a 25-year veteran Clerk of the Circuit Court was returned to the office with a 10,948 vote over 7,608 for George B. Stupp, county building maintenance supervisor.

Two Democrats and one Republican will sit as Judges of the Orphans' Court. Democrat Howard Z. Stup led with a 10,459 plurality, followed by Rev. Dr. Ralph E. White, Republican in his first bid for political office with 10,046 and incumbent Mary H. Gregory, Democrat, with 9,190.

Rev. Dr. White is the retired minister of the Church of the Brethren.

Unsuccessful candidates in the race for the judgeship were: Howard R. Damuth, Republican, 7,726; Mrs. Grace Harp Spurrier, Republican, 7,320 and Caroline F. R. McGill, Democrat, 6,770.

Four Democrats and two Republicans will represent the county at the next session of the Maryland House of Delegates. Four of the successful candidates were incumbents.

Democrat C. Clifton Virts, dean of the county delegation, led the race through most of the tabulation Tuesday night and amassed a plurality of 13,435 votes. County Attorney Goodloe E. Byron, Democrat, in his first bid for public office placed second with 11,626.

Big Weekend Of Racing At Laurel

The biggest weekend in racing begins Saturday with the 37th running of the $60,000 gross Selima Stakes and continues through Monday, Nov. 12, with the eleventh running of the $125,000 Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course.

The coveted Selima—which has produced six champion two-year-old fillies from its roll of select winners—will decide the 1962 juvenile filly champion and the International will settle the issue of Horse of the Year and also Horse of the World.

Smart Deb and Main Swap, two of the leading contenders—now that Affectionately has been retired for the season—for the title, are expected to meet in the mile and one-sixteenth test.

Smart Deb, a speedster from Chicago, will attempt to recoup her recent losses in the Frizette and Gardenia by turning back Main Swap, Fool's Play, Lamb Chop and others in the event recognized as a breeder's race because of the select fillies which have competed in the Selima through the years.

Following a day of rest, racing festivities at Laurel reach a climax on Monday when thirteen of the world's leading horses—representing nine nations—will clash in the "Olympics of Racing."

Kelso, which finished second to T.V. Lark in the 1961 International, makes his second appearance in the mile and one-half turf classic. Carry Back and Beau Purple, which together with Kelso are fighting for Horse of the Year honor, from the American representation.

Foreign challengers will be Zabe and Livan, from Russia, as the Soviet Union is represented for the fifth consecutive season; Takamagahra is the first to represent the Orient and will enable Japan to become the seventeenth nation with a challenger in the International; Lebon M.L. from Canada; Match II and Kistine form the powerful French contingent; Delvin from Italy; Paradao from England; Opponent from Germany and Porfido from Peru.

C. D. Director Asks For More Fallout Shelters

Results of a fallout shelter survey in Frederick County released last week showed adequate protection exists for only 2,816 of the county's 74,000 people.

Civil Defense Director George J. Stup continued in his report that alterations on other existing buildings in the county could provide protection for an additional 4,284 people.

The county Civil Defense Agency is currently negotiating for six buildings in the north part of the county, Stup said. The only county buildings now approved are Thurmont High School with 50 spaces in the rear basement area of the old part of the school and part of the administration building at Victor Cullen Hospital with 92 spaces.

Only those county buildings that could adequately protect 50 or more people were approved during this phase of the survey, Stup said. All the approved buildings, he said, have adequate air space, meet other standards and have 10 cubic feet of space for each person.

Within two weeks the approved buildings will be marked on the inside and outside as shelter areas. If the signs cannot be posted at a visible place by the Army Corps of Engineers, the building will not be used as a shelter area.

They will be stocked later with medical supplies, water, food and radiological measuring equipment for the spaces approved.

Those responsible for managing the shelters will take a Shelter

Management Course at the University of Maryland next month.

The Civil Defense director said he hoped Congress would again consider the mass shelter program when it convenes in January and appropriate money for conversion of areas in schools, colleges and hospitals to be used as shelters.

Gettysburg Tourist Trade Increases

Tourist visitation to the Gettysburg Battlefield has reached an all-time high, it is reported by park officials, who said that with still two months to go, there have been 1,818,485 visitors. The new mark broke the record set last year when 1,711,481 tourists visited Gettysburg. Previously, the high was the approximately 1,500,000 persons in the 1938 75th anniversary celebration.

100 YEARS AGO

ELECTIONS HURT LINCOLN;
McCLELLAN LOSES JOB

By Lon K. Savage

A lot of Union congressmen and Gen. George B. McClellan lost their jobs 100 years ago this week.

The Congressmen could blame the voters and the November 4 elections for their loss. McClellan could blame President Lincoln who removed him from command. Lincoln could blame the people for his loss, because the elections had hurt him badly.

Lincoln had suffered a defeat. When the final results were in from the Fall elections, the important states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and even Lincoln's own state of Illinois had given victories to the Democrats and had repudiated Lincoln's Republican party. The number of Democratic Congressmen had jumped from 44 to 75, and Lincoln admitted in a letter: "We have lost the elections." Two years earlier, he had scored a victory in many of those same states.

Newspapers of the day attributed the Republican election losses to the Emancipation Proclamation, to the slow progress of the war, and to arbitrary arrests resulting from the suspension of Habeas Corpus. Lincoln blamed it on a bad press and on the fact that many Republicans were in uniform at the battle fronts—and hence did not vote.

McClellan Fired

Almost simultaneous with the election—and having no connection with it—Lincoln fired his top field general, McClellan. The President's patience had finally worn out.

McClellan's slowness had become proverbial. He had been too slow on the Peninsula outside Richmond the preceding spring; he had been too slow at Antietam in Maryland in September and had allowed Robert E. Lee's army to slip away intact. Now, he was showing his old habits of delay in marching from Maryland toward Richmond.

There was still more cause for Lincoln's impatience with McClellan. For McClellan represented the conservatives of the Federal army, and it was no secret that McClellan did not relish the principles involved in the Emancipation Proclamation. By that proclamation, the war had become one to restore the Union and to free the slave. McClellan was fighting for only one of those causes—the Union. His time had come to an end.

A Snowy Night

McClellan was in his tent near Warrenton, Va., on the cold and snowy night of November 7 when the word came. An envoy from Washington came to his tent at midnight with Gen. Ambrose Burnside.

The three talked pleasantly a moment and then got down to business. The orders were given McClellan: "You will immediately turn over your command to Maj. Gen. Burnside and repair to Trenton, N. J., (McClellan's home town) for further orders. . . ."

Burnside had similar orders placing him in command.

Three days later, McClellan bid his troops goodbye in an emotional review in which the soldiers cheered lustily as their favorite general rode down among their ranks on his black horse. Then he rode off from his men, never to return to them.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses
Going To The Moon

BABSON PARK, Mass., Nov. 8—I find that young people are well informed with regard to going to the moon. This does not necessarily mean that they themselves expect to go, but they are very much interested in reading about others who will go. Books are being published for these young people to read, various editions for various ages. What troubles me is that too often they get no encouragement from their parents who pretend the idea is all nonsense.

Impetus To General Business

I do not claim that preparing to go to the moon will bring about a business boom; but I do believe it will give an uplift to business within the next few years. I am thinking of the billions which will be spent in this attempt. These billions will be distributed to nearly fifty thousand contractors; the contracts will extend over five years and may benefit every reader.

It is fair to assume that Russia and possibly other countries are working on similar programs. We will know more about this when Mr. Khrushchev comes over to make his visit. It is rumored he will recommend that the moon project be made a joint effort. This would unite the brains of both countries as well as the money. I should not be surprised if Germany joined and made it "tripartite." Such a joint effort could be a forward step toward world peace.

The Moon And Canada

Canada is very rich in natural resources, but unfortunately, too much of this wealth is under ice as well as underground. Canada is in good financial condition but its one great liability is climate, which meteorologists believe could be greatly ameliorated by influencing the weather from the moon. If, however, the weather of Canada could be changed, so could that of other countries—the tropics

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

No. 20147 Equity
in the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, in equity.
MARGARET B. McKELVY
238 N. Market St., Frederick, Maryland vs.

WALTER A. McKELVY
1321 Swissvale Avenue, Pittsburgh 21, Penna.

THE OBJECT OF THE BILL OF COMPLAINT in these proceedings is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Plaintiff, Margaret B. McKelvy, from the Defendant, Walter A. McKelvy, and for such other and further relief as the nature of the case may require.

The BILL states in substance, that the Plaintiff is a resident of Frederick County, Maryland having resided at 238 N. Market St., Frederick for more than one year last past and that the Defendant is a resident of the State of Pennsylvania, having resided therein for more than one year last past, his last known address being at 1321 Swissvale Avenue, Pittsburgh 21, Pennsylvania; that the said parties were married on February 11, 1942 at Ellicott City, Howard County, Maryland, by a regularly ordained minister of the Gospel; that no children were born to said marriage; and the BILL alleges that more than five (5) years ago the parties voluntarily separated and since that time have voluntarily lived separate and apart, said separation having continued for more than eighteen months last past; and that there is no reasonable expectation of a reconciliation between said parties. The BILL prays for a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII with a prayer for general relief.

It is thereupon this 22nd day of October, 1962, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Plaintiff give notice to the non-resident Defendant of the object and substance of the BILL by causing a copy of this ORDER OF PUBLICATION to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County once a week, for four successive weeks prior to the 24th day of November, 1962, warning said Defendant to be and appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 25th day of December, 1962 and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

True Copy Test:

Clerk of the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Md.

as well as the colder countries. We know what the moon does to our tides.

Wherever we were born, we have taken the climate of our fathers as something permanent and unchangeable; but this is a mistake. Practical ways will be found to adjust climate, and this will be of great advantage to all nations. It may be the one effort which will result in a useful and permanent United Nations Organization. The thought has tremendous possibilities for good. At present, it looks as if using the moon as a base of climate control may be the answer.

Ownership Of The Moon?

An astronomer stated to me, "The moon is no good; it is dusty, void of water, with rocks near the surface." When in Africa and Johannesburg, I was told that this was the natural terrain of the richest part of Africa. Most of the diamonds, gold, and now uranium, are being found in the most barren portion of that continent. It is very possible even that the moon may give us the richest discoveries of these minerals. And the expense of getting back and forth from the moon may prevent what might otherwise be a great decline in the prices of diamonds, gold, and platinum.

This discussion about going to the moon reminds me of my boyhood days in Gloucester, Mass., when I used to listen to the seafaring captains in my family. At first they went to India and China; but when gold was discovered in California, they sailed their ships around South America and up the west coast to profit from the gold rush of 1848. They went on a four-months trip from Boston to get this gold and take passengers to California. But it will take only four days to go to the moon at the speed which is being counted upon. I am told that after a port has been secured and the landing made safe, this speed can be reduced to what will seem normal to modern youth.

Psychology And Business

Mr. James P. W. Davidson, in an address given in Wellesley this week, thinks that the talk about "going to the moon" will have a stimulating influence upon general business. It will raise the hopes, expectations, and enterprise of many people, especially young people. It should help general business as the automobile did fifty years ago, and as the discovery of gold in California did a hundred years ago. In the meantime, it certainly should indirectly increase newspaper advertising during the next year.

YOUR PERSONAL
HEALTH

So Tired!

Get home from work all tuckered out? That's perfectly normal. But do you wake up in the morning after a good night's sleep still feeling tired? That's not so normal.

Some fatigue is a natural part of the rhythm of living. Your muscles get tired after heavy work—you rest and your muscles aren't tired any more. You do a hard day's work at your desk and your nerve cells get fatigued—you relax at home in the evening, sleep all night and your nerve cells are ready for another day at the office. Or they should be.

When rest and sleep fail to relieve tiredness, you have a symptom you should take to your doctor.

Persistent tiredness may be a symptom of a disease, such as anemia or tuberculosis. It can also be a sign that you are emotionally out of whack. The blues are often accompanied by a tiredness that hangs on though you might be sleeping ten hours a night. Persistent tiredness also goes with boredom, lack of activity, a job you dislike, or an unhappy situation at home.

True chronic loss of pep, whether its cause is physical or psychological, cannot be relieved by taking vitamin pills, pick-up drugs, tonics, exercise or any other simple cure-all. Fatigue is not a disease in itself. It's a symptom of disease.

If you are tired all the time. It is wrong to call a black bass regardless of how much rest and sleep you get, see your doctor. A bass, he's a sunfish.—Sports Afield.

ing out more and bigger claims as a result of accidents.

But there are ways that you, as a car owner, can keep your insurance premiums down.

Protection Week—November 4 to 10—is a good time for you to look into the various discounts which leading companies have worked out to enable motorists like yourself to reduce their premiums.

Here are some ways that you may save money:

1. Under a safe driver plan, if you and everyone in your household who drives your car have had a clear driving record during the past 3 years you may get a 15 per cent discount off your basic premiums for liability and collision insurance. A "clear driving record" means that you and others in your household who drive your car have not, during those 3 years, been involved in accidents for which you were at fault and have not been convicted of serious traffic law violations.

2. "Package" policies—affording liability, medical payments, collision, comprehensive and other automobile insurance coverages—have been developed to meet the needs of many motorists at a lower cost than the same coverages bought separately. Motorists should consult independent local agents to determine whether their auto insurance needs can best be met by one of these economy type policies.

3. If you own a small domestic or foreign passenger car made in 1955 or later, not classified as a "sports car," you may qualify for a 10 per cent "compact car discount" on your automobile liability and collision insurance premiums.

4. If you, individually or jointly with your wife, own two or more private passenger cars, you may qualify for a 20 per cent discount off your liability and 10 per cent off your collision insurance premiums. These discounts apply to each car, provided the cars are insured under the same policy, are not used for business purposes and are not driven by a male under age 25. Where one of the cars is used for business, the discount applies only to the pleasure car.

5. If every young man under 25 in your household has successfully completed a recognized course in driver education, you are eligible for a 10 per cent discount off the liability and collision insurance premiums for your car. If you are a young man under age 25 you, too, are eligible for this discount on your own car.

6. If you are engaged in farming or ranching you may qualify for a 30 per cent discount off the liability and collision insurance premiums for your private passenger cars, station wagons, jeep-style automobiles and trucks with a load capacity of 1,500 pounds or less. To qualify for the discount a "farm automobile" means an automobile which is principally garaged on a farm or ranch and is not customarily used in going to or from work other than farming or ranching.

Most drivers will qualify for one or more of these discounts.

You can find out if you qualify for these premium savings by consulting your local independent insurance agent or broker. He will be glad to give you detailed information and professional advice without cost.

The cruiser, designed to be the most powerful of her type afloat,

DEATH VALLEY DAZE!

Stock Woodwork Versatile

Owners Add Personality To Look-Alike Homes

It's still possible in these days of standardization to achieve individuality in a home without facing the high cost of custom carpentry. The imaginative use of stock wood windows is one way to do it.

Sliding

Since windows of ponderosa pine are factory-produced in a wide range of styles and sizes, a home owner has a choice of many window effects. Windows of various styles, like furniture of various periods, can be used in combination to give a home a pleasantly interesting yet integrated atmosphere.

Double-hung

There are six basic types of wood windows, available ready to install. They are:

Double-hung—the most popular type of window, it is compatible with any architectural style.

Casement—operated by hand cranks, these windows are hinged on the side to swing vertically in or out—preferably out.

Awning—hinged near the top, awning units swing up and out to let in air while giving protection from rain. They may be used in stacks, one above the other, or with fixed windows in bay or picture window arrangements.

Hopper—similar to awning windows, but swinging down and in, hopper windows generally are used as the bottom

Casement

row of a stack of windows. The opened sash deflects air upwards.

Sliding—often used with contemporary architecture, sliding windows are suitable for any room in the house. High, narrow sliders give privacy to bedrooms, with room beneath for furniture. Tall sliding windows, sometimes as big as doors, serve as window walls, often opening out to patios.

Fixed—these units are usually used in picture, bay, and bow windows in conjunction with movable windows.

Overseas Profits Seen For U.S. Farms and Plants With JFK Trade Law

By U.S. Sen. Gale McGee (D-Wyo.)

GALE MCGEE

There is an old story about an isolated community that had no highways or railroads and no agriculture or industry. The residents there kept alive by taking in each other's washing.

Unrivaled today in prosperity, the United States wants no part of such a barren fate. We know the fruits of prosperous trade. This year the Congress voted unprecedented new trade opportunities.

President Kennedy's Trade Expansion Act of 1962 gives the President power to reduce tariffs to free world countries up to 50% and gives him power to further reduce or to eliminate gradually tariffs on goods which the United States and the Common Market Countries together provide 80% of the free world export value.

This special power regarding Common Market competition is in the bill to allow this country to ship American goods to one of the most food and products hungry areas in the world. This area, comprising most of Western Europe, contains 250 to 300 million people who have just entered into a prosperity never before known to them.

For the first time the average citizen in these countries can afford to buy American-made appliances for his home, an automobile and luxury goods of all descriptions. Likewise his diet is changing to include more meats and fewer cereals.

Last year the United States exported $6.3 billions to Western Europe. In future years, our exports could be many times that figure if we are able to take advantage of Common Market buying power.

The Common Market will have abolished tariffs between member countries by 1970 while establishing a common tariff for goods from other nations. This situation would be extremely damaging to American exports except that the new trade bill will give the President power to reduce our tariffs on Common Market goods in return for a Common Market tariff reduction on ours.

Most of this tariff bargaining will come in areas where goods have what is technically called "low labor input per unit of production," which means that large numbers of workers should not be affected. However, certainly there will be some adjustment necessary. The trade bill provides that affected workers and firms can get help in learning new jobs and production methods to adjust to new conditions. This help, adjustment assistance, is purely voluntary and would be administered by existing government agencies for limited periods of time.

It is natural to think of this bill in terms of the Common Market, for there lies the biggest challenge, but we must remember that we can trade successfully with many other parts of the world. The underdeveloped nations of Africa and Asia represent a vast market for machinery and manufactured goods as the people there seek to improve their living standards and develop modern economies. Many of these nations have unrealistic trade barriers for the protection of local industries that might be battered down in exchange for our tariff concession on their products and raw materials.

A modern, industrial nation cannot live isolated from the rest of the world. The President's trade bill gives us a chance to show that American private enterprise can compete in the world market and that American ingenuity and determination can meet new challenges and prosper from them.

and London duplicates her outstanding performance on her outbound crossing when she covered 2,853 nautical miles to Europe in the amazing time of four days, 20 hours and 50 minutes. For the round trip, the American Challenger averaged 24.11 knots.

The S. S. American Challenger and four of her sister-ships will operate in a super-express, service to Le Havre and London, sailing from New York every Friday, from London every Friday and Le Havre every Saturday. The new cargo liners can span the North Atlantic in two to three days less time than is required by the average modern freighter on this run.

EXCLUSIVE PURINA MICRO-MIXING

Every year, manufacturing feed becomes a more difficult job, requiring more precision machinery and more painstaking care. The reason is that feed formulas are becoming more complex each year, requiring more and tinier ingredients all the time. Many essential ingredients in quantities as small as a thimbleful per ton must be mixed throughout a batch of feed. If mixing isn't done right, one bird or animal can get too much or too little of these tiny but essential ingredients.

Thanks to Purina's exclusive Micro-Mixing process, tiny amounts of ingredients are blended evenly through every bag or ton of Purina, helping you avoid waste and increase your feeding efficiency. Micro-Mixing also protects your birds or animals from getting too much of the powerful ingredients in today's feeds, which can be dangerous when overfed.

When you feed Purina, you know your birds or animals are getting the right amount of each ingredient they need for top gains and efficiency, thanks to Purina's exclusive Micro-Mixing process.

Sterilizing Baby's Bottles

Of the two commonly accepted methods of sterilizing baby's bottles, most mothers have traditionally used the technique where formula and bottles are sterilized separately. The formula is then added to the bottles under sterilized conditions.

HUNTING DOGS

Retrievers are hunting specialists, who gently return killed or wounded game to the gunner. Rugged, expert swimmers like the Labrador Retriever seldom lose a bird — make sure no crippled fowl are left behind.

The Beagle, smallest of the trailing hounds, is the hunter's all-time favorite for rabbit and hare. When on a fresh trail, the Beagle gives forth with its famous "musical tongue." It's a signal game is near!

Records at our Remington Arms Library show that Setters were used on game birds in England 400 years ago! Popular in America since 1874, Gordon, English and Irish Setters are tall and keen-nosed — excellent for scent-ing pheasant and quail. They, like all hunting dogs, make excellent companions on your fun-filled hunting trip.

method—including the use of sterile tongs—a second method, terminal sterilization, has become extremely popular. Terminal sterilization is the method used by most hospitals and readily duplicated in the home because of the availability of plastic bottles of high density polyethylene that are more popular than glass and able to withstand the extreme temperatures developed by steam in this type of sterilization.

Terminal sterilization is a more positive sterilization. The nipple and formula are never handled until put safely in baby's mouth and this eliminates any ex-posure to bacteria.

Steps for terminal sterilization are these:

1. Wash all equipment thoroughly.

2. Prepare the formula according to your physician's instructions, heating the formula only if necessary to dissolve the ingredients.

3. Pour the formula into bottles. In addition, fill two four-ounce bottles with drinking water. Place nipples on the bottles, tips down and cover with sealing discs and caps. After tightening each cap, unloosen the cap one-half turn to allow for steam expansion.

4. Place the filled bottles upright on the rack in the sterilizer.
Fill the sterilizer with water up to the two-ounce mark on the bottles. Cover the sterilizer and bring the water to a boil.

5. From the moment steam first begins to come out of the steril-izer, boil for 20 minutes. Watch the time carefully because prolonged boiling can clog nipple holes and make it difficult to remove the caps.

6. Turn off the heat and allow the sterilizer to cool for two hours or until you can place your hands against the side of the sterilizer.
Do not lift the lid. Only when cool, should you remove the lid, take out the bottles and tighten the caps, and place in the refrigerator.

This method of sterilization prevents clogging by eliminating milk film. Terminal sterilization also means that the milk need not be stored in a refrigerator. Bottles of ready-to-use formula may be stored in the sterilizer at room temperature until they are ready for feeding.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kestner

If you should ask the question,
"What is the proper range for a shooting dog?"—and thousands do ask that question each year—you would very likely get a deluge of different answers. Probably all of them would be incorrect, for individual tastes and requirements vary to a great degree, and what is one sportsman's meat might be another's poison. Then too, the difference in terrain looms large in the picture, so it is extremely difficult, if not impossible, to settle the question with a definite answer.

Some might say 50 to 100 yards for grouse and woodcock dogs; 100 to 200 yards for pheasant dogs; 150 to 250 yards for quail dogs.
These are, of course, figures to base an argument on only, since individual circumstances may vary quite a bit. The pace at which a gunner hunts has a good deal to do with influencing his opinion about the proper gun-dog range.
Some, like Henry P. Davis, Sporting Dogs Editor, Sports Afield Magazine, travel at a leisurely pace and try to give the dogs enough time to work every likely area. Dogs can work a somewhat restricted area at a slashing pace and still do a thorough job of it.
There are other hunters that stride along at an exhausting gait and keep hurrying their dogs so that the range is naturally increased.

Pace and range go hand in hand. A slow dog, inclined to linger on game scent, will require more time to cover a given area than one that travels as fast as his nose will allow. Such a slow dog will, naturally, stay closer to the gun than a faster one, for the latter, if he is intelligent, will not want to recheck his ground, but will be anxious to reach out for more productive areas.

The range of the dogs often plays a very important part in one's hunting pleasure. It is not an easy matter to find a dog that suits you exactly in range, nor to develop one, molding his ground coverage to suit your tastes or requirements. But either can be done with patience. And if your dog is well-trained and dependable on his game, there is always someone whom he'll suit to a T, whether he be the windsplitter despised by many, or the plodding grass-prowler decried by an equally large number of others. It's largely a matter of taste.

C. C. D. JOURNAL

An ecumenical council is a general council of the bishops of the world. For a council to be truly ecumenical, it must be convoked by the Pope; include, morally speaking, the bishops of the whole world; be presided over by the pope or his legate; and receive confirmation from the Pope, by his approval of its decrees.

Dogmatic definitions of an ecumenical council are infallibly true; its disciplinary measures, while binding in conscience, may be modified or changed by the Pope.

If, during an ecumenical council, the Pope should die, the council would be automatically suspended until resumed by the new Pope.

From the first council at Nicaea in 325 to Vatican Council I called in 1869 and indefinitely suspended in 1870 by Pope Pius IX due to the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian War, there have been twenty councils, held in thirteen different cities of five countries, that can be classified, at least in part, as ecumenical. These twenty councils have varied in duration from two weeks to 18 years.

The purpose of an ecumenical council is the same as that of any corporation at its periodic Board meetings — self-scrutiny. At a general council, the Church makes an inventory and examines her conscience, so to speak, on an international scale. The Code of Canon Law prescribes that it is reserved to the Holy Father to determine the subjects to be handled and the order in which they are to be taken up.

All men should feel deeply indebted to the Bishops, many of them aged and infirm, who have journeyed to these councils throughout the past 1600 years.
The decrees they debated and the doctrines they defined have enhanced Christian faith and civilization. The twenty councils have profoundly influenced the lives of Christian men and women down the centuries to those of us who are now praying with Pope John for the success of the 21st Ecumenical Council—Vatican Council II.

The World's Most Widely Used

The Upper Room

THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Colossians 1:21-29.
Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it. (Ephesians 5:25.)

A church I once served as pastor was discussing the idea of renovating the sanctuary and adding a church school annex. When the matter of finances was brought up, an elderly man who loved the church and was faithful in his support of it rose and made a persuasive statement.

He said, "I don't think you could make a better investment anywhere than in the church." His statement and the demonstration of its truth in his life exerted a great influence upon the people. He helped them to decide in favor of the proposed undertaking.

When we invest our time, talents and treasures in the church, we know they will not be lost or wasted. We should love Christ and the church so much that we would be ready to die for them.

But the more pressing need is to live for them. An investment of our lives in its daily ministry will strengthen Christ's church and further enable it to accomplish its mission in the world.

Prayer

O Father, we thank Thee for Thy church and for the privilege of sharing in its ministry to mankind. Keep us faithful in our efforts to strengthen Thy church. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen. Thought For The Day

I will so live today that my Christian testimony will strengthen the church.

Diabetes Ranks High In Deaths

Diabetes ranks seventh in the list of causes of death by disease in Maryland, Dr. Perry F. Prather, State Health Commissioner, said this week in calling attention to the importance of Diabetes Detection Week which is November 11-17. There were 547 deaths in Maryland caused by diabetes last year.

Dr. Prather urged Marylanders to take advantage of diabetes detection programs in areas where these are being held or to see their family physician. A Diabetes Detection Fair will be held at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore on November 12, 13, and 14 from 12 to 8 p.m. Simple quick tests for diabetes will be available to the public without charge. There will also be exhibits and informational materials. The Fair is sponsored by the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland and the Maryland Diabetes Association, in cooperation with the State and Baltimore City Health Departments.

The Health Commissioner explained that diabetes is a chronic condition which develops when the body cannot use some of the food one eats, especially sugars and starches. Diabetes can be fatal unless properly treated.

It is estimated that one American in every sixty is a diabetic, and that there are approximately 3,000,000 diabetics in our country today. Of this number about 1,600,000 know that they are diabetic, and roughly 1,400,000 are unaware of their condition. Approximately 5,125,000 other persons living today are potential diabetics, which means that they will develop the disease sometime during their lives. About 75,000 people are known to become diabetic each year.

Dr. Abraham A. Silver, Chairman of the diabetes subcommittee of the Medical and Chirurgical

Faculty, and outgoing president of the Diabetes Association, said the goal of Diabetes Detection Week is to find as many as possible of the 1,400,000 undetected diabetics, men, women, and children, and at the same time to educate the American public as to the signs and importance of early detection and control of the condition.

Diabetes is hereditary. Of the total population of the United States, one out of every four persons—or 45 million people—are believed to be diabetic "carriers." "Carriers" of diabetes are persons who are free of the condition themselves but who transmit the tendency to it to their offspring.

The usual signs of diabetes are increase in thirst, constant hunger, frequent urination, loss of weight, intense itching, easy tiring, pain in fingers and toes, changes in vision, and slow healing of cuts and bruises. However, diabetes may be present without any signs at all.

The most likely targets are persons who are related to diabetics, are overweight, or are past 40 years of age. After 45, three diabetics out of five are women.

Weight control is important in the prevention of diabetes. Six out of seven diabetics over 40 were overweight before the onset of their disease.

Diabetes can strike at any time. Cases are known of the disorder in a nine-day-old boy and a 99-year-old woman.

Diabetes can be controlled by diet, exercise, and, when necessary, by insulin. In some older and milder diabetics, recently developed oral tablets help to control their condition. However, a planned diet is always a fundamental of diabetes treatment.

Neglect of diabetes may lead to development of complications, the most serious of which are heart disease, failing eyesight, hardening of the arteries, kidney disorders, gangrene, cerebral hemorrhage, and diabetic coma.

Tax withholding was first used in America early in the Civil War, reports the Internal Revenue Service.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT 22 Million Veterans Get Improved Service

By John S. Gleason, Jr.
Administrator of Veterans Affairs

John S. Gleason, Jr.

Most people have no idea that the Veterans Administration is larger than U. S. Steel, General Electric, or most industrial giants and big government agencies.

But to our 170,000 employees the challenge of efficiently running a big business for 22 million veterans and their dependents makes up for the lack of fanfare.

This challenge includes operating 170 hospitals, administering the nation's third largest ordinary life insurance enterprise, disbursing $3.5 billion annually in compensation and pension payments to approximately five million ex-servicemen or their widows and orphans, and assisting veterans with more than 150,000 home loans each year.

VA's stabilizing influence on the national economy was dramatically illustrated early in 1961. President Kennedy called for accelerated payment of the $250 million regular yearly dividend to VA GI insurance policyholders. VA responded by disbursing it in six weeks.

Primarily, this money was a return to veterans of part of GI insurance premiums not needed because veterans were living longer than had been anticipated in the actuary tables.

The increasing age of veterans leads to a major problem. Veterans have reached the age where they require an increasing amount of hospitalization. More than 500,000 go into VA hospitals each year. Three times as many are treated in VA's 91 outpatient clinics.

To accommodate this increasing responsibility, VA is modernizing its permanent hospital buildings and replacing temporary buildings. At the same time, VA, largely through improved hospital management, is treating more patients with about the same facilities. In 1961, VA hospitals treated 28,000 more patients than in 1960, and will treat 30,000 more in 1962 than in 1961. This gain is equivalent to operation of nine 500-bed hospitals.

Increased hospital utilization is partly due to a decline in tuberculosis and the conversion of 11 VA tuberculosis hospitals to general medical and surgical facilities. This has resulted in a great measure from VA medical research in improved drug therapy for tuberculosis.

Training provided World War II and Korea veterans has helped more than 11 million veterans obtain better jobs. Gains in income taxes on increased earnings more than pay the cost of the GI training programs.

The Department of Veterans Benefits administers vocational rehabilitation and education, GI loans, guardianship, and compensation and pension payments through 67 regional offices in the 50 states, Washington, D. C., the Philippines and Puerto Rico. While the education program is nearing completion, the GI loan program currently is increasing in volume of business. VA estimates more than 168,000 GI loans will be closed during 1962, 25% above the previous year. The guardianship program supervises estates of some 400,000 minors and incompetents valued at $700 million.

VA employs 170,000 professional, white collar and blue collar employees in accordance with the President's Fair Employment policy. Twenty-three percent of VA's full-time employees are Negroes. In this area, and in the employment of the physically handicapped, VA leads all Federal employers.

VA uses efficient tools of management, including automatic data processing. Although difficulty was encountered in converting VA's large insurance and benefits payment, the problems have been solved.

The ancient adage about a worm that turns has taken on new meaning to a lot of fishermen all over the country, and particularly so in the Midwest.

Because fishermen there are waxing ecstatic over the fish-catching abilities of plastic worms, and insects of all types, and snakes, and eels and crayfish and tadpoles and water dogs and frogs and lizards, on and on, ad infinitum. For one reason—they catch fish.

The plastic imitations are so realistic they feel like bugs, look like bugs and taste like bugs, to those who have had some experience as a bug taster—and most fish have, luckily for we who like to angle.

In the daytime, when most of us do our fishing, use a plastic imitation that goes deep, because there is where the fish will be. In early mornings and late evenings, when the water has cooled and the fish come into the shallows to feed, use surface lures.

Had a chance for dramatic proof on worms earlier this year at Lake Ouchita, just outside Hot Springs, Ark. Fishing had fallen off at the big impoundment, and limit catches were few and far between. So my fishing partner and I tied on black plastic worms with lead heads, fired up our Mercury outboard motor and ran upwind of one of the numerous rocky points that dot the scenic paradise.

Then we cut the motor and drifted, bouncing the worms off the bottom as the wind moved us gently along. Our first drift produced a keeper largemouth bass, and our second drift two more. In two more points we filled our limits.

Now this is not to say that plastic imitations are the only lures to use, because that is not always the case. I've got a tackle box full of wood and hardware that I'm continuing to use. But now I've got another box, with plastic worms in it, and it's getting used more and more every day.

State's Attorney Robert S. Rotherhoefer and Register of Wills Thomas M. Eichelberger, both Democrats, won by large majorities.

Rotherhoefer beat former Trial Magistrate Wilbur F. Sheffield Jr. 10,045 to 7,962 and Eichelberger beat William S. Hood 12,490 to 6,045.

County Treasurer Charlotte W. Yarroll, incumbent Democrat and unopposed for re-election, received 11,345 votes.

Frederick County voters gave incumbent Gov. J. Millard Tawes a 728 majority over Republican Frank Small Jr. Unofficial returns tabulated gave Tawes 10,091 votes and Small 9,363. Democrats had hoped for a greater majority for the governor, since they hold a 4,200 lead in voter registration in the county.

Veteran political observers say, as well as they can recall, that this is the first time a Democratic candidate for governor has carried this county for two elections in succession.

Since the Civil War, the only Democratic Governors carrying Frederick County were William

Pimlico Opens

November 14

Kelso, Carry Back and Beau Purple, the three leading contenders for Horse of the Year honors, top the list of 55 nominations to the $50,000 Dixie Handicap at Pimlico on Thursday, November 22.

The Thanksgiving day attraction is one of six stakes races to be presented during Pimlico's 28-day autumn meeting, November 14-December 15.

In announcing the nominations to Pimlico's oldest stakes race, Louis Pondfield, vice president and executive director, said: "The splendid response to the Dixie is most heartening and certainly vindicates our judgment in doubling the value of the race. This year the Dixie holds the two-fold promise of establishing the identity of the Horse of the Year, and, at the same time, providing the public with its final opportunity to see the very popular Carry Back in action."

Carry Back, fourth horse in history to win a million dollars in earnings, will be returning to the scene of one of his most memorable triumphs when he parades postward in the Dixie. Conceived in Maryland at Country Life Farm, Bel Air, Carry Back won the 1961 Preakness in a rousing come - from - behind victory over Globemaster.

Jack Price, co-owner and trainer of Carry Back, has indicated that the plucky Saggy-Joppy colt will be retired to stud following his swan song in the Dixie.

Kelso, owned by Mrs. Richard C. duPont's Bohemia Stable, is seeking to become the first Thoroughbred in history to win the coveted Horse of the Year title three times in succession.

Hobeau Farm's Beau Purple has set four track records and equalled two others in winning five stakes this year. While lacking the consistency of either Kelso or Carry Back, his brilliance at times has been astounding. Equally at home on the main track and turf, he ranks as "the spoiler" in the three-way battle for the 1962 title.

The Dixie, at a mile and a half on the grass, shapes up as anything but a soft touch for the "big three". Also among the nominees are such turf cracks as Bronze Babu, Wise Ship, T. V. Lark, Mongo, Harmonizing, El Bandido and Shield Bearer.

Farmers Warned

Farmers who are going to take part in the 1963 wheat stabilization program should be careful to sign up only as much acreage as they intend to divert, William L. Dudley, Chairman, Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, said this week.

The signed acreage for 1963 will be a binding agreement, the Chairman explained, and farmers will have to divert the full acreage for which they sign up in order to be eligible for any payments—including diversion payments, the regular price support loans or purchase agreements, and the extra wheat price-support payments. "This is a change from the 1962 program," Mr. Dudley declared. "Under the 1963 wheat stabilization program, a farmer could sign up for 30 acres, and then divert only 20, and still earn payments on the acreage he actually diverted."

"For 1963, however, such a farmer would not be eligible for any diversion or price-support payments. His failure to divert the whole acreage he signed up would cancel his eligibility for any kind of wheat stabilization or price-support program assistance."

"We hope that farmers will consider their plans carefully before they file their applications to take part in the wheat stabilization program, and that they will then sign up only as much wheat acreage as they intend to divert."

The sign-up under the 1963 wheat stabilization program for winter wheat is now under way at the ASCS county offices. It will continue through December 14.

Fatalities On Rise

The weekly survey of highway fatalities published by the Maryland State Police each Monday, shows that twelve persons were killed in highway accidents last week, ending midnight November 4.

Two of those killed were drivers; four were passengers; and six were pedestrians. Three of the pedestrians were youngsters who ran into the path of a vehicle.

As in previous surveys, alcohol was a principal contributing factor, being present in four of the deaths; speed was present in one; and "driver error" was a contributing factor in eight.

Of the 215 deaths on Maryland highways during the past seventeen weeks, alcohol has been a contributing factor in 46%; speed in 46%; and "driver error" in 80%.

The Board of Trustees of the Library met at the library Nov. 5 at 10:15 a.m. Mrs. John Warthen, Librarian, gave her report for October. Twenty new library cards were issued during October bringing the total to 444. It might be pointed out that anyone may obtain a library card without charge. 263 books were charged out during October. Fourteen books were received from the Burr Artz Library in Frederick on interlibrary loan. These books were obtained on the individual request of persons in Emmitsburg. If there is a particular book you would like to read, just make that wish known to the Librarian or volunteer librarian during library hours.

Magazines now available regularly in the library are: National Geographic, Newsweek, and Jack and Jill. These magazines are for your convenience. Please come in and read them. There are other magazines on order which have not yet been received.

Mrs. John Warthen attended a meeting of the Maryland Regional Library Association on October 26 in Frederick.

Mr. William Ryder, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Library, wishes to announce that a Library Fund has been set up. Contributions to this fund will be used for the improvement of the library and donations will be appreciated.

The Board of Trustees wishes to make a public acknowledgement of the wonderful job done by the volunteers who contribute of their time. In the past month, several more persons have volunteered to help. Mrs. Warthen personally instructs each volunteer, then that volunteer works with Mrs. Warthen or another experienced volunteer until able to work alone. This is fascinating and rewarding work. Please call Mrs. Warthen at HI 7-3647, if you are interested.

Pennsylvania had a monorail railroad some 80 years before the famous monorail of the 1962 Seattle World's Fair. The Pennsylvania line was called the "peg leg railroad" and ran from Bradford to Derrick City, Pennsylvania.

MANY THANKS

To all our many friends who so generously supported us at the polls on Tuesday we wish to express our sincere and grateful thanks. You have demonstrated again that you insist on good government by good candidates.

The overwhelming response is gratifying to everybody who worked so diligently and so willingly to present our program to the voters.

Your confidence in the Democratic Party will be reaffirmed by the evidence of good government you will witness during the forthcoming years.
