Attempts by politicians and representatives to constitutional conventions redrafting state charters to lower the voting age to 18 should be met with determination by the citizenry as a whole, to prevent the passage of any such legislation. You and I both are aware that youngsters of this tender age are not fully matured by any stretch of the imagination to cope with national or international matters. It is difficult enough for us older people to try and fathom the problems of the world let alone adding any more confusion by lowering the bars on the voting age and thus complicating matters that much more. Few youngsters this age are familiar with their grass roots town government level let alone tackling the deeper problems of national and world government. There is no question about their inability to cope with alcohol at this age so why give them the privilege of voting? The law regarding the purchase of alcoholic drinks reams with a firm hand so should the voting law. There are some who will say that if they are old enough to fight for their country at 18 they are old enough to vote. This is not necessarily true. Their physical fitness at this age qualifies them to fight but does not necessarily attest to their mental maturity. Let's give this matter a lot of thought folks before permitting such a law to be passed.

The local Veterans of Foreign Wars are interested in aiding our boys serving in South Vietnam and would like to have their names and addresses as the Christmas mailing deadline is fast approaching. So, if any of you have loved ones in the service serving in Vietnam, please contact the VFW immediately, or just drop their name and address in the mail, immediately.

A bit of confusion has materialized since the distribution of the new Telephone Directories. Somehow the phone number of the Emmitsburg ambulance has been published and it turns out to be the same number as the Fire Company. Recently members of the Fire Company have been awakened in the middle of the night thinking it was a fire call, only to their dismay it was someone requiring an ambulance. We don't know who is responsible for the error but we will try our best to right this wrong. If you need the Fire Company dial 447-4141. If you want the ambulance, dial 447-5321. If this number is silent then you have a choice of calling 447-2345, 447-2209 or 447-4901. It really wouldn't be a bad idea folks if you scratched the wrong number from your phone directory and inserted the correct ones I have just mentioned. You will get quicker ambulance service and the fire ladders can sleep more soundly at night!

If a Republican is going to get elected in 1968 he's got to come up with a real program in Vietnam.—Sen. Thurston B. Morton.

Dr. John Morrison Author Of New History Book

Dr. John L. Morrison, chairman of the Department of Social Sciences at Mount Saint Mary's College, has published in booklet form "A Syllabus for American History, 1763-1861."

The booklet, published by the Bell and Howell Company, Cleveland, Ohio, is divided into a series of twenty lectures, ranging from "The Old Empire: Mercantilism and Imperial Trade" to "The Politics of Slavery."

In the foreword, Professor Morrison states that the purpose of the syllabus is two-fold: 1. to enable the student an opportunity to grasp the essential points in each lecture area, reducing the amount of note taking by clarifying the more significant conclusion; and 2. to provide the instructor with a visual tool to determine which topic areas to treat exhaustively by lecture and which to leave for textbook assignments.

Professor Morrison has been a member of the Mount faculty since 1950. He completed his undergraduate studies at Albion College in Michigan and his doctoral studies at the University of Missouri. Post graduate work has taken him to the University of Michigan and Columbia University.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Alpha Theta, the American Catholic Historical Association, the Association for Asian Studies, the Mississippi Valley Historical Association.

He is a contributor to the "Catholic Historical Review"; the "New Catholic Encyclopedia"; the "Catholic Educational Review," and other periodicals.

Band in Process Of Selecting Uniforms

The Emmitsburg Municipal Band held its September business meeting recently at Elias Parish House, 19 members attending. The treasurer reported $2021.06 in the treasury.

The director, Tom Harbaugh, reported that he, as well as radio station WTHU, had received a great deal of response from the public concerning the Labor Day concert. The uniform committee reported several possibilities of uniform choices, and had the members pick two from the group. This was to begin narrowing the variety, but further voting will take place when more information from various companies is available.

At the time of the meeting, some work was being done on the history of the band. It was reported that quite a number of pictures, some dating from early 1900's, are available, and also an old uniform and drum. These, along with other items of interest, will be put on display sometime in the near future.

The members' advisory board was elected as follows: Weldon Shank, Pastor Fearer, Paul Dern and Tommy Harbaugh.

Plans were discussed for many fund raising projects during the winter. Joe Myers was appointed chairman of the first bake sale to be held sometime in November.

A letter of response from the Town Council and also their attorney, concerning the sponsorship of the band, was read. It was suggested that the band incorporate on their own. This could be done through the Town's attorney.

An established night for the election of officers was set for the 3rd Wednesday in July, with nominations being held in June at the business meeting. The band decided there was a need for three new snare drums to match the bass.

SEEK INTERCHANGE AT THURMONT INTERSECTION

After more than two months of bickering, county elected officials decided how to spend Frederick's share of state secondary road construction funds.

The county commissioners and legislative delegation signed the agreement with the State Roads Commission due originally on September 18, but not without casting off comments on the likelihood of the SRC ignoring the document.

In the meeting characterized, as were previous sessions, by general criticism of SRC policies, the elected officials named completion of proposed construction of Maryland 550 between the Monocacy River bridge and Woodsboro as the top priority project for the final two years of the current SRC six year secondary road building program.

The officials voted to reinstate the 550 project, previously eliminated from the roads program at the request of the county, following statements from County Commissioners Wallace E. Hutton and Charles E. Collins that $321,605 in state funds allotted for completion of the project might be lost to the county if diverted to another project.

Collins said the SRC had admitted that since original estimates for the cost of the 550 project were too low, the SRC would have to provide the additional funds needed to complete the project.

The group decided not to include dualization of U. S. 40 to Braddock Heights in the two year program.

The dualization of 40 originally included in the county secondary roads program was dropped by the SRC along with dualization of U. S. 15 because of insufficient funds.

The commissioners and legislators agreed to defer construction of a four lane bridge on U. S. 15 across the Potomac River at Point of Rocks and apply the $800,000 allotted for that project toward construction of an interchange at the intersection of U. S. 15 and Maryland 81 at Thurmont, construction of a new bridge on Md. 153 across Catoctin Creek at Elberton and rehabilitation of a 2.2 mile stretch of Md. 80 between Interstate 70 and Baker Valley Road.

The groups also voted unanimously to reinstate in the program dualization of U. S. 15 from Harmony Grove to the Pennsylvania line.

The SRC had told the county in July that dualization of 15 to the state line would have to be dropped from the two year program because sufficient funds were not available at this time.

The county officials agreed to insist on dualization of 15 to the state line even if it means extending the project past the two year program.

Although the officials agreed that the intersections of U. S. 15 with Maryland 81 at Thurmont and Maryland 97 at Emmitsburg were both dangerous, they favored the Thurmont interchange because of the potential danger to school children when Thurmont High School, located near the intersection, is completed.

Fourteen persons were killed in Maryland highway accidents last week according to the weekly survey published by the State Police.

Seven of those killed were drivers, two were passengers, and five were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in seven of the deaths, speed in six, and driver error was present in eleven of the fatalities.

In commenting on last week's fatalities, Lt. Col. George Davidson, Chief of Operations of the State Police, had this to say: "If a review of these accidents points to any one major contributing factor, it is unquestionably that of the influence of alcohol, which was present in half the accidents."

"Up to this time almost every approach has been used to convince the motorist that if he drinks and drives, he has at least a fifty-fifty chance of killing himself or some innocent person or of causing serious personal injury and extensive property damage. There are no statistics to back up 'near misses.' Yet the hazard of the operator under the influence of alcohol is ever present.

"This is a very frustrating situation for those of us in enforcement work, and it is a frustration shared by all who have an official responsibility to promote highway safety and certainly, also, by the many operators who have taken seriously the responsibilities connected with their privilege to drive a motor vehicle."

Lt. Col. Davidson concluded: "Today social drinking is an accepted part of our way of life and no condemnation of this is intended."

County Health Officer Appointed

Dr. Charles G. Spicknall has been appointed Deputy State and County Health Officer for Frederick County, effective November 1, it was announced this week by Dr. Edward Davens, Acting Commissioner, Maryland State Department of Health.

The new appointee, a native of Solomons, Md., graduated with distinction from George Washington University School of Medicine in 1936, after premedical preparation at the University of Maryland.

Dr. Spicknall's medical career has been with the U. S. Public Health Service in various assignments, including internship and residency at the Public Health Service Hospital in Baltimore, where he has been Medical Officer in Charge since 1964. He previously served in Munich, Germany; Boston, Mass., and Staten Island, New York.

In addition the new health officer was an instructor in medicine at the Johns Hopkins University, and Assistant Professor at Seton Hall College of Medicine in New Jersey. For four years, beginning in 1958, he was a member of the Division of Research Grants, National Institutes of Health.

Dr. Spicknall was certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine in 1950 and is a Fellow in the American College of Physicians. He is the author of an extensive list of professional articles, dealing principally with infectious diseases.

GRADUATE FROM BASIC GREAT LAKES, Ill. - Seaman

Lewis S. Masser, USN, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Masser, Emmitsburg, Md., and Seaman Recruit Roger T. Harner, USN, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Harner, R2, Emmitsburg, Md., Have been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center here. In the first weeks of their naval service, they studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those they will encounter on their first ship or at their first shore station.

Three local firemen, Terry Myers, Eugene Myers and Frank Reilly, attended a day of fire fighting at the University of Maryland last Sunday. They are pictured here with 10 members of the Thurmont Fire Co. The training included: escape procedure; rescue; dis-arming utilities in a home; adaptation to heat and smoke within an enclosed area while fighting a 2 story blaze. What was their impression? "Too realistic!"

The guys at Weldwood just went crazy.

They're offering paneling with the finish of $23 paneling for only $11.98. And we've got some.

If you get down here right away, we can offer you genuine Weldwood® paneling, in warm Autumn pecan, for only $11.98 per 4x8' panel. It has the same rich finish the U.S. Plywood people put on their Weldwood Craftsman panels which sell for up to $23. But the offer is only good until Dec. 1, or until they run out of Autumn Pecan or come to their senses. So hurry.

Carless Formula Mixing
Endangers Baby's Life
EDINBURGH, Scotland — With breast feeding becoming as rare as the horse and buggy, and the formula taking its place, parents should be alert to the danger that lurks in careless mixing of formula.

Within the past year, according to a report in a recent issue of the British Medical Journal, two infants, one a month-old boy and the other a girl of the same age, were admitted to a Scottish hospital with similar symptoms. They were both irritable, refused to take food, cried with a high-pitched wail.

Both had been normal at birth; there were no problems after birth. When brought to the hospital, both were found to be dehydrated, overactive, with twitching eyelids and trembling limbs.

Despite treatment begun at once, both babies suffered convulsions during their hospitalization. The girl died in 51 hours, the boy's progress, the physicians' reported, has not been satisfactory and he is now severely handicapped.

What caused the tragedy? Inaccurate interpretation of the directions for mixing the formula. In one case the mother used twice the amount of powder recommended; in the other the mother didn't know precisely how much one fluid ounce was and she used too little fluid in mixing the formula. Disaster followed.

Poverty, Illiteracy
No Bar To Planning

NEW YORK — A whopping 101,725 women in 14 countries have proved what experts have long suspected: Poor woman want family planning. They are able and willing to use various contraceptive methods, including the pills and the intrauterine devices despite their low level of education. What they need is to be informed that the service is available and to be given it at little or no cost when they feel they want it.

This is what an important year-long program, sponsored by the Population Council, seems to establish without doubt. Agreeing with earlier findings that a woman is most receptive to family planning immediately after she has given birth, the Council, with the cooperation of physicians in 25 hospitals round the world offered family planning services during the lying-in period.

Not only did they reach the women who had just given birth. But in hospitals abroad (seven were in the U. S.) nearly two-thirds of the women reached learned about the program by word of mouth. "They were sufficiently motivated," the Council notes, "to travel some distance to receive the service."

As a consequence of the program, there were 32,000 fewer births—a fertility reduction of 75 to 80 per cent.

Experts estimate that assuming no contraception is used about half the women who have just given birth will become pregnant again within three months following their first period, and some four fifths of them will be pregnant within a year.

Foot Myths Banished

CHICAGO, Ill. — Are sneakers bad for your child's feet and high heels for yours? Should your toddler wear high-topped shoes? Are loafers bad for your feet? Here are some unexpected answers:

According to foot specialist Henri L. DuVries, M.D., writing in Today's Health, most of our information about feet is misinformation. He maintains that most foot problems are caused by trying to force squarish-shaped feet into triangle-shaped shoes. High heels don't, of themselves, cause trouble, the physician explained. However when they are poorly fitted the square is forced into the triangle and then trouble ensues. Canvas shoes are good for the feet since they are softer than leather. If a toddler's feet are normal, high-tops can be by-passed. Loafers are okay if they fit well.

Dog Show
At Westminster

The Carroll Kennel Club will hold its second annual Dog Show on Monday, October 16, at the Reese Fire Department grounds, located on U. S. 140, a few miles southeast of Westminster, Md. This will be an all-breed dog show and obedience trial with over 900 dogs entered. There will be approximately 100 different breeds of dogs represented at this show. Many prominent judges will come from all over the country to pick the top dogs in these many breeds. The show will open at 9 a.m. and continue throughout the day with the top dog being chosen late in the afternoon. Admission to the show will be $1.00, with children under 12 years old admitted free if accompanied by an adult. Food will be available on the grounds. The show will benefit the Carroll County Humane Society.

The Bill states in substance that the Complainant, Coleman J. complete safety

No other heating system can offer the safety features of flameless electricity. Since electric heat requires no combustion, there is no danger from leaking fuel systems, fumes, explosions or combustible fuel storage. When you're away from home you'll never need worry about the safety of your property.

luxurious comfort

Only flameless electric heating offers you controlled, even warmth in each room of your home. A proper balance between heat and relative humidity assures you of superb comfort no matter how severe the weather outside may be. Flameless electric heating . . . truly the most comfortable heating system ever developed.

long-term economy

While other costs increase, the price trend of electricity and electric heating has been consistently decreasing. With electricity, you'll also save on maintenance, cleaning and depreciation. An electric heating system will last the life of your home.

individual room thermostats

With flameless electric heating you can choose just the temperature you want for each room in your home. No more hard to heat areas or hot spots to make you uncomfortable. Just set the thermostats and enjoy controlled comfort in each and every room.

carefree convenience

With electricity heating your home you'll be free of maintenance problems. No fuel delivery worries, no furnace or flues to clean, no ashes to carry out. Setting your thermostats is about all the work you'll ever have with an electric heating system.

extra living space

Since electric heat requires no furnace or fuel storage area, and no pipes or ducts, this means that your home will have more usable living space. You can actually add a room to your home in the space normally occupied by a flame-type heating system.

LOW COST TO OPERATE!

If you've always thought electric heat was too expensive, then think again. Today an average five-room home can be heated electrically for less than $125 a year. An average six-room home can be heated electrically for less than $150 a year. But even that's not the full story because there's a special low electric heating rate that also lowers the cost of all electricity used in your home. And there's no yearly service contract cost and no cost for filters. Electric heat . . . truly the best friend your budget ever had.

YOUR PERSONAL HEALTH

Maryland might be in for a bout with influenza, according to Dr. David Marine, President of the Maryland Thoracic Society, in a statement issued this week. The statement confirmed facts released recently by the Maryland State Department of Health, Division of Communicable Diseases, concerning the likelihood of an epidemic in the Maryland area this year.

Maryland's last flu epidemic was in the winter of 1962-63 and makes the state overdue in the regular flu cycle which normally occurs every three years. A-Type, or "Asian Flu", makes the rounds, while the B-Type virus strikes every two years. The U. S. experienced its last major epidemic during the winter of 1964-65.

Vaccination is the only known method of prevention of influenza and, according to MSDH, is not always effective. Influenza viruses undergo occasional changes of a biological nature which, if not allowed for in preparation of the vaccine, render it powerless. There is now available a new vaccine on the market called the "Bivalent Influenza Virus Vaccine" and, according to reports should provide "... greater protection against current strains of influenza than has been previously possible."

Vaccination is not recommended for all individuals on an annual basis. Individuals falling into a "high mortality risk" group should, however, avail themselves of the bivalent serum. These persons are generally over 45 years of age, but age is no factor if a chronic illness exists. Cardiovascular, pulmonary, renal or metabolic disorders are typical of patients in the "high risk" group. Individuals over 65 years of age should consider the vaccine mandatory.

Vaccination is not urged for children or pregnant women unless chronic illness exists.

The MSDH has encouraged the annual vaccination of service groups such as police, fire and ambulance workers, employees of State and county roads and public utilities.

Persons sensitive to egg or egg products should not be given the bivalent influenza vaccine.

The success of the campaign depends on our neighbors in 26 communities in Frederick County. At this writing 19 of these communities have leadership to take part in the support of this effort to meet human needs in Frederick County.

This once-a-year drive has the advantage of combining campaign costs so that more of your dollars reach those who need your help among the 14 member agencies.

Through investigation by a budget committee of representative business and civic leaders the annual drive assures that contributions go where there is a real need, not necessarily to agencies with the most popular appeal.

Your fair share gift will work many wonders the United Way.

The beginning of the "Modern Navy" came in 1882 when Congress authorized building of the first steel warships.

BABSON

Writes . . .

Babson's Point Of View On: Christmas Sales

BABSON, Ark. Mass., Oct. 12—Sales of retail stores just chalked up a new all-time high for September. That is good news for everybody . . . especially for merchants from coast to coast. For the late summer surge came hard on the heels of a sluggish performance that had most retailers scratching their heads and wondering why Mr. and Mrs. Consumer were saving so much and spending so little. Now we can confidently look forward to a "best-ever" ringing of the nation's cash registers, come Christmastime.

Consumers Have The Cash

Recent months have seen personal income persistently poking into new high ground . . . to the tune of average monthly chunks of better than $4 billion each. Disposable personal income (what's left after taxes and other payments) had been lagging total personal income. The gap seemed to be the result of a greater disposition on the part of consumers to save more. Perhaps all the spring talk of a "mini-recession" had made people cautious.

Latest figures, however, indicate that spending is coming back into fashion. The September surge at retail stores is a most promising omen for Christmas sales. We can foresee new records without half raising our eyelids; and if we look real hard, it is not difficult to predict gains over Christmas 1966 of 6%, or even 8%. Not everywhere, of course, because big strikes will still be pinching consumer pocketbooks in some areas.

Pleasant Supplies

Neither war in Vietnam nor strikes here at home will have too serious an impact on the flow of available goods. Unless, of course, the expected upsurge in store sales should be even greater than we anticipate. In that case, some shelves could be bare for last-minute shoppers.

Fact is, supplies of most goods are plentiful. Not only are we pretty well assured of having both guns and butter; we can also count on generous amounts of quality and luxury items. Next year may be a different story, but for Yuletide 1967 shelves will be well stocked and quality and variety will be more evident than ever.

But You Will Pay More

Most manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers, and retailers are already optimistic with regard to sales performance during the upcoming holiday season. Some, however, are more cautious,—fearing perhaps that this year's higher prices may prove to be an unfavorable factor. In our opinion, the balance of factors favors optimism. Consumers, generally, are better off financially than they were a year ago. They are able to take higher prices in stride and most probably they will do just that . . . in response to diligent and well-directed sales effort on the part of merchants.

One word of caution for buyers, however. It will be definitely pay you to shop early this year. Labor and other costs are still rising, and you'll pay more for many a gift in mid-December than you would have had to pay in October or November.

Volume And Profits

Strong consumer buying power and a disposition to use it will be combined this year with greater availability and wider selection of merchandise than ever before. This combination promises to add up to at least a 6% boost in dollar volume of Christmas sales over the record trade achieved in 1966. Because of higher prices, however, the increase in physical turnover may not be more than 3%-4%.

Retailers should find their increased volume leading to bigger profits compared with the first three quarters of this year. But they will be hard put to improve profitability over their experience at Christmastime last year. Stores that will chalk up the best profits records will be those whose managements make a wise—though not excessive—use of promotions while at the same time keeping a sharp eye on sales personnel performance. And above everything else, hold a tight rein on costs without scrimping on customer services.

Chihuahua Show Scheduled

The Chihuahua Club of Maryland will hold its next "B" match for Chihuahuas only on Sunday, October 22 at the Edmondson Village Hall, 4580 Edmondson Ave. (U. S. Route 40), Baltimore, Md. This is a show for fun and experience and is open to any Chihuahua that is three months old or over. It is a great place for the whole family to spend a day watching or showing these, the world's smallest breed of dogs.

The cost of entry for this show is 50c per dog and admission is 50c per person. Many trophies, prizes and ribbons will be awarded these little dogs and their owners. Door prizes will also be given so there is even a chance for the spectators to win. There will be classes for both the Long Coat and the Smooth Coat Chihuahuas and special classes for the children that will be judged only on the child's ability to handle the dog—not the dog's quality.

Entries must be made between noon and 1:30 p.m. with the judging beginning at 2 p.m. The judge will be Mr. G. Calder Little of Fullerton, Md. No champions or dogs with major points will be eligible for this show.

Frederick, Maryland
VS
STEPHEN R. ANTHONY
425 Pine Street
Hanover, Pennsylvania
NO. 21,772 EQUITY IN THE
CIRCUIT COURT FOR FREDERICK COUNTY, MARYLAND
ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this Bill is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Complainant, Shirley D. Anthony, from the Defendant, Stephen R. Anthony.

The Bill states in substance, that the Complainant is a resident of Frederick County, State of Maryland, where she has resided for more than one year last past; that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, whose last known address is 425 Pine Street, Hanover, Pennsylvania; that the parties to this cause were married on the 5th day of December, 1964, at Hanover, Pennsylvania, by Rev. McCarney, a regularly ordained minister of the gospel; that as a result of the said marriage one child was born, namely, Jo Ann Anthony, who is at the present time two years of age, is in the care and custody of your Complainant, and whose care and custody your Complainant seeks; that the parties to this cause have voluntarily lived separate and apart without any cohabitation for more than eighteen months prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint, and that the separation between the parties to this cause is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation. The Bill prays that the Complainant may be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant; that she may be awarded the care and custody of the infant child in these proceedings mentioned; and that she may have such other and further relief as the nature of her case may require.

ORDER OF COURT

It is thereupon this 25th day of September, 1967, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the non-resident Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County, Maryland, once each week for four successive weeks prior to the 28th day of October, 1967, commanding him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 28th day of November, 1967, to show cause, if any he has, why the relief sought should not be passed as prayed.

MY MOTHER

I have a mother so kind and sweet So wonderful and true Waiting at home with a heartfelt love Til this awful, awful war is through I wish that her, my eyes could see But no, no that could never be For I'm over here in Vietnam To protect my mother there at home From a cruel and vicious, ugly war We must keep from our beloved shore One day I'll come back and there I'll see That mother whom I would love to see.

State Shows Gain In Industry

New plant construction and expansion of existing industry in Maryland during the first six months of 1967 totalled 72, according to figures compiled by the Maryland Department of Economic Development. These do not include expansions and new starts announced in 1966 whose construction was scheduled for 1967.

These 72 new plants to the State's economy represents an estimated 2,097 new jobs for Marylanders and a total of $54,713,000 in capital investment, indicating that the State continues to be a highly attractive and desirable environment for the establishment and growth of industry.

While these figures are lower than for the same period in 1967 (129 new and expanded industries, 4,881 new jobs, and $98,172,651 in investment by June 1966), they follow the national trend which reflects the response of industry to the President's request to "hold the line" on expansions, and to the general tightening up of the money market.

Of the 72 additions this year, 13 were new plants and 59 expansions of existing industries. New installations represented approximately 631 new jobs and more than $3 million in capital investment. Expansions in the first six month period totalled 59, promised 1,466 new jobs and $51,467,000 in capital investment.

As in the past these new and expanded industries encompassed the spectrum of industrial categories, emphasizing again the diversification to be found in the State's industrial picture. Twelve of the additions were in the classification of fabricated metal products, one of Maryland's leading industries. Next were eight in the printing and publishing fields, seven in the food and kindred products category and six in the chemicals and allied products area. Other categories included apparel, lumber, primary metals and paper products.

With the addition of the upcoming six month's new and expanded industries which are currently under consideration, the State could well meet or exceed the totals of 1966.

Mrs. Bryson Speaks On Convention

Mary B. Bryson, a Carroll County delegate to the Constitutional Convention and an unsuccessful candidate last fall for the State Senate in the Frederick-Carroll Senatorial District, has expressed her views on what she characterized as "negative pressures" being exerted to throttle the work of the Convention and to build a climate for the defeat of the new constitution if it does not meet the specifications of "special-interest groups and blind fanatics."

In a speech before the Knights of Columbus at Emmitsburg on Saturday, she singled out three classes of "obstructionists" who, she charged, are interfering with the work of the Convention. She listed these as "fanatical right-wingers", "entrenched politicians" and persons with private interests to serve.

Mrs. Bryson illustrated her position by reference to an article appearing in the Baltimore Sun on October 1 indicating possible opposition to the new constitution by Dale Anderson, county executive for Baltimore County.

She deplored the fact that Mr. Anderson "has gone out of his way to call in the newspapers and throw cold water on the Convention at the very beginning of its work."

She said that Mr. Anderson, as the majority political leader in highly populous Baltimore County, represents possibly 16% of all the voters of the state, and that he "could be a tremendous force in the development of a brilliant, innovative and inspired new constitution for the people of the state as a whole."

"This is perhaps the finest opportunity he may have in his career to contribute something of lasting value to the society in which he lives. Yet he chooses to turn his back on the opportunity," she said. In seeking to explain this attitude, Mrs. Bryson suggested of Mr. Anderson that "he just doesn't want to take any chance that his personal political boat may be rocked."

Mrs. Bryson predicted that "in the weeks to come you will see a sit-tight, highly political group trying to throttle the work of the Convention and if they do not succeed, trying afterwards to defeat the new constitution. It was exactly in this fashion that professional political groups made a shambles of the program for constitutional revision in the state of New York this year."

"We in the Convention who do not have these binding ties will do our level best to produce a document of which we can be unashamed. We ask the voting public in the meantime to keep open minds and, if our work-product merits it, to support the new constitution however vigorously or viciously the special-interest groups and the blind fanatics may fight against it," she added.

In describing the work of the Committee on Local Government, of which she is a member, Mrs. Bryson said:

"I think the experience to date of the Committee on Local Government illustrates quite forcefully what the challenge is, and should alert us to the threat that the pressures and forces exerted upon the Convention may not permit it to respond as it should to the needs of the day.

"We have already heard testimony from numerous witnesses, many from public life and many from a large corps of experts on state and local affairs. They include county commissioners and county executives, mayors, planning officers, members of the General Assembly, university professors, representatives of foundation study groups, public spirited citizens—all people with experience and a point of view, good or bad.

"We have listened to people from local communities plead—persuasively—for the opportunity to form their own municipal governments in order to procure for themselves vital services that their counties cannot or will not provide. We have heard representatives of already organized municipalities describe their accomplishments, of which they are justly proud, and ask to be allowed to retain their independence from domination by county governments which have lagged so far behind in responding to the needs of their people.

"On the other hand, we have heard again and again from county officials and from the proponents of county government that strengthening the hand of the county unit is crucial to the survival of local government; that all powers to make law, including the power to eliminate, create or change city government, should reside basically in the county, with the state making only such laws as have true multi-county significance; and that the presence within the county of numerous smaller political subdivisions makes only for complexity and inefficiency in local government.

"We have also heard various witnesses having no entrenched alliance with either the municipalities or the counties as political groups. Some of them have displayed a brilliant awareness of the realities of modern life and of the problems in store for us in the years to come during which the new Constitution can either help open 'the door to progress or stifle the development of our society.

"These men stress the arbitrary, accidental and in many ways obsolete character of municipal and even county boundaries. They look to the wholly different geographical areas in which people in fact live, work, move about and concentrate their lives. They see a necessity to reshape the boundaries of local governmental units to correspond with those areas in which the people—not a century or more ago, but today—make their home, their living and their community lives. In short, these people talk regionalism.

"The responsibility of our Committee on Local Government is to develop a structure which will provide the most people with the best service at the least cost. The only thing that can be described as clear in this picture at the moment is that heretofore we have not even approached this ideal of governmental efficiency. It is very much an understatement to describe as difficult the task of finding out how better results can truly be achieved; but we must try, and try with open minds in good faith, preserving objectivity and rationality as we think about this problem and explore avenues towards its solution."

SPORTS AFIELD

The secret of big-game attire, learned in some cases by long experience and in others by advice from old-timers, is for the newer hunters to choose a wardrobe that is adaptable to cope with every situation likely to be encountered afield. It's not so difficult as it may appear. The ultimate, as we know it today, can be readily accomplished by utilization of the sound principle that several lighter layers are far better than fewer heavy layers. Clothing can be shed or added for daily and hourly requirements. With the exception of, perhaps, socks/stockings (which should fit perfectly) and a hat/cap, all fabric clothing should be full cut and of a size allowing for looseness. The wearer not only should have freedom of movement in every conceivable position (he experiences many afield that are different from his ordinary ones at home), but likewise should bear in mind that, weight for weight, loose clothing is usually much more suitable than snug—for the folds and added air space not only insulate in themselves, they allow body vapor to dissipate.

Trousers for big-game hunting should be full cut, of high-quality wool, with no cuffs, staged at the bottom so that they won't catch on twigs and sharp rocks. It is nice if you can use both belt and suspenders if need be. They should be quite loose everywhere, including the sometimes constricting waist. The ideal version has the pockets trimmed or lined with leather and buttoned flaps on all back pockets. All pockets should be oversized as compared with those in street clothes.

A good way of going at this shirt business is to wear a light wool (or even cotton) flannel shirt under and a mediumweight wool shirt over that. Some woodsmen prefer an extremely heavy wool shirt on the outside.

Down jackets are very lightweight and durable, and they have a fantastic temperature-accommodation range. States John Johnson, Camping Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, "My own notion is that every big-game hunter should at one time or another connive around and somehow acquire a top-quality down jacket."

Every hunter should have a good rainsuit, amply cut so that it can be easily shed or put on over the other clothing, including boots. The fabric should be impregnated with a microporous coating that is impervious to water from the outside, yet allows body moisture to escape.
