Gone are the happy good old days when a fella could step up to the water tap and draw a refreshing cool drink of the stuff to quench a giant thirst. After receiving a number of inquiries as to why our good old mountain water was no longer cool in the summer, I decided to run a check. Well, in our modern water system all our drinking water must be run through a half-million gallon storage tank prior to filtering. This tank sits out in the open and consequently blazing sun. Some say they can see steam coming from the tank during the real hot days and darned if I'm not inclined to believe them. Anyway folks, that cool mountain drink has left us forever and I'm not so sure I like this modern way of doing things after all.

I read the other day where only a third of the dog population in the County is licensed. I imagine a part of the reason for the decline in applications for licenses is due to the fact that the County Treasurer, apparently in an economy move, decided not to advertise the law requiring the license in the County newspapers and decided on a one-paper shot in a nearby city. It is very evident that thousands in the county rural areas did not see the notice and consequently did not apply for the dog tag as in former years. Just another case of penny wise and pound foolish.

Well the deadline for any opposition to the newly-annexed acreage east of Town passed Monday evening and there appeared no opposition or protests at the published public meeting held Monday evening in the Town Office. There will be two months more of waiting for the legal angles all to be taken care of and then the 100-acre annexation will become final. Come Nov. 1 the annexation will become irrevocable. The territory taken into the Corporation of Emmitsburg is that land owned by the Emmitt Gardens Development Corp. and the Three D's Inc. It is regrettable that the annexation was not larger as it was hoped to be, but then it does represent progress and growth, and in a short time it is hoped additional surroundings can become part of the Town proper.

There can be no doubt left that Charnita Resort will bring an influx of tourists through Emmitsburg. Recent conversations with the owners of the new resort revealed that advance reservations for skiing clubs has been very promising. Clubs from Baltimore and Washington lead the field in the number of accommodations sought. Skiers from these areas must pass through Emmitsburg and certainly a large number will stop to eat and shop for various sundry items. In my opinion it can't miss being a boon to our local economy and the best part of it all is that the ski slope is about ready for operation and just as soon as the first favorable weather conditions prevail for this sort of sport the operation will go into action. Progress otherwise at the resort is progressing way ahead of schedule. Most roads have been constructed, quite a number of cabins are rising, the fishing is reported great and the picnic area is available. The owners reported that with favorable weather next week the golf and the course will be in operation and the course will be in operation come spring.

Grid Scrimmage At Mount

Football has returned to the campus at Mount Saint Mary's College but only for several weeks of high school football drilling and weekend scrimmages. This week the Indians from Waynesboro, Fa. Area High School are ruggedly putting the finishing touches on what Coach Bill Zehler hopes will be a conference championship team.

Local fans will get a preview on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock when the Indians will scrimmage a powerhouse squad from the high school at Bel Air, Md., on Echo Field at Mt. St. Mary's.

Carroll County Residents Buck School Move

At special meetings last week, the Town Councils of Mt. Airy and Sykesville went on record as opposing the proposed high school at Winfield in Carroll County.

On Aug. 15, both towns voted to join the suit of Robert W. Wagner and Mrs. Edward Schneider against the Board of Education of Carroll County.

Through Atty. Louis A. Scholz and James S. Ansell, the Mount Airy Mayor and Council have filed a petition to intervene. They have also filed a petition for an injunction against the Board of Education.

Mount Airy has supported the Mount Airy Citizens' League in its fight against the proposed transfer of area schools at Mt. Airy and Sykesville. The town also challenges the Board of Education to discuss the matter freely and openly, town officials said.

By a unanimous vote at their recent special meeting, the Mayor and Council of Sykesville joined the opposition to the school board and directed its attorney, C. Rogers Hall, to draft appropriate legal action.

Lewis Dixon and Mrs. William Wright, presidents of the Mount Airy Citizens' League and the Southern Carroll County Citizens' Group respectively, lauded the actions of the municipalities.

"We have constantly sought to achieve the ends of justice through proper procedures," Dixon said. "We have made available to the public our studies, our deliberations, and our findings. We have publicly sought a joint meeting of the School Board and the County Commissioners."

Suggest Business Course For School

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: In a few weeks, our Public School here in Emmitsburg will open and as before there will be no business course offered to the boys and girls. Most of our boys and girls desire to take the course so they will be prepared for a job after graduation or if they go to college, typing is so essential. I have heard several of the graduates that went to college say that not having had typing was really a handicap in their college work. As to my knowledge Emmitsburg High School is the only one in Frederick County that does not have a business course. Why should our boys and girls be so discriminated against? They should have the same equal opportunities as the ones in the other parts of the county. We pay taxes just the same as the others. If there is not room in the present building, why not use a portable building. Our boys and girls cannot wait until a new school is built as by that time they will be out of school. A business course is needed right now.

Scouts Appreciate Local Assistance

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: The Boy Scouts of Troop 284 of Emmitsburg held their summer camp from August 15-21 at Kump's Dam Park. The Troop used their new tents for the first time, although they were not needed because of no rain. Work was done on advancement and various pioneering projects were completed, including the construction of a monkey bridge and signal tower.

A board of review on Friday night gave the troop four new second class and one new first class, scouts. Several boys also met their requirements for tenderfoot. A campfire and court of honor was held Saturday night for parents and friends.

To the following, the Scouts would like to express their deepest thanks for helping to make this camp, and the other endeavors, most successful: Mr. John Fuss, Mr. Scott McNair, Emmitsburg Lions Club, Emmitsburg VFW, Emmitsburg American Legion, and The Matthews Gas Co., and all others.

George L. Wilhide, vice president of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank in charge of the Emmitsburg Branch, is critically ill at Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore.

Miss Bernice Margaret Hampson, daughter of Mrs. Robert E. Hampson and the late Dr. Robert E. Hampson, is attending Syracuse University School of Music this summer, having been awarded a scholarship by the Maryland Branch of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons.

Miss Hampson has been at Chautauqua for seven weeks and will soon be returning to her home near Emmitsburg. She is a music major at Baltimore Junior College and also studies music with Miss Bonnie Lake of the Baltimore Symphony and Mr. Tylor Harvey.

Mount Receives Federal Money

Federal contributions totaling $92,079 have been made to the student loan funds of three Frederick County colleges, Congressman Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md. 6th) announced this week. Maryland institutions of higher education received a total of $1,518,269 under allocations made this week by the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The grants included $27,200 to Hood College in Frederick; $39,974 to Mount Saint Mary's College, and $24,905 to St. Joseph College, both of Emmitsburg. The funds will augment student loan funds at these colleges for the 1965-66 academic year. Student loans are made under this program to full-time students in good academic standing who need financial assistance in order to remain in school.

Additional allotments may be announced later.

Rain Eases County Drought

People, crops and water sources got a much-needed lift over weekend when more than a half-inch of rain fell here, the most precipitation since the first of this month.

The total rainfall recorded at the official weather station at Frederick, from Friday through Sunday was .53 of an inch. Of this amount, .29 of an inch was registered Sunday and .24 of an inch on Friday.

The weekend rainfall in this area brought the month's total thus far to 2.44 inches of precipitation, or 2.59 inches of rain under the August normal of 4.03 inches.

Service station sales during 1963 exceeded $19 billion, according to Oil Facts.

Lions Club Will Picnic At Charnita

The annual family picnic of the Emmitsburg Lions Club will be held this year at Charnita, it was decided at the regular meeting of the group held Monday evening at Mt. Manor Restaurant, President William H. Kelz presiding.

Present at the meeting as guests were Charles Rist, Charnita president and Edward Grout, public relations director. Mr. Rist gave an interesting resume of the progress of the development of the nearby resort and invited the club to use its facilities as his guest at future dates. The club decided to hold its annual outing at the resort on Monday evening, Sept. 13 and the president appointed the following committee: Eugene Sappington, chairman, Ralph McDonnell, Charles F. Stouter and Arthur Elder.

President Kelz introduced the club's newest member, Milton Sewell, to the members and guests. It was voted to approve the purchase of a pair of eyeglasses for a local needy man. Shank, Sr., Emmitsburg, R3, were married Saturday evening, August 7 at 6 p.m. in Zion Lutheran Church, Fairfield, Pa. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Philip Bower of Cashtown. The altar was decorated with white gladioli. Mrs. Calvin Bream, church organist, presented a recital before and after the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, wore a ballerina length gown of chantilly lace with acetate and nylon, fashioned with long sleeves, fitted bodice, with scalloped neckline accented with miniature seed pearls and crystal beads, and full scalloped skirt and white satin slippers. Appreciates Efforts Of Local Police Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: My dog, Suzy, got much publicity on August seventh. To many people this meant being awakened out of a sound sleep by whistles and calls.

Suzy was lost somewhere in your town. Through the help of many Emmitsburgians, especially Officer John Law, she was found unharmed.

Thank you for your patience and time.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

The Emmitsburg Chronicle, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, Baltimore District, will publish each week in this column, tax information that will enable taxpayers to become more familiar with the Federal income tax laws. Clip and save for future reference.

Questions And Answers

Q. My wife and I won a week's expense-paid trip to the N. Y.

World's Fair in a magazine contest. Is there any tax on what we received?

A. Yes, prizes won in contests like lucky number drawings, TV or radio quiz programs, or door prizes are taxable. You should declare as income the fair market value of your prize. The contest sponsor should be able to give you this information.

Prizes that are not taxable are those received in recognition of past accomplishments, charitable, scientific, educational, artistic, literary or civic fields. Nobel and Pulitzer awards are examples of these tax-free prizes.

Q. I will be paying $150 in interest over the next 36 months on my car loan. How do I figure out how much of this I can deduct each year for tax purposes? Can I deduct the full $150 this year, some each year, or the full amount when it is paid off?

A. You may only deduct what you actually paid in interest each year. If you are paying this interest off in equal monthly payments, then you may deduct $4.17 of it for each month you made a payment during the tax year.

This interest deduction may be taken only if you itemize deductions.

Q. I expect to return to college as a full-time student in the fall. Since the money I make this summer will be all I'll make this year, can I file a return in September and get my tax refund then?

A. No. Returns cannot be filed until the close of the taxable year. If you file early in January, whatever refund you have coming will be processed quickly.

Q. Last year I was stationed in Viet Nam with the Marines. I didn't know when I filed my tax return that military personnel were entitled to exclude their pay for combat service. It is too late to claim that exclusion?

A. No, provided you filed your return and paid your taxes on time, you have three years from the due date of the return to file a claim for refund on Form 843, or on an amended return. This exclusion wasn't possible until President Johnson's Executive Order authorized it in April.

Enlisted men may exclude all their military pay received for each month after Dec. 31, 1963, during any part of which they were in Viet Nam or were hospitalized as a result of combat. Officers may exclude up to $200 a month.

To speed processing of your amended return, mark it "Amended—Combat Zone" at the top. Attach to it a statement of the number of months of such service and the amount of excluded income. Sign with your rank, branch of armed forces, service number, and address.

Q. What connection does the Tax Court have with the Revenue Service?

A. None. The Tax Court of the United States is an independent agency. If a taxpayer is unable to reach an agreement with the Internal Revenue Service in a tax dispute, he may petition the Tax Court to hear his case.

Q. We just hired a part-time maid and we'll be paying her about $10 a week. Will we have to pay Social Security taxes for her and if we do, what form should be used?

A. Your $10 a week wages will amount to more than $50 a calendar quarter, so Social Security taxes must be paid by you and your maid. The form to use is Form 942, Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees.

An explanation of your responsibilities as an employer for this tax is contained in Circular H, Household Employer's Social Security Tax Guide. It is available at no charge from any local Revenue Service office.

Q. Can I still get a copy of "Your Federal Income Tax"?

A. There may be a copy left at your local Revenue Service office. If not, you can write the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402. Enclose 50c.

A new edition containing the latest tax law changes will be available about the first of the year.

For further information contact your local Internal Revenue Service office.

Accessories Can Accent Home Decor

The right kind of hardware can make a big difference in a home, without making a big dent in the budget.

A homeowner can find in most building supply centers a wide selection of inexpensive accessories to enliven bedroom, bath, living room, kitchen and almost every other part of the house.

The editors of Building Supply News suggest a good place to start any home improvement program is with the front door. A new escutcheon, knob or latch in traditional or contemporary styling can dramatize the entrance. A matching door knocker, an attractive mail box and new name plate can also help people take notice.

Interior doors can also benefit from the facelifting new hardware can give them. A simple item like an electric switchplate can accent the decor of any room. Switchplates are available in a wide variety of decorator styles, and new lines are being added all the time.

Another suggestion for adding sparkle to the room is distinctive drapery hardware. Here, as in other places in a house, an investment in quality hardware can pay dividends, say the Building Supply News editors.

New hinges, handles and pulls can give old cabinets and furniture a new lease on life. If the furniture is old, you may want to restore the existing hardware with steel wool.

Replacing hardware is one of the simplest do-it-yourself chores around any house. It can also be the most rewarding.

on length of Government service, plus additional paid sick leave. They receive free medical and surgical care; their uniforms are furnished; and they are eligible for inexpensive Government life insurance. The Department has an excellent retirement system.

Full information (in Announcement No. 81 Local) and application forms may be obtained from many post offices, from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or from Police Headquarters, 300 Indiana Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. Applications will be accepted by the Commission's Washington office until further notice.

The Civil Service Commission has also announced a new examination for work as Public Health Advisors and Analysts in the U. S. Public Health Service and the Children's Bureau of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare throughout the United States.

For both positions, administrative, professional or other responsible work experience is required as well as specialized experience in the field of public health or health-related activities. Appropriate college study may be substituted for some of the required experience.

The salary range is from $7,220 to $16,460 a year. A full description of these jobs is contained in Announcement No. 366-B. Applications will be accepted until further notice by the Board of Examiners, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C. 20201.

Announcements and appropriate application forms may be obtained

OUTDOOR SPORTING TIPS

Hooked!
Know how doctor's say to handle a hook embedded in the flesh? With a sharp jerk, push hook deeper in its natural course so the barb emerges. Cut off barb. With another sharp jerk, remove hook by repushing in its natural course. Treat carefully for puncture wound infection.

Lights Out
Place a piece of cardboard over your ice fishing hole. Cutting down on light may catch fish scared away from bait by the light down the hole.
Stock Compass
If you fit a small compass into the stock of your rifle or shotgun, you'll never be in the woods without one.

Hosed
If the gunwale of your aluminum boat is cold and noisy, cut a garden hose down the middle and fit it over gunwale strip. Rivet fast with aluminum rivets.
Matchbox
Everybody knows an empty 16 gauge shotgun shell slipped into an empty 12 gauge shotgun shell makes a good waterproof match box. Now you know too.
Scope Safe
A short length of rubber hose, split open, will fit on your scope and protect it from knocks and scrapes.
Waterproof Wallet
If you may take a spill overboard wrap your wallet in a plastic freezer bag and bind it with a rubber band. You may get wet but your wallet won't.

Polish Off Lures
Nail polish (comes in the craziest colors these days!) is better than paint for touching up lures. Handy brush keeps cleanup work to a minimum.
Clean Bucket
S's fact. Clean your minnow bucket out with baking soda every now and then and your bait will live longer.

rates and shipwrecked sailors — except for two fishes. Tarpon and bonefish first called the masses to these islands. They are still the main attraction.
Tarpon move in schools through the myriad cuts and channels the tides have carved through the flats that surround all the Keys. Sometimes live bait is used for them, sometimes artificials. With either, you generally try to cast to the fish. Across shallow, sheltered Florida Bay, a 20-to 40-mile run from the most popular Keys, is what the guides call "the back-country." Here the mangrove swamps of south Florida meet the sea in a maize of fabulous tarpon- (and other fish-) producing waters. Endless deep channels lace through impenetrable jungle and open up into large unexpected lakes filled (you hope) with the silver flashes of rolling tarpon.

Often, but not always, the guides are hunting for tarpon. They hope to see the schools moving through the clear water, and since tarpon average between 50 and 150 pounds, they can be seen in relatively deep water—five or six feet.
Bonefishing is entirely a hunting-stalking game. These much smaller fish (about five pounds average) rest in deep water and feed on the flats in waters a foot to three feet deep. "The guides look for them," points out Zack Taylor, Boats Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, "sometimes poling the boat slowly along, sometimes waiting beside a likely spot."

Wind and overcast days make spotting the bones harder; sunshine, calm and Polaroid glasses make it easier. Again, you cast to an individual fish if possible.
Although people can and do wade out from shore to fish, the pros head for areas where they hope the fish are especially numerous or where they know existing wind and water conditions make it easy (or possible) to spot them.

The Lessons Of History

One of the most genuinely invaluable services rendered to the nation in the first half of 1965 by an officer of the federal government was the constructive warning issued on June 1 by William McChesney Martin, Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. The very fact that the spend-and-inflate boys of the White House economic squad took cover and fired back immediately showed that we do not now have complete indifference to the moral ingredients of fiscal policy. But we shall require much work before soundness is the rule of practice. That was the sensitive nerve gouged by the Martin speech.

Whether the wildest fluctuations of the stock market since 1962 resulted from the Martin speech (his words were likely to throw us into a depression, they claimed), the new apprehensiveness was healthy. Nearly everything that has occurred since June 1, even including the denials and rebuttals, has only reflected more similarities between 1965 and 1929 than were cited by Mr. Martin. Of course, his words of warning were nothing new, for conservative economists have offered many such warnings. But it took courage for the leader of one side of U. S. money of policy to say that "while the spirit is willing, the flesh, in the form of concrete policies has been weak." Indeed, the nation's fiscal leaders have tended to ignore history.

Pressures And Dangers

Nobody wants to take the view that depressions are necessary or inevitable. It particularly frightens politicians who have not behaved themselves well as caretakers of fiscal health to have to be reminded that recessions might show up. Mr. Martin simply pointed out that the dangers of complacency and recklessness are greatest when economic prospects are at their brightest. With so many of our leaders speaking of recessions as impossible and poverty on the way out, the dangers are only heightened. The big lesson we have yet to learn is that abuses of power are still very dangerous.

Self-Discipline The Key

The kind of restraint that can prevent a recession, Mr. Martin, along with scores of other reliable economists and bankers, tells us, is to keep our gold and its price steady by correcting the deficit in our balance of international payments. Tightening credit and increasing interest rates might be used by the Federal Reserve to bring greater stability, but the usual cry has been to fuel the boom with more easy money. In the process, the build-up of both private and public debt has been enormous, enough to make it hard in distress circumstances for the Federal Reserve to do anything for a sluggish economy.

Are we going to reach the point where we cannot practice restraint? This could be the worst imaginable circumstance, and there are indications that our easy-money ways are fast overtaking our lack of discipline. We have permitted inflation to provide political answers to some of our problems, and we thought there would be no ill effects. But our balance of payments deficit has been putting fear into Europe's bankers for some years. They realize, if we do not, that economic collapse in one great nation could make it very difficult for all.

The Morality Angle

Dr. Gardner Ackley, who heads the President's economy advisers, was bitter about the Martin speech. He ticked off the usual denials: the boom would last indefinitely because nothing is wrong with the U. S. economy, because built-in stabilizers are available, and because the federal government can guarantee prosperity. These views derive from the now-repudiated Keynesian myth that a nation can manipulate and control the whole complex of its economic environment, without regard for the inexpressible foibles of humanity, the actions of other countries, or the pervasive acts of God.

An economic structure is only as good as the morality that supports it. Many qualified observers, including Mr. Martin, feel that in America this morality must be lifted to a much higher level than it now enjoys. We have expanded credit most recklessly and refuse to apply the brakes. In boom times, we have applied one stimulant after another so as to overheat the economy, end poverty, and subsidize everyone. What is there left to do, except print more money? We are only waiting, it seems, for history to repeat itself. That is, unless we can find the moral strength to follow sound monetary and fiscal policies.

SAFE DRIVING TIPS

"When you're driving, good sunglasses are an attractive accessory and an important safety precaution," says American Oil Company's Women's Representative. Her recommendations for buying—and wearing—sunglasses:

"Avoid fancy-colored lenses. Tints of yellow, blue, red, and brown can seriously distort your view, and they don't give good glare protection. The colors sage green and gray, though, are fine.

"Beware of plastic lenses. They don't shut out infrared, which can seriously damage your eyes.

"Spend a little more to get good lenses and frames. Frames should be tough and should fit so you can't tell you have the glasses on.

"Keep your sunglasses shining clean; use them on cloudy-bright days, too (glare can be worse than direct sunlight); and never wear colored lenses at night."

Ping-pong, or table tennis, was first played at the end of the 19th century, and was originated by a sporting goods dealer in London.

Because gasoline is cheaper than hay, cowboys in Dodge City, Kansas, now ride motorcycles instead of horses, according to Oil Facts.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson's Point Of View On: Water, Pollution, And Drought

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 26—Everybody in our "neck of the woods" is talking about water . . . or, more properly, lack of it. Those who are not bemoaning the drought are pointing a finger at industrialists and politicians who have permitted billions of gallons of water to become filthy and unfit for human consumption. Great rivers course by our huge eastern centers of population; but they might as well be millions of miles away for all the good they do our citizens who are restricted even in the amount they may use to wash their teeth.

Graver Danger Than The Bomb

In discussing the parched Northeast the other day, an eminent professor of chemistry pointed out to us that man's own "peaceful" works could bring about his destruction just as surely—if more slowly—than enemy attack by the H-bomb. He pictured the massive population complex that stretches from Richmond, Va. to Portland, Me.—the "megalopolis" of the Northeast—as eventually shriveled and diseased from drought and from air and water pollution.

Examination of the width of rings in great elms that have been cut down in the Northeast in recent years reveals that this area has indeed suffered alternating periods of light and heavy rainfall. Wide rings in the trunks indicate copious rains and rapid annual growth; narrow rings signify drought. But why did former years when the land was parched cause so little stir in our land?

Always Droughts, Not Always People

Historians tell us that the total aboriginal population of the whole area of the United States approximated only a million at its peak. In relation to available water supplies the number of Indians never presented a problem even in times of severest drought. But today, this small drought-stricken patch of land in the Northeast is crowded by more than fifty million people.

Even these fifty million would not be too serious a problem if we still lived as our grandfathers did. Roads were gravel 75 years ago, absorbing water into the subsoil; now we cover not only highways but also driveways and play yards with tons of impervious materials that shunt the rainfall into sewers and send it crashing in floods to the sea . . . useless and wasted. Mother's dishwasher in a day uses more water than the whole family once needed for its Saturday-night baths at the turn of the century. And there were no air conditioners to consume water by the ton.

Biggest Waste Of All

The problem is not wholly one of overconsumption. Actually, there is plenty of water available throughout the Northeast. But it is being wasted before it ever has a chance to get into a water main.

The biggest water problem of all is threefold. First, spring floods are allowed to rush into the sea; second, pollution goes unchecked, making use of such water subject to costly conversion processes; third, as our great rivers recede with the summer's heat, the brine of the ocean is permitted to creep further upstream and create more havoc.

The Answer

As the problem is threefold, so must the attack on it be: (1) New reservoirs must be constructed to conserve the freshets of spring for late-season use. This is perhaps the quickest measure. (2) Harder and slower will be the cutting down and final elimination of pollution. Many cries will go up, of course, urging concentration on ways of purifying polluted water; but, after all, pollution is a holdover from the dark ages (historians tell us that in the 17th Century Londoners emptied their slop jars in the streets!) (3) The easiest approach may be keeping back the brine from the ocean. Reports mention a readily made and controllable fabric dam that can be thrown across a river to save billions of gallons of fresh water from a salty death.

As we ponder the problem, we are reminded that an Act of God could make us forget our troubles for a while. Hurricane days are now upon us; one great watery storm could fill our parched rivers and empty reservoirs. But this would be a temporary solution. Unless we plan—long range—to cure the evil, these drought-stricken days of summer 1965 could be but a warning of direr things to come.

Ford To Introduce New 4-Wheel Vehicle

Ford Division of Ford Motor Company recently launched the 1966 automotive model year with the announcement of a completely new line of four-wheel-drive vehicles called "Bronco."

The new Ford Bronco is a sports-utility vehicle which, with its standard two- and four-wheel drive, is equally at home on a rugged mountain grade or on a run to the shopping center. Designed to operate on or off the highway, the new Ford vehicle comes in three body styles—a sporty roadster, a roomy wagon and a short-roof utility model.

Donald N. Frey, company vice president and Ford Division general manager, said "the Ford Bronco has been designed to join the Mustang in providing modern, active Americans with driving adventure as well as practical transportation."

Mr. Frey noted that there are some 300 organized "four-wheeler" groups in the U. S.—numbering about 10,000 members—who use utility vehicles for driving and camping in rugged locales.

"We talked to these owners who enjoy exploring the remote wilderness as well as to others who drive over less rugged terrain," he explained, "and they told us what features they wanted most in a sport and utility vehicle."

Mr. Frey said the characteristics asked for include:

Higher highway cruising speed. The ability to climb steeper grades.

Improved ride.

Weather-tight cabs.

More comfortable seats.

Shorter turning radius.

Readily available parts and service.

"We achieved all these characteristics in the Bronco's design," Mr. Frey said.

"We think of the Bronco as neither a conventional car nor a truck, but as a vehicle which combines the best of both worlds," he continued. "It can serve as a family sedan, a sports roadster, a snow plow, or as a farm or civil defense vehicle. It has been designed to go nearly anywhere and do nearly anything."

Mr. Frey said the market for utility vehicles has grown from slightly more than 11,000 in 1960 to more than 40,000 last year, and he predicted expansion to 70,000 by 1970.

"We expect the Bronco to be a leader in that growth," he concluded.

The new Ford Bronco will be in Ford dealer showrooms in September.

DORIS A. HARPOLD 133 East 3rd Street Frederick, Maryland Complainant

CHARLES WOODY HARPOLD 1818 N. Cleveland St. Arlington, Virginia Defendant

NO. 21,063 EQUITY In the Circuit Court For Frederick County, in Equity ORDER OF PUBLICATION The object of this proceeding is to procure a Divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant, Charles Woody Harpold, for the care and custody of the infant child, namely, Deborah Ann Harpold, and for such other and further relief as the nature of her case may require.

The Bill states in substance, that the Plaintiff is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, and has been so for more than one year last past; while the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and that the last known address of the Defendant is 1818 N. Cleveland Street, Arlington, Virginia; that your Complainant was married to the Defendant at Rockville, Maryland, on June 20, 1963, by a regularly ordained minister of the gospel; that as a result of the said marriage, one (1) child was born, namely, Deborah Ann Harpold, age 10 months, who is residing with the Complainant and whose care and custody the Complainant seeks in this proceeding; the Bill further alleges that ever since the said marriage, the Complainant has always conducted herself as a kind, chaste, dutiful and affectionate wife toward the Defendant, Charles Woody Harpold, and that the Defendant, Charles Woody Harpold, between the time of the said marriage and the filing of the Bill of Complaint herein, has committed the crime of adultery with a certain Lynn Nye; that since the discovery of said adultery, the Complainant has not lived or cohabited with the Defendant nor condoned his actions in any way, to all of which the Affidavit is made.

It is thereupon this 16th day of August, 1965, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, in Equity, ORDERED that the Plaintiff, by causing a copy of this Order of Publication to be published for at least four (4) successive weeks prior to the 18th day of September, 1965, in some newspaper published in Frederick County, Maryland, giving notice to the Defendant, Charles Woody Harpold, of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint and warning him to be and appear in this Court either in person or by Solicitor on or before the 19th day of October, 1965, to show cause, if any he has, why the relief sought should not be granted.

YOUTH CENTER ACTIVITIES

In double overtime, Jack Dillon's Meadowlarks pulled the upset of the year over Gene Eyer's Blue Jays by a score of 51-47. With two seconds remaining in regulation time, the Meadowlarks called for time. When play resumed Dillon received the ball and with a long one-hand jump shot knotted the score at 38-38 as the whistle blew. In the second overtime Dillon and Orosz connected on six straight foul shots, backed by the strong rebounding of Father Hamlish, to insure the victory. Dillon led the winners with 21 points while Father Hamlish scored 14. For the losers O'Brien was high with 16 while Gene Eyer added 13.

Husters Vs. Night Owls Powered by the tremendous shooting of Denny Stahley, the Husters remained in contention for first place by virtue of a 64-47 win over the Night Owls of Gene Lingg. Stahley took complete charge in the first half, scoring 19 of his game high of 29 points to lead his team to a 17 point lead at half. Scoring from every angle on the court, Stahley amazed the crowd with his pin-point shooting accuracy and all around play. In the third quarter the Night Owls, behind the shooting of Allen Stoner, closed the gap to 7 points, only to have the Husters, equal to the task, pull ahead to stay in the deciding quarter. Baker backed up Stahley's performance with 18 points. For the Night Owls, Stoner scored 20 points.

Panthers Vs. Meadowlarks After their upset victory over the Blue Jays, the Meadowlarks perhaps over confident, lost their poise in the second half as the Panthers downed the Meadowlarks 64-58. With the Meadowlarks leading at half 36-32, the Panthers, led by John Little and Marty Williams, came on strong in the second half with Little scoring 12 and Williams 8. Leading by as much as 10 points in the final quarter, the Meadowlarks suddenly lost their shooting accuracy while the Littlemen pulled ahead. Little led the winners with 23 points while Williams added 14 and Wierman 12. For the Meadowlarks, Dillon scored 2 and played a strong defensive game, led the losers, with Orosz and Sherwin adding 13 and 11 in that order. The big surprise of the game was the shooting of little Dave Swomley who threw in a very strong 10 points in a losing effort.

Leading Scorers John Little 18.5; Denny Stahley 17.8; Jack Dillon 1.5; Gene Eyer 15.8; Jerry Orosz 15.1; Ray Baker 14.2; Harry Harner 13.1; and John Sherwin 13.0.

Enjoy Trip

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Thurmont Charge has been working on a project since June. The group has been working to raise money for a trip to Ocean Grove, New Jersey, and the World's Fair. It sold light bulbs, napkins and holders, home-made candy, had a bake sale, and hired out for a day's work.

Finally the great day arrived and 23 people gathered together with their baggage and sleeping bags to start off in two station wagons and one car. Rev. Martin Case and his wife led the caravan, which made its first stop in the Pennsylvania Dutch country for a look around and lunch.

Arriving in Bradley Beach the first evening, they unloaded their gear at the Bradley Beach Methodist Church gymnasium. Rev. David Cousins, the pastor of the church, had made arrangements for the stay and all agree that his church group was wonderfully hospitable. The group slept on air mattresses and sleeping bags on the gym floor.

Several trips to the beach a few short blocks away for dips in the ocean were really enjoyed. One day was spent at the World's Fair and one evening the Bradley Beach Youth had a beach party for the visiting M.Y.F.

All attended a Youth Fellowship meeting at the Ocean Grove

Tabernacle and the young visitors were asked to sing for the meeting, which they did. Chaperones for the group were Rev. and Mrs. Martin Case. The Counselors were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Staub and Mrs. Ralph Lindsey. Those attending were: Donna Lynn Case, Yvonne Staub, Rose Marie Staub, MYF President Cherry Lewis, Kenny Riffle, Marlene Glass, Shirley Sheeley, Darlene Glass, Mike Irons, Juanita Lindsey, Barbara Motter, Bobby Woods, Shirley Hatcher, Sharon Kelly, Colleen Hewitt, Carol Wiedner, Bonnie Fuss and Larry Glass.
