The Town's long, hard battle to retain the present status of its Public High School is rapidly drawing to a climax it was learned this week. After several years of struggling, efforts are now being made to draw the battle to a head and resolve the matter once and for all. The local Jaycees and the Town Council, leading the crusade to prevent a consolidation of the local school with that of Thurmont in the latter town, revealed this week that lawyers had been engaged to continue waging the battle. A Baltimore lawyer, one who won the consolidation case for Taneytown several years ago, was in town last week and consulted with Jaycee members and the Council and it has been learned that the legal representatives are seeking a meeting with the Frederick County School Board in the near future to discuss the matter. Contributions have been coming into this newspaper at a steady pace but much more money is needed and anticipated. Those interested in the cause are urged to send in their contribution immediately. Should an injunction be necessary additional legal expenses will be incurred and must be met. The lawyers have been gathering facts and figures for several weeks now and some concrete action is in the offing. It is believed that the School Board has not yet purchased the Staub land in Thurmont for the new school but has obtained an option on the ground. At a recent meeting of the Board some mention as to obtaining a possible site for a school in the future for Emmitsburg was made, but the matter at this time is very vague and meaningless. Ross V. Smith, Thurmont member of the School Board and whose term expires in May, has revealed his intentions to again run for the position which is being sought by Dr. John J. Dillon Jr., Dean of English at Mt. St. Mary's College. There are a number of other county residents interested in the office but the real battle for the appointment is expected to be between Smith and Dillon.

It is amazing the gullibility of some of our local citizenry. Almost every year a battery of magazine salesmen lands in Town and in a few short hours takes several hundred dollars out of the community. What they do with their money is anyone's guess but almost as fast as they "sell" someone they dash into the next store and try to cash the check, apparently afraid the "victim" will stop payment on the draft. The crew lands in Town, obtains a $5 permit and then swiftly begins knocking on doors. The members are well-trained and have a canned sales "pitch" which a great number of housewives can't seem to resist. They can buy some magazines from a local dealer or subscribe to them by mail far cheaper than paying these salesmen's commission, but they just don't stop to think. In about two hours a great number of citizens has been "fleeced" and begin to complain. It happens every year but the public continues to be apathetic about it and the gullibility is ever present. . . . See you next year, suckers! A person doesn't mind if some local organization is going to realize a little profit or good from such a transaction, but these totally unsponsored pseudo salesmen taking the money out of town is more than we, or local merchants, can bear.

The draw prize was won by Loretta Hardman and Catherine Kelly's name was called for the door prize, but she was not present. Following the business meeting, the ladies joined the men of the Post for refreshments.

Local Babies Will Be Photographed This Saturday

Saturday, March 14, is the big day for the picture taking of your youngsters!

The Emmitsburg Chronicle is having pictures taken of all children who are brought by their parents or other guardian, to the VFW Annex between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., absolutely free of charge!

The Chronicle wants a picture of your child to print in its forthcoming feature, "Citizens of Tomorrow," a series of photographic studies of local children. Children who have been photographed for this feature in previous years are especially invited to return, so that we may see how they have changed. The more we get the better the feature will be, so the cooperation of the mothers and fathers is urged.

It often seems to parents that children are little one minute and are grown up the next, so fast does a child's growing stage pass. Here is a splendid opportunity to catch a likeness of your child or children at the present stage for the pleasure you will get out of it in future years and for the pleasure you will enjoy in seeing it in print in your own local newspaper. You will want to clip it from your newspaper and preserve it for the youngster when he or she matures.

There is absolutely no charge or obligation for taking the pictures. Parents don't even have to be a subscriber to the Chronicle, nor even a reader. You do not have to purchase pictures, either, though you may obtain additional prints by arranging direct with the studio representative if you want them. This is entirely up to you! No appointment is necessary and there is no age limit.

Should you care to make an appointment, to avoid any possibility of waiting in line, you may call HI 7-3731 between now and Saturday. You may come at any time during studio hours. Photography will be handled by the Danville, New York office of the Woltz Studios of Des Moines.

Have you seen the window displays of the various troops? They are in the Emmitsburg Pharmacy, the Public Library, the Town Office, Orendorff's Store, and Matthew's Gas Company. Here you will learn of many phases of Scouting. Stop by and see them.

TOOR SHOE CO. EXPANSION CONTINUES

Freeman-Toor Corporation recently acquired all the shares of Chesapeake Shoe Mfg. Co. of Waynesboro, Pa., manufacturers of boys' and girls' Goodyear welts and injection-molded shoes. Chesapeake has been established for 42 years in shoe manufacturing.

H. O. Toor, president of Freeman-Toor Corporation, announced that Chesapeake will continue with its present staff and will continue to make the same types of shoes for the same customers it has been serving over the years. Mr. E. (Sonny) Gaynor will continue with Chesapeake in charge of sales.

The acquisition of Chesapeake Shoe Mfg. Co. is in line with the growth program of Freeman-Toor Corporation. Last year, their factory at Emmitsburg, Md. was doubled in size and capacity. Currently, their Hanover factory is undergoing the same enlargement, and is expected to be completed by April 1. Freeman-Toor also operates factories in Reading, Annville and Berville, Pennsylvania.

In addition to the above, Freeman-Toor Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Freeman-Toor Corporation, operates five factories in Beloit, Wisconsin, and Dixon, Illinois, as well as 115 retail men's shoe departments throughout the country.

Plans are under way for increased capacity of the Waynesboro factory.

While there are no other acquisitions by Freeman-Toor Corporation to be announced at this time, it is the policy of the company to expand, and other acquisitions are being investigated.

Five assistance calls were handled since the last meeting Fire Chief Sterling H. White reported at the regular monthly meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. held Tuesday evening in the Fire Hall, President John S. Hollinger presiding.

Shorb and Weller Brothers for past favors to the company. One new member, Robert P. Rigby, was voted into the organization as an active member. A discussion was held concerning the building fund drive and it was announced that both the VFW and American Legion had pledged monetary grants. The group voted to engage the services of a surveyor to plot the lot adjacent the present Fire Hall and the building fund committee was asked to prepare a report for presentation at the next meeting.

Plans are being made for the annual financial drive of the company and the following committee was named: Guy R. McLaughlin and John J. Hollinger, co-chairman, assisted by John S. Hollinger, George R. Danner, Charles F. Stouter, Patrick Zimmerman, Daniel J. Kaas and Michael Boyle.

Church To Show Interesting Film

The program will also include a number by the Church Holland Hand Bell Choir under the direction of Mr. Samuel Hays, and singing led by Mr. William R. Slemmer, Jr., with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Mary Rosensteel. Mrs. Homer Tyler is chairman of the refreshment committee.

Town Receives Bids On Water System Work

Mayor Ralph F. Ireland announced this week that sealed bids from seven construction firms were opened Monday night in the Town Office. The bids were relative to the installation of a concrete filtration tank and a steel reservoir to be added to the new water system now being installed by the Town.

Low bidder was the Waynesboro Construction Co. which placed a bid of $127,370 for the filtration plant and $122,370 for the steel reservoir tank. Highest bid was presented by Allied Contractors, Baltimore, who quoted $168,258 for the filtration plant and $154,264 for the steel tank. Town Engineer St. Clair Maxwell had estimated the cost at around $127,000.

Contracting companies and their bids were as follows:

Exco Construction Co., Baltimore, $159,650 and $145,650; Mechanical Utilities Corp., Baltimore, $144,187 and $132,330; Engineering Corp., Baltimore, $141,900 and $132,700; J. B. Ferguson, Hagerstown, $158,700 and $142,900; Maitland Brothers, Littlestown, $148,455 and $139,414; Waynesboro Construction, $127,370 and $122,370; Allied Contractors, Baltimore, $168,258 and $154,264.

The bidding showed variation between the highest and lowest of $40,000 on the filtration plant to $31,894 for the steel reservoir.

The Town Council is studying the bids and the contract will be awarded in the near future. All members of the Town Council, representatives of the bidding concerns, Town Engineer Maxwell and several interested citizens were present at the bid openings.

Special Voter Registration Now In Progress

Special voter registration hours will be held on Friday nights and Saturday mornings during the next two months in an effort to "get out the voters" for the primary election, the Board of Election Supervisors have announced.

The election board, which has moved to offices in Winchester Hall, will begin the special registration hours Friday evening and continue through Saturday morning, April 18. Friday night registration will be from 6 to 9 p.m. every week through April 17. The Saturday morning hours will be from 9 a.m. to noon on April 4, 11 and 18.

New offices of the Board are located in the basement of Winchester Hall in the wing nearest the city parking lot. Registrars are Mrs. Austin Powell and James Messersmith.

The primary election would normally be held May 19 but special legislation has been introduced to have the primary on June 16 in an effort to give the state lawmakers an opportunity to adjust the district boundaries.

In addition to the special registration hours being added, the election officials will have a voting machine set up in the registration office to demonstrate to new voters just how the machine functions.

Because of the special registration hours being provided to give everyone a chance to register, there will be no special registration boards set up at the various precincts in the county.

G. Horton Peace, chairman of the Board, and Mrs. Helen Musso and Donald C. Whitworth, have completed preparations on the election board office fiscal year budget to be presented to the County Commissioners.

The board also announced that the County Commissioners have given them permission to issue voter identification cards to persons registered. These cards will be available soon at the registration office. The cards will include the voter's name, precinct number and district location.

County Taxpayers Pay Over Million

Frederick County residents paid more than $1.5 million in Maryland income tax for the 1962 tax year, according to the annual report of the Comptroller of the Treasury.

1962 is the last year on which income tax records are ready. Persons are now filing reports on 1963 income.

The figure was $1,538,269 for the year, and was paid by 22,094 persons and families. Included in this figure are 5,604 returns on which no tax was paid.

The average per return including the "no tax paid" figure was $69.62. On the balance of those paying tax, the average amounted to $93.28.

The state tax was collected at the rate of three per cent on earned income, and five per cent on unearned income. The legislature recently raised the rate on earned income to four per cent, effective next January 1.

Income of Frederick County residents is somewhat below the state average, with average per return on the "no tax paid" exclusion basis of $1217.17 for the statewide figures.

According to the breakdown, Frederick County has two residents with an indicated income of $60,000 or more. The report shows that two persons from the county paid more than $2,000 income tax. A total of 36 persons paid state tax of between $1,000 and $2,000, the report shows.

There are more wealthy persons in all the counties surrounding Frederick, according to a comparison of county totals.

Bookseller Expands Business

Duane Johnson, Bookseller to Town & Gown, with main offices at 41-R East Railroad St., Gettysburg, announces the purchase of the entire stock, equipment, and mailing list of the late E. W. Em-bleton, Pittsburgh bookseller, for an undisclosed amount. Mr. Embleton was a specialist in Americana, and in Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania localiana, in addition to being an importer and exporter of new books, and serving as jobbing agent for several of the Pittsburgh area schools. His business originated in London in 1897 where he was associated with Wilson's Books and was resumed when he relocated in this country in this country around 1920. His retail store in the East Liberty section of Pittsburgh at 2409 Penn Avenue was one of the major book suppliers for that area until 1942, when a real estate transfer forced him to change his operations to mail order from his home at 27 Hodgson Avenue. He was a member of the ABA and the ABAA, and was well known in the antiquarian book trade.

The stock is being removed to Mr. Johnson's warehouse at 41-R East Railroad Street, and will soon be available in his retail stores in Gettysburg, Carlisle, and Harrisburg. The Embleton mailing list will complement the service already available in used mysteries by mail, acquired last August from "Chills & Thrills" of Baltimore.

Mr. Johnson's retail store in Gettysburg is located at 29 Carlisle St.

100 YEARS AGO

GRANT ARRIVES IN EAST, TAKES OVER ARMIES

By Lon K. Savage

Ulysses S. Grant, summoned to Washington to take command of all Federal armies in the Civil War, arrived in the nation's capital 100 years ago this week and immediately showed the stuff of which he was made.

Within the first days of his arrival, he showed his full character—his humility, his modesty and, above all, his ability to go directly to work on the task at hand with little waste of time.

When he arrived in the capital city, it was like the arrival of any nondescript army officer. With little fuss, he went to his hotel and asked for a room.

The hotel clerk eyed the unprepossessing figure before him and said, "I have nothing but a room on the top floor." "Very well, that will do," said Grant. And he registered his name.

The clerk glanced at the name; his eyes bulged, and he nearly fell across the counter in trying to arrange the best room his hotel had for Grant.

Meets Lincoln

Soon, Grant was en route to the White House, and he made the visit with nonchalance, wearing a rather seedy uniform and pulling on a cigar. It so happened, President and Mrs. Lincoln were holding their weekly reception when Grant arrived.

Word of Grant's coming preceded his arrival, and when he stepped into the White House, a hush fell, and the crowd parted as the man of the hour—the hero of Shiloh, Vicksburg and Chattanooga—approached the President of the United States.

For the first time in their lives, the two men shook hands, and Lincoln said, "I'm glad to see you, general."

Then, as the two entered the East Room, the crowd burst out with cheers. Grant, in what he later described as a hotter spot than any he'd had in battle, soon found himself bowing, waving and strolling through the White House, Mrs. Lincoln on his arm, beads of perspiration glistening on his brow.

Receives Commission

Next day, March 9, President Lincoln formally presented Grant with his commission in a short ceremony at the White House, and the following day, Grant went to work.

Crowds all over Washington tried to see him, and, invitations came in from all directions. But Grant spent his time touring the city and inspecting fortifications, and on the 10th, he left Washington for the headquarters of the Army of the Potomac at Brandy Station in Virginia.

There, he met General George Gordon Meade; Meade offered to relinquish his position to any man Grant would name, and Grant, pleased with Meade's spirit of cooperation, assured Meade that no such change was contemplated. He returned to Washington.

On March 12, orders were published announcing Grant's assumption of command, but Grant was nowhere to be seen in Washington. On the night of the 11th, he had taken a train for the West, where he planned to set things straight once and for all before tackling the Confederates in Virginia.

Next week: Sherman gets Grant's old job.

Our Political Economy

President Johnson's messages to the nation and most of his proposals have reflected good intents and purposes. The apparent blamelessness of his proposals is of course not unrelated to the realities in the game of politics. For example, the rug is seemingly jerked from under his opposition by all those headlines on the new wave of federal thrift. Particularly, this new economy-mindedness of the administration reaches toward popular feeling. Who can be against saving the money of the taxpayers? And, simultaneously, who can be against spending it to eliminate poverty?

Well, that is the way it looks. The headlines are captured. Estimates of expenditures (not actual spending) have received a terrible slashing, which is still a far different matter from balancing the budget. The cuts that so easily make good impressions are really only paper projections that may never become realities. These are promises; we await with more interest the performance. Reduction of real expenses is worthy of the widest public support, and we find it hard to reject even the promise of economy. We only remember that promises like this have been few, but performances have been rare. What Of Policies?

There is plenty of room for question, however, whether these promises ever can come to fruition under the present policies. After all, the $97.9 billion budget estimate (final figures won't be available until after the election) is still some $16 billion more than was spent five years ago. One wonders if it is really a program of frugality. If the federal government must continue to be all things to all men, the outflow of resources will be continuous. We would like to see promises, not of Utopia or even deficit cuts, but no deficits at all and balanced budgets. This is essential to the long range welfare of the nation.

The federal government has become the very symbol of big spending. This image needs to be recast before frugality and economy can truly become either the administration's boast or its accomplishment. We have mentioned the President's "war on poverty." These pronouncements are enough to cause any emotional but uninformed humanitarian to climb aboard. But the reality ahead will be billions in spending, unbalanced budgets, and soaring national debt. The Do-All Schemes

The poverty elimination programs of Mr. Johnson once again, as in the 1930's, seek to impress the public with the all-powerful, curative and remedial virtues of the strong central government. It is as if nothing had ever been accomplished in this area except for the alphabet agencies of Washington. The assumption is that only the billions of a borrowing government can bring housing, jobs, health, education—and eliminate poverty. These political-do-all schemes work no better in the U. S. than socialist planning in other countries.

Once it was "one-third" of the nation ill-clothed, ill-housed and ill-fed." Now it is "war on poverty." If Congress can be persuaded to appropriate the money (borrowed), everyone can join the battle. But from now until next November, the "poor" public, which may have 20 to 30 million votes in it depending on how you measure the poor voter, will be the subject of discussion and debate. We just hope he (the voter) comes out of it all as well off as he is now. Preserve Enterprise

Without doubt, the poor are with us. The unfortunate and needy must be helped, a thing most Americans want to do gladly. But the record of past federal efforts along this line, in depression days or even more recently in Appalachia, raises doubts whether the government can win this war. The British went all-out to build the welfare state in the postwar years, but they nearly wrecked their economy without achieving the Utopia they sought.

A dramatic fact—not being shouted in Washington lately—is that the percentage of our family incomes below $3,000 has dwindled steadily, from about 35 per cent in 1951 to 20 per cent today. Families with incomes of $10,000 and above have risen steadily, too. We must not forget that this nation of people, under a Constitution that provides the necessary freedoms and encourages the enterpriser to dream and dare, has already come closer to conquering poverty than any people in the history of the world has ever done. We do not need to fall back on paternalistic, socialist, or communistic "solutions" that eliminate the freedoms but furnish the promises for the food, clothing, and housing that never come.

Statistics are no substitute for Judgment.—Henry Clay.

Farmers Study

Freight Rates

"Pocketbills of farmers and consumers may feel the advantage of more competitive rail rates for transporting farm products," according to A. Kenneth Miller, executive secretary of Maryland Farm Bureau.

New legislation (H.R. 9903) relating to regulation of transportation rates is now ready for the floor of the House, having been approved by the Commerce Committee.

A vital section of the bill provides that the Interstate Commerce Commission shall have no authority to modify rates for transporting farm products by railroad, truck, water carrier or freight forwarded, so long as the rates are filed within 30 days.

"Competition will serve a better purpose than rate regulation," declared Miller, "as efficiency and lower costs will be based on to farmers and consumers."

The farm leader noted that railroads are unfairly regulated at present, while the rates for water and truck transportation of farm products are not regulated.

Farm Bureau, a spokesman for the nation's farmers, is supporting this new transportation legislation, with a minor revision to permit limited ICC authority in respect to long distance farm freight movements where one or two railroads do not have enough competition to adequately insure that rates will not be excessive or discriminatory.

Each $1 CARE Food Crusade package sent by Americans contains 18 to 50 pounds of food for the hungry in other lands.

TRAFFIC JAM

Jam with the breakfast toast is delightful, but a traffic jam—that's another matter. Paul E. Burke, Executive Director of The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, today commented on the growing traffic problem.

"During the years right after World War II we had a population boom. Babies born then have become our young drivers today," he said.

"Older adults are enjoying longer life spans: Put us all together and you've got quite a crowd," he added.

The safety spokesman said there are enough motor vehicles in the State to carry all our population on wheels at one time.

"Small wonder that accelerated highway building can barely provide breathing room for all the drivers, plus their passengers, who spend a part of every day in essential or pleasure travel," Burke commented. "Particularly, during inclement weather it's wise to Plan Ahead," he pointed out. "Avoid rush-hour peak traffic if you possibly can."

"Heavy rain, fog or sleet reduce the driver's visibility, forcing him to reduce speed," he said. "That's when live rubber wiper blades and adequate arm pressure are worth their weight in gold."

"The driver who maintains his vehicle in tip-top shape, allows ample time for travel, and exercises good judgment at the wheel should escape the dangers," he concluded.

Read John 5:5-15.
The Father hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son: in whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins. (Colossians 1:13-14.)
I once watched a blacksmith weld a broken axle on a toy wagon. He took the torch, and with it fused the alloy and the axle together. Having finished, he stepped back and said, "There it is, kid, made whole again. Maybe it isn't as smooth and pretty

Eye Care Stressed By Expert

The tendency to fall asleep while reading or watching TV may not be due to the late hour, it could be eye fatigue, according to Dr. Bernard A. Saltysiak, Parkville, president of the Maryland Optometric Association.

Dr. Saltysiak, announcing the 37th consecutive observance of "National Save Your Vision Week," this week, said, "Naturally, repeated occurrences may be due to a variety of causes, but too many people take eye fatigue for granted."

"Falling asleep is not the only symptom of this fatigue. Skipping lines, losing your place, headaches, watery eyes—one or all of these can mean eyes need assistance."

as before, but it's twice as strong." Lives become broken when they wander from the will of God and fall into sin. These broken lives can be made whole again when welded with true repentance and the redeeming power of Christ. These lives may bear the scars, yet they are made strong in faith and for service in God's kingdom. Through God's strength, the most sordid and broken life can be remolded to His holy will. Lives made whole receive their strength from God. He uses redeemed persons in the great task of spreading and strengthening His kingdom.

Prayer
Our Father, grant us faith to believe that our broken and sinful lives can be made whole and useful through Thy Son's redemptive power. Renew us for service in Thy kingdom and for the Master's sake. In His name we pray. Amen.

Thought For The Day
Through Christ all things are possible, even the forgiveness of sins.

tance." Dr. Saltysiak pointed out that our eyes are not as young as they used to be and like every part of the body, changes take place each year. By 40, the eyes don't adjust so rapidly. Light changes, switching focus quickly, and adjusting from close work to long distances—these all tend to strain the eyes.

The lens of the eye, with advancing age, becomes less elastic. The eye loses some of its flexibility and adapts for distance viewing, suddenly there is a "need for glasses."

Today, the ability to see adequately at close range is needed to make a living. And what about the vision you need on the job, to say nothing of sports and recreational hobbies? Increasing leisure time means additional demands on your vision. Therefore, said Dr. Saltysiak, the group's 1964 slogan, "Get More Out of Life With Good Vision" is for everyone.

ALL ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

Helping Baby Speak
By Doris Y. Genereux
Speech Clinician
Hitchcock Medical Center
Hanover, New Hampshire
During baby's early months, it is important that he be allowed to experiment with sound. This is baby's per-linguistic stage when his expressions are self-taught. He learns to develop all the muscles later used in speech. He learns to swallow, coo, burp, cry and breathe. He discovers tone, inflection and rhythm.
When baby is between the ages of seven and nine months, he reaches the linguistic stage in his speech development. At this stage baby usually is ready to learn a language, to associate sound with objects, person and concept. It is at this stage that parents can play an important role in baby's speech development.

As baby reaches the linguistic stage, mother moves from her passive role to an extremely active one. Her first contribution is perhaps an unconscious one. She responds warmly when baby uses syllables such as "ma ma" and "da da" which are meaningful to her. As the child associates pleasurable sounds with specific persons and objects, he begins to realize two things: 1) that sounds bring pleasure to other people who hear them; 2) through sounds, he can get the things he wants.

It is here where our Atomic Age society can fall the child. Fifty years ago, or ever 25, families grew up as a unit with parent, children and, perhaps, relatives spending a good deal of the time under the same roof. There was plenty of opportunity for verbal communication. A baby could absorb as much speech as his capabilities would allow.

Today, father rarely sees his child because he rises early to get to work and returns home after baby's bedtime. Mother has so much outside the home competing for her attention that without realizing it she is apt to cater only to the physical needs of the child and neglect the emotional ones.

The wise mother, who understands the important role she plays in baby's speech development, consciously intervenes and talks a great deal to baby as the child approaches the linguistic stage. Not only does she repeat words after baby, but she talks to baby in simple sentences using the words that baby already associates with persons and objects, such words as sleep, cry, bed, kiss, milk, brother, sister, laugh and blanket.

BABSON

Writes ..

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Cuba
BABSON PARK, Mass., Mar. 12, 1964—As I am dictating this column only about 350 miles from Cuba, I cannot get the problem off my mind. The only time that I ever saw Castro was after he overthrew Batista and was given a big reception in New York, with an honor guard marching along Broadway and a ticker tape demonstration. As I remember, he was later invited and accepted an opportunity to speak at Harvard University. Therefore I cannot forget that this was the same Castro who is now causing us so much trouble in Cuba.

Has Castro Changed?
As I look back upon the former years, I do not remember that Castro talked Communism or had begun to take over any property in Cuba, especially plantations owned by United States companies. Since then, he has been taking over all properties in Cuba regardless of who owned them; this applies to the city property in Havana as well. Now the question is: Has Castro changed and become thoroughly Communist, or has he simply fooled us from the start?

My impression is that Castro was not truly a Communist when he was cheered in New York, but that he found Communism was the only means whereby he could control Cuba. Therefore, he turned Communist and took over all the property which he needed to carry out his plans. Personally, I feel that that was the time President Kennedy should have stepped into the picture; it seems to me we made a great mistake then.

What About Russia?
When Khrushchev saw what was taking place in Cuba he sent one of his top men to visit Castro. This official representative of Russia spent two or three months with Castro and finally convinced him that he had gone so far it was necessary to adopt a purely Communist Government, similar to what existed in Russia. Here again, President Kennedy had an opportunity to argue with Castro. Meanwhile, Khrushchev saw his opportunity and shipped technicians, soldiers, and missiles into Cuba. This was really the time that our worst troubles began.

Russia's move was criticized so violently by the press of the United States and by members of both political parties that Russia agreed to withdraw all missiles which could reach our large cities. Whether this has yet been done completely, no one actually knows. We are dependent in large part on what travelers tell us, as our aerial photographers sometimes get shot down. Hence, we do not know whether all long-range Russian missiles have been withdrawn, or not.

What About Blockades?

These were attempted by the United States and were successful for a short time only. Soon Canada, England, and other countries decided it was to their advantage to sell goods to Castro and deliver them in their own ships—which, under international law, our ships could not hold up in a blockade when no war had been declared. This is the condition today.

Meantime — notwithstanding the damaging hurricane—Cuba is harvesting a fine crop of sugar, which she is able to sell at a high price. This enables Castro to buy a fleet of buses, much needed machinery, as well as wheat and other commodities—giving long-term notes in exchange. Some nations guarantee these notes payable on installments over a ten-year period. Thus, with Russia's help and that of other nations hungry for trade, Castro appears to be in good shape at present.

What About The Future?

All the above has made Castro pretty cocky, resulting in his cutting the supply of fresh water from our base at Guantanamo. Many Americans, under the lead of Republicans, are demanding that we take aggressive action. President Johnson, however, hopes that his campaign for election can be based upon "peace and prosperity". The American public is thoroughly provoked with Castro, but they do not want to risk war with Cuba.

This is bound to be a hot question, politically. When we know who the Republican candidate will be, I will write another column on Cuba. I hope readers will remember that we believe Cuba has enough long-range missiles sowed away in her hills to annihilate not only any Florida city, but perhaps any other city on our Eastern Seaboard. My readers will be hearing much more about Cuba between now and the November elections.

The very day CARE opened its 1963 Food Crusade fund appeal, October's Hurricane Flora battered Haiti. CARE has undertaken to feed 100,000 hurricane victims during a 4-month period.

Fat Parents: Fat Children

Fat parents and tension often add up to overweight, says Dr. Edward M. Litin, chief psychiatrist of the Mayo Clinic. Overeating in general, he says, represents an effort to ease intolerable tension. But tension or otherwise, there's no question that fat parents beget fat children. If parents are overweight, the odds are as high as 80 per cent that their children will be too, according to Dr. Litin.

Supersonic transport planes will not only cost about $20 million each, they'll have much less margin for error than today's jets. For example, by flying a couple of thousand feet too high or too low, manufacturers estimate, pilots could easily add $180,000 a year to the fuel bill for a single plane! . . . Food sterilizing on a large scale is possible with Holland-made equipment now being marketed in the U. S. As many as 1,500 containers a minute can be processed in the hydrostatic units, reports Votator, Louisville. The containers are carried by endless conveyor chains through preheating, sterilizing, cooling and drying stages housed in steel towers.

Abraham Lincoln's unusual body build was probably the result of an inherited disorder, Marfan syndrome, a disease of the connective tissue that affects skeletal development, vision and the cardiovascular system, says Dr. Harold Schwartz, Huntington Park, Calif. The syndrome, first identified in 1896, is marked by excessive long-bone growth which produces disproportionately elongated arms, legs, fingers and toes, with a long head and "long" facial features. The Lincoln-esque face, his severe farsightedness and very long arms and legs "strongly" suggest this syndrome, according to Dr. Schwartz. . . . Berries of the red sage, common in the Southeastern U. S., are poisonous, reports the American Medical Association. The plant, sometimes called wild sage and found in flower gardens, along fencerows and in fields, poisoned several children recently in Hillsborough County, Fla., one fatally.

The moon was once "dusty ice" and its "seas" probably actually contained water for a brief period three billion years ago, reports Dr. Charles R. Warren of the Department of Interior's Geological Survey. Warren theorizes that when the dusty-ice moon began to approach the sun after being formed outside the solar system, the various ices began to turn to gases and stream away as they do in comets. The dust, however, was held to the moon by gravity and accumulated until it was many miles thick.

Green Thumb Tips

The "freshness factor" is far more important with some vegetables than with others. So, if your garden space is limited, concentrate on the vegetables in which freshness means superior flavor. Peas, sweet corn, lettuce and tomatoes are examples of these, with carrots and beets not far behind.

Do you own a vacation home where you'd like to have plenty of flowers with little work? Order nasturtium seeds now, both the dwarf and the tall form. Dwarf nasturtiums will make a gay carpet wherever you need one. Tall nasturtiums, which are vines, will cover fences or walls in short order. Just clear the spot where you want nasturtiums to grow and scatter the seeds over it.

The reason for planting certain flowers and vegetables as early as it is possible to work the soil is that they require cool weather to start growth. Sweet peas, larkspur, poppies, calendulas and delphiniums are among the flowers with this requirement; onions, peas, spinach, radishes and lettuce among the vegetables.

Should the weather prevent your working outdoors, take the opportunity to check over your garden tools. Sand any roughness on wooden handles, replace old handles with new, clean off rust and repaint the handles of small tools bright yellow or orange so they can readily be seen.

One kind of stock that will flower even in the northern part of the country is known as Trysomic Seven Week stock. Most of the flowers will be fully double and all the stock colors will be represented.

From early spring to late summer you can tuck a few onion sets in any odd corner and, within 3 weeks from planting, have them ready to use on the table. So don't let those little corners go to waste.

One of the easiest of all flowers to grow is calliopsis. There are both tall and short-growing varieties, both with flowers in shades of golden yellow, reddish brown and purplish brown. Scatter the seeds where the plants are to grow.

Rhubarb chard may be used as an ornamental as well as a vegetable. Grow the plants in a seedbed and space them evenly when transplanting so they have room to spread and reach full size.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

While a codfish is no prize-winner as a fighter, it certainly has weight enough to bend a fairly stout rod of broom-handle proportions. The most popular line for hauling these fish over the side is 50- to 60-pound test, with monofilament first choice. It is not uncommon for cod to reach 25 to 30 pounds with an average of ten to twelve. Thus, it is quite understandable why size 8/0 and 10/0 hooks are customarily used. A cod will readily take a hook baited with a couple of large clams or almost anything that has the appearance of food such as mussels, squid, cut bait and even banana and orange skins.

Though the codfish is a very important commercial fish, it is not considered a game fish, as it will put up only slight resistance upon feeling the hook. "I am inclined to agree with the general opinion that it is like pulling up an old boot," says Robert D. Hall, Salt-Water Fishing Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

The codfish lives primarily in deep offshore waters at from 60 to 250 fathoms. However, there is an extensive emigration inshore during the late fall; and in late April and early May, it heads east again to the deep offshore grounds.

On the East Coast, the codfishing season usually starts about November and continues until the water warms in the spring. Some scattered schools are caught as early as September, but the dyed-in-the-wool cod fisherman usually does not start his fishing until Thanksgiving. This type of winter fishing generally begins a couple of weeks earlier on the eastern end of Long Island and in southern New England.

The pollack closely resembles the cod and haddock in shape, but it can easily be identified by its forked tail and pointed nose. It is a shapely fish, with a deep, plump body and chin barbels. It has a greenish or olive-brownish coloration and is an active, wandering fish, living anywhere between the bottom and the surface. According to some reports, it will destroy great quantities of small herring, young cod and silver hake and will chase and devour huge numbers of small baitfish, like bluefish in a mullet school.

The chains of habit are too weak to be felt until they are too strong to be broken.—Dr. Johnson.

Cloverettes Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Northern Cloverettes 4-H Club of Rocky Ridge was held Feb. 26 at the home of Jeanne and Sharon Sharrer. The meeting was called to order by the president, Beck Keilholtz. The roll call was answered by different kinds of material after which four demonstrations were presented to the club—"Making an Attractive Planter," and "How to Make Party Favors," by Bonnie Fuss; "Setting a Table for Breakfast," by Sharon Sharrer; and "Shrinking Wool," by Sylvia Brauer. All reports were given. The girls finished planning their schedule for the year. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held on March 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mildred Orndorff. Miss Holly Ann Akre, 4-H Home Demonstration Agent, will be present to answer any questions the girls have about their projects.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Asthma
Asthma is a chronic illness in which the victim has difficulty in breathing. It is not contagious and, fortunately, most attacks of asthma are relatively mild, but if neglected, it increases in severity, and endangers health as time goes on.

A majority of asthma attacks are triggered by an allergy. It could be almost anything—foods, furs, feathers, pollens—that starts the flare-up. Sometimes a bacterial infection of the throat, nose or sinuses can touch off an asthma attack. Nervous tension sometimes is a factor.

In a severe attack, the victim appears to be suffocating. He becomes pale and turns bluish, perspires heavily. He is using all of his strength to breathe. Fortunately your doctor or by treatment in a hospital.

Finding the allergen is the first step in dealing with chronic asthma. Occasionally it is obvious, but most often a series of tests and studies are required.

The important thing is to seek medical advice and counsel if you suspect that you have an asthmatic condition. Self-diagnosis is almost impossible. Only a physician can make an accurate diagnosis. If the allergen is something you can avoid, such as a dog or a cat, your problem can be solved with a relative simplicity. If it should be pollen in the air, the case is more difficult. But it still can be kept under control, with proper medical direction.

Occasionally, an asthma patient will be helped by a change of climate, but doctors advise that you proceed with caution in making a cross-country move. You may develop a new allergy to things in the new climate which you haven't encountered before. If you must move, try to arrange an extended visit to the proposed new home to find out for yourself whether you feel better.

Asthma can be controlled in most cases. In almost all cases, a doctor can provide relief from asthmatic attacks, and by careful management reduce the frequency and severity of attacks.

Youth Forum Scheduled

Final plans have been made for the March 16 "Youth Forum" for this community to be held at the Walkersville High School at 8 p. m.

After a general explanation to the group a number of small "discussion" groups of about 20 persons, to consider specific matters of concern, will be formed.

The topics for discussion in these small groups are to be: 1) Teenage dating habits (curfew, going steady, early marriage); 2) Illegitimacy and teenagers (causes and effects); 3) Possibility of establishing a "standard" moral code for parents and teenagers of our area.

Following these small group discussions the groups will return to the auditorium to share the thoughts of the individual small groups. It is hoped that this second "Youth Forum" meeting will bring our community and its teenagers closer together in cooperation and understanding of the problems and concerns of our youth today. Especially urged to attend the forum are junior and senior high school students and adults.

New Revenue Form Available

Summaries of the principal changes under the Revenue Act of 1964 are now available at local Internal Revenue offices and most banks and postoffices, according to Irving Machiz, District Director of Internal Revenue for the Baltimore District, which comprises Maryland and District of Columbia.

The two-page instruction sheet also contains the new individual income tax rates which will apply to 1964 income.

The publication is designed to assist taxpayers in estimating income tax for 1964. Form 1040ES, previously distributed, should be completed by using the reduced rates and the changes of the new Revenue Act.

These changes are not applicable to your 1963 calendar year return, Machiz said.

The deadline for filing the first quarter estimated income tax for 1964 is April 15.

Nine Seek Mathias' Seat

Nine candidates filed by this week's deadline to unseat Frederick's own, Sixth District Congressman Charles McC. Mathias, who is seeking his third term in Congress.

Republicans to oppose Rep. Mathias in the primary May 19 are Montgomery County Councilman John H. Hiser, Bethesda; Brent Bozell, Chevy Chase; and Harry Simms, Silver Spring, unsuccessful candidate for U. S. Senator in the 1962 primary.

Democratic candidates filed in the Sixth District are Royce Hanson, Bethesda; John P. Moore, Chevy Chase; Theodore A. Miller and John V. Gaughan, Silver Spring; William P. Allen, Bethesda; and Delegate Samuel Dillion, Washington County.

PERMITS ISSUED

Several building permits were issued for the following local owners:

A $2,000 cement block machine shed on the Keysville Road, one mile east of the Old Frederick Road for William H. Wivell of R2, Emmitsburg.

The Mayor of Emmitsburg, Ralph F. Irelan, was given permission to install show windows instead of the present small windows in his store on East Main St. in Emmitsburg. The project will cost $450.

Church Schedules Guest Speaker

Mrs. Faith Boardman Drobish, first woman to serve overseas as a representative of the National Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Christian Churches will speak at Incarnation United Church of Christ on Sunday, Mar. 15, at the regular 10:45 a.m. Worship Service.

Mrs. Drobish, mother of two grown children and a grandmother, left her 900-acre ranch near Marysville, California in 1961 to join the faculty of the American Collegiate Institute at Izmir, Turkey. There she taught typing and business English to high school pupils and college freshmen.

Faith Boardman was born in Oregon, the daughter of the late Rev. Harry L. Boardman, a Baptist minister who taught for many years at Riverside College in California. In 1920 she married Harry E. Drobish, ranch owner, a representative of the U. S. and California Agricultural Departments and for a time a member of the California State Senate. Mr. Drobish died in 1954. Their son, Boardman, is managing the family's Far View Ranch which includes in addition to extensive olive groves and pasture land, retreat grounds of a church and a children's summer camp site. This busy ranch in the Sierra foothills has been "home base" to Mrs. Drobish for 30 years.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the worship service on Sunday at which time Mrs. Drobish will speak of her experiences as a missionary teacher to Turkey.

Tag Rush Continuing

Maryland's Department of Motor Vehicles this week advised all passenger car owners who had not yet received their 1964-65 license tag applications to contact the D.M.V.'s Vehicle Registration Division immediately.

In making the announcement, John R. Jewell, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles stated that thousands of Maryland motorists were not in receipt of new tag applications. "This is due primarily to the fact that many failed to notify the Department after they had changed their names or address," he said, "or else they still have outstanding warrants charged against them by police departments."

To obtain tag applications vehicle owners should phone or write, "Department 1-A, Vehicle Registration Division," in care of the motor vehicle agency. D.M.V. officials request that the Department be supplied with the full name, correct address, title number (as shown on present registration card) and current license plate number of all persons seeking tag applications.

wants pictures of all the children in this area to publish in a future series entitled "Citizens of Tomorrow". To make it representative of the entire trading area we want pictures of as many youngsters as possible. There is no age limit, neither is it necessary to be a subscriber to this newspaper. Therefore, we ask the co-operation of all the parents (and grandparents, too!) to help make this a success. The Studio hours and location are shown below. Just take your children there and several poses will be taken free of charge by a nationally known children's photographer who specializes in feature photography for newspapers. All proofs will be shown and you select your favorite pose for publication. There is no charge or obligation. You may, if you wish, order photographs for gifts or keepsakes from the studio, but this is entirely up to you.
