It seems as though I was a little misinformed last week when I accused the Thurmont PTA of taking surreptitious action concerning the plans for the new consolidated school for Northern Frederick County at Thurmont. In the writeup in this column I said, in innuendo form, that the PTA there was holding a meeting to discuss plans for the new school and that Emmitsburg was not invited to participate. I have been politely informed by the president of the Thurmont PTA, Mr. William Baker, an old friend and former Emmitsburgian, that this was not exactly true. Authorities and faculty at our local school have been consulted and it was agreed to hold meetings in discussing the plans for the new school and that joint meetings possibly would be held in the future. In addition the local PTA is aware of these plans. So it appears that I unjustly accused the Thurmont PTA of shady and defiant activities, for which I am deeply sorry. The point is that to my knowledge, and to hundreds of others here, no publicity on these plans has been forthcoming and that I, and the Town Council, appear to be in the dark and uninformed of any plans whatsoever or howsoever conceived.

With the possibility of the new bypass opening soon quite a number of local businessmen are concerned whether or not appropriate signs will be erected along the new roadway. Remember last year when Gettysburg had so much difficulty getting the State to erect informative and directional signs on the new road? Local businessmen are apprehensive that the same thing might happen here. Directional signs indicating the location of the business district, the two colleges, Grotto, Mother Seton Shrine, etc., should be included in the group of signs to be erected. Some local service organization or the Chamber of Commerce should tackle this situation immediately. My information has it that if the new bypass is not opened this week it more than likely will not be until next spring. We'll know pretty soon, one way or the other.

For years now we have been screaming for a new Postoffice and now that we are going to get one we might as well make it a first class one. I have been told that efforts toward this goal have or are being made. So much for the good, however why not add carrier service while we are at it? I have been told, and by good authority, that all that is lacking here is house numbering. A simple task indeed but a major deterrent in the path of our progress. For 10 years feeble efforts have been made to do this minor chore but to date success has been sadly lacking. It would behoove our Town Council to get busy immediately while this postal business is hot and map out a plan whereby every house will be assigned a number and then present our case to the Postoffice authorities for a decision. I need not dwell on the merits of carrier service as everyone knows it will give several men employment, be a tremendous aid to elderly citizens who must trek to the P. O. every day, rain or shine, cold or hot. It is not a favor, it is a service that the size of our community warrants and we are entitled to it, so let's get busy on this house numbering project, Council!

Oyster Feast

The Francis X. Elder Post 121, American Legion, announces its annual oyster feast will be held in the post home on Saturday, Dec. 12, starting at 7 o'clock. Oysters will be served in all styles and tickets to the affair are selling at $2.50 per person. Ticket deadline is December 5. The affair is for members and guests and tickets are available at the post.

Announce Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Mehrle Shriner, Jr., Thurmont, are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first child, a son, David Franklin, November 22 at the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg.

Election Shows Both Parties' Work

The Republican Party got out about the same percentage of voters as the Democrats in the general election, but when the votes were totaled most Republican candidates were losers.

Figures released by the Board of Election Supervisors show 77 per cent of the county's registered Democrats voted while 76 per cent of the registered Republicans cast ballots.

The Democrats outpolled the Republicans in Frederick County by 4,031 votes. The Democrats held a registration lead of 5,079 voters.

Democrats got out 80 per cent or more of their total registration in 23 of the 74 precincts in the county. Republicans obtained 80 per cent or more of their total registration voting in only 17 precincts.

When the percentage voting gets closer to the total registration, the gap between the parties grows. Democrats got 85 per cent or more of their total registration out in eight precincts, one of which was Emmitsburg 1.

Republicans achieved a vote of 85 per cent or more of their total registration in only two precincts, Frederick 11 and Walkersville 1-A. Frederick City precinct 11 turned out 89 per cent of registration for the GOP.

The Democrats had an 87 per cent vote in Frederick precinct 11-A, an 86 per cent vote in Urbana and Tuscarora 1-A, an 87 per cent of registration vote in Braddock 1-A and their highest percentage anywhere in the county, 90 per cent of registration, in New Market precinct 1-A.

Noteworthy among the precinct tallies by party vote released by the Board of Election Supervisors were the following:

Republicans defeated Democrats in only six county precincts, sweeping Thurmont with a 38 vote lead in Thurmont precinct 1, a 52 vote lead in Thurmont precinct 3 and a 106 vote in Thurmont precinct 2, yet President Johnson won in the Thurmont voting.

Republicans also carried Havers precinct by 62 votes, Lingapore by a slim eight-vote margin and Burkittsville with an overwhelming 90 vote majority, but the GOP lost all of the other 68 election precincts in Frederick County.

Democrats swept Emmitsburg with a 108 majority in Emmitsburg precinct 1, a 63-vote majority in Emmitsburg 2; an 111-vote landslide in Emmitsburg 2-A and an even larger total of 128 votes in Emmitsburg precinct 3, perhaps accounting for the fact that the only precinct in the county lost by incumbent Republican Congressman Charles McC. Mathias Jr., was in Emmitsburg.

Democrats swept Brunswick with an 89-vote majority in precinct 1; an astounding 152-vote majority in precinct 2; a 96-vote majority in precinct 3 and a 69 majority in precinct 3-A, yet Congressman Mathias won Brunswick, with the aid and endorsement of the railroad town's Democratic Mayor James E. Cummings.

Democrats won in Middletown, which has been predominantly Republican for years, with a whopping 108 vote majority in precinct 1 and a 63 vote majority in precinct 2, while Republicans maintained their lead in Burkittsville six miles away.

Miss Chrismas Wed Saturday

Miss Jeannette Marie Chrismar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Everett Chrismar, East Main St., became the bride of Vernon E. MacCubbee, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. MacCubbee, Sr., R5, Hagerstown, on Saturday, Nov. 28, at noon in St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Rev. Fr. James Delaney performed the nuptial mass, double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white chrysanthemums and pom-poms. Mrs. Louis Rosensteel played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Marie Rosensteel. Robert Adelsberger and Thomas Topper served as acolytes.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor-length gown of peau de soie, fashioned with a sabrina neckline and a chantilly lace jacket. The bell-shaped skirt ended in a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of pure silk illusion fell from a small silk organza crown featuring a miniature floral rosette. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pom-poms with red rosebuds.

Mrs. Robert Brown, sister of the bride, Canal Winchester, O., was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of electric blue peau de soie with matching jacket and headpiece and carried a nosegay of white and blue pom-poms.

Bridal attendants were Misses Mary and Norah O'Brien, Emmitsburg. They wore gowns identical to that of the matron of honor and carried similar bouquets. Robert Wilson, Baltimore, was best man. Ushers were Robert L. Brown, Canal Winchester, O., and Donald Burger, Hagerstown, Md.

The bride's mother wore a dior blue wool ensemble with a corsage of yellow rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a dress of blue wool knit with a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Social Hall. For their wedding trip to New York the bride wore a cambridge gray wool suit with matching accessories and a gardenia corsage. Upon their return they will reside at 419 Summit Ave., Hagerstown, Md.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of St. Joseph's High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of No. Potomac High School, Hagerstown and is employed by Robert Burger, Hagerstown. Out-of-town guests were present from Pittsburgh, Pa., Baltimore, Hancock, Hagerstown, Md., and Ohio.

FLOHR-FISHER

Miss Lois C. Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Fisher, Rocky Ridge, and Mr. Merle A. Flohr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Flohr, also of Rocky Ridge, were united in marriage at St. John's United Church of Christ, Sabillasville, Md. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Claude H. Corl, on Nov. 26 at 7:30 p.m.

The bride wore a blue nylon dress with white and blue accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Carolyn Strawsburg was matron of honor and was attired in blue with white accessories. Mr. Harold Strawsburg was best man.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will reside at the home of the bridegroom.

Future Nurses

Feed Needy

The Future Nurses of America of Emmitsburg High School passed along the happiness to two families in the vicinity of Emmitsburg recently.

The FNA collected money from a "Slave Sale" held during the preceding year and decided to provide two families with the "fixings" for a Thanksgiving dinner. The members hope the families enjoyed the gift and say they are happy to know that they made someone else happy.

Mount Shares In HFC Grant

Two area colleges are among the 531 colleges and universities that just received checks totaling $92,050 from Household Finance Corporation.

Mount Saint Mary's, Emmitsburg, and Western Maryland in Westminster, received checks in this area, said D. H. Morris, manager, HFC, Frederick.

Since 1956, when HFC established its annual program of unrestricted gifts, these checks have totaled more than $650,000. Checks are sent to all four year accredited colleges and universities in the 47 states in which the corporation works.

The checks range from amounts of $100 to $1,000 based upon the full-time enrollment of the college.

There's fun too in a variety of games, plus the fact that you may win any of the valuable raffish prizes which include a stereophonic hi-fi, Bavarian china, electric hair dryer, luggage set, silver tray, spray-steam-dry iron, and a transistor radio. Santa Claus has promised to stop in on Saturday afternoon to greet the kiddies. Hoagies, hamburgers, and pizza are in the food line-up, and everyone is invited to dinner Friday evening and luncheon Saturday afternoon.

Two Towns Dicker Over School Site

Frederick County Commissioners met this week with a delegation from Jefferson at the same time that the Frederick County School Board met with a group from Burkittsville.

Both delegations talked about the location of the proposed new Middletown Valley Elementary School.

The Jefferson delegation proposed to the School Board several sites for the school within the town limits of Jefferson.

They insisted that the new school be located there. The Burkittsville group told the School Board that the Burkittsville PTA and Ruritan Club insist that the school be located no closer to Jefferson than half-way between Burkittsville and Jefferson, preferably in the Broad Run area where it was originally planned.

School Board Vice President Gordon Smith has voiced objections to the Broad Run location, since it would be "another Central, in the middle of nowhere, unrelated to the facilities of any community."

School Superintendent Dr. John Carnochan reportedly told the Burkittsville delegation the same thing he told the Jefferson Ruritan Club and PTA delegation which appeared at the last School Board meeting.

This was that although both Jefferson and Burkittsville will lose their present aging elementary schools when the new consolidated elementary school for all of Middletown Valley is constructed, made than these two communities must be considered.

The new school, serving all of Middletown Valley is also intended to end overcrowding in the Middletown and Brunswick elementary schools.

Plan Route 15 As Expressway

Route 15 will eventually be an expressway from Harrisburg to the Maryland line, according to news reports from Harrisburg.

Saturday the state Highways Department announced a $43,300 engineering agreement with Berger Associates, Harrisburg consultants, for preliminary plans on "full control access" of Route 15 from the Shiremanstown Rd. interchange to a point north of Dillsburg.

The state also noted that an engineering agreement is underway at present for the portion of the road from York Springs to Shriver's Corners, a distance of 12 miles, and the only portion of the road from Harrisburg to the Maryland line which has not been improved. The $8,000,000 15-mile "Gettysburg bypass" from Shriver's Corner to Maryland line was completed in 1963. Maryland is now engaged in bypassing Emmitsburg as part of the modernization of the road.

The contract with Berger Associates was described as part of the plan to "make Route 15 an expressway."

Phelan Wins 200th Game For Mount

Coach Jim Phelan's Mounties had little difficulty taming highly-touted North Carolina College in the curtain-raiser on the local court Wednesday evening, 100-80, before 1,500 fans.

The victory was the 200th for the Mt. St. Mary's College mentor in his 10-year stretch at the Mountaineer helm. Following the game Phelan was enthusiastically carried from the floor by the cagers and students.

It was a wild, screaming crowd that paid tribute to the former LaSalle College player who in ten years at the local college has compiled a 200-73 record including a national small college championship in 1962, the same year he was named Coach of the Year.

Except for a mild North Carolina College rally in the middle of the second half the game was never in doubt after the Mountaineers, behind the shooting of Pete Johnson, pulled away to an 18-11 spread early in the first half.

Johnson, who tossed in 19 to lead a parade of six Mountaineers in double figures, teamed with Bernie Haag, the other outside man, to score four points each during the first half spurt.

The Mounts put the game out of reach by outscoring the visiting Eagles 11-1 in a two and a half minute stretch in the second half to take a commanding 20-point lead, 74-54.

Cornerman John Carrell, who tallied 15 points, scored four in the outburst and Johnson, Haag, Jack Campbell and Ed Sarmir accounted for the others. Sarmir also set up one of Carrell's buckets on a steal and fed Campbell for his two-pointer.

Campbell, who did most of the rebounding for the Mounts, finished behind Johnson with 16 points. Carrell was next, then Ed Folk with 13, Sarmir with 11 and Haag with 10.

The Mountaineers travel to Trenton, N. J. today where they will participate in the Trenton Tournament tonight and Saturday. They drew Rider College in the opening game with St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., and Iona, meeting in the second game. The winners and losers play Saturday. The Mounties return home next

EHS Liners Shaping Up

Coach George Kuhn's Emmitsburg High School's Liners are busy working out for the approaching season and in discussing the basketball team this week, Coach Kuhn said:

"The team must score consistently if we are to win the Class C title from Brunswick this year."

The Liners lost two of the finest backcourt men in the county last year, Harry Harner and Gene Eyer, and the replacements as well as the other three men must take up the scoring slack.

"We are concentrating mainly on offense in our pre-season drills," said Kuhn. "We had the second best defensive team in the

Tuesday night against Shepherd College and then host Susquehanna Thursday evening and Catholic University Saturday night.

The all-Negro school, which played and lost to the Mount in the 1957 NCAA small college tournament, posted a 12-8 record last season under coach Floyd Brown.

As far as the Mounts are concerned, they'll be after their 4th Mason-Dixon title in the last five seasons although they don't play a league opponent until Catholic University visits Memorial Gym next Saturday.

"We're in good shape and there are no injuries," Phelan said after his team held a short practice session.

The coach plans to go with 6'5 Jack Campbell at center, Lou Martine, 6'3, and John Carrell, 6'3, in the corners and Pete Johnson, 6'2, and Bernie Haag, 6'0, out front.

"Campbell's return (he was out nearly all of last season with an injured ankle) gives us the added size we need," Phelan said. "If we can be as tough defensively as we were last year I think we'll be just as good."

Last season the Mountaineers notched an 18-7 record, but were nipped by Catholic U., 56-52, in the tournament finale.

But Phelan lost his big scorer, Mike Costello, via graduation. He hopes to have an equally adept point maker in Pete Johnson, a sophomore.

"Pete has looked excellent so far," Phelan commented. He's strong and a very capable ball handler." Teaming with Johnson in the backcourt is Bernie Haag who Phelan called a "key man" from the middle of last season.

Carrell, a junior and a starter since his freshman year will carry the scoring punch from the corner. The forward scored 301 points last season and tied with Ed Folk, also back, for second place behind Costello.

Folk heads the depth department for Phelan's crew. Fran Fennerty, 6'5, will likely spell Campbell at center while Jim Livelsberger, Mike Johnson, Pete's brother, are available for backcourt relief and Bill Neuss, Ed Sarmir and Mike Lyons are ready for spot duty.

St. Joseph's High Gearing For Busy Court Schedule

St. Joseph's High School will open its 1964-65 basketball season tonight (Friday) at Fairfield High School. A junior varsity game will precede the varsity match between these two schools.

This is expected to be a rebounding year for St. Joseph's with the nucleus of last year's team returning. Only George Brown, who graduated, and Mike Tracey, who is not playing this year, will be missing from the team that lost to Fairfield last year after leading through three quarters.

St. Joseph's is coached again this year by Father Delaney, who has guided the school for the past two seasons.

Four seniors and a junior will be in the starting line-up at the tap-off tonight. In the backcourt, Father Delaney will start veteran Dennis Stahley and newcomer George Knox. Stahley, who is competing in his fourth year of varsity competition, is one of the finest ballhandlers and shooters in the area. Despite his small size, he rebounds well and does everything well with a basketball.

Last year, co-captain Stahley was named to the second team of the Blue Ridge Conference All-Star team, missing the first team by only one vote. Newcomer Knox, a transfer student, has shown a fine defensive sense and is a rugged rebounder. At center will be Jim May, the tallest man on the team at 6'2. May, another veteran, has shown vast improvement rebounding and tapping, and could by season's end be the big surprise.

Up front, Dick Wivell, a co-captain and senior, and Gerry Orosz will play the wings in the patterned offense. Wivell, moved to the forward with the advent of May, is a steady performer who does the bulk of the rebounding. This year he has added an improved shooting eye and should be a large factor in the success of St. Joseph's. Rounding out the line-up is the promising Orosz, the only junior in the line-up and an experienced performer from the last two years. Orosz is expected to be the high scorer for the "Saints" since last year he showed flashes of greatness. A dedicated player, Orosz has added a new aggressiveness to his sure shooting eye.

Another senior, Jim Grinder, has been hampered by a lack of practice but will be a great help in spelling May and Wivell. Understudying these six will be a bench made up of sophomores and freshmen. Returning

OUR LIBRARY

The Emmitsburg Public Library offers a world of entertainment to young and old alike. We are still building around the basic collection while adding some of the newer books available through County Services, headquarters in the C. Burr Artz Library, Frederick.

Does your child take advantage of all the reference material in the library? Does he know, for instance, that material contained in the wonderful set of "World Book Encyclopedia," will help him to make better grades, do extra credit? We also have "National Geographic" as far back as 1935, these make wonderful reference in different parts of the globe and their information is often more current than anything the children get in books. Also in our reference collection is a most unusual book called the "Occupational Outlook Handbook." This book gives a perfect description of any occupation imaginable and the outlook for the next ten years. It is fascinating to browse through it.

The "Maryland Manual for 1963-64" has a wealth of information. What do you know about your home state? Where does Maryland rank among the states, what is the population, how large an area does Maryland cover? How much money does Maryland appropriate to the different schools and organizations that are state supported? What are the ten legal holidays fixed for Maryland? Who are members of the Maryland Senate? These and many other useful terms you will find explained in the Maryland Manual, published every even year by the State of Maryland, and copies are distributed without charge to the public libraries, agencies of state and county government, schools, members of the General Assembly and others as prescribed by law.

The "United States Government Organization" manual is the official organization handbook of the Federal Government. It contains sections descriptive of the agencies in the legislative, judicial and executive branches. It lists addresses of Veterans Administration centers, domiciliaries, hospitals, insurance centers, and regional offices, located throughout the United States and the Veterans Benefits Office, located in the District of Columbia, facilitate the granting of benefits provided for veterans and their dependents. Any agency of the Government and their officers will be found in the U. S. Government Organization Manual.

The "Congressional Directory" gives short biographies of all the States' Senators and Representatives of the different districts. Officers of the Department of Defense, Health, Education and Welfare, State, Treasury and many other Departments of the Executive Branch.

Encourage your child and come in with him when you are in need of reference material.

Get Questionnaires
With Vets' Checks

Income questionnaires have been mailed with pension checks to 25,000 disabled veterans and dependents in the Baltimore Regional Area, F. E. Quinn, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Baltimore, said today.

Mr. Quinn pointed out that the questionnaire had been included in the same envelope with the November pension check, normally received about December 1.

He cautioned pensioners to look for the questionnaire in the envelope when they get their checks, to fill it out and return it promptly to the Regional Office—as soon as their total 1964 income has been determined.

The pensioner also must indicate on the questionnaire the amount of income he expects to receive during calendar year 1965.

All pensioners are required by law to provide this information to the Veterans Administration. They will be removed from the rolls if their questionnaires have not been filled in and returned to the VA before the deadline — January 31, 1965. They would also be required to pay back all payments they received during the past year.

Mr. Quinn urged all veterans and dependents receiving questionnaires, to execute them properly and return them without delay.

100 YEARS AGO

HOOD'S ATTACK FAILS AT FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE

BY LON K. SAVAGE

The Confederacy's Gen. John B. Hood was fighting mad.

It was partly because of his anger—and partly because he figured he could win—that Hood launched a desperate and hopeless attack against a Federal army at Franklin, Tennessee, 100 years ago this week. When the battle was over—after a few short hours of the most bitter fighting of the war—Hood had reason to be still angrier, for the battle served only to deplete his army and to give the Federals reason for rejoicing.

When Hood went into the battle, he was angry not only at the Federals but at his own staff. In the preceding week, he and Nathan Bedford Forrest had skillfully cut off a Federal army under Gen. John M. Schofield; they were converging to make the kill when, through a foul-up in the Confederate chain of command, Schofield managed to escape from the trap and beat it safely with his army to Franklin. There, Schofield dug in, and Hood's big chance had been muffed.

Hood Pursues

In a rage, Hood pursued Schofield to Franklin and there on November 30 threw his army at Schofield's lines—determined to make up for the preceding week's blunder.

It was a bloody affair. Schofield, his back to the unbridged and unfordable Harpeth River, gave not an inch, and Hood spared nothing in his assault.

It was a pleasant, Indian summer day, and Hood's men had to cross broad, open fields to reach the Union lines. That did not deter them, and by late afternoon, 18,000 Southern infantrymen were creeping across the fields, their battle flags flying.

With wild Rebel yells, the Confederates came forward at the run, and the smoke of battle rose and spread all along the line. The Southerners fell by the dozens under the Union fire, but they came on. Hundreds of them smashed right on into the Union trenches, driving the Federals back. Hand to hand fighting broke out; muskets and artillery boomed and swords slashed.

Generals Killed

Confederate Gen. John Adams galloped with his men into the Union line and both he and his horse were shot dead in one fusillade, the horse falling spraddle legged across a Union barricade. Gen. Pat Cleburne, the Irish Confederate, also charged and was shot dead. Four other Southern generals were killed, and 6,000 men were killed or wounded.

Schofield, who watched the battle from across the river, trained his artillery on the Confederates, and the effect was telling. At those spots where the Federal line was broken, other Federals rallied and killed or captured the Confederates who had broken through.

Finally, the day—and the slaughter—ended. During the battle, Schofield's engineers had been working on a bridge across the river. With the bridge completed, Schofield's army filed across the span and headed north to Nashville, under the protection of General George H. Thomas' large Federal army.

Hood, whose initial blunder had now been compounded into two blunders, came limping on northward. A naturally pugnacious man, he still had plenty of fight left in him. Next week: Nashville.

Strides Made

In Stroke Research

In September, 1960, medical writer Alexander Gifford of the Baltimore News-Post suffered a stroke. Thirteen months later, in a series of five articles, he writes of his experience and what he learned about stroke. Part Four

Success in the field of sport often is credited to the team or the performer who has the greater desire—to win.

So it is, to a large degree, with stroke patients.

The will to get well is vastly important.

In my case I had an inkling (which I did not recognize) that a stroke was coming. In playing golf—a daily pastime—I was afflicted with a fit of shanking my shots—making them fly madly off to the right.

I also began seeing a shadowy right hand creeping into view behind me—probably a sort of double vision.

The day before I was stricken I worked hard on the practice tee to try to correct my shanking. The next morning the stroke hit and I was in the hospital.

A good part of one entire floor of the hospital was given over to stroke patients. Some were victims of extremely severe paralysis—some lesser after effects as in my case.

Strokes usually affect only one side of the body, in my case the right side. My handwriting was completely gone, and still is far from normal. I could not type.

I worked up to the hilt on both these difficulties, and have at least partially conquered them.

You'd be surprised what can be done if you work at it.

But many had greater problems than I. Sometimes the whole side was affected.

If the patient is not hospitalized, there is much the family can do to help with the rehabilitation. But two things are essential.

1) The patient must want to get well, must want to help.

2) His family must have patience, love and understanding.

Above all both must believe that all is not hopeless.

Sometimes the doctor will arrange for a nurse or physical therapist to come in and aid in the patient's recovery.

It is important to have exercise of the paralyzed limb or limbs to prevent muscle deterioration or stiffening of the joints.

If the patient is unable to perform these exercises himself, the family may have to take over. Massage, to restore circulation, may be needed and the family members can learn to do this.

Many patients who lose the power of speech are understandably worried and upset.

It is helpful to work out signals—like closing one eye if he wants water and opening his mouth if he wants food. Other signals can be arranged.

Can the patient write? Keep paper and pencil nearby.

Perhaps he can touch a small bell to ring for attention, or push the button of an electric buzzer. It is very reassuring for a patient to know that he can ring for help at any time. It will make him less anxious when he is left alone.

A good thing to have is a booklet "Strokes — A Guide to the Family" available from the Heart Association of Maryland or any of its 9 branches in the State.

Patients are to be encouraged to care for themselves as soon as they are able to do so.

Can they brush their teeth, or manage to comb their hair or dress themselves? It may take a long time to do anything like this, but it's worth doing and trying.

When his condition warrants it, encourage friends to spend time with the stroke patient.

Have the patient participate in family planning and activities.

Merely feeling useful is a tremendous booster to the morale.

Praise any slight progress the patient makes. The recovery may be long and slow.

Don't be discouraged by his failures. Buoy his spirits whenever possible.

It will require patience and understanding, for both the patient and the family.

But the results are worthwhile—the degree of independence and self-confidence the patient achieves.

Even stroke, you see, has its hopeful side.

Read I John 1:5 through 2:5. He is able . . . to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them. (Hebrews 7:25).

Many adults who do not know Christ as Savior put forth the same question my child once asked me: "If God really loves me and cares for me, watches me and hears me, why do I need Jesus?"

Perhaps this anecdote will supply a partial answer. A servant who was entrusted with his master's goods plundered his valuables, sold them, and had a good time on the proceeds. When his master found out, the servant feared for his life. He thought if only he were in a position to make restitution, he would return, plead with his master, and beg forgiveness. But he had nothing with which to repay the loss.

Then his master's son, who was also the servant's friend, sought him out in his hiding place. Offering to intercede for him, the master's son said he would pay for the loss and entreat his father to forgive the servant.

Because of the son's intercession, the loving father forgave the servant, restoring him to his position of trust.

NO. 20,814 EQUITY In The Circuit Court For Frederick County, Maryland DARLENE S. TRUAX

Route 4 Frederick, Maryland

vs. ROGER J. TRUAX

Route 1 Ulysses, Pennsylvania, 16948

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The Bill of Complaint is a suit to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Roger J. Truax.

The Bill recites that the Complainant is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where she has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address was Route 1, Ulysses, Pennsylvania, 16948; that the parties to this cause were married on the 30th day of November, 1957, at Frederick, Maryland, by Rev. Trunk, a regularly ordained minister of the Gospel; that as a result of the said marriage three children were born, namely, Roger Michael Truax, six years of age, Teresa Jean Truax, four years of age, and Debra Colleen Truax, three years of age; that the parties to this cause have voluntarily lived separate and apart without any cohabitation for more than eighteen months prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint, and that the separation between the parties is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation.

The Bill then prays that the Complainant, Darlene S. Truax, be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Roger J. Truax; that she be awarded the care and custody of the infant children in these proceedings mentioned; that she be awarded a sum or sums of money for the support and maintenance of said infant children, and for such other and further relief as the nature of her case may require.

ORDER OF COURT It is thereupon this 16th day of November, 1964, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the County of Frederick, once each week for four successive weeks prior to the 19th day of December, 1964, commanding him to be and appear in this Court, in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 19th day of January, 1965, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

COMMISSIONED

SAN ANTONIO, Texas—Howard E. Lewis Jr., son of Mrs. Pauline C. Lewis of 10 S. Altamont Ave., Thurmont, Md., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School (OTS) at Lackland AFB, Texas.

Lieutenant Lewis, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to an Air Training Command (ATC) unit at Sheppard AFB, Texas, for training as a data systems and statistics officer.

Lieutenant Lewis, a graduate of Thurmont High School, received a bachelor of science degree in 1964 from Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md. His father is Howard E. Lewis Sr., of Thurmont.

Your action, says the AAA Automobile Club of Maryland, can help your child save his own life. Set a good example by observing the rules for safe walking. Walk on the left, facing traffic—observe signs and signals—and cross streets only at corners.

Mother expresses a wish and it's father who pays the charges.

I look forward to retirement with about the same enthusiasm that I look forward to death.

There is nothing more imprudent than excessive prudence.

A Socialist President?

The Democratic vice president elect, if he should ever succeed to the top position, might well become the first socialist president of this nation. Senator Hubert Humphrey was one of a small group of political activists who in 1947 founded the Americans for Democratic Action, a Fabian-like organization that seeks to speed up every possible step toward building a socialist America. He has been its chairman, and later its vice chairman and board member. Senator Humphrey vigorously defends his relationship with ADA and continues a member of it.

The late President Kennedy, when he was a young Senator in 1953, said that he never had joined ADA and that he was "not comfortable with those people." Nevertheless, soon after his inauguration the White House was swarming with card-carrying ADA members. Several of these remained to lend their particular talents to President Johnson. Perhaps only ADA headquarters knows today how many of their number fill positions in the government, but it is thought by critics of the ADA that the penetration has been quite thorough.

Leftward Extremism

The ADA has shunned revolutionary Marxism, to be sure. At least for the record it opposes Communism, although no one has noticed any significant results from ADA opposition to the Reds. Perhaps this is because its members have been very busy fighting the anti-Communists. But it is what the ADA stands for, its espousal of radical left positions, that excites its supporters. It has, for example, called for admission of Red China to the U.N., a position that should have chilled Democratic voters to the marrow when they faced Mr. Humphrey's name on November 3.

The ADA member's special interest is a fierce devotion to the general principles of socialism. New Frontiersman Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., one of Senator Humphrey's colleagues in ADA, has predicted the growth of socialism in these terms: "There seems no inherent obstacle to the gradual advance of socialism in the United States through a series of New Deals." With the Administration trying to outdo its previous spending records and the Johnson poverty program having been inspired by socialist Michael Harrington, this prediction seems to have some validity.

What ADA Wants

Other positions in foreign affairs held by the ADA include support for steps toward unilateral disarmament with nuclear force turned over to the U.N., the identity of our whole foreign policy with that of the U.N., and support for setting up world government. An end to the cold war with Russia is urged rather than victory, with more leniency and appeasement toward the Soviet Union. The warmth they have urged toward Castro and his socialized Cuba would lead us not to provoke the bearded one with embargoes and invasions. Peace, almost at any price, seems to be the foreign theme of the ADA.

In domestic affairs, the ADA battle cry has been more government planning. It has much to say about "expanding democracy," by which is meant achievement through government control and government action. They expect the government, for example, to establish housing goals and follow thru with the requisite action to provide housing for everyone. Spending is asked for education, Medicare, a guaranteed annual wage, or anything. Everything supervised by the government.

Legal Socialism

It is not unfair to describe as socialism what the ADA and Mr. Humphrey acclaim. The Senator himself has noted in his recent book, The Cause Is Mankind, that European socialism has much in common with the ADA point of view. If Humphrey were British he would certainly belong in the government of his British friend, Socialist Harold Wilson, of the Labor Party. The expansion of socialist ideas has been a major goal in Humphrey's career. What additional socialist proposals will he urge upon the people as vice president, or even president?

The ADA seeks through its power and influence to reconcile the trend toward socialism with the American tradition. This is impossible, of course.

The ADA member, please note, has much to say about responsibility at the top, but makes little reference to loss of freedom for all below the top. These people insist that state control, with all the decisions resulting from government economic power, is the way a modern nation should be conducted. They expect to do it all legally, thru fiscal control. The ADA may well bring socialism to the U.S.

"A seaworthy boat was needed that would have a low silhouette for open-water shooting (the box) and would also be small and light enough to be poled or rowed up narrow creeks and gullies (the sneak)," points out Zack Taylor, Boats Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. These characteristics had to be contained in an efficient hull shape for sailing long distances across relatively rough water. The stubby round-bottomed, round-decked vehicle was the happy result.

The boats were, and are, usually 12 feet long with a four-foot beam. Strictly one-man vessels, they are of a distinctive watermelon-on-seed shape. A single dagger centerboard goes through the forward, decked portion of the hull. A watertight hatch covers a small rectangular cockpit amidships. A canvas spray shield, held up by a stick, serves as a shelter in rough weather. The boat is rowed fisherman fashion, facing forward, in calms, and in olden days a sail propelled the boat when the wind blew. This was rigged on a mast that unstepped and was stowed inside the box. Today, no boats are sailed in duck season; the mast gives away to a transom motor mound and a maximum of a 3-hp outboard. This gives a speed maybe 6 to 8 mph.

The stern section is edged with a removable plank wall six inches high. Between this wall and the cockpit coaming the decoys are racked at an angle, tails in the air, breasts on the deck. A good sneak box man can store dozens this way and never tangle the lines.

Armed with his small ship, the veteran gunner can stake out in open water and shoot broadbills, redheads and canvasbacks over large sets of decoys. Or when points are hot, he can grass his boat over and gun out of it sitting high and dry on a sandy beach. Other times, with rollers or at high tide, he can move it over the meadows and slip secretly into hidden ponds and potholes where mallards and widgeon and dark-bodied Canadian black ducks wheel out of the sky with breathtaking beauty.

OUTDOOR SPORTING TIPS

Lantern Light
Bend a piece of aluminum foil around your gas pressure lantern to focus (and increase) light and heat. Foil is fireproof.

Paint 'Em Up
A few stripes of fluorescent paint on spoons will add to their attractiveness for pike and muskies. Increases the wobbly effect.

No-Scent Traps
Boil your traps in a solution made of a half cup of bark from cottonwood, willow, cherry and beech trees and a few bows from a cedar for about an hour. Foxes will never smell them.

Barrel Light
You can see down a gun barrel if your slip a piece of white paper into the chamber. White reflects light down barrel.

Right Approach
Old deer hunters know to walk around their fallen buck and approach him from behind. Then if he comes suddenly to life and dashes to freedom you don't get hurt. Stay calm for finishing shot.

Yellow Jacket Trap
Hang a fish near camp and put a pail of water under it. Yellow jackets gorge themselves on fish until they can't fly, fall into water and drown.

Curry Comb Scaler
A curry comb makes a good fish scaler... as every horse-minded fisherman knows.

Vacuum Seal
Light a match and toss in salmon egg jar before you seal it. Burning uses up oxygen, prevents spoilage.

Easy Laces
Char ends of rawhide, boot laces and they'll be easier to slip through eyelets.

Floats
Corks from the tops of liquor bottles make good pan fish floats.

Skunk Stunk
If your dog meets with a skunk, shaving cream rubbed into his (dog's) coat will reduce the smell.

Hydroelectric Power

Whether power from the prime mover is transmitted to the machines by mechanical or electrical means depends on the efficiency of the transmission, the nature of the load, the proximity of the load, the convenience achieved, and the cost. Where the load is similar to that in a grist mill, the power might be transmitted more economically by mechanical coupling. If there are many machines in various locations to be turned on or off frequently, electrical power transmission would be preferable.

Where the capacity of a waterfall is large, the power is usually distributed from the falls in the form of electricity. Because of the economies of large installations, industries can purchase electricity from a power company more cheaply than they can make it themselves. For example, the Tennessee Valley Authority is able to generate electricity at two-tenths of a cent per kilowatt hour. Some of the largest hydroelectric plants are in Russia, e.g. Bratsk, 4,500,000 kw, and Nurek, 2,700,000 kw. These compare with the Grand Coulee on the Columbia River, 1,974,000 kw, and with the Hoover Dam on the Colorado River, 1,345,000 kw. The total of the Niagara and the Robert Moses Dams is nearly 3,000,000 kw.

Advantages Of High-Voltage Lines

There is a trend toward higher and higher voltages in transmission lines because the power loss on the line decreases as the voltage increases. However, the cost increases also, so that a point is finally reached at which the saving in transmission equals the interest on the investment. Beyond this point it is uneconomical to use a more expensive line. The Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission is planning to transmit power from the Manicouagan and Outardes Rivers to Montreal at 700,000 volts. Here and in Europe there is discussion of sending power at one million volts. At the Grand Falls in Labrador there is a capacity of some 600,000 kilowatts, which could be transmitted to the Manicou-agan River development by a 70 kv line for use in Montreal and even for extension to New York City and other urban communities in northeastern USA.

It would appear that the loss in transmitting power from such falls is much less than most people think. The expense is almost wholly the interest payment on the investment in wires, towers, and right of way. The cost of constructing such a high-voltage line is from $75,000 to $100,000 per mile. Hence to construct a line from Grand Falls to the Manicouagan River would cost some $40 million. Because of the very small loss in transmitting power by wires, this will undoubtedly continue to be the method in use for some time to come.

Power Users

We are undeniably in an electrical age. So much power is needed for the production of aluminum that aluminum plants have been built near large coal deposits or near large sources of water power. The Aluminum Company of American exchanges power from three dams with TVA. TVA also sells power to the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

Nevertheless, in some parts of the world nuclear power is now competitive with conventional fuels. And it may become even more advantageous if fuel cells are perfected to a point where they are actually economical. As previously stated, nuclear power may appear more practicable for Florida than attempting to bring electric power from Canada, where the greatest undeveloped resources are in eastern and western Canada. Also, Florida is not too far from oil and gas sources along the Gulf Coast, or from the oil wells of Venezuela and Colombia.

The straight and narrow path is loaded with toll gates.

Babson's Point Of View On: Power Transmission

BABSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 3 — The utilization of moving water to accomplish useful work dates back to very ancient times when water wheels were employed to lift the water of rivers for use in irrigation. Before the advent of electricity, water power turned the water wheels or turbines which powered machines in mills along the banks or rivers, and in such installations as the Saugus iron works.

and John M. Shuff, and Curtis W. Shuff, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of Leonard A. Shuff, and Curtis W. Shuff, Executors of the Last Will and Testament of Leonard A. Shuff, deceased, are first cousins, and the closest living heirs at law and next of kin of Mary Lorraine Shuff, deceased, who departed from this life intestate on July 23, 1963, seized and possessed of all that piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being on the south side of East Second Street, in Frederick City, Frederick County, State of Maryland, known as 22 East Second Street, in said City, County, and State, fronting nineteen (19) feet, more or less, on East Second Street, and extending back for a depth of eighty-seven (87) feet, more or less, to Market Space, said piece or parcel of land being duly described in a deed recorded in Liber 401, at folio 32, one of the Land Records of Frederick County, Maryland, a certified copy of said deed being filed in these proceedings, and marked Complainants' Exhibit "A", and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that Leonard A. Shuff, deceased, as aforesaid, all of the right, title, and interest in and to the aforementioned real estate, with the improvements thereon, did, by operation of law, vest in the closest living heirs at law and next of kin of the said Mary Lorraine Shuff, deceased, at the time of her demise, all being first cousins, namely, William C. The Bill then prays that your Honorable Court, upon the usual examination in these premises, will appoint a Trustee or Trustees for the sale of the real estate, with the improvements thereon, mentioned herein, and to divide the proceeds of said sale, under the direction of your Honorable Court, to the parties entitled thereto according to their respective interests; and for such other and further relief as the nature of this case may require.

ORDER OF COURT

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Exercise
"Exercise is one of the important factors contributing to total fitness," says a new pamphlet of the American Medical Association.

To assist you in planning a program of regular exercise, the AMA offers a number of suggestions.

An exercise program should be started at an early age and continued throughout life, with certain adjustments from time to time as life advances and needs, interests and capabilities change. The amount of vigorous exercise that is desirable each day is largely an individual matter, with recommendations ranging from 30 minutes to an hour each day as a minimum.

Something of interest for every individual can be found to make exercise satisfying and enjoyable. In addition to many sports, the variety of choices includes daily habits such as walking and gardening. Hard, fast, sustained or highly competitive games and sports should not be played by persons of any age unless they have attained an appropriate state of fitness through regular training. All persons should be found by medical examination to be organically sound before training for competition or other strenuous exercise.

If you're out of training, don't try to keep pace in any vigorous sport with an individual who is properly conditioned through regular training. Being in condition for one sport doesn't necessarily mean you're in condition for another. If you've been long out of training, you will need a period of gradual conditioning to get back to strenuous activity.

How can you tell whether your exercise program is too strenuous? If breathlessness and pounding of the heart don't subside within 10 minutes after exercise if marked weakness or fatigue persists two hours later, if you're still fatigued the next day, then you have overdone it.

If you're beginning to become active again after illness or injury, medical supervision of the effects of exercise is essential. If you are competing in body contact sports, or in sports requiring great endurance and strength, pick on someone your own size and strength. Don't try to stand up to someone much larger, stronger or more skilled. Body contact sports require protective equipment, and it's very important that the equipment be good.

Careful preparation and maintenance of playing fields and other sports arenas are essential to reduction of injuries and full enjoyment of the activity.

Contributions of exercise to fitness include a sense of well-being, and development and maintenance of strength, speed, agility, endurance and skill. Each individual differs in his capacity to enjoy and benefit from exercise.

Even at eighty years of age, a girl likes to be addressed as 'Hello, beautiful.'

If a husband asks for an extra spoon for serving his wax beans he is reboked for adding needlessy to household kitchen drudgery.

A Summer Visit In Western Europe

Anabel E. Hartman

(Concluded)

Before getting myself away from Chester, with difficulty (of its lovely River Dee and its remarkable zoo I can take no time to speak) I think I must mention briefly several of the trips I previously spoke of taking out of Chester. Of the three into Wales, each with some special interest, indeed with more interest than one, I shall mention only the longest, the all-day one across North Wales below the sea-coast to the vicinity of the chief of a number of mountain ranges in Wales, not in length but in height and beauty of outline, i.e., Mt. Snowdon (3560 ft.) and its connected peaks. After lunch at an attractive hotel in Bettys-Y-Coed (there's a bit of Welsh for you) we drove on to the foot of these peaks, noting the bright-colored tents of campers scattered about on the uneven ground surrounding the mountain-bast, and the long queue of tourists waiting to get on the little train that runs to the top of Snowdon. We could not join the line because of our time schedule but from different angles feasted our eyes on this most impressive mass of rocky mountain—and minded less not getting to the top when we recalled that the magnificent view that might be had from there was frequently not seen at all on account of the mists surrounding the summit. The trip to and from Snowdon illustrated also the outstanding features of North Wales scenery: small rivers and river-valleys different in character, hills, moors, mountains, small lakes, and against the natural background man-made remains of earlier historical periods—of monuments, churches, abbeys, fortress-castles.

Other trips were in different directions in England. One to the interesting town of Shrewsbury, directly south, a town with ancient beginnings soon after the withdrawal of the Roman legions in the 5th century A.D., and developing prosperously thru the Medieval and Elizabethan periods and on down into the Modern, with many attractive reflections of all these periods. And another trip was directly east into central England thru a most picturesque and different countryside with a succession of wide and high hills divided into fields by stone walls, beyond these clusters of woods, and in the midst of them our special objective, one of the country houses for which England is famous. This particular place, Chatsworth, is considered one of the most famous houses in the world. It has belonged to the Dukes of Devonshire since built by the first Duke in the late 17th century. The number and size and magnificence of the rooms is really breathtaking, and I shall not attempt the impossible of going into details about such a display of beauty and riches.

Now, really, goodbye England, and all aboard for the last of my summer's travels in Western Europe!

My visit to Ireland, reached by train from Chester to Holyhead, a small port on the north-west coast of Wales, and from there by boat and boat-train to Dublin, about half-way up Ireland's east coast, was divided into two parts, first a 4-day stay in Dublin itself, then a 12-day motor coach tour of Ireland (same number of days, it happened, as the Norwegian Coast Cruise, but how very different!). In Dublin, as had happened nowhere else, since my area of within-the-city sightseeing was larger here, I was assisted in this by the regular City Sightseeing Tours with excellent guides, but they were supplemented by my own ramblings on foot such as I had engaged in everywhere else.

There, just a block from the hotel where I stayed, set squarely between two of the main streets of the city, was the world-famous Trinity College beyond a wide entrance, its compound of buildings around an open quadrangle. But just one part of the library buildings was open to visitors, a tremendously long room with book-stacks to the ceiling on each side and down the center several glass cases with especially rare books or manuscripts, the special object of interest the Book of Kells, called the most beautiful book in the world, an illuminated manuscript of the Four Gospels, named from the monastery where it was made by the monks, supposedly in the 8th century. A wonderful piece of hand-work!

Diagonally across the street is one of the imposing public buildings, very large with massive columns across the front, built in the 18th century as the Parliament House but later taken over by the Bank of Ireland. In different parts of the city are historically and otherwise interesting church buildings dating from the 11th century on, the best-known being St. Patrick's Cathedral, with much beautiful art work in carving and sculpture, and there are many other fine public buildings seen at least on the outside in the course of the City Sightseeing Tours, two of the very finest being the Custom House and the Four Courts, both designed by the same architect, both almost destroyed by fire, and both handsomely restored. On the edge of the city is Phoenix Park, containing over 1700 acres and known to be one of the finest enclosed public parks in the world. Our coach trip into North Dublin took us thru many beautiful sections of it.

And finally, what of the 12-day tour of the island? A beautifully managed and delightful experience presided over by an extremely well-informed and considerate courier and an expert driver (otherwise there might have been accidents in precarious spots) who also had a beautiful baritone voice and a wide acquaintance with Irish songs and delighted us thruout the trip with his unexpected bursts into music. A pleasant combination of picturesque country side with its fresh greenness and a variety of villages and towns, where we stopped for lunch or tea, or for dinner with a room for the night and next morning's breakfast—no chance for monotony! And of course all along the way were beautiful or spectacular natural sights, and more or less exciting programmed or available activities. I can give just a glimpse of all this. (As for the weather, of which everybody talks a good deal, I might just quote a joke from the article on North Ireland in August's National Geographic: "When you see the mountains, that means it's going to rain. When you can't see them, it's raining." But the rain really wasn't that frequent.)

The tour started in Dublin and went directly north into what is the part of the region known as Ulster that still belongs to the British Commonwealth, all the rest of Ireland being the Irish Free State. We drove slowly thru its largest city, Belfast, also chief port and center of industry, noted especially for shipbuilding (in something of a decline in recent years) and linen weaving, but with signs of new industries. A sightseeing walk and overnight here.

Next day, between Belfast and Londonderry at the tip of Ireland, a stop to visit the fabulous Giant's Causeway, a great mass of low many hexagonal blocks, like spools, on the edge of the sea, and beyond them other masses of high pillars, some groups forming all kinds of particular shapes, a chair, a fan, etc. Of course folklore attributes all this wonder to the activities of a giant, but science has a different explanation.

Out of Derry and out of Northern Ireland the next morning and thru a number of small towns to Sligo on the west coast; then thru many other small towns and away from the coast, (for here there is a huge projection of land out into the Atlantic), straight on to Galway and two nights there.

with lovely trips about the countryside, Galway itself called "drowsiest, most magical, most Irish of towns". Then three at Killarney after one of the loveliest of all the lovely pieces of countryside, passing close along the three Killarney lakes, and here one of the special recreations, a ride with three other members of our group in one of the famed jaunting - cars, two-wheeled cars horse-driven, with the driver high up in front and the passengers seated sideways, two facing each way.

Passing thru other quaint places including the good-sized town of Cork, we crossed over to the town of Blarney and went on to its old castle, with the Stone projecting out over an opening at the top of 120 winding steps. Neither the steps nor the Stone were for me or for some others of the group, but we learned that our ever-attentive courier placed a rug under the ladies in turn and held them around the waist as they leaned out into the opening and gained the privilege of saying they had kissed the Blarney Stone.

And now with no more space to mention either night or day stops, I conclude the report of the trip with the last sentence of our little guide-book for Itinerary Tour 12R: "The winding road thru Ballybrack, above the beautiful Vale of Shanganagh, brings you thru Dun Laoghaire—And so back again to Dublin and the end of the trip." And the next day it was down south again, this time to the port of Cobh to catch the Mauretania on its return trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clement Redding.

WHAT OTHER CLUB CAN YOU JOIN
for only

25c?

Off hand, we can't think of any. But if there is a Club you can join for such a modest amount, we doubt whether you would derive as much benefit from it as you will from the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank Christmas Club.

As little as 25c a week keeps you in good standing, and you will be in better standing with the family and friends next year when that Farmers and Mechanics National Bank Christmas Club Check is delivered to your home.

Of course, you are not limited to 25c a week. You may put aside as much as $20.00 weekly, if you wish. There's a series to suit everyone. And remember, there are no entrance fees when you join Emmitsburg's popular Christmas Club.
