Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

After relinquishing my column space during the past several weeks to evaluating writers, I feel it is about time to once again take up the reins and guide my "country" column as in days gone by. It was sort of nice reading some of those complimentary sentences written about me and my column and then there were a few rough points dwelled upon, but by and large the constructive criticism had a pleasing and tranquil effect upon me.

Anyway, let's get caught up with the mail. I have received during my interim absence, several more letters concerning the Doughboy. My own information, gleaned from local interested citizens by personal inquiry, leads me to believe that the monument was placed at its present location around 1925 or 1927. In charge of the project, I am told, was Mrs. Andrew (Louella) Annan, a public spirited citizen and political leader of that era. Donations were asked of the townsfolk to help defray costs of the monument and its erection. It is said that the statue was unveiled at the official dedication by the mother of the late Dr. Charles J. Rowe, better known to us youngsters as "Chick". Mrs. Rowe was selected because she was a Gold Star Mother, her son, "Dutch" having been killed in World War I. The ground the statue stands on is believed to be owned by the Town and the upkeep, we are informed, was placed in charge of the local American Legion. We have no way of substantiating this latter statement and do not want to get involved. Everything printed above is based completely on hearsay but we do believe it to be reasonably correct.

Now then, for a look at those letters I have received:

Dear Abigail:

For several weeks I have put off writing you to add my bit to the "Doughboy" items, thinking someone closer to Emmitsburg than this faithful reader would have some information.

My father, Charles Hoke, erected the Doughboy, probably in the late 20's. I do not know what organization paid for the memorial.

Sincerely,
Janet Hoke Schmidt
Glendale, Calif.

Dear Abigail:

About the Doughboy. It was erected during World War I. Cousin Luella Annan (Mrs. Andrew Annan) was the promoter. She thought our fighting men should have some recognition so she got the idea of erecting a doughboy in memory of our men.

I believe she got donations to help pay for it, but I'm not sure. As for ownership, I am not sure, but it was erected in memory of our fighting men, so I would think it belongs to the town or American Legion.

When Joe Hoke had the Emmitt Hotel, there was a fountain where the Doughboy now stands.

Mrs. Annan's mother and my mother were sisters. Annans lived beside Tom Hays' tin shop and we lived across the street. My father was John Agnew. When mother passed away the house was sold to George Eyster.

I married and left home in 1903 but Emmitsburg is still home. I hope the little information I have given you will help.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Grace Agnew LeFevre

Two sisters, Frederick County residents, died Saturday, one in an area hospital, the other in Miami, Fla.

First to expire was Miss Margaret Dill, of Frederick, who died Saturday morning. Her sister, Mrs. Ruth (Dill) Stansbury, died Saturday evening. She was the widow of the late Edgar G. Stansbury who died about 30 years ago and who for many years lived in Emmitsburg.

Both were born in Frederick, daughters of the late Joshua and Nellie Bartgis Dill.

Surviving are two nieces, Mrs. Lee R. Saylor, Thurmont, and Mrs. Elliott F. Gross, Miami, Fla., eight great nieces and nephews and six great-great nieces and nephews.

Mountain Scenic Spot 70 Years Ago

An old-time photo taken by the late Eugene Zimmerman, shows Crystal Fount Springs. The picture was taken in 1900 and shows citizens preparing to haul away the fresh spring water to their homes. Note the horses and wagon and also the horse and buggy. Barrels are seen lined along the shoreline of the spring and cases of bottles are seen in the foreground. Photo was supplied through the courtesy of Mrs. Bernard H. Boyle.

Says Racism Simple Ailment

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

I am tired of a society that wages war on poverty. The next grand battle, if it is not already waged and won, will logically be on chastity and obedience.

As for the disease of racism: I have discovered that it is a relatively simple ailment that will require neither brain surgery nor eye surgery. It is only a matter of blurred vision. This minor condition can be remedied, wholesale, thru application of the same remedy applied by Albert Schweitzer, De Schmidt and Groppi. We need only revive and retrieve the virtue of servitude, i.e. obedience. We must learn not only to serve and wait on all fellow human beings (love them) but to do so with zest and vigor. It was in this fashion that Schweitzer learned to endure the filth of those he served; that De Schmidt learned to relish the dog meat dished up by American Indians; and Groppi to endure the chittlings that have been made his daily fare by black Americans, in Milwaukee.

Yours sincerely,
Patrick F. X. McGuckin

Local Woman Injured In Crash

An Emmitsburg woman and two McKnightstown children were injured Saturday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock when the station wagon in which they were passengers skidded out of control and rolled over along the Emmitsburg Rd., approximately four miles south of Gettysburg.

The injured, removed to the Warner Hospital, were Mrs. Rose Brawner, 56, Emmitsburg R3, who was treated for cuts and abrasions of the face and had X-rays of an arm and ankle; and Lou Anne Cullison, 11, daughter of Mrs. Patricia Ann Cullison, McKnightstown, driver of the auto, was treated for bruises of the head. Michael, nine, Douglas, 8, and Steven, five, escaped injury.

Cumberland Twp. Police Chief Bernard V. Miller said the accident occurred when Mrs. Cullison, traveling south in a line of traffic, attempted to pass another vehicle. While she was in the act of passing, another southbound vehicle swung out in front of her causing her to brake her car. The Cullison car skidded out of control across the highway where it turned over and came to rest on its wheels in a thicket.

Mrs. Cullison's 1964 station wagon was estimated by Chief Miller as a total loss.

High School Seniors Select Play

Recently, the Emmitsburg High School Seniors chose "The Thread That Runs So True," as the annual senior class play. The play is based on a true life story, written by Jesse Stuart. The poet-novelist describes his turbulent career as a teacher in the Kentucky hills in the year 1925.

Jesse is still in his teens when he takes on the job of teacher in a one-room rural school. Many of his students are older than he and certainly these in the clique led by the school bully are bigger and tougher. They are there to have a place to go while the work on the farm is slack and they intend to have fun baiting the green-horn teacher.

Among the students are a few who respond to Jesse's enthusiasm for education, yet even with these he meets opposition. There is the school bully who has spent the last eight years in the first grade and the 65 year old Grand-ma who decides to come back to school after all these years. Along with the many interesting and humorous characters comes the constant struggle with the school board; Jesse's fight with the school bully; his love for Naomi Deane, one of his students; and the contest with their rival school.

Throughout, the play displays a totally "heart-warming" story and promises an enjoyable evening for all those who attend.

Senior Citizens Plan Bazaar

Tuesday evening, March 19, the Senior Citizens held their regular monthly meeting with twenty-two members present. The entertainment was in the nature of an old-fashioned Spelling Bee in which all participated. All were lined up on either side of the room with Mrs. Nora Wetzel captain of one group and Mr. Louis Stoner, Sr. captain of the other. Sister Madeline pronounced the words to be spelled. It was amazing to see such splendid spellers who would surely have put some of our modern youth to shame. The winners were Mrs. Martha Slemmer, first, and Mrs. Frances Keller, second. Each was awarded a beautiful blue couch pillow. Everyone entered into the fun with great gusto.

Refreshments of delicious cake, cookies, and coffee, were served by Mrs. Wm. Wivell and Mrs. James Bouey.

Plans for a Bazaar were discussed to be held Saturday, May 18. Committees were appointed as follows: Books and Records, Mrs. Esther Gillelan and Mrs. Ruth Eyer; Plants, Mrs. Emma Eckenrode, Mrs. Frances Stinson and Mrs. Charles Fuss; White Elephant Table, Mrs. Jake Baker; Foods, Mrs. Genevieve Clements; Fancy Work, Mrs. Nora Wetzel. Any donations from members or the general public will be thankfully accepted.

K of C Aids Financially To Church Book

Raymond R. Lauer, Grand Knight of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, is shown presenting a check for $500 to Rev. Louis B. Storms, C.M., pastor of St. Joseph's Church. The Council made the presentation to help defray the cost of publishing the history of the church, which is now in the hands of a publisher.

Grand Knight Raymond R. Lauer presided over the regular meeting of Brute Council 1860, Knights of Columbus, held Monday evening in the Council Home. Prior to the meeting Mass was celebrated by Rev. Joseph Arnold.

The Grand Knight announced that Knights of Columbus Week would be observed all next week and that the home would be open for visitation by potential members, provided they were accompanied by a member. Wednesday night will highlight the week-long affair with some special activities. A thank-you note was received and read from State Secretary Leonard McEvoy, who was sent flowers by the Council during his recent illness. George L. Danner, chairman of the recent Basketball Tournament, gave a report and it appears the venture will show a slight profit over last year's event. It was announced that Thomas Leonard had been awarded a recent draw prize sponsored by the Council.

Robert A. Seidel reported final plans and reservations for the State Council's Communion Breakfast to be held at the Basilica of the Assumption in Baltimore, Sunday morning. One new member, Joseph M. Lynch, was voted into the Council. A donation of $25 was authorized for the County Red Cross Drive and Paul A. Keepers, chairman of the "CC" license plate committee, reported that 77 sets of plates had been ordered by the Council and that they should arrive any day now.

Kite Contest Planned Sunday

Two Women Slightly Injured

Two women were slightly injured in a $2,500 two-car collision about 8 o'clock Saturday evening a mile from Littlestown on the Taneytown Rd.

Injured were the driver of the one vehicle, Delores E. Little, 73 W. Main St., Emmitsburg, who suffered lacerations of the chin and left knee, and a passenger in her car, Patricia L. Eckert, 16, Taneytown R2, who sustained arm and leg injuries. Both were removed to the Warner Hospital in the Littlestown American Legion ambulance. John K. Lott, 17, Aspers R1, the operator of the other vehicle was uninjured.

Pennsylvania State Police said the accident occurred when Lott's vehicle, traveling west on Route 194, slid on the wet road into the eastbound lane of traffic, while negotiating a curve and struck the Little car which was traveling east at the time. The impact of the collision spun the Little car around several times and it came to rest in a drainage ditch off the road. The Lott vehicle continued down the highway coming to rest partially in the eastbound lane.

Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the Little car and $1,000 to the Lott auto, according to state police.

A comprehensive report was given at the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday night at the Emmitt House, Mrs. Jane Bollinger, president, presiding. The report was given by the Recreation Committee of the organization after a meeting held at St. Joseph's Provincial House on March 8. The report was given by J. Heads of various organizations, members of the Town Council and other interested individuals, have been invited to the meeting to hear and see plans of the proposed recreational area. A meeting of the general public will be called at a later date.

A design of the new membership plaque was presented by Arthur Richardson and the group accepted the design and these plaques will be placed on order. G. Eugene Rosensteel, chairman of the roadside picnic areas, reported he had just recently contacted the State Roads Commission on the progress of plans for this area and that he had received a favorable report. A $10 donation to the Red Cross was authorized by the group.

Mrs. George Rosensteel, chairman of the beautification committee, was asked to contact the State and County Roads Departments relative to removing beer cans and other debris from the roadside on all four main approaches to the town and also the Hampton Valley Road leading to the Town's reservoir and watershed. ## Zora Restaurant Is Robbed Burglars made off with $30 from a cash register at the Charita Gateway Inn on the Emmitsburg-Waynesboro Rd., a mile from Zora Tuesday night.

Pennsylvania State Trooper John Cherba said the break-in occurred between 7 p.m. and 5:45 a.m. The thieves gained entrance by breaking a window in the men's room. They went to the main dining room cash register where they took 20 dollar bills and two $5 bills. The trooper said they were apparently scared off for they failed to take a $10 bill and a number of coins in the register.

The Gateway has been burglarized several times in the last few years, state police said. An investigation is being continued.

Why A New Constitution For Maryland?

By Henry R. Lord

The Constitutional Convention of Maryland recently completed its work of drafting for the State a proposed new Constitution. On Tuesday, May 14, 1968, qualified voters throughout the State will have the opportunity to accept or reject the document. Amidst much publicity, both for and against the proposed Constitution, Marylanders are asking themselves and their neighbors a highly pertinent and most important question. Why a new Constitution?

A test of a good Constitution is its ability to reflect the change in times and to enable government to cope effectively with the increasing problems of an advancing society. When applying this test to Maryland's present Constitution, adopted in 1867, we see a document unsuited for modern state government. Instead of providing a basic flexible framework from which government officials can work, its excessive detail and preoccupation with minor aspects impede the operation of each major branch of government.

The overabundance of constitutional detail necessitates constant amending of the Constitution every time a change is desired. This time-consuming and cumbersome process must be applied even to adjust many minor areas of state government. Since the adoption of the existing Constitution, 203 amendments have been added. That number seems inordinately large when compared to the 24 added to the Constitution of the United States, a document 80 years older than the one in Maryland. In 1966, alone, the voters in Maryland were called upon to ratify 16 new amendments.

Many provisions of the existing Constitution, which were considered important at the time of passage, have fallen into disuse or become meaningless over the years. Good examples of such provisions are the prohibition against fighting "a duel with deadly weapons" and the section requiring "compensation" from the United States for slaves. The county borders of Wicomico County are set out at length in the existing Constitution, but nowhere is there a reference to the borders of any of the other political subdivisions of the State.

Of more significance is the fact that much of the language of the existing Constitution is of no legal force and effect. Many of what appear to be the citizens' most basic rights (prohibition against self-incrimination, prohibition against excessive bail, right to a speedy trial by an impartial jury) have been determined to be mere statements of policy only because they are couched in non-compulsory language.

The most fundamental reasons for a new Constitution, however, become apparent when the structure of state and local government is examined more closely. The existing Constitution makes it clear that the governor is to be responsible for the operation of the executive branch. Yet the governor has to share his executive authority with other officials who are not directly responsible to him. The most notable restrictions upon his authority are the Board of Public Works and the comptroller. The Board of Public Works is comprised of the popularly elected governor and comptroller and the state treasurer who is selected by both houses of the legislature, sitting together. Since only a majority of two is needed for passage of any matter before the Board, decisions of the governor concerning the sale of bonds, the awarding of contracts, and the purchase and sale of public property can be over-ridden at any time. The comptroller, aside from disbursing all state funds, has the constitutional authority to set policy and render administrative decisions in the fiscal management area, which decisions may be entirely contrary to the fiscal policy sought to be followed by the governor.

The size of the legislature is not established by the existing Constitution. Because of this, both the Senate and the House of Delegates have continued to grow in size. For instance, in the last three years, the size of the General Assembly has increased by 33 members to a total of 185. If a constitutional limit on the size of the General Assembly is not established, the size will continue to grow steadily in order that each county may retain at least one elected representative at the General Assembly. Because of Maryland's rapidly growing population, the result of this will soon be a General Assembly which is entirely too large to transact its business efficiently and ably. Another limiting provision is the fact that the salary of the General Assembly is set at $2400 in the existing Constitution. This unreasonably low salary has caused the General Assembly to seek indirect additional compensation through enactment of daily living expenses and a liberal pension system. A second effect is that qualified people are dissuaded from seeking a seat in the General Assembly because of the low salary.

The existing Constitution provides for a crazy-quilt pattern of trial courts throughout the State. In Baltimore City alone there is a constitutional requirement that there be 6 separate trial courts, as well as an Orphans' Court, a People's Court and a Municipal Court. There is no requirement for a uniform system of courts of limited jurisdiction (courts hearing minor criminal and civil matters) and the result of this is an unfortunate lack of consistency in the form and quality of these courts from county to county. Furthermore, the existing Constitution grants the governor the right to fill all judicial vacancies by appointment without any requirement that he select from a list of qualified candidates submitted to him. The result of this is that appointments to the judiciary in Maryland have, in effect, been lifetime appointments. Only one of the 82 present state judges has achieved his position by defeating an incumbent judge at the polls.

Finally, local government in Maryland, combined with the phenomenon of "local laws" passed by the General Assembly, has created a system "uniquely characteristic" for Maryland. Nine-teen of the State's 24 political subdivisions, because of the existing Constitution, lack any significant powers of self-government. Because of this, the General Assembly, which has been elected to deal with matters of statewide concern, enacts laws, more than half of which have effect in only one county of the State. This not only hamstringing to a great extent the capabilities of the General Assembly, but also prevents the citizens of these 19 subdivisions from having a responsive local government in their county. The General Assembly in reality sits as a super-county council for them. Also, under the existing Constitution, any county or group of counties can be exempted from the effect of a public general law, thus destroying to a great degree the effectiveness of the law.

The answer to the question then of "why a new Constitution?" is necessarily a many-faceted one. The existing Constitution contains many archaic and meaningless provisions, it is excessively lengthy and confusing and contains a considerable number of internal conflicts. Of more significance, however, is the fact that because of the existing Constitution the effective operation of government in Maryland at all levels is limited by its cumbersome and outdated provisions.

After Death, The BODY SHALL RISE AGAIN!

This is one of the Christian truths hardest for some people to believe.

Though accepting the immortality of the soul, they cannot believe the human body can disintegrate and then be renewed and restored. Forgetting that anything is possible to God, they regard such resurrection as a physical and scientific impossibility.

One of the most definite truths of the Christian religion is that the bodies of all men after death shall rise again. "...the hour is coming," says the Gospel of St. John, "when all who are in the tombs will hear His voice and come forth, those who have done good to the resurrection of life, and those who have done evil to the resurrection of the judgment" (John 5:28-29).

Confronted by the disbelief of the Sadducees, our Lord said to them: "...as for the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was said to you by God, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? He is not God of the dead but of the living (Matt. 22:29-33).

But even though the Scriptures confirm this ancient Christian doctrine, they don't specifically answer some questions concerning it that may trouble you. You may wonder, for example, if your resurrected body will be identical with your human body... if you will recall loved ones and events of your life... if you will eat, drink and move about as you did in your lifetime on earth.

The nature of the resurrected body is explained by St. Paul, using the example of a seed to make his meaning clear. "What you sow is not the body which is to be, but a bare kernel, perhaps of wheat or some other grain. But God gives it a body as He has chosen, and to each kind of seed its own body. So it is with the resurrection of the dead. What is sown is corruptible, what is raised is incorruptible. It is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory. It is sown in weakness, it is raised in power. It is sown a physical body, it is raised a spiritual body" (1 Cor. 15:37-44).

If you are in doubt about or confused by the mystery of the resurrection of the body, write today for our new pocket-size pamphlet entitled: "You Shall Rise Again." You'll find in it the answers to questions you may have on this all-important doctrine — presented in interesting, easy-to-read fashion.

Betrayal In Cuba?

Two admissions of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara before he left the Pentagon confirmed what we had reported nearly a year ago:

1. Soviet Russia (our "peace loving friend," according to our policy makers) is taking mammoth strides toward becoming the No. 1 nuclear power in the world; he said that in the last 12 months Russia has more than doubled the number of land-based missiles capable of hitting the U. S. with nuclear warheads.

2. Soviet Russia has now produced an operational orbiting space vehicle capable of spraying H-bomb missiles over all areas of the United States.

Previously, Secretary McNamara had carefully discounted such reports.

These are admissions of grave and growing dangers. But neither the Defense Secretary, the State Department, nor any other Administration source has admitted that Cuba, 90 miles from our south-eastern coast, is today a mammoth Soviet fortress, containing according to seemingly well-documented reports, medium-range Soviet missiles capable, with nuclear warheads, of wiping out at least the eastern half of our nation. Six months ago we reported reliable testimony given to a Senate committee regarding this Cuban danger—a danger which our Government leaders have flatly denied. (I have a letter from the State Department denying it).

Who's Charting The Course

Our information on Communist Cuba has been augmented with the reading of a new book, "Betrayal" (the full title: "Betrayal Opened the Door to Russian Missiles in Red Cuba"). The author is Luis V. Manrara, Cuban exile, President of The Truth About Cuba Committee. For years, he has been one of the leaders of the Cuban Freedom Fighters, whom, he says, the U. S. Government has utterly neutralized, hindered, not helped. In a foreword in Senor Manrara's book, ($1—931 S. W. First Street, Miami, Florida 33130), Major-General Thomas A. Lane, U. S. Army (Ret.) poses a provocative question:

"Luis V. Manrara has assembled the record which shows how the game is played. The triumph of Castro, disaster at the Bay of Pigs, aborting the missile crisis—how could the United States so perfectly serve the Soviet interest if firm hands were not charting the course? Was treason at work?"

Soviets Run Cuba

General Lane, who before retirement had access to classified information on Cuba and other Communist operations, says: "Cuba is a Soviet-occupied country." Paul Bethel, former State Department official stationed in the U. S. Embassy in Havana when Castro came to power and for two years thereafter, gave the following testimony to the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security: "Cuba is controlled by Russia. . . . Castro does not run the country; the Russians do."

(One of the most starkly revealing facts in U. S. foreign policy was our Government's formal recognition of what key State Department people knew to be the Communist takeover of Cuba—before Fidel and his Red guerrillas had reached Havana!—together with our refusal to recognize the counter-revolutionary Government of the Hungarian Freedom Fighters days after the Hungarians had overthrown their Communist oppressors and established themselves in control of Hungary. After our failure to give them this world prestige—which we swiftly gave Castro—the Hungarian patriots were mowed down by a Russian tank invasion, their leaders murdered in cold blood.)

Missiles In Sanctuary

Senor Manrara, with substantial documentation, seeks to establish two primary facts with his book: (1) that U. S. foreign policy aided (was indispensable) in Castro's Communist takeover of Cuba and is today protecting Cuba from invasion in accordance with a "deal" made by President Kennedy with Soviet boss Khrushchev; and (2) that medium-range Soviet nuclear missiles are stationed in Cuba, and possibly full-range inter-continental ballistic missiles also.

Photographs published in the Cuban (Communist) newspaper El Mundo shows a parade of J-3 type ballistic missiles and cruise-type self-propelled missiles (mounted on half-tracks).

The newspaper calls them "Defensive" missiles but Manrara contends, with documentary citations, they are medium-range missiles (1,200 to 1,500 miles). Exposing the "deal" between President Kennedy and Khrushchev, he shows an official letter in which President Kennedy tells Khrushchev: "We agree to give assurance against an invasion of Cuba." And it was after this commitment, of which most Americans were unaware, that tens of thousands of Russians moved into Cuba and began the titanic task of building "Fortress Russia," there, a mammoth Red Arsenal, which appears now to be yet another Soviet sanctuary guarded by U. S. Foreign Policy.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

The modern pickup coach, matched to and properly mounted upon a current American light truck, quite likely is one of the most efficacious pieces of equipment ever conceived for sports afield. Its multiplicity of benefits boggles the imagination. And if, with a "yoke" (tow bar), the sportsman can trail a Bronco, Scout, Jeep or other four-wheel drive vehicle—and at other happy times, tow a trailer with boat or a snowmobile—he is in for maximum outdoor pleasure. In the finest traditions of red-blooded-American-boy inventiveness and Yankee cunning, he may even throw caution to the winds and mount a canoe atop the coach, or pack along an inflatable boat.

As headily intoxicating as these potential combinations are, let's here dwell upon the winning one of towing the off-road vehicle behind a pickup coach. While a short-wheelbase four-wheel-drive vehicle is a compact mass of metal— heavier than most people would estimate—towing one is easy.

A pickup truck specifically designed to haul a camper coach has certain rugged features that give it a surprising capacity for brutal work. Detroit is well aware that we sportsmen will often grossly overload the coach and at the same time try to tow heavy weights. So the trucks often have key components fabricated with a tremendous margin of strength. It is no great feat to tool one along the highways with a loaded coach mounted and towing a compact four-by-four at 60-65 mph.

With a camper-coach/off-road vehicle combination like this, points out John Johnson, Camping Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, you are blessed with several advantages. For one, you travel from home over modern highways in a truck that rides and handles as well as or better than passenger cars of only a scant few years ago. If you want, you can have air conditioning and stereo. When you arrive at your end-of-the-road campsite you have all the comforts of home. Then, each morning, you can take off for the boondocks in your four-wheel-drive.

But the possibilities do not end there. Some hunters and fishermen carry a trail cycle on the four-by-four, and after they get as far as seems practical, they park the rig and take off on the bike. Finally, when the bike quits, they go by shanks' mare. These sportsmen are enjoying the best of all the worlds.

Road Fatais

Continue High

Nine persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the State Police. Five of those killed were drivers, three were passengers, and one was a pedestrian. Alcohol was a contributing factor in three of the deaths, speed in seven, and "driver error" in all of them.

"In order to provide safer and more effective flow of traffic, we have witnessed in recent years a tremendous upswing in the construction of dual highways and, also, in the use of 'one-way' streets," said Lt. Col. George E.

Davidson, Chief of Operations of the State Police. "However, far too many serious accidents still occur on roads of these types because drivers have disregarded, for any number of reasons, the markings which clearly indicate the direction the traffic is to move.

"This particular driving error was a contributing factor in two of the nine highway deaths last week."

DENVER, Colo. — As double amputee Ewing W. Mays departed from Fitzsimons General Hospital here after a five day visit, he was told by Major General Robert E. Blount, commanding officer, "You are welcome and invited to return again and again to provide your brand of therapy for our patients."

General Blount was referring to Mays' national tour of military and civilian hospitals, visiting the newly handicapped, and particularly the amputees.

His Denver visit was fresh on the heels of an overwhelming tour of hospitals in the Los Angeles area that received much national acclaim.

Mays, who lost both of his legs in World War II, plans several nationwide tours this year. In most cases the military places our wounded servicemen in hospitals close to their home towns. His noble aim is to visit all of these hospitals in 1968. The current winter tour is taking him to hospitals in Nashville, Little Rock, Oklahoma City, Albuquerque, Los Angeles, Phoenix, Denver, El Paso, Del Rio, San Antonio and Houston, Texas; New Orleans, and Memphis.

A tour of Vietnam is also on Mays' 1968 agenda. Mays says, "Someone who has conquered his handicap needs to be there to walk before them, talk to them, and show them that it's not so bad after all."

Through conference and discussions the prospective teachers familiarize themselves with current practices and with their professional responsibilities.

In their senior year, student teachers observe and assist in all the experiences of the opening days of the school year. Here they have the opportunity to become familiar with the activities of the cooperating schools and the obligations of teachers in the initial days of the school year. These practical applications of the principles of education are an integral part of the total teacher-education program at St. Joseph College.

D.M.V. REPORT

By D. Murray Franklin
Public Information Officer
Md. Dept. of Motor Vehicles

What A Minor Must Do To Obtain A Driver's License

An explanation of the exact procedures for minors to follow in obtaining drivers' licenses can best be accomplished by discussing the group aged 18 to 21 separately from the group aged 16 to 18.

Let's begin with age 18-21 applicants. At the time of applying for an instruction and Examination License, the minor must submit a JR-11 Insurance Certificate in duplicate. This certificate must bear the minor's correct name and date of birth and its effective date must not be more than 30 days from date of application. Both copies must be signed by the insurance agent.

On the reverse side of the license application is a section entitled "Parental Consent". Here the parent's endorsement obligates them for the torts of their minor children. The signature may be by the Father, or Mother (using her given first name) or husband and/or wife (if over 21) or legal guardian. The endorser of the application accepts joint responsibility with the minor in event of cancellation or lapses of the insurance coverage.

However, as long as the JR-11 policy remains in effect, the endorser is relieved of his responsibility to the extent of the policy limits. He is still responsible for damages in excess of the policy coverage. A JR-11 Insurance Certificate may be a rider on the parent's policy if the minor plans to drive the family car, but if the vehicle is registered in the minor's name, the JR-11 Insurance Certificate must be made out in the minor's name.

Now for the age 16 to 18 group — they too, must have the same JR-11 Insurance Certificate as the older group, and in addition, must have completed an approved Driver Education Course at their high school or at one of the approved private professional driving schools.

The standards for Driver Education are administered and supervised by the State Department of Education. At present, the requirements call for 30 hours of classroom instruction. After April 1, 1968, the requirements will also include six hours of behind-the-wheel instruction.

At this writing it is supposed that if private professional driving schools employ instructors who can be qualified under the Department of Education standards for certification, then they too will offer the behind-the-wheel instruction.

When a minor makes application for his Instruction and Examination License, his JR-11 Insurance Certificate must accompany the application.

At the time of taking his final test, he must present proof of age and identity, either in the form of a birth certificate or baptismal document. If under 18 years of age, he must also present his Driver Education Certificate at this time. The Driver Education Certificate is kept on file at DMV, but the birth certificate is returned to the applicant.

After July 1st the Department of Education plans to issue Driver Education Certificates in quadruplicate, thus providing copies for the applicant, DMV, the insurance carrier and themselves.

DMV MAIL CALL

Present the original Bill of Sale notarized in the State of New York and the current registration; complete application of title, Form TD-315. Fee for title is $3.00 plus excise tax in the amount of 3% on the current retail value of the vehicle. Complete application for tags, Form TD-303, furnishing the name of the insurance company, policy or binder number, effective date of insurance and name of the insurance agent. Your signature and the date must be affixed to this form. If the passenger car weighs less than 3700 lbs., fee for tags is $15.00; if over 3700 lbs., fee for tags is $23.00. You are required to register your vehicle within 30 days if gainfully employed in a trade or profession. Resident students enrolled in an accredited school or university may operate their vehicle in this State with out-of-State tags, provided the State in which the students are residents grant the same privilege to Maryland student residents.

Governor Proclaims Wildlife Week

Governor Agnew announced this week that he is asking the citizens of Maryland to join with him and the Department of Game and Inland Fish to observe Wildlife Week being sponsored by the National and State Wildlife Federation.

Highlights of the observance are from March 17 through the 24th; however, it will continue throughout 1968 under the theme "Learn to Live with Nature." "This is something we should have learned centuries ago because it is necessary for our survival," the Governor said.

"For centuries, the human race has either grossly violated or completely ignored nature and its laws, believing that since nature could be subdued there was little reason to live with her. But the time of reckoning is upon us."

"Now we find ourselves paying to clean the air we breathe and the water we drink," Governor Agnew commented.

"I have asked the present General Assembly to appropriate $129,000,000 to combat water pollution which is the largest amount ever requested for this purpose."

"Other funds will be made available to acquire and develop wildlife lands, to fight air pollution, litter and waste of natural resources; and to preserve the environmental values, recreation enjoyment and natural beauty afforded by these precious natural resources."

"It is regrettable that we did not learn to live with nature long ago. We would not now find ourselves having to correct so many mistakes."

Persons interested in receiving more information are invited to contact their local County Chairman, Walter M. McKinney, R1, Thurmont, Md.

BABSON'S

POINT OF VIEW

Job Rights Of Returning Veterans

BABSON PARK, Mass., Mar. 21—When a worker has been away in military service for several years, it is for an employer to forget his legal responsibility to that veteran if he wants his job back when he returns. But the draft law spells it out, and the Supreme Court has brought down some decisions on special cases that are worth reviewing now that veterans are returning in substantial numbers.

Rights Under The Draft Law

First and foremost, the draft law specifies that young men discharged from the service must be treated exactly as though they had been on a furlough or leave of absence. Upon request, they must be given back their old jobs with no loss of seniority. Any fringe provisions must be theirs on the same basis that applies to employees granted leaves of absence by their company. In other words, such young men must not be deprived of any benefits accruing to their jobs while they were absent serving their country.

Personnel executives in companies both large and small should be well versed in the legalities and ethics of treating returning veterans who want their jobs back. Misunderstanding of the intent of the draft law and ignorance of subsequent court findings can cause embarrassment all round, plus possible tensions that may seriously damage labor relations as a whole. For unionized concerns, it is advisable for personnel officials to confer with labor representatives on such issues, especially if there are any uncertainties. Otherwise, the unions may later question management's actions.

Specifics Of Seniority
Guarantees

The High Court has made it clear that seniority must in no way be lost or lessened when a man is away in the service. Upon his return, a veteran must be treated precisely as though his employment had been continuous during his absence. Any changes affecting his position while he was in the service must apply to the job when he reclaims it. In at least one instance, even the elimination of their jobs through a labor-management agreement while the men were on duty did not release the employer from responsibility. The Supreme Court found that their stint for their country should be counted as working time in determining severance pay based on length of job tenure.

Recently, a returning veteran claimed a paid vacation that he had nearly accrued when he went into the military. The employer gave him back his position without controversy, but insisted that the employee would have to start anew in order to build up qualifications for holiday and vacation pay. Interest in the case was stirred when a federal appellate court (admittedly divided in its decision) backed the employer in his stand. The High Bench, however, reversed the appellate decision by merely pointing to an earlier precedent which had supported the stand of the workers.

Solving Hypothetical Problems

It is not always a simple question of giving back to the veteran the job and rating he had when he left for his military term. Consideration must sometimes be given to any upgrading in his position that would doubtless have occurred had he remained on his company's staff without interruption. In one recent instance, a draftsman resuming his job after his service duty claimed that restitution of his former rating was not enough. He argued that a union agreement required virtually automatic promotion as long as there was an opening on a higher level. Had he been there on the spot, he persisted, his qualification would have resulted in his achieving a more satisfactory rating. Here again, the court went along with the veteran pressing for somewhat hypothetical advances.

For management to be mindful of the best interests of returning veterans is to avoid charges of callousness, or at least carelessness. Even though it may create temporary difficulties in evening out rating differences between workers upgraded during the absence of service men and the returnees themselves, careful meshing of the strands of differences will prove to be very much worthwhile.

Library Gets Lenten Books

The library would like to take this article to recommend and to familiarize you with some of the religious books in the library. Since it is Lent and the church has recommended that we read as much as possible for a lenten duty. To list a few Catholic books first of all, we should start with a biography of Pope John XXIII. "Journal of a Soul." This book opens new windows into the interior of the man himself.

"The Mind of the Catholic Layman," by Daniel Callahan. "Baptized bishops, puzzled priests, uncertain laymen, and all who are interested in the present mood of the Church in America," can learn from this volume.

"American Pastor in Rome." An autobiography of an American pastor in Rome. James F. Cunningham, being saluted by Presidents and blessed by Popes are only a few of the things that have marked the career of this American Pastor. For a former registered pharmacist from the State of Connecticut whose ambition in early life was, some day, to own a drugstore, he had come a long way from home.

"American Bishop at the Vatican Council," by Bishop Robert E. Tracy. The story as it happened to him and as it changed the channels of modern church history.

"Pope John and His Revolution," by E. E. Y. Hales. An objective assessment of John's teachings shows how his thought differed from that of his predecessors.

For the general reader a book by Mary Ellen Chase, "The Bible and the Common Reader." Its first chapters deal with an explanation of what the Bible actually is, with the story of the origin of our King James translation, with a brief history of the Hebrew people. You will see the Bible in a new light and a more awakened interest and understanding.

"The Greatest Book Ever Written," by Fulton Oursler. Commencing with the creation, Mr. Oursler unfolds the dramatic accounts of Adam and Eve and their dismissal from Eden, of Noah, and the Deluge by which God hoped to cleanse the earth of evil. Brilliant portraits of the patriarchs; devout Abraham; gentle Isaac; Jacob and his favorite son, Joseph, the dreamer, who brought the tribes of Israel into Egypt; of Moses, Joshua, Saul, David and Solomon, and the many other men and women whose exciting lives and deeds are recorded in man's most magnificent chronicle.

"Guides to Straight Thinking," by Stuart Chase. An entertaining, readable and instructive book on how to improve your thinking and avoid being fooled by others.

Sacramental Prospective Therapy
(At the Confessional)
When you have counted all that's lost
And got the difference in tears,
Be sure to never, never cast
A thought to sum the cost in fears.

When Mercy outweighs the cost
And Justice hides its mantle bright,
Be sure to hold on Mercy fast
Before Redemption has been brought.

McGucken Responds To Soldier's Letter

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

In his letter last week, to the editor of the Chronicle, Sgt. Ulrich was quite correct to assume that I would not fail to answer his epistle; and he shall not have immunity simply by having wrapped himself in the flag and a military uniform, for I am familiar with that flag and that uniform. I love them both, at least as well as he loves them. I served in the sergeant's uniform during WWII, with honor, as did two of my brothers. My third brother served, with honor, two stretches, in Korea.

Like all of my brothers, upon entering the service, I abandoned my own intelligence and permitted the military establishment to implant in my head a rock, as a substitute for my brain. All of us, in the military fashion, came to know only object obedience, as in the fashion of soldiers from time immemorial. Thanks be to God, though, there is an element of the military (civilian leadership) that has not abandoned intelligence. The principal civilian leader happens to be the President of the United States; and he is so designated, as Commander in Chief, by the Constitution for which, I assume, Sgt. Ulrich and I have at least an equal veneration.

In 1963 President John F. Kennedy, then Commander in Chief, decreed that all private houses leased by the military establishment in the Washington - Baltimore area were to be made available to uniformed military personnel regardless of race, color, or creed; and most of all, regardless of whether such houses were in white residential neighborhoods or not.

When I found out that certain of my superior uniformed military chiefs were determined to circumvent President Kennedy's very sensible decree, I proceeded, out of channels, to correct the situation. I fell a casualty. I was at the time a civilian attorney. I had not abandoned my brain in favor of a rock. In 10 days I was fired.

Four months later, following a hearing, the United States Civil Service Commission ordered my reinstatement. I served thereafter for six months (very well behaved) until the budget for my office (U. S. Army Engineer District—Baltimore) was cut. At this point one of the many enemies that I had made picked up a phone, called the Colonel, and said: "Remember a few months back when we tried to axe McGucken and failed? . . . Guess what? We have a budget cut!" That's right, despite more than 20 years of public service—when you have the same you will be pensioned—I was informed that for "budget considerations" I was to be fired; not withstanding that I was at the top of my Retention Register.

It's correct Sarg, I am an im-bittered man, but I am not a quitter. I am not an easy loser! Two weeks ago I filed again for Congress. This time in the 8th District of Maryland, Montgomery County, where the electorate is made up almost entirely of my associate civilian employees of the government. I predict that they will vote my reinstatement into the government service!

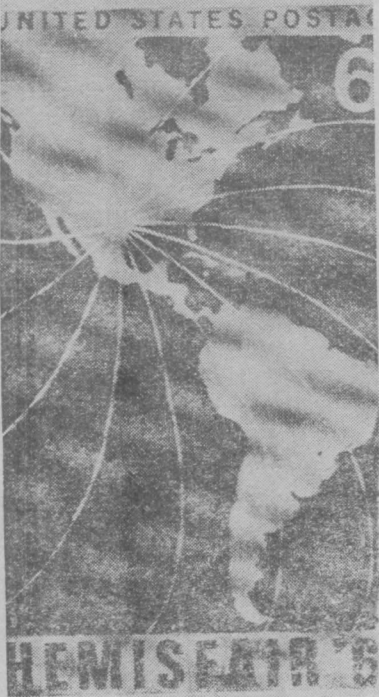

Yours sincerely,
Patrick F. X. McGucken

The ZIP Column

A booklet, designed to aid the senders of APO or FPO mail, which was mentioned previously in this column, is now available to those patrons having need.

A second in the series of commemorative stamps will be placed on sale April 1.

The HemisFair Stamp, commemorates the San Antonio, Texas Exposition which opens April 6, 1968. The theme of the Fair is: "The Confluence of Civilizations in the Americas."

Postoffice Box Rent (quarterly) is now due, and by POD regulation must be paid prior to the first day of the following calendar quarter. Since these rents are not payable on Saturdays, and due to March daily schedule, the deadline must be set at 5:30 p. m., Friday, March 29, 1968.

You may be wondering why we have blocked one side of the double front lobby door! The door closer is broken and must be replaced. Since our lessor chooses to sit back in his rocking chair, and count his rent money, adverse action must be taken each time a repair is necessary. These procedures take time.

The suggestion to have parking lines painted in the front lot has been presented to me by several patrons over the past six months. Even though this was an original thought when I came here, the previous paragraph should explain the difficulties.

County Facing

Teacher Shortage

Frederick County's School system is facing a shortage of teachers, especially in the elementary grades, a Board of Education spokesman said Monday.

Donald Z. Koons, Personnel Department, said that the local schools are facing the shortage now, and have been for the last three years.

"Maryland colleges just don't train enough teachers in all areas," Koons said, "and Frederick County is forced to recruit teachers from out-of-state colleges."

The Board of Education had considerable difficulty in filling teacher vacancies here last year in the elementary schools, Koons said, while predicting the problem may present itself again next school term.

Community College Enrollment Grows

Duval W. Sweadner, director of admissions at Frederick Community College, announces a total of 757 students enrolled at the college.

This figure represents an increase in enrollment compared to the fall total.

Some 242 represent the full-time students serviced by the day programs, and 426 students are enrolled on a part-time basis during the evening hours.

In addition, 72 students are enrolled in non-credit courses designed to improve specific skills or remedy defined academic deficiencies.

There are 520 male students and 236 female students enrolled at the college this spring.

Of the total, 670 reside in Frederick County, 77 live in other counties, and five come from outside the state.

Dr. Sweadner commenting on the increasing enrollment, said: "The college must expand its day offerings next year, increase its full-time staff, and take all necessary steps so that the new campus on O'Possumtown Pike is completed at the earliest possible time."

BAKER—FELIX

Rita M. Felix, Emmitsburg, daughter of Joseph Wivell and the late Mrs. Wivell, Emmitsburg, became the bride of Leroy H. Baker on January 6, at 11:00 a.m. in St. Joseph's Church, Emmitsburg. The double ring ceremony and nuptial Mass was performed by Rev. Louis Storms, C.M., pastor.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length sheath with coat of blue lace over taffeta over which there was a scroll of embroidered net in the form of petals. Her matching shoulder length veil of net fell from a crown of taffeta, and her slippers were matching blue. She carried a bouquet of carnations tinted to match her dress.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Leo Topper, Sr. She wore a crepe sheath with lace overcoat of hot pink, with matching veil attached to a crown of rosebuds, pink slippers and gloves. She carried a bouquet of carnations tinted to match her dress.

Best man was Leo Topper, Sr., and ushers were Philip Topper, Emmitsburg, and John Sprigg, Camp Hill, Pa., nephew of the bride.

The bride also carried a blue pearl Rosary which matched her gown. The Rosary was a gift of the bride's niece, Sister Maria Mark, Reading, Pa.

Traditional wedding music was played by the church organist, Mrs. Louis Rosensteel, who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Marie Rosensteel.

The couple is living in their newly purchased home on Route 2, Emmitsburg.

A reception was held at the VFW Annex immediately following the ceremony.

The bride is employed at the H. O. Toor Shoe Co., Emmitsburg, and the groom is employed at Mack Truck Co., Hagerstown.

Ag Program

Benefits Cited

Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) special projects benefited an increased number of low-income farmers during 1967, according to James M. Voss, Chairman, Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

Such projects not only help groups of farmers to solve conservation problems on their land, but they also are of value to the communities or areas where they reside. About 400 counties throughout the country had such projects approved last year, compared with less than 300 in 1966.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has said that continued emphasis — to the extent of available funds — will be placed on special projects this year to enable low-income family-type farmers to undertake needed conservation measures on their land.

During 1967, a total of more than a million farmers (including those with low incomes) are estimated to have participated in cost-share conservation under regular ACP and special projects to help protect the agricultural productive capacity of the land.

This was done by carrying out nearly 50 different cost-share measures such as establishing vegetative cover and building terraces to halt erosion, reorganizing ing irrigation systems to save water, establishing sod waterways to reduce stream siltation, building ponds, protecting streambeds, and clearing channels to prevent flooding and assure clean and abundant water.

Willows are important sources of food for wildlife and are also valuable for erosion control.

Much of the conservation work was done on farms in small watersheds developments throughout the country to support the total conservation effort being made in these watersheds.

Local 4-H Club

Meeting Held

The second Emmitsburg 4-H Club meeting was held Tuesday, March 19 at 7:30. Approximately 50 students and parents attended the meeting. The purpose of the meeting was to explain a few of the many projects a 4-H'er can undertake. The program, "Projects Unlimited," was presented by the Rocky Ridge 4-H Club. These members, under the able direction of Mr. Ralph Lee Keilholtz, explained their projects—How much it cost to initiate a project, what one is expected to do to complete a project. The 4-H'ers and their topics were: Beef, Carolyn Keilholtz; Swine, Paula Bollinger; Sheep, Brian Willari; Photography, Jim Wivell; Flower Arranging, Mary Ann Keilholtz; Clothing, Phyllis Wivell; Gardening, Mark Wivell; Record Keeping, Stanley Gregg; Dairying, Jane Bassler; and Clothing, Vicki Wivell. Their informative topics were well prepared and presented.

Sharon Sharrer of the Rocky Ridge Club offered a lamb to begin a lamb ring in the local 4-H. The lamb is to be given to a 4-H'er who will use it as a 4-H project. After the lamb reproduces, it's offspring will be given to another 4-H'er, and this member continues the same process.

The meeting was concluded with the passing out of project booklets. The areas that attracted most interest were handyman projects, marksmanship and gardening. The following have enrolled in the local 4-H:

Martha Richardson, Patrick Dillon, Eddie Hatter, Grace Richardson, Donald Stoner, Michael Stoner, Eugene Brown, Gloria Brown, John Sanders, Michael Rosensteel, Bryan Bentz, Harold Engelstatter, Paul Carter, Jr., Steven Myers, Cecil Richardson, Robin Brown, Daniel Sprankle, Stephan Sprankle, Herbert Rohrbach, Jr., Dennis Vaughn, Vincent Myers, Lois Meadows and Mike Meredith. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Lawrence Welk, popular band-leader and television entertainer, will star at the American Cancer Society Crusade Kickoff, Friday, March 29 at the Friendship International Hotel in Baltimore.

Lawrence Welk To Aid Cancer Fund Drive

Attending from Frederick will be a group of 10 county chairmen and committee workers headed by Francis W. Bush, Sr., this year's general crusade chairman for Frederick County. A total of 400 crusaders from throughout the state is expected.

During the kickoff, Mr. Bush said, that each chairman, of the State's 24 units will be called upon by Attorney General Francis B. Burch, state chairman, to announce their unit's 1968 goal.

Mr. Welk will be the keynote speaker as National Crusade Chairman and also will provide the evening's entertainment. Accompanying him will be two of his champagne music makers, Natalie Nevins and Joe Feeney.

While in Baltimore Mr. Welk will appear on Channel 13 with Dr. Elliott Michelson, vice president of the Maryland Division. The live show will be broadcast March 28 at 10 p. m. on Channel 13.

To kickoff the American Cancer Society Crusade on a national basis, Mr. Welk has prepared a special show for his program on Saturday, March 30.
