Plans for Emmitsburg's swimming pool are advancing at a rapid pace. After months of fundamental spadework by the Chamber of Commerce, a comprehensive plan and drawings have been completed. At a special meeting of the Chamber with heads of local organizations held last night it is believed real progress has been made. After more study by the Town Council it is hoped to call a general public meeting to explore the existing sentiment before final plans are begun. The effort appears to be making great headway and it is hoped that in the not too distant future, the project will become a reality. The project is a major undertaking and will require the support of the whole community in keeping it operating once it is started. We feel confident that that support will be forthcoming once the public sees the recreational area, and the benefits derived therefrom, in operation. It is hoped to obtain state and federal money grants to complete the project.

The C & P Telephone Co. is offering another public service to the citizens of Emmitsburg, in line with its never-ceasing policy of rendering the best of service to its patrons and the communities it serves. Announcement was made this week by the company, that any emergency service call to Frederick would be free of charge. Hereafter all calls, regardless of type or urgency, were of a charge nature. Now if anyone has an emergency, and it must be an emergency, all that is necessary is to dial the Operator, tell her this is an emergency call, and it will be put through swiftly... and free. Should you be involved in an accident, or see one where help is needed, call the Operator and help will be forthcoming.

Residents of the Emmitsburg area are advised, regardless of what they read or hear concerning the reporting of fires, are asked to continue using the regular Fire Dept. phone number which is 447-4141. This will provide you with the fastest fire service possible... at any hour. There has been some confusion, since the start of the Central Alarm System in Frederick County, as to how to report a fire emergency. Fire Company officials this week informed the Chronicle that residents should continue using the old number, 4141, to report any and all fires, especially those on rural routes.

After last Saturday's sudden snow and blow, perfectly delightful spring weather descended on this area and as was expected many began to work in their yards. Missing from the local scene for some time now has been the annual Spring Clean-Up, Fix-Up campaign which did wonders to beautify our town. There are quite a few eyesores visible at this time and it is hoped that they will disappear now that nice weather has arrived. Just sweeping the sidewalk, cleaning up the yard or painting your property makes a world of difference to the appearance of the community in which you live. Let's get those brooms and paint brushes in action folks!

Senior Citizens To See Blossoms

On Tuesday, April 2, 1968, the Senior Citizens are making an all-day trip to Washington, D. C. to see the Cherry Blossoms around the Tidal Basin. The bus will leave the Senior Citizens Center at 10 a.m. Anyone wishing to go, please call the Center and give your name.

Each individual is to bring his own lunch. On the return journey the bus will stop at a good cafe or restaurant for dinner where the pangs of hunger may be appeased before taking the way home.

It is hoped that a goodly number will go on the tour, for it is a beautiful sight to behold, the Cherry Blossoms in full bloom.

Religion is a great help in time of trouble, but you must have the religion to receive the help.

GENE VALENTINE KILLED IN TRUCK MISHAP IN PHILA.

Gene Edward Valentine, 35, Fairfield R2, who was driving a load of cattle to Philadelphia for his father, left the cab of his tractor-trailer on Seventh St., Philadelphia, to check his load Friday morning in Philadelphia. Moments later he was struck by a car which also struck five other vehicles and almost ran down some school children.

Philadelphia officials said Valentine was killed instantly. Death was attributed to "multiple injuries of the head, trunk and right leg."

The driver of the car, Richard Sanders, 53, of Philadelphia, was arrested on charges of homicide by automobile, drunken driving, leaving the scene of an accident and aggravated assault and battery by automobile.

Philadelphia police said Sanders' vehicle struck another car, and then ran Valentine down, knocking him under his tractor-trailer. Then Sanders' car, according to police, careened into the path of a group of six schoolchildren crossing Seventh St. at Bigler St. Philadelphia Patrolman Vincent Lamazza pushed the children from the path of the car. The officer narrowly escaped being hit by the car.

A short distance further Sanders' car ran into a parked auto, knocking it 30 feet into two other parked vehicles finally coming to a halt when it struck another parked car.

Valentine was pronounced dead at 8:20 a.m. at Methodist Hospital. Sanders was not reported injured.

A helper on Valentine's truck, Roy Leo Rohrbach, 19, also of Fairfield R.D., said they had stopped the truck to secure a partition separating the calves from the pigs which had become loose.

He said he was inside the trailer fixing the partition when Valentine was struck and killed. Sanders was arrested Friday night before Magistrate Raymond Malone in Philadelphia and held without bail for an April 1 hearing at the Police Administration Building.

Sanders was arrested for drunken driving on June 13, 1965, and was subsequently given a one-year probation sentence by the late County Court Judge John A. Boyle.

He was arrested again for drunken driving on November 18, 1967, and was indicted by the grand jury in February. The case has yet to come to trial.

In all, Sanders has a record of eight previous arrests going back to July, 1958, when he was arrested for illegal possession of untaxed liquor and fined $27.

A son of Clarence S. and Molly Erbaugh Valentine of Emmitsburg R3, Mr. Valentine is survived by his parents, his wife, the former Ann Mullen; four children, Timothy Gene, Mary Anne, Kimberly Mae and Michael Edward, all at home; a sister, Mrs. John Weikert, Fairfield, and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Erbaugh, Dayton, Ohio.

He was a member of the Elias Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg.

Funeral services were held from the Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Ronald Fearer and the Rev. Philip Bower, officiated and interment was in the Fairfield Union Cemetery. Pallbearers were: James Hobbs, George Harbaugh, Pius Clapsall, James Wagerman, Richard Wagerman and Bernard Wivell.

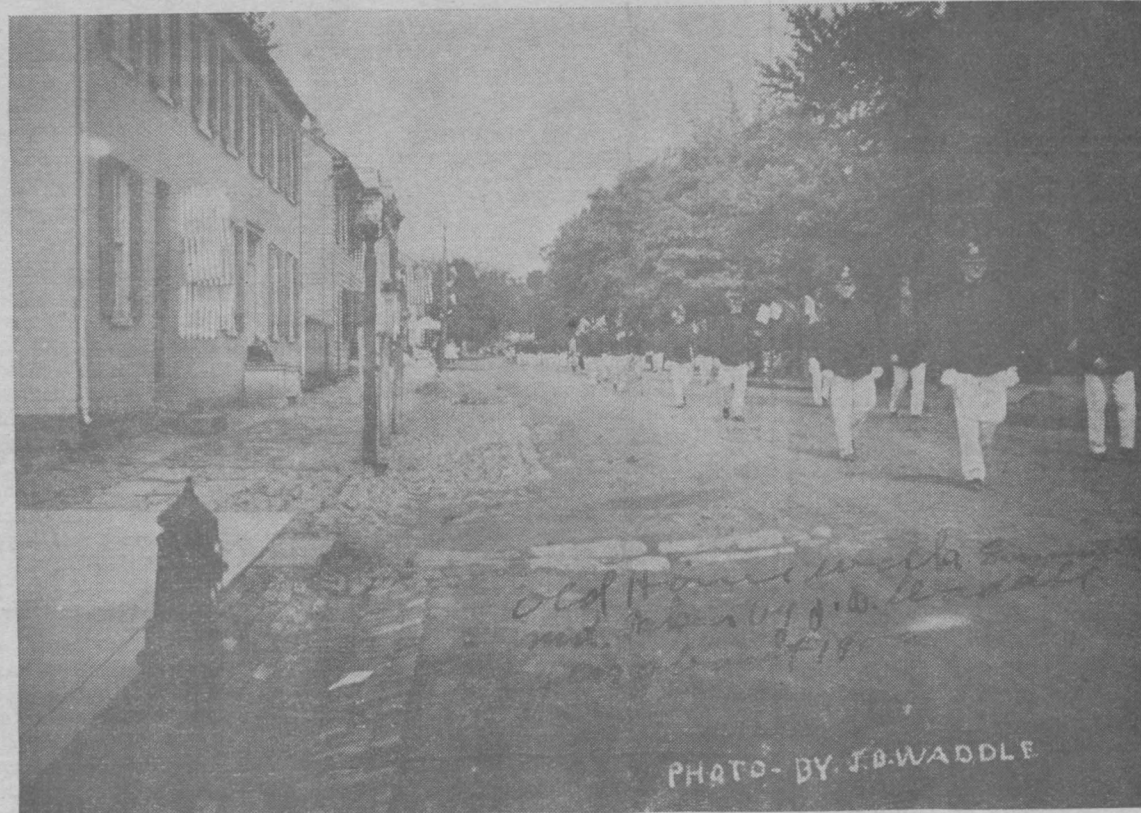

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kreitz, Sr., entertained their family with a turkey dinner March 18. The occasion was the return of their son, Sgt. Michael Kreitz, who spent a year of duty in Vietnam. Soldier Has Close Call In Vietnam

On February 29, 1968, Sp4 Stephen F. Kelly of Emmitsburg, door gunner for the 173rd Assault Helicopter Company of Lai Khe, Vietnam, on a UH-1B "Huey" gunship, had a narrow escape when a bullet pierced his flight helmet.

It all started for Kelly in the early morning hours. He was "scrambled" to aid in the defense of an Army Republic of Vietnam outpost near Ben Cat, 28 miles north of Saigon. The outpost was under siege and was in danger of being overrun.

The gunship searched the area attempting to find the enemy positions, but the VC were difficult to locate because they were not using tracers. Flying at treetop level amidst heavy automatic weapons fire from the ground, Kelly soon found the main VC force.

SIXES DAM HEARING IS FAVORABLE

The Sixes Bridge Dam, near Emmitsburg on the Monocacy River was "highly recommended" under the proposal of the Army Corps of Engineers for development of large dam reservoirs along the Potomac to provide water and recreation for the people living along that river, especially those in the Washington, Frederick and other major areas where population is expected to expand drastically during the next 40 years.

A public hearing on the new proposals by the Corps of Engineers was held Saturday at Winchester, Va.

According to news reports from the Winchester meeting, Brigadier General Harry G. Woodbury, director of Civil Works for the Corps of Engineers said that "at best it would be 1976 before the first of the six projects could be put under construction depending on the fiscal situation and other things." The Sixes Bridge dam was not opposed as such by anyone at the session and was highly recommended to be the first reservoir built because "of the stringency of immediate needs of both Frederick and the District of Columbia."

One news story of the Winchester meeting noted that the recommendations put forward by the Army Corps of Engineers at Winchester Saturday were scaled down from the 1963 report which recommended 16 major dams and more than 400 smaller impoundments, be designed to meet the water needs of the area for the next 20 years.

Generally, representatives of political jurisdictions in the basin urged support of the project and individuals and groups of landholders spoke in opposition. There were more than 40 speakers and a turnout of 426 people for the public meeting.

The views of citizens' groups, led by large landholders in the basin, urged small impoundments in the headwaters for local water needs for the future and an estuary intake and pumping plant to supply metropolitan Washington.

They also said the problem of pollution of the river should be dealt with "at source," not by the corps' proposed method of flushing and dilution by drawing down from the recommended reservoirs.

The District of Columbia supports construction of all six dams and the quicker the better, said Roy Orndorff, director of sanitary engineering.

When the views of those at the hearing have been digested and additional comments received from the governors of the affected states, the engineers will write a "clean" report for submission to the Congress.

Thurmont Dam Contract Awarded

A Frederick construction company submitted the low bid this week in Baltimore for construction of the proposed Hunting Creek Dam at Cunningham Falls State Park at Thurmont.

The M. J. Grove Lime Company submitted the low bid of $848,000 for construction of an earth embankment dam at the state park. Raymond DeGroft, Maryland Department of Public Improvements, said the contract won't be awarded until the Board of Public Works approves the contractor. After the Board acts on awarding the contract, the construction company will be notified when to start work, DeGroft said.

After approval, DeGroft added, the Board of Public Works will meet with the contractor at a job-initiation meeting and will discuss any problems about the project that may arise.

The proposed dam would create a 43-acre lake, which Parks Department officials claim would attract 500,000 campers a year.

Opponents of the dam maintain that the 90-foot high dam would ruin one of the state's best trout fishing streams, in addition to other complaints.

The proposed dam site forces relocation of Catoctin Hollow Rd. to a location east of the present road.

Opponents have threatened court action to block building of the dam. DeGroft said that work will not begin until the problems concerning the dam, including the opponents' complaints, have been settled.

The delinquency rate among juveniles who hunt and fish is well below the national average.

Local Government Under The '68 Constitution

By Clinton I. Winslow

Throughout the history of Maryland, the units of local government have held a prominent place. There has been an unusual identity of the individual with his county and, in some cases, with his city or town. As the problems of government have grown along with the population and the industrialization of the state, it was quite natural that the state government came to exercise a larger share of control. The result has been that the counties, previous to the home-rule movement, came to be little more than administrative units of the State and the General Assembly became the lawmaker for the individual counties. The twin practices of "local legislation" at the hands of the General Assembly (or more exactly at the hands of the county delegation to the legislature) and the "exemption" from the application of general law of any county asking to be excluded have become serious impediments both to legislative effectiveness, to state-wide uniformity and to responsible county government. Even in the case of the home-rule counties (Montgomery, Baltimore, Anne Arundel, Wicomico, and Baltimore City) and of the municipal corporations, the General Assembly has specified their powers in minute detail so that any power (excluding judicial) not denied to it by its charter or by the Constitution, or transferred to another governmental unit or denied to the county by the General Assembly by law. The County's taxing powers are subject to control by the General Assembly. This will allow each county to govern itself, avoiding the present necessity of running to the legislature to request a new law or the permission, on the part of home-rule counties, to exercise a power not included in the express powers acts. In this way, the Convention felt that power will be placed where it can best be exercised and responsibility will be fixed for any actions taken.

For a considerable period of time it has been apparent that the problems demanding governmental action do not stop at existing political boundaries. Accordingly, the General Assembly has created such governing units as the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the Washington Suburban Transit Commission, the Metropolitan Transit Authority, and the Baltimore Regional Planning Council, each covering more than a single county. Since the Constitution places no limitations upon the legislature in such matters, it can act under its plenary powers. Under a decision of the Maryland Court of Appeals, it is apparent that under the present Constitution the General Assembly may not submit laws dealing with multi-governmental units to popular referendums. The new Constitution makes clear what the courts have said, that the General Assembly may create intergovernmental authorities and popularly elected representative regional governments. But two safeguards are attached, not found in the existing Constitution.

First, no counties are to be dissolved or merged or have their boundaries changed without the consent of each county affected. Secondly, the General Assembly may provide referenda on any laws pertaining to such regional governments.

Counties will also have power to create and empower new municipal corporations and to grant new powers to existing corporations and withdraw those so granted. The powers of incorporated to annex territory will be subject to county approval or as determined by the General Assembly.

In brief, the counties presently without home-rule are provided in the new constitution with the means of securing for themselves a framework of government equal to their responsibilities as independent governing units, and all counties are strengthened in their power base so as to be free from state legislative control. As an added bonus, the General Assembly will be largely free from the demands upon it as the lawmaker for individual counties and be relieved from the pressure for county exemption. Thus both the state and the county profit by a new relationship and county government will be brought closer to the people.

diverted acres under the 1968 feed grain program will start May 1. It will continue for the following 5 months until October 1, 1968.

James M. Voss, Chairman, Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, explains that farmers who are diverting acreage under the program have agreed not to graze the diverted acres during a specific 5-month period of the growing season and not to harvest a crop from diverted acres at any time during the year.

Farmers participating in the Conservation Reserve and Crop-land Adjustment Programs have agreed not to graze land diverted under these programs or harvest any crop from such land during the life of the agreements. Maryland farms signed up to participate in the 1968 commodity diversion program for corn/grain sorghum number about 5,260.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day
Active Teenager

Every now and then someone waxen nostalgic about the "iron horses" of yesteryear — George De Mar and Matinee Idol, both 333-time starters, Seth's Hope, who ran 327 times or the famed Tippet Witchet who, after going to the post 266 times, continued an active career as a lead pony taking horses to the post whose parents hadn't even been foaled when Tippet Witchet was in his prime.

There are today more than a handful of "teenagers" racing, but with almost 40,000 horses competing in a similar number of races, they are lost in the shuffle. One such, and probably the leading money-winner of his age division, is a 14-year-old brown gelding by the name of Be Fly, who has visited the winners' circle in all but one of his eleven years of campaigning. A son of Be Sure Now—Sky Crest, Be Fly was bred by Bill Luke and foaled in 1953 in Arizona.

Toward the end of 1967 Be Fly had run eighteen times to bring his total to 194 races, of which he won 31, was 36 times second and 17 times third, to earn something in the neighborhood of $30,000. His best year was 1964, when he started 23 times, won five, got a part of 11 others to earn $5,008.

Babson Quarterly Business And Financial Forecast

As we move toward the opening of the second quarter, the economy is generally strong. Gross National Product has shown good gains during the three months now ending, as have employment and personal income, though betterment did not reach earlier sanguine expectations.

Looking ahead into the April-June period, we perceive signs of additional gains for the nation's business. Propelled by still rising military procurement for Vietnam, sizable overall defense requirements, and heavy federal and other government spending, economic activity promises to move moderately higher.

The supporting factors cited above will likely be augmented by still more bullish activity in the steel industry and well-maintained to possibly somewhat firmer overall performance in other parts of the private sector of the economy.

To put it another way, on balance second quarter business should be quite good, improving on the performance chalked up in the period now drawing to a close. But the rate of increase seems slated to slow down, and the longevity of the rise itself will be coming more and more into question as mid-year approaches.

Vietnam

The war in Vietnam and our military and economic involvement in Southeast Asia will dominate Washington trends in the coming quarter. While a cessation of hostilities is widely desired and eagerly sought by a number of other governments as well as our own, the respective positions of both sides have hardened since the North Vietnamese Tet offensive which resulted in such heavy casualties to all combatants. Reluctantly but resolutely, the President will probably move toward some further buildup of military strength, but in the second quarter he will not approve anywhere near as large an escalation as the generals are reported to be urging.

Money And Interest Rates

We foresee some tightening in money, but certainly no massive crunch. However, the Fed has moved to tighten availability moderately and this will put upward pressure chiefly on short-term interest rates. Long-term rates, on the other hand, will likely change little as a further slackening in business expenditures for new plant and equipment occurs. A tax boost would push tax-exempt interest costs lower.

The Dollar

The nation's continuing gold drain and unfavorable balance of international payments are extremely serious and will pose new challenges to the government and to the economy itself over coming months. There will, however, be no devaluation of the dollar and no boost in the $35-per-ounce price of gold in the second quarter.

Taxes

In the wake of the gold crisis, the international bankers are insisting that LBJ up taxes and cut expenditures. Although the tax surcharge was marked for death, it could now be revived. If the President should conclude that we must again escalate dramatically in Vietnam, higher taxes could come by mid-year, casting their shadows before them.

Federal Spending

Uncle Sam was all set to shell out more money, with national security expenditures predominating, when the Central European Bankers blew the whistle. Spending at all levels of government will still enter new high ground, pushing the annual rate close to the $200-billion mark. However, foreign aid funds will be further curtailed by Congress; and new federal programs enacted into law to help cities, advance education, and promote civil rights will not appropriate anywhere near the amounts which advocates of these measures are presently pressing for.

Employment And Unemployment

As Vietnam and other defense and security efforts place greater demands on manpower, total employment will show a further increase, unemployment will hover near what must be just about an irreducible minimum, and the shortage of skilled labor will become more serious.

Labor Prospects

Shortage of skilled help will place labor in a still more powerful bargaining position vis-a-vis management, with the squeeze hurting hard as over-all economic activity gathers more momentum. However, it is well to remember that wage and price controls are being held in the wings and will be imposed if the economy should become overheated and/or our balance-of-payments situation more severely threatened.

Strikes

Labor walkouts may not capture quite as many headlines in the second quarter as they have in some past periods, but they are sure to be fairly numerous and to cause some supply-demand dislocations in various sectors of the economy. At this writing, the odds would seem to favor a steel strike around midyear... but if we should move toward another large troop buildup in Vietnam with all that it would entail, the likelihood of a steel stoppage would fade and anticipated heavy hedge-buying in the April-June period would run well below present expectations.

Personal Income

Newly upped minimum wage rates and expanded social security payments will combine with additional generous wage settlements and high interest and dividend payments to lift incomes to new peaks... but inflation will cut into the gains as prices continue their uptick.

Retailing

If you're a retailer, your cash registers should be ringing up a heartening increase in dollar sales. However, the boost in actual turnover of goods may amount to not much more than half the gain in dollar volume, owing to price increases. And unless you can manage to exercise strict control over costs, the rise in profits versus the first quarter may well be disappointing.

Building And Construction

Home building promises to show a seasonal increase over the first quarter, with lower-rental apartment units predominating because of high and still rising land, labor, and material costs. Cutbacks of spending for new plant and equipment and of appropriations for public buildings will put a damper on public and commercial construction, though hospital building will likely show a further good upturn in the period under consideration.

Autos

Here the outlook is generally rated as good, though no new boom is in the offing. While we look for improvement to be no more than what might normally be expected on a seasonal basis, the balance of factors does suggest a further boost in profits.

Farm Prospects

Spring plantings of barley, cotton, flaxseed, and rice will be importantly expanded, but there may be some cutback in soybean acreage versus a year earlier as a result of the newly announced regulations disqualifying soybean acreage for direct feed-grain payments. Farmers' expenses are still pointing strongly upward. For the three months just ahead, their gross income should show better gains than in the first quarter, but the boost in net will not keep pace.

Profits And Profit Margins

Profits appear to have made some worthwhile gains during the first three months of this year, and there is good reason to expect that this will carry over into the second quarter. This assumes, of course, that any new federal taxes will not become operative until July 1 or later. Readers should be warned, however, that the better profits trend we are forecasting is likely to be of relatively short duration. How much it could be extended beyond midyear—even without a tax boost—is problematical, for labor and materials costs will continue to rise and profit margins will tend to narrow if vigilance over costs is not consistently maintained.

International Affairs

Meanwhile, our international relations on the whole are not faring well. In Latin America, our preoccupation with Europe and Asia is being misinterpreted as disinterest in problems which are becoming more serious and more potentially dangerous to the peace of this hemisphere. Nor are we regarded much more highly in Europe, the stronghold of our moral support in years past. By and large, our friends among the Free World nations are looking askance at our ambitious military stance in Southeast Asia and at our dilly-dallying and shilly-shallying in fiscal matters while the fires of inflation burn brightly and the dollar teeters on the brink of a devaluation which could well plunge the world into financial turmoil and possibly also into a severe depression.

Danger Of Protectionism

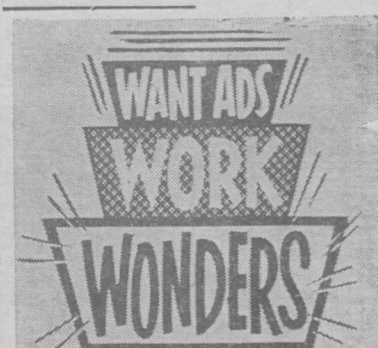

The Administration's proposals for severe restrictions on travel and trade abroad have triggered alarming official and private attitudes and postures which could lead us down the road to fiscal ruin rather than up the path of fiscal sanity. We are witnessing now the beginnings of what could become a veritable barrage of propaganda designed to persuade us to curtail our trade with the rest of the world in order to conserve our dollars and help put our balance of payments in better shape. Hopefully, Congress will not be carried away by the Administration's requests for restrictions on foreign trade and/or travel or by the importunings of businessmen who see in such a move a way of escape from foreign competition. In the long run, such restrictions would hasten—not delay—worsening of our economic position in the world, especially if they are not accompanied by sharp cutbacks in government spending.

Personal Finance

Although both business volume and profits will move up measurably in the second quarter, the plus and minus factors simply do not add to anything like the start of a new boom in the coming three months. The financial position of the nation is precarious and beset by a big war which threatens to get bigger before it is finally ended.

ed. Moreover, international, political, economic, and military uncertainties have seldom posed so many challenges to our government or to American citizens. Yet, despite all these dangers and distractions, there are opportunities for bettering your own economic position. Today's higher incomes provide more Americans than ever before with greater choice and discretion in their everyday decisions on business investments, employment, purchases of necessities and more marginal items, and on the buying and selling of securities.

Can We Be Modern and CHRISTIAN, TOO?

To some people nowadays, the Christian way of life is naive, old-fashioned, "square."

As if the teachings of Jesus Christ had ceased to be pertinent to this sophisticated age.

A radio commentator, in fact, said recently that in another 50 years mankind will seek answers to man's questions of being from science rather than religion.

This may seem to make sense to an era plagued by war, dishonesty, social injustice, "hippies," LSD, divorce, pornography and an exaggerated preoccupation with matters of sex.

But—does it?

Christ did not sacrifice His life for the salvation of one generation and not another. Nor did He promulgate a way of life that would be relevant to the needs of one period of time and not to others. His "blue print" for Christian living is founded on divine and enduring principles, not upon the changing mores and deviations of a particular time in history.

Living the Christian life in the modern world may be different than it was in earlier and less turbulent times. But the vital need of doing so has not diminished if we are to find meaning and purpose in this life and eternal salvation in the next.

If you feel truly concerned about these things, we invite you to send for our new pocket-size pamphlet entitled "Christian Life and The Modern World." It covers in easy-to-read style such topics as "What Is a Christian?"... "The Modern World"... "The Christian's Involvement in The World"... "Christ and The Christian"... "The Christian—Old-Fashioned or Up to Date?"... "The Ecumenical Christian"... "The Christian and The Bible" and "The Christian Goes to Church."

D.M.V. REPORT

By D. Murray Franklin
Public Information Officer
Md. Dept. of Motor Vehicles

Revocation
Revocation of one's driving privileges is an extremely serious restriction. There is nothing more final than Revocation insofar as complete cessation of driving privileges is concerned. A revoked license can never be reclaimed. A revoked driver may apply for, and in certain instances, become reinstated, but the revocation is permanently posted on the driver's record, for all time.

Under Section 104 of Article 66½ of the Annotated Code, the Department of Motor Vehicles, upon notice from the courts, must revoke driving licenses of persons convicted of:

1. Manslaughter by a motor vehicle.
2. Operating under the influence of alcohol.
3. Commission of a felony in which a motor vehicle is used, or involved.
4. Failure to stop after a personal injury or fatal accident.
5. Misrepresentation, perjury, false oath or false affidavit to acquire a title or license.
6. Turning off lights to avoid identification.
7. Operating a motor vehicle while suspended or revoked.

These are mandatory revocations and require DMV action without a hearing. The Driver Improvement Section of this Department notifies the individual by forwarding a formal revocation order, stating the reason for the revocation. The order instructs the individual to turn in his tags, vehicle registration card and operator's license to the Department.

If DMV does not receive the requested tags and licenses within 10 days, a pick-up order is issued to the Department's investigation division.

An alternative to save an owner's tags, permitting other members of the family to drive the car, is to file a SR-22 Certificate of Financial Responsibility immediately. This insurance coverage must be carried for a period of 36 months.

Maryland law permits a driver revoked the first time to apply for reinstatement three months from the date of revocation. On the second and subsequent revocations, the operator is not eligible to apply until one year from date of revocation.

Applications for reinstatement question his obedience of the revocation restrictions and require the endorsement of two reputable citizens. The individual's driving records is received along with the application, and reviewed by DMV's License Review Board. Also considered is the report of the Department's investigation division, regarding the applicant's work habits, police record and general stability. Inquiry is made to determine if the applicant continued to operate during the revocation period. If the revocation was for driving while under the influence, a thorough probe is made of his present drinking habits.

DMV investigators strive to assist the Review Board in arriving at a just decision. If the report is favorable, the individual is scheduled for a Departmental hearing, giving the hearing officer an opportunity to meet the applicant face to face and discuss his specific case. The applicant may be represented by counsel. He may also present any supporting evidence in favor of his application.

Should the License Reviewer recommend reinstatement, the applicant is assigned to the Department's Rehabilitation Clinic and the case is held in abeyance pending his successful completion of the four clinic sessions.

When completed, the chief of Driver Rehabilitation will notify the Reinstatement section and puts the completion on the driver's permanent record. A second hearing is then scheduled where the results of the re-training program are reviewed. If no new adverse conditions are present, the application for reinstatement is approved. If the applicant did not file an SR-22 at the time of revocation, he must now file this insurance coverage for a period of 36 months. If the applicant did file at time of revocation, credit is given for the period he did not drive.

Upon receipt of the SR-22 Certificate by DMV, the applicant is notified of the Review Board's approval for re-examination. He then proceeds as a new driver, taking all tests. If successful, he pays the usual fees and is issued a new driver's license.

If the revocation was for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs, the operator's new license will bear an appropriate restriction, printed on the license. Revocation may come as a result of accumulating 12 points.

In this instance the revoked driver may request a hearing. Prior to the aggregating 12 points, the driver receives a warning letter when he receives 3 points; he is called in for a departmental conference for 5 points; 8 points require suspension and he is finally revoked for 12 points.

OUR LIBRARY

The American Library Association has selected new adult books and highly recommends to the general reader, books on literary merit, inspiration or pleasure. This listing is called last year's books from 1944-1964. Some of the books I will list are in the collection at Emmitsburg, come in and browse.

"Born Free," Adamson, Joy, 1960. Elsa, a lion, raised as a pet, is educated to hunt and kill.

"Death in the Family," Agee, James, 1957. Fictionalized recollection of the impact of a father's death on the life of a small boy.

"The Dollmaker," Arnow, Harriette, 1954. Novel showing a strong human spirit tragically defeated by modern society.

"The Plague," Camus, Albert, 1948. Allegorical novel of human nature under stress, set in a modern Algerian city.

"Gods, Graves and Scholars," Ceram, C. W., 1951. Great archaeological discoveries of the past two centuries interpreted for the layman.

"The Education of American Teachers," Conant, James B., 1963. Findings and recommendations of concern to educators and laymen.

"Nobody Knows My Name," Baldwin, James, 1961. Rage at the anonymity of blackness, captured in a wonderfully woven web of words.

"The Adventures of Augie March," Bellow, Saul, 1953. Our hero looks back with wry humor at some wild activities.

"The Dead Sea Scrolls," Burrows, Millar, 1955. A scholar presents the excitement and implications of the most important archaeological find of our day.

The complete list totals 109 notable books. I have listed a few of the ones on the shelf at the local library and there are many many others to choose from.

The customs of youth and old people change with the passing years, but it is very difficult for some older people.

More Corn—Less Cob

with Southern States Hybrids

See the big healthy ear of corn on the right with the deep kernels and the small, well-filled cob? That's a typical Southern States hybrid ear. Now, compare it with the hybrid on the left. Note the small, shallow kernels and the big cob. You get more corn on less cob with Southern States hybrids. Want further proof? Shell them out and see for yourself. The Southern States hybrid gives you more shelled corn. Remember, a few dozen of these extra kernels per ear makes a big difference in your total yield.

So ask for Southern States hybrids. They grow more corn on less cob... and they're doubly guaranteed!

WITH THE NUMBER OF UNSOLD HOMES AT ITS LOWEST POINT IN 5 YEARS AND RENTAL VACANCIES DOWN, HOUSING STARTS COULD START CLIMBING AGAIN IN '68.

WITH DEMAND FOR HOUSING COME NEW SCHOOLS AND SHOPPING CENTERS, SEWER AND WATER SYSTEMS, CHURCHES AND HOSPITALS. THE 1968 OUTLOOK FOR COMMERCIAL, INSTITUTIONAL AND UTILITY CONSTRUCTION IS EXPECTED TO TAKE AN UPTURN.

Faulty Foreign Policy Judgments

One of the most chilling quotations in Luis V. Manrara's chilling book entitled "Betrayal" is this one, from a report by the U. S. Senate Preparedness Subcommittee after its investigation of the Cuban "missile crisis" in 1962: "Faulty evaluation and the predisposition of the intelligence community to the philosophical conviction that it would be incompatible with Soviet policy to introduce strategic missiles into Cuba resulted in intelligence judgments and evaluations which later proved to be erroneous."

That says much indeed. It says our evaluation of Soviet Russia's actions has been critically in error, creating almost unmeasurable dangers to America and aiding the growth of World Communism. It says our "intelligence community" (and it might well have said also, our entire governmental leadership) has a predisposition toward Soviet Russia that is trustful. This "philosophical conviction" that Soviet Russia genuinely wants peace leads to judgments and evaluations which, in the past (we're talking about Cuba here) have resulted in harmful foreign policy decisions and failures to take actions. Same Situation?

Administration leaders are being told today, just as Administration leaders were told in mid-summer 1962, that a nuclear missile buildup in Cuba threatens our nation. The 1968 Administration, on the basis of a philosophical conviction that Soviet Russia NOW is genuinely friendly and on reports from its "intelligence community", says no such thing is happening—just as President Kennedy and his State Department said in the summer and early fall of 1962. But later, on October 22,

1962, President Kennedy revealed his Administration had been in error and that Soviet Russia had mounted on launching pads in Cuba enough IRBM (1,500 mile range) missiles to destroy much of our nation if successfully fired. Mr. Kennedy ordered a part of the U. S. fleet to surround Cuba, and he threatened to invade the Communist stronghold. But ultimately he made his "deal" with Khrushchev—the Russians to dismantle and withdraw their H-bomb missiles and the U. S. committing itself to protect Cuba against invasion. The Russians said they withdrew the missiles, but there was no on-site inspection as originally demanded by President Kennedy. (Mr. Kennedy apparently made other concessions—such as withdrawing U. S. Missiles in Turkey, put there to augment NATO defense of Europe.)

Substantial Testimony

Today a number of the very same Cubans who warned of the Soviet missile buildup in 1962, thus establishing their credibility, are sounding new warnings. Senor Manrara cites some of these in his book. Eduardo Ulaia, Dr. Fernando Penabaz, and David Cabeza, the latter identified as the first man to reveal the existence of the Soviet missiles in Cuba in 1962, gave corroborating reports to Maurice LeBelle, Managing Editor of the Coral Gables Times.

Senor Ulaia says information he has accumulated from Cuban sources proves the existence of medium-range ballistic missiles on Cuban soil and longer-range Russian missiles in submerged sites off the northern coast of Cuba. Dr. Penabaz says the submerged missiles are the Russian "Golem" type, capable of carrying H-bomb warheads several thousand miles. Senor Cabeza likewise reports "Golem" and IRBMs. One of the most significant corroborations is given by former U. S. Ambassador to Cuba, Spruille Braden, who says "there is reason to believe that IRBMs have been stored in the cave complex for years (never sent back to Russia) and are now emerging in such areas as San Andres."

Suppressing Reports
Mr. Braden, an official of the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba, adds: "We find that 1,500 students being trained at a special school of engineering at the University of Havana receive instructions in sophisticated electronics. Of the 1,500, 60% are sent to the Soviet Union for instruction in the handling of various types of missiles—including intermediate range ballistic missiles."

Paul Bethel, Executive Secretary of the CCFC, who has interviewed thousands of Cuban exiles, many who recently fled Cuba, testified before the U. S. Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security: Q. You are telling us (Mr. Bethel) that there is official (U. S.) intimidation and coercion, inducement, to keep Cuban refugees who know about a missile threat to the United States to tell us what they know? A. What I am telling you is that I have credible reports to that effect, yes, sir. Mr. Bethel also testified that he had credible reports of some missile sites and fortress areas in Cuba where Cubans are off-limits. Only Russians are permitted in these areas.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

In the North a man learns not to expect too much of March. It's less the first month of spring than the last month of winter. But salt-water fishermen are impatient with anything that stands between them and their sport—especially the weather.

So each year we hope that the summer flounder fishing will start a little earlier, and we try our luck before the books say the time is ripe and the newspapers tell about the big catches. Winter flounder fishing, of course, does start in the North in March, but the big summer flounder, or fluke appears much later. Farther south, anglers are luckier.

Fluke spend the winter in the deeper offshore waters at depths of about 30 to 85 fathoms, where they're caught by the commercial boys. But when the water gets sufficiently warm, in they come—and they stay throughout the spring, summer and early fall. During these months, sport fishermen go after them avidly from New England to northern Florida, with the greatest concentrations from Cape Cod to Cape Hatteras.

During the early part of the fluke season, fish will not average much more than two pounds. But as time goes on bigger fish are caught, until late in the season the doormats are being pulled in with some regularity. These big flatties often reach 10 pounds, and specimens up to 30 pounds have been reported.

The rule in choosing your tackle for fluke is go as light as circumstances permit—bearing in mind that most fish you hook will run much smaller than those ten-pound doormats. The matter of the sinker must also be considered. A very light-action rod becomes difficult to handle when you're using two or more ounces of lead. Probably the best all-around outfit, advises Tom Paugh, Salt-Water Fishing Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, is a medium-action boat rod equipped with a conventional reel that can hold about 200 yards of 20-pound-test line. With this gear you can troll, drift or fish on the bottom.

For surf or bank fishing you will want a surf-rod—either conventional or spinning, your preference. Again, medium action will be about right. If you think this is too heavy, remember that you don't always catch what you are fishing for. Strippers, bluefish and other strong fish may go after your bait, and it would be a shame to lose one.

Merry Tiller SUBURBAN model—shown with Slasher Rotors and extensions to 26"—combines a popular, four-cycle, 3 or 4 hp engine with chain drive to deliver the equivalent of two more hp than worm-gear machines. Choice of rotors, rotor extensions, tractor tools. Adjustable 10" rear wheels.

Some of the easiest saving you'll ever do!

Just make one checkmark on your Federal income tax return, and you can be certain your refund—if you have one coming—will go into savings.

Here's how it works: You check the box on Line 25 that brings your tax refund to you in the form of a United States Savings Bond. Then, when you get it, just tick the Bond away.

As easily as that you've saved money that otherwise could trickle away. As easily as that you've put something aside to be part of a down payment on a home, or added something to your children's educational fund, or provided a bit of extra security when an emergency comes along.

Another thing, when you choose to take your tax refund in a Savings Bond, your money grows. Bonds pay you back $4 for every $3 invested in only seven years.

It's nice to know, too, that every Bond dollar helps to keep our country strong, and shows our men in Vietnam that they have our support.

So think it over when you ask for your tax refund. Taking it in Savings Bonds is some of the easiest saving you'll ever do—and the most important for your country.

Bond facts: Savings Bonds pay you back $4 for every $3 in only seven years . . . are replaced if lost, destroyed or stolen . . . have special tax advantages . . . can be redeemed whenever the need arises.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of Mr. Charles R. Motter, who passed away April 1, 1961.
He never ran for office
And he never rose to fame
He never heard men cheering
At the mention of his name
But he always did his duty
In the best way that he knew

He never broke a promise
And he never failed a friend
He never wore a halo
And he never wore a crown
But what is more, he never turned a needy brother down.
And he left us lots of memories when his days on earth were done.
Sadly missed

Questions President's Ausferity Program

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle;

Because of the war, the gold crisis, and the loss of public confidence in government policies, President Johnson has called for a program of austerity beginning with a general deseculation of his war on Poverty. In New York City alone, 17 different poverty programs have been all but cancelled for lack of funds. This means that millions of urban poor, by adding water to their soup, will begin to taste austerity. What a place to have begun such a program!

This week's Time Magazine records that the final split between Eugene McCarthy and Johnson came about in mid-1966 when Secretary Katzenbach appeared before a Congressional committee and proclaimed, that notwithstanding clear requirements of the Federal Constitution, the President would not—repeat, would not—ask the Congress for a Declaration of war (and public support) in Vietnam! According to Time, Senator McCarthy staged a one man walk-out and proclaimed, then and there, "This must be taken to the people" . . . which is just what the senator is doing. My heart is with him! My good judgement is on Johnson! My money on RFK! . . . But Nixon may win . . .

There are a few other points one might make with respect to legislative efforts to heatherize the country through abortion legislation and organ transplant legislation. Notwithstanding my critics, there is a connection between these two areas of legislative interest. Both laws, as they have been introduced in state legislatures, provides for the controlled extermination of innocent, non-consenting human life. The abortion argument has been well covered. It will pay us however, to keep our eyes on the Heart Transplant Bill that will someday come up in Annapolis. Likely it will provide—as did the bill passed and made law in Kansas last week—that a doctor, independent of the transplant team—shall certify that death is "imminent" before the donor heart is removed. Suffice it that I say again, that such an independent certification would be wholly extraneous. What is needed is a certification by the public coroner that the donor, according to existing law, is DEAD! i.e. that his heart no longer beats; that no vital organ continues to function; that the blood no longer circulates; that life cannot be restored; and that rigor mortis is present.

Patrick F. X. McGucken

P.S.—Any doctor who can successfully transplant hearts, as between two living animals, can do the same, as between one living man and one dead man; provided, State Legislatures will conveniently define that one living man is dead, when in fact he is not. This is not medical progress but legdermain.

Cancer Drive Plans Made

At a meeting Monday in Frederick, Cancer Crusade 1968 began with a goal of $21,000, $1500 more than last year.

Present were area captains, county chairmen and crusade volunteers to plan the Crusade which will run through April. Seventy-five chairmen and captains, heading 1250 crusaders will distribute 1300 kits throughout the county. Of the money collected, 60% will remain in Frederick, 40% going to national research. In emergencies, the local chapter may also request additional funds from the National Cancer Society if needed.

The local chapter office in a pantry size wing of a South Market Street building, believes in cutting red tape, keeping help available on a person-to-person basis.

For lack of space, dressings are kept at the Health Department. Literature, public information, films, wheelchairs and beds are readily available. All that is necessary to receive care is a report from the individual's doctor.

Crusade Chairman Frank W. Bush, Sr., who undertook the fund raising post this year as a memorial to a friend who died of cancer, thanked the volunteers for their time and energy. "We're lucky to be alive to use the talent God gave us. We should use it for the good of the community." Citing statistics, he stated that the past record of saving 1 out of 4 had been improved to 1 out of 3. "It could be 1 out of 2. The breakthrough may be just around the corner. Let's reach it as fast as possible. If we can save just one person, it's worth the sacrifice."

There are now over 1,000,000 cured cancer patients in the U.S. This year's memorial pledges to the Frederick Chapter which will be included in the Crusade goal, have reached $1808. The Farmers and Mechanics Bank is handling all returns.

Blue Cross Will Have New Plan

Maryland Blue Cross this week announced it soon will introduce a new program under which Blue Cross will share with the patient, on a 80/20 basis, the cost of his inpatient hospital care.

Like the Standard Blue Cross Program, the new cooperative payment program would provide up to 30 days of benefits per illness. However, instead of providing full coverage of hospital inpatient services, the new plan would cover 80% of such costs, with the patient paying 20% of his bill direct to the hospital.

According to the announcement, the new plan was developed for those persons who would prefer to pay a pre-determined portion of their own inpatient hospital bills in exchange for a rate somewhat lower than that required for regular Blue Cross full-benefit programs. It would be offered as an option to those programs, to groups as well as to non-group members.

Development of the Blue Cross 80/20 program follows careful study of its market potential and consideration of various other cost-sharing arrangements. The 80/20 approach finally was selected as the type providing the best value in terms of dependability of protection. "We deliberately avoided programs which would give only fixed dollar allowance of basic protection, and which therefore would place more and more of the burden on the patient as care costs increase," a Blue Cross spokesman said.

He continued: "Theoretically, requiring the patient to pay a pre-determined portion of his bill may also help discourage possible instances of unnecessary use of hospital facilities, although this point has been much debated. In any event, we intend to watch the utilization under our 80/20 program very closely; it may very well throw some additional light on this question."

The allowance for normal maternity care under the 80/20 program will be $150. This is actually higher than the corresponding benefits offered by the Standard Program, but is closer to current costs.
