Pope Paul's visit to this country was a warm and friendly one and was greeted with much enthusiasm by individuals and organizations of all faiths. The visit will add much prestige to the position the United Nations holds in the hearts of humanity and should serve as a notice to the world that peace is most essential to the very existence of mankind. Quoting the late President John F. Kennedy, the Pope used the well-known sentence uttered by our beloved dead President: "Man must destroy war or war will destroy man." There's a lot of wisdom in that terse sentence, words which should be observed and set indelibly in the minds of us all. Unfortunately the visit will not stem the present hostilities now going on, but indirectly I would assume that both sides, in fact, the whole world, is now looking the situation over well and pondering as to how to reach an amicable solution to the problems confronting these nations at this time.

There is a strong rumor prevalent that an Emmitsburgian will seek the office of County Commissioner when that election comes up in 1966, just a few short months away. To my knowledge there hasn't been an Emmitsburgian in this capacity for at least 50 or 60 years and then I am told that a man by the name of Brown held a commissionership. We are most happy to hear that a local resident has decided to enter the race. We have been practically without representation in the northern section of our fair county for over half a century and this will serve notice to the County that we have not ceased to Pennsylvania, just because we are located geographically close to that state. Emmitsburg, we will have you know, is still an integral part of Frederick County and as residents we want to be heard from and share in the benefits our home county offers. However, it is useless if we don't get together, Democrats and Republicans alike, and support our candidate. We can put this candidate across only if solidarity prevails. It is time we made it known that we are the second largest voting district in the County and as such we should have at least one of the elective offices in the County.

What happened to our new Postoffice? That's a question that's been "bugging" many of us for some time. Well, my latest information on the subject is that the deed to the ground is not yet complete. Information has it that there has been quite a bit of checking and investigating and that old deeds are, or were not quite clear. This has just about been ironed out now and attorneys for the Town and the contractor will sit down together on October 14 and 15 to consummate the deal. When that is accomplished the workmen are to move on the scene the very next day. Also it is anticipated by those in the "know" that the building will be under roof by Dec. 1.

Parents' Day At St. Joseph's This Weekend

Valley Home Weekend at St. Joseph College, during which parents of seniors and freshmen are entertained, will be held from October 8 to 10 on the campus. Highlighting the weekend's program is the Sunday brunch at which the Rev. Robert I. Gannon, S.J., former president of Fordham University, will deliver the main address. It is also the traditional occasion for seniors to pay tribute to their parents. Getrude Vavrina, '66, representing her classmates, will deliver the tribute. Her father, Dr. Vernon Vavrina, will respond for the parents.

Valley Home Weekend opens on Friday night in DePaul Auditorium with a welcome by Sister Rosemary Pfaff, D.C., president of the college. Academic investiture of the freshman class follows.

Saturday's program features a parents' meeting, the traditional Valley Home Tea, and Father-Daughter Dance in the Student Center in the evening. Members of the President's Board of Lay Advisors will host the parents' meeting. A special program is being arranged by Joseph M. Dignan Jr., chairman of the board, in cooperation with Robert J. Higgins, board member and chairman of the Parents' Committee. Valley Home Tea, which will be held in the newly renovated Dubois Hall, provides an opportunity for members of the administration and faculty to meet parents of their students socially.

The Parents' Mass at 10 a.m. Sunday will be offered by the Rev. Martin J. Sleasman, C.M., college chaplain. Brunch follows in the new college dining room in Brute Hall.

Father Gannon is presently in residence at Fordham University on a research assignment following a term of office as Superior of Jesuit Missions House in New York City. A native New Yorker, Father Gannon was graduated from Georgetown University in 1913, and in the same year entered the Society of Jesus. He was ordained at Woodstock College in 1926, and received his doctorate in sacred theology from the Gregorian University in 1927. He also attended Christ's College at Cambridge University. Father Gannon has received honorary degrees from 22 institutions. Author of many books, perhaps his best known work is "The Cardinal Spellman Story" published in 1962.

Miss Vavrina is the daughter of Getrude Smeerman Vavrina, a graduate of St. Joseph College, and Dr. Vavrina, Associate Superintendent of Instruction in the Baltimore City School System. Dr. Vavrina is also a member of the college's Board of Lay Advisors. The family resides in Pikesville.

If you would like to donate something for the food sale, you can bring it to the Fire Hall or give to one of the Cadettes. It will certainly be appreciated. The meeting was closed with the friendship circle and taps.

PP&K Practice Clinic Set For Sat., Oct. 9

Rev. James Delaney and John Bailey, Mt. St. Mary's, will conduct a special clinic on Saturday, October 9 at 2 o'clock to help all boys prepare for the Punt, Pass & Kick competition to be held Sunday, October 17 at 1 p.m. The clinic, at which instructions in punting, passing and place-kicking will be given, will be held at Community Field.

Arrangements for the clinic were made by the competition directors as an opportunity for all boys now registered—as well as all those who plan to register—to receive tips from experts in football skills.

"This clinic will give every boy a chance to see just how they will be graded at the Punt, Pass & Kick competition on October 17, said the directors. "The rules will be explained and demonstrations will show exactly what PP&K calls for. In addition, boys will receive expert coaching in punting, passing and place-kicking."

"I'm sure every boy who attends the clinic will benefit. I also hope a lot of boys who haven't registered will come to the clinic. They're sure to see how easy PP&K is, and they can register before the deadline on Oct. 16," Rev. Delaney said.

Mr. Bailey pointed out that the demonstrations of football skills would augment tips given in the illustrated booklet free to each boy who registers for Punt, Pass & Kick. These tips were written by Bobby Walden, ace punter of the Minnesota Vikings, Frank Ryan, star quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, and Jimi Bakken, top NFL place-kicker of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Punt, Pass & Kick competition, now in its fifth year, is open—without charge—to boys eight through 13. The competition, sponsored nationally by the Ford Dealers of America and the National Football League, is sponsored in Emmitsburg by Sperry Ford Sales. Registration headquarters is at Sperry Ford Sales. Boys must be accompanied by a parent or guardian when they register.

Miss Richards Is Honored

Miss Marjory Richards, a senior at Emmitsburg High School, has been honored with a Letter of Commendation for her high school performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (N.M.E.Q.T.) given last spring. She is among the 38,000 students across the nation recognized for scoring in the top two per cent of students who will complete high school in 1966. The commended students rank just below the 14,000 semifinalists announced last month.

John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation said: "These students are being recognized for their outstanding performance on the qualifying test. There is a notable academic achievement."

"In a rigorous competition like the Merit Program, it is unavoidable that many fine students will miss being named semifinalists by a narrow margin. Nevertheless, the student in this situation is very capable and deserves generous recognition for his distinguished effort."

"The commended students have considerable ability, which should be developed through further education. They deserve every encouragement, and their promise is great. They represent an important intellectual resource which our nation needs."

Only the highest-scoring students in each state, the semifinalists, remain eligible for further consideration in the competition for Merit Scholarships. Although students receiving Letters of Commendation advance no farther in the Merit Program, their names are reported to other scholarship-granting agencies and to the colleges they named at the time they took the NMSQT as their first and second choices. NMSC also reports home addresses, test scores, anticipated college majors and career intentions of the commended students to the same colleges.

Mrs. Francis Brewer has been confined to her home for the past two weeks with a virus infection.

Advocates Higher Minimum Wage

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

The time has come now for us to launch a campaign to support those Congressmen and Senators who intend to fight for meaningful improvements in the Wage and Hour Act.

The House Labor Committee reported out a bill increasing the minimum wage to $1.75 in three steps—from $1.40 in July 1966 to $1.75 in 1968, and extending coverage to 7,900,000 more workers.

Our ACWA (Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America) are pressing for a $2.00 minimum wage. Our current minimum wage of $1.25 an hour, working 40 hours a week would earn $2,500 a year. Yet Government officials have set a $3,000 a year income as the borderline of poverty.

Write to your Congressmen and Senators urging them to give full support to the effort in Congress to improve our Wage and Hour law.

Send your letters to: Congressman Sickles or Mathias, House Office Building, Washington 25, D.C., or Senator Brewster, Senate Office Building, Washington 25, D. C.

WORKING MOTHER

School Superintendent Signs Contract For Youth Corps

Dr. James Sensenbaugh, Superintendent of the State Department of Education, has signed a contract with the Department of Labor, Manpower Division, in the War on Poverty. This submittal is for about 950 in-school youth to work in the high schools of all Maryland counties under the Neighborhood Youth Corps program.

The project is financed by the Office of Economic Opportunity. The total request is $718,440 with $553,650 to be supplied by the Federal Government. This leaves $164,790 to be provided by the State, either in cash or in kind by local school systems.

Youth under such programs are aged 16 through 21 and will work a minimum of five hours per week and a maximum of 12 hours. They will be paid $1.25 per hour.

The 950 positions will be allocated to the counties on the basis of population, poverty and the indices of poverty. The enrollees will perform such duties as cafeteria aides, library aides, store room aides, grounds keep aides, teacher aides, business office aides, laundry aides and the like.

It is expected that such a distribution will have positive effects upon pupil drop-outs, respect for the dignity of work, pupil conduct, pupil appearance and participation in such extra-curricular activities as band, physical education and graduation activities.

This is the first State-wide proposal developed in the nation for Neighborhood Youth Corps.

The county school districts will be advised by Dr. Sensenbaugh as to the date to begin recruiting and placing students in jobs. When the contract is approved in Washington, it must be sent to Governor J. Millard Tawes for his approval.

Booze Consumption Shows Gain

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein this week released a report of revenues collected by the Alcoholic Beverages Division for the month of September 1965, as compared with collections for the same period of a year ago. Comptroller Goldstein stated that receipts from Distilled Spirits for September 1965, had increased 18.03%, that Wine had increased 4.84%, and that Beer had increased 9.41% over September 1964.

The overall net receipts for September 1965, are 16.00% above September, 1964.

Mr. Goldstein also stated that refunds totaled $4,150.66 for September 1965, as compared to $5,038.22 for September 1964, a decrease of $887.56.

The overall net receipt figure for the three month period of fiscal 1966, is $3,016,625.36 as compared to $2,941,088.18 for the same period one year ago, an increase of $75,537.18 or 2.57%.

Marriage License Issued

Town May Get More Powerful Street Lights

A right-of-way was granted to the Potomac Edison Co. to erect an electric transmission line from the pumping station at No. 3 Reservoir to the Utz property nearby, at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Commissioners held Monday evening in the Town Office, Chairman of the Board, J. W. Houser presiding. All five members of the Council were present at the meeting.

Mayor Ralph F. Irelan was asked to contact Louis H. Stoner, former postmaster, concerning the project of house numbering. An order for parking meter housings and mechanisms was authorized and will be used for replacement purposes.

The much debated trash collection service was discussed once more but no definite decision was made and another meeting on this subject will be held at a future date. Also discussed was a pay increase for Chief W. E. Law, however no action was taken on the matter.

Town Clerk Yonnie Laker was instructed to send correspondence to the bonding company which is responsible for the work done by the Waynesboro Construction Co. on the new filtration system and tank, notifying them that additional repairs to the system had been made necessary and had been done at Town expense. The Town is asking reimbursement for these repairs as some of the work has been termed unsatisfactory, in the opinion of the Town.

An agreement with the Potomac Edison Company is expected to be reached soon whereby the Town's street lights will receive 20,000 lumen bulbs which are expected to provide a considerable increase in lighting power for the streets at night. Commissioner Flax brought up the subject of a heating element for the new pump at No. 3 Reservoir to prevent the apparatus from freezing this winter and it was decided to contact the installing company for additional information on this matter.

Lutheran Women Hold Meeting

The Lutheran Church Women of Elias Lutheran Church held their first meeting of the fall season recently in the Parish House. Pastor W. Ronald Fearer led the women in a devotional period and meditation by using an original oil painting, "The Crucifixion," in which he noted some of the lesser known elements of the tragedy.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Hazel Caldwell, who also showed slides of Denmark and specifically Copenhagen. Mrs. Caldwell, who has traveled to Denmark several times, provided an interesting commentary on the various areas of Denmark.

The LCW members were reminded of the October 24th trip to the National Lutheran Home in Washington, D. C. The local women will conduct an evening service, assisted by Pastor Fearer for the guests at the Home.

The group has set aside Tuesday evenings for making Christmas for the Christmas tree which will be placed in Elias Church. Miss Mary J. Zimmerman was named chairman of this committee.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, Mrs. Charles Linn and Mrs. Ronald Fearer served refreshments to the women and their guests. The next LCW meeting is slated for Tuesday, October 12 at 7:30 in the Parish House.

OUR LIBRARY

The shelves in the Emmitsburg Library are overflowing with biographies of famous people. Most recently received are the following:

"My Shadow Ran Fast," by Bill Sands. In San Quentin, Sands learned what unhappiness and savagery can do to people. He found himself with men who had fought cops and used switchblade knives, broken bottles, bicycle chains, brass knuckles and guns on their victims. What happened to convince this man to lead a worthwhile, purposeful life makes for fascinating reading in the pages of My Shadow Ran Fast.

"Life with Picasso," by Francoise Gilot and Carlton Lake. It is the most intimate and revealing portrait of Pablo Picasso ever published. For nearly a decade, Francoise Gilot shared her life with this greatest artist of modern times, giving birth to two of his children. In her recollections, she describes the exuberant, if exhausting, world they knew together—a world lit by Picasso's genius, threatened by his moods, and made glowingly alive in this book.

"Hitler, A Study in Tyranny," by Alan Bullock. This volume, the first complete life of the German tyrant to be published in any language, was immediately acclaimed all over the world as an outstanding biography. It remains, ten years after its first publication, an incomparable authoritative, absorbing and readable account of one of the most extraordinary careers in history.

"Markings," translated from the Swedish by Leif Sjöberg and W. H. Auden. Dag Hammarskjöld left behind the manuscript of this book to be published after his death. It is a remarkable record of the spiritual life of a man whose public image was universally known and admired—a record that reveals the extent of his commitment to the Way of the Cross.

Your Personal Health

Stroke

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to a part of the brain is reduced or completely cut off, says Today's Health Guide, the new manual of health information of the American Medical Association.

This can be caused by a blood clot or by hemorrhage—bleeding from an artery in the brain. Medical terms used for various kinds of strokes are cerebral vascular occlusion, cerebral thrombosis, cerebral embolism and cerebral hemorrhage.

When the nerve cells of a part of the brain are deprived of their blood supply, the part of the body controlled by these nerve centers cannot function normally. The result may be weakness or paralysis, difficulty in speaking or loss of memory.

Some patients recover quickly, and can resume their normal activities. Others may suffer such serious damage that even a partial recovery will take a long time. Immediate treatment with proper exercises and other forms of therapy can do much toward helping a patient regain the use of muscles and speech.

If a stroke is brought on by a narrowed blood vessel or, in some instances, a blood clot, the doctor may use anticoagulant drugs to prevent another stroke. When neck arteries leading to the brain are involved, a surgical operation can sometimes remove the obstruction to circulation.

Rehabilitation for stroke requires the cooperation of the doctor, the patient and the family. The patient's own will to avoid invalidism and to become independent is especially important.

Social Security News

Anyone age 65 or older should file a claim for social security benefits now, W. S. King, District Manager of the Social Security Office said today.

Many people who are 65 or over have not filed for social security because they are still earning too much to receive monthly benefits under the present law. There are two good reasons why they should file now. First, by filing now, they become entitled to the hospital insurance protection provided by the 1965 amendments to the Social Security law, when it becomes effective July 1, 1966, and second, the new liberalized work test becomes effective for 1966 which means that many working people will receive some social security benefits for the year 1966. By filing now, a person 65 or over, and still working, makes sure that he receives all benefits for which he is eligible. Since an application is retroactive for only 12 months, a person who delays filing until after age 66 may lose some monthly benefits, or entitlement to hospital insurance.

You are urged to inquire at your Social Security Office at 59 North Cannon Avenue, Hagerstown. Make sure you do not lose money— inquire today.

Lutheran Women Plan Assembly

Lutheran Church Women of the Frederick District, will meet for their annual Fall Assembly next Tuesday at Zion Lutheran Church, Middletown. The Rev. Paul Seltzer is pastor of the host church.

Theme for the assembly is, "Serving in Humility." The key speaker for the evening will be Mr. Alvin Schaeffler. He is a staff member of the Lutheran Layman's Movement for Stewardship, Lutheran Church in America. Since 1964, he has been the Administrative Assistant to the Director of LLM Membership Activities.

He has served as principal of Union High School, Union City, N. J. Mr. Schaeffler recently served as treasurer of the Board of College Education and Church Vocations. He was a member of the Board of Higher Education of the former United Lutheran Church in America. His interest in youth was evident during his service as president of the Luther League of America from 1939 to 1946.

He is a graduate of Rutgers University, and in 1927, he received a Master's degree from New York University.

Mr. Schaeffler and his wife, Ruth, are members of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Weehawken, N. J. They have two children, a son and daughter.

Following the speaker, a film called "You," will be shown. The group will then divide into discussion groups and discuss points of interest taken from the speakers subject and the film. Pastors and a layman will be leaders for these groups.

Registration will begin at 5:00 p.m., followed by a fellowship dinner at 5:30 p.m. The evening sessions starting at 6:45 p.m., will be led by the newly elected District chairman, Mrs. Claude Barrick, from Woodsboro. Meditation will be led by the Rev. David Blackwelder, Dean of the Lutheran Churches of Frederick District.

Mrs. Albert Fischer, President of the Maryland Lutheran Women, and Mrs. Milton Smith, both from Baltimore, will close the assembly with an evaluation by Mrs. Smith and a prayer of commitment by Mrs. Fischer.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

The Emmitsburg Chronicle, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, Baltimore District, will publish each week in this column, tax information that will enable taxpayers to become more familiar with the Federal income tax laws. Clip and save for future reference.

Questions And Answers

Q. I've been supporting my mother for years but your agent says I can't claim her as a dependent unless I can substantiate my claim. What right does he have to say that?

A. The law requires that each of five separate tests be met in order to allow the $600 exemption for your mother. One, that of relationship, is met already, of course. The others are that you provided over one-half of her support, that her income was not over $600, that she be an American citizen, and that she does not file a joint return for the year that you are claiming her as a dependent. Not only must the tests be met, but, according to the law, records to substantiate claims must be made available to the Internal Revenue Service.

Q. We're moving and want to throw out everything we can. How much do we have to keep in the way of tax records?

A. Stated broadly, you must retain your records for as long as they may be material in the administration of any internal revenue law. Records that support an item of income or deduction appearing on an income tax return must be retained, ordinarily, 3 years from the date the return was due. However, there are many instances where a taxpayer should retain his records indefinitely. This applies particularly to records regarding real property and improvements to real property.

A complete discussion of adequate records is given in Internal Revenue Document No. 5518, available free at any local Internal Revenue Service office.

Q. My neighbor was just audited and he told me that if a taxpayer doesn't agree with the agent's report he can ask someone else at your office to take over the case. Is that right?

A. There are three levels within the Internal Revenue Service at which an agreement to the results of the examination may be reached. The first is the audit by a revenue agent; the second is an informal conference with a member of the Conference Staff; and the third is the Appellate Division. Conference procedures are covered in Chapter 41 of "Your Federal Income Tax." They provide a taxpayer with the opportunity for an independent review of his case.

Q. How does a new business go about establishing its tax year?

A. If the business is operated by an individual as a sole proprietorship, then the tax year will be the same as he uses for his individual income tax return.

If the new business is a corporation, then a choice can be made of operating on either a calendar or fiscal year basis. However, if a fiscal year is not elected on a timely filed return, then a return must be filed on the calendar year basis even though the business was not in existence the full year.

Q. Is it too late to file an amended return?

A. An amended return may be filed at any time, but an amended return that claims an additional refund does have a filing deadline. Such a return must be filed within 3 years of the date the original return was due unless a later date is established by law.

Q. I'm a bachelor girl and support my mother even though she doesn't live with me. Can I use the head of household tax rates?

A. If you provide over half your mother's support for the entire year and if she lives in a home you maintain for her, then you qualify as a head of household. However, maintaining a parent in a home for the aged would not qualify you as a head of household.

Q. I give my maid lunch when she comes in. Do I have to figure the value of the meal when I pay Social Security for her?

A. Social Security tax applies only on cash wages. You do not have to include the value of the meal you provide.

For further information contact your local Internal Revenue Service office.

Not A Drop To Drink

"Drink?" she asked, dipping a glass of water from the lake.

"Is it safe?" I inquired, knowing what condition a good many of our lakes are in.

"Absolutely," my hostess said, handing me the glass of clear, sparkling water.

There are not too many places left in this great country of ours where you can drink straight from the lake. This happened to be in Wisconsin, an hour and a half from Chicago. It wasn't wilderness. It was smack in the middle of an upper-middle class residential district. Homes circled the lake in good supply. Yet the water was clear and clean because the people who lived there and boated and swam in it decided a long time ago to keep it that way. Okay, so the deep, fresh water springs that fed the lake had something to do with it. True. But the major share of the credit must be given to the people who refused to let their greatest natural asset become a receptacle for the slime, sewage, refuse, and garbage that has ruined so many of our lakes, rivers, and harbors.

It's really been only the last decade or so that we, as a nation, have become really concerned about our waters. Only in scattered, isolated cases have we had any efforts to clean up our water resources. Many of us have felt that the waters of our nation were enough to do whatever we've needed them for as long as we've wanted. But with our population growing close to the 200 million mark, the demands on our water supply, both commercial and recreational, keep expanding. The result is, we are running out of clean water for both uses. It's not that there is less water than before. In fact the water supply is virtually inexhaustible since it is constantly being recirculating. It may not be in the same place next time around, but the quantity is still the same. You can even split it into hydrogen and oxygen, but as soon as these two elements get together again—water. The trouble is we have abused it, badly. Literally hundreds of billions of gallons of sewage is dumped into rivers, streams, and lakes daily.

Did you know we've had a law on the books since 1899 prohibiting the dumping of any kind of refuse into our national waters? It applies only to the navigable waters of the United States, but these are some of the worst places when it comes to contamination. Virtually little has been done to enforce this law when compared to the amount of junk that is dumped in every day. Most of the work toward stopping heavy pollution has occurred during the last decade under the Water Quality Control Act of 1956. This act made funds available to states and communities for improving and expanding their sewage treatment facilities. Since then about $2 billion has been spent. But officials estimate that some $700 million or more is needed annually, starting now, just to keep up with the growing demand.

What's all this got to do with boats and boating? First, no one wants to launch his boat in a gigantic cesspool. And that's just what some of our lakes and rivers are becoming—just ask the residents around Lake Erie. Pollution of this lake has not but killed the fish, has nearly choked the lake with algae, and in general killed the lake for anything but sewage disposal. It need not have happened.

Second, both state and Federal authorities are putting the clamps on the discharge hoses from boats with marine toilets. They are putting bigger teeth into the anti-litter laws and they are enforcing them! While boats and boatmen are not the big offenders when it comes to water pollution—the crown is worn by towns and industry—government people see boating as a good place to start. Since it is small, compared to municipal and industrial pollution problems, the pollution from boats is the easiest to stop.

The result is that nearly half the 50 states have marine sewage laws. They aren't all the same, but that will be worked out, hopefully. Despite the objections of some boating groups, there's no point in fighting City Hall on this one. What is being done is keeping the sand in our sandbox clean of our own waste. Once we've solved the problem of our own messiness, then we can bear down on the bullies of industrial and municipal pollution. A lot has been done, but a lot more has to be done, despite financial and political obstacles, toward keeping our playground clean. Once the boaters are without guilt, they can start throwing stones at the big offenders.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

So you want to try salt-water fishing? Your first problem will be choosing one rod, a rod that will handle most situations to be found in salt water, except deep-sea offshore trolling.

This all-around first rod should be of the type commonly referred to as a popping rod. Actually, this rod is merely a stouter and longer version of a fresh-water bait-casting rod with a straight instead of an offset handle. It should be about seven feet long and the butt of the shaft should be about as thick as the average man's little finger, tapering to a comparatively thin tip.

What reel? The so-called service type. This reel is slightly larger than the conventional fresh-water bait-casting reel, and it is equipped with a level-wind mechanism and a star drag. Be sure to select a reel with a 2 3/8-inch reel seat so that it will fit the reel stand of your rod. A reel equipped with a free-spool mechanism is most desirable if you intend to do any casting.

As for line, 15-pound to 18-pound-test squidding line (nylon braid) or monofilament will suffice.

"If you choose monofilament, be sure to select the flat type or another kind especially designed for revolving spool reels," advises

Pete Byrnes in the current issue of Sports Afield Magazine.

For terminal tackle, you'll need an assortment of sinkers from 1/2 to four ounces (maybe six ounces if there are very strong tides in your area) and some pinch-on sinkers or split shot. Use pyramid sinkers for sandy bottoms and banks, round or dipsey sinkers for rocky bottoms.

You'll also need hooks in various sizes; here again, the sizes and styles to get depend on local conditions, since you'll find different varieties of fish along our various coasts.

You'll need bait to affix to your hooks. The most common baits are sandworms, bloodworms, clams, mussels, crabs, squid, shrimps, snails, anchovies, menhaden, sardines and killifish. Also buy new artificials—jigs, spoons or spinners. Your local tackle dealer will advise you on this as well as what fish are running, and where.

Marines in the field of Aerology are the "weathermen" of the Corps. Their job is to observe and record weather conditions, collect weather data and make forecasts.

Comment from the Capital —

IN BRIEF

by Vant Neff

The "Do-Gooders" will have you believe all criminals are produced by bad housing, broken families and unequal job opportunities. Hogwash. This great country was built by people who came from bad housing and surmounted unequal economic opportunities.

Only 10% of our population is Negro. Yet, they commit 67% of the crimes. Of course, some of it's to be expected when Negro leaders encourage civil disobedience, and condone Negroes' refusal to obey laws they don't like. Also, threats of "long hot summers" are the kind of movement that spawn lawlessness. CORE and NAACP demand equality. Surely they mean equality in everything. Isn't this an excellent starting place?

If your neighbor gets mad and breaks your window, who pays? When union goons destroy property during a strike, who should pay? The unions? Well, look what happened in the recent New York taxi strike. Self-employed cabbies, who own their cabs, weren't involved in the unionization drive. Yet, some of their cabs were stoned and burned. Who was stuck with the bill? The poor cabbie struggling to make it on his own.

Be afraid, America, tremble. The nuclear holocaust is coming. This kind of talk is broadcast throughout our land. But, it's never heard in Russia. Isn't this a planned program to weaken our will to resist?

What would the Founding Fathers say? They enacted the Bill of Rights to protect the people from excessive power of central government. Now the power of the federal courts is being used to protect Communists who want to destroy our government.

Added liberals say it's okay for Viet Cong terrorists to bomb restaurants, hotels, and embassies in Saigon, but not for us to bomb Hanoi. Maybe it's an example of "Chinese logic."

Most people don't seem to have time to think about politics. But, politicians always have time to think about promising the people anything to get more power.

Not so long ago the Communists preached coexistence. Now even some of our leading executives have allowed it to infiltrate their reasoning. In a speech before the UN they paraphrased Red preaching. They said, we will have "co-existence or coextinction." It just goes to show how much the Commie line has become part of American thinking.

The Communist strategy is simple: stubbornly hold your line, always say "nyet," and the Americans will gradually retreat. It is succeeding. In a recent editorial, The New York Times justified the Russians' not paying UN dues on the grounds that the Commies didn't favor the UN peace-keeping efforts.

Recently on TV, when McGee Bundy showed Professor Hans Morgenthau how many times he was wrong about Viet Nam, the pontifical professor accused Bundy of being "too well prepared." Is the professor just ignorant when he says China never attacked anybody, or does he know perfectly well what he's doing, and for whom?

A happy sign on the campus: some collegians who believe in America and its principles are beginning to stand up to the Socialists and Communists and knock them down with the truth.

The liberals are lamenting the lot of the auto worker again. Not his salary; they think it's fair. Not his benefits, which they find more than average. Nor his hours, which they consider okay for now. But his "abominable" working conditions. Several liberal programs have whimpereed that the auto worker has insufficient time to leave the assembly line to go to the toilet. The truth is these same workers receive from 3 to 6 hours (depending on the job) a week for toilet purposes alone.

What's the biggest problem in Russia today? UNEMPLOYMENT. Idealists please take note.

Martin Luther King warned the Government to talk with the Viet Cong "OR ELSE." Many peace moves have been made, by our President, Prime Minister Wilson, U Thant, and others. But the Viet Cong and the Chinese have turned a deaf ear to them. What does King mean by "OR ELSE"? Can the answer be found in his early training?

Ever noticed how a leader in one field is often asked his opinion in others where he's completely unqualified? And, people listen. Einstein was one of the great thinkers of all time, but a child in politics. Frank Sinatra and his "rat pack" had their day, until our martyred President sent them packing. Professors who have sharp eyes in the laboratory often are as blind as bats in the political arena. But their opinions on Viet Nam are carefully reported. "Leaders" stick to your last.

Making promises is the politician's game. Making him keep them is the people's duty. Therefore, anybody who isn't satisfied with his representatives in Washington knows who to blame.

SEAT BELTS NOW ACCEPTED AS STANDARD PRACTICE

Since June of 1964 the Maryland law has required that all new cars sold in the State be equipped with seat belts, and, in addition, many belts are being purchased each day for installation in older models. Although no statistics are available to indicate the total number of cars which are currently equipped with seat belts, it is obvious that more and more drivers are accepting their use as standard practice. Experience has proved, and will continue to prove, that seat belts play a substantial role in promoting safety on the highway.

In the last few years the initial fears regarding the use of seat belts has gradually diminished. This fear was based, in large measure, on the motorist's lack of information regarding many aspects of the new device. In spite of the fact that seat belts had been long accepted as standard equipment for air travelers and automobile racers, many people had difficulty associating use of such belts with day-to-day operation of a motor vehicle. However, years of extensive tests by crash injury research groups piled up evidence in support of the practical application of seat belts in normal highway driving. Although general acceptance of this device did not arrive overnight, and some are still reluctant to accept it as a safe device, the average driver has come to realize that he is much safer driving with seat belts than without them. He has replaced his fears with facts.

In Defense Of Americanism
Fast moving events on the domestic and foreign scenes have tended somewhat to overshadow the conflict being waged in America against Communism and the consequent reaction from several sources that intends to destroy or limit any efforts to oppose the Red international conspiracy for world conquest. In other words, the effort to destroy anti-Communist movements, although not so much in the news, is continuing unabated as a prime strand in the Communist line. The battle continues to rage.

Whether some future conference of international Communist Parties in years to come will have to renew the call sent out by the 81-party conference of 1960 when it attempted to sign and seal the death warrant of all anti-Communism, depends on what we do about it. For some years the line, spelled out in the Red press, has considered anti-Communism "the enemy of mankind" and "a crime against the people." The World Marxist Review has pointed out that because America is the main obstacle to world Communist victory and since anti-Communism is our chief weapon against them, the battle must proceed.

The Battle Reported

Dr. James D. Bales, in Americanism Under Fire (published privately by Bales Bookstore, Searcy, Ark., $2), has quoted a Communist writing in World Marxist Review not quite three years ago: "There is no doubt that the anti-Communist offensive in all its many-sided ramifications has been one of the main causes, if not the main one, of the difficulties of the Communist movement, particularly in North America, as it has been a major obstacle to the development of the mass work of our parties. It indicates the necessity of a more intensive, systematic and sharper struggle against anti-Communism in all its manifestations."

Using many of their own words, Dr. Bales has revealed the plans and intentions of both the socialists and the communists in the U.S., who after all are not so far apart in their basic assumptions and ultimate objectives. To other non-Communist groups which have eagerly joined this drive against opposition to Communism, however, he assigns no motives. He is content only to relative what they have done or have placed on record in books and articles, leaving any explanation of motives to the groups themselves or others.

An Able Defense

Just why the order from Moscow to attack was so dutifully undertaken by other than Communists and their sympathizers, however, does need continued study and observation. This was a time, apparently, when both known and undercover members of the apparatus thought they could get away with it. They were very nearly correct. Because of the ineffectiveness of legal restraint plus some special assistance from the Supreme Court, they have gotten away with entirely too much that is harmful and destructive to the American idea. Their net has indeed been spread wide.

Americanism Under Fire deals effectively (but with calmness, fairness and dignity) with those smears, innuendoes, and misrepresentations which have been directed toward the National Education Program and others, in several recent books. Dr. Bales, who is Professor of Christian Doctrine at Harding College, undertakes to defend only those institutions with which he is thoroughly informed. Nevertheless, the book amounts to a considerably broad exposure of the illogic and unreasonableness of the general attacks on the American heritage on most fronts today.

Justice And Freedom

The book's title, Dr. Bales explains in his preface, "calls attention to the fact that institutions and values which have made America great are being challenged as never before." This Americanism he defines historically as having certain basic ingredients: faith in God; the belief that man is a moral being responsible to himself, others, and God; faith in a Constitutional government that is designed to preserve God-given freedoms, one of which is economic freedom that includes the private enterprise system. To depart from any of these, he insists rightly, is to turn from the American heritage for other ideology.

County Farm Payments High

Farmers in Frederick County thus far have received program payments totaling $158,720.00 for participation in the 1965 feed grain and wheat stabilization programs, Harold M. Free, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has reported. The payments included payments of $119,038.00 under the feed grain program, and diversion payments of $12,195.00 and marketing certificates of $27,486.00 under the wheat Diversion program. In the sign-up held last spring a total of 256 County farmers were enrolled in the 1965 feed grain program for an agreed diversion into approved conserving uses of 5,210 acres of corn, barley and grain sorghum; 115 farms were signed up in the 1965 wheat program for an agreed diversion of 794 acres.

Benefits of the diversion programs, the Chairman pointed out, are not limited to the payments farmers earn, which do result in a substantial improvement in farm income with accompanying benefits to the local economy. By participating in the programs, farmers also improve their own and the national welfare by bringing about a better balance between supplies and demand — thereby helping to protect farm prices, they help reduce Government costs for storage of excess stocks and they improve their farms — and the Nation's — natural resources through the conservation measures which are carried out on the cropland diverted from unneeded production.

Nationally, 1.5 million farms were signed up in the 1965 feed grain program for an agreed diversion of 34.6 million acres; 891,000 farms were signed up in the wheat program for a diversion of 7.5 million acres. As a result of the programs, carryover stocks of both feed grains and wheat have been reduced each year. The October 1, 1965 feed grain carryover is estimated at 55.2 million tons — 35 per cent below the 84.7 million tons carried over on Oct. 1, 1961; the wheat carryover as of July 1, 1965 is estimated at 819 million bushels — 42 per cent below the July 1, 1961 carryover of 1,411 million bushels.

Many who flee from evil do not understand that it is in their hearts.

In him we live, and move, and have our being.

We live in a good climate, a God climate. God or good is all around us. We see only good, because we are surrounded by it. Since our climate is God, we have only peaceful happy feelings. No longer do we let other people or situations upset us. Because we live in good, we are not anxious. God is our all.

Bull Stud To Hold Open House Oct. 14

Following custom of the past four years, Maryland-West Virginia Bull Stud will again sponsor Open House this year. This event has proven to be very popular with Maryland and West Virginia dairymen with each year some 700-900 in attendance. The chief purpose of Open House is to give an opportunity to the dairymen in the Bull Stud service area to get better acquainted with the program of the organization. The program committee, whose chairman is Gene Weaver, Fieldman for the Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative, is again extending an invitation to all dairymen and their friends to attend Open House. The date—October 14, beginning at 10 a.m. The program is planned to begin with the 20th annual business meeting of the Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative, followed at 11 a.m. by the second annual meeting of the Maryland Dairy Shrine. The Dairy Shrine, whose headquarters is at the Bull Stud, was first formed last year. Its purpose is to honor early leaders in the dairy development within Maryland. At 11:30 a.m., there will be presentation of awards to technicians and others. The usual delicious lunch consisting of fried chicken with all the trimmings will highlight the noon session. Following lunch, there will be a parade of some of the new bulls as well as some of the bulls on which there are new proofs along with daughters of these bulls that will be on display. These cattle will be discussed by 4-H members and employees of the Stud.

Calf To Be Awarded

A new feature this year will be a drawing for a Registered Heifer Calf. This drawing will be held in the afternoon and the lucky winner will have the opportunity of choosing a registered dairy calf within the breed of his choice.

On October 15, beginning at Noon, there will be held the Fourth Show Window Sale. This sale will be made up of bred heifers and young cows sired by Maryland-West Virginia Bull Stud bulls. Many of the cattle that will be sold in the Show Window Sale on the 15th will be on display "Open House" day.

BABSON

Writes . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson's Point Of View On: Famine In Russia
BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 7—For the second time in three seasons, Russia's agricultural output is apparently far below the needs of her people. The Kremlin leaders are again forced to spend a sizable part of their precious — and dwindling—foreign exchange to purchase millions of tons of wheat from abroad.
Collectivized Farms A Failure
When Russia bought wheat heavily in world markets two years ago, it was believed that her need arose from very unusual circumstances which were not likely to be repeated soon. The nations which profited most from these unexpectedly large wheat sales cautioned their farmers not to look for any such windfall again. At that time, weather was blamed for Russia's crop failure, and some Kremlin leaders are trying to make weather the scapegoat this time too.

But for a long time it has been obvious that the Soviet system of collectivized farms — set up under Stalin so systematically and at such great expense—just doesn't work. These collective farms fail to supply the nation's requirements because they are too big, too impersonal, and too rigidly controlled.
Proposed Remedy
To a considerable extent Khrushchev's downfall is attributed to crop failures which, his critics allege, were due to poor farm planning. The present government is deeply committed to improving farm output—both in quantity and in quality. Hence this new farm crisis is very embarrassing to the Kremlin. While a break-up of collective and state farms has been proposed by a Russian agriculturist, there is no assurance yet that the Kossygin-Brezhnev government will take such a drastic step.

But there can be no doubt that—in the long-run—the collective farms will be broken up into smaller units and placed under the ownership of small groups whose members will have personal responsibility and a reasonable amount of latitude in farming them. And certainly within the next decade the profit motive, which at long last is being used—and most effectively—to promote Soviet industrial efficiency, will be a key factor in expanding Soviet agriculture.
Can Russia Avoid Famine?
Of course, the dismantling of the huge collectivized farms and the establishment of smaller, more easily handled units will take several years to accomplish. Meanwhile, can Russia avoid famine? And will she, in time, again become largely self-supporting as regards farm crops?

More careful farm planning, more efficient use of modern fertilizers and fertilizing methods, and more widespread use of machinery could lift Russian farm output importantly. If these remedies are undertaken promptly and energetically, the Russian people should be spared the disaster of famine. Many Russians will, however, still go hungry in the years just ahead. Russia, too, has a population problem. Between now and 1970 she will have at least 20,000,000 more mouths to feed. And, for wheat and some other grains, much of Russia is high-risk territory. The growing season is short and the weather tends to be severe. Stark famine, itself, Russia may avoid. But the bleakness of much of her terrain and the extremes of her weather may prevent her from ever again becoming fully sufficient as to farm products.
Boost For Canada and Australia
Russia's latest farm difficulties should result in a new bonanza for wheat farmers in Canada and Australia, countries which profited handsomely a couple of years ago when Soviet wheat output fell so short of needs. The U. S.—which also has a wheat surplus—will not sell any really large amounts to Russia unless the present ruling that requires 50% of any wheat shipped to communist countries to be carried in American vessels is rescinded. Wheat so shipped is more expensive than Canadian and Australian wheat, hence too dear for the Russians.

One thing is certain: Russia is in search of a foreign policy as well as a farm policy. She is on the move and she is looking to the West for ideas and for help.

Bright Ideas for Flower Boxes

Flower boxes can be used to break up the monotonous architectural lines of a house and add originality to its outward appearance at the same time. Easy to construct, the boxes make attractive viewing from both inside and outside the house.

Before constructing the window box, try to find locations by windows that receive at least a little sun daily. Plan to locate the box 3 to 6 inches below the window — so as not to block too much of the view. Flower boxes must be custom built to fit your house properly. Make them of 1/2-inch pine, 9-inch to 12-inch deep, as long as your window sill and with a slight tilt toward the base on the outer face.

Drill 1-inch diameter holes in the bottom board to let water drain out of the box. Also, have a slight pitch (outward and down) to the bottom board, so that water drains away from the house.

Use sturdy angle-iron braces to support the weight of wet soil and the metal plant container to be placed in the box. Braces should be at least six inches long in order to spread the expected weight to the side of the house.

There are two methods for attaching flower boxes of this type—drilling and plugging, or using an easy-to-use hammer-in fastening tool.

To attach the box supports to concrete block or masonry with the drilling and plugging method, mark the hole position through angle irons. Then use a carbide-tipped drill to grind a hole through the wall. A star-tipped drill may be used as well — remember to turn the drill as you hammer to remove the pulverized concrete. Next insert fiber, plastic or lead anchors, which should be as long as the holes are deep. Screw the braces in place.

A much faster and less tedious method of attaching braces is with a Shure-Set hammer-in tool, available at your local hardware supply counters. The Shure-Set tool, shaped like a cone with a steel plunger down the middle, easily sets fasteners into concrete (an even through thin steel) in seconds without pre-drilling or the use of anchors. Simply insert 8-inch fastener into the Shure-Set tool, place the fastener's tip through the pre-drilled hole in the anchor iron and with a few raps of the hammer you have securely fastened the braces to the concrete wall. If you are planning to place the window box on a brick wall, place your fasteners so that they are seated into the mortar joints. Do not fasten into the brick, which is brittle. These fasteners make sturdy supports for the window box since each fastener is capable of holding as much as 200 pounds.

Keep your flower boxes clear of leaves and spilled dirt as much as possible. Otherwise, drain holes in the bottom of box will close. Water trapped in the boxes may cause rotting and other damage.

Retail Merchants Plan Seminar

The Maryland Council of Retail Merchants, Inc., which is composed of 1,200 retailers and small business enterprises operating throughout Maryland, has announced a timely and important series of "Seminars on Vital Retail Problems."

These seminars, as explained by John G. Shannahan, Jr., Council president, are being held for the guidance and assistance of retailers and small business establishments by furnishing up-to-date information on the present status of legislative proposals, at both the State and Federal levels, that directly affect their operations, and to indicate how they can better serve their customers and promote the economic welfare of the areas in which they operate and the State as a whole.

The seminars are not limited to the Council's members. A cordial invitation to attend is being extended to every retailer and related business enterprise in Maryland, regardless of size and type of business. Key employees and associates are also included in the invitation. Admission to all of the ten seminars is free. The only cost involved will be for meals, at cost, whenever meetings are

TODAY'S Meditation

Read Ephesians 2:13-22.
You are... fellow-citizens with God's people, members of God's household. (Ephesians 2:19, NEB) The Christian church stretches from shore to shore like a geological rock formation. I think of the local church as the visible portion of the underlying foundation rock; and that foundation, as Paul declares, is Jesus Christ Himself. Where Christ is, there is His church.

All Christians have experienced forgiveness of sins and fellowship with God. Because of their personal commitment and trust in Christ as Savior and Lord, they have the hope of heaven.

When Christ is "all in all", then, as Charles Wesley wrote in one of his hymns: "Names, and sects, and parties fall." It was his brother, John Wesley, who wrote: "We give the right hand of fellowship to every lover of God." So whoever we are and wherever we are, if we love the Lord we are brothers and sisters in Christ. That is also true for all who in this blessed faith have gone to heaven. "O blest communion, fellowship divine!"

Prayer
Our Father, we pray for the whole family of Thy people. Grant us through Christ more and more of the family spirit of love and service in our relationship with our fellow Christians. May we live to bring the wanderers around us back home to Thee. For Christ's sake. Amen.
Thought For The Day
Fellowship in Christ is for everyone and is everlasting.

ficer output of the Naval Academy, the NROTC program makes it possible for a young man to earn a regular commission while studying at the civilian college of his choice from among the 52 colleges with a regular NROTC unit. All tuition, fees and books are furnished by the Navy, and the student receives a subsistence allowance of $50 per month for not more than four years. During the summers, the student goes on interesting training cruises as a Midshipman. After successfully completing a baccalaureate level college course, he is commissioned in the regular Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty as a career officer with the Navy's modern fleets. Immediate challenging assignments to aviation training, nuclear training or submarine training offer various career opportunities to those graduates who apply and qualify.

High school seniors and graduates who will have reached the 17th but not the 21st anniversary of birth on June 30, 1966, may apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Those who make a qualifying score will be interviewed and given a thorough medical examination early in 1966. From the number of qualified young men remaining in competition, about 1,600 will be selected to attend college next September to prepare for their Naval careers.

Application forms are available at local high schools and Navy Recruiting Stations or from the Chief of Naval Personnel, Department of the Navy, Washington, D. C. 20370.

Speed Is Factor In Road Deaths

Speed was a contributing factor in all but three of the fatalities on Maryland highways last week, according to the weekly review of the State Police. This hazardous driver error also resulted in twenty serious injuries in accidents investigated by the State Police.

"Every operator must be sure that his vehicle is under control at all times," commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "and the high number of fatalities and serious injuries last week in which speed was a factor is substantial evidence supporting the difficulty of keeping a speeding vehicle under control. When the element of alcohol is added to that of speed, the chances for survival decrease considerably."

The Superintendent continued: "The problem of highway safety is of vital concern to each one of us. No one can shift the responsibility from his own shoulders to those of someone else, and we will see no significant improvement in the problem until maximum interest and effort are displayed by everyone. The individual operator can best initiate his own all-out effort by driving at safe speeds, by obeying other basic rules of the road, and by never driving while he is under the influence of alcohol."

A total of sixteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week. Eight of those killed were drivers; four were passengers; and four were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the deaths; speed in thirteen; and "driver error" was present in fourteen of the fatalities.

Pennsylvania Will Extend Route 15

Pennsylvania's Department of Highways is planning to start work on the new Rt. 15 extension from Schriver's Corner, north of Gettysburg, to York Springs, "within a year," according to notices given property owners in Straban and Tyrone Twp.

A representative of the State Highways Department recently presented various land owners along the proposed right-of-way with maps of their property showing the portion to be taken for construction of the new road.

Two Injured In Rt. 15 Crash

Two persons were slightly injured Saturday in a two-car collision at the U.S. 15-Md. 806 intersection near Emmitsburg.

Trooper Paul C. Crutchley said Mrs. Marcella Gladfelter, 43, of Mt. Wolf, Pa., was treated at the Warner Hospital for scalp lacerations and multiple abrasions, and Edgar W. Krout, 54, of Baltimore, refused treatment for a lacerated hand.

Crutchley said Krout, traveling south on Route 806, failed to stop for a stop sign and struck a car in which Mrs. Gladfelter was riding. It was driven by Reuben J. Golden, 42, also of Mt. Wolf. Damages totaled about $1,000, police said.

MSM Runners Lose

Despite a first place finish by Jerry Easley, Mt. St. Mary's cross-country runner, the Mountaineers lost a 0-41 decision to American U., defending Mason-Dixon Conference champions, in a meet at Washington, D. C. Tuesday. Five American runners followed Easley home.

Church School Opens Here

The second year of the Emmitsburg Community Weekday Church School began Wednesday, September 22. The school is a cooperative effort of the five Protestant Churches of the area. It meets every Wednesday, after public school hours, in the Parish House of Elias Church. The enrollment, like last year, totals around 100 children in grades 1 through 6.

There are four classes, staffed by the local Pastors. Grades 1 and 2 are taught by Pastor Fearer; Grades 3 and 4 by Pastor Hendricks; grade 5 by Pastor Case, and grade 6 by Pastor Chatlos.

The children come directly to the Church from school at 3:45. At 4:45, a Church bus transports those children needing transportation home. Drivers for the bus are qualified volunteers from the local Churches.

The Weekday School meets for thirty weeks, and is usually completed by the middle of May. All children in grades 1 through 6 are welcome to attend this additional hour of religious instruction, singing, craft work, and play.

SPORTING TIPS

Small Stuff Holder

The screw-cap metal containers 35mm film comes in make neat waterproof holders for small items that usually bob around loose in a tackle box. Yellow color makes them easy to locate too.

Backlash

When your wife isn't looking, "borrow" her crochet hook and stow in your tackle box. It's the best thing yet for picking a bad snarl out of monofilament.

Fire Starter

Roll newspaper in strips. Soak in paraffin. Cut in 3-inch blocks and wrap in wax paper. Burns hot and long.

Marinated Game

Here's an idea. Soak "strong" game overnight in buttermilk. Removes wild flavor.

Taped In Place

A piece of adhesive tape makes a good bobber stop on monofilament line. One wrap slips easily through guides, but keeps bobber where you want it.

Fisherman's Stove

Take a 20 quart galvanized can and fill with sand about half full. Put a woman's stocking through the center and soak the sand with a gallon of kerosene. The stocking acts like a wick, burning and heating the can which radiates heat to you.

Game Can Count

Many animals can count . . . up to one. If you want to fool a big buck, walk into woods with a pal and have the pal walk out. The deer counts one in, one out and assumes all's well . . . until you harvest him.

Miss Cheryl Ashbaugh and a girl friend, Wheaton, spent the weekend with Miss Ashbaugh's grandmother, Mrs. George Ashburgh.

CONTRACT AWARDED

Senator Daniel B. Brewster (D-Md.) announced this week that the National Park Service is awarding a contract to the Ford Construction Company, 4 East 13th Street, Frederick, Maryland, in the amount of $14,386 for the construction of a comfort station and water line at Catoctin Mountain Park in Thurmont.

DOWN THE ROAD IN BERMUDA:

This young couple, the tiny motors of their bicycles humming, head for a day of sight-seeing along the shorelines of Bermuda. The motorized bicycles (they're called auxiliary bikes in Bermuda) are available to tourists on a rental basis, and have become one of the most popular means of transportation. Note the baskets hanging from the rear of the bicycles . . . handy for straw hats, lunches or the packages bought on a shopping spree. And for those tourists who prefer the less energetic type of transportation, Bermuda also has the small British-size taxis.

LEGS SUPPLY NEW FASHION "KICKS"

There's no getting around it. Fashion — especially young fashion — is on a leg "kick." So are most gals who want it known that they are on their toes.

Stepping in to bridge the gap between high hemlines and low-heeled shoes are patterned stockings in bolder colors and designs than ever before.

Floral, paisley and hounds-tooth prints, argyles and even abstract geometric designs in sturdy stretch fabrics are all in good fashion standing. So are lacy printed sheers and open crochet-type knits.

McCall's has just come out with a new hosiery pattern it describes as "quick to make." Pattern #7915 includes all stocking sizes from 8½ to 11½, in three lengths each.

Depending on leg size, you'll need 1½ or 1¾ yards of 38" fabric for each pair of hose. If you buy the same yardage in the 72" fabric width, you can make two pairs from it. McCall's advises that you use only jersey or similar stretchy knits for Pattern #7915. Go ahead — and have the fashion world at your feet!

The newest costume idea matches bold-patterned stockings to a blouse in the same fabric; a short, simple, solid-color skirt acts as a foil. McCall's Pattern #7945 includes patterns for A-line skirt, long-sleeved jewel-neck blouse, and proportioned hose. Result: top-to-toe fashion excitement.
