BY ABIGAIL

It all started out in a gay mood and six soldiers were raising the Flag at a Little League game near Washington this week. Suddenly the flagpole slipped from the grip of the soldiers and the steel pole leaned sdieways, touched high tension electric wires and 7000 volts shot through the bodies of the young soldiers. A tragic thing yet one wonders why it happens so many times this way and in similar ways. Tree trimmers, steel crane operators working on buildings surrounded by electric wires run this risk on many occasions, or perhaps I should say, almost daily. Kiddies flying model planes and kites with steel wires have been electrocuted in the same manner. This sort of tragedy can be avoided with a little common sense but still it continues.

As the world waits with abated breath, the United Nations is doing its utmost to prevent the befinning of World War III. The military action taken this week by Israel and Jordan with several other satellite countries assisting, has caused much concern. Many Army Reserves and National Guards-men are in the middle of their summer military exercises and it was thought that for a while many of our boys might possibly not get a chance to come home. Parents wait anxiously watching the outcome of this latest threat to world peace and pray fervently that the United States and Russia can somehow come to an agreement and remain aloof from the action.

Medical doctors will perhaps take another look into the use of the birth control pills following the death of a 20-year-old English woman this week. The young housewife had been using the pills for several months. Lately she complained of pains in her chest area. One day this week the pains became real severe and she dropped dead. An autopsy showed she had a blood clot in the heart area which ultimately caused her demise. The pill is comparatively new and has been on the market just a few short years but apparently its effect should be checked and double-checked again and again.

Workers' Earnings

Wage and salary income has been heading steadily upward since the beginning of World War II,-and decidedly so during the past 10 years. Even now-although total number of hours worked has slipped from earlier highs-hourly earnings are still advancing.

In the first four months this year, a gain of $6.8 billion in wages and salaries has brought this segment of personal income to an annual rate of $414.3 billion. Additional wage and salary hikes lie ahead, but over the immediate future the rate of upturn will likely be on a scale down from the sharp advances of the past couple of Income Other Than Wages Dividends and interest now constitute a sizable-and constantly growing-portion of total personal income. For the most part, funds received from these sources are used to supplement salary and wages and/ or pension income to provide for the necessaries of life. However, in a growing number of instances, dividend and interest payments are being spent, or invested, or ever saved . . . at the discretion of recipients.

Pensions, annuities, and government payments (including social security) now permit many millions of Americans more freedom in their buying decisions. More important, income from these particular sources provide the aging with greater economic security than ever before. During the coming decade, pension and similar payments should increase faster than in the past

Higher Family Incomes

As recently as 7 years ago, only one-third of all American households had income on an annual basis in excess of $7,000. By 1971, 60% of all American families are expected to have reached this income - adequacy level. Hopefully, by 1976—the 200th year of our independence -80% of our families will be enjoying income above $7,000

Such a sharp boost in family income should go a long way toward expanding markets for consumer goods and services. It should also mean that in the years ahead families will spend less and less of their total incomes for food, clothing, and shelter. Of course, expenditures for the necessities of life will still be increasing, but they will not be rising as fast as will total spending for consumer goods and services. More Freedom Of Choice

As incomes rise to new highs. more and more American families will have more money to spend as they choose. A decade from now, today's upper- and middle-income market will be a mass market, for the uptrend in discretionary income promises to resist stubbornly any interruptions caused by cyclical and other forces.

However, the full enjoyment of our rising incomes may be blighted by heavier tax burdens at all levels as well as by a further whittling away of the value of our dollars through inflation,—unless we can persuade government officials to curb public spending that is superfluous -or even to keep it from shrinking, we must rid ourselves of the idea that the only way to solve public problems is by government action via spending more and more taxpayers' dollars. If we continue to hand over our responsibilities as a society to government, even our steadily expanding incomes place on June 18 for the ensuing CITIZENS OF TOMORROW won't assure us a better life.

> Individual sensitivities differ. You must to some extent learn for yourself how much sun you can tolerate. A general guide for most persons, assuming that previously untanned white skin is exposed about noon, is:

> First day, expose skin to sun for 15 to 20 minutes. This means 15 to 20 minutes each on face and back.

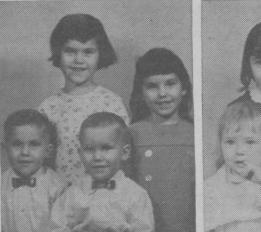

> Second day, increase exposure by one-third, to a little less than half an hour on each side.

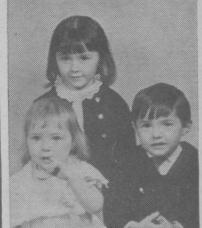

Third day, again increase exposure by one-third-to 30 or 40 minutes. And so on.

By the fourth day, a new pigment should begin to darken your skin. In a week you should have enough skin thickening and pigmentation to give considerable protection against burning sunshine.

Most of the suntan lotions contain chemicals called sun-screens, which absorb various wave lengths of burning ultra-violet rays to various degrees. The better lotions allow you to stay in the sun longer with less risk of burning. They do not shut out all radiation, or else you would never tan at all. There's no really good way to tell which of the suntan lotions is most effective for you until you try them.

The suntan pills, used under medical supervision, and obtained by prescription, can help "easy burners" be better protected against painful burn while acquir-

It will be my privilege to give the keynote address and the closing challenge at youth citizenship forums in many states, attracting young high school and college leaders from perhaps 40 states this year. What does one say who assumes the grave responsibility of keynoting these forums to which are being drawn "the cream" of American youth from coast to coast? I try to make what I say a challenge

Speaking on our American Heritage always gives me a great thrill because it is the greatest heritage that ever fell to any generation of youth. Moreover, I enjoy constantly challenging our youth of today with the fact that America still offers hope and opportunity.

Back in the Thirties, I was a bit amazed at how Hitler was able to captivate the youth of Germany. All the young Germens I met were enthusiasti-cally sold on Hitler. He came next after the God of the Universe. He was wonderful (in their eyes). He had simply challenged those youth, challenged them to help him make a better world, and he convinced them that he needed

Not Doing Enough But I believe today in America we are not challenging our youth. We are failing to sell them on the value of their heritage and on their prospects for the future. We are not presenting the merits of our own American Heritage. We are not inspiring within them

Freshman Class Menu Contest Winner

The home economics Freshman class of St. Joseph's High School has been named state runner-up in the Fleischmann's Yeast Menu Planning Contest. Under the direction of their teacher, Sister Mary Frances, the class submitted an entry in the national Standard Brands' sponsored contest late in March.

The contest consists of a oneweek's menu plan for a family of four—two adults and two pre-teen children. Its aim is to create an interest in food eating habits among high school students. To do this, the class works together, with the guidance of the teacher, and plans a menu that is nutritionally sound, practical, balanced from the standpoints of color and texture, and original in its presentation.

Home economics is family centered—so the use of a family of four (either a real family or one that the class "invents") adds a realistic quality to the entries. Many of the students begin to examine their own family's eating habits-and most try the recipes and menus out at home.

As prize, the class can choose zeal of America's youth—and one of the following for the home

PLAN ATTACK ON RECKLESS DRIVING

Fourteen Marylanders lost their lives over the past Memorial Day holiday weekend. Maryland's 14 joined with the rest of the Nation's 587 deaths for a total of 601 killed on "Drive Carefully — You Are Our Best Customer" the asphalt and cement battlefields at home. Safety officials stated, were it not for the tremendous coverage by radio, television and press, the highway death rate would have been much higher.

Aldine R. Bird, Chairman of The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, has called a special meeting of the Commission to plan an attack on the recklessness of summertime driving, from June 1st until after Labor Day which would include the 4th of July and Labor Day weekends.

Commissioner James H. Levi will be host at the meeting with the radio, television, press, police and State officials on Friday, June 16th, at 12 noon at the Suburban Club.

Tydings Opposes Power Line

Tydings this week sharply criticized plans of the Potomac Edison Co., to construct huge support towers for heavy duty electric power lines across the Civil War pattlefield site of Antietam, near Sharpsburg, Maryland.

tietam, Tydings said, "Potomac Edison's plan to build a series of 115 foot high towers, in a 200 foot right-of-way slicing through the countryside, shows a shocking, thoughtless, and callous disregard for the national interest in preserving our historic shrines.

Commenting further, Tydings said, "We are here at Antietam battlefield to rededicate this hallowed ground to the thousands of men and women who have given their lives for their country. It will be tragic if Potomac Edison, through a loophole in both state and Federal law, is able to run a high voltage power line right through the middle of this battlefield, thereby scaring and defacing

Noting that, under existing law, Potomac Edison does not need approval of Federal, state or counby officials for its project, Tydings added, "This power line would bisect the only Civil War historic area in Maryland and mitsburg High School. would run through the middle of Lee's first northern invasion route."

Calling for a change in exist-ing statutes, the Senator said, "The nearly incredible disregard for local sensibilities, sound planning, and fundamental good taste demonstrated by the power company's plans to desecrate this land clearly proves the need to change the law to protect the public from this kind of senseless de-facement of our heritage."

Antietam is the site of one of the bloodiest battles in military history. More than 23,000 men fell in one day during the battle of September 17, 1862, between Confederate and Union forces during Gen. Robert E. Lee's first at-

The Red Sox won their third contest in five outings as they edged the Cardinals 13-12 Monday evening on the Little League diamond .

The contest was a loosely played affair in which there were a total of 21 hits and 11 errors. The Cards jumped righ off with five runs in the first inning when Steve Hobbs, a 6', 12-year-old, blasted a grand - slam homerun. Hobbs came right back in the third frame with a solo homer. However, the Red Sox bounced back with five runs of their own in the bottom of the first and then exploded for six in the bottom of the third.

Hobbs came on in relief in the fourth inning and fired two perfect scoreless innings to add to his long list of scoreless frames.

Mr. Smith was selected because of his many years of experience and dedicated unselfish interest in public education. He began service on the local Board of Education in May 1952, having received this appointment from Governor McKeldin. In 1958 Governor McKeldin reappointed Mr. Smith to the Board and Governor Tawes appointed him for his third sixyear term, beginning May 1964. In 1957 Mr. Smith was elected president of the board and served in that position until May 1963 wen he asked to be relieved of these duties for health reasons. Mr. Smith graduated from Frederick High School in 1925. Prior to graduation from the University of Maryland in 1929 he was placed under contract to teach agriculture in Emmitsburg and Thurmont High Schools. In June 1932 he resigned his teaching position in order to enter business in Thurmont. He has been associated with the firm of Gall and Smith since that time. In addition to this business, he owns and operates the Hillside Turkey Farm, near Thurmont.

He is married to the former Pauline Gall. The Smiths have five children, all of whom attended school in Thurmont.

Mr. Smith has long been interested in civic and educational affairs in his community nad in Frederick County. He has consistently advocated good schools and believes that every child should have the benefit of an excellent education regardless of place of residence.

June 9, may register at West and juvenile collection of the local what his real dead ends were and Frederick Junior High School on library.

HOME FURNISHINGS EMMITSBURG - MARYLAND The Advisory Committee to Frederick County's Title III Cultural Program, sponsored by the Board of Education, met this week and the conference room of the Board of Education to evaluate the past year's program with the Pilot teachers and to view an exhibit of work by the 21,865 participating children of Frederick County.

Guests viewed displays of evaluation letters, newspaper clippings and commemorative photographs taken at performances. This was followed by the Program's Director, Robert L. Pitts narrating a 10-minute slide presentation of the cultural series' objectives and specific activities of scenes from: the talk and exhibit the past school year, including of artistic treasures by the wife of the ambassador of India, Madame Nehru; commentary-piano recital by Evelyn Swarthout; historical memorabilia from the Smithsonian Institution; the Harkness Ballet of New York; and a program of classical music and display of Renaissance instruments by the University of Maryland trio.

Folders were given to each member of the Advisory Committee containing: reports from teachers, pilot groups and evaluation letters. A total of 21,865 Frederick County children from every school in the county participated in this first year's cultural series.

Reports from schools throughout the County were that attendance by students at cultural events had increased their desire to read supplemental informational books, and newspapers, participate in creative activity in the classroom and through observation at these cultural events had improved their manners.

It was announced by the director that the Board of Education had filed an application with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, for a comprehensive cultural program for the school year 1967-68.

Community organizational representatives and guests attending were: Donald H. Campbell, Dr. Dorothy Elliott, Mrs. Peg Fields, Sister Gertrude and Sister Jane Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Darl Hinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Leatherman, Mrs. E. Lewis Peters, Mrs. August Selckmann and Mrs. Richard Summers.

Supervisors from the Board of Education, in addition to Mr. Fitts were: T. Mead Felton, Mrs. Louise F. Thompson, Robert Hess, Thomas Stilliman and William Luzier.

Pilot teachers representing the grades one, four, six, eight and ten, were: Mrs. Frances Crum, Miss Anne Lovell, Miss Joanne Runkles, Miss Ruth Stull, Mr. John Tweedy and Mrs. Charlotte Wood-
