Very few Emmitsburgians got a glimpse of President Kennedy as he motored through the town last Sunday afternoon to Gettysburg for a tour of the famous battlefield. The President zipped through with hardly anyone getting a glimpse of the presidential tourage. He spent about two hours in Gettysburg taking in points of interest and took a "peek" from the outside at the Eisenhower farm.

Route 15, which the State Roads Commission seems to have lost track of, promises to be one of the most heavily used roads in the state in the near future. With Gettysburg drawing thousands annually to see the historic battleground and Emmitsburg, with Mother Seton's canonization apparently in the offing, there is every indication that in the not too far future, we will see the traffic trebled on this stretch of highway. At present time this route is perhaps one of the worst in the state and there is little hope that anything can be accomplished in 1963 to alleviate congestion as well as hazardous sections of the road. However pressure should be brought to bear on the Commission by the Governor, individuals or organizations. It is a well-known fact that automobile clubs are detouring motorists both to the west and east of Gettysburg and Emmitsburg due to this bad section of highway. With the motorists also goes the many thousands of dollars they spend on their way to various destinations. Our restaurants, motels, garages, stores, etc. are feeling the loss of these tourist dollars as they are advised to take other routes around the two towns.

With the local election only about three weeks away some interest is being generated and it is rumored there will be several candidates for the two jobs come the deadline for filing. Mayor Bouey has let it be generally known that he will positively not seek re-election. There is no direct word from Commissioner Houser as to whether or not he will file again but it is understood that a large number of friends are discussing the matter and I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he placed his name on the ballot once again. Those desiring to run for office must file their intention in writing with the Town Clerk by April 20 and the election will be held on Tuesday, April 30.

While on the subject of town affairs, Town Officials this week said that an inspection of local sidewalks will be made in the near future and those that are in a hazardous condition will have to be repaired voluntarily at the owners' expense or else the Town would repair them and the owners billed for the work. Operation of the Water Company became official Monday when the Town took over the reins and began operating the utility. Bills in the Town's name have been sent out to consumers for the second quarter of the year and it is planned to move the business office to the former Water Company office in the near future.

Emmitsburg will be well represented in international educational circles in the near future when three local professors will be "loaned", so to speak, to two different countries via fellowships and educational grants and exchanges. Dr. Gilbert Oddo heads for Mexico for a year in July. Dr. Marie Wanek will see duty in India and Dr. John L. Morrison will take up teaching duties at Columbia University. Drs. Oddo and Wanek are on the faculty at St. Joseph College and Dr. Morrison is at Mount Saint Mary's.

BULL ROAST

Mt. St. Mary's Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold a bull roast in Westminster on April 20. Tickets to the affair will sell for $3.25. It is understood a number of members of Brute Council, 1860, Emmitsburg, is planning to attend the event.

A hangover is something that occupies the head you didn't use the night before.

Methodist Church Evangelistic Services Scheduled

Evangelistic Services will be conducted at the Tom's Creek Methodist Church near Emmitsburg, during Holy Week, April 7-12. Rev. James DiRaddo of Hampstead, Md., will be the speaker. The services will begin each evening, Sunday through Friday, at 7:45 p.m. with a children's service being held at 7:15. The Sunday morning Service will be held at 10:00 a.m. with Rev. DiRaddo preaching.

Rev. DiRaddo, a native of Camden, New Jersey, has travelled widely in the United States and abroad in his studies and preaching. Starting to preach at the age of 17, he has already conducted more than 100 church, camp, city-wide and united evangelistic campaigns.

Rev. DiRaddo is a graduate of the Asburg College in Wilmore, Ky., and the Temple University School of Theology in Philadelphia, Pa. In 1957 he was sent to Israel to study for 3 months at the Hebrew University, and had the opportunity on occasion to preach at the Church of Scotland in Jerusalem.

Rev. DiRaddo served as a Methodist pastor in the Philadelphia Conference for 7 years. Secretary of the Conference Board of Evangelism, he also served as evangelist for the 3 Methodist Camp meetings in the Philadelphia area. He has been active in Youth for Christ work, with an appeal to both young and older.

The pastor, Rev. Martin A. Case, along with the membership of Tom's Creek Church, extends a cordial invitation to all to enjoy the blessings of this week of evangelistic services.

There can be several reasons for the scarcity of fish in some large metropolitan areas: the increased number of anglers; a harvest greater than the number of new fish in any one year; pollution. The U. S. Department of Health recently stated that more fish are killed by industrial wastes than by any other pollutants.

Town Takes Over Water Company

After furnishing water to Emmitsburg and community for more than three-quarters of a century, the Emmitsburg Water Co., having sold its property to the town, figuratively turned off all valves and faucets at 11 o'clock last Friday morning, with the same being immediately turned on again as a part of the new municipal water system, thus terminating negotiations begun several years ago between the company and the town.

Approval of the sale and of the retirement of the company from the local scene, was granted on March 27 by the Maryland Public Service Commission.

The early records of the company show that the first meeting for the purpose of establishing the company was held on May 4, 1883, at the so-called "Engine House." The announced purpose of the meeting was to determine if sufficient funds could be raised to supply the citizens of Emmitsburg with pure mountain water. John Donoghue, Esq., was elected the first president and E. R. Zimmerman was elected secretary.

Shortly after the first meeting there was an issue of stock which was subscribed without difficulty. This step was handled by a committee of six men whose family names have been a part of Emmitsburg history for many years. They were James A. Elder, Isaac S. Annan, Maj. O. A. Horner, George R. Ovelman, J. Taylor Motter and John Donoghue.

The first piece of property consisted of two acres purchased from Thomas Claiborn on which was located an excellent spring of water. Purchase price, $130. Mr. R. K. Martin, a water engineer from Baltimore, was employed to examine the reservoir site and offer advice concerning the pipe line—his fee was established at $50.00.

Bids were solicited for the construction of a reservoir, William H. Ashbaugh and Son being the successful bidders at $500. Mr. Ashbaugh encountered so many unforeseen difficulties that he decided to abandon the job and the reservoir was completed by the Water Company. It is interesting to note that the total cost of the first water system, including the reservoir, pipe line, service lines, land and supervision, was $16,000.

On June 12, 1883, the first stockholders' meeting was held and seven directors were elected: Isaac S. Annan, James A. Elder, Lewis M. Motter, O. A. Horner, Eugene S. Rowe, George R. Ovelman and Ezra R. Zimmerman. Isaac S. Annan was elected president and Ezra Zimmerman, secretary.

On April 21, 1884, bids were received for laying pipe from the reservoir to Emmitsburg—a distance of approximately 12,000 ft. Nathaniel Rowe and Son was the successful bidder. By the year 1894 more storage space was required and Reservoir No. 2 was built to hold 600,000 gallons of water.

For a number of years after this, the company moved along slowly just as other pioneering companies did, overcoming one obstacle after the other, buying important land when it would become available and extending pipe lines to reach a growing community.

Some very important people in the formative years of the company were: Nicholas Baker, J. Stuart Annan, Edgar L. Annan, John Thomas Gelwicks, Dr. Chas. D. Eichelberger, Annan A. Horner, Sterling Galt and G. Meade.

Patterson. In the year 1909, Isaac S. Annan died, the man truly responsible for bringing water to Emmitsburg many years before other communities had a public water supply.

The year 1923 saw new company organization in the persons of F. Harry Gross, Thomas C. Hays, Edwin F. Ohler, Albert Patterson and Charles McMathias. These men brought new ideas with them; first the purchase of mountain land on the water shed and the removal of buildings so that water could be kept pure; reforestation with 60,000 pine trees being planted; line extensions were made in all directions; chlorination became a continuous purification process; two new reservoirs were built, one with a capacity of 2,000,000 gallons, another with 25,000,000 gallon capacity and a new office building which has been in service since 1950.

The total reserve capacity of the reservoirs today is approximately 30,000,000 gallons; the watershed occupies nearly 800 acres which is necessary in order to control the purity of the water; all cleared land has been restored to its natural protective cover by the planting of trees.

Following the death of Thomas C. Hays in 1934, Samuel C. Hays, his son, was elected to lead the company. He was ideally suited for the position, being a graduate engineer and having had the opportunity since childhood to become familiar with the operation of the company. Rainbow Lake, with its 25 million gallon capacity, was built under his supervision. Serving with him on the Board of Directors during recent years have been Guy Baker, John White and Mrs. Mayme C. Hays, all of Emmitsburg, and Mrs. Margaret H. Warner, of Blue Ridge Summit.

Line extensions, under present management, have taken company water some 3000 feet beyond the Town limits on the Gettysburg Road, some 3000 feet along the Frederick Road, some 1500 feet along the Waynesboro Road and some 1500 feet along the Baltimore Road.

A recent examination and testing by State officials disclosed that the system had a "Static pressure" of 90 pounds and a "C factor" of .90, both of which indicate a better than average ability of the system to carry water.

In ringing down the curtain on the company's long history, President Hays had this to say:

"Naturally I am sorry to see the Emmitsburg Water Company go out of business after 80 years of service, and I am equally sorry to give up my personal association with this company of which I am very proud. But I sincerely believe that there are advantages to municipal operation which are very compelling. Of course there must be proper management, but of this I have no worry, for Emmitsburg has never lacked for public spirited citizens possessing both integrity and ability.

"There are several things which I think deserve to be mentioned, as a fitting memorial to the far sighted men of the past. First I would mention the fact that during the entire eighty years of operation, there never was a disease or epidemic attributable to the water supply. I would also mention that during the past 15 years, when almost every neighboring community, at one time or another, was either without water or subject to extreme restriction, the Emmitsburg Water Company imposed no restriction whatever."

The new all-weather track at the Mount came into good use as a steady rain fell throughout most of the meet. Times for the running events were near normal. There were two double-winners for the Mount. Tom Neidhart won the mile and two-mile runs and John Dolan captured both hurdles events.

Bid For Convention

State Comptroller Louis Goldstein is heading up a committee of State and Baltimore City officials and cooperating agencies to get the 1964 Democratic National Convention to Baltimore City, the 6th largest city in America. The Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, the Honorable John Bailey, and his Site Committee was in Baltimore Tuesday for lunch and then made an inspection of the new Civic Center, the hotels, motels, transportation facilities, the Friendship Airport, historic sites, etc.

Baltimore City for many years (1832-1860) was the convention city of the Republican and Democratic Parties of our country. Since 1860 the Republicans have held one convention in Baltimore. This was in 1864 when Abraham Lincoln was nominated and elected for his second term as President. The Democrats held conventions in Baltimore in 1860, 1872 and 1912, when Woodrow Wilson was nominated and elected.

The first nominating convention of both the Republicans and the Democrats was held in Baltimore in 1832, when the Democrats unanimously nominated Andrew Jackson of Tennessee on the first ballot and the Republicans unanimously nominated Henry Clay of Kentucky on the first ballot. As history tells us, Andrew Jackson went on to become President of these United States.

GETTYSBURG, EMMITSBURG DRAW TOURISTS

The hundred thousand or so soldiers who, a century ago, fought the Battle of Gettysburg, did not come into being on the battlefield. They journeyed to it. And a good many journeyed by what was then called "the Emmitsburg Road."

It was a short route that went out from the village of Emmitsburg in Maryland and ran north to the Pennsylvania town of the fight. The Civil War's artist-historian, Bruce Catton, has given a description of it, written in the light of the battle's fame.

He says, "... for a few days it had been a famous military highway, pumping a stream of troops off to the unfathomable chances of war. Now it would be a quiet country road again, with a farmer's load of hay or drove of cattle as its most exciting wayfarer, the mountain wall to the west dropping long shadows across it in the blue summer evenings, the dust and the clamor and the rumbling guns gone forever... a simple road leading from one country town to another, with a commonplace little name that would ring and shine in the books forever."

"Ring and shine." By these words Mr. Catton was of course reminding his readers of the battle. Of what else could he—or anyone—think in relation to those few miles? No one would ever expect the Emmitsburg Road to be anything but the road to Gettysburg.

But on March 17, 1963, this quite reasonable expectation was at least brought to question. For on that date Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton, founder of the Order of Sisters of Charity in America, was declared Blessed by the Roman Catholic Church—and Mother Seton performed most of her life's work in Emmitsburg. In the town with the commonplace name she manifested a spiritual genius that has been remembered with ever increasing respect for 150 years.

She died in 1821. Since then several miraculous cures have been attributed to her. There were, in her lifetime, some among her acquaintances who believed her to have the qualities of saintliness. There are many devotees today who look forward to her canonization.

Her remains lie in a shrine at Emmitsburg and all around the modest little building is the extensive campus of the school she established in 1809 — St. Joseph College. And working for the poor all over the world, are 40,000 Sisters of Charity—her order.

The honor of the Emmitsburg Road, which is now U. S. Route 15, and passes by St. Joseph's, therefore would seem not to come only from a battle. As well as a battle, the road rings and shines with the memory of a holy life. There will be many travelers along the route this summer. They can decide for themselves which means the most.

Sportsmen's Shooting Match Sunday

President Eugene Myers presided at the regular meeting of the Indian Lookout Conservation Club held Tuesday in the Fire Hall.

President Myers appointed a nominating committee to submit names for officers for the annual election to be held at the next meeting. A report on the progress of the new lake on the club grounds was given. At the present time there is almost six feet of water in the lake. Plans for future improvements to be made at the club grounds were discussed and working parties have been busy recently working on several projects.

The Sportsmen will hold a shooting match on Sunday, April 7 at the Civic Grounds east of town and the general public is cordially invited to participate.

The shoot will get under way at 1 p.m. and there will be clay bird and still target shooting with 12-gauge shotguns. Shells will be furnished and refreshments will be available.
