The recent rainfall apparently broke the back of the prolonged drought we have been enduring but it is too soon to become extravagant with the precious commodity. It is estimated that about two inches fell in the three-day period. It was a good soaking downfall and one that will do a world of good. Quite a number of people had just sown lawn seed and the rainfall will get lawns off to a grand start. However, much, much more rain is needed to fill depleted wells and dried up springs which provide our water sources. Our reservoirs received a much needed addition to our fast dwindling supply but with a little conservation practice on the part of water users I believe we'll be comparatively safe during the coming winter months, provided of course, we receive more intermittent rainfall.

There has been a lot of talk about a new postoffice for the town but nothing ever seems to materialize from these talks or actions on the part of individuals. Let's take back in 1959 when a movement was afoot to obtain a new office here as well as carrier service. The ball was set in motion by former Congressman John Foley. Foley contacted the Postoffice Dept. in Washington and was told that a survey would be made here before a new lease would be granted to the present owners in 1962. At that time the Dept. said these requirements had to be met: Sidewalks, hard-surfaced streets, house numbers and street signs, 50% of the building sites in each block proposed for service must be improved with houses erected and the total annual receipts of the office to be over $10,000.

Anyway the survey was made and was announced as follows: Several sections of the town do not have paved streets or sidewalks and that only half the houses have numbers on them. The Town Officials (at that time, 1959) informed the Postmaster that they expected to have all streets paved and sidewalks constructed within two to three years, which would have been 1962. If and when the street paving and sidewalk construction programs are completed, the Dept. will be glad to look into the possibility of establishing town delivery service at Emmitsburg.

That, my dear readers, is the situation to date, as far as my knowledge goes. We meet the required $10,000 annual take by over five times; all streets are hard-surfaced and just about every house has a sidewalk or hard-surface walk of some sort. It appears the only solitary requirement to be met is the completion of the house numbering project. This would be a comparatively easy task and we don't understand why it hasn't been completed. At any rate it appears to be the only thing holding up free mail carrier service here. Let's get the ball rolling, it means better service and employment for at least two carriers here. As far as a new building is concerned, we haven't come up with a Good Samaritan as yet but we understand several iron bars in the fire.

Commentary

By Gilbert L. Oddo

Recently I had the pleasure of addressing a group of local women who had a keen interest in politics and who, in this presidential election year, were deeply concerned about the vital social and economic issues of our day.

During the course of my remarks, I observed that, in my judgment as a student of American political history, there were six major achievements of the last four years which have been good for the welfare of our nation and the world during these troublesome times. I also noted that if time bears out this preliminary view, then those who supported these six measures will be praised for their foresight and wisdom while those who opposed them will merit the scorn history will heap upon them.

The six measures were: The Francis X. Ligorano and Rev. James Delaney have been named Competition Director and Assistant Director for the Emmitsburg Punt, Pass & Kick competition, it has been announced by John S. Hollinger, Sales Manager of Sperry Ford Sales, sponsor of the program in Emmitsburg. Co-sponsor here is the Emmitsburg Lions Club.

As Competition Director, Mr. Ligorano will be responsible for all arrangements for the contest which puts boys eight through 13 against others in the age groups in tests of their abilities to punt, pass and kick for distance and accuracy. The Emmitsburg competition will be held Sunday, October 11 at Community Field.

"It is a great honor and pleasure to be asked to direct the Punt, Pass & Kick competition," Mr. Ligorano said. "Stan Musial, Consultant to the President on Physical Fitness, has said we must establish physical fitness programs as an integral part of our way of life."

"I know that all the boys who enter will have a lot of fun, and I hope every grade and junior high school boy within the age limits will want to practice to compete for the many prizes and trophies this great national competition offers."

Registration for PP&K, which features trips to National Football League games for area winners culminating with a "Tour of Champions" to Washington, D.C., and a "play-off" at a National Football League championship game for 12 finalists, is open now and will continue through October 10 at Sperry Ford Sales.

EHS Seniors

Work On Yearbook

The Emmitsburg High School Seniors have been meeting regularly at the home of the editor of the yearbook to work on the '65 Liner. This has been going on all summer and is still their main project for the year. The attendance has been approximately 15 of the seniors which is almost 50% of the class. The students were not chosen but volunteered their time to work on the project.

The Editor-in-Chief is Eddie Baker and the Senior Editor is Jeff Valentine. The yearbook isn't a project one or two people can produce alone, but it needs the cooperation of the class. Through the planning and preparing by all the class members, many new ideas have been used and improvements have been made. Sixteen more pages will be given to the sports and the Senior "most" will be included in this year's edition. All underclass pictures will be individual pictures of students instead of a group shot. This enlarged edition could not have been possible without the fine cooperation of the business people in this area.

The '65 Yearbook is now on order. The sale days will be from October 1 to October 11. The price of this year's annual will be $3.00. If you wish to order one, please get in touch with a Senior of EHS or send to Miss Phyllis Chatlos, W. Main St., Emmitsburg, Md. Phone 447-2270.

Girl Scouts Plan "Fly-Up" Night

Monday night, October 5, at the Emmitsburg High School auditorium, several Brownie Scouts will be getting their "wings" as they "fly-up" to a Junior Girl Scout troop. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Parents and friends of all Girl Scouts are invited to attend.

Many Junior and Cadette Scouts will receive proficiency badges. "A badge is a symbol that you have done the thing it stands for often enough, thoroughly enough, and well enough to be prepared to give service in it," said Juliette Low, the founder of Girl Scouting in the United States.

The program will open with a flag ceremony conducted by Senior Troop 88, Mrs. Ralph Ohler, advisor. These girls are in grades 10 to 12; they meet at the Lutheran Parish House Monday nights at 7:30 p.m. Any girl interested may join but she should speak with Mrs. Ohler or one of the members of the troop.

Brownie Troop 1317 was under the leadership of Mrs. Orndorff and Mrs. George Danner last year. Mrs. John Chatlos has been meeting with the troop this fall until a leader is found for them. They will sing "The Growing Up Tree." Eight girls will receive their wings.

Brownie Troop 1300, under the leadership of Mrs. Ralph Lindsey, will sing the "Brownie Smile Song." This troop also will need a new leader. Ten girls will receive their wings.

Junior Troop 405 has had Mrs. F. D. Culbreath as their leader. Mrs. John Chatlos has taken the leadership responsibility for this troop for the coming year since Mrs. Culbreath has resigned. Many girls will receive badges for work completed.

Junior Troop 1487 will now become a Cadette troop since all the girls are in the 7th grade in school. Mrs. Richard Dickson has been their leader for two years but finds it necessary to resign. Mrs. Ralph Lindsey will be the new Cadette leader. This troop will conduct a candle light Rededication Ceremony for all the Scouts. Mrs. Robert Myers, who will be assisting with this troop, has been helping the girls with this ceremony.

Cadette Troop 1316 will join with Junior Troop 1487 in one troop under Mrs. Lindsey and Mrs. Myers. Mrs. John Chatlos has been their leader for the past years. This troop will sing a song they learned during their camping trip this summer, "G for Generosity."

Mrs. Ruth Chaplain, the Area Director, will be a guest and bring greetings from the Girl Scout Council of Central Maryland.

You are invited to attend. You are also urged to find your place in this organization. Leaders, assistant leaders and committee members are needed if these girls are to continue in Scouting in Emmitsburg. Men as well as women are eligible.

Fire Drills During Fire Prevention Week

Fire prevention agencies in Maryland are urging all families to hold home fire drills on Oct. 7 at 7 p.m., Chief Sterling H. White announced this week. The agencies feel that many of the over 100 people who die in fires in the state each year would have survived had they planned a means of escape before fire occurred. Sirens in Emmitsburg and Frederick County will be sounded during the 7 p.m. drills.

Delaware, the District of Columbia and Northern Virginia also are planning fire drills at the same time as Maryland. The same areas participated in a similar program during last year's Fire Prevention Week.

Families are urged to prepare plans for use in the event their regular means of exit are blocked by fire or smoke. This should include the location of windows which might serve as emergency exits.

Procedures should include the closing of bedroom doors to retard the entry of smoke and immediate departure by the most direct safe means. An outside meeting place for the family should be determined in the plan to enable the fire department to determine if everyone is outside upon their arrival on the scene. The fire department should be called as soon as possible.

Among the organizations sponsoring the drill in Maryland are the Maryland State Firemen's Association, the Baltimore Safety Council, local and county fire departments and fire marshal's offices and the State Fire Marshal's Office.

Chief Sterling White of the Vigilant Hose Co. has announced that a Fire Prevention Parade will be held in Frederick, Saturday, October 10, at 6 p.m. He also stated that fire drills will be held in all local schools sometime during the week.

In Hospital

Rev. James Twomey, former pastor of St. Joseph's Church, is recuperating at Carney Hospital, Boston, from recent surgery.

Four Injured In Car Crash

Four persons, including three Mt. St. Mary's College students, were injured in an accident early Saturday that demolished two vehicles.

Maryland State Police said the accident happened about 12:15 a.m. on U. S. 15, three miles north of Frederick.

Hospital authorities said John P. Lawler, 18, of Havertown, Pa., and driver of one of the cars involved, was in satisfactory condition at the Frederick Memorial Hospital with a compound fracture of the right knee, a severe laceration of the scalp and contusions.

Treated and released from the hospital were Mrs. Marie Bars, 26, driver of the other car; James F. Fischer, 19, of Hampton, N. Y., and Donald Guinan, 19, of Drexel, Pa. All were treated for various lacerations of the body.

Trooper W. Dennis Drumm said the accident occurred when Lawler's car ran into the rear of Mrs. Bars' car as Mrs. Bars was stopped in the lane of traffic attempting a left turn onto Sunday's Lane.

Lawler's 1956 coupe and Mrs. Bars' 1958 station wagon were demolished. The State Police ambulance and a passing motorist took the injured to the hospital. Charges are pending.

Elderly Couple Hurt In Wreck

Two Ontario, Canada persons were admitted to Annie M. Warner Hospital in Gettysburg with injuries Tuesday afternoon after an accident north of Emmitsburg. They were taken to the hospital in the VFW ambulance driven by Guy A. Baker, Jr.

Tpr. P. C. Crutchley said Myrtle Brenot was admitted with a fractured knee and ankle and possible fractured ribs and her father, Gaston Brenot was admitted with a concussion and fractured ribs following a one-car accident along Route 15 just north of Emmitsburg. Both were reported in good condition.

Tpr. Crutchley said in the process of negotiating a curve, the operator, Myrtle Brenot, was momentarily distracted, applied the brakes, ran off the right side of the road and struck a bridge abutment head-on. Damages to the car were estimated at about $1,000.

Community Show Set For October 9 - 10

The annual Grange Community Show will be held in the Emmitsburg High School auditorium next Friday and Saturday nights, October 9 and 10. Exhibits of farm produce, canned goods, flowers and flower arrangements and many other things will be judged and on display. See the listing in another part of this paper.

Special programs are planned for each night of the show. The doors will open at 7:00 p.m. The program will begin at 8 p.m. Friday night, three movies will be shown, borrowed through the courtesy of the local library and the Enoch Pratt Free Films Department.

The first movie, in color, will be "Yellowstone"—a visit to Yellowstone National Park showing the geysers, including Old Faithful, boiling hot springs, bubbling paint pots, erupting black mud volcanoes, plunging, waterfalls, mighty canyons, petrified forests, abundant wildlife, and tourists accommodations. Concludes with scenes of a raging forest fire.

Fires again play a part in the second movie, also in color: "The Challenge: The Story of Crimes of Carelessness." Scenes of large fires in homes, factories, and forests illustrate the destruction, including loss of life, caused by careless practices—not putting out cigarettes left in ash trays, leaving matches within the reach of young children, disregarding "No Smoking" signs, dry cleaning with gasoline indoors, overloading electric circuits, and throwing cigarette butts out of car windows on country roads.

For the lighter side of living and for the children and those young in heart, "The Sad Clowns" will be shown. Charlie Chaplin plays a reforming cop in "Easy Street", Buster Keaton plays a junkman who wanders accidentally to a parade, and Harry Langdon plays a henpecked factory worker lured into a date with some flappers by a buddy.

On Saturday night the Emmitsburg Municipal Band under the baton of Walter A. Simpson, will present a program of marches. This is the fourth appearance of the band so let's show our appreciation for it by attending this program.

Cakewalks will be another highlight of the evening. A candy and cake table will be available both evenings. Door prizes will also be given away.

The Emmitsburg Community Show, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Grange, is the highlight of the season's community activities. The public is invited to attend. Doors open at 7 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday.

If you plan to enter anything in the show, please bring it to the school Thursday night, if possible, or Friday morning. Judging will begin at 1 p.m. Friday.

Fire Safety Tips Given

Have A Plan

Your family should know the full threat of fire. Draw a floor plan, discuss escape routes. Then cover following points and have fire drills.

Fire Department

Make sure everybody knows number and how to call Fire Department. Firemen not only put out fires, they can save your life.

Bedroom Doors

Have everybody sleep with bedroom doors closed. This will keep smoke and flame out long enough to permit escape.

Feel Door For Heat

If awakened at night by fire or smoke, feel top of door. If hot, DON'T OPEN, escape by window. If not, brace bottom of door with foot, open slightly; if smoke gushes in, close door and use window.

Escape Through Window

Make sure at least one window in each room is big enough to get through and can be opened. If window is on second floor or higher, use window to roof of porch.

Stud Farm Plans Open House

Dairymen of this area are marking the date of Thursday, October 15 on their calendars as a "red letter" day. This is the day they are setting aside to join their friends and neighbors at the Annual Open House celebration of the Maryland-West Virginia Bull Stud, Inc., on Route 15, 7 miles north of Frederick. Each year about this time, nearly a thousand good folks, Maryland and West Virginia dairymen and their families, get into their cars and buses and set out for the Bull Stud Headquarters to inspect the facilities of the organization, to see a parade of the sires in the barn and some of their off-spring, and to enjoy a grand fried chicken dinner at a nominal fee. This year there will be special interest in the affair because it will also be host to the dedication exercises of the Maryland Dairy Shrine Headquarters, paying tribute to the first group of dairymen and outstanding dairy animals. Chairman of the local Board of Directors, C. Lester Dudrow, and the board members extend a cordial invitation to the dairymen in this area to join them in heading toward Frederick that day. See your local artificial breeding technician for details and tickets.

"Inquire before you retire." That's the advice given by W. S. King, Social Security District Manager in Hagerstown, to persons who plan to retire soon. "We always try to make sure that a person's first retirement check arrives promptly," King said, "but it really helps if we can talk with him before he actually retires. Suppose, for example, John Smith expects to retire on December 1. If he files his claim in October, there will be plenty of time to process the application so that the postman can drop Mr. Smith's check in his box on January 4."

King added that some evidence of the previous year's earnings is generally needed. A wage earner can use his Form W-2, Withholding Tax Statement, while a self-employed person can supply a copy of his income tax return for the previous year.

A birth certificate is best for proving a person's age, but the Social Security Administration may also accept a baptismal record, census record, insurance policy, naturalization paper, passport, or the family Bible.

"We rely on high speed wire transmission, electronic computers, and highly trained people to insure prompt delivery of benefits," King said, "but a per-retirement visit to the social security office located at 59 North Cannon Avenue, Hagerstown, is the best assurance of having that first check arrive on time.

Who Gets the News?

Every day, readers around the world buy 300 million copies of daily newspapers—20 percent more than they bought a decade ago.

However, the distribution is lopsided, says a study conducted by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). It explains:

"In the United Kingdom there are 51 copies for every 100 persons—the world's highest level—compared to one copy for every 100 Africans."

The "minimum of adequacy" suggested by UNESCO is 10 newspapers per 100 persons. Over 100 countries in Africa, Asia and Latin America—with 70-percent of the world's population—fall below that standard.

"Europeans buy 38 percent of world daily papers, and North Americans 23 percent," the report says. "Africans, Asians and South Americans together buy only 26 percent."

To correct the imbalance, UNESCO is helping guide underdeveloped countries toward such technical innovations as rotary offset printing and facsimile teletyping.

100 YEARS AGO

HOOD MOVES NORTH, HEADS FOR TENNESSEE

By Lon K. Savage

Napoleon had marched into Russia early in the Nineteenth Century and had captured Moscow, the nation's capital. But once in Moscow, his army was ravaged by cold and hunger until it was nearly destroyed before it could get back to western Europe.

Confederate Gen. John B. Hood figured there was a lesson for the Confederacy in Napoleon's invasion of Russia. Federal Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman had invaded Georgia and had captured Atlanta, the state's most important city. Hood's idea: to make it as disastrous for Sherman to get out of Georgia as it was for Napoleon to get out of Russia.

Therefore, 100 years ago this week, Hood began a new Civil War campaign. He set out with his army of 40,000 for Tennessee, hoping to get behind Sherman's army and cut it off from the North.

Hood's Plan

Hood's plan had emerged from necessity. When Sherman captured Atlanta early in September, Hood had retreated down the Macon Road where, he hoped, he could prevent Sherman from moving farther into the state.

But as he waited, he realized that Sherman was in some trouble, himself. Sherman was deep in Confederate territory with a huge army, at the end of a long, thin supply line.

Hood knew he could not defeat Sherman in open battle because of Sherman's superiority in numbers. But, he reasoned, if he could circle behind Sherman's army, he could cut the Federal supply line and leave the Federal army alone, without supplies, in a hostile state. It would be a matter of time, he hoped, before Sherman would have to get out of Georgia or watch his army fall apart around him.

First Move

On the morning of September 18, Hood's army began moving to the northwest. By the 20th, his headquarters were at Palmetto, just southwest of Atlanta. He then began preparing to cross the Chattahoochee River and head for Alabama and Tennessee.

Sherman in Atlanta, quickly learned of Hood's movements and began piecing together what they meant. On the 24th, he got word that Bedford Forrest had moved to Athens, Alabama, and captured a fortress with 1,900 troops. Sherman put two and two together and came up with his answer: Hood and Forrest intended to operate together behind Sherman's army, somewhere in Alabama or Tennessee.

On September 28, Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, showed up at Palmetto and made a speech to Hood's army, announcing the plans of the coming campaign. In the crowd that heard him was a Federal spy, who quickly reported Davis' speech to Sherman. Now Sherman was no longer in doubt. The Confederate plan was known by both sides.

It took several weeks for Sherman to find his solution to this new problem. The solution would come in one of the Civil War's most famous campaigns—Sherman's march from Atlanta to the sea.

ST. LOUIS THREATENED IN CONFEDERATE RAID

Since the capture of Vicksburg in 1863, the Civil War was slowly dying along the Mississippi River. But 100 years ago this week, the Confederates of Missouri and Arkansas launched a last-gasp raid west of the river and threatened two of Missouri's most important cities—St. Louis and Jefferson City, the capital.

When it is compared with the huge campaigns that had taken place that summer in Virginia and Georgia, there really wasn't much to the raid. But it was enough to throw a little scare into the people of St. Louis and give the troops there some exercise.

The raid was organized by Gen. Sterling Price, one-time Missouri governor and veteran of the battles of Wilson's Creek and Pea Ridge. For the past year, he had operated in Arkansas and southern Missouri with a small army, making himself a nuisance to the Federals but winning no important battles.

Hoods North

Price's raid was anything but fancy. He took personal command of an army of 15,000 Confederates in Arkansas and headed straight north, crossing the Arkansas river September 1 and quickly moving on to the Missouri line. There, he was met by state militia who resisted his advance and learned of his bold purpose: to move straight for St. Louis.

Up in St. Louis, Federal Gen. William S. Rosecrans, who had been relieved at Chattanooga a year earlier, hastily counted his troops and feared he didn't have enough to stop Price. A division of the Army of Tennessee, which happened to be passing by on the Mississippi River, was halted to help defend the city.

Price arrived at Pilot Knob, 85 miles south of St. Louis, on September 26, where he came up against 1,000 Federals in a fort. He opened his attack next day, lobbing shells into the fort, but was unable to reduce it. That night, Gen. Thomas Ewing, Jr., commander of the fort, abandoned it and joined the other troops assembled to protect St. Louis.

Price Comes On

Price came on. Arriving at the city's outskirts, he was met by a hot reception from the Federals, and quickly turned aside. Perhaps, he thought, it would be better to attack Jefferson City.

So Price turned westward and attacked Jefferson City, and again his efforts came to little. The Federals who had gathered at St. Louis to stop him poured out of the city in hot pursuit of the Confederates and drove them off from the capital city.

Price continued on west along the south bank of the Missouri River toward Lexington and Kansas City. He hoped to find a city that he could capture somewhere in the state.

Next week: Lee Attacks.

Instant Utopia

This is the year of the Civil Rights Bill, and also the year of the race riots. The one is perhaps not entirely unrelated to the other. The riots have come on the heels of prolonged social unrest that was partly induced to generate the backing that would force the Bill upon the attention of Congress and the people. This miscalculated enthusiasm for equality of preference through political protectionism has found no stopping point. Hate for "Whites" broke loose in rampages in major cities with tremendous cost in human suffering and property loss.

There have been many things wrong with the so-called "civil rights movement." Not the least is the potential for riot and revolt against authority. The basis in this, we presume, is the false notion that "equality" is something the government gives a person.

Contrast In Goals

Most of the Negro civil rights leaders agreed they would curtail mass demonstrations until after the elections. Two of the organizations refused to go along. So will the William Eptons, the Jessie Grays, the Malcolm X's and any others who want to insist on pushing the revolt they have infiltrated. It is not reforms these punks and Communists seek, it is destruction of public order and failure of public responsibility. The Communists agitators, especially, look toward complete demoralization of the individual and dominance of the State.

Regardless of how many fair housing ordinances, employment commissions, or registration drives we have, our Negro citizens are going to have to earn their regard and respect just like anybody else. The most responsible Negro leaders, like Don Warden of California, are recognizing that the future of their race depends not upon what the white man can give each of them, but upon what he can accomplish for himself. In a speech so widely applauded it was inserted in the Congressional Record, Mr. Warden told Negroes to fight their dropout rate instead of reinforcing the Negro's feeling of inferiority by opposition to all-black schools.

Who Is Misled?

Building pride in race is a goal that will give a sense of purpose to Negroes, Mr. Warden insists. He urges Negroes to concentrate on reducing their huge crime rate, on getting off the welfare rolls and acquiring job skills, and on demanding respect for their women. One Southern newspaper commented on Don Warden's eloquent plea for dignity and achievement: "There was more understanding, more courage, more confidence, and more hope in this one man's speech than we have been able to find in all the rantings and programs of the 'civil rights' groups put together."

Our Negro citizens are not the only ones who are misled. Throughout the land, our people are confused as to what the values of life are that deserve acceptance. The materialistic approach has strong attraction for youth, and the rioters and demonstrators are often college students. What answer from the White House to stop civil disobedience in Mississippi? Cut off federal funds! And what will remedy things in Harlem? Why, riots are caused by "want, deprivation and lack of opportunity," and a dole is needed to end poverty. Americans, white or black, who swallow this line are the most misled of all.

Emotion And Reason

Underlying the trouble in this national turmoil has been the needless inflaming of emotion by men of good will. Religious leaders and organizations, including the National Council of Churches, have urged civil disobedience and taking to the streets. Negro leaders have demanded immediate redress of wrongs, as if that were possible. Government officials and Congressional leaders have encouraged these demands, raising false hopes and increasing impatience. It is most unrealistic to expect instant Utopia, whether through a bill, a court decision, or an election.

White people are being looked to for reform of the black Ghettos in the big cities. Why so? What is wrong with expecting our Negro leadership to accept its own responsibilities, for most of them are decent, law-abiding citizens. Slums and crime are not distinguished by color. Poor home training and parental laxity may produce youngsters that make the same mistakes as adults. Respect for law does not follow color patterns, nor is ignorance unknown among any race. Improving and changing America for the better must have a much broader base than a plea for the federal government to spend money or pass laws.

Our Library...

Need some help on those fall projects? Whether it be cooking, remodeling, gift making, gardening or decorating, your library has books on all of these subjects.

"My Favorite Maryland Recipes," a book compiled by Mrs. J. Millard Tawes, our own Governor's Lady, has many new dishes to delight your family.

"The Complete Book of Home Remodeling, Improvement and Repair," by A. M. Watkins, is a handbook for the owner who wants to do it right but not do it himself.

Interested in Flower Arranging? "Rockwells New Complete Book of Flower Arranging," has many helpful suggestions and pictures on both dried and fresh arrangements.

Kathryn Seibel's "Christmas Craft Book," has many novel ideas on making Christmas gifts or gifts for any occasion. Recently the board of trustees held a meeting at the Emmitsburg Library. At this meeting it was decided to enlarge our present facilities in order to have more shelf space for the adult and juvenile sections. It was also decided that some improvements were necessary to keep the library as attractive as possible. Some improvements listed as necessary were as follows: sanding and refinishing the floors, this included the expansion to the Southern most side of the library, this gives the additional space needed in the library.

Chairman of the improvement committee, Mrs. William Carr, gave recommendations to include a complete paint job. New light fixtures in the new addition, a window dressing to include new drapes, planters and a floor covering in the window to match the drapes in the window for display of books.

We know Emmitsburg is appreciative of the library and since circulation warrants expanding the present facilities we must ask the public to help support the library.

A large container will be placed in the library and your donations will be gratefully accepted. There will also be other means of raising money to help defray the cost of these undertakings. Your support is needed.

Smart homemakers—almost 15 million of them from coast to coast—are serving meals these days on break-resistant melamine dinnerware. This colorful "party-proof" ware is doing double duty for summer-into-fall entertaining, both indoors and out. The makers of Bontonware, one of the leading brands on the market, have passed along a few timely hints for its care and cleaning.

All dishes made of melamine can be safely and easily washed in automatic dishwashers, as this ware withstands wet temperatures far above the boiling point (all the way to 270° F.). Colors and patterns are molded right into the pieces and cannot fade or wear off. Use any soap or detergent you may prefer, but do not scrub with harsh pads or with gritty cleansers, or use chlorine bleaches that will mar the surface.

Wash and rinse melamine as you would any other fine dinnerware—promptly after using—so that food and coffee stains do not adhere to the surface. Staining agents do their worst work on all types of dishes when left to accumulate in the soapy residue that remains after "once-over-lightly" washing. Should coffee or tea stains appear in cups after long use, a piece of soft cloth or sponge dampened and dipped into ordinary baking soda usually will remove them.

For more stubborn surface stains which can result from careless washing, a very good special-purpose cleanser is now on the market. It is Bontonware Coffee Stain Remover. Recommended also for use on coffee and tea makers, this product may be found at department, hardware and housewares stores almost everywhere across the country.

ALL ABOUT BABIES...

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

End Of Diaper Period

By Mrs. Irene Grein
Baby Care Counselor
Hempstead, L. I.

Baby begins approaching the end of his diaper period at about the age of 15 months. It may be possible now to substitute training pants for diapers during the day. Night diapers probably will be necessary until the baby is two or even older. It is not unusual for the baby to master night control late in the second year or early in the third.

It is at this time that mothers often become careless about diaper hygiene. They seem to feel that now that baby is grown, the risk of diaper rash is a thing of the past. Nothing can be further from the truth, says the American Medical Association.

It is this fallacy that is the subject of this seventh and final in a series of guest columns by baby care counselors on maintaining good diaper hygiene during baby's entire diaper wearing age.

The American Medical Association advises that properly processed diapers and a fastidious routine of diaper hygiene should be used throughout the diaper wearing period. The AMA points out it is a mistake to think that diaper rash occurs only during the early months. Indeed, the most distressing and serious cases tend to be among older babies.

Throughout the toilet training period, when training pants are worn by day and diapers for naps and at night, diapers should be processed just as carefully as in the previous months, says the AMA.

The nation's diaper services have developed a professional routine for processing diapers as a safeguard to baby's health. It includes thorough cleansing with non-irritating soap, multiple rinsing with scalding hot water and sterilizing and drying with intense heat. Before drying, a special diaper antiseptic is added which dries into the fibers and becomes active when the diapers are wet or soiled. This antiseptic inhibits the growth of bacteria and lessens the chances of diaper rash.

Diapers can be correctly processed at home, too. Medical authorities agree that when diapers are done at home they must be thoroughly rinsed to remove all soaps and detergents and then boiled for half an hour to kill all bacteria. The diapers should then be treated with a special diaper antiseptic obtainable in local drug stores.

The 53 million people now protected by Blue Shield represent 16.4 per cent of the United States population.

Read Matthew 11:25-30.
The Lord hath appeared of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love; therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee. (Jeremiah 31:3.)

A young man in his first job was sent by his firm to work in a town far away from home. He lived in comfortable lodgings, but every week his mother sent him a parcel of cakes.

When he went home for his first vacation, he said, "Mother, you shouldn't do it. You have enough on your hands with father and the rest of the family to look after. All this that you're doing for me is too much!"

"Too much?" his mother replied. "My son, think how much more I could do for you if you lived nearer."

Do not those words carry to our hearts the plea of Christ Himself? Does He not say to everyone of us, "Child, how much more I could do for you if only you lived nearer to Me?"

Prayer

O God and Father, Thou who art full of loving kindness, I have been away from Thee in the country of disobedience and sin. Now I come to Thee. Repentant, I ask Thy forgiveness for my sins. Draw me closer, Lord; for Jesus' sake. Amen.

Thought For The Day

Christ calls us to dedicate ourselves to God, who loves us with an everlasting love.

From Another Pulpit

His father, grandfather and great-grandfather were clergymen in the Church of England but Humphrey S. Finney chose to make his career from another pulpit. As auctioneer and announcer at Thoroughbred sales, the sartorially elegant Mr. Finney has rapped an historic gavel on transactions aggregating some $125,000,000. Fasig-Tipton Company which Finney heads, is now staffed with auctioneers and, except for special items where the persuasive tones of the Old Master are calculated to stimulate bidding, his son John, who has taken over the post of general manager, does the announcing. Finney the elder arrived in the U.S. in 1920, and not too many years later was settled in Maryland managing the Thoroughbred farm of Sylvester W.

Labrot; writing for the breeding journals, heading the Maryland Horse Breeders Association and editing its monthly journal which he founded. He also found time to write a book, "A Studfarm Diary." He left Maryland to take over the management of Fasig-Tipton Co. in 1952 and for the past several years has also managed the breeding operations of Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy Stable. Finney has set sales records on both ends of the auctioneer's hammer; he managed the closed-bid auction of Nashua for the record price of $1,251,200 and, as agent for John M. Olin, he paid $130,000 for Swapson, a record for a yearling.

Gear Crops to Future Needs

"Scientists believe they now have enough knowledge to feed twice the number of people that inhabit the world today. But scientists with this knowledge produce very little food," a University of Illinois agricultural economist told a 4-H group.

It's the farmers who need this information, L. H. Simerl pointed out. As a matter of fact, he said, "even the highly efficient American farmers produced just enough to keep pace with the population growth during the last half century."

6 Billion Must Eat

The education of youth, satisfying jobs and conservation of soil, water and mineral resources he cited as challenging problems of our time. By the year 2,000—a little more than one generation away—six billion people will inhabit the earth. Said Simerl: "That's about twice as many as we are unable to feed adequately."

The Cooperative Extension Service is educating one segment of the nation's farm youth through the national 4-H field crops program. The 4-H'er obtains information and guidance to aid him in improving quality and quantity of crops and land.

The Story Of Aluminum

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 1—From 1825—when aluminum was first separated by Oersted, and again by Wohler in 1827 until 1886, the metal was a laboratory curiosity costing some $160 a pound. In that year Charles Martin Hall, then only 22 years old, discovered the first practical electrolytic method for reducing the metal.

In its beginnings Even as a youngster Charles Martin Hall had determined to be an inventor. While he was an undergraduate in Oberlin College, he was spurred on by a remark by Frank F. Jewett—professor of chemistry and mineralogy at Oberlin—that great benefits and financial success would come from devising a method of producing aluminum on a commercial scale. Over a span of five years he conducted hundreds of experiments. Then, on February 23, 1886, he dissolved alumina in molten cryolite in a tiny carbon crucible and passed an electric current through the solution, producing the first tiny beads of nearly pure aluminum.

As has happened in other cases, the same method was discovered in France at about the same time by another 22-year-old boy by the name of Paul Heroult. The commercial method of reduction of aluminum today is known as the Hall-Heroult process.

How $20,000 Started

The Business

Young Hall had his troubles in expanding his discovery into a successful business. Most businessmen he approached were not interested, or offered to take all the profits and leave him only the glory. Finally a group of Pittsburgh businessmen raised the necessary $20,000 to form the Pittsburgh Reduction Company. Further difficulties were encountered in trying to sell the metal to firms that would fabricate it.

Hall and his associates learned to cast, roll, forge, draw, and stamp the metal in order to sell it as a finished product. Thus the traditional method of expanding the use of aluminum took shape as the primary manufacturer first showed the way and then passed his knowledge along to manufacturers.

Subsequent Growth

The most popular form of aluminum sold in the early years was sheet aluminum. Then around the turn of the century the extrusion process was introduced. This was to have a profound effect on fabrication of aluminum products. In the early 1900's it was realized that to increase the use of aluminum it must be strengthened. Hence methods for making aluminum alloys were introduced.

Most of the early supply of bauxite came from France. A big step forward occurred when the ore was discovered in Arkansas. Later discoveries were made in the Caribbean, in Canada, South America, and Australia. On January 1, 1907 the Pittsburgh Reduction Company changed its name to the Aluminum Company of America.

Becomes Big Business

World War I saw great growth in the uses of aluminum by both the Allies and the Germans. During the 1920's there was rapid expansion in its use for foil, auto bodies, pistons, furniture packaging, and home products. Steady growth followed in the 1930's. It took World War II, however, to produce the "Aluminum Revolution," which enabled the Allies to win final victory over Hitler's Germany.

Although more than 75 years have passed since Hall's discovery of the electrolytic method of reducing aluminum, the basic process used today is the same as that discovered in his workshop in Oberlin. From one single plant producing 20,000 pounds of aluminum in 1889, the industry has grown to an annual capacity of nearly six billion pounds.

Billions In Ideas

All major markets greatly increased their use of aluminum in 1963, when U. S. shipments were up 11.5% to set a new record. I forecast still wider use of aluminum in container packaging and in the building and electrical industries. U. S. shipments in 1964 could easily total 7,390,000,000 pounds. And our rapidly expanding economy will use much larger amounts than that in the years immediately ahead.

This story of the Aluminum Company of America—major factor in the aluminum success story—should encourage all young people who have an IDEA. Starting with a modest capital of $20,000 scraped together to found the company, ALCOA has multiplied that original investment a fantastic 100,000 times with gross properties valued at close to $2 billion today!

Wheat Program

Explained To Farmers

The 1965 voluntary wheat program still has the reduction of grain production and stocks as one of its principal purposes,

George B. Reeves, Chairman, Md. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, said today.

The fact that farmers have several options available to them under the program, he pointed out, does not change the fact that the diversion programs are intended primarily to help farmers take acreage out of crops already in excessive supply and shift such acreage into an approved conserving use. The options merely provide a means of adapting program provisions more closely to the operations of the individual farm in working toward the program's objectives.

The 1965 wheat program, the Chairman said, encourages the grower to divert acreage from the production of wheat into an approved conserving use, and the 1965 feed grain program not yet announced—will continue to seek diversion of acreage from the production of feed grains. The substitution privilege, available for the first time under the 1965 program, permits farmers who participate in both program to choose which crop—wheat or one of the feed grains—he wants to reduce.

Growers who file applications to participate in the 1965 wheat program and meet its minimum provisions qualify for price support on their wheat crop through loans and purchases, and for marketing certificates with a cash value. Growers who wish to earn diversion payments will need to reduce their wheat acreage further and devote the additional diverted acreage into a conserving use.

Chairman Reeves urges farm operators who still have questions about the voluntary wheat program to get in touch with the ASCS County Office. The program sign-up ends today, Oct. 2.

"Yes...I Condemned THE CATHOLIC CHURCH"

"And you would, too," wrote a non-Catholic recently, "if all the things I heard about it were true."

"For years, I kept hearing that the Catholic Church was opposed to the Bible and tried to suppress it. I was told that the Church had changed Christ's teaching and practiced pompous pagan forms of worship. It was told to me that Catholics worship statues and images, and that the Catholic Church defied God's law and changed the Sabbath."

"But now I have learned that these stories and many others about the Catholic Church are not true—and never were."

Every day, thousands of our non-Catholic friends and neighbors are discovering, as this man did...that Catholic belief, worship and history are widely misrepresented and misunderstood.

That is why we publish these advertisements...and invite you to write for free pamphlets. We want you to know us as we are—not as false rumors and slanders represent us to be. We want you to know...if only for your own information...what the Catholic Church actually teaches, and what we Catholics actually believe.

This enables you to get authentic information about the Catholic Church—to investigate in the privacy of your own home. Then...even though you may not agree with Catholic beliefs and practices...you will at least understand them, and be able fairly and in good conscience to judge our Faith and what it is founded upon.

But more than truth and fairness are involved. For if it is true...as we claim it is...that the Catholic Church is the Church established by Christ, it is vital to your salvation that you investigate the genuineness of this claim. That is why we publish these messages. That is why we are happy to send you...without cost or obligation...authentic information about the Catholic religion on which to form your judgment.

We will send you free, an interesting pamphlet explaining Catholic teaching on divorce—mixed marriages—gambling and drinking—why Catholics do not attend non-Catholic worship, and answering many of the false rumors you have heard about the Catholic Church. Nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. KC-15.

EFFICIENT FEEDING

AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Are Hog Pastures Obsolete?

With the rapid advance of nutritional knowledge as to what it takes to enable farm animals to grow or produce far beyond older standards, there frequently are comments that pigs or cows or other farm animals should be kept in dry lot or indoors instead of being turned out on pasture.

Pasture all along has been a safety factor in livestock nutrition and management. With sunlight and fresh air all around and those wonderfully complete proteins and vitamins, usually also favorable minerals, and as yet unknown nutritional essentials, pasture is indeed a blessing. Generations of cattle, horses and sheep have thrived through the ages on nothing but pasture.

Now, with complete or very nearly complete rations available for all market animals including swine, there is less emphasis on pasture. It is believed that land suitable for intensive grain production makes its use for hog pasture less profitable. This differs from what was said about hog pasture years ago, but now there are different facts and price or cost conditions.

Forty years ago at the University of Wisconsin an acre of good hog pasture — alfalfa or rape — saved from $60 to $70 on feed. In recent work at the University of Illinois using far more complete rations in dry lot, an acre of pasture saved only from $4.50 to $9 in feed. The rate of gain and feed efficiency of pigs in dry lot, or confinement as compared with pasture, were so nearly the same, that there was only a small benefit from pasture.

European swine producers manage quite well with brood sows in confinement, and raise healthy litters of pigs. Usually only a few sows are kept on a farm and are fed kitchen refuse including greens along with their concentrates. This amounts to a fair pasture substitute.

Raising hogs in confinement for generations over there may have reduced the individual requirement for some of the protective nutrients to a greater extent than we have with our feeding systems and our American breeds.

We still, however, find pasture desirable for brood sows during growth, gestation and lactation.

Question: Is the serious disease of vesicular exanthema a new under control?

Answer: This disease is no longer a menace where all garbage is cooked before feeding. Only 3 percent of garbage-fed hogs in the country are eating it uncooked, and to that extent are unprotected against this disease, also hog cholera and still other diseases.

Acne
Something can be done about acne. The pimples, blemishes, blackheads and boils that make life miserable for so many teenagers often can be eliminated or considerably reduced by careful attention.

Waiting to "outgrow" your acne can be a serious mistake, says a pamphlet of the American Medical Association.

Acne isn't a serious disease, in that it's not a threat to life and limb, but it can be seriously disfiguring at the time of life when young people are most sensitive about their appearance. Severe acne can lead to permanent scarring.

Acne is caused by poor adjustment of the skin to the secretions of maturing glands. The imbalance in hormone secretions will correct itself in time, usually around the age of 18 or 19.

There are two things to remember in dealing with acne:

There is no one-shot cure, no magic pill. Control is a continuing process of simple skin care which you must follow faithfully to have a good complexion.

Second, acne is not a disease of dirt, even though you are told to wash thoroughly and frequently. The washing is to remove oils and to clear the plugged oil glands, keeping blackheads at a minimum. The blackness of the blackhead is not dirt, but is due to a chemical change in the secretions from the oil glands.

Wash the face two or more times daily with soap and hot water. Wash thoroughly, but gently enough to avoid irritating the skin. Frequent shampooing of the hair also is in order.

Acne is not primarily a dietary disease. Following the strictest diet will not, by itself, clear your skin. However, some individuals seem to be made worse by very small amounts of certain foods, particularly chocolate, and these persons obviously should avoid such offending foods entirely.

Medical care for acne is best sought early before permanent damage is done. Each physician will have his own particular rules, methods and medications, and the treatment prescribed will vary from patient to patient. Do not assume that the medicines and methods prescribed for a friend will be the best, or even proper, treatment for you.

Your doctor probably will warn against picking, scratching, popping and squeezing of pimples, since this may result in scars. Ask him whether you should open pustules or extract blackheads yourself. If he recommends this, he will show you how to do it without damage.

In some patients other treatments, such as antibiotics or other drugs, ultraviolet light or x-ray therapy, may be selected by your physician. Your physician will determine your specific needs.

The white hospital ship S.S. Hope's medical mission to Guinea will begin in October and will be the vessel's first visit to the continent of Africa.

Blue Mountain Express Scheduled October 17, 18

The Blue Mountain Express will once again stop to pick up passengers at Glyndon, Westminster, Union Bridge, Thurmont and Hagerstown, when on Saturday, Oct. 17, the famous train, sponsored by the Baltimore Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society will make another round trip between Baltimore and Cumberland over the main line of the Western Maryland Railway. Last year the Baltimore Chapter operated a similar excursion, which attracted over 1500 passengers, and was completely sold out.

The train will leave from the Western Maryland Railway's Port Covington marine terminals at Baltimore, 8:00 A.M.; DST; Glyndon, 8:40 A.M.; Westminster, 9:15 A.M.; Union Bridge, 9:45 A.M.; Thurmont, 10:15 A.M.; and Hagerstown, 11:20 A.M.

The Blue Mountain Express, by popular demand, will stop to pick up passengers at Glyndon, Hanover, Gettysburg, Fairfield, Pa., and Hagerstown, when on Sunday, Oct. 18, the famous train, again sponsored by the same organization, will make a special round trip between Baltimore and Cumberland over the 'Dutch Line' of the Western Maryland Railway between Glyndon and Highfield.

The train will leave from the Railway's Port Covington marine terminal at Baltimore, 8:00 A.M.; Glyndon, 8:40 A.M.; Hanover, 9:40 A.M.; Gettysburg, 10:25 A.M.; Fairfield, 10:55 A.M.; and Hagerstown, 11:45 A.M.

The excursions are open to the public. Each train will carry Baltimore & Ohio dining cars, serving baked ham midday meals and roast turkey dinners. There will be a two-hour stop for sightseeing at Cumberland.

Round trip fares range from $9.95 from Baltimore to $7.00 from Hagerstown. Tickets must be ordered by Oct. 12—the sooner the better. Tickets and information may be obtained from Alan Crumbaker, 1135 Evans Way, Baltimore, Md. 21205, or, in person, from W. M. agents at Glyndon, Westminster, Union Bridge, Thurmont, Hagerstown, Hanover and Gettysburg, as well as from Mr. John Luntz, R1, Fairfield, Pa., and Gilbert's Hobby Shop, Gettysburg, Penna.

The original Blue Mountain Express operated around the turn of the century between Baltimore and the Blue Ridge resort area. Nostalgic memories of the happy days will be revived this month when the Blue Mountain Express once more rolls over the Western Maryland Railway.

Several residents of Canada and Great Britain have served aboard the white hospital ship S.S. Hope in addition to nearly 600 American medical personnel.

Safest Method Of Smoking Is Announced

A Safe Way To Smoke Cigarettes? "Never say die." That seems to be the attitude of many cigarette smokers today. They're convinced that cigarette smoking is a health hazard. But they're still puffing away.

Are you? If so, you'd probably love to find a safe way to smoke. Columbia University doctors think they've discovered one. They recently described their technique to physicians meeting in New York City with the American Thoracic Society, medical arm of the National Tuberculosis Association.

The Columbia doctors believe that inhaled cigarette smoke is what damages lungs. So their method enables you to smoke without inhaling.

Here's how . . . in five easy steps. 1) Take a puff. 2) Don't swallow. 3) Hold the smoke in your mouth with your lips closed. 4) Breathe some air in through your nose. 5) Let the air and smoke out through your nostrils.

It's easy, the doctors say. Anyone can learn in a few tries. But does it work? The Columbia group says yes. The new method will make it possible for you to smoke without inhaling. And it will keep harmful substances out of your lungs.

But there's a catch. You may not like it. Smokers used to inhaling deeply don't care much for the scientific method. Many think it's no better than quitting.

And that's the point. Want to make sure cigarettes don't 1) damage your lungs, 2) shorten your life, 3) give you chronic bronchitis or lung cancer, or 4) add to your chances of dying from coronary heart disease and breathing disorders like emphysema? Never say die; there is a way. Stop smoking.

LAUREL, Md.—The American Selection Board, which will invite two top U. S. horses to compete in the $150,000 Washington D.C. International November 11 at Laurel Race Course, announced this week it is giving consideration to 10 outstanding thoroughbreds of the 1964 campaign.

The list includes Bohemia Stable's four-time champion Kelso, the Gedney Farm's Gun Bow, Rokeby Stable's Quadrangle, and Tony Imbesi's Tosmah, leading contender for the filly and mare title.

Bill Boniface of the Baltimore Sunpapers, chairman of the Selection Board made up of prominent turf writers, pointed out that the committee's task this year is difficult because of the topsy-turvy campaign among leading championship contenders.

"We know there are going to be outstanding foreign horses and with the International deadlocked at six victories for America and six for the foreigners, we want to come up with the very best," Boniface said.

"Although we have listed ten leading horses at this time, the committee also decided to give careful consideration to others as warranted."

Other horses listed were Jerry Basta's Cedar Key, Tartan Stable's Western Warrior, Pelican Stable's Parka, the Harbor View Farm's pair of Roman Brother and Master Dennis, and Montpelier

It is expected that Kelso, Gun Bow, Quadrangle and Roman Brother might meet in the 1 1/4-mile Woodward Stakes at Aqueduct Oct. 3. The Committee probably will meet again in about a week, the chairman indicated.

Gun Bow, winner of seven big stakes, was upset on Labor Day by Kelso in the Aqueduct Stakes. Quadrangle beat Northern Dancer, Kentucky Derby winner, in the Belmont Stakes. Northern Dancer, who was to have represented Canada at Laurel, is out with an injury. Tosmah defeated colts in the Arlington Classic and has won seven stakes in 1964.

establishment of the Peace Corps, the Income Tax Cut Law, the Civil Rights Law, the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, the Economic Rehabilitation Law (popularly known as the Anti-Poverty Law) and Medicare (which as yet has not been finally passed by the Congress).

Because I think these six issues exemplify the nature of the choice the American voter will have in November, they are worthy of careful scrutiny by interested citizens. I have been asked to comment upon them in the coming weeks.

At the outset let me say this: It is my conviction that each one of these six achievements will bear the test of time, that there will come a day (and soon) when the student of history will note clearly that these six measures promoted the welfare of the United States, and its people in the turbulent 1960's. If this turns out to be the case, then let it now be noted, that the 1964 Republican nominee for President is on record as having opposed all six. With remarkable consistency the Senator from Arizona opposed the Peace Corps, he voted against the Income Tax Law, against the Civil Rights Law, against the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, against the Anti-Poverty Law and against Medicare.

Consider first the Peace Corps and then let us evaluate accordingly the Republican standard bearer's shortsighted opposition to it.

The story is told of a young Peace Corps volunteer who was waiting to board a plane in Manila which would take her back to the United States after serving a two-year tour of duty with the Corps in the Philippines. She was asked if she were happy or sad to be leaving and she answered, "sad, very sad." Asked why, she remarked that she "had grown to love these people."

She "had grown to love these people." One might conclude that the Philippines also had grown to love her. To carry the process one logical step further, it is quite possible that the same people also had grown to love the country she represented.

Today, some three years after the first volunteer went overseas, there are several thousand young Americans serving their country abroad in the Peace Corps. Most of them do comparatively "insignificant", "little" things. They teach poor, ragged children in a rural school, they help build roads or sanitation facilities in the jungles of Africa or in the highlands of South America. They help staff hospitals all over the world. To the people they reach the Peace Corps volunteer is the United States of America! The dedication and the quiet heroics of Peace Corps volunteers have unquestionably reflected credit upon the United States and its government. To say that the Peace Corps is the most imaginative, recent steps forward in American foreign policy, to say that the volunteers are serving their country, the cause of freedom and justice in the world is, I am convinced, the truth of the matter. The Corps has channelled the resources and energy of our young people in the best traditions of our society. Service, human welfare and helping people to help themselves, are the spirit of the Peace Corps. In a word, the Peace Corps has been a significant instrument for good will and understanding among the people of the world.

President Kennedy, President Johnson and Senator Humphrey had the wisdom and foresight to understand this from the beginning. On the other hand, the Republican nominee has consistently opposed the Peace Corps. Back in 1961 when the Congress was considering the matter, he called it all sorts of childishly derogatory names.

History will remember and reward—of this we can be certain!

Vehicle Wreck Results In Suit

A $50,000 damage suit has been filed in the Frederick County Circuit Court by Milton A. Sewell of Emmitsburg against an Emmitsburg youth and his parents. Sewell claims that Marvin Henley Cregger, R2, Emmitsburg, was acting as the agent of his parents, Luther and Ada H. Cregger, when he drove a car owned by the elder Creggers into the rear of a tractor operated by Sewell last September 24 at 6:30 a.m.

Sewell was operating a 1941 Farmall tractor on the Old Frederick Road two miles south of Emmitsburg when the Cregger

John C. Evelius, Baltimore attorney, is asking $50,000 in damages from the Cregger family for the injuries Sewell sustained.

LOOK FOR THE ACTION

What goes through a fish's mind when he shops around for a lure to smash? Unless he becomes irritated by the intrusion of a wriggling hunk of metal, plastic or feathers, he probably looks for something closely resembling the tasty, nutritious dishes to which he's accustomed.

Taken literally, this would suggest to inexperienced fishermen that they should rush out to buy lures that are identical copies of natural fish foods. But hold on, warn the fishing pros at Mercury outboards; fooling a fish is no simple matter and it takes more than looks to induce a strike.

Actually, some of the best lures, proven by thousands of anglers over the years, do not even faintly resemble natural foods. In fact, some are so absurd they raise doubts to a fish's mentality... yet they produce. It becomes apparent, then, that some other factor enters the picture.

When fish ignore a perfect imitation and select a lure that looks like something you'd expect to find dangling on the watch fob of a railroad conductor, it's safe to assume that fish have had vision for outlines and details. What he does see is mainly size and movement.

Therefore, advise the Mercury folks, the important considerations are to use a lure of the proper size and fish it in a manner that compares closely with the movements of natural foods.

Pattern, color and shape play less of a role than often supposed. It's the man behind the rod who fools the fish, not a pretty lure in a showcase—that mainly dupes the man.

TRAVELING WITH HUNTING DOGS

By Bob Bartos, Manager
Friskies Pet Foods Research Center

How does your dog travel to the site of your hunting expedition? Ideally, right in the car with you, preferably in the back seat where he can't interfere with your driving; or in some type of dog carrier.

If you use a carrier or crate, be sure he gets plenty of fresh air and a chance to stretch his legs from time to time.

Unfortunately, the size of a crate needed to accommodate one of the large hunting breeds can be prohibitive, unless you're driving a station wagon. This often means that dog and crate are relegated to the trunk of the car which is not the place for a dog. The use of the trunk for this purpose is excusable only when you have a car full of hunters and no space for your four-footed companion. In such instances, take every available precaution.

First, the crate should be anchored in place to avoid slipping. Secondly, the trunk should be opened wide enough to assure plenty of fresh air, and fixed securely enough to insure it against closing. There are special locks available that hold the trunk safely open.

Another wise precaution is to have the exhaust system of your car checked before setting out on your hunting expedition. Even if the dog is getting sufficient air, a leak or malfunction of the exhaust system may make him ill and he'll be in no condition to hunt. Remember that each year many hunting dogs fall victim to trunk suffocation or carbon monoxide poisoning and never live to hunt.

Feeding tip: To assure you that your dog will get all the nutrients a hard working dog will need, and to make feeding easy, take along a top quality prepared dog food such as Friskies on your hunting expedition.
