BY ABIGAIL

This past month, May, will go down in the weather annals as the chilliest in 50 years, according to the weatherman. Rainfall totaled about four inches for an almost normal amount, but the temperature was off on an average of seven degrees, and how well we know it. Here we are in the first week of June and many of us still have our furnaces in operation. I don't mind saying, the heat doesn't feel too bad on these chilly and rainy days. Lawns, shrubbery and foliage really look good but gardens and field crops appear stunted by the chilly days, however this sort of thing can't last and my advice to you is to examine your air-conditioner because it won't be long, perhaps any day, when you'll be putting it into service.

Next week is Commencement Week in Emmitsburg and a new crop of college and high school graduates will be turned out into this tough old world. Commencement Week brings with it an air of excitement, and also an added share of new business for local merchants. We're used to the college students who have been with us these past nine months. Following next week, quietness and tranquility will settle over the old burg as we head into a hot and drowsy summer. But, the boys and girls will be back with us again, come fall and we'll return to being a quiet college town once again.

It's time we started looking over the list of candidates for the Maryland Constitutional Convention folks. The election is June 13 and there are 13 candidates in the field from our county. It is very important that we select the right candidate to represent us at this important convention because that is where and when our new laws which will govern us for many years will be made. Many of the out-dated laws will be abolished and many, many new ones will take their place, so please make every effort possible to familiarize yourself with these candidates and any laws that they might propose. It could be another century before another such convention will be held.

We can't see any prudence on the part of the School Board in refusing to reveal the salaries of our public school teachers. The County Commissioners have requested such information but so far it has been denied. After all, until just a few years ago these salaries were filed in the County Commissioners' annual report to the citizens. Why this sudden turn-about now? After all, the President of the U. S., the Senators, Congressmen, Governors and every other person working on the public payroll have their salaries published so what is so wrong if we would like to know just how much of our tax money is going to our teachers?

A sigh of relief, the Memorial Day holiday is behind us and we are pleased to learn that a new record for highway fatalities has not been established. This is wonderful news and we hope the good work can keep up.

K Of C Communion Breakfast Sunday

Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, will hold its annual communion breakfast Sunday morning, June 4, Chairman Robert A. Seidel announces.

The group will attend 8:30 Mass in Pangborn Chapel, Mt. St. Mary's College and Father Robert Grace, chaplain, will be the celebrant. Following the Mass, breakfast will be served at Koontz's Snack Bar.

Members planning to attend are asked to contact either Robert A. Seidel or Eugene R. Rosensteel.

County Tax Rate Will Remain Same

The Frederick County Commissioners have adopted a total budget of $11,954,506 for fiscal 1968, and set the property tax rate at $2.14.

The budget includes a teacher pay scale starting at $5,850, and the first stage of a program to eliminate the county tax on farm and business personal property.

The teacher pay scale, a compromise proposal by Commissioner Russell Z. Horman, falls short of the $6,000-base scale demanded by the Frederick County Teachers' Association and backed by the school board, but still represents an increase of $450 over the existing scale.

"In arriving at this figure," Horman said, "I have used the same basic approach I have used since I became a county commissioner. I have been informed that the new salary scale for Montgomery County will begin at $5,880, for Carroll County $5,700, and for Howard County $5,800. The scale in Washington County has not yet been fixed.

"This new salary scale for our county is in keeping with what these surrounding counties have done. This figure will reward our teachers; it will not place an undue burden on our taxpayers; but it will keep us in a favorable position to hold our good teachers, and to recruit new ones to teach our children—our greatest asset.

"I would like to emphasize that my conclusion was reached without influence from any of the recent events dealing with the subject," Horman continued, referring to student demonstrations and teacher boycotts last week.

"I feel the pressures and demonstrations we have witnessed were in very poor taste and were certainly badly timed."

Dr. John L. Carnochan, superintendent of schools, said the new salary scale was worked out by himself and Hallar Best, president of the school board, with funds supplied by the commissioners.

Total budget requests this year had totalled $12,818,467, including a $6,720,779 for the school system. The budget adopted by the commissioners calls for expenditures of $11,954,506, with $6,233,323 going to the department of education.

The school budget, as approved by the commissioners, is $4,650,253 less than the budget—including the $6,000-base teacher scale—as presented by the school board. The commissioners estimated that changing to the $5,850-base scale would cost $176,824 less next year than the proposed $6,000-base scale would have cost.

Major items cut from the school budget by the commissioners included $30,000 for the pilot kindergarten program; $14,000 for a principal and secretary for Catoctin High School; $66,500 for a retirement program for the non-professional employees of the school system; $33,000 for purchase of portable classrooms; $27,000 for construction of a track at Walkersville; $41,929 for new instructional equipment; $45,500 for new day school teachers; and $15,000 for new custodial positions.

The school budget was adopted by the commissioners by majority vote. Commissioners Horman and Charles E. Collins voted in favor of the reductions, and Commissioner Wallace E. Hutton opposed the cuts.

The commissioners also announced they were initiating this year a program designed to eliminate the taxes on farm and business personal property over the next 10 years.

"We have adopted a 10 per cent reduction in county taxes on this type of personal property," Collins said. "We hope this can be followed through for the next 10 years until these unfair taxes will be completely eliminated."

The commissioners estimated the 10 per cent reduction in the tax would cost the county $82,185 in tax revenues the first year.

The tax break will apply to all farm and business property except that owned by utilities in the county, the commissioners said.

Included in the host of resolutions the commissioners had to (Continued On Page 8)

By-Pass Claims 28th Victim

The intersection of Routes 15 and 97 in east Emmitsburg, claimed its tenth traffic victim in the two years it has been in operation. It was the 28th fatality in the two-mile stretch which bypasses the town on the east.

The latest death came last Thursday evening at approximately 6:30 o'clock when a Rose Hill, N. C., truck driver was fatally injured when he was involved in a collision with a car at the intersection.

Ira Jefferson Johnson, 58, Rose Hill, N. C., driver of a tractor-trailer rig laden with fresh chickens, was pronounced dead of a crushed chest at the scene by Dr. John Teske, deputy medical examiner for Frederick County.

Johnson was pinned in the cab of his tractor.

The cab roof had been sheared off from the windshield after it crashed into a steel light standard.

Admitted to the Warner Hospital was the operator of the car, John William Zeigler, 73, of 110 Hanover Rd., Reisterstown. He has a severe laceration of the head and a concussion.

Maryland State Police said the accident occurred when Zeigler, traveling east on 97, failed to stop for a stop sign at the intersection. He drove into the path of the northbound trailer operated by Johnson.

The Johnson rig swerved sharply to the right to avoid running over top of the car. The truck's weight shifted to the side arching it toward the northeast corner of the road where the truck flipped over on its side skidding into the light pole. The Zeigler car came to rest beside the huge rig.

Zeigler was taken to the Warner Hospital in the VFW ambulance. The Thurmont ambulance was called but was not needed. The Vigilant Hose Company remained on the scene with fire equipment to guard against ignition of diesel fuel.

State police said that Johnson was apparently heading for cities in Pennsylvania and New Jersey to distribute his load of fresh chickens. Another trailer was summoned to the scene later to remove the perishable cargo.

Police estimated the damage to the 1967 Mack truck at $16,000 and approximately $1,000 to Zeigler's 1960 Plymouth sedan. No estimate was available as to the extent of the damage to its contents.

Reader Recalls Old Turnpike

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

It may be of interest to your readers to know something about the Frederick Turnpike. In Oct., 1858, when the College celebrated its Silver Jubilee, 50 years after its founding, the turnpike ran from Frederick to as far as Mechanicstown, which name was later changed to Thurmont, when the railroad came through. The news then was that the turnpike would shortly be extended to Emmitsburg. (Please note the 2 t's). Apparently the road ran along the mountainside on what is now called Kelbaugh Road, as this area offered a ready supply of water to its residents.

It continued up past the college gate which was on the first terrace, and then on to the Annandale road, and then the Mountain road into the west end of town.

The College had a large stone wall surrounding its two buildings, but when the local parishioners built St. Anthony's Shrine in the early 1890's, the old Church on the Mountain was no longer needed.

My mother told me many years ago that the wall was erected to prevent the college boys from flirting with the pretty girls driving up to the old Church on the hill.

However the new turnpike from Thurmont was not built until about 1890 and cut across Payne's Hill and followed the present U. S. 15.

The College then moved the road from its front terrace, 300 yards east to where 806 is located, thereby isolating itself behind century old trees, which were not torn down until the 1920's.

A couple of farmers donated land so that the turnpike could be extended from where my home was 1 1/2 miles south of town on 806, to Toll Gate Hill, and thereby splitting their lands into unequal fields.

With no further need for the stone wall, the College then constructed the beautiful gymnasium with the stones, now called Flynn Hall, and its plans were duplicated by other colleges throughout the West.

Later, I will write about other roads leading into town.

Marines completing this training are assigned to combat units overseas.

Giants Take Little League Lead

The Giants took over sole possession of first place by romping over the Red Sox 11-1 Tuesday evening on the Little League diamond. Wednesday night the Cards upset the Giants 11-5.

Despite the game being marked by numerous errors, Robert Henke and Kevin Topper added power at the plate with a fine hitting attack for the Giants. Henke also came up with a sparkling defensive play in the third inning by grabbing a sinking line drive which was destined for a base hit. Topper not only did well at the plate, but also turned in a fine pitching performance. He was well on his way to a shutout when the Red Sox scored their lone run on an interference play in the fourth inning.

The one bright spot for the Red Sox came in the fifth inning when Greg Adelsberger pulled down a high flyball off the top of the left field fence, robbing the Giants of a homerun.

Monday's scheduled game between the Cards and Yanks was rained out and will be played later.

Dramatic Club Has Big Year

The Sock 'n Buskin Drama Club at Mt. St. Mary's College has been awarded the Student Council trophy for the outstanding club of the year, 1966-67.

The young thespians under the mentorship of Prof. W. Richard Etchison, were re-activated after a period of dormancy.

This season, under the direction of James A. McGuinness, Jr., sophomore, the group staged these productions: "J. B.", "Mr. Roberts", "Skin of Our Teeth", "Under Milkwood", and the one-act plays "The Bald Soprano" and "The Lesson". The latter were taken from the experimental European theater, The Theater of the Absurd.

Senior Citizens See Illustration

The Senior Citizens Club was both entertained and instructed last Wednesday evening by Mr.

Ralph D. Lindsey of the local Southern States Co-operative at the Center. Mr. Lindsey showed the film, "The Road to Camerons" narrated by Chet Huntley. Following the film, Mr. Lindsey made explanations and answered questions by members of the group.

The purpose of the program was to show the advantages in marketing and buying through the Co-operative in seeds, food and other necessary supplies. In so doing, better prices are received for products and the buyer pays a fair price for those items he purchases. The movement is successful through the joint action of people working together in a common cause.

The Co-operative here is under the system operated by Southern States Company which has been operating in this section since 1923.

After the discussion and questioning the ladies of the Co-operative served cookies and coffee to about 23 members of the Senior Citizens Club.

The sewing classes will meet on Monday, June 5 from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. with Mrs. Abramson from the Cooperative Extension Service.

BABSON

Writes . . .

Babson's Point Of View On:
Big Business And Juvenile Delinquency

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 1—Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen like to think that juvenile delinquency comes as a result of broken homes, poverty, urban overcrowding, ignorance, and a lot of other bad situations. Granted, these causes stand high among those creating the "bad image" of many of our young people. But Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen would be quite surprised if it were suggested that they themselves may be just as guilty.

Competition In Business
A Factor

"But how are we contributing to juvenile delinquency?" they might ask in amazement. How, indeed? The husband has a good job, the mother is active in social and community affairs, the children have fine educational opportunities, the family has a comfortable home. But there is an enemy frequently creeping into this blissful scene, and that foe is competition which forces us so often to place our loyalty to business before loyalty to family. This may well be, in fact, one of the most serious dangers implicit within the "American Way" of free enterprise.

An almost hysterical pursuit of company business regardless of the damaging effects on family life is evidence of the deterioration of moral values that has hit too many businessmen. When father should be spending time with his wife and children, he is entertaining customers or trying to catch up with his office paper work. His position makes more and more inroads on evenings and weekends. He becomes a stranger in his own home.

Parental Guidance Is Forgotten

Fathers often seem proud of the prep schools they find for their teenagers. There the kids will learn to ski, skate, and play tennis, and father will be saved a lot of time and trouble. But school and college guidance offices have mountains of files on young people whose dads take this attitude. The youngsters are emotionally unstable for the simple reason that their parents never played with them enough, never gave them the guidance and parental understanding that they needed in the growing-up process.

Too many fathers wake up with a start one day and find that their sons are already young men . . . and they haven't taken the time to love them every day, to enjoy them, or to discipline them. Many a son has fallen into serious difficulties because he never received the kind of guidance he needed from a father. And how many mothers are "corporation wives" spending an enormous amount of time entertaining hubby's business associates? It isn't difficult to see that many a company is so demanding in terms of time that little is left for either parent to spend with the children.

Where Is Normal Companionship?

What a lot of dads have is a conscious — or subconscious — sense of guilt. There are at least dimly aware that they are not giving much time to family picnics, boating, ball games in the back lot, church and school affairs. And how do they try to compensate for this? By giving their youngsters "everything they want." This often means fat allowances, automobiles, costly education, summer-camp vacations away from home, and even marriage subsidies. Father doesn't want his kids to work as hard as he has. So he gives them everything, — everything material, that is, everything but the all-valuable normal parental companionship and the discipline of love.

It is astonishing how many companies refuse to allow many types of employees — such as sales managers to stay in one place long enough to become not only part of the family but part of the community. They are forced to move every two or three years. The wives become irritable, the children have trouble moving from one school to another and being torn away from their friends, and the fathers are likely to end up with ulcers.

Little wonder that so many young ones are inconsiderate, emotionally insecure, and ready to think the world owes them a living. The competitive pace that business sets may have more to do with juvenile delinquency in these strange, indirect ways than most people realize, even among the highly educated and the well-to-do.

Nursing Convocation
Saturday

The Annual Nurses' Capping convocation by the Department of Nursing at St. Joseph College will be held on Saturday, June 3, at 2:30 p.m. on campus. Twenty-four seniors will be awarded the graduate cap and school pin, forty-two juniors will be given the senior cap, and the thirty-eight sophomore nursing students will receive the junior cap.

The invocation and Benediction will be given by the Rev. John E. Hurley, C.M., college chaplain. Kathleen Sullivan, of the graduating class, will welcome the guests of the nursing students. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Sullivan of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., Miss Sullivan is a member of the college chapter of Sigma Theta Tau, National Honor Society for Nursing, and is also listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

The principal speaker will be Captain Linda B. Bowman of the Army Nurse Corps and a 1964 graduate of St. Joseph College. Presently assigned to the U. S. Army Hospital in Orleans, France, Captain Bowman has received orders from the Surgeon General's Office to report to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington this month.

How To Practice Citizenship

What can one individual citizen do for his country (and himself and his loved ones) if he recognizes that the threat of Communist world domination is growing and the movement within our country toward all-powerful central government is continuing unchecked At the National Education Program's Freedom Forum XXVIII the answer given to this transcendent question was: Practice Citizenship! Forty-five young college student-leaders from coast to coast, along with 50 adult thought-leaders of 30 states learned how to practice citizenship, with both old and new ideas.

The newest idea developed for 1967 use by individual citizens was the One-Day Forum. Materials for the One-Day Forum were presented to the Freedom Forum XXVIII conferees in a "package." They were demonstrated in a format that can be handled by any man or woman in America with just a little practice. The One - Day Forum can be conducted in Boston, San Diego, Meadowbridge, West Virginia, or Rock Springs, Wyoming by a single person or a group—to arouse, inform, motivate, and activate fellow citizens. And this is the crying need of our nation in Crisis, 1967.

Stimulant To Action

The One-Day Forum materials include a flannelboard presentation (which anybody can master in a day or two), four short motion pictures to inform and stimulate forum discussion; a narrated filmstrip on the Federal Budget 1967-68; and a never-to-be forgotten 23-minute talk —on tape and presented with lights dimmed in the forum room—by John Noble, a prisoner for nine nightmarish years in Communist Russia's notorious slave labor camps, the last one being Vorkuta, north of the Arctic Circle. The entire "package can be rented or purchased from the National Education Program. Searcy, Arkansas.

Freedom Forum XXVIII speakers dwell on the principles of our American system, the unmatched performance of our Constitutional Republic and the record productivity of American free enterprise through private ownership and the competitive market. And it also brought together some of the nation's foremost authorities on Communism, Socialism, and other kindred "Welfare States" movements. Demonstrations of the One-Day Forum "package" came on the closing day of the four-day Freedom Forum.

Eight Steps To Citizenship

How does one practice citizenship? Out of the accumulated experience of National Education Program Freedom Forums, begun 18 years ago, has come a flannelboard presentation answering that question. It does far more than answer the question; it examines the crisis confronting our nation in 1967; it briefly explores the Communist and Socialist movements; it dissects the demagogues; measures the values embedded in the American system; and, finally, challenges the Johnny-come-lately citizen to dig in and learn more on these vital subjects.

How to practice citizenship? The flannelboard presentation, entitled "This Is Our Problem," gives this outline:

1. Understand the American system.
2. Understand Communism.
3. Understand Socialism.
4. Recognize and Resist Demagoguery.
5. Participate in Government at all Levels.
6. Serve our Community.
7. Grow Spiritually.
8. Dedicate Ourselves.

In Greater Depth

This sets the stage, in the One-Day Forum program, for an examination in depth of the American system and the dangers confronting it. Two films, 13½ minutes and 10 minutes, bring basic facts on the American system dramatically to the conferees—The Secret of American Production, and a spirtely color-cartoon, Meet King Joe. The filmstrip, The Federal Budget, winds up an informative, constructive morning. In the afternoon, the Truth About Communism, narrated by Ronald Reagan; and The Difference Between Socialism and Communism, narrated by Herbert Philbrick, former FBI undercover agent, delve deeply into the continuing-to-grow dangers to our freedom system. Then, to close, John Noble's tremendous challenge for Citizenship dedication.

We are hopeful that the One-Day Forum will ultimately reach every community in America. Write for details on rental or purchase of the "package."

accumulating photographic record of rewarding days afield.

Most of us make the mistake of taking far too few photographs on trips. We may think we're taking an adequate or even a lavish number of shots, but then in retrospect we'll find we haven't. So do not stint on quantity. More over, few of us shoot a perfect picture every time we click the shutter. So the more you shoot, the better your chances of getting outstanding pictures. Professional photographers know this, and watching the way a pro "burns" film on a magazine assignment, you'd think it was free. Indeed, the cost of film should not be counted if you consider the ultimate rewards.

A few key points to remember. Try to avoid shooting around high noon, say from about 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. If you must shoot then, use a flash on faces. The best outdoor action pictures generally are taken with the sun at three quarters or less. Scenics are best when the sun is even lower.

If you use an exposure meter, determine what you want the most detail in—the highlights or the shadows. Unless you do your own processing, it doesn't pay to split the difference between two meter readings and try to get a little of the bright area and a little of the dark. It's better to go for one or the other—and quite often the choice will be the shadows. For example, suppose you're photographing a grizzly trophy in the field. Bear hair si one of the best non-reflectors of light in the universe, ranking with the coat of a black cat. Allow plenty of exposure for that fur, so that you get some detail. Then, and only then, play around with other exposures of the same subject.

You will learn as you shoot. For example, if you get pools of inky blackness where a set of eyes should be, from then on you'll say, "Hey! Lift your hat brim (or take off your hat)." Or you'll learn that flashbulbs are worth their weight in black pearls —even when being used outdoors in the sun!

When you photograph your outdoor partners, catch them in action as often as possible, and preferably off guard, so that the picture will tell a story, advises

John Jobson, Camping Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. Of course, the old formal trophy pictures, with the sportsman proudly holding that great bass or trout or posing beside his buck, have their place. But the candid-photo style that appeared in the mid-30s is still the most potent technique.

A mounted trophy is nice to have; but the picture taken at the time is vibrant and alive with memories.

When a man is as eager to go to work as he is to leave the office, it is a sure sign that he owns the business.

"Freedom must be at all times defended, because it is at all times besieged. Not all of us are called to fight on the battlefield. Many of us must, quietly and firmly, do what we can and all that we must, here at home. Buying Bonds, regularly, is as important to this nation in the long reach of history as almost anything we can do."

When you buy U.S. Savings Bonds regularly—through Payroll Savings where you work or Bond-a-Month where you bank—you are also entitled to purchase new Freedom Shares. Freedom Shares are short-term Savings Notes. They pay a higher return than Savings Bonds (4.74% when held to maturity in 4½ years), may be bought one-for-one with Bonds in four denominations, and are redeemable after one year. BUCKLE YOUR SEAT BELT — IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE!

The weekly survey prior to Memorial Day week shows that 13 persons lost their lives on Maryland highways, Maryland State Police say.

Six of the victims were drivers; four were passengers and three were pedestrians, all of whom were less than nine years of age.

"Most of these collisions," commented Lt. Col. George Davidson, Chief of Operations of the State Police, "would have been avoided if the driver had been employing the principles of defensive driving as are taught in the defensive driving classes sponsored by the Baltimore Safety Council in cooperation with the Maryland State Police".

The Defensive Driving Course, which consists of four two-hour classes, has attracted more than 23,000 Maryland drivers during the past year. With few exceptions, graduates are of the opinion that their over-all appreciation of their responsibility as drivers has been improved immeasurably and is reflected in their driving performance.

Continuing, Lt. Col. Davidson made it clear that "if every driver could be exposed to the defensive driving course, we could make a real dent in the highway safety problem. Therefore, I highly recommend that drivers contact the Baltimore Safety Council or the State Police and arrange to take the course."

WOMEN'S HEALTH

Shellfish Implicated
In Viral Hepatitis

BOSTON, Mass.—Cave Molluscas—Beware the Mollusk—warns a recent editorial in the New England Journal of Medicine. The warning was based on the findings of a Boston medical research team that a significant number of patients admitted to 10 local hospitals over a 36-month period and diagnosed as having viral hepatitis had recently eaten either raw shellfish such as clams and oysters, or steamed clams. Apparently the offending creatures had been fished up out of polluted waters.

are not polluted. A call to the local health department will sometimes give you this information. Having dredged up the clams, steam them until they are wide open, not until they are barely opened. The longer the steaming the less the chances of hepatitis. The researchers found that fried clams seemed less frequently associated with infection than the steamed variety.

As for raw oysters, buy them at a reliable fish market, and try not to worry. There have been no epidemic outbreaks related to shellfish, just off and on incidents. Happy dining.

Women Fear Lives Ruined!

LONDON, England — Political activists are sometimes subjected to cruel and unusual punishment, as witness this story from London.

A group of women were arrested by London bobbies when they invaded a foreign embassy in a political demonstration. Five of the women complained that the police had confiscated their contraceptive pills.

"The pills were taken away while we were held for two days behind bars," reported one of the women.

Explaining that the pills had to be taken every day and that missing two days could bring the risk of pregnancy, one of the women said she and her fellow demonstrators kept telling the police about the risk, "but they wouldn't listen."

When the complaint was brought to the attention of Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, his spokesman explained, "It is standard procedure to take pills of any kind from prisoners."

"This could ruin our lives," stated one of the prisoners firmly.

What Health Dollar Buys

CHICAGO, Ill. — Health costs are rising. From 1964 to 1965, health costs rose 9.5 per cent. Hospitals received the largest share, about 30 cents of every health dollar; doctors came next, with 27.7 cents of every health dollar going to the physician. Next came drugs, taking 16.4 cents, dentists, 9.6 cents, health insurance 7.7 cents, appliances, 4.4 cents, and miscellaneous expenses about 4.9 cents.

Despite these rises, health care represented only about 6.5 per cent of personal spending in 1965. The rest of your income if you were average went like this: About 20 per cent on care and maintenance of your home, 9 per cent on clothing, accessories and jewelry, just under 3 per cent on maintenance of possessions and 2.5 per cent for transportation and communications.

These findings, from the American Medical Association, were based on figures of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Gardening
The home gardening season is in full sway across the nation again this month.

After long months of winter, followed by spring rains, millions of American householders are back at the annual battle with crab grass and insects in the perennial effort to add a touch of natural color and beauty to the American scene.

American Medical Association recommends gardening as good therapy and good exercise for almost everyone. Gardening also entails some hazards of health and safety, most of which can be avoided.

If you have done nothing more strenuous than sit by the fire most of the winter, by all means take it easy for the first few weekends of gardening. Give your muscles a chance to regain strength gradually, rather than trying to do too much on the first day out.

Gardening often brings cuts and scratches from twigs, thorns, sharp tools. First aid usually consists of washing the scratch with soap and water and applying an adhesive bandage. Let it bleed a little to wash away impurities. Deeper cuts may require medical attention.

Tetanus germs are harbored in the soil, particularly if barnyard fertilizer is used. The home gardener who fails to protect himself with tetanus immunization is courting lockjaw.

Power tools, particularly lawn mowers, are standard equipment for the modern home gardener. They save many an aching back, but they are potentially dangerous. Your power lawn mower comes with instructions on its safe use. Study them carefully. If you're in doubt, check with a mechanic as to potential hazards of power tools.

Insect sprays and powders, plus poisons that kill weeds, are useful adjuncts to gardening. These, also, have inherent hazards if improperly or carelessly used. Once again, read the directions, especially the warnings.

Bees, wasps and spiders are out for the spring season, too, and now and then one of them may sting you. For most of us, a sting is painful and causes swelling, but it isn't serious. If you are one of those individuals with an allergy to insect bites, ask your doctor about the desensitizing injections.

Education, coupled with an annual health checkup, can do more to save lives today from cancer than from any other disease. The American Cancer Society's 1967 Crusade theme is: "Guard Those You Love; Know Cancer's Warning Signals—Give to the American Cancer Society."

Postmaster Pleased With Response

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:
In response to the appeal of Rural Patrons, in connection with mail box improvement week, I wish to congratulate all of those patrons who either performed repairs during this time, or whom on the otherhand, did not need improvement.
As I traveled with the carriers on their respective routes, I was pleased to discover that so very many of our rural patrons had co-operated with the Post Office Department, by improving their mail box and posts.

Although our campaign was a huge success, I still would like to bring out one predominant discrepancy, of which was not serious enough to warrant notification, but yet is part of the regulations, and that is for your name and number to be placed on your mail box. If the remaining minority of our patrons will take care of this requirement, we could rate very high on a rural route survey.

Please remember, the condition of your mail box should be as important as the mail you expect to be placed in it.

Thank you again for the fine cooperation.

George E. Rosensteel
Postmaster

Two Injured In Collision Near Zora

Two women were injured in a three-car collision causing $1,800 in property damage Sunday evening at 10:10 o'clock on Route 16 a mile and a half north of Zora, according to state police.

Miss Diane Reese, 18, Blue Ridge Summit, operator of one of the cars, was admitted to the Waynesboro Hospital with a possible fractured skull and Mrs. Dottie Beard, a passenger in a car operated by her husband, Kenneth R. Beard, 26, Fairfield R1, was treated at the Waynesboro Hospital for bruises of the body. William E. Naugle, 24, Orrtanna R1, the operator of the third car, was uninjured in the mishap.

State police said the accident occurred when the Reese car, traveling north on Route 16, slowed for a car operated by Beard which was attempting a left turn into a private drive. The car operated by Naugle struck the rear of the Reese vehicle forcing it into the left side of the Beard car. Police estimated the damage to the Reese Volkswagen at a total loss of $1,400, $200 to the rear of the Beard car and $200 to the front of the Naugle vehicle. State police are continuing their investigation.

Naugle was placed in the county jail at 1 o'clock Monday morning after he was charged by state police before Justice of the Peace Clarence Fritz with operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
The Bible
Since thou has been precious in my sight... I have loved thee.—(Isa. 43:4).

The assurance of God's love for us harmonizes our minds, hearts and bodies so that we are at peace and happiness floods our soul. We know that God loves us so we can be at peace within ourselves, no matter what happens. We know that God loves us, and because of it, we love God, His world and His people. The miracle of God's love for us brings the joy of heaven to us right here and now.

One lesson to learn in life is that times change and so do other things.

BUDGET

adopt to complete their work on the budget was one to impose a county income tax—20 per cent of the state income tax liability of each taxpayer—as required by the state's new tax program.

The local income tax, effective under the resolution for the calendar year 1967, will be retroactive to Jan. 1 this year.

The commissioners said they have been notified by state officials that they must decide by September or October of this year if they desire to impose the same—or a higher or lower—local income tax for calendar 1968.

Cuts were heaviest in the county roads budget, the proposal of the sanitary commission, and the request from the parks and recreation commission.

The commissioners cut the budget of the roads department by $296,686, from the $1,669,195 requested to $1,372,509.

This compares to a budget of $1,219,219 in the current year. Southey T. Nottingham, county engineer, had asked the commissioners to supplement road-building funds with an appropriation of $400,000 from the general tax revenues.

The sanitary commission's budget was cut by two-thirds, $106,895. The sanitary commission had asked the commissioners for $162,195, and were granted $55,300.

The request of the parks and recreation commission was cut by more than half, as the commissioners deleted $72,470 from the $152,195 proposal.

The parks group would end up with an appropriation of $79,725.

Baltimorean Will Receive Degree

C. Edward Jones, Maryland attorney and business executive, will be the recipient of the honorary Doctor of Laws degree at the 159th Commencement Exercises to be held at Mount Saint Mary's College, on Wednesday morning, June 7th, at 10:30 a.m.

Chief Justice Earl Warren of the United States Supreme Court will deliver the principal address and the Most Reverend T. Austin Murphy, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore, will confer the degrees. Warren will also be honored during the convocation.

Jones, a native of Norfolk, Va., and a graduate of Mt. St. Joseph College High School and the University of Baltimore Law School, will be cited for his leadership in law, business, education, and aid to the Catholic Archdiocese of Baltimore.

During World War II, he served as an officer with the United States Coast Guard and continues his interest in boating as a hobby. He is a member of the Baltimore City and State Bar Associations; the board of directors of several area business firms; the Fraternity of Christian Doctrine; and legal counsel to the college.

Mr. Jones resides with his wife at 5512 N. Charles St. in Baltimore.

People Learning To Conserve Water

Last summer, millions of families were forced to curb their use of water because of severe drought. Local restrictions forbade them to water their lawns, wash their cars or fill the kiddies play pool. Most of them couldn't get full enjoyment out of their plumbed-in appliances because low pressure reduced their water to a trickle at one appliance while another was in use.

This wasn't a new experience for these families either. Most of them have been putting up with this inconvenience for years and have resigned themselves to the same fate in 1967 and beyond.

The fact is, however, that there's a remedy for this chronic water shortage. It's the individual water system. Over 10 million families in the U. S. already get their water from their own well, and they're not all rural families by any means. Millions of them live in suburbs beyond municipal water mains. At least 50,000 wells are drilled every year in areas where municipal water is available but inadequate. Predictions are that this number will at least double, to 100,000, individual wells annually in the next three to five years.

Many urbanites have mistaken notions about the individual water system, mentally comparing it to the old-fashioned hand pump or a large electric pump with a noisy motor that has to be installed in the basement or a "pump house." Actually the pump that's installed in the average homeowner's back yard is likely to be a ½ horsepower submersible, installed in the well from 100 to 200 feet down.

Submersible pumps have been around for many years and are mechanically so perfected that they rarely need attention once they're installed. They bring the water to the surface and into a storage tank. From there it's piped to the various water using appliances in the usual way.

Most areas have codes governing the drilling of wells, the installation of the pump and related equipment and the precautions that must be taken to assure a pure water supply. Wells must be drilled by qualified licensed men and the equipment installed by qualified water systems dealers or drilling contractors. Persons desiring more information should write to the Maryland Water Well Association, Information Bureau, 2524 Old Frederick Road, Catonsville, Maryland 21228.

Maryland Has Most Surfaced Roads

Maryland has the highest percentage of surfaced roads and streets of any State in the nation, including the District of Columbia.

According to the Maryland Petroleum Association, some 99.7 per cent, or 25,118 miles, of the State's roads and streets are surfaced. This mileage is more than enough to encircle the earth, Joseph P. Lanigan, Executive Secretary of the oilmen's organization said.

He also pointed out that 98.9 per cent, or 1,071 miles, of the District of Columbia's roads and streets are surfaced. His figures are based on reports from the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Nationwide, he added, 75 per cent of the 3.7-million-mile road network is surfaced. Most of this is paved or hard-surfaced, with asphalt accounting for 92 per cent of the total.

For the most part, Mr. Lanigan said, the nation's unsurfaced mileage represents lightly traveled service roads in farm or ranch country.

Social Security Thief Exposed

An Eastern Kentucky attorney was convicted and fined $2,000 for charging excessive fees in representing four disabled social security claimants in a judgment rendered by the U. S. District Court in Jackson, Kentucky. The attorney was fined on four counts of $500 each for overcharging disabled claimants in appeal actions before the Administration.

Federal regulations govern the charging of fees for attorneys who represent social security claimants. These regulations were established to adequately compensate the attorney and yet protect the claimant. Excessive charges take away from the benefit the measure of security designed to help the older people, the disabled and widows and children.

Most attorneys follow established procedures and where higher fees are in order because of the work involved they secure prior approval of their fees from the Social Security Administration.

All claimants and their representatives who are not familiar with the details of fee limitations should contact the social security office at 59 North Cannon Avenue, Hagerstown, and ask for leaflet OASI 856, "Right to Representation."

Chamber Seeking Information

The Office of Labor-Management and Welfare - Pension Reports of the U. S. Department of Labor has asked the assistance of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce in contacting employers in the Emmitsburg area concerning their obligation to file descriptions and annual reports covering their welfare-pension plans.

The Welfare-Pension Plans and Disclosure Act which was passed in 1958 and amended in 1966 requires that all employers who administer welfare or pension plans are required to file these reports. A leaflet which outlines the coverage, responsibilities and obligations of the plan administrator, as well as various definitions which may help to clarify potential questions as to types of plans covered and whose obligation it is to file, has been sent to the secretary of the Chamber, Mrs. Valli Ryan. Plan administrators and other interested persons may contact Mrs. Ryan during office hours at St. Joseph College for further information.

Mr. William O'Loughlin, Assistant Regional Director for Technical Assistance, stated in a letter to the Chamber of Commerce: "It is hoped that this technique of contacting employers will enable us to achieve a high rate of compliance which will preclude the necessity of personal visits or field investigations which can be expensive and time-consuming for both the government and the employer."

The Federal Welfare and Pension Plans Disclosure Act covers any employee welfare benefit plan or pension benefit plan which provides any of the benefits specified in the Act; is maintained by employers engaged in commerce or in activity affecting commerce, or employee organizations representing employees engaged in commerce or in activity affecting commerce, or both; is communicated in writing to the employees; and has more than 25 participants.
