The Supreme Court's decision to ban reading prayers in public schools throughout our nation is a bitter pill to swallow. Right or wrong there must be some way to circumvent this ruling. In these days with religion so important in combatting the evils of Communism it is of paramount interest and concern to all that religion and prayer be foremost in our thoughts. We can vividly recall the bitter lesson the Nazis taught us when they banned religion and prayer from the German schools and substituted Hitler's creed. In just a few short years the younger element hardly was aware a God even existed. As we observe the first graders going to school this year we can't help feeling sorry and wondering if in the next short eight years when they come out of elementary school if the majority of them will be atheists? It is a well-known fact that in quite a number of homes prayer is seldom, if ever heard. Many parents are woefully neglectful when it comes to teaching children prayer and if they don't get it at home where are the children going to learn them? You know and I know that a considerable number of parents never see the inside of a church, so what's to become of our youth? It'll be showing up within the next few years you can bet. Some of this could be offset by our local organizations opening their business meetings with the Lord's Prayer and as the younger ones grow up and join these groups they will be at least exposed to some prayer and have an idea of what its for.

Mother Nature is tampering with the weather records again and this week a 60-year record was broken. That was Tuesday morning when the mercury dipped to the 30 degree mark. Frost was prevalent the first two or three mornings of the week and if the prolonged drought didn't just about kill everything off Jack Frost contributed the final blow. It's getting so a person can't go by the records anymore as every season some record of some sort tumbles. Here's just a small example of what the drought has been doing to us in these parts. The existing number of dairy and beef cattle in Adams County is down 20% as compared with last year's number on record. The drought, the second in two years, has caused farmers and livestock dealers to cut their herds due to the shortage of hay and feed caused by the drought. I don't have the figures for Frederick County but you can rest assured they are very similar to those of Adams County and might even be worse.

Hold your hats folks, here we go again. One of the physical education boys on the Board of Education this week came out and said that combination auditoriums and gymnasiums are having a negative effect in various activities. The inference was of course that already over-burdened taxpayers should cut loose with another chunk of hard-earned cash and provide bigger and better gyms. It seems as though the powers that be cannot come up with a satisfactory schedule where these gyms or auditoriums could be utilized to full advantage. I suppose next it'll be a stadium for soccer, one for baseball, one for football, etc. Nothing but the best for the Education Boys, they've got it made. And with the Board of Education getting 82% of the tax dollar now it seems highly likely they'll be needing more.

4-H Members Win Awards

Several members of the Rocky Ridge 4-H Club won awards at the livestock judging held at the Frederick Fair Wednesday. Jeff Valentine won the 4-H fitting and showing in sheep; Jerry Orndorff won honors in the ewe fitting and showing category, and Ralph L. Keilholtz, Jr., won the Grand Champion Angus Steer and Grand Champion steer of Frederick County.

Local Businessman Observes Birthday

On Sunday, September 22, Mr. Francis Matthews was given a dinner in honor of his 75th birthday at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mary Gene and Earl Rice. Those who helped Mr. Matthews celebrate the occasion were his wife, two sisters, Mrs. William Babylon of Hagerstown, and Mrs. O. E. Weber of Baltimore, and her husband. Also attending were two nephews, Alfred N. Myers of Westminster and Homer Babylon and wife of Williamsport. One great nephew, Henry Lingfelder of Baltimore, his pastor, Rev. Martin Case and family, Mrs. William Stoner, and Mr. Matthews' three grandchildren. Mr. Matthews was the recipient of many lovely gifts. The highlight of the day was provided by his nephew, Alfred N. Myers, who presented each member of the family with a history of the John Jacob Matthews family, which began in 1704. The genealogy dated back nine generations with interesting accounts obtained from records in Histories of Frederick County, Library of Congress and numerous other records.

Arts Institute Opens Series

A lecture-demonstration on "Indian Sculpture" by Stella Kramrisch, Ph.D., will open the Institute on the Fine Arts in Oriental Culture at Saint Joseph College, on Saturday, Sept. 28. Dr. Kramrisch, professor of Indian Art at the University of Pennsylvania will conduct the first session of the series of eight four-hour lectures which will include a demonstration of artifacts and a question period. Dr. Kramrisch received her doctoral degree in History of Art from the University of Vienna. Prior to her appointment at the University of Pennsylvania, she was professor of Indian Art at the University of Calcutta, and lecturer at the Courtland Institute of Art of the University of London. Dr. Kramrisch is also former curator of Indian Art of the Philadelphia Museum of Art. In addition to editing the Journal of the Indian Society of Oriental Art, she has authored several books on Oriental art which include The Hindu Temple, The Art of India, and Indian Sculpture. The Institute, which is under the sponsorship of the ESSO Education Foundation, will present on Chinese literature at its next session on Oct. 26.

Inquiries regarding registration may be directed to Thomas J. Casaletto, Director of the Fine Arts Institute, Saint Joseph College.

Dr. and Mrs. James Lansinger, Washington, D. C., visited over the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Rosensteel.

Term Of Mayor To Be Extended

A proposed amendment to the Town Charter which would extend the tenure of office of the Mayor from one to two years will be published in the near future Town officials announced this week.

At a special meeting of the Council held Monday evening, issues approved were the amendment of the Town Charter to advance the present one-year term of office of the Mayor to two years and to introduce the fiscal year system of the town's financial system to conform with the state and the majority of town and county systems within the state.

Mr. Flax explained that the change-over procedure would be placed in effect in January 1964 with the issuance of tax bills at that time for a six month period, thus placing the town's financial system on a fiscal basis beginning July 1, 1964.

Also approved at the meeting, he said, was the advertising of bids the first week in October for the improvements which have been approved for Emmitsburg's water system.

The Town Solons said it was hoped to reach a solution on what to do about the Emmitsburg-Thurmont school problem.

The members of the Board of Education have been discussing the situation for some time; so have the residents of the towns involved.

A delegation from Emmitsburg is expected to appear before the educators at their Oct. 2 meeting.

The school board discussed the problem prior to a public meeting held last week to discuss the budget for the six-month "year."

The educators have asked Dr. James A. Sensenbuegh, Superintendent of Schools, to have newly-appointed County Planner Robert W. Wirgum meet with them to see if he can help them decide what to do.

The two towns have agreed to have a new consolidated school located halfway between the communities. There are currently five sites under consideration.

If the board is unable to agree on a location between the towns, additions might have to be built at the present schools in the towns or build separate facilities in each town.

The problem is expected to be resolved soon. Some of the members of the Board of Education are already unhappy because the selection of a site has dragged along this long. Residents of the towns too are upset, claiming that the school is needed badly and any additional delay could be disastrous.

It was reported the Council had not yet reached a decision on replacing Chief W. E. Law who resigned on August 26, a month ago.

Council also issued a notice to individuals operating rooming houses, keeping construction workers, tourists, college students, etc., to report immediately to the Town Office so that water rates and sewerage service can be adjusted.

Local Band Plays For Friday Dance

A dance for teen-agers, 13 to 19, will be sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the post home on Friday evening, October 4. The dance will start at 8 and continue until 11 p.m. Admission to the affair will be 65c per person. Supplying music for the dance will be the popular rock and roll local band, The Combinations. All teen-agers are welcome.

College President Principal Speaker At Convocation Honoring President's Mother

The Very Reverend Edward J. Burke, C.M., President of St. John's University, New York, will address the faculty, students, and guests of the honorary degree recipients at an Academic Convocation at Saint Joseph College, Emmitsburg, on Saturday, October 5.

Father Burke attended Niagara University and received his baccalaureate degree in philosophy from St. Joseph College, Princeton, N. J. He received his master's degree in 1947, and his doctorate in English in 1955 from St. John's University. In 1936 he entered the novitiate of the Congregation of the Missions (Vincentian Fathers) and was ordained to the priesthood in 1941 by the late Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia. After ordination he served as Assistant Pastor of St. Vincent's Church, Philadelphia, and later joined the Central Association of the Miraculous Medal as staff member. From 1945 he held teaching and administration posts at St. John's Preparatory School, Brooklyn, N. Y., St. John's University, and Niagara University. In 1950 he was appointed Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University, N. Y., and in 1961 assumed office as the university's thirteenth president.

Father Burke is an active member of many educational associations including the Advisory Council on Television in Higher Education of the New York State Department of Education, the American Council on Education, the Association of American Colleges, the Board of Directors and Executive Committee of the Council on Higher Educational Institutions in New York City, the Council for Financial Aid to Education, the National Association of Foreign Student Advisors, and the New York Academy of Public Education.

At the convocation, which will honor the beatification of Elizabeth Ann Seton, foundress of Saint Joseph College, Sister Rosemary Pfaff, D.C., President, announced that the college will confer honorary degrees on the Most Reverend Lawrence J. Shehan, D.D., Archbishop of Baltimore; Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, mother of President Kennedy; and Miss Sarah Christie, Assistant Superintendent of Schools in New Jersey.

Mother Seton erected the first free Catholic school in America in St. Joseph's Valley in 1809. It was the foundation of the college, conducted by the Daughters of Charity, which plans to honor her on October 5. Last March 17, the late Pope John XXIII proclaimed Elizabeth Seton "Beata", the first American born citizen to be beatified by the Vatican. The Convocation will be held in DePaul Auditorium on campus.

Rt. 15 Section To Open Soon

The newly-constructed section of U. S. 15 between Lewistown and the Thurmont By-Pass may be opened to traffic within a week or so, a spokesman for the State Roads Commission stated this week.

Thomas G. Mohler, District Engineer for the SRC, said the new section of highway is ready for use but seeding and mulching of embankments remain to be done. He said the road will definitely be opened before bad weather arrives.

He said it has been decided to keep the traffic off the road until most of the final touches of the contract are completed. He reasoned that the workers spreading top soil with heavy equipment can accomplish more with the road closed than if they were open.

There is also the safety factor to consider. Mr. Mohler said that it would be dangerous to motorists and the road workers alike if work is to progress while traffic uses the road.

Mr. Mohler said it is possible to keep the new road closed until the seeding and sodding is completed because traffic can continue to use the old section of highway.

Grading work has begun on the section of U. S. 15 from Tuscarora to the Lewistown By-Pass; however, because of the scope of the project the grading will not be completed this year.

Three Injured In Crash Near Here

Three county residents were injured Tuesday morning in a three-vehicle collision on the Old Frederick Road, approximately a mile and a half south of Emmitsburg.

Admitted to the Annie E. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, with a dislocated shoulder, depressed skull fracture and abrasions was retired Col. Milton A. Sewell, 57, of RI, Emmitsburg. He was transferred later Tuesday to a Baltimore hospital.

Treated for minor lacerations and abrasions were Marvin Henley Cregger, 19, of Emmitsburg, and Mrs. Patricia Ott, 30, Rocky Ridge.

The accident occurred around 6:40 a.m. when the Cregger car, which was going south on the Old Frederick Road, attempted to pass a farm tractor driven by Col. Sewell, State Police reported.

While attempting to pass, Cregger failed to see the car being driven north by Mrs. Ott, and struck the left rear of the tractor and left front of Mrs. Ott's car.

Both the Cregger car, a 1960 Ford, and the Ott car, a 1955 Chevrolet, were considered a total loss as well as the old model Farmall tractor.

Tfc. Neil Bechtel, the investigating officer, charged Cregger with passing when the way ahead was not clear. He said other charges are pending. The Emmitsburg VFW ambulance took the injured to the hospital.

Ex-Professional Football Star To Aid P.P.&K.

The local Punt, Pass & Kick contest sponsored by the Ford Motor Co. and their local distributor, Sperry Ford Sales, will receive an able assist this year from Mount Saint Mary's College and Seminary as members of the administration and student body have volunteered to serve as coaches and officials.

Under the leadership of Mr. Frank X. Ligorano, Cogan Union Director and former Western Maryland star, the services of Rev. Mr. Vincent A. Werl, former Pittsburgh Steelers pro-footballer, and four former high school stars now in college have been engaged for the three weekend clinics. The collegians are: Bill Dowd, North Catholic, Phila.; Jim O'Dare, Fr. Judge High, Phila.; Jim Kulsh, Danbury High, Danbury, Conn.; and George Gelles, Johnstown Catholic, Johnstown, Pa.

Rev. Mr. Werl, who is in his final year of study for the holy priesthood at the Mount Seminary, played with the Steelers during their 1951 season. He was drafted into military service and played with the Ft. Jackson team in 1956 which won the post championship. In 1957 he was player-coach for the 24th Infantry Division team in Korea where he also coached the Korean All-Star team. Werl played his collegiate ball at the University of Dayton where he was voted the most valuable player award in 1954. He entered the Mount in 1960 studying for the priesthood for his home Diocese of Pittsburgh.

All local youngsters wishing to register for the clinics and contests may do so at Sperry's or at Community Field on the clinic days, Saturday, Sept. 28, Oct. 5 and 12, between 1:30 and 2:30 p.m.

Midget Soccer League Formed

Emmitsburg's Midget Soccer League got under way last Saturday morning. The league was organized by Coach George Kuhn, Emmitsburg High School, several weeks ago and the first games were played last Saturday.

Games are scheduled every Saturday morning starting at 9:15 and boys in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades from both local schools are welcome to join in the play. Coach Kuhn is assisted by four senior high school boys and two games are scheduled every Saturday.

After practicing for several weeks, the league's opening game saw the Roadrunners, led by Gary Manning's four goals, defeat the Jets, 5 to 1. In the second game, the Rockets shut out the Colts 3-0 as George Baker, Arnold Bolin and Dave Swomley drove the ball past the Colts' goalie.

The second week found the Jets led by Geoff Engelstatter and Dennis Bolin, edging the Colts 2 to 2. Richard Masser aided the losers cause with two goals. The league lead was determined last week when the two undefeated teams met. Dave Swomley's penalty shot proved the difference as the Rockets edged the Roadrunners, 1 to 0.

This Saturday's games are: 9:15 a.m., Rockets vs. Roadrunners; 10:00 a.m., Colts vs. Jets.

Msgr. W. F. Culhane Appointed College Treasurer

Rt. Rev. Robert R. Kline, Ph.D., president of Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, has announced the following administrative changes for the current semester. Rev. Robert S. Grace, B.A., has been appointed as Dean of Men; Rev. Robert H. Wharton, B.A., Dean of Freshmen; and Rt. Rev. William F. Culhane, M.A., College Treasurer.

Rt. Rev. William F. Culhane, a native of Newton, Conn., served as college treasurer from 1941-1948 and from 1952-1953. He also served as vice president of the college from 1941-1953 and from 1954-1961. He is a graduate of the class of 1919 and was ordained in 1923 for the Diocese of Mobile, Ala.

Father Grace, a native of Chestertown, Pa., has been the Dean of Freshman for the past three years and an instructor in theology. He earned his bachelor's degree at the Mount in 1951 and was ordained to the holy priesthood from Mount Saint Mary's Seminary in 1955 for the Archdiocese of Washington, D. C. He is currently working toward his master's degree in education at Villanova University, Philadelphia.

The new Dean of Freshman, Father Wharton, also from the Archdiocese of Washington, joined the Mount faculty in 1962 as an instructor in English. He was graduated with a bachelor's degree from the Mount in 1950 and ordained in 1954. Father Wharton was formerly associate editor of the archdiocesan newspaper, The Catholic Standard, and is currently the editor of the college's alumni quarterly, The Alumnus. He did postgraduate work in journalism at Columbia University.

Dairymen Invited To Local Meeting

All dairymen are invited to attend a feed meeting conducted by the Frederick County Agent's Office on Thursday, Oct. 3, at the Emmitsburg Feed & Farm Supply.

The meeting will start at 7:30 and continue until 9:30 o'clock. Topics will include: Limited roughage feeding, unlimited corn silage feeding, value of hay compared with silage or grain, and substitution of grain for roughage.

The Emmitsburg meeting is the tenth in a series of meetings dealing with the most economical means of feeding dairy cows in a dry year. County Agent George Wood reports good attendance and fine participation in meetings conducted thus far.

MRS. WILEY T. RIGHTNOUR

Mrs. Bertha Agnes Rightnour, wife of Wiley T. Rightnour, 320 N. Seton Ave., died Wednesday afternoon while a patient at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, at the age of 80 years.

The deceased was a daughter of the late David H. and Emma Jane (Augenbaugh) Lahr and was born in Kenny, Ill. She is survived by her husband, two brothers, Earl Lahr, Lincoln, Ill., and Eli Lahr, Leroy, Ill.; two daughters, E. Rose Rightnour, Baltimore; Mrs. Gerald F. Ryder, Emmitsburg; one son, Wales E. Rightnour, Emmitsburg. In addition, 10 grandchildren survive.

Funeral services will be held Friday (today) at 2 p.m., from the Bender Funeral Home, Gettysburg, Pa.

Announce Birth
Mr. and Mrs. Lester Boyer, R4, Frederick, announce the birth of their third child and first daughter, Joann Marie. Mrs. Boyer is the former Miss Ann Marie Sterbinsky, daughter of Mrs. William Sterbinsky and the late Mr. Sterbinsky.

Miss Frances Rowe who has spent the summer with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Combs, has returned to Savannah, Georgia.

Cancer Clinics Being Discontinued

The Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society has announced the closing of its Detection Clinics in some areas of the state.

A new program will gradually be offered to the entire State of Maryland. This program consists of a self-administered irrigation vaginal smear test which has proven to be exceedingly effective and a relatively inexpensive method of diagnosing treatable early carcinoma of the cervix in women.

In order to be able to offer this program to the entire State of Maryland, at the earliest moment it was necessary for other programs for the Maryland Division, Inc., to be sharply curtailed. It is regrettable that appointments made for the detection center examination will have to be cancelled.

From a historical point of view the detection clinics have played an important role in focusing the attention of a large segment of the population on the importance of routine physical examinations for cancer.

ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Kelly, Rocky Ridge, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Ann, to Morris A. Zentz Jr., son of Mrs. Estella Zentz, Taneytown, and the late Morris A. Zentz Sr.

Miss Kelly is a 1961 graduate of Emmitsburg High School and attended St. Joseph College, Emmitsburg. She is presently employed by the Ox Fibre Brush Co., Frederick. Mr. Zentz is a 1959 graduate of Emmitsburg High and served three years in the U. S. Army.

JOHNSON-CORL

Miss Mary Elizabeth Corl, daughter of Rev. Claude H. Corl, Sabillasville, and the late Mrs. Corl, and Raymond Paul Johnson, son of Mrs. Estrid Johnson, of Youngstown, Ohio, and the late Burt Johnson, were married on September 7 at 10 a.m. in St. John's United Church of Christ in Sabillasville. Rev. Corl officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Claude H. Corl, Jr., the bride wore a street-length gown of peau de soie with a bell-shaped skirt. The bodice of the gown featured a square neckline and tiny bows on the shoulders of the overblouse of re-embroidered chantilly lace decorated with seed pearls. The bride's veil of illusion was attached to a cluster of lace and peau de soie petals outlined with pearls. She carried a florentine spray bouquet of white roses, chrysanthemums, and stephanotis.

Mrs. Claude H. Corl, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of-honor. She wore a street-length dress of peacock blue peau de soie, designed with a portrait neckline. Her headpiece was a small hat of peau de soie outlined with seed pearls. She also carried a florentine spray of yellow pompoms, white daisies, ivy, tulle and white ribbon.

Mehrlie Shriner, Thurmont, served as best man. Ushers were Charles Kalesar and Greg Kordaban, both of Youngstown, and Lewis H. Corl, Sabillasville.

For the ceremony, Miss Clara Green offered traditional wedding selections on the organ.

A reception was held following the wedding in the parish hall of the church.

The bride is a graduate of Thurmont High School, class of 1957 and attended Towson State Teachers College. She was formerly employed at the Moore Business Forms, Thurmont.

The groom graduated from Woodrow Wilson High School in Youngstown, in 1958. He completed a tour of duty in the U. S. Army and is presently employed by the Federal Electronics Corporation as an electronics technician.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Jefferson, Frederick, Hagerstown, Baltimore, Emmitsburg, Thurmont, Leesburg, Va., Williamsburg and State College, Va., Spring Grove, Pa., and Youngstown, Ohio.

Zora Crash Injures Four

Four persons were injured and damage totaled $1,400 in an auto accident investigated by Pennsylvania State Police over the weekend.

The four hurt were injured in an accident at the Zora intersection Sunday morning at 12:15 o'clock.

Police said Joy Glenda Vick, 21, Union, S. C., a WAC stationed at Fort Ritchie, was entering the Emmitsburg-Blue Ridge Summit road from the Fairfield road and failed to stop at a stop sign. Her car collided with a west-bound auto operated by Lloyd Edward Moser, 54, Lantz, Md. Miss Vick's Opel car was demolished, with damage listed at $700. Moser's 1963 sedan had $700 damage to it.

Gettysburg's ambulance took the following to the Warner Hospital: Moser, who had abrasions of the head and body; Joy Vick, who had a laceration of the face and abrasions of the knees; Judy C. Shuetz, 19, also a WAC stationed at Fort Ritchie, who had severe lacerations of the face and scalp and abrasions of the knee; Carole M. McCormick, 21, a WAC from Fort Ritchie Ritchie, who had lacerations of the face and forehead and abrasions of the right arm.

ROSECRANS DIGS IN TO HOLD CHATTANOOGA

By Lon K. Savage

"Old Rosy" Rosecrans, thanks to General George H. Thomas, had extricated himself from disaster at Chickamauga Creek, only to find his army caught in a trap at Chattanooga 100 years ago this week.

After the Battle of Chickamauga, much of Rosecrans' Army of the Cumberland—and Rosecrans himself—had streamed in panic and defeat from the battlefield back into the streets of Chattanooga, while Thomas, playing the role of the "Rock of Chickamauga," held back the Confederate tide at Missionary Ridge. The day after the battle—September 21—Rosecrans began regrouping his men as Thomas slowly fell back closer to the city, holding his line and keeping Braxton Bragg's Confederates at bay. Then Rosecrans took stock.

His army still existed, at least. His casualties—16,000 men—were not as numerous as Bragg's 18,000. And he still held Chattanooga, the vital railway center.

What To Do?

But what to do now? Bragg's Confederates were just to the south, along Missionary Ridge, on Lookout Mountain and in the valley between. On the 23d, Bragg occupied the head of Lookout Mountain, whence his men controlled the Tennessee River west of the city—Rosecrans' supply line. Rosecrans was trapped.

Behind the city to the north looped the Tennessee, and beyond that the barren Cumberland Mountains. Unless relief came, Rosecrans' army would starve in Chattanooga. Or it could abandon the vital city and try to beat it across the Cumberlands to the north.

Rosecrans decided to hold on at Chattanooga. He lined his men up—now reduced from 60,000 to 35,000 effectives—and put them to work. A defensive line was drawn, three miles across the southern end of the city ending on each side at the Tennessee River. Rifle pits were dug. Earthen breastworks were erected. Heavy guns were mounted.

Bragg's Troubles

If Rosecrans was in trouble, so was Bragg. Bedford Forrest, Bragg's aggressive cavalry leader, climbed a tree after the battle, saw the Union army's demoralization and urged a Confederate advance. Bragg, watching the burial of his many dead and the pitiful state of his wounded, refused.

Bragg's other top generals became bitter. James Longstreet, who had done more than any other to win at Chickamauga, felt Bragg should be removed for his refusal to take the offensive. Daniel H. Hill agreed. Bragg filed charges against Leonidas Polk, the fighting bishop, for an alleged failure by Polk during the battle, and he quarreled with Forrest, finally removing him as cavalry commander. Bragg was fighting his own generals more than his opposing generals.

Back in Richmond, meanwhile, rejoicing over Bragg's victory was tempered by the fact that Chattanooga still was held by Federals. And in Washington, the Lincoln administration slowly began to realize that Rosecrans' defeat was not all bad. "We were worsted, if at all, only in the fact that we, after the main fighting was over, yielded ground," Lincoln wrote to his wife.

Then Lincoln and his administration turned to the next problem: how to rescue Rosecrans.

Next week: To the rescue.

Appointed Vice Chairman
Dept. of Maryland Commander Michael F. Bonadio, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, announces receipt of notification of the appointment of Weldon Leroy Maddox as Vice Chairman of the VFW National Legislative Committee by Commander-in-Chief Joseph J. Lombardo. Mr. Maddox was the Department Commander in 1957-1958, and a Past National Council member. He is presently serving as the Legislative Chairman for the Department of Maryland. This committee is one of the most important committees in the VFW, and it will have as its task the preparation of a legislative program, based on the convention mandates of Seattle, Washington for presentation to members of Congress by Commander-in-Chief Lombardo.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses The Future Of The Stock Market

BABSON PARK, Mass., September 26 — Investors are always studying with the greatest care those economic factors that seem to shape the trend of the stock market. This is all very well, but now and then I like to point out to my readers that unexpected events are often the most powerful influence. The way our stock market system is set up in our democratic society permits the wild est ups and downs in investment prices when unforeseeable events come like a bolt out of the blue.

Lessons Of History

I can always learn a great deal simply by reviewing the effects of unexpected events on business and the stock market over the past one hundred years or so. Starting at the time of the Civil War, business was relatively stable and promised to climb in a healthy way following the end of the war. Then came President Lincoln's assassination—one of the most unexpected events in our history—and stocks tumbled sharply. The crash was followed by a year of depression. Thereafter, business boomed until the corner on the gold market brought a sudden plunge known to financial men of the time as "Black Friday."

Stocks made a good comeback and investors were feeling generally optimistic about the future when two apparently non-economic events occurred: The Chicago Fire in late 1871 and the great Boston Fire in November 1872. These set the stage for another financial panic. The market was making a recover from this setback when the great banking house of Jay Cooke and Company suddenly failed. The shocking announcement resulted in the first close-down of the leading Stock Exchanges for several weeks, seeding the deep depression that began in 1873 and went on for a number of years.

Still More Unexpected Happenings

A new flood of investment selling was brought about by the sudden shooting of President Garfield on July 2, 1881. Out of this panic came the unsettling failure of the great banking house of Grant and Ward and of the two most important "bulls" of the period, Henry Villard and James R. Keene. As usual, another depression prevailed generally in 1892; then came a shattering blow in May 1893: The failure of the National Cordage Company. This firm was then one of the nation's ten largest, and was considered a real "Blue Chip".

The next year, like a flash of lightning, came the nation's first serious walkout, the Pullman Strike. Pessimism spread across the country, increased still further by a rash of crop failures and mortgage foreclosures. By 1897 conditions were again so bright that forecasts of permanent prosperity were once more being made. Stock splits, large security offerings, and mergers were the order of the day. Then, in 1903, came another unexpected happening: A Supreme Court decision followed a charge of "undigested securities" involving investigation of leading life insurance and transit corporations which were then extremely popular. All these events were truly unexpected. But then came another totally unforeseen occurrence: This time it was the San Francisco earthquake.

The Influence Of Wars

Interference with business by the federal government kept market prices soft in the early 1900's, but things went well after our entrance into World War I until 1920 when stocks lost ground due to very high interest rates. After this situation was corrected, the market went skyrocketing until it hit what were then the all-time highs of 1929. I do not have to elaborate on the depression of the 1930's. Starting in 1938 business began a recovery that continued throughout World War II, but the stock market did not do much until 1942. Then came a long upward climb, with only temporary interruptions.

The reason I give readers an occasional historical review of this sort is so they will never forget that, no matter how sure one may feel about future trends, an unexpected event can throw the situation completely out of whack. Seasoned investors keep this fact in mind at all times.

CAPITOL COMMENT

by Charles "Mac" Mathias
Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

Social Security Amendment Introduced

It has been my feeling for a long time that the limitation on the amount of money a Social Security Beneficiary may earn without reducing his social security payments is an unfair restriction working a hardship on many of our older citizens. It keeps many older people from working, thereby stifling their initiative, and depriving the nation of valuable skills and productivity.

This week I have introduced a bill in the House of Representatives which would remove limitations on outside earnings.

Under the present law, an individual receiving Social Security may earn only $1200 per year in outside income. When he earns more than this amount, his social security benefits are reduced on the basis of $1 for each $2 of annual earnings between $1200 and $1700—and by $1 for each $1 in excess of $1700.

I hope the strong and concerted interest shown by my 17 colleagues who are co-sponsoring the bill to remove these limitations will prompt favorable consideration of the measure at an early date.

Wanted—Oceanographic Lab In Chesapeake

Legislation of vital interest to the entire country and of particular interest to the citizens of Maryland was passed by the House of Representatives on August 5, 1963. This bill (HR 6997) provides for a comprehensive long-range national program in Oceanography the science of the sea.

Calling for an estimated expenditure of 2.3 billion dollars over the next ten years the legislation is, in my opinion, a belated recognition of the importance of the oceans in our national life and welfare.

The recent search for the ill-fated submarine Thresher contrasts how little we know about inner space with our knowledge and spectacular success in atmosphere and outer space sciences.

While the State of Maryland, and other ocean-bound States, have made significant contributions to the sciences of the sea over the years, they have in actuality barely scratched the surface. There is a great need for additional knowledge and for trained personnel—and that need must be filled.

This is why I feel that the time is now at hand to make a strong case for the establishment of a National Oceanographic Laboratory in Chesapeake Bay.

Morton Plan For Assateague
Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton has proposed new legislation concerning "Assateague's Reach For Greatness." The Morton Plan combines private and public development of the island and calls for the establishment of a commission or planning authority composed of representatives from Maryland, Virginia and the Federal Government.

Mr. Morton stated that: "... at Assateague Island the people of Maryland and Virginia together with the State and Federal Government have an unusual opportunity to create a unique vacationland offering a cultural and intellectual experience to the visitors of Assateague."

Two other bills concerning the development of Assateague have been presented to the Congress: the Administration sponsored bill; and the bill co-sponsored by Maryland's Senators Beall and Brewster.

ties is difficult to discover. Many apparently normal children suffer from retarded development simply because they lack the ability to hear properly. Parents, especially mothers, by understanding the most common symptoms are in the best position to detect such impaired hearing. Early detection means that steps can be taken to correct the defect and help bring about normal childhood development.

Although the only sure way to ascertain the seriousness of a hearing loss is by scientific testing, there are early signs of impairment which every mother should look for.

If, for example, the baby responds less readily to her speech or to simple sounds than did her other children at the same age, she will be able to notice the difference. Other indications are:

1. The Baby is inattentive to what is happening around him.
2. He shows no response when his name is spoken.
3. Baby consistently pays no attention to the sound of a spoon being tapped against his feeding bottle.
4. He does not show any response to street noises such as an automobile backfiring, a dog barking or fire sirens.

If a hearing defect is suspected the family doctor or pediatrician should be consulted. He will direct the mother to a competent ear specialist who will give the baby a thorough examination to determine whether or not he is hard-of-hearing.

The chances for helping a baby with a hearing impairment are good. In many cases medical treatment following early discovery of a hearing loss will clear up the difficulty. In instances where medical attention does not cure the impairment it may be recommended that the child use a hearing aid and be given special educational training.

There are a number of groups throughout the country dedicated to helping hard-of-hearing children. Local hearing societies and hearing and speech centers in colleges and universities are continually carrying on better hearing programs. In many cases a part of the assistance they give includes the fitting and use of a hearing aid for those who cannot afford to buy one. This is made possible through the cooperation of many hearing aid manufacturers who contribute aids for this purpose.

America averages 1,300,000 major crimes a year, not counting the way some people change gears. —Asheville (N. C.) Citizen.

1963-64 Wheat Outlook Good

For most of the current 1963-64 year, the wheat outlook is characterized by a good demand and a fairly tight supply, conditions that indicate strong prices, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports in its latest "Wheat Situation."

"However," the report declares, "toward the end of the 1963-64 marketing year the approaching 1964 crop and its much lower price-support rate will have a pronounced effect on the wheat economy. Uncertainty in the long-run outlook stems from the fact that wheat farmers for a number of years have not faced the same conditions and alternatives they now have open to them.

"For the last 10 years, they have operated under a mandatory control program (as approved by growers' referendums) with individual farm acreage allotments and a support price for all production on their allotment.

"Under the 1964 program, effected by last May's wheat referendum, price support will be lower than for many years. Farmers may ignore their allotments and forego price support without the direct financial penalties that were in effect under a marketing quota program. However, they will lose part of their acreage history and any payments they may be receiving under Soil Bank contracts. Any loss of acreage history will be reflected in 1966 acreage allotments.

"The first real measure of the extent of noncompliance with acreage allotments will come when seeding takes place this fall. However, a sharp drop in prices in 1964 is likely since price support for the 1964 crop under present legislation is to be 50 per cent of the July 1964 parity. Based on present parity, this would be about $1.25 per bushel. Price support will be available only for those farmers complying with allotments."

PP&K Contest Set For Sunday, October 13

Frank X. Ligorano, Competition Director for the Emmitsburg Punt, Pass & Kick Competition for grade school boys has warned that only a few days remain in which Emmitsburg area boys can register for the test of football skills which could lead to a Washington, D. C., and Dearborn, Michigan "Tour of Champions." and an appearance at the National Football League Championship game.

"Registrations will close Friday evening, October 11" Mr. Ligorano pointed out, "and none can be accepted any later, since we must draw up our competition lists and get everything ready for the big program on Sunday, October 13.

Headquarters for registration for the Punt, Pass & Kick Competition, open to all grade school boys eight through 11, is at Sperry Ford Sales, Emmitsburg. Entrants must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. There is no charge for registration nor is any special equipment needed. Competitors will vie with others of their age groups in distance and accuracy competitions in the passing, punting, and kicking (using a kicking tee) of footballs. There is no body contact.

Prizes in the Emmitsburg competition include Baltimore Colt warm-up jackets for the top winner in each age group, football helmets for second place winners, and autographed footballs for third place winners. Area winners, determined by comparing scores of all state winners, will receive expense-paid trips for themselves and their fathers and mothers to National Football League games for half-time competition to determine the eight finalists. The National finalists and their parents will receive expense-paid trips to the White House in Washington, D. C., and to the Henry Ford Centennial at Dearborn, Michigan. This will be followed by a trip to the championship game of the National Football League, where the National winner in each age group will be determined by a half-time competition in the crowded stadium.

The Emmitsburg Punt, Pass & Kick Competition is sponsored by Sperry Ford Sales, with the Emmitsburg Lions Club as co-sponsor. The program, in which 431-921 boys competed throughout the country last year, is sponsored nationally by Ford Division of Ford Motor Company and the National Football League.

Bill Introduced For Research Center In County

Congressman Carlton R. Sickles, (D-Md.) recently introduced legislation to provide for the establishment and operation of a new $2,500,000 research center for the Bureau of Mines on the outskirts of Frederick, Maryland. "Analytical research at this center," Congressman Sickles noted, "will make it possible for the Bureau of Mines to keep pace with the increasing materials demands of the Nation's scientific and defense program."

The Sickles Bill, which has the approval of the Department of the Interior and the Bureau of the Budget, authorizes an appropriation of $2,500,000 for building and equipping the necessary structures, Staffing, maintenance and operating costs for the first five years, also covered under the bill, will be an estimated $1 million annually.

Under the terms of the proposed legislation, the Department of the Interior would be authorized to "establish, equip and maintain a research laboratory at Frederick, Maryland to advance the conservation, development, and utilization of minerals by conducting investigations of precise analytical techniques essential to the effective pursuit of metallurgical research and applying newly developed knowledge in the preparation and identification of minerals substances of extraordinary purity and exact composition."

Congressman Sickles noted that the plan and the design of the Frederick site—part of Fort Detrick—as well as the specialized research role of the center had already been authorized two years ago by the 87th Congress.

Congressman Sickles said that the "practical results" of further research in the mineral field will be to "produce metals with a unique strength at extreme temperatures, a heavier impact resistance in frigid cold, an increased ability to sustain repeated and prolonged shocks and loads, and added durability in corrosive and erosive environments."

"The development of the new electronic, nuclear, and metallurgical fields, demands extremely pure materials," Congressman Sickles said, "and the methods for producing and testing such materials require analytical sensitivities much more exact than those now obtainable by conventional procedures."

"The new center will act as a stimulus for Government and private research in this critical area," Congressman Sickles said, "and will help America to maintain its pre-eminent position with respect to the production and use of our minerals."

Take care how thou offendest men raised from low conditions. —Thomas Fuller.

Family Troublemaker

The average American family may be playing "ping-pong" with its health and never know it!

According to experts on communicable diseases, staphylococcal infections, a growing threat to public health, can be passed back and forth between family members for years before anyone realizes that recurring family illnesses have a common source.

Bacteria causing a baby's impetigo may reveal themselves weeks later as a boil on Father's arm. Abscesses on Mother's skin may be connected with sister and brother's eye infections. Even osteomyelitis and pneumonia can occur while the harassed family suffers the pain and financial exhaustion such infections create.

The implications for potential damage, even death in some cases, are great considering that staphylococci are commonly carried by more than half the world's population in nasal passages and on skin. The bacteria's growing resistance to antibiotics and their easy dissemination by dust and air, contaminating everything they touch, contribute further to the extensive harm of staphylococci.

Family protection against "staph" infections and general daily resistance to skin bacteria are most easily accomplished by frequent washing of the hands with a germicidal soap that contains hexachlorophene. This chemical, extremely effective in inhibiting the growth of certain bacteria, continues to reduce the number of microorganisms with repeated use.

To specifically explore family staphylococcal infections, the John Slade Ely Center for Health Education Research, a non-profit organization in New Haven, Conn., studied families whose recurring health problems were due to "staph." The study was undertaken to develop a program of education on "staph" for afflicted families to help them prevent future infections. One family participating in the study was instructed to use Dial, a low-cost hexachlorophene soap.

Through this research, the center obtained an accurate picture of "staph" families and the careless habits that can lead to continuous reinfection within family groups. Practices such as sharing the same hand and bath towels when one person is infected keep the vicious circle going.

Recommended precautions, in addition to frequent handwashing with a hexachlorophene soap, include the use of individual towels and washcloths for each family member, showers instead of tub baths, disinfection of bathroom fixtures and the laundry of infected persons, and reasonable isolation of infected family members.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Why Ensilage A Lot Of Water?

With the development of gas-tight silos and increased mechanization on farms, there is a definite trend toward a lower moisture content of silage. It seems the cattle prefer it too.

Instead of unwilted grass silage with 75 to 80 percent moisture, or with a hay crop wilted to 70 percent, we now for the most part have low moisture grass silage with only 40 to 55 percent moisture.

This can be prepared successfully not only in gas-tight silos but also in open silos. This is especially true now that our larger farms have silos correspondingly larger. The new silos are likely to be around 24 by 60 feet in dimension. These pack the material better and make low-moisture silage more dependably satisfactory.

What we call high-moisture ear corn or shelled corn silage is in reality an extremely low-moisture silage of 25 to 30 percent moisture. It is "high-moisture" merely by comparison with dry corn in a crib or granary.

For ensiling the whole corn plant we used to recommend that it be started when the kernels on the ear were just beginning to dent. At such a time the most carotene was preserved consistent with over-all feed value. But such silage would have 72 or 73 percent moisture and would "weep" in anything but a low silo.

Corn is a greatly modified grass crop and differs from most grasses in that it stores feed value up to a late stage of maturity, when the kernels on the ear are completely dented and when all but the bottom leaf or two are still green.

Hybrid corn retains its moisture in the stalk much later than did the old open-pollinated corn. But we would like to have moisture down to 70 percent or less by delaying the ensiling process beyond what we used to, again having in mind modern-sized large silos.

With lower-moisture grass or sorghum or corn silage it is more important that the forage be cut into short lengths, with the cutter set for a one-quarter, at most a three-eighth inch cut, giving a clean cut. This demands that the knives of the ensilage cutter be sharp and nicely adjusted to the shear plate.

Such silage is easier on the silo, packs better for good preservation, is more easily handled by unloading and feeding machinery. Also it proves to be less subject to freezing, and is more appetizing to cattle and sheep.

Question: Have investigators at Wisconsin modified their view as to the cause of copper poisoning in sheep from the consumption of free choice trace mineral salt?

Answer: Their latest summary no longer refers to "free choice" consumption of T.M. salt as responsible, but explains that added soybean oil meal and molasses made trace mineralized salt so palatable that abnormal amounts were consumed and that a few sheep died. They conclude: "Trace mineralized salt is still an essential part of a sheep feeding program."

Expect great things from Chevrolet again-for '64

Now...Jet-smooth Luxury '64 CHEVROLET

'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan—one of 15 Jet-smooth luxury Chevrolets.

Chevrolet was luxurious before, but you should see it now. With smart new styling, the '64 Chevrolet looks even longer (but isn't). There's even a whole new series this year—the Impala Super Sports—with front bucket seats as standard equipment. (The new Impalas and Bel Airs are more luxurious, too. Even the lowest priced Biscaynes have new foam-cushioned seats front and rear and are fully carpeted.) Of course, you expect more than just luxury from Chevrolet. A choice of 16 power teams, for instance—a 6 and six V8's up to 425 hp (optional at extra cost). And quieter transmissions. Jet-smooth ride with Full Coil suspension. Flush-and-dry rocker panels, Delcotron generator, self-adjusting brakes and other low-keep features. If you've ever wondered how luxurious Chevrolet could get—with all the extra-cost options there are to choose from—that seems to be entirely up to you.

Take your first look at the first CHEVELLE!

CHEVELLE! by Chevrolet

New Chevelle Malibu Super Sport Coupe—one of 11 models in three great series.

You've never seen anything like this totally new line of cars before. Chevelle is new in everything but Chevrolet quality. Chevelle is a good foot shorter than the big cars, so it parks easily. Yet the interior dimensions of its Body by Fisher provide a generous amount of head, leg and shoulder room. (Chevelle's trunk is big and roomy, too.) The ride is surprisingly smooth with a rugged coil spring at all four wheels. And not so surprisingly for Chevrolet, the new Chevelle offers a choice of engines ranging from an economical, 120-hp 6 to a 220-hp V8 (optional at extra cost). Choose the Chevelle you like best from the three series—the Malibu Super Sport, the Malibu and the 300 Series, eleven models in all—at your Chevrolet dealer's. (Like this good-looking Malibu Super Sport, maybe?)

Young Farmers Visit Modern Farms

Modern methods being used in poultry and swine raising and in dairy farming were inspected Tuesday evening by the Gettysburg Young Farmers' Association on a three-farm tour. Twenty-two persons made the trip.

The farms visited were those of Wilbur Waybright, Paul Waybright and the Mason and Dixon dairy farms, all in the Natural Dam area.

The group went to the Wilbur Waybright farm first where they inspected a two-story, insulated, windowless poultry house measuring 40x200 feet that is under construction. It will house 12,000 birds and will make use of self-feeders and bulk feed storage. They also observed swine production operations on the same farm where modern feeding facilities are in use.

Then the touring group went to the Paul Waybright property where they saw a new milking parlor that went into operation this summer where six cows are milked at one time while six more are being prepared for milking. Bulk milk storage, bulk feed bins and automatic feeding of measured amounts of feed to each cow are part of the equipment there. The milking parlor is radiant-heated.

At the Mason and Dixon farms, the visitors saw the new loose housing facilities capable of handling 100 cows, a bulk grain drying operation that can handle 12,000 bushels of ear corn at one time, the dairy plant where the milk is processed and flash pasteurized.

Washing and sterilizing equipment cleans bottles and other glassware in seven minutes. They also inspected the bulk ice cream making plant.

Softballers Will Hold Banquet

Frank's Tavern, regular season titlists, won the playoffs of the Emmitsburg Softball League Sunday afternoon by downing The Palms in a doubleheader by scores of 6-2 and 9-1. Frank Gebhart, who pitched both victories for the champs, set the first 19 batters in a row down in the second half of the twin bill.

This marked the end of the first year for the league which proved very successful. It has been announced that a party for members of Frank's Tavern Softball team and members of last year's bowling teams sponsored by Frank's Tavern on Thursday, October 3, beginning at 7 p.m. at Frank's Tavern.

SPORTS AFIELD By Ted Kestm

Lack of condition, in either sportsman or dog, can spoil any hunting trip. Hunting is truly a physical activity, and when the flesh is weak, the willingness of the spirit can seldom overcome this handicap and turn drudgery into pleasure. This is a lesson learned by many, many sportsmen each year. The solution to this is: don't go unless you're in shape, and don't ask your dog to do an end-of-the-season job on opening day until you've properly conditioned him.

Each individual dog may have to be handled in a slightly different manner—added work for this one, more rest for that one. The professional studies his charges carefully and acts accordingly. This dog may be an eager eater and will put on weight quickly. This one may have to be coaxed to eat his full share. The studious amateur owner will work out his own system. The trouble is that the average sporting-dog owner usually feeds all of his dogs the same amount of food and gives each the same amount of work. And seldom brings all of them up to their full physical potentialities.

Some hound owners try to get their hounds in good condition by allowing them freedom to roam the countryside. This is seldom satisfactory, according to Henry P. Davis, Sporting Dogs Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. Some will run trails until they are paper-thin. Others will take it easy and develop the habit of loafing. It may be almost necessary for the fox hunter to give each hound the same amount of work, but if he is wise, he will carefully supervise the feeding of each hound and see that he gets the proper amount of nourishment and no more. Fox hunting is probably the most physically demanding effort among sporting dogs. Wherever the trails lead, the hound must go. The nature of the terrain almost always slows him down, and he does not travel with the speed of the searching bird dog. But how many bird dogs can go six, eight, ten hours at a hunting or trailing pace?

"A lean dog for a long race" is an old saying that is often a good guide line, but it isn't infallible. Starvation or underfeeding certainly will not get the job done. The dog that can usually turn in the best hunting performance is the one that has, through regular and proper exercise, been brought to a "lean" condition by turning his excess fat into good, hard muscles.

Lions Club

Names Secretary

Eighteen members were in attendance at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday evening at the Mt. Manor Restaurant, President C. Arthur Elder presiding. President Elder announced that Eugene G. Sappington had been appointed as secretary to the club. One request for eyeglasses was received and acted upon favorably. Delegates to an advisory board meeting held Tuesday night in Yellow Springs were appointed.

The president announced that the club would unite with the Thurmont Lions Club this fall for the observance of the two clubs' Charter and Ladies' Night. The affair will be held at Fitzgerald's Shramrock Restaurant south of Emmitsburg on Monday evening, October 28. Admission to the affair will be $3.50 per person. Music for dancing will be furnished by the Dick Harp Orchestra from Frederick. All members were urged to have their reservations in by October 14.

It was announced that the annual Hospitality Night would be held at the Venice Motel, Hagersstown, on Saturday, October 26 starting at 7 o'clock. A number of local Lions plan to attend the affair.

Messrs. Thomas and Kenneth VanBrakle have returned from Camp Louise and are spending some time at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence VanBrakle.
