Bill Would Protect Motorist

Pennsylvania Assemblyman Francis Worley has promised to introduce a bill in the legislature for the Fairfield Amvets during the course of a meeting at the Amvets home near Fairfield...

The proposed bill would provide for the state to either pay damages to motorists whose vehicles were damaged in collisions with deer or permit them to have the deer slain in the accident.

Members of the Amvets said other states have such laws.

Local Student Wins Award

Four Frederick County students received Science Youth Awards from the Maryland State Veterinary Medical Association for their exhibits at the Frederick County Science Fair held this spring.

The Science Youth Awards are part of the MSVWA's new program of recognizing student achievement in science fairs.

Among the awards was a second place award presented to Douglas Wolfe of Emmitsburg High School, for a project showing the effects of mastitis on souring of milk.

Among the criteria used by the judges in the selection of the awards were the application of the project to the veterinary profession, originality of the entry, quantity and quality of work necessary to create such a display and the educational value the student derived from preparing the project.

Mrs. Mary G. Shuff, Mrs. Ma-bert Hoffman and daughter, Mary Elizabeth, and Jimmy Small, visited Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne, Pa., Sat., May 8. Mrs. Hoffman's son, Paul, is attending the school. Festivities were in observance of Mother's Day.

Babson's Point Of View On: Prospects For Desalting Sea Water

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 13 — Purification of salt and brackish water has been much in the news in recent years, but few people appear to realize that this is one of the most important projects now under way in this country. It is not exploration for the sake of science—like sending a man to the moon—but a true necessity for the future of our country.

Our Water Needs

Outgrowing Resources
Let's take a look at our water needs. Every establishment of any sort requires water, usually for a variety of purposes and often in substantial amounts. At the beginning of this century, the United States consumed only about 40 billion gallons a day for all purposes. Today, the daily water requirements stand at about 359 billion gallons; and the growing population, industrial, and agricultural totals give some idea of how quickly utilization will increase in coming years.

By the year 2000—and that is only 35 short years ahead—it is estimated that water needs will have reached an astronomical 880 billion gallons a day. This projection is all the more startling when it is realized that conventional fresh water sources throughout the nation are capable of supplying only 515 billion gallons daily. Based on these figures, prospects are that in 35 years we will need 365 billion gallons a day more than our conventional sources will be able to provide. To put it another way, by the year 2000 our shortage of natural fresh water will be greater than today's total usage. This poses a mammoth problem for our nation.

Desalting Essential To Future Growth

It is clear that our natural supplies must be augmented as swiftly as possible, or the situation will be dire. Scientists have for a long time been working on desalting ocean and brackish water. In 1952 Congress set up the Office of Saline Water for the purpose of coordinating and extending research in that field. Recently President Johnson recommended doubling the appropriation for this office, and called for a real breakthrough in the cost of desalting sea water to make it economically feasible.

Much progress has been made in terms of desalting expense; in fact, in 1952 it cost $4-$5 per thousand gallons and today it costs only about $1. The point is, however, that desalted water at $1 is still far from competing with the 30c or 40c paid by most communities for the currently available fresh water. But there are indications that distillation expenditures can eventually be greatly reduced by combining a desalting operation with a nuclear power plant turning out steam for turbines simultaneously. Some atomic laboratory scientists believe that such a plant could put out fresh water for 26c per thousand gallons, and that within perhaps 15 years the tab for fresh-water production could be reduced to 15c.

Desalting Units Already In Use

There are, actually, many desalting units being used, not only in this country but in overseas areas that are badly in need of water. But most of these units are relatively restricted in output, and may be considered "transition" distillers and sterilizers to meet temporary needs. Later on, it is expected that large-scale nuclear plants will be constructed, turning out enough fresh water at sufficiently reasonable prices to permit use even for agriculture.

Only obstacle to a dramatic revolution in the world's conversion of bad water into good is the expense of processing. And today it looks as if our scientific leadership may be on the threshold of a significant breakthrough. With our grain barns filled to overflowing by produce "in loan", such an advance may seem like "carrying coals to Newcastle." But scientists tell us that not many years will pass before even the U. S. will be scraping the barrel for sustenance. The day, then, may not be far off when we will be forced to make the desert bloom in order to keep our mounting population from starvation.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

The Emmitsburg Chronicle, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, Baltimore District, will publish each week in this column, tax information that will enable taxpayers to become more familiar with the Federal income tax laws, which will help them to prepare better and more accurate returns and pay their just tax, no more, no less. Clip and save for future reference.

If Your Return Is Examined
There are several reasons why your District Director may wish to discuss your income tax return with you. You may not have paid all the tax shown on your return to be due, you may have made one or more mathematical errors on your return, or he may wish to discuss with you one or more items of income or deductions.

The Internal Revenue Service is obligated by law to determine and collect only the correct amount of tax from each taxpayer. Therefore, Internal Revenue employees must have an impartial view while engaged in their important task.

The selection of your return for examination does not always mean that the district director thinks you owe more tax. It may be that you haven't furnished enough information about some item of income or deduction. You may have included some income that is not taxable. In such a case he will want to examine your return to make sure other information is correct and that you receive the correct amount of refund. On the other hand, you may have filed a claim for refund and he is examining your return to insure that the proper amount of tax is refunded to you.

There are three levels, set up within the Internal Revenue Service, at which an agreement to the results of an examination may be reached. The first is the audit by an examining officer, the second is a conference with a member of the District Conference Staff, and the third level is the Service's Appellate Division. All three levels are available to you whether the Internal Revenue Service started the proceedings or is verifying a claim which you have submitted. The Audit turn may take place in your home or your place of business, or you may be requested to appear at an Internal Revenue office. Sometimes the examination is conducted by correspondence. Whatever the method of examination, the procedure and levels of agreement are the same. When the examining officer has finished his examination, he will discuss with you any adjustment he proposes to make.

If you are satisfied that the adjustments are in order, you should sign the waiver form offered to you which will show the increase or decrease in your tax liability disclosed by the examination. Should the examination result in additional tax, interest of 6% per year must be charged on the additional tax assessed. By signing the waiver in such cases, you stop the interest from running 30 days after the filing of the waiver and no further interest is charged unless, after you have been mailed a notice of the additional tax and interest, you fail to pay the amount due within 10 days after the date of such notice. Of course, if the examination results in a refund to you, signing the waiver will, in most cases, permit the district director to refund your money promptly. Ordinarily, you will receive 6% interest on the amount of the refund to the date of payment.

If you do not agree with all of the proposed adjustments, the examining officer will explain to you your rights of appeal. The District office will mail you a letter explaining in detail how to exercise your rights of appeal, and will enclose a copy of the report of examination.

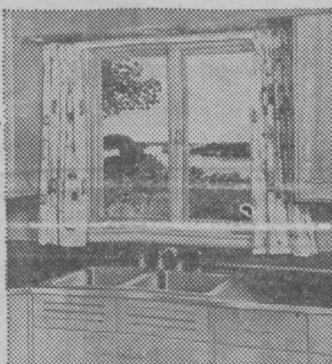

The District Conference is the second level. At this conference, you or your representative, or both, will have another opportunity to present your reasons for the position you maintain, and to cite the facts in your case, or the law upon which you rely.

If an agreement is reached at the district conference, you will be asked to sign a waiver agreeing to an increase or decrease in your tax liability, or agreeing to a waiver of a disallowance notice if part or all of your refund claim was disallowed. If the conferee makes changes in the report of examination, you will receive a statement from the District office explaining these changes. The statement will serve as a supplement to the report of examination.

If no agreement is reached at the District conference, you may request that your case be considered by the Appellate Division of the Office of the Regional Commissioner. If the conferee has made changes in the report of examination you will receive a copy of the supplemental statement explaining the changes. If you do not ask that your case be considered by the Appellate Division, your course of action will depend upon whether an increase in tax is proposed, or whether a claim for refund is the subject of discussion at the District conference. (To Be Continued Next Week)

In every illness in the home, a team of three is needed for the effectiveness of the prescribed medications—the physician, the pharmacist and the home nurse.

Case for Casement

If you want plenty of light and air in the kitchen—but are deterred by the awkwardness of leaning over the kitchen sink to open the window—a casement window may be the answer. Casement window units of ponderosa pine can be easily opened and closed without strain, merely by cranking a handle. They are available in stock sizes from lumber dealers.

A Rocky Dome Is Boon to Home

If you have a heavyweight asphalt shingle roof on your home, you have a lot of rocks over—not in—your head. The rock consists of coarse mineral granules embedded in the top surface of the shingle. The granules are weather-resistant and opaque. The rock surfacing increases the fire resistance of the roofing in addition to providing it with its color. Until the late 1920's, the granules were natural colored. Today, as a result of ceramic processing of the granules, asphalt shingles are available in a wide range of colors.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read II Timothy 1:1-14. Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them. Matthew 18:20 (ASV).

Through a spirit of common devotion to Christ, a husband and wife become a united force in living their lives. Many couples have witnessed to the fact that they were able to settle their differences through the power of united prayer.

Strength gained by parents is also shared with their children. A group of college students assembled for a sunrise Thanksgiving service. They mentioned specific things for which they were thankful. One boy said, "I am thankful for the opportunity of having heard my parents pray."

Later, he entered diplomatic service and told other groups of students how he had been enabled to overcome temptations encountered in his position. He had one brother who became a physician and an active churchman, and another who was a missionary in another country. In their youthful years, these brothers had shared in the family altar established by their parents.

Prayer

Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the privilege of prayer. Teach us to pray when each of us is alone and when we are together as a family. Increase our faith in Thee, and grant us power to build and sustain a Christian home. Keep us in the spirit of prayer. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Thought For The Day

Christ is the center of the family that prays.

Laurel Raceway Readies For Opening

A brand new track lighting system at Laurel Raceway will be unveiled this season in what may be termed a bright and fitting trim to the new Tartan track. Hailed as one of the finest lighting systems of its kind on the East Coast, it consists of 225 quartz lamps mounted on 96 poles around the five-eighths mile oval and produces whiter lights.

Laurel, Maryland's pioneer harness track, will conduct a 32-night meet from June 18-July 24.

Vast improvement in illumination mainly will be due to the fact that the quartz lamps, offering greater ground intensity, will concentrate almost all of their output onto the track instead of onto areas where illumination is not required.

Poles are spaced 35 to 40 feet apart. The quartz system will provide 75 per cent to 100 per cent more light than the incandescent system formerly in use. Life of the quartz lamps is 2,000 hours as opposed to the incandescents' 1,000 hours.

The increase in the number of poles and lamps formerly used is only slight. There were 187 lamps on 81 poles around Laurel's half-mile course. All except 33 of the new poles around the racing strip are equipped with two lamps each. Those 33, in front of the grandstand area, are equipped with three lamps per pole. Mounting height is approximately 40 feet above ground level.

Poles are arranged in nine separate groups, each group receiving electric service from a pair of pad-mounted transformers.

With this arrangement, dual electric service is supplied to every pole in each group. Thus, a separate source of electricity is provided for each of the two lamps or combinations of lamps on every pole.

This means that not only can the lighting be controlled by group, but that each group can be operated at either full or half intensity, an advantage in holding operating costs to a minimum while maintenance is being performed on the track at night.

But if the child is disabled at the time he reaches 18, his benefits continue for as long as he is disabled—which may be for life.

In many cases, a person who has been disabled since childhood becomes eligible for social security benefits in middle age or later when one of his parents who has worked under social security retires, becomes disabled, or dies. Most parents find comfort in the knowledge that their children are progressing steadily towards maturity and economic self-reliance but for the parents of mentally retarded children there is anxiety—worry which increases with concern over the support and care of their children. The social security law has special importance to these parents, he declared, because it can lead to monthly payments and help free them from these worries.

To obtain a free copy of the leaflet "Social Security: What It Means For The Parents Of A Mentally Retarded Child," get in touch with the social security office at 59 North Cannon Avenue, Hagerstown, by telephone, letter, or personal visit.

A new leaflet available at the Hagerstown Social Security Office points out that an increasing number of social security beneficiaries who are mentally retarded now outlive the parents on whom they have always been dependent. According to W. S. King, Social Security District Manager, the leaflet was prepared especially for the parents of mentally retarded children and is available free of charge.

The leaflet explains that a child may become eligible for social security benefits when one of his parents receives social security retirement or disability benefits, or when one of his parents dies.

After many years, paint chemists have achieved a major objective—a virtually "universal" house paint. Now instead of worrying about getting just the right type of paint to cover materials used in your house, simply specify a durable emulsion product such as "Lucite" house paint.

It's recommended for all commonly used building materials—wood, masonry, asbestos and wood shingles, stucco, brick, concrete block, etc. If your home is a combination of any two or more of these, you'll really save time, trouble, and money. Furthermore, it provides notably longer life than conventional oil-base coatings. Of even more importance to the do-it-yourselfer are the added advantages of fast drying and easy brushing—not to mention easy clean-up (with water instead of thinner or turpentine).

Of additional value is the elimination of the need for storing an assortment of partly used, special-purpose paint materials. All it takes now is "Lucite," perhaps some primer for spotting jobs, and—if desired—high-gloss trim and shutter material. (For one-color jobs, it's even recommended that you also use "Lucite" for trim.)

Armed Forces Day At Fort Ritchie Saturday

The U. S. Army Joint Support Command, Fort Ritchie, Maryland, will hold an open house to celebrate Armed Forces Day 1965, on May 15. The theme for this Armed Forces Day, the same as it has been for the 15 previous Armed Forces Days, is "Power for Peace."

A parade and awards presentation ceremony will open the celebration at 11 a.m. Music for the parade will be a 70-piece ROTC Marching Band from Howard University in Washington, D. C. The band will also give a recital from 1:15 p.m. to 1:45 p.m. in the vicinity of the display area.

In connection with the open house, the following static displays will be on exhibition. A Field Kitchen to serve cookies and coffee, assisted by the Girl Scouts; helicopters from the Army and the Air Force; a mobile Micro-tape display; Air Force mobile radio display; safety display and movies; computer equipment display; Dental and Dispensary displays; Engineer vehicle displays;

Communications equipment display and Biological safety display. Also, a Military Police equipment display to include: Sentry Dog demonstration; identification pass processing; Junior Military Police qualifications and a fire arms display—both modern and antique.

In addition to the above mentioned displays, the following Units and/or activities will have open house from 1 to 3 p.m.: Headquarters and Service Company; WAC Company; Post Consolidated Mess; Finance Office; Education Center; Service Club; Library; Craft Shop; Non-Commissioned Officers Club and Officers Club, and free cartoons at the Post Theater at 1 p.m.

Col. J. E. Kelsey, Commanding Officer of the U. S. Army Joint Support Command, extends an invitation to all to come to the open house and help celebrate the Armed Forces Day 1965.

More Federal employees are protected by Blue Cross and Blue Shield under the government-wide program than by all other insurance carriers combined.

Gettysburg College Commencement Set

Approximately 440 seniors are candidates to receive degrees at Gettysburg College's 133rd commencement on Sunday, June 6.

Seven honorary degrees will be conferred, three of them on alumni.

The commencement weekend will open June 4 with an alumni dinner. Robert M. Wachob, vice president — marketing, AT&T Co., New York, an alumnus will be the speaker. June 5 will be Alumni Day beginning with a meeting of the Alumni Association, noon colation, class reunion dinners, choir concert and the president's reception and dance in the evening.

Army and Air Force ROTC commissioning exercises will be held at 8:30 a.m., June 6, followed by the baccalaureate service at 10 a.m., with the Rev. Robert J. Marshall, President, Illinois Synod, Lutheran Church in America, as speaker. Harold Brayman, public relations executive of the Du Pont Company, Wilmington, Del., will address the graduating class at 2:30 p.m.

Honorary degree recipients and their awards include Rev. Marshall, Doctor of Humane Letters; Mr. Brayman, Doctor of Laws; P. H. Glatfelter, board chairman, P. H. Glatfelter Co., and Howard Rasmussen, M.D., University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, Doctor of Science; the Rev. John W. Whetstone, New York City, the Rev. Carroll S. Klug, Baltimore, and the Rev. Robert A. MacAskill, Gettysburg, Doctor of Divinity. Rasmussen, Whetstone and Klug are alumni of the college.

Appreciates Publicity

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Now that the income tax filing period is behind us, I want to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to you and the men on your staff for the splendid cooperation this office received in bringing before the taxpaying public the services and information that we in the Internal Revenue Service had available.

I am confident if it had not been for your generosity in furnishing space in your publication, our job here at the Internal Revenue Service would have been more difficult.

Again let me express my thanks

Son, be of good cheer; thy sins are forgiven. —(Matt. 9:2).

When we have feelings of guilt we should recognize our past mistakes and humbly beg for God's forgiveness. We can rest assured that God, in His infinite mercy, is always ready to grant forgiveness to sinners.

for the effort your office put forth in this enormous operation.

Sincerely,

The "Big Train"

No horse that ever contested the Roseben Handicap at Belmont Park, or at its present running site, Aqueduct, ever carried the weights that the awesome gelding for whom the race is named was able to win under. D. C. Johnson's Roseben was known as the "Big Train" years before a pitcher named Walter Johnson earned a similar nickname. Roseben was huge as Thoroughbreds go; he stood an inch shy of 18 hands which is about seven inches taller at the withers than the average. He won the Manhattan Handicap twice, then at 6 furlongs, carrying 147 pounds on each occasion. He won several other races under a similar impost conceding as much as 57 pounds to the runner-up on one occasion. We was carrying a mere 126 pounds in an allowance race at Belmont Park when he set an American record of 1:22 for seven furlongs, a mark that stood for 42 years until Honeymoon shaved one-fifth of a second from the record at Hollywood Park.

Roseben carried 150 pounds on one occasion and finished second. In addition to weight assignments unheard of today except in steeplechase races, The Big Train carried a great responsibility. His colorful owner, Dave Johnson, once asked how much he customarily bet on his horse, looked startled and said "Whatever I have!" All told Roseben won 52 of 111 races, was second 25 times and third 12 times, earning $74,910.

GARDEN BELLS

Hanging bells here and there in the garden to ring when breezes blow is a popular pastime. Living bells may be in the garden, too. Here, on the left, are California Blue Bells, with gentian blue flowers. On the right are the green bells which earn this plant the name Bells of Ireland.

The well known, widely grown Canterbury bells above left, come with blue, pink or white flowers; bloom the year after planting. Cathedral Bells, on the right, are sturdy vines with blue or white flowers. All are easily grown from seeds.

You Can Insulate When Re-siding

When re-siding an older home, you can also insulate the walls for very little extra cost at the same time.

The walls of many older homes are not insulated. You can cut your fuel bills and help end annoying drafts by installing insulating backer boards under the new siding.

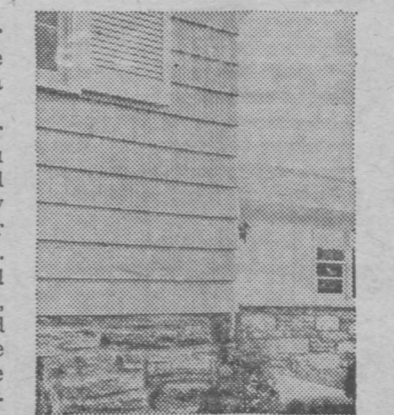

When installing new mineral fiber type sidings, for example, scaffolding, equipment and materials are all on hand. The only extra cost is for the backer panels and the installation time.

To install, the applicator merely fastens the pre-cut backer panels right over the old siding and nails the mineral fiber shingles over them.

MINIMUM MAINTENANCE

One of the best ways to cut down on exterior house maintenance is to use new mineral fiber wall siding. The siding is fireproof, won't rot or warp, cannot be attacked by termites. It's prefinished with a plastic color coating.

New Look in Siding

A pleasing architectural effect can be obtained by combining two popular stock forms of mineral fiber house siding. Textured siding in foreground comes in shingle form. Board and batten siding in background is made with 4-by-8-foot mineral fiber panels. Both types have tough factory-applied finishes which require little maintenance.

Nature's Fibers Still Tops

Much to-do has been made over the wonders of synthetic fibers, but one of the most versatile and widely used fibers today is still nature's own asbestos. Fireproof asbestos has been known and used by man as far back as Biblical days.

Asbestos is obtained from a fibrous type of rock formed thousands of years ago far below the earth's surface. Exactly how it was formed is still a mystery.

Extensive outcroppings of this rock found in Africa, Canada and Russia are mined and milled to obtain the fibers. These fibers are formed into cloth, rope, tape, sheets, powders and braids.

The outstanding quality of asbestos is its ability to withstand intense heat and yet retain its strength. Asbestos fibers are used to reinforce plastic and other materials when greater resistance to heat and impact are required of them.

One of the principal uses of asbestos fibers is in the manufacture of mineral fiber siding shingles and panels.

Asbestos is also used as insulation in many electric appliances and in electric power supply cords; in mail bags, table pads, auto brake linings, and many other products.

One Hollywood personality, a constant but careless pipe smoker, insists on having asbestos pockets in all his suits.

Pre-finished siding, heavyweight asphalt shingles and pressure-treated wood windows with insulating glass and "snap-in" grills give this house an authentic Colonial look together with carefree maintenance.

Easy-Maintenance Colonial Assures a Carefree Future

Have you ever dreamed of owning a home that combined the best of both possible worlds — low maintenance and Colonial charm? It's possible, with modern building materials.

An authentic Cape Cod that meets exacting low-maintenance standards was built in Ossining, N. Y., by Alan Borg, an architect and building editor of American Home. He specified materials requiring little or no upkeep, so the house is a primer on economical and carefree home ownership.

For example, the siding was prefinished to eliminate the need for painting for many years to come.

Wood was chosen for windows, panel doors and trim, for reasons of both design and low maintenance. The ponderosa pine millwork came pressure-treated with a preservative that resists rot and insect damage and makes paint last longer. In addition, the stock units saved money on installation costs.

"Snap-in" grills — divided wood frames that snap onto the inside of large panes of glass — provide traditional small-panes in the windows and sliding doors. The grills simplify window washing and painting because they're removable.

To do away with the need for storm sash, all windows are factory weatherstripped stock units with insulating glass.

Heavyweight asphalt shingles were selected as the roofing material because they best fit the double considerations of "low maintenance" and "authentic attractiveness." The durability of those specified by the Borgs is backed by a 25-year guarantee.

The rear of the house has a full dormer for stand-up bedrooms, a house-long deck with wood sliding doors for outdoor enjoyment and a terrace created by excavating the earth down to basement level.

Total living area in the Borgs' easy-maintenance Colonial is 2,495 square feet.

Those Rioting Reds
Unfortunately, not every periodical in the land is willing to lay itself on the line, as the Reader's Digest has done so frequently, in tangling with Communist power bent on destroying America and taking over the world. If our private news and information media would follow the lead of the Digest, the whole Red apparatus would probably fold up in weakness and despair. But again, unfortunately, not every communications vehicle shows that kind of boldness, courage, and patriotism. For its pains, the Digest is already being smeared and attacked—as are all who dare to be anti-Communists.

The January issue of the Digest carried an article by Eugene Methvin, of the magazine's Washington staff, which was based upon four years of research involving case studies of scores of Red riots in this country and abroad. It was based upon hundreds of interviews with federal and state law enforcement officials, intelligence experts, and former Communists who personally participated in strikes and riots. The article, "How the Reds Make a Riot," brings the Digest more than ever into enmity against the expanding world of the extreme left.

Cold War Weapon
Some two years ago the World Marxist Review was running a series of articles entitled: "Anti-Communism: The Enemy of Mankind." The purpose of this, of course, was to establish more firmly the official Communist line with regard to any who are courageous enough to speak out against Marxism. The line has since been strengthened and reaffirmed in other Communist publications, and it shows through in many liberal U. S. publications that are not at all Communist controlled. The purpose of the Red line, actually, has been to make any anti-Communists look like radicals and extremists so as to embarrass them and weaken their efforts.

This tactic, so far, has not succeeded with the Digest, for which this most widely circulated of U. S. magazines deserves a nation's gratitude. The article on rioting calls upon all of us—and particularly the nation's leadership—to recognize and counteract the deadly cold-war weapons being used so viciously by Communists all over the world: the "manipulated" demonstration. Ever since the cold war began, it says, the "managed riot" has served "to poison alliances, to topple governments, to humiliate leaders, to nullify billions of dollars of aid, crush American prestige and shoot holes in U. S. foreign policy.

In The U. S., Also
The same cynical techniques, the Digest notes, were put to use right here in summer. The home to Americans by the Harlem riots, Mr. Methvin insists, is that Red wreckers can move in on any controversy, even those they do not start.

The pattern of Red-manipulated violence, according to Mr. Methvin's research, shows itself in five stages. First the agents infiltrate strategic organizations and mass media. Soon they open up with propaganda laced with symbols and slogans to soften up the people. This done, they are able to get the nucleus of a mob together, even if they have to hire them. Next the Reds put their training and abilities into play to agitate, and to provide the tension, the hysteria, and the police brutality. Soon there are martyrs, real or created, whose deaths and funerals help keep the struggle alive.

Named To Head
Student Government
Daniel R. Mannion, Bethel, Conn., and John J. Moody, Jr., Westbury, N. Y., have been elected to head the student government at Mount Saint Mary's College, for the coming year.

Mannion, who is a junior education - mathematics major, has been active in all phases of campus life during his three years. In addition to serving on the Student Council, the new president served during the current year as student manager of the Cogan Union, a member of the Nutmeg Club, the Career Day committee, the Orientation committee, the Food committee, and the N.F.C.C.S. He has also been secretary of the Inter-Club Council, co-chairman of the Big Brothers, refreshment chairman of the Parents' Day Dance, and active in the college's intra-mural sports program.

Crops and Robbers

The Weed Robbers

It's the biggest robbery in history; nearly four billion dollars! And it's taking place right now. Who are the victims? American farmers—you!

Who are the robbers? Look out your window and you'll see them—weeds!

According to figures supplied by the Department of Agriculture, the total yearly loss due to weeds on agricultural land in the U.S. comes to $3,747,036,000.

What's being done to foil the weed robbers? Plenty! Scientists at agricultural chemical laboratories are hard at work perfecting effective herbicides. Major chemical agricultural corporations have developed herbicides which arrest weeds before they can do any damage.

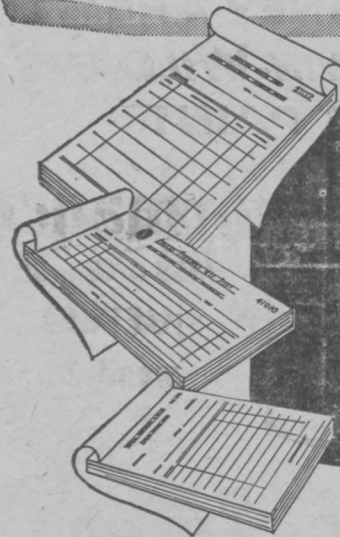

Preemergence weed killers like Atrazine, Simazine, or Caparol kill weeds before they even become juvenile delinquents. Preemergence weed control has proven more effective than mechanical methods, and the cost is lower.

Postemergence sprays on weeds are also valuable crop protectors. As an example, Atrazine will knock out weeds that have poked their larcenous heads about 1½ inches out of the ground.

Corn growers plagued by weeds—like quackgrass, giant foxtail or northern nutgrass—formerly lost from $30 to $40 per acre to these weed highwaymen. Now corn growers have found they can harvest a better crop of corn by eliminating weeds with a herbicide that makes weeds throw up their leaves and cry, "Uncle." A single application of Atrazine—at or after planting—normally provides season-long control of most broadleaf weeds and grasses.

In like manner, cotton growers are turning to new herbicides like Caparol to give them cleaner cotton fields and protection from moisture- and fertilizer-robbing weeds which steal billions from farmers each year.

They're Off And Running At Rosecroft

Warming up for Rosecroft Raceway's 32 night season which started May 10 and goes until June 17, a field of young pacers takes a morning workout behind the mobile starting gate at the Oxon Hill, Maryland track. Nine races are scheduled each night with the first posttime at 8:20 p.m. Just off the Beltway, Rosecroft has a lighted, paved parking area for 5,000 cars.

Water Delinquents Face Penalties

Mayor James E. Cummings of Brunswick has told delinquent Brunswick residents to pay their water bills or, "... they will wake up one morning and find that there is no water to wash their faces."

Cummings gave this strong warning to the approximately 35 to 40 residents of the community who have, he charged, "habitually ignored their water bill."

"We are thinking about taking steps to turn their water off," the mayor said, "if this happens, they must also pay for the cut-off, and the turn-on if they want water again."

The mayor also hit at persons who he charged not keeping their garbage cans covered and keeping sidewalks in repair.

Guild Chapter Holds Meeting

The Baltimore Chapter of the Mount Saint Mary's College Guild held its annual benefit on Monday evening. Rev. Philip A. Barrett, who is the chapter moderator, Mr. and Mrs. Guy A. Baker, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. Ligorano, and Mr. Dean J. Sprague, represented the college.

The affair this year was a dinner-dance held at one of the leading Baltimore niteries. Miss Sophie Tucker, who is appearing there, and Mickey Shaughnessy, movie-TV personality, were on hand to provide entertainment. Mrs. Baker was the lucky winner of the door prize.

Teen-Ager Registers Complaint

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

I know that enough adults have complained about this, but now I think it is time that the teenagers complain, too. The bowling alley has burned down and the movie hall has been closed. We teenagers have absolutely nowhere to go! The closest drive-in movie is the Monocacy, and there are many people who have no way to get there. Taneytown is building a swimming pool for their town. We have talked about one for as long as I can remember, but no action has ever been taken.

We teenagers have nothing to do, so what is it to keep us from getting into trouble? Many people say that teenagers should be put to work to keep them out of trouble, but no one under sixteen can get a job. There is a rarity of jobs here anyway. A lot of parents throw their children out and expect them to find something to do.

I believe there are many parents who want to help; all they need is a push! Why doesn't someone get enthusiastic and start it? I am sure that most teenagers would be thankful for some place to go.

Sincerely yours,
An Interested Teenager

PTA Plans Social Evening

The Emmitsburg Public School PTA will hold its annual covered dish social in the school cafeteria on Wednesday, May 26.

The affair will be held in the school cafeteria and all members and parents are urged to attend.

Legion Auxiliary Meeting Held

The regular monthly meeting of the Francis X. Elder American Legion Auxiliary was held Tuesday evening with president, Anna Bushman, presiding. Ten members were present. Members reported several visits to the sick in hospitals; 85½ hours of baby-sitting to both veteran and non-veteran's children, two hours library aid. The following members reported 39 hours helping with the recent party given by the men of the Post: Idella Fitez, Nettie Ashbaugh, Viola Eyer, Madeline Harner, Anna Shorb, Margaret Shorb. The membership chairman reported 78 paid-up members to date. The group voted donations as follows: $5.00 to Girls State; $5.00 to each of the two local high schools to be awarded as History prizes at the end of school; $3.00 for Department officers gifts.

The next District meeting will be held at the Sykesville Post. The convention will be held in July in Baltimore. The draw prize was won by Kathleen W. Shorb, and Jane Hess' name was called for the door prize, but was not present. Nominations for officers for the coming year will be held at the June meeting.

Following the business meeting, the ladies joined the men of the Post for refreshments.

Company Donates $10,000 To Pool

The Cambridge Rubber Company has donated $10,000 to the construction fund of the Taneytown Community Swimming Pool. The presentation was made by John D. Mackenzie, vice president, to Mrs. Wayne Baumgardner who received the check on behalf of the Project Executive Committee.

This is the largest single industrial or business contribution thus far in the campaign to raise $60,000 to complete the now-under-construction pool and bathhouse. The donation completes the fund pledge made by Cambridge last March.

Chemical Society Organized At Mount

A Student affiliate chapter of the American Chemical Society, has been organized on the campus of Mount Saint Mary's College, under the supervision of James J. Thomas, M.S., assistant professor of chemistry.

The purpose of the chapter is to further the advancement of the study of chemistry among interested students. Plans call for the development of close contact with chemical research in an effort to supplement the courses offered in the regular college curriculum.

Stanislaus A. Ziolkowski, junior chemistry major from Baltimore, has been selected as the chapter's first chairman; William P. Fives, sophomore chemistry major, of Honesdale, Pa., vice - chairman; and Thomas G. Brennan, sophomore chemistry, Baltimore, secretary-treasurer.

HOW TO GET RICH SLOW (but sure)

Every dollar you invest in Series E Savings Bonds grows 33½% bigger in 7 years and nine months. You can count on it.

It's not as exciting as drilling a wildcat oil well, or diving for sunken gold. But it's mighty reliable. Especially when you use the Payroll Savings Plan to help you make sure you buy Bonds regularly.

This famous plan takes the back-sliding out of saving money by making it automatic. You just tell your employer you want him to set aside a small amount from your check each payday.

($4.33 a week will add up to twelve $25 Bonds a year. But you can have more or less deducted as you choose.)

Then you forget all about it. Savings come easily and almost painlessly. You never see the small amount that's deducted so you hardly miss it.

There's a unique satisfaction to saving money this way, too. Everytime you slip another Bond into your pocket, you know you're helping your country as well as yourself. Uncle Sam uses the money to help America resist the forces that threaten our freedoms.

Another thing about getting rich slow with U. S. Savings Bonds is that almost anybody can do it. So why not sign up for Payroll Savings before next payday?

Quick facts about Series E Savings Bonds

- You get $4 for every $3 at maturity
- You can get your money when you need it
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen
- You can buy Bonds where you work or bank
