HELP WANTED: I am in receipt of a letter this week from a Baltimore lady seeking information about a young lady who travelled through here recently. Says the letter: On Saturday, Aug. 7, I boarded a Trailways bus in Baltimore bound for Ohio. My seat companion was a charming teenager en route to Emmitsburg. During our conversation she told me she was previously from Seattle, Wash., and now lived aboard a boat in New Orleans. Her mother and sister also were on their way to Emmitsburg to visit their grandfather. There was also a boy cousin of 14 she was anxious to meet. I enjoyed her company and wished to send her a telegram when I returned home. However upon my return I discovered I had lost her New Orleans address as well as her name. A tall and slender gentleman met them on the Square on their arrival in Emmitsburg. I would appreciate any one having information as to the identity of the girl to write me: Miss Louise A. Conley, 4446 Pen Lucy Road, Baltimore, Md. So there you are, if any kind Samaritan having knowledge of the young lady in question would come to the rescue it would be deeply appreciated.

After 32 years of handling the local mails our friendly Postmaster has deemed it advisable to retire. Louis H. Stoner has held this position capably since New Year's Day, 1934. We would have liked to see him break-in the new Post-office when it comes along in a few short months, but then that's the way things go sometimes. Louie has been an outstanding man on the job and has rendered valuable service to his community. A veteran of World War I, he has accumulated a host of friends here and there many friends wish him many years of happy successful retirement.

Many citizens feel that now is the time to ask for mail carrier delivery here. With the new Postoffice in the offing it will be difficult for the older citizens to reach the building at its new location. The Town needs the qualifications except for the numbering of houses. It is believed the job could be done in a matter of days or perhaps a week's work. It would provide an invaluable service to all here and would employ additional postal workers. Why then wait any longer? Why not inaugurate this much-needed service here with the opening of the new Post-office sometime next year? We deserve it, it's coming to us, we need it, so why wait any longer?

With the recent annexation of Three D Inc. and Emmitt Gardens property to the Town now about complete the situation needs looking into as to future annexations. A well-mapped plan should be laid out that would take care of proceedings of this type for years to come. Efforts should be made to expand the Corporation limits, naturally. There are many highly in favor of such a plan, many of who live outside the limits at the present. Actually I think the Waynesboro Road, Mountain Road, Frailey Road and Toll Gate Hill areas should be annexed. To the north, to Gettysburg, I believe it would be feasible to extend the limits clear to the State Line. If we are to be a community let's all be together, share the benefits and grow together. The St. Joseph's Provincial House in interested in becoming a part of Emmitsburg proper and has asked the Town Council to consider the matter. Why not spread out and take in these outlying areas also at the same time?

VFW AMBULANCE Vincent Baldacchino and Luther Cramer, were transported to the Annie M. Warner Hospital in Gettysburg, last week in the VFW ambulance. Mrs. Carrie Dern was taken to the Wolford Convalescent Nursing Home, Fountaindale this week. Drivers were Paul E. Humerick and L. Michael Boyle.

Jesuit Gives Talk To College Faculty

The Very Rev. Victor R. Yanitelli, S.J., newly appointed president of St. Peter's College, Jersey City, spoke at St. Joseph College on Friday, Sept. 10 at a conference of faculty members. The theme of his address, "The Role of the Instructor in Developing Student Potential," reflected his conviction that the faculty in an undergraduate college has no choice but to be student-oriented, and it is not only a role but a moral obligation to be involved in the students' development as a person.

"Society has imposed the obligation, not the school or the church," he stated, and "there is demonstrated evidence on every college campus in the country that students are impatient with mass impersonal education." Father Yanitelli also emphasized that everyone in the academic community from administrators to maintenance personnel should "think and talk and consider himself as a teacher . . . and every activity should be directly or indirectly related to education."

Faculty Conference Day, an annual event to introduce and welcome new members to the faculty, included Mass and luncheon prior to the conference. Father Yanitelli's talk was followed by group discussion, and the program closed with a meeting of departmental chairmen with the Dean of Studies.

A native New Yorker, Father Yanitelli is the 18th president of St. Peter's since its founding in 1872. He studied at Fordham Prep and College, and entered the Society of Jesus in 1933. Following philosophy studies at Woodstock College, he was awarded an A.B. degree, magna cum laude, from Georgetown University in 1940. He received his master's degree, and, in 1945, a Ph.D. in Romance Languages from Fordham University. His ordination in 1948 was followed by a year of study in Florence, Italy.

Father Yanitelli taught at Fordham Prep, the University of Scranton, and Fordham College and Graduate School. In 1953 he was appointed Director of Student Personal Services at Fordham and made a vice president in 1958. In 1962 he was appointed Director of Student Personal Services at St. Peter's College. The Very Rev. John J. McGinty, S.J., provincial of the N. P. Province of the Society of Jesus, announced Father Yanitelli's appointment as president of St. Peter's on September 2, 1965.

Frederick Welty, Writer-Historian, Dies After Illness

Frederick Welty, 79, of Philadelphia, Pa., a long-time collector of Emmitsburg history and legend, died on Sept. 9 after a long illness.

A native of Richmond, Va., he was the son of Frederick A. and Catherine McIntire Welty. At the age of ten, he moved with his parents, who were originally from this locality, from Richmond, to a farm on the Gettysburg Road just outside of Emmitsburg. He was educated at St. Euphemia's School here and at the preparatory school and seminary conducted by the Vincentian Fathers in Germantown, Pa. He was a journalist, principally on the staff of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, and was at one time Foreign Editor and a Managing Editor of that newspaper. In later life, he was a dealer in rare books and manuscripts.

Mr. Welty maintained an intense and life-long interest in the institutions, personalities, and antiquities of the Emmitsburg area, making frequent visits here to maintain his wide acquaintanceship with local residents, to collect pertinent documents, and to record the recollections of the older inhabitants of town and countryside. He was for over fifty years a contributing member of the American Catholic Historical Society of Philadelphia.

Surviving are his wife, the former Rose Tyson, an Emmitsburg native; a son, Frederick Welty, Jr., Moylan, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Richard E. Hildebrand, Levittown, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. Valerie W. Overmann, of Emmitsburg; a niece, Mrs. Landon B. Edwards, Richmond, Va.; and six grandchildren.

Funeral services were held here on Sept. 13 in St. Joseph's Church, with the Rev. Louis B. Storms, C.M., officiating at a Requiem Mass. Interment was in the old St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Mayor Irelan Named Distressed Plane Spotter

Mayor Ralph F. Irelan was advised by the Federal Aviation Agency this week that he had been appointed to represent this area with the Flight Service Station, Municipal Airport, Martinsburg, W. Va.

The Federal Aviation Agency is directly concerned with providing assistance to aircraft in distress, or to lost aircraft. Occasionally a pilot is requested to circle a community when he is lost and his navigational equipment is imperative. Because of fuel shortage, equipment limitations and weather conditions, quick orientation is vital; thus a report from the community establishing the position of the aircraft could possibly save lives and property.

Anyone experiencing such a condition is asked to phone collect this number in Martinsburg: 304-263-9353, or Mayor Irelan. The appointment was made by Brooke E. Ettinger, Chief, Flight Service Station.

NEWS DEALERS COMMENDED BY CITIZEN

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Recently the Knights of Columbus at the national convention in Baltimore took a strong stand against the peddlers of "smut" literature in this country.

At the present time several Congressional groups are also investigating this problem and the U. S. Post Office Department is constantly on the alert for the use of the mails in the distribution of obscene materials.

I think that Emmitsburg and its citizens are fortunate, especially with the growing population of young people in our elementary, secondary, and college schools . . . nearly double the population of the town itself . . . in that our local dealers have restrained themselves from stocking their shelves with this type of material.

Without a doubt they are under pressure from the outside dealers, some customers, and the temptation of the almighty buck to handle this material.

Their past and continuing attempts in this area should be appreciated by every father and mother and should be expressed at every opportunity.

I would urge that the local press, the Knights of Columbus, and town fathers, and the religious leaders of the community assist them in anyway possible.

Sincerely,
CITIZEN

More Annexation Discussed At Town Meeting

Emmitsburg may receive brighter street lighting in the near future it was revealed Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Commissioners, held in the Town Office. Chairman of the Board J. W. Houser presided with a full board present.

Present at the meeting were Frank Dunham and John Morgan, representatives of the Potomac Edison Company which furnishes electricity to the Town. The present street lights cost the Town $305.55 per month. Under discussion was the installation of new type mercury vapor streetlights which would cost an additional $114.80 per month. Should the Council decide to install the new type lighting the monthly bill would rise to a total of $421.35. At the present time there are 52 lights in operation. It is possible several more will be added in the future. Council was informed by the utility that a balance of $500 remained on the rental of the steel poles which hold the lights. Once this sum is paid there will be no future rental charge on the poles.

A request from St. Joseph's Provincial House asking to be annexed to the Corporation of the Town was received and read. Council studied the request and decided to hold a special meeting with the Sisters of Charity concerning the annexation in the near future.

In other action taken at the meeting it was decided to donate $100 to the VFW ambulance fund and to adjust parking space near the Fire Hall which the Fire Company requested. Emmitt Development Co. was voted a $150 refund for water and sewerage installed in the Emmitt Gardens area since the new house of Eugene LaCroce has been listed as taxable on the books. This is a procedure taken when new homes are erected in a development. Discussing the water shortage the Council decided to enlarge Rainbow Lake and in the near future the north east corner of the lake will be widened and deepened.

Police Chief W. E. Law's report showed nine motor vehicle arrests, 22 warnings issued, seven criminal arrests, nine day complaints answered and three night calls. Two trips were made in the police cruiser to Gettysburg and five to Frederick. In addition three automobile accidents were investigated. The report covered the month of August.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

The Emmitsburg Chronicle, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, Baltimore District, will publish each week in this column, tax information that will enable taxpayers to become more familiar with the Federal income tax laws. Clip and save for future reference.

Questions And Answers

Q. I have just received a letter from you asking that I send in my receipts to substantiate my contributions. Instead of that, could I come in personally to explain them?

A. Yes, you may. Call or write the office which requested the receipts and arrange for an appointment.

Q. I am the beneficiary of my father's life insurance. Is this taxable income to me?

A. No. Life insurance proceeds paid by reason of the death of the insured are usually not considered taxable income. This also holds true for death benefits paid under accident and health policies.

Q. Isn't it true that students are exempt from income tax?

A. No. Students must pay Federal income tax just like any other taxpayers when they earn sufficient income to be liable for it. If their gross income for the year is $600 or more, they must file a Federal tax return.

Q. I took a part-time selling job for the summer which requires me to use my car. Can I deduct my mileage costs?

A. A standard mileage rate of 10c a mile for the first 15,000 miles and 7c a mile thereafter may be claimed for the business use of your automobile. Parking fees and toll charges may be deducted, too.

Q. I spend more than $50 a quarter for domestic help, but I don't always use the same woman. Am I liable for Social Security tax?

A. You are liable for the tax only when you pay one cleaning woman $50 or more during a quarter. If you paid several women less than $50 during the quarter, then you do not have to pay the Social Security tax.

Q. One of your tax assistance people helped me prepare my return and now it is being audited. If you question the accuracy of my return why don't you check with the person who helped me prepare it?

A. The function of our tax assistance personnel is to explain the requirements of the law. Many times they have no way of knowing whether what the taxpayers tell them about income, deductions, and exemptions is complete and accurate.

The taxpayer is responsible for the return he files no matter who prepared it. On joint returns, this means that a wife is as responsible for the return as her husband even though he had all the income.

Q. My daughter is getting married next month. Does this mean that I won't be able to claim her as a dependent or deduct the medical expenses we paid for her?

A. You are not allowed to claim an exemption for your daughter even though she would otherwise qualify, if she files a joint return with her husband. If however, your son-in-law files a separate return, then you and not your son-in-law will be entitled to your daughter's exemption, if you contributed more than half of her support, and other dependency requirements are met.

Q. My son has been working this summer before going back to school. If he earns over $600 will we lose his exemption?

A. Not necessarily. If your child will still be under 19 years of age at the end of the year, or is a full-time student, he may earn over $600 and still qualify as a dependent.

Parents who contribute more than half of the support of their child, who is under 19 or is a full-time student, may claim the dependency exemption regardless of the amount earned by the child (unless he is married and files a joint return). Remember, if the child earns $600 or more he must file a return, too.

Q. I'm curious about the number of returns you audit that end up in disagreement. About how many taxpayers disagree with the results of your examinations?

A. Last year, fewer than 30,000 taxpayers, representing less than 1 per cent of the total number of returns audited, requested that their cases be considered by the Appellate Division.

forgive us when we wrong Thee. Make us humble to confess our faults to Thee and to those whom we have wronged, and make us generous in forgiving those who wrong us. Fill our hearts with love that perfects peace. In Thy name. Amen.

VETERANS' NEWS

Benefit checks from the Veterans Administration may be sent directly to the beneficiary's bank for deposit to his account, F. E. Quinn, Manager of the Baltimore VA Regional Office, said this week.

This arrangement is convenient for veterans who travel or those who have frequent changes of address, Mr. Quinn pointed out.

A complete explanation of the arrangement may be obtained by contacting any VA office.

Contrary to former legal requirements, checks may now be forwarded to a beneficiary who has moved, provided the addressee has left a forwarding address with the post office, the VA said.

Blessed are the peacemakers. (Matthew 5:9)

The novelists Dickens and Thackeray were great friends, but once they quarreled so bitterly that they would pass in the street without speaking.

Then one day Mr. Thackeray called on Mr. Dickens' daughter. "It is ridiculous," he said, "that your father and I should be placed in a position of positive enmity towards one another." Thackeray wondered that if he made the approach Dickens would meet him halfway.

"Oh, I can answer for him," said the daughter, joyfully. "Only try him, and you will see."

A day or two later, Thackeray called again. "I met him . . . and held out my hand, saying we had had been foolish long enough. . . . Your father grasped it very cordially, and we were friends again, thank God!" Only thirteen days later, on Christmas eve, Thackeray, the peacemaker, died unexpectedly.

Jesus came to make peace, to reconcile us to God and to one another. He expects us to do likewise.

SEAT BELTS SAVE LIVES

In State Police investigated highway accidents last week, in which six persons were killed and twenty seriously injured, seat belts were available in seven cases, but in no instance were they actually in use, said Mayor Ralph F. Ireland, this week.

Three of these seven individuals were killed and four were seriously injured. The use of available seat belts, in the opinion of the investigating officers, would have saved the lives of the three persons killed and would have lessened the seriousness of injury in the other four cases.

In the nineteen cases where seat belts were not available, three persons were killed and sixteen were seriously injured. Again, the investigators found that if seat belts had been available and in use, the three persons would not have been killed and the seriousness of injury in the other sixteen cases would have been lessened.

"With this kind of evidence piling up day after day," commented Mayor Ireland, "it's hard to come by a good reason for not using seat belts."

A total of seventeen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey of the State Police. Four of those killed were drivers; six were passengers; and seven were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the deaths; speed in ten; and "driver error" was present in twelve of the fatalities.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson's Point Of View On:
Population And The Pill

BABSON PARK, Mass., Sept.
16—A few days ago the number of people in the United States crossed the 195-million mark. Contrasted with the 4 million recorded in our first census in 1790 that sounds like an awful lot of people. But the population of the world now exceeds 3.3 billion. And, if we include all of North America and Europe (except Russia), we Westerners make up barely 20%

of the world's humans.

Shades Of Malthus

Thomas Robert Malthus was ordained in the Church of England late in the eighteenth century. But his fame came from his "Essay On The Principles Of Population" launched in 1798.
In this he held that the world's population expands at a geometrical ratio, whereas the means of sustaining life increases at an arithmetical rate. Therefore, he concluded, poverty and famine would eventually be the lot of man . . . unless disease or war intervened.

For a century and a half after Malthus' famous Doctrine,
history contradicted his theories.
To be sure, famines and wars took their toll, but advances in agriculture and a slowdown in the birth rate seemed to mute
his dire prediction. Today, however, population experts are unearthing the Malthusian Doctrine. They point out that the population explosion, if continued, foreshadows in the next two centuries a world on which there will be standing-room-only for teeming billions of humans.
The Least For The Most

Such a picture, of course, is impossible of realization. Long before standing-room-only would become the rule, famine and disease would have taken over. But the facts of the world's growing population crisis cannot be ignored. And the most frightening of these is that those peoples are increasing the most whose food supply is already the most meager.

Famine today would be more of a killer in overpopulated India, China, etc., if it were not for big food imports from Canada, the U. S., and Europe. Yet, these hungry countries are precisely the nations that will experience the greatest population increase by the year 2000. For their birth rate right now is twice as rapid as the birth rate of the West. Even as early as 1980, the United Nations projects that Latin American peoples will exceed those of North America by over 100 million.
Yet the two areas today have a population that is almost equal!

In Danger Of Being Swamped

Before the tremendous bulge
in world population, it was commonly assumed that improved farm methods and aid by the "haves" to the "have-nots" would be able to meet the world's food needs. But aid to underdeveloped nations was concentrated on "hothouse" industrialization. Now it is realized that the main effort should have been toward building up their farming potential. While that is still important, the stark fact is that agriculture alone cannot do the job. For the world, it boils down simply to . . .
fewer babies . . . or famine.

Birth control and contraceptives were not polite words a few years ago. Now almost everyone is talking about them.
President Johnson has stated that he will seek "new ways to deal with the explosion in world population and the growing scarcity in world resources."
Health and welfare agencies in the U. S. are developing family-planning projects;
foreign aid funds are being used abroad. Even the Catholic Church is less hostile and is studying the whole problem.

WIM The Pill Do The Job?

Since 1957 the number of births per 1,000 women of childbearing age has been falling in the U. S. Some see the decline accelerating as a result of widening use of oral contraceptives,
the anti-ovulation drugs, popularly known as "the pill." To many, contraceptives by mouth are less offensive than mechanical methods. But they are expensive and require repeated attention to detail to be effective.
Undoubtedly the price will continue to fall, but population experts are convinced that in the teeming countries where birth reduction is most important, the pill is the least likely method for success. The simpler, less costly, mechanical means known as "the loop" is given the best chance for success. In any case, the fight against the world's being swamped by starving humans has barely begun. If it is to win over the prediction of Malthus, a much greater effort than any yet undertaken will have to be made . . . and soon.

State Tire Law To Take Effect July 1

OCEAN CITY—Maryland Commissioner of Motor Vehicles John R. Jewell said this week that his department anticipates "no great difficulty" in the enforcement of the state's new safety standards for automobile tires scheduled to become effective next July 1.

"Representatives of the Rubber Manufacturers' Assn. already have indicated their general support
of these new standards," Mr.
Jewell remarked, "and various tire dealers also have expressed satisfaction with our action."

The Commissioner's comments
were contained in a speech delivered before the annual convention of the Chesapeake Automobile Wholesalers' Assn. in this resort
city.

Earlier this year, Commissioner Jewell, acting under authority granted by the 1965 General Assembly, issued regulations stiffen-ing the minimum safety requirements for new tires for passenger cars and station wagons in Maryland. Previously, state law was virtually silent on this subject.

The regulations, designed to insure that tires wear out before they blow out, were recommended by the Vehicle Equipment Safety Compact Commission on which more than 40 states, including Maryland are represented. Maryland was the first state to adopt the regulation and New York has since followed.

Commissioner Jewell said that
"in addition to legal remedies that the department has at its disposal, there are other factors at work that will assist in bringing about full compliance with the new regulations."

He cited the forces at work in the market that will favor dealers who market tires that meet minimum standards as opposed to substandard products.

"Potential purchasers, even though lacking knowledge of tire
quality, will manifest confidence in a tire that meets minimum state requirements and in a tire dealer who markets such a product," the Commissioner said.
Minimum standard tires will be identified by a "V-1" imprint on the sidewall of the tire.

Jewell noted, also, that "it is no secret that many high ranking officials at the Federal level are exploring the possibility of Federal regulation of automotive safety equipment."

"Since these same industries
strongly support the Vehicle Equipment Safety Compact method of adopting uniform safety devices and procedures in preference to Federal regulation," Jewell said, "it would hardly be in their interest to fail to comply with the Maryland rules and regulation on minimum standards for new tires."

The Commissioner also pointed out that as other states adopt the minimum tire standards, "it will become increasingly uneco-nomical for tire manufacturers to continue to produce substandard products."

noting that the minimum tire standards probably will be included, eventually, in the rules and regulations pertaining to automobile inspection in Maryland.

Government By Deficit

This is the time of year for reports in the federal government's excess of outgo over intake, as the tallies at the end of the fiscal year are announced. The overall deficit is being estimated as in excess of $3.5 billions. This amount at least can be added (the treasury says it's twice that) to our accumulation of national debt of more than $300 billions. This growing burden also is ceremonialized each summer when Congress pushes the debt limit a bit higher. Congress seems no more worried about the billions required to service the debt than about the billions it votes to give away.

The read-'em-and-weep report of federal finances does nothing to cool the long, hot summer. As politicians, however, our leaders must touch up the public "images" they seek to maintain. President Johnson, that White House light-bill sayer, has recently called in his department heads and fiscal officers to say that he intends to spend whatever is necessary to fight the war in Vietnam and pay for all the new and "necessary" programs, but not a penny more. Bravo, except it is a matter of opinion which federal programs adopted and proposed are really essential to the nation's well-being.

A Word For The Public

With shrewd insight and some irony, Mr. Johnson also remarked that when it came to proposing new programs, he found little want of imagination. He must be commended for adding this advice to his top officials: "I would urge you to be equally ingenious in looking for areas of savings and examining alternative least-cost ways to achieve your agencies' objectives." He went on to explain that budget planning for next year would be increasingly difficult because of new spending programs and increased defense requirements.

These things are being said largely for public consumption. They are good, as far as they go, but they do not repeat the whole reality. The President and his financial advisors know well enough, even if they do not say so, how their huge spending programs are going to be paid for in the face of tax cuts that were supposed to be so beneficial in fueling the boom. The deficit will be covered, as it has been for a quarter of a century, by inflating the nation's money and taking purchasing power from the citizens. Those fiscal wizards are only foolish who think this a painless way of exploiting sources of revenue.

Who Loses? You. Such sources as these are, of course, wage earners and fixed-income persons who never are able to take effective measures to defend themselves soon enough. The government may think to give labor a hand with its "guideline" increases. But only a few will prosper from inflation, and the prime victims will be the majority of our citizens whose incomes are relatively fixed. The chief profiteer from this highway robbery scheme is the perpetrator: the federal government itself. Nobody presumes that its purchasing power will be reduced just because it spends more than it takes in. It won't. But yours and mine will be decreased.

The tax cut that the nation was supposed to enjoy was itself an inflationary device simply because the treasury cannot possibly allow its outgo of money to be more than it takes in and must borrow, or create, what it requires. Deficit spending, in reality, cannot prevail without huge amounts of borrowing from banks, a process that increases the money supply through the medium of the Federal Reserve system. Just how much "bank money" will be injected into the nation's money stream is hard to say, but the way Congress is acting some economists see it as $15 billions or more annually within a few years.

A Grand Hoax. As our money supply is increased, inflation will inch ahead. Prices invariably rise with the money supply, and wages can hardly ever keep pace. Moreover, the increase in prices will bring lower purchasing power to the people who need it most. The government, in fact, can spend nothing that it does not take from its citizens, either through taxes, confiscation, debasing the currency, or bank borrowing. The sad result is the same: the people have to pay by relinquishing their purchasing power. This is the curse of inflation.

The immorality of a government that promises to do more for its people, and yet carries on this way, is obvious.

Farmers Receiving Wheat Allotments

ASCS County Offices have started mailing notices of the 1966 farm wheat allotments to farmers in Maryland. In most cases, the farm allotments are smaller for 1966 than they were for 1965. An explanation was offered by Chairman James M. Voss of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

"Farm allotments are smaller because the national wheat acreage allotment is smaller. For 1965, the national allotment was 49.5 million acres. For 1966, it has been reduced to 47.8 million acres—down 1.7 million acres, or about 3.4 per cent. The law provides for a small-farm acreage increase as for the 1964 and 1965 crops. This would increase the national allotment about 4 million acres for a total national effective allotment of approximately 52 million acres.

"By law, the national acreage allotment is established at an amount which, based on expected yields, will produce a quantity of wheat equal to anticipated needs. The quantity of wheat needed for 1966 is about the same as was needed for 1965, but with a general increase in yields fewer acres are required to produce this amount."

The Chairman said that the decision was made to send out the allotments at this time so farmers would have as much time as possible to plan their farming operations for next year.

"We recognize there will be a lot of questions about details of the wheat program," he said, "but they will have to wait until Congress enacts one. Congress is working on farm legislation now. Meanwhile these are the official allotments for the 1966 program. Other information will be given to farmers just as soon as it is available."

EHS News By George Richardson This is the time of year when leaves begin to change to their fall wardrobes, school starts, and the boys at Emmitsburg High School start practicing for the 1965 soccer tournament season.

So far, 24 boys have come out for practice; one more than last year's full team.

The team lost nine of its 11 first-string players of the '64 squad but has replaced this deficit by a fine turn-out.

Last year's team, with a record of eight wins, two losses and one tie, kept the tradition of the '63 team by tying for the Frederick County Soccer Championship, only to lose, like the '63 team, in a play-off match.

Coach George Kuhn must depend on underclassmen to replace the nine starters lost through graduation if Emmitsburg is to be in the running during 1965.

Practices have been going on for over a week and interest seems to be high, especially with the ten boys who have "come out" from the sophomore class.

Returning Juniors, who gained experience last year, are: Forrest Knipple, forward; Jerry Orndorff, fullback; Cliff Eyer, halfback, and Dennis Bolin, forward.

Seniors who have stayed with the squad are: Harry Hahn, forward; Rudy Chatlos, forward; Roland Snyder, forward; Gary Glass, halfback, and Terry Daventport, goalkeeper.

Coach Kuhn cautions, "Not one position is filled at the present, therefore, who starts for the 'Liners' will be decided by the next two weeks of practice."

The 'Liners' schedule will be in next week's issue of the Chronicle.

Can You Help Us?

The Frederick County School system is in the process of planning a number of new projects. Many of these will be financed from funds made available by new federal legislation. You have already heard of the first two, Operation Headstart and Operation Opportunity. Projects in vocational and adult education are only some of the other areas where programs are being considered.

The initiation of these projects has created many problems, but one of the most difficult is locating qualified people to serve in these programs because the success of most projects hinges on the selection of personnel. If these new programs are to succeed, we must tap the reservoir of talent in the community, represented by housewives, retired people, and others who can contribute part time service. We think you can help us!

Unpaid volunteer help is welcomed, and many times it is necessary for a successful project, but the positions referred to here are all paid. Salary is determined using local, state and federal regulations as guides.

Many of these potential positions will be of a part time nature. Some will require two or three hours per week in the evenings. Others might be part time during the school day. Still others might involve time on Saturday mornings or during the summer vacation period. A few will be full time but with hours different from those in the normal school day. Most will require some training beyond a high school education. This may be college, trade school, or some type of formal schooling beyond the 12th grade. It will be possible to substitute several years of successful experience at a craft or trade for some of the educational requirements. An ability to get along with people, both children and adults, is also essential.

If you or someone you know seems to fit the above description, fill out the coupon below and return it to us. We will then send an application form to get more complete information.

Thank you for your help.

Mother Seton

School News

The latest addition to our educational facilities, the new Mother Seton School, opened formally on September 8 with a blessing bestowed by Reverend Louis B. Storms of St. Joseph's Parish. The ceremony opened with a liturgical blessing of the flag, in which God's benedictions were called upon this sacred symbol of our nation that all who use it in accordance with His law and His will may receive health of body and protection of soul. A solemn flag raising in front of the building followed, with John Hollinger and Stephen Sanders acting as flag bearers. The faculty and student body assembled to join in prayer and to salute the flag of their land. The children's voices chanting "Immaculate Mary" and "America the Beautiful," gave tribute of their gratitude for the many graces God has bestowed upon them, both spiritual and material, as exemplified in their beautiful new school. As the various classes filed to their respective rooms, Father entered the building and proceeded through the halls, sprinkling holy water at each doorway. The prayers continued imploring peace and heavenly grace on the teachers, pupils, and all who will ever dwell in this building, meant for the education of our youth.

Senator Tydings To Address Women Democrats

General club business was handled at the regular monthly meeting of the New Frontier Democratic Women's Club Monday evening in the VFW, Emmitsburg. Thursday, September 30, has been designated as the day that the local club will be responsible for maintaining the Democratic Headquarters at the Great Frederick Fair. This is a duty which is shared with seven other Democratic clubs that are active throughout the county. The New Frontier women will serve cookies and coffee and will answer any questions related to Democratic politics.

The following women are responsible for hosting the fair booth: Mrs. Sue Moorehead, Mrs. Ada McKissick, and Mrs. Katherine Kugler (from noon through the afternoon); Mrs. Frances Rosensteel, Mrs. Jane Nolan and Mrs. Jane Bollinger (evening hours). Any other club members who wish to help these women may do so and should contact the president, Mrs. Bollinger.

The New Frontier Club women were told about the check for $106.00 which Mrs. Bollinger received from the Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner finances committee. After expenses are paid, all remaining money from the fund-raising event is divided evenly among the eight county Democratic clubs. Club members have been invited to attend an open meeting sponsored by the Women's Democratic League of Frederick County to be held Wednesday, Sept. 22, 8:30 p.m., in the main dining room of the Hotel Frederick in Frederick. U. S. Senator Joseph D. Tydings will be the speaker. He has been asked to speak either on U. S. foreign policy or some phase of the Great Society program. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

The pheasant makes you hunt hard. He can tire and confuse dogs and startle and wear down a man, and he can pack as much shot as a mallard duck. He is brainy, rarely taking to the air before a gunner unless a dog forces him. He often depends upon his legs rather than his wings and upon his remarkable talent for camouflage.

Pheasants crouch snakelike to the ground and run much faster than any dog, and three miles is not an exceptional flight for them, even though 200 yards is more normal. A pheasant is a threefoot bird, with much of his body consisting of tail. This has thrown off the best of gunners. After the bird flings itself into the air cuk-cuk-ing, startling even the seasoned hunter, too often the man shoots behind it, knocking off tail feathers and a large piece of his ego but nothing else. Going at 40 mph, the pheasant doesn't usually leave much chance for a second shot—except for the very skillful and coordinated.

Pheasants do have weaknesses, however. They feed just before dawn and dusk and lay up in cornfields or meadows dozing near ground that offers dusting opportunity, getting the midmorning and afternoon sun. During these times they can be taken, if likely areas are surrounded and good gunners use teamwork and coordination. Surprised, they often take to the air, nearly always giving that rousing cuk cuk. Leading well, a shotgunner can tally a decent score if he keeps several factors in mind. For one thing, a pheasant's size is deceptive. At a distance the bird looks closer than he is and seems to be moving more slowly than he is, inviting shooting behind. "He is so powerful that he can carry bird shot without giving evidence that he is hit," writes Jack Denton Scott in the recent issue of Sports Afield Magazine. Also, a man without a dog is playing a losing game with the pheasant. Even if seriously wounded, the bird can find a hole, a log, a weed or grass growth, and it is only the sharp-eyed, patient man who can find him.
