Your columnist is the recipient of two letters this week. One is critical of the State Roads Commission for not completing the Route 15 by-pass, the most infamous two-mile stretch of highway in the state. So dangerous is "Suicide Boulevard" as it has been dubbed by many local citizens, that General Ike Eisenhower seldom travels it by automobile but does most of his commuting by helicopter to Washington. We don't know whether or not this is true or just coincidental, but come to think of it, it is a darned good idea. It's a shame we don't all have copters.

Then there's a letter, unsigned, which tends to blame Town Officials for differentiation between town ordinances, viz, teenage and adult loitering. Apparently written by a teen-ager, the writer wonders why adults are permitted to loiter on the Square while they are chased home or threatened to be arrested. The letter complains about the lack of recreational facilities here and therefore they have nothing else to do but loiter, or so-called "socializing on the Square". Until the teen-agers have a place to go for recreation, the writer asks what suggestions the Town Officials have for them? Actually folks, the letter said a lot more but due to the fact that it was not signed personally by the writer, I could not publish it, but if the Officials are interested, they may read it in this office, just to get the message across without any hard feelings.

What is the future of local business places? That's a question asked many times these days as more and more empty storefronts face passersby on the streets of Emmitsburg. Half of the Square is empty and now we learn that the famous Green Parrot Tea Shop has closed its doors, mainly due to the lack of help, I am told. As these businesses "fold" there are no replacements. The tremendous cost of opening a new business these days is a deterrent to most people to endeavor to start one. Whether or not the town is growing is a matter of conjecture. There is a steady growth of new housing apparent but the business horizon is not too brilliant. We don't profess to have the answer to the problem but we had better all do our part and try to protect the businesses we have still operating here. In just three more years we'll have another census and then perhaps we can better evaluate business conditions here. Light industry appears to be one solution and every effort by the Town and the Chamber of Commerce should be made to try and induce some manufacturing concern to locate here. Several thousands of dollars a week payrolls would considerably inject some life into the economic sickness we are now experiencing.

Garden Club Enjoys Picnic

A delightful picnic was attended by members of the Silver Fancy Garden Club on August 17 at the Greenbriar State Park, between Frederick and Hagerstown. A brief business meeting was conducted by the President, Mrs. Elwood Baumgardner.

After a delicious lunch, the afternoon was enjoyed by hiking, sitting by the beautiful lake, reading and relaxing.

The next regular meeting of the Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Eyster, Emmitsburg, on Sept. 21 at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. W. Gibbs McKenny, Jr., Maryland State President of the Federated Garden Clubs, will be the speaker. A good attendance is urged for this meeting.

Miss Warthen Becomes Bride Of Kenneth Swomley

SWOMLEY—WARTHEN

Miss Audrey Estelle Warthen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rudolph Warthen, Emmitsburg, became the bride of Kenneth Talbot Swomley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swomley, Jr., Emmitsburg, on Saturday, August 5, in St. Joseph's Church, Emmitsburg, at 12:00 noon. The nuptial Mass and double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Soffe, C.M., of Niagara University.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an A-line gown of white linen with a detachable chapel train falling from the shoulders. It was fashioned with a high rise waistline, scooped neck and elbow length sleeves. Venice lace trimmed bodice, skirt and sleeves. Her bouffant veil of pure silk illusion fell from a matching lace trimmed linen open pillbox. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white sweetheart roses centered with a white rose corsage.

The maid of honor was Miss Marilyn Burton, Emmitsburg. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Margaret Warthen, Emmitsburg and the Junior bridesmaid was Miss Lisa Warthen, Emmitsburg. Flower girl was Deborah Warthen, Emmitsburg.

The maid of honor wore a mint green cage gown of silk organza over taffeta, fashioned with modified scooped neckline and short sleeves, trimmed with Venice lace appliques. Gowns of the bridesmaids and flower girl were identical to that of the maid of honor. The bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of white daisies and ivy, and wore matching floral cluster headpieces with short bouffant veils. The flower girl carried a basket of white daisies and ivy and wore a matching headpiece.

The best man was Richard Eugene Swomley, Westminster. Ushers were Dennis McGlaughlin and David Swomley, Emmitsburg. The ring-bearer was Douglas Warthen, Emmitsburg.

Mrs. Louis Rosensteel, church organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied the vocalist, Sandra Burton, Emmitsburg, niece of the bride.

A rehearsal dinner was held at Mt. Manor Restaurant, and a reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the VFW Annex. The couple left for a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, Fla.

Upon their return, they will reside in Dillsburg, Pa. The bride is a 1966 graduate of St. Joseph's High School and attended Frederick Community College. The groom is a graduate of Emmitsburg High School and Mt. St. Mary's College. In September, he will teach at the Dillsburg Elementary School.

Band Fund Campaign Gets Good Response

The Emmitsburg Municipal Band held its monthly business meeting on Aug. 16 following a brief rehearsal. Twenty-four members were in attendance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, followed by the treasurer's report. At the time of the meeting, there was $337 in the checking account and $1,477 in the savings fund. It was reported that on the night of the door-to-door solicitation of the town, $408 was added to the uniform drive.

Some material was received and presented to the band from a uniform company, which gave the members some idea of what is available in the line of uniforms. Discussion was held on the issue of the Town Council sponsoring the band, but was put off until further reply was received from the council.

The director, Thomas Harbaugh, spoke of the possibility of participating in a ball game for the benefit of the band, or a concert on the Square, but no definite plans were made.

It was decided to keep a record of the members' attendance at rehearsals and the business meetings.

The band ended its 1967 summer parade schedule by winning second prize of $35 at the Rocky Ridge Firemen's Parade. During the summer, the band kept a perfect winning record, winning in each of its six parade appearances.

Director Harbaugh announces a series of Fall and Winter Concert dates to be revealed later.

40-Year-Old Mother Instantly Killed On Rt. 15 By-Pass

Photo shows overturned car in which Mrs. Wanda Edinger, 40-year-old mother of two met instant death following a collision with another vehicle Thursday, Aug. 17 on the Emmitsburg by-pass about a half mile north of the Pennsylvania line. (Other pictures on pages 7 and 8).

A 40-year-old mother of two children was instantly killed last Thursday evening, August 17, when the car she was driving collided with another vehicle on the Emmitsburg Rt. 15 by-pass about a half mile north of the Pennsylvania state line at approximately 7:20 p.m.

The Adams County coroner, Dr. C. G. Crist, said Mrs. Wanda Lea Edinger of Rockville, Md., was killed instantly as a result of a crushed skull. She was hurled, either by the impact, or by her vehicle rolling onto its top, from the driver's position under the steering wheel to the right side of the rear seat.

Her two children were more fortunate. Her son, James Roger McKeever, 13, Rockville, was reported uninjured by the Warner Hospital staff. Her four-year-old daughter, Sabrina Edinger, was treated at the hospital for contusions of the left side of the face and was discharged.

The driver of the other car, Frederick Vickers Reamy, 50, of Wayson's Trailer Park, Lothian, Md., was admitted as a patient at the Warner Hospital. He was removed from the scene by the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance. At the tendants in the ambulance said one arm had been "nearly cut off, it was held only by a strip of flesh."

Emmitsburg's fire co. rescue truck and a fire truck went to the scene, first to right the Edinger car and to standby in case fire should develop. Maryland State Police assisted by handling traffic. The body of Mrs. Edinger was not removed from the car until after Coroner Crist was brought to the scene to determine the cause of death.

State police are continuing their investigation into the accident which apparently occurred a few hundred feet north of the last bridge across Route 15 by-pass before it enters Maryland. When the vehicles came to rest, Reamy's foreign-make car was under the east side of the bridge in the middle of the right-of-way for the proposed additional two lanes to the by-pass.

Reamy's car was believed to have been southbound at the time of the accident. There were skid marks on Route 15 which may have been made by the Reamy car. The left front of the car was demolished.

The Edinger car was about 300 feet north of the bridge, off the west side of the highway. There were marks on the highway which may have been made by that vehicle. It apparently had been northbound. Its left front was demolished.

Two shoes were jammed between the roof of the Edinger car and the windshield.

Four-year-old Sabrina Edinger was terrified by the ambulances at the scene, and a motorist was asked to take the child to the hospital for treatment.

State police took the two children to their barracks along the Fairfield Rd. after the hospital had examined and treated them, to keep the youngsters until their grandparents could arrive for them.

Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg, was summoned to remove the body of Mrs. Edinger from the car. Later arrangements were made for the Tyson-Wheeler Funeral Home, Rockville, to remove the body to that funeral home for services.

Cumberland Twp. Police Chief Bernard V. Miller, Sr. and Emmitsburg Fire Police assisted in handling traffic at the scene. One-way traffic was maintained for some time until the area could be cleared.

K. Of C. Family Picnic Sunday

A donation of $75 was authorized for the Municipal Band uniform drive at the regular meeting of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, held Monday night in the council home, Grand Knight Ray R. Lauer presiding. Prior to the meeting Mass was celebrated in the meeting room by the chaplain, Rev. Carl J. Fives, S.T.L.

A thank-you note was read from Dr. Paul Carter for flowers sent recently when he was hospitalized.

The Grand Knight announced a national membership drive to be conducted over the next two years by the Supreme Council and named Guy A. Baker, Jr., as local chairman. Deputy Grand Knight Eugene Rosensteel, general committee chairman, called on the various subcommittees for reports. Carl A. Wetzel reported the annual crab feast of the Council would be held Sept. 24 and George L. Danner gave a report on the annual family picnic to be held this Sunday afternoon at Kump's Dam Park, starting at 12:30 o'clock. Other club activities announced were Knight of Year nominations on Sept. 18; Knight of Year balloting on Oct. 2 and the annual banquet and dance on Oct. 7.

District Deputy Paul A. Keepers announced the installation of officers would be held in the council home on Saturday evening, Sept. 9, starting at 7:30 p.m. Members' families and friends are welcome at this installation, the first time in history that such installations have been made public.

One new member, Charles B. Shorb, was voted into the organization. The Grand Knight announced that at the next meeting a general discussion would be held regarding consolidating the Council with the Home Assn. and leaving full control of the Home Assn. in the hands of the Council's officers.

Frederick Radio Changes Hands

Radio stations WFMD-AM and FM, in Frederick, Md., have been sold subject to the prior consent of the FCC.

It was announced this week, by Mrs. Evelyn C. Leonard, that Jim Gibbons, well-known sports commentator and Washington Radio and TV personality, has purchased the Frederick stations.

The powerful stations, covering a ten county area, with an available listening audience of over a million persons, were originated by the late Laurence Leonard, in 1936. WFMD-AM, now broadcasting fulltime at 930 on the dial, with 5000 Watts power, was put on the air as a 500 Watt daytimer and brought to its present multi-county coverage under the guidance of Mr. Leonard. WFMD-FM, with its transmitter high on a mountain in Gambrill State Park, just outside of Frederick, started broadcasting in February of 1961. It's at 99.9 Megacycles, with 9000 Watts power and separate programming.

Pending FCC approval of transfer, the Monocacy Broadcasting Company will continue under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn C. Leonard.

Taneytown Will Spray Mosquitoes

The Taneytown water system was discussed at a recent meeting of the City Council.

The Huth Engineering Company was engaged to study the possibility of tying in its water system with the city's system. A representative of the Company believes this possible.

If the two systems are united, pressure will be equalized thru-out and distribution simplified.

It was announced that the new well below the creamery has been completed. Consulting Geologist Humphreyville said that the depth of 600 feet is sufficient.

The $16,300 well is expected to pump 298 gallons per minute the year around. The recommended pumping rate is 255 gallons per minute.

In other business, the council announced that arrangements have been made to purchase mosquito insecticide from the Dell Chemical Corporation.

The company will furnish a fogger for dispensing the insecticide but it will not be available until the end of August.

Co. Commissioner Would Publicize Teachers' Report

The president of the Frederick County Commissioners confirmed Tuesday night that the controversial FCTA report on last spring's teacher boycott is critical of the County Commissioners.

The report, presented to the County Commissioners by a delegation from the FCTA during a closed door session Tuesday night, also contained several mis-statements about the commissioners, Charles E. Collins, commissioners' president, said.

Collins refused to go into details on the criticisms or mis-statements, saying that since the report was written by the FCTA to the school board any comment on its contents should come from one of those sources.

However, the commissioners' president reiterated his statement made after the report was first brought to light during a school board meeting earlier this month that the document should be made public.

Collins said he did not yet know if he would take any action to correct the statements about the commissioners which he considered inaccurate.

"I don't know if any action need be taken," Collins said, "since school board members I've talked to have said they don't believe the statements."

Tuesday night's presentation was preceded by a statement from Thompson saying relations between the commissioners and FCTA had improved so much since the report was written that its comments do not necessarily apply at this time, Collins said.

Asked to explain the meaning of the statement, Thompson said his group feels the general atmosphere between the educational system and county officials has improved since last spring.

He would not comment on whether the statement was an implication that the report criticized the county commissioners.

Wallace E. Hutton, the only other commissioner present at the meeting, declined to comment on the report.

Before the meeting began, Thompson asked members of the press to leave. When asked why, he said he had no authority from the executive council of the FCTA to present the report at a public meeting.

Collins granted Thompson's request, adding that he personally favored an open meeting.

Former FCTA president George Seaton, FCTA vice president Heisley Corun, two representatives of the Maryland State Teachers' Association, Superintendent of Schools John L. Carnochan and School Board President Hallor Best, were also present.

Service Station Operator Honored

Paul Dudash, local Phillips dealer at Emmitsburg, Md., received national recognition in the August issue of the "Salesman," a publication of Phillips Petroleum Company.

In a double page spread, the tabloid shows pictures of 58 Good Neighbor winners in the United States for the second quarter of 1967.

Phillips Petroleum Company has committed itself to be one of the leaders in the national program to "Keep America Beautiful." And the winning of this award for station cleanliness, neatness, and good neighborliness is recognition of Dudash's dedicated interest in this most worthwhile program.

An award of Phillips Petroleum Company stock to Dudash is indicative of the interest Phillips has in this national effort.

Local Youth

Member Of Caravan

The experiences of one 1967 National Youth Caravan Team of the United Church of Christ will be related at Incarnation Church in Emmitsburg on Sunday, Aug. 27, at the 10:45 a.m. Worship Service. Mr. W. Rudolph Chatlos, who served as one of the forty U.C.C. Denominational Youth Volunteers this summer, will tell about the work of his particular Caravan Team done in suburban towns and cities in the southern section of Greater Chicago.

Following a five day intensive training and orientation session at the Voluntary Service Center of the United Church of Christ near Pottstown, Pa., Rudy flew by jet from Philadelphia to Chicago with three other young people which made up one of the ten teams of Caravaners for the summer. There were eight other such teams working in various other areas of the continental United States as well as one team working in Hawaii.

Each team is composed of young people who have volunteered their services to the church for the greater part of the summer. The primary purpose of these caravan teams as they visit some fifty different congregations of the United Church of Christ is to strengthen the youth ministry of each host church. The leader of the team of which Rudy was a member was a young lady from Reading, Pa., who is a college upperclassman. The other girl on his team was a recent high school graduate from the southern part of California, and the fourth member was a young man from Montana who is a college student.

Caravans give young people an opportunity to accept responsibility in witnessing to the message and mission of the Church, in offering service in the name of Christ, and in experiencing Christian fellowship. In so doing, their own understanding of themselves and their relationship to God and their fellowman is strengthened.

Some of the places visited by Rudy's Team of Caravaners were Streamwood, Hinsdale, Elgin, and Homewood, Illinois, representing local congregations numbering from 150 to 3,000 members. Spending an entire week in a local church, a caravan team becomes very much a part of the total life of the congregation by the time it moves on to its next host church.

At the 10:45 a.m. Worship Hour on Sunday at Incarnation Church, Rudy will relate to the congregation some of the experiences of his team. Colored slides will be shown to illustrate some of the work of this team and to see the actual churches which were visited.

Rudy will also participate in the 9 a.m. Worship Service at St. James U.C.C. Church of the Incarnation-St. James Charge. St. James Church is located on the Harney Road, three miles S.W. of Littlestown, Pa. John C. Chatlos, his father, is pastor of the Charge.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend either or both of the Worship Services on Sunday.

Senior Citizens

Enjoy Outing

On Wednesday, August 9, the Spanish class of the Senior Citizens Club were royally entertained at the beautiful country home of Mrs. Mary Famos. A tour of the delightful old farmhouse disclosed some very interesting furnishings and art. A delicious luncheon was served the group, after which an hour or more was spent delving into the intricacies of the Spanish language, under the tutelage of Dr. Irma Ganzaes of St. Joseph College.

The members present were: Mrs. Elizabeth Nester, Mrs. Margaret Wilhide, Mrs. Virginia Sanders, Mrs. Kathryn Kloskey and Mrs. Hazel Caldwell. Guests were: Mrs. George Morrison, Miss Elizabeth Wilhide and Mr. Lester Nester.

A hearty vote of thanks was expressed to the charming hostess for such a gracious entertainment.

For the next monthly meeting of the Senior Citizens Club, Tuesday, Sept. 19, there is a possibility of another outdoor event and picnic before cold weather sets in. Watch for further notice.

Former Resident Receives Master's Degree

GRADUATION DAY—In cap and gown, Mrs. Catherine Edwards prepares to receive her master of education degree from the University of Virginia—on crutches because she broke her hip only a few weeks ago. Present from their Richmond home to witness the event are her family, (from left, in rear) Mary Jo; Landon, her husband; Lanny; and (foreground) Tommy, Valerie and Timmy.

Mrs. Catherine Edwards of Richmond, Va., who received her master of education degree recently from the U. of Va., has six assets that she says were particularly helpful to her in earning her masters.

They are Valerie, 8; Timmy, 10; Tommy, 12; Mary Jo, 15; and Lanny, 17; and Landon B. Edwards, who is in the office equipment business in Richmond.

The first five of the assets are Mrs. Edwards' children. The sixth is her husband.

"This degree really belongs to them," she says. "Without my children I couldn't have done it . . . and my husband has been wonderful."

Mrs. Edwards holds her B.S. degree from St. Joseph College at Emmitsburg, Md., but her teaching career didn't start until about eight years ago when Richmond needed substitutes. She did some substituting and tutoring of children in need of special help. About four years ago she became a special education teacher in the Chesterfield County school system and three years ago she began the long march towards her masters in special ed.

Besides spending two full summer sessions away from home, she has been at the University one night a week during the fall and spring semesters and also was there for a shorter summer course.

Mrs. Edwards readily admits that earning a degree in 1967 is a hard job—even with six assets like hers.

She's used to studying in supermarket lines and in hospital rooms. "Just everywhere," she adds.

Hospital rooms are particularly significant for the Edwards family since Landon fractured his leg in 1966 and Catherine's mother, Mrs. Valerie Overmann, was struck by a car in April.

That same week in April Timmy fractured his arm, and the following week Lanny dislocated a finger.

Then with only a few weeks to go until graduation day, Catherine broke her hip.

Anybody less used to accidents might have given up, but Catherine Edwards just settled down at University Hospital and continued to study.

She was graduated on crutches.

The six assets and Grandmother Overmann were on hand to witness the big event.

Mrs. Edwards said particular credit goes to Valerie who looks after Grandmother Overmann's medicine; Tommy who manages the housekeeping money and does the daily shopping, and Mary Jo, who looks after the household and does the cooking, also while attending summer school.

SHAPE Headquarters in Belgium

The recently completed Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe (SHAPE) building is located 30 miles from Brussels near Mons, Belgium. Since SHAPE moved from France earlier this year, difficulties have occurred with postal deliveries. The Belgian government has ended the confusion by establishing SHAPE, Belgium, as the official postal address for SHAPE, which is the internationally manned headquarters in Europe for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's unified defense organization. To write to someone in SHAPE, simply use SHAPE, Belgium, or, if using Army Post Office facilities, add APO New York 09055. (ANF)

Eye Clinic
Makes Report

The Community Eye Clinic in Gettysburg, Pa., has now completed its first full year of operation. The clinic was opened on August 10, 1966.

During the 50 clinic days, there were 1,191 visits made by 595 patients to the clinic area located on the first floor of the Annie M. Warner Hospital. Also, there were 77 admissions to Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia for evaluation and treatment. In addition, minor surgery was done several times at Annie Warner Hospital.

The unit has been able to provide substantial eye care to some individuals largely cut off from medical service by distances or uncertainties of travel to larger centers.

There have been many sources of referral to the clinic. Among them are the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, the Office for the Visually and Physically Handicapped (formerly Office for the Blind) of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the County Boards of Assistance in Adams and surrounding counties, and the local school nurses.

The clinic is operated in Gettysburg by Mrs. Jean Dagenhardt, R.N., field nurse, and Mrs. Ethel Lentz, R.N., the clinic nurse. It is staffed by Dr. Morton Richman of Philadelphia, a member of the staff of Wills Eye Hospital and by senior resident surgeons from Wills. Supervisors for the program are Dr. Hunter R. Stokes, Project Director and Dr. Arthur H. Keeney, Ophthalmologist-in-Chief, both of Wills Eye Hospital.

The program is sponsored jointly by the Neurological and Sensory Disease Service Programs of the United States Public Health Service and the Gettysburg Lions Club in conjunction with the Wills Eye Hospital and Research Institute in Philadelphia.

Maryland entered training during the first year of the educational program under the 1966 GI Bill, Rufus H. Wilson, Manager of the VA Regional Office in Baltimore, said this week.

Wilson predicted an even more successful program in fiscal year 1968, with well over 600,000 veterans expected to enter colleges and universities throughout the country, 5,000 of them in Maryland.

The peak enrollment month during fiscal 1967 saw 323,000 students on campuses, but that figure is certain to be exceeded during the coming year.

The average GI Bill student during FY 1967 was 28 years old, and 45 per cent of the students had one or more dependents. Seventy-six per cent of the veterans entered courses at the college level, compared to about 30 per cent when the Korean GI Bill was in effect.

Approximately 15 per cent embarked on graduate studies. Statistics show that 93 per cent of the veteran-students had completed four years of high school.

For 35 per cent of the students, it was their first year of college, Wilson said.

Cuba's Latin American Guerrillas

Curly-haired Douglas Bravo is the Hitler-size Cuban-trained Commander-in-chief of Venezuela's F.A.L.N., the Communist-led, Cuban-armed guerrilla force dedicated to the overthrow of the elected Venezuela government and the United States. He says his well-trained, well-armed guerrilla armies, which already have wrought terror thruout much of Venezuela, are part of a larger international force which will overrun and capture ("liberate") the Western Hemisphere. He and his guerrilla troops speak frankly (to sympathetic newspapermen) of their connection with Cuba.

"We can say," Bravo told a reporter for the Mexico City leftist publication Sucesos, "that the Cuban movement is the vanguard of the movement of liberation of all of America; of an army which extends from Mexico to Patagonia (end of the world), which is locked in combat with another army . . . (Ours) is an army which will keep on growing and it has but one mission: to defeat the other army—the army of the rich, the powerful, the army of the gringos (Americans) and the oligarchy (Venezuela government)."

Killing And Plundering
The interview with Bravo and his F.A.L.N. staff was in a high mountain fastness not far from Caracas. The reporter was Mario Menendez Rodriguez. They told of raids they had made against Venezuela army units, of terrorist acts, and wiping out of a whole community owned by the British company, Turagua. When the administrators (of the British company) had been "subdued" (presumably to death), "some of us," said Francisco Prada, commander in charge of the plains region, "proceeded to take over the installations, the very comfortable homes the administrators lived in . . . Once we had subdued all the personnel, we sprinkled gasoline over the installations and set fire to them, except the little houses the workers lived in. Then we proceeded to divide up the abundant stores: fabric, medicine, food, supplies of all sort, and everything which was there carried off whatever he could." Such terrorist raids, carried out with contemptuous disregard of government authority, thus demonstrating unchallenged power, are calculated to frighten the peasant population into obedience and finally alliance.

"The news got around," exclaimed Prada proudly. "Everybody was so impressed that groups sprang up and began to call themselves guerrilla bands!"

USA The Main Target
These Venezuela revolutionaries, like their comrades in all the other Latin American countries, show grim determination on their larger goals. Luban Petkoff, tall and wearing a heavy Castro beard, is second in command of F.A.L.N. He said: "We do not see the liberation of Venezuela as the liberation merely of our country, of the land in which we were born. No; when we speak of the liberation of Venezuela we mean the liberation of all of Latin America . . . We interpret the meaning in international solidarity in a truly revolutionary manner, and thus we are ready to fight, to fight against imperialism until it no longer exists; we are ready to remain under arms until we see U. S. imperialism until it no longer exists; we are ready to remain under arms until we see U. S. imperialism, in particular, reduced to impotence."

Petkoff, talking freely to the leftist Mexico City journal, seemed to clearly identify the fountainhead (in Cuba) of the military strength of the guerrilla forces now active throughout Latin America. He described a guerrilla landing, from the Caribbean, on wooded, mountainous shores of Falcon in extreme northern Venezuela (facing Cuba). "I was assigned the mission," he said, "of leading into Venezuela a group of patriots who had thoroughly studied, in the places where the battles are going on (Cuba, North Vietnam, and Czechoslovakia are the principle training grounds), the most outstanding guerrilla movements of recent times, especially the Vietnamese . . . The men of the group arrived by various means at the Isle of Margarita . . . A launch was ready for us, together with arms . . . Although the government learned of the landing almost the same day, it was impossible for the 'puppet army' to encircle or divide us . . ."

The Shipping Scheme

We have quoted the above in order to tie it in with the following description of how an estimated 10,000 trained guerrillas a year are being dispatched from Cuba, with heavy arms trans-shipped out of Cuba from Russia, Belgium and Czechoslovakia:

Cuba obtains fishing boats (or fishing boat blueprints) from Peru, Colombia, Brazil, Ecuador, Venezuela and other Latin American countries. Cuban shipyards make replicas,

WHAT'S A FISHING MOTOR

One popular misconception about outboard motors used for fishing is that they are small, temperamental and coated with fish scales.

Once, this might have been a valid observation. Today, however, the outboard is found in such a wide number of fishing situations that size is no criterion, and neither is the tendency to be temperamental.

So, what IS a fishing motor? According to the fishing folks at Mercury outboards, this label can be hung on any powerplant showing a rig through any waters for fishing — from placid ponds to the briny deep.

Horsepower requirements are determined by the type of fishing in which an angler engages most often and the style craft used.

On small lakes or streams where johnboats, canoes and 12-foot skiffs are adequate, the 3.9-hp engine is seen most frequently.

The 6- and 9.9-hp motors outnumber other power classes. They fit the country-wide average of fishing situations where power needs are matched to lightweight craft and reasonably protected waters.

On large impoundments where distances to good fishing spots are considerable, 20- and 35-hp motors are common. These units will push a boat along at a fast clip, one of the reasons they are favored by professional fishing guides.

Another favorite of many guides is the 50-hp outboard that can drive a large, heavily laden skiff with ease. It's also a good choice on small family runabouts which serve in dual roles for both water skiing and fishing.

The 65- to 110-hp outboards are common on the Great Lakes and in saltwater where twin installations of these units are familiar.

So, say the Mercury lads, you can erase the old image of fishing motors or most of it anyway. If there are a few old scales sticking around, it's a tribute to the owner's fishing abilities.

and provide these "native" boats with forged papers. The coastal police of the countries where the guerrillas and arms are to be landed seldom pay any attention to the "native fishing boats." The arms, encased in rubber bags, are dropped into the ocean just off the coast, and under cover of night, the "fishermen" return and pick them up. This is the testimony given to the U. S. Senate by Antonio Apud, who was Chief of the Department of Industries under Castro. Until Apud got his family out of Cuba he "played along" with Castro.

Next week: Cuba: Headquarters for Guerrilla Warfare.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Planning a trip to the mountains to get away from the heat for a week or so? So are several million other American families at this time of year.

The American Medical Association cautions that if you're headed for some really high mountains, above 7,000 feet, it would be wise to make the change gradually if you wish to avoid "high altitude sickness." Anyone who has made a trip to Mexico City can tell you of his troubles in this respect.

Try, if you can, to make the ascent over a span of days so that your body can adjust to the oxygen-poor "thin air" at higher elevations, cautions Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association.

Symptoms of high-altitude sickness are drowsiness; headache; blueness of the nails, lips, nose and ears; a feeling of warmth and flushing of the face soon after arrival; troubled sleep; irritability and shortness of breath.

There are some precautions that may help prevent distress if you have to make a fast trip from a low level to high elevations. Before the trip, get a good night's rest and avoid alcoholic beverages and heavy smoking. A good breakfast an hour or so before departure is all right, but no food should be taken during the rest of the trip.

Reduce physical activity during the trip. Sit quietly in the high altitude area, go to bed for a few hours and eat very lightly. Indulge in only light physical activity during the first 24 hours. Walk, don't run, if you have to climb steps to a hotel or lodge.

Patients with certain heart and respiratory conditions may encounter more serious discomfort by abrupt changes to high altitudes. However, physicians have noted that most patients with caria or pulmonary disease who can move around and engage in moderate activity at sea level most often can tolerate altitudes of 7,000 to 8,000 feet without serious effects.

If you have doubts as to whether you or someone in your family may suffer from a trip to the high mountains, consult your physician in advance.

Most agree, these days, that the ideal mountain rifle should weigh no more than about eight pounds complete; it should have a 4X (or variable) scope, and the barrel should not exceed 22 inches in length. The calibre should be a "flat-shooting" one—for the reason that if you misjudge range (easy to do) by as much as 50 yards or so, you'll still (all other things being equal) hit very close to where you aim.—Sports Afield.

The nuclear powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, from keel to masthead, is as tall as a 23 story building. It is powered by eight nuclear reactors and propelled by four screws, each as tall as a two story building.

That the aforesaid tract or parcel of real estate is a part of the same tract or parcel of land described and conveyed in a Deed from Sarah Ellen Knapp Addoms to Charlotte Wheeler Hilleary, widow, Harry Wheeler Hilleary and Sallie Worthington Hilleary, dated February 9, 1914, and recorded in Liber 308, folio 198, one of the Land Records of Frederick County, Maryland; a copy of said Deed is attached to the Bill of Complaint and prayed to be taken as a part thereof, marked "Exhibit 4"; that said Deed marked Exhibit 4, aforesaid, recites that Sarah Ellen Knapp Addoms is the "wife of Charles Addoms", but said Charles Addoms did not join in said conveyance.

That although the said Sarah Ellen Knapp Addoms, the wife of Charles Addoms, is deceased and the said Charles Addoms has failed to file an election to take dower with the Orphans' Court or Register of Wills for Frederick County as required by Article 46, Section 4, of the Annotated Code of Maryland, 1957 Edition, within the time prescribed by law, the failure of the said Charles Addoms to join in the aforesaid Deed dated February 9, 1914, constitutes a cloud on the record title of your Complainants to the property which is the subject of these proceedings; that any claim of dower which may be asserted by said Charles Addoms is without right, and he has no estate, right, title or interest in said property or any portion thereof.

That although Ann T. Hilleary, Janet H. Hilleary, Bettie L. Hilleary, Ridgely B. Hilleary, Richard W. Hilleary, H. Worthington Hilleary and William Murray Hilleary are deceased and their unknown spouses have failed to file an election to take dower with the Orphans' Court or Register of Wills for Frederick County as required by Article 46, Section 4, of the Annotated Code of Maryland, 1957 Edition, within the time prescribed by law, the failure of the aforesaid spouses of the aforesaid Grantors to join in the Deed dated September 12, 1931, constitutes a cloud on the record title of your Complainants to the property which is the subject of these proceedings; that any claim of dower asserted by the aforesaid spouses of the aforesaid Grantors is without right, and they have no estate, right, title or interest in said property or any portion thereof.

That your Complainants and their Attorneys have made reasonable efforts to ascertain the address of Charles Addoms aforesaid and have made reasonable efforts to ascertain the marital status of the aforesaid Grantors in Exhibit 3, and the names and addresses of any of said persons, but have been unsuccessful in their efforts to do so.

That your Complainants desire to have said cloud upon their title to the property which is the subject of these proceedings removed so that they may have a good and marketable fee simple title and may sell and convey or otherwise deal with such property without regard to the aforesaid cloud upon their title; that although your Complainants hold a valid, fee simple title to the aforesaid property the same cannot be established of record without the removal of the aforesaid cloud upon the title of your Complainants. That your Complainants have no adequate remedy at law. To all of which an Affidavit is made.

It is thereupon this 4th day of August, 1967, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, in Equity, ORDERED that the Complainants, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in Frederick County, once in each of four successive weeks prior to the 9th day of September, 1967, giving notice to the said Defendants as listed in the titling hereof of the object and substance of this Bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 10th day of October, 1967, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Education Enhances Sexual Fulfillment

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — In addition to all the other advantages a college education gives a woman, she is also likely to have a more satisfying married sex life than her less educated sisters. This is one conclusion to be drawn from a study of 196 women college graduates made by Prof. Robert R. Bell, sociologist of Temple University. He reported his findings to physicians who attended the recent American Medical Association convention here.

About four of five women queried felt that they and their husbands had made a "very good" or "good" sexual adjustment in the course of their marriage; one out of five rated the adjustment as either only "fair," "poor," or "very poor." The women, all living with their husbands, had been married a median of 4.2 years, and were about 26 years of age.

In contrast, a study made some time ago of women with less than a college education found that only one-fourth of their number "gave any indication of mutual enjoyment in their marital coitus," according to Dr. Bell.

Frequency Okay
The college educated wives were also asked how they felt about the frequency of sexual relations in their marriage. About 70 per cent said the frequency was "about right"; 6 per cent "too frequent"; and about 25 per cent "too infrequent."

That only 6 per cent responded "too frequent" indicates a change from the traditional attitudes centered around the husband's needs, Dr. Bell noted.

He pointed out that in studies made in the 1920's, "two-thirds of the married women stated a less intense and less frequent desire for sex than did their husbands, and very few gave any indication of a desire for sex that was greater than that of the husband."

Matters sexual improved, apparently, as time marched on. For according to an important study made in the early 1940's, Dr. Bell declared, 64 per cent of wives reported satisfaction with the frequency of marital coitus, while 16 per cent said it was too frequent and 20 per cent too infrequent.

Length Of Marriage
Whether married less than three years, between three and six years, or between seven and 10 years, wives' adjustment to sex in marriage did not differ according to the length of marriage. But there was some evidence that wives felt their husbands were less satisfied with marital sex the longer the marriage.

Only 14 per cent of husbands were thought by their wives to have made a "fair, poor, or very poor" sexual adjustment when the marriage was less than three years old. But the figure jumped to 26 per cent of the husbands when the marriage was between three and six years old and to 30 per cent of the husbands it was between seven and 10 years old.

College educated women apparently remained satisfied with the frequency of sexual relations throughout the course of their marriage, although there is some "slight evidence" that with greater length of marriage the wife may be more apt to define sexual relations as "too frequent."

Sexual Balance

This study and others indicate Dr. Bell believes, that "the traditional values that minimized the feelings of personal satisfaction for wives have been greatly altered."

"The college educated wife is not only expecting, but also demanding, greater personal sexual satisfaction in marriage."

As more and more restrictions are removed from the woman, and she is encouraged to achieve personal sexual satisfaction, according to Dr. Bell she may show greater desire for frequency of sexual intercourse. How will this affect married couples?

A number may find themselves in the unaccustomed situation of the woman having greater sexual interests and desires than the men. Whether men can fulfill these needs as they grow older remains to be seen. A new kind of a marriage problem may be presented to physicians in the future, Dr. Bell observed.

Cong. Long Says 'Experts' Blunder

Rep. Clarence D. Long (D. Md.) this week uncovered two additional blunders—both in Maryland—by Coverdale & Colpitts, the "experts" who recommended first priority to a parallel Bay bridge.

Today's disclosures show that the firm overestimated 1966 traffic by 41 per cent on the Potomac River Bridge and by 57 per cent on the Susquehanna River Bridge.

On the Potomac toll bridge, the consultants predicted 1966 traffic of 3.2 million vehicles, but actual traffic was only 1.9 million—an error of 1.3 million, or 41 per cent.

Coverdale & Colpitts made even greater errors in its forecasts for the Susquehanna toll bridge. For 1966, after the Kennedy Expressway opened, the bridge was traveled by only 5.9 million vehicles, compared with the prediction of 13.8 million—an error of 7.9 million, or 57 percent.

Even prior to the 1963 opening of the competing Kennedy Expressway, Susquehanna traffic fell below Coverdale & Colpitts projections. For 1962, the firm forecast 12 million vehicles. The actual number was only 10 million—an error of 2 million, or over 16 per cent.

As a result of the firm's errors on these two spans, Coverdale & Colpitts report, made in 1964, overestimated combined traffic from Maryland's bridge-tunnel toll package.

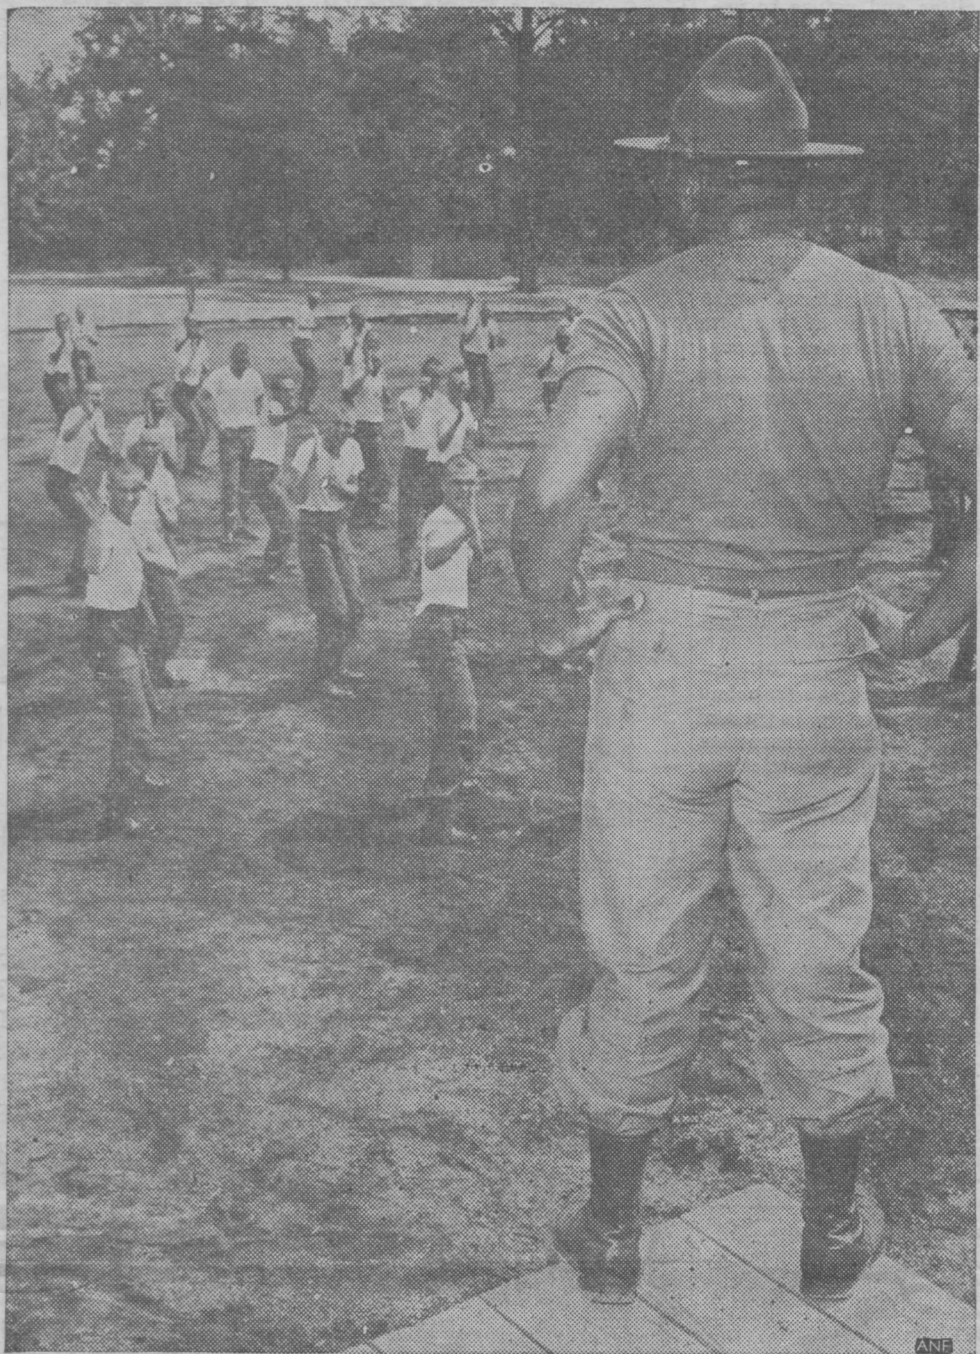

For 1966, Coverdale & Colpitts predicted combined traffic of 36 million vehicles on the Harbor Tunnel and the three toll bridges. Actual traffic was only 30.9 million—an error of 5.1 million, or 14 per cent.

Because revenue from the Harbor Tunnel and the Bay bridge could be used to pay interest and redeem bonds, the blunders on the two Maryland bridges have not—so far—had as serious consequences as those on six other Coverdale & Colpitts projects recently uncovered by Rep. Long in other states:

Three of these projects are in default on interest payments to bond holders. A fourth is paying interest out of borrowed money. On the fifth and sixth projects, tolls had to be raised sharply in an attempt to make up for traffic deficiencies. Even with higher tolls, revenue is still below the firm's predictions.

Scores of Doors Multiply Charms of Colonial House

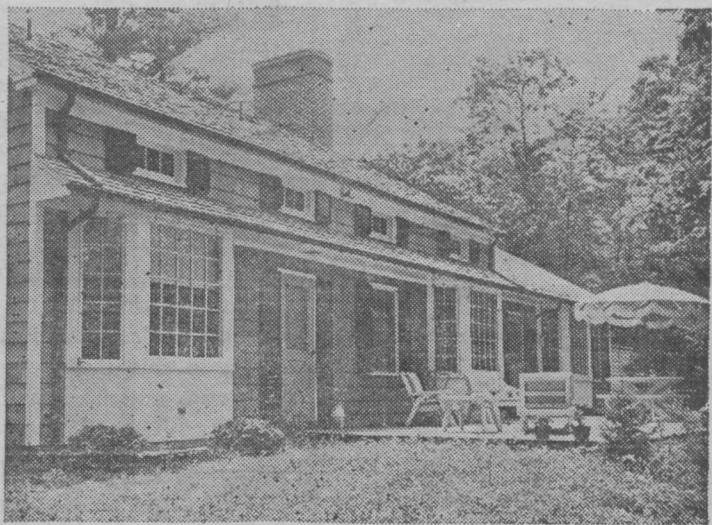

Would you believe a house with 69 doors? And each door selected to heighten the home's charm, architectural decor and striking attractiveness?

This emphasis on doors is a highlight of a New England style home in Litchfield, Connecticut, owned by Col. and Mrs. Bernard W. McGinnis (she's food and equipment editor for Woman's Day magazine.) In the house's eleven rooms, a variety of stock wood doors has been used for entrances, closets and cabinets to add good looks, natural warmth and New England practicality. The house itself was planned for this triple effect.

Built on a rocky shelf of land in the midst of woodlands, the two-story house has the appearance of a traditional Colonial farmstead, with weathered shingle siding, shutters, small-paned wood windows and wood panel doors. Everything else about it is modern, from an electric heating system to washable wallpaper. Even the Colonial look is achieved with modern materials that offer up-to-the-minute efficiency and minimal maintenance.

For example, the windows, doors and shutters are stock units of ponderosa pine, precision-made and chemically treated against weather abuse. The windows have snap-in grills that give a small-pane appearance, but can be removed for window washing ease.

Both traditional and modern stock door styles have been used to beautiful advantage. The front entrance, graced by a covered passageway that connects it with the workshop and garage, is an Early American eight-panel door. Two Colonial dutch doors lead from the rear of the house to a spacious patio. Inside all room entries are panel doors, while closet and cabinet doors are modern lowered sliding or folding units. The closets are exceptionally large — one has eight folding doors — and small lowered doors have been used for bathroom cabinets.

A variety of attractive door and window styles — all stock units of ponderosa pine — gives this house an authentic Colonial look. Three wide bay windows allow an expansive view of the outdoors from the kitchen, family room and den. Two attractive dutch doors with matching combination doors give ready access to the patio.

An unusual feature of a spacious downstairs living and dining area is a "wall" of lowered folding doors. When extended to full length, the door wall divides the area into separate and private entities. When the doors are folded back against each other, the area becomes one large room, 33 by 15 feet. Since the McGinnis' entertain frequently, they devised this method of adapting the room for both small and large parties.

Because of her professional interest in food and efficient housekeeping methods, Mrs. McGinnis was determined to have a well-planned kitchen and an easy-to-care-for house. Her kitchen is a corridor style with all electric appliances placed along two walls. There's plenty of countertop space and a huge pantry-cupboard with revolving shelves.

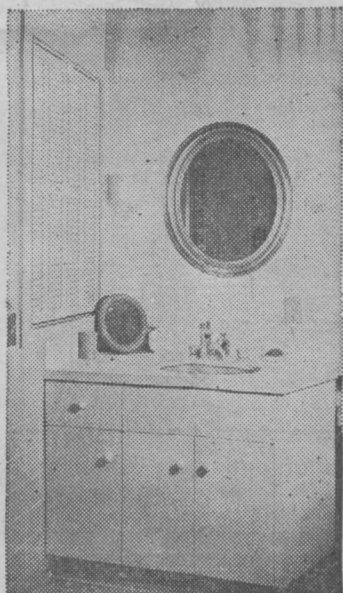

Electric heat was chosen because it keeps dust to a minimum, eliminates the need for bulky equipment, and allows individual room regulation. Heat is turned off in the upstairs guestrooms when they are not in use, and a folding panel door at the top of the staircase is closed. This seals off that portion of the house and keeps fuel bills down.

Fuel costs are also lowered by the use of wood windows and doors. The natural insulating quality of wood sash cuts heat loss substantially and also prevents bothersome condensation.

The efficiency and good looks of wood windows were equally important to the McGinnis'. In the rear of the house, they used three ponderosa pine stock bay windows with snap-in grills. The windows add to the Colonial decor and give the kitchen, family room and den a wide view of the outdoors.

The McGinnis' attractive, efficient house is a practical example of how Colonial charm and contemporary convenience can be combined through the use of modern building materials.

Modern bathrooms are stressing good looks and convenience; achieved here with pretty accessories, a countertop lavatory and roomy storage cabinets. Special feature is a built-in wall cabinet with attractive stock louver doors of ponderosa pine.

Wood Look Adds Warmth To Bathroom

The bathroom—which used to be overlooked at remodeling time — is getting a lot of attention these days from home decorators.

Bathroom convenience is being stressed with double wash basins, built-in vanities, single-handle faucets and spacious storage closets. Basic fixtures like the tub and toilet are now available in attractive colors and styles. And, the warm look of wood has been introduced to counteract the bathroom's formerly dull, antiseptic appearance.

Wood louver doors are being used extensively for cabinets and closets. Easy-to-install stock units of ponderosa pine are available in many styles, and can be painted to match the room decor or simply stained or varnished to highlight their rich, natural grain. Louver doors are especially practical in high-humidity bathrooms because the louvers allow a free flow of air in closets and prevent mildew.

Decorative wood shutters are often used to flank a bathroom window, and operating shutters are used as an attractive substitute for window curtains.

BABSON

Writes . . .

Babson's Point Of View On:
When To Buy A Home

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 24—Right now, people in practically every community in the United States are trying to decide when is the best time to buy a home. A good many of them are shying away because of high costs . . . not realizing that postponement will gain them little or nothing.

Prices For Land

Parcels of land in some sections may be slow to appreciate, but prices for most large tracts in the United States are firmly locked in a long-term uptrend. Advancing population and industrial expansion, as well as the encroachment of superhighways and sprawling airports, are causing higher land tags generally — almost from month to month.

Of course these values could dip in time of widespread economic recession. Also, parcels in certain localities could weaken because of a deteriorating neighborhood or business district. So, if you have been holding on to plans to build or buy a home because you expect a worthwhile slide-off in land prices, forget it!

Building Costs

And unless you should eventually happen upon a lucky deal, there's not too much chance either that a postponement will get you any great cutback in building costs or in the price of an existing home. Quotes for labor and materials are trending upward, reflecting costlier wage and fringe — benefit packages obtained by employees in the building trades and reflecting also the impact of heavier taxes and more liberal minimum-wage laws.

In the cast of existing houses, there has been a fairly steady uptrend in prices in recent years. Used houses sold in May of this year brought a median price nearly $700.00 above that attained a year earlier, according to a countrywide survey made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Chances are that prices will rise as much or more in the year ahead.

Mortgage Money

The pressures of the Vietnam war and of the government's ambitious Great Society programs, plus record expansion in expenditures for new and updated plant and equipment, have created an excessive demand for capital. This has raised mortgage rates to the highest levels in many a decade. There is only scant hope that they will decline more than fractionally any time soon.

But mortgage rates and the availability of mortgage money do vary considerably from area to area, and even from bank to bank in the same area. In June, the average interest rate on new mortgages was 6.29%, —up from 6.28% in May; and in many parts of the country mortgages can be negotiated at rates closer to, or even below, 6%. Of course, as a general rule you will pay a good deal more in the West, where rates have ruled much higher for many years. The important point is: If you shop carefully, you can probably get a better mortgage deal than you expect . . . even in these days of high interest rates and tighter availability.

Personal Considerations

With the exception of the very newly married, whose resources may be too slender to warrant building or buying a home at this time, conditions probably are not such as to warrant your postponing the building or purchase of a home which you need or could use to good advantage right now. In the matter of a home, personal considerations should rule. Any time is the right time to build or buy if the investment will result in healthier, happier living for family members.

But whether you build or buy, investigate carefully, plan wisely, "cutting your cloth" — and the size and over-all cost of the house — to what you need for gracious (not extravagant) living and what you can afford without going too deeply into debt.

Brewster Bill Would Help
Small Businesses

Senator Daniel B. Brewster (D-Md.) announced today that he will co-sponsor legislation establishing a Federal insurance program for small businesses unable to obtain reasonable coverage for losses due to crime.

Brewster said the measure, introduced by Senator George A. Smathers (D-Fla.), would have particular significance for Baltimore and other large cities, where owners of small business concerns have experienced difficulty in obtaining insurance in some neighborhoods.

"There appears to be a definite indication that some insurance firms black-out certain areas in our large cities and refuse to provide coverage in these areas. Or, if coverage is provided, it is at the cost of exorbitant premiums," Brewster said.

"The black-out areas by and large are neighborhoods that suffer from a high incidence of crime and vandalism of all types — holdups, burglaries, broken windows, etc.

"Some small business owners and proprietors in these areas have been forced out of business because of financial losses not covered by insurance. Others have taken drastic steps on their own in an effort to protect their investments.

"The legislation I am sponsoring with Senator Smathers is vitally necessary if for no other reason than to protect the interests of small business concerns in order to preserve free competitive enterprise," Brewster declared.

Brewster said he hoped the proposed Federal small business crime protection insurance program would induce private insurance firms to relax their restrictions in city ghetto areas.

Under the legislation, the program would be established in the Small Business Administration under a special nine-member Board of Directors.

The program would provide, in the language of the bill, "insurance and reinsurance against loss by small business concerns due to criminal activity for which insurance or reinsurance from other sources is not available on reasonable terms."

The small business concerns covered by the program would pay premiums to the Government that should be adequate to cover all claims, and the insurance program thereby would be self-sustaining, Brewster said.

Students Awarded
State Scholarships

State Senator Goodloe E. Byron this week released a list of his scholarship appointments. In naming the scholarship nominees, Senator Byron said, "All endeavors have been made to select qualified students based on the statewide competitive examination." Three scholarships for Thurmont District listed are: Virginia Birely, Salisbury State College; Thomas H. Blair, Mt. St. Mary's College, and D. Douglas Metcalfe, University of Md.

"The Yankee Trader"

The door-to-door salesman — that uniquely American figure — has a history that goes as far back as the very beginnings of our nation itself. Originally, he was the New England "Yankee Trader" who followed the frontier westward on foot, on horseback, and by wagon to open new markets for young and struggling American manufacturers.

Traveling the rugged countryside alone, he fought wind and dust storms, heavy blizzards, and floods to bring a little of the "good life" of the East to the other pioneers of his day — the cowboy, the homesteader, the miner.

While he made the harsh existence of the isolated Western settlement and Southern farm community easier to bear, he also assured the success of many fledgling industries cropping up in the East. Dozens of New England cities, like Meriden, Connecticut, noted for its silverware, would never have become cities if it hadn't been for the "Yankee Trader."

In modern times, door-to-door selling has become an important second occupation for many people. Teachers, housewives, students, church groups and organizations boost their incomes in their spare time by showing Cheerful Greeting Cards, gifts and stationery to friends and neighbors.

The superbly designed and inexpensive cards, for example, are extremely popular because they come in a wide variety of assortments with a card for every occasion — whether it be birthday, anniversary, or Christmas.

If you'd like to "pioneer" some extra money for that long-dreamed-of vacation or household expenses, send for your sales kit on approval, for 30-day free trial. Cheerful Card Company, Dept. R-86, White Plains, N. Y. 10606

It Is Christ Himself Living In His Church!

The real significance of Christian feasts and Church liturgy is often misunderstood.

To some, the Church's year-round calendar of worship is primarily a memorial . . . a reenactment . . . a series of pious ceremonies. And these devotions, these Feasts of the Lord, would indeed be mere symbolism but for one all-important truth.

That is the true presence of Christ Himself in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, which has been the central act of the Church's liturgy since the time of the Apostles.

In our own time, the late Pope Pius XII said the Liturgical Year "is no cold and lifeless representation of past events, no mere historical record. It is Christ Himself, living in His church and still pursuing His path of boundless mercy . . ."

And the Second Vatican Council defined the Liturgical Year as "an ever-present fountain of sanctification, of prayerful worship and of religious instruction." By recalling the mysteries of redemption in her Eucharistic celebrations, the Council said, "The Church opens to the faithful the riches of the Lord's powers and merits, so that these are in some ways made present for all time, and the faithful are enabled to lay hold upon them and become filled with saving grace."

The original and basic feast day of the Liturgical Year is Sunday — the "day of the Lord." Also of apostolic origin is the celebration of the Christian Pasch — Holy Week and Easter. The early Church instituted such commemorations as Pentecost, the Epiphany and the Ascension, and later centuries saw the development of such feasts as the Nativity, the Holy Trinity, Corpus Christi, the Sacred Heart and Christ the King.

If you would like to know more about these and other feasts and commemorations . . . including those devoted to the Blessed Virgin, the Apostles, martyrs and other saints . . . write today for our new pocket-size pamphlet entitled "The Feasts of the Lord." It will give you an interesting and exciting flashback to the earlier Christian times in which today's Feasts of the Lord had their origin . . . and why these events are commemorated year after year in the life of Christ's Church.

IN MEMORIAM

SANDERS—In loving memory of our husband and father, Regis R. Sanders, who departed this life on August 21, 1965.

You were so good and dear to us until the day you died. God must have loved you very much.

When He took you from our side they say time heals all sorrow and helps one to forget. But time so far has only proven how much we miss you yet. Gone and forgotten by some you may be.

But dear to our memory you will always be.

Your loving wife, Nadine and daughter, Marie and Family. 1t

Crowd Watches Death Car

Death car is set aright by rescue workers following the fatal accident on the Rt. 15 by-pass. Vigilant Hose Co. rescue truck and Gettysburg Fire Co. ambulance are shown on scene.

Noting that a burglary occurs every 46 seconds in the United States, the Insurance Information Institute says many of these could be avoided if homeowners would lock their windows and doors and take a few other simple precautions.
