Practically the entire county became alarmed and ready to help last Sunday when a little three-year-old boy became lost in the state park at Thurmont. Half a dozen fire companies, state police, National Guardsmen, bloodhounds and other individuals joined in the hunt for the boy who had wandered from his parents while picnicking in the park. The alarm was sounded in early afternoon and as hour after hour went by real concern was felt for the boy's safety. The air became chilly at night and was near the freezing point. The search had to be abandoned after one o'clock in the morning but at the crack of dawn the next day the rescuers were right back on the job. The story ended happily though because around nine o'clock they found the little coddler quite unharmed and probably wondering what all the fuss was about. There were reports out of old quarry holes or sink holes existing in the park. We are not certain about this but the rumor should be traced down and if such menacing spots do exist then now is the time for the state-operated park officials to take remedial action as thousands of men, women and children, use this parks during the summer months.

A bad wreck could have been turned into a massacre Monday at our dangerous intersection in East End. The bus which struck the steel light pole, breaking it off, could very easily have kept on going down over the steep embankment there, had it been going just a bit faster. Apparently the driver was observing the 40-mile limit there and even slowed more when he perceived danger in front of him. The bus was loaded with high school students and I dread to think of what might have happened should it have gone over that embankment. The wreck just about "wrecked" the intersection. The impact knocked down the pole which supported the heavy traffic lights and they came crashing to the roadway winding up a heap of junk. I have heard a rumor that these old blinking caution lights will be replaced with a stop and go light. I wouldn't like to venture an opinion on this action but will take a wait-and-see attitude for the time being. It seems the State will do almost anything but overpass the most dangerous intersection in Maryland.

Well the election is over and it was a dandy. There are three new faces on the Town Council and there is every indication that a harmonious relationship will prevail. It has been many years since we have had such a crop of candidates and I think it goes to make a better election, all around. Interest was real keen as manifested by the large number that turned out to vote. As in every election there are winners and losers. We express our sincere congratulations to those newly-elected officials and would also like to express our appreciation to those going out of office. The job is a thankless one and the pay is practically nothing. A citizen simply must have the welfare of the community at heart to run for and accept the job, so at this time I personally would like to thank Mayor Baker and Commissioners Topper and Hays for their devotion and service to this community while serving in public office.

Youth Injured

Tony Buch, young son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. 'Pat' Buch, Toll Gate Hill, was painfully scratched and bruised on April 17 when the bike he was riding collided with a motorbike ridden by a college boy. Tony was treated at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, and released for further observation at the Fort Ritchie dispensary.

The senior class of St. Joseph's High School is sponsoring the last dance of the school year tonight, May 3, beginning 8 o'clock until 11 o'clock. The dance will feature the "Rising Sons," who will accent the theme, "May Daze." Admission will be 85c. A coat and tie are required. Come one, come all, and make this dance the best of the school year!

Education Board Asked To Reduce Budget

The Frederick County Commissioners who are currently reviewing departmental budget requests this week asked the Board of Education, which asked for the largest increase, to review their request for funds and to find ways to diminish the sum sought.

The letter, signed by the president of the Board of County Commissioners, Charles E. Collins, was sent to the president of the Board of Education, Haller Best, and reads as follows:

Dear Mr. Best:

The Board of County Commissioners has unanimously agreed to request the Board of Education to reconsider its budget since, from the time the budget was drawn up, the financial picture of the County has changed radically. After researching and double checking all sources, it is now definite the County will have several thousand dollars less income available in Fiscal 1969 than in Fiscal 1968 at the existing tax rates. This means every dollar increase in budgets for Fiscal 1969 will represent a definite increase in taxes. In view of this, the Commissioners have limited increases to all other County agencies to less than 6 per cent. As proof of trying to cut expenses, the Commissioners cut their own budget $750 below that of the current year.

It is the request of the County Commissioners that the Board of Education reconsider its budget and cut $1,254,762 from your request for County funds. If this is done, the total operating budget of the Board of Education would still be over 11 per cent more than in Fiscal 1968. Because of a drop in revenue to the Board from other sources, this would represent an increase of 25 per cent from the County, which would be the largest increase in the history of the County. By this action, it will cause tax increases from the existing 20 per cent surtax to a 50 per cent surtax and a moderate increase in the real estate tax rate.

Realizing the Board of Education can make cuts in the budget that the Commissioners cannot by law, as well as being cognizant of the fact that you have a more thorough knowledge of the various priorities, the Commissioners request your cooperation in this most difficult matter.

Sincerely,

Charles E. Collins, President
Board of County Commissioners

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marowski of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, announce the approaching marriage of Mr. Marowski's sister, Emily Marie, to Professor Paul F. Conway of South Bend, Indiana. Professor Conway is the son of Mrs. Eleanor M. Conway and the late Michael F. Conway of Troy, New York.

Miss Marowski, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Simon Marowski of Wilkes-Barre, is employed as a social worker in the adoption section of the Fairfax County Department of Welfare, Fairfax, Virginia. Prior to her present position she served as a caseworker supervisor and acting director of the Luzerne County Child Welfare Services in Pennsylvania. She received her bachelor of arts degree from St. Joseph College, Emmitsburg and a master's degree in social work from Fordham University School of Social Service in Bronx, New York. While at St. Joseph College she was selected for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Professor Conway is a member of the Finance and Business Economics Department of the University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Indiana, and formerly taught at both Mt. St. Mary's and St. Joseph Colleges in Emmitsburg. He is a graduate of Siena College, Loudonville, New York; received his master of science degree from the State University of New York at Albany, and completed his doctor of philosophy requirements at New York University, New York. He is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, the national business honor society and Beta Alpha Psi, the national accounting fraternity.

The marriage will be solemnized on Saturday, June 8, at 11:00 a.m. in St. Patrick's Church, Wilkes-Barre.

The Redcoats are coming!

Intersection Crash Sends Eight To Hospital

Photo shows collision of car and bus in which eight persons were taken to the hospital Monday. The bus driver, Kenneth Gumm, was slightly injured.

The impact of the crash of the bus on the steel light pole supporting the four traffic lights was so terrific it sheared off the pole and the lights crashed on the highway and were reduced to rubble.

A bus load of high school students is shown after being involved in a crash Monday afternoon at the intersection of Rts. 97 and 15 in Emmitsburg. The intersection is one of the most dangerous in Maryland.

One person was injured seriously and seven slightly Monday afternoon at 4:45 when a bus and car collided at the intersection of 97 and 15 in Emmitsburg.

The impact was so terrific when the bus crashed into a steel pole which supported four traffic lights that the pole was knocked down causing the lights to fall to the highway and smash into a useless heap. State Roads Commission workers are presently installing a new set of lights.

The bus, loaded with students from Trinity High School of Shiremanstown, Pa., was owned by Wolf Bus Lines of York Springs, Pa. and Emmitsburg, and was on a sight-seeing tour when the mishap occurred.

Listed in serious condition at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, is Mrs. Sharon Higgs, 20, Baltimore, who, with her husband, was a passenger in the car driven by Jerry L. Mason of Fort Ritchie. The Baltimore woman, a hospital spokesman reported, suffered a laceration of the left eyebrow, right foot and ankle and a possible concussion.

Mrs. Charlyn Yvonne Mason, 17, wife of the driver, was admitted to the hospital and is in satisfactory condition after suffering a laceration of the scalp, a possible fractured skull and contusions of the abdomen.

Treated at the hospital and released were the driver of the bus, Kenneth C. Gumm, 39, Emmitsburg, who suffered abrasions of the left shoulder and right leg and three student passengers, Thomas Olsen, 18, 112 Peper Ave., Enola, who sustained contusions and abrasions of the leg; his brother, William Olsen, who sustained abrasions of the right leg, and Gregory Russ, 18, 239 Evergreen St., New Cumberland, who suffered contusions and abrasions of the upper lip, face and nose. All were removed from the scene in the Emmitsburg VFW and Thurmont Legion ambulances.

The husbands of the two injured women were removed to the hospital but released following examination.

Maryland State Police said the accident occurred when Mason, traveling west on Route 97 toward Emmitsburg, proceeded through the intersection and was struck broadside by the bus, which was going south on U. S. 15 toward Thurmont.

No damage estimates were available on the vehicles.

The Vigilant Hose Co. responded with two trucks to help clean-up and in case a fire would break out. Fire police handled traffic.

MRS. A. M. PATTERSON

Mrs. Addie Bruce Patterson, 92, 401 W. Main St., Emmitsburg, widow of Albert M. Patterson, died at the Frederick Nursing Home Saturday.

She was a lifelong resident of Frederick County and a daughter of the late John M. and Amy Munshour Shoemaker. She was a member of the Elias Lutheran Church of Emmitsburg.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Ruth B. Peppler, Emmitsburg; three grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock from the Wilson Funeral Home, Emmitsburg, with the Rev. W. Ronald Fearer and the Rev. Philip Bower, officiating. Interment was in Mountview Cemetery, Emmitsburg. Pallbearers were: Guy A. Baker, Jr., Clarence Frailey, Quinn Topper and Francis Matthews.

It makes sense to know the seven warning signals of cancer and it makes sense to give to the American Cancer Society.

Hearings Will Be Held On New Code, Home Rule

A motion to consider the adoption of code home rule for Frederick County passed the County Commissioners by majority vote.

The first of two public hearings on the matter is set for May 13 at 2:30 p.m. in the Winchester Room, Winchester Hall, Frederick.

All people who wish to be heard on the subject should make their views known at those meetings, a spokesman for the commissioners said.

The procedure the county must follow to adopt a form of code home rule is uncomplicated. After holding at least two public hearings, the County Commissioners must pass a resolution favoring the set-up.

This resolution must then be approved by the voters of the county in the next general election Nov. 5 if the commissioners pass the favoring statement after the public hearings.

Commissioners Charles E. Collins and Russell Z. Horman voted in favor of adopting the motion to consider code home rule. Commissioner Wallace Hutton voted against the measure.

The Frederick County Governmental Study Commission turned down code home rule last year as a stepping stone to charter government.

The commission, headed by J. Richard Hudson, recommended that charter home rule be adopted over code. Among the reasons was that only charter would provide a basic document which would knowingly be adopted by the voters as their basic charter.

"In adopting code home rule we would be turning over the legislative function to a Board of three County Commissioners," the commission's report said.

There were four dissenters to the majority opinion of the other 11 commission members, however. Their minority report pointed out that charter home rule has been allowed in Maryland since 1915 and since that time, only four counties have adopted it.

Only 30 counties out of 3,000 in the nation have adopted this form of local government, the minority report said, and recommended a slower approach to such a change.

They also recommended that the Board of County Commissioners be increased to five members.

Of the two routes to home rule available to Frederick County under the existing Maryland constitution, code is the quickest and easiest to obtain.

Code home rule, created by the General Assembly in the 1965 session and approved as a constitutional amendment in 1966, allows for home rule under the existing Board of County Commissioners form of local government.

Unlike charter home rule, which requires a petition from the voters, the move toward code is initiated by the commissioners.

Basically, code home rule broadens the powers already delegated to the counties by the state. The commissioners under code are able to make, enact, amend or repeal a public law. However, under the system, the commissioners can not levy any taxes or license fees not authorized by the General Assembly.

As a check on the code home rule counties, the General Assembly may enact, amend or repeal any local law for a county which permits or places a ceiling on property tax rates set by the county, and which authorizes or regulates the maximum amount of money a county can borrow.

Code home rule provides counties with considerable independence from the General Assembly, but this independence is neither absolute nor without certain conditions and limitations.

Injured When Car Hits Pole

Kenneth Merriken, Emmitsburg, was injured Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock when, according to Maryland State Police, he lost control of his car as it rounded a curve on the Horner's Nest Rd., west of Emmitsburg.

The vehicle sheared off a utility pole and came to rest in a field. The 1956 auto was demolished. Merriken was removed to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, in the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance, where he was treated for abrasions of the left knee.

To fight cancer, have an annual physical checkup and give generously to the American Cancer Society.

Seidel Burgess; Flax, Bollinger Commissioners

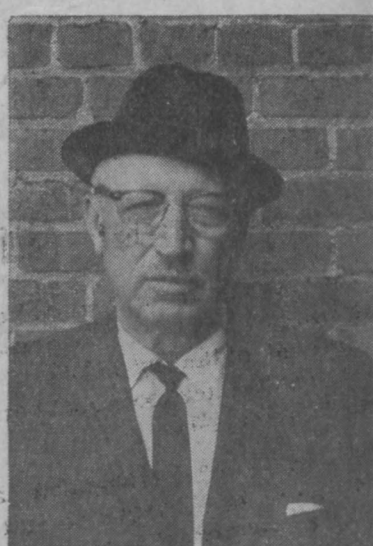

Robert A. Seidel, Sr.

Robert A. Seidel, Sr., Mt. St. Mary's College professor, was swept into the office of Burgess by a margin of 20 votes in Tuesday's Town Election.

Thomas W. Bollinger
Commissioner

Seidel was opposed by James T. Welty, local barber and Patrick F. X. McGucken, local attorney. Welty was a close second polling 195 ballots while McGucken received 36. One write-in vote was given out-going Mayor Guy A. Baker, Jr.

J. Norman Flax
Commissioner

Intense interest was generated in the election during the past week and it was anticipated that the battle would be a close one and could have gone either way. Of the 700 registered voters 475 actually went to the polls and cast ballots. This represented approximately 67% of the voters.

In the race for the two Commissionerships, J. Norman Flax received the top vote of the day, 275 while Thomas W. Bollinger, local meat and grocery store operator, polled 257 votes. Both Flax and Bollinger were elected. Incumbent Commissioners, Samuel C. Hays, received 183 votes to Quinn F. Topper's 161. One write-in vote was accorded J. David Ohler.

The judges of election invalidated 28 votes for Mayor and four for Commissioner, for various reasons.

The newly-elected officials will take their oath of office Monday evening in the Town Office from Magistrate Ralph F. Irelan. They will immediately then assume their duties. At the first regular meeting to be held on Monday, May 6, Burgess-elect Seidel is expected to make his appointments of the Chief of Police, Town Clerk, Public Works Superintendent, etc., subject to the approval of the Commissioners.

Nearly five million veterans or their survivors will receive compensation or pension payments during 1969.

CLAIRVAUX

Chapter IV

Father Garraghan, to whom we are so much indebted for clues concerning the doings of the monks of La Trappe while they were in this country, tells us that the monastery they established at Monks Mound, in Illinois, was officially named Notre Dame du Bon Securs. Considering that the monks sojourned at Monks Mound only during the winters of 1809-10 and 1810-11 (and possibly during the winter of 1811-12), why is it that history, thus far uncovered, does not tell us the name of the monastery that was maintained at Pigeon Hill for an equal period of time? If it was not the Monastery of Clairvaux or of Our Lady of Clairvaux, as I surmise, what was its name? Catholic scholars owe us an answer! If it had no name, say so!

Father Garraghan further reports that when this wandering, unsettled band of French speaking monks returned to the eastern United States they met, in Maryland, another community of Trappists whom their superior had more recently sent from France. Where in Maryland, did they rendezvous if not at Emmitsburg? One writer reports that they joined one another near St. Mary's County. See: Records of the American Catholic Historical Society of Philadelphia, Vol. I, 1884-86. Is it not possible that the second group did in fact establish themselves in St. Mary's Parish—as the Mount was then called—and that the author of this account simply mistook the name St. Mary's to mean St. Mary's County? Is it unreasonable to speculate that the second community of Trappists, like the first, were initially the guests of the Sulpeicians and that the Sulpeicians, by then having ensconced themselves at the Holy Mount, offered accommodations in an existing house on their grounds? Regardless of what that house may previously have been called, might it not, at that time, have taken on the distinctly trappist name of Clairvaux, even if the name were applied loosely, or in derision? If I be mistaken in all of this and it be more fully established that the second group really did set themselves up in St. Mary's County, and not in Emmitsburg, why has the St. Mary's County location not been identified and honored? What was the name attached to the St. Mary's County monastery?

True, there are those who will be quick to say: Preposterous! Emmitsburg's Clairvaux was owned during those years by Charles Carroll who had no connection at all with the Trappists! To rebut this, and with the thought of imposing on Fr. Garraghan no further, er, I quote in full a footnote found at page 103 of his book: "Badin a Carroll, March, 10, 1808: The following incident lends color to Father Badin's complaint that Dom Urban (Superior of the Monks Mound) allowed himself rashly to be involved in financial difficulties. Bishop Carroll on one occasion gave the Trappist a letter introducing him to his kinsman, Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the Catholic signer of the Declaration of Independence, and commending his request for a loan of $400. The latter promised to lend Dom Urban the money in six months, only, however, in the contingency that he would be able to recover certain debts. But Dom Urban went ahead on this conditional promise and on the assurance of certain friends that they would pay the interest on the expected loan, and purchased a $400 tract of land in Kentucky. Later Charles Carroll informed Dom Urban that he could not lend him the money and so the Trappist was left with the unpaid - for property on his hands. Guillet a Plessis, March 27, 1807, in La Nouvelle, France, 10:542."

So! Charles Carroll did know of the Trappists and was favorably disposed toward them. Now is it so difficult to assume that he made property, in the vicinity of Emmitsburg, available to them and that such property, thereupon, took on the name "Clairvaux"? Patrick F. X. McGucken

After being taken by bus from the airstrip Replacement Depot at Cam Ranh Bay, we began the ever-so-agonizing process of "processing in". We were barely able to stay awake to listen to the sergeant tell us how to fill out the forms. How many forms I have filled out since I've been in the army! It seems like thousands, at least. At any rate, we were given blankets and permitted to go to bed around 3:30 a.m. I tossed and turned, unable to sleep because of the noise of the artillery. I was sure the big guns were right outside the barracks, but as it turned out, they were several miles away. We were roused to our feet at 4:45 a.m. by a shrill whistle. Time to rise and partake of that good ole army chow. (I'll spare you from the details of breakfast as it might spoil your appetite.)

At about 7:00 we were herded into a formation. We were broken down into work details. I was fortunate—I got to soak up that good ole Cam Ranh Bay sand and sun-filling sandbags. The temperature was only 114°, however, and a sea breeze blew about once every hour. So, this was my routine for four days at Cam Ranh Bay—fill sandbags from 7:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m. Finally, Friday evening, my name was called to ship. My assignment was Pleiku. When I heard them announce my assignment a pang of fear chilled by spine. I had heard a great deal about Pleiku and it wasn't pleasant. They told us to return to the barracks that we'd be awakened some time after midnight. My friend, with whom I'd been with since we left Ft. Lewis, got assigned to Nha Trang. I knew I wouldn't see him again, unless by some quirk of fate, our paths crossed.

We were awakened at 11:30 p.m. and told to take our baggage to the shipping point, which was a huge metal platform. There we waited—all night. I fell asleep several times. It wasn't until 8 a.m. we loaded buses for the airport—again to wait three hours. Finally we took off in a "flying boxcar". We were crowded in and sat on our luggage. There are no seats in these planes. We were given instructions on what to do if we crash, and after being in the air a few minutes I thought for certain we'd be utilizing those instructions! The plane jerked and dipped as it hit air pockets. If only we can land safely, I thought to myself, I'll be truly thankful.

Well, we did land safely. They took us by bus to our final destination—or so we thought. Little did we know then Uncle Sam had another surprise in store for us! (To Be Continued)

Recounts Vietnam Experiences

By SP/4 Stephen D. Wilhide
As I stepped off the plane in Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam, after a grueling twenty - hour plane ride with brief stops at Anchorage, Alaska, and Tokyo, Japan, for refueling. I had all sorts of fears and anxieties. What would I be doing? Where would I go? We left Ft. Lewis, Washington, on a Monday morning. As a result of having crossed the International Dateline, we arrived in Vietnam Tuesday night at about 11:30 p.m., or 2330 military time.

Have any of you civilians ever wondered what the first several days in Vietnam were like? I never had either, until I received my orders to come here.

After being taken by bus from the airstrip Replacement Depot at Cam Ranh Bay, we began the ever-so-agonizing process of "processing in". We were barely able to stay awake to listen to the sergeant tell us how to fill out the forms. How many forms I have filled out since I've been in the army! It seems like thousands, at least. Food Service Program Will Be Discussed Here

Saint Joseph College's home economics department will sponsor a program on the creative use of convenience foods in large feeding operations on May 8 at 2:30 p.m. The John P. Sexton Corporation will present the demonstration and host the participants at a supper featuring the food items shown after the presentation of their ideas.

The program will feature Mr. Anthony Bartolotto of Sexton's Chicago office who will center his presentation on the variety and acceptability of convenience foods. This, he claims, can be done more economically, with greater efficiency and consumer satisfaction, than can be achieved otherwise by food service personnel.

Mr. William R. Sullivan, director of sales corporate accounts, and the area representative, Robert Judge, have planned the program with Sister Georgia, chief dietitian at the college, and Sister Madeleine, chairman of the home economics department.

Dietitians, food service supervisors and directors, food purchasing agents and home economics majors from a seventy mile radius are invited to the program, which will be the first of its kind in the area.

Two Arrested For Zora Robberies

Two Adams Countyans, Earl Kuykendall, 18, Fairfield R1 and Kenneth Moritz, 19, Gettysburg R2, were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder on four charges filed by state police concerning break-ins at the Charnita Gateway Inn and Wolf's Store in the Zora area last week.

State Trooper Bernard A. Yannetti charged Kuykendall and Moritz with conspiracy, burglary and larceny and receiving stolen goods involved in the thefts. The trooper was assisted in the investigation by Hamiltonban and Highland Twp. Police Chief James Bigham and Special Deputy Sheriff Bernard V. Miller.

Trooper Yannetti charged that the pair entered the Charnita Gateway Inn at the intersection of Routes 116 and 16 early last Wednesday morning, where they stole $75 in cash and caused $25 property damage.

In the second information, police allege that Wolf's Store on Route 16 between Zora and Blue Ridge Summit was entered the same morning via a front window. Seven cartons of cigarettes were stolen.

Both men were arrested and committed to the county jail by state police.

Mount Sports

Win Third Straight
Mt. St. Mary's College chalked up its third straight baseball victory Saturday afternoon by coming from behind to whip Old Dominion 11-6 here in a Mason-Dixon Conference game.

After trailing 6-2 at the end of four innings, the Mount, sparked by a three-run homer by Bob Warnock, rallied for the decision.

Harry Jones, who relieved George Synott on the mound in the top of the fifth inning, was credited with the victory as he blanked the visitors the rest of the way and allowed but three hits.

Lace C. U.

Mt. St. Mary's, led by a bases-loaded home run by Don Warnock in the fifth inning, walloped Catholic University 11-3 here last Thursday afternoon.

The Mountaineers smashed out a total of 11 hits. A five-run seventh for the Mount sealed the outcome.

Perform Well In Relays

Mt. St. Mary's 880-yard relay team set a new school record as it placed third in its heat of the annual Penn Relays, in Philadelphia, last Friday.

The team, composed of Ralph Santoro, Bog Keogh, Joe Bremer and Bill Johnson, recorded an 880 time of 1:28. The team finished behind Tennessee and Navy. The same four also ran in the 440-yard relay and won their heat.

The mile relay team circled the track in the exceptional time of 3:20.4 to place second behind Massachusetts in their heat. The team consisted of Bill Klimas, Keogh, Johnson and Bremer. Bremer did a 48.6 on his anchor leg.

On Saturday the Mount's 440-yard relay team running in the college's consolation event, placed fourth with a 4:18 clocking, to set a new Mount record.

Coach Jim Deegan's two-mile relay team placed fourth in the second section. The team of Bill Klimas, Pete Geraghty, Joe Bremer and Jim Clarke toured the distance in 7:54. Geraghty turned in the fastest leg with a 1:55.9.

The Mounties return to action this weekend, taking part in the annual Quantico Relays in Virginia.

To Explain New Constitution

Three members of the Maryland Constitution Convention will appear at Saint Joseph College, May 9, to speak on the proposed constitution. An open discussion, during which the panelists will answer questions from the audience, will follow their statements.

Henry Lord, Edward Storm, and Samuel Barrick will discuss their roles in the Annapolis meetings which produced the new constitution, to be voted on by the people of Maryland, May 14.

Mr. Barrick, a member of the Committee on Local Government, was a delegate to the convention from Frederick County. An attorney, he received an AB from Gettysburg College and an LL.B. from the University of Maryland. He has served as state's and county attorney for Frederick County, being elected to the state's attorney position in 1953.

The public is invited to the panel discussion and question session to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the dePaul auditorium on the Emmitsburg campus.

Dandelions and other weeds are now growing and should not be let go to seed. Now is the time to apply Scotts Kansel to kill all broadleaf weeds; or apply Turf Builder plus 2 for feeding your lawn and killing the weeds in one operation. Both products to be applied to damp grass. Also, watch for a disease called leaf spot in your grass. It will show up as yellowish-brown or black spots on the grass blades and will do severe damage if not treated. The treatment for leaf spot is Scotts Scutl.

An Opinion On The New Constitution

By Irvin C. Brant, Jr.

As the fellow explained to his friend, "mixed emotions are when you see the dollars you have earned under a free enterprise system, being taxed away to pay for a slave state, in the name of welfare."

I am sure that "mixed emotions", would best describe the feelings of most Marylanders as they watch seemingly intelligent men parading over the State of Maryland, in an effort to sell their fellow citizens an archaic system of centralized power. This system would provide strong appointive powers for a Governor that may possess the personality of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. This same system would also give that powerful Governor a strong judicial system, which he has the power to appoint, to back up his own political viewpoints while he is in office. Of course, with all of these powers, he might just decide to stay in the Governor's office.

Our nation's history is replete with the true fighting spirit of our forefathers' struggles to establish a spot in the sun, for a free nation, under a system of, by and for the people. Therefore, it is not unreasonable for you to assume your responsibility as one who would pass on the freedom gained by the sweat, blood and toil of those who before you so nobly fought to give you that form of government under which your voice is heard so loud and clear against those who would deprive you and your of their heritage. It would, I believe, be a most ungrateful and selfish attitude that would not want to perpetuate that heritage for future generations.

Knowledge will set you free, and will keep for free. So, never let yourself be lulled to sleep in a false sense of security by the melodic tones of a scheming politician.

Confucius, the great philosopher and teacher of China, once said, "if you want good government you must choose honest and educated officials and then watch them."

Always look for the facts, and when you have discovered them, you must then inform others so that is a freedom-loving nation, we may learn best how to defend ourselves against tyranny. Of course you must use tact and intelligence in doing so.

The characteristic of a Free State, (which the State of Maryland is known as), is the voice that its citizens have in their government.

Man has truly made gigantic advances in the fields of culture, medicine and science. However, he has never been able to recognize the vehicle that has given him the chance to make possible the great leaps and bounds of progress which has produced this unique nation, and its constitution which keeps it that way. It seems that the more mankind develops his intellect, the more dogmatic he becomes. We have among us in the State of Maryland a small group of self-appointed demigods who have determined that we should give up our present constitution and adapt ourselves to a constitution which would give them full power over our lives and our future, under the belief that they know better how we should live, than we know ourselves.

Abraham Lincoln called America "the last, best hope of earth". And so it was. Our land was never perfect, but man's ancient dream of liberty and justice for all was more fully realized here than anywhere else on earth. But now the values we formerly cherished are under fire and, shockingly, the fire comes from within as well as from without.

To better understand the strategy of these scheming little self-appointed demigods that will change our Maryland State Constitution to conform to their socialist ideals, I think we should pause for a minute to look at the results that an overdose of socialism has produced on the Federal level. It kind of reminds me of the story of Grandpa's cough syrup. Grandpa first took whiskey by the spoonful and called it cough syrup. Then one day he woke up hooked. Americans get their socialism the same way. Grandpa didn't set out to become an alcoholic. He was trying to get well. Americans didn't want to tamper with the United States Constitution. They just wanted a spoonful of progressive income tax. Grandpa fell for the wrong remedy, and so did we.

After he picked up the habit, Grandpa had a few good times. He figured he came out ahead when the other boys set up the drinks, but he always woke up with a headache and his paycheck gone. Everytime we've believed that the social planners could "get it for us wholesale", we've ended up with a hangover and broke. Grandpa got too drunk to remember he paid for a few rounds, and we didn't notice that when Uncle Sam treated, he had his hand in our hip pocket. Grandpa kept going back for the hair of the dog that bit him, and we swallowed every bureaucratic tonic on the market. This would be the end of the story, except Grandpa sobered up. If he hadn't, I'd swear this country was down the drain to socialism.

I watched Grandpa slowly become addicted to the cunning, baffling influence of alcohol, and I watched my great country slowly, ever so slowly, sink into the insidious maw of socialism. I don't understand socialism any more than I do alcoholism, but for the sake of argument, let's say that the graduated income tax represents our first drink of socialism. It tasted pretty good. Here was concrete evidence of the philosophy that says: "From each according to his ability, to each according to his need."

Movement was stealthy at first. After the social planner tilted the Constitution in 1913, it was some time before they realized the great power they had rediscovered: the power of minority manipulation. They had bunched the great masses of the unwealthy up against the great masses of the wealthy and solemnly declared, "Majority rule!" Who could protest such a noble principle? Here was the tool, majority rule. Now the social planners could wheel and deal. All they had to do was find their cause and offer their remedy. Each cause was a noble and benevolent one: Social security for the aged, subsidy for the oppressed, assistance for the needy. And every remedy was the same: Government intervention. And who paid the bills? The wealthy, who were supposed to get socked by the graduated income tax? Ho hum, you guessed it! All of you of the unwealthy class, join me in glancing at the deductions on your paycheck. Grandpa saw double and thought it was his buddies who were getting drunk.

By manipulation of the minorities, the government was able to get into the banking business, building business, insurance business, farming, wholesaling, retailing, transportation, communication, utilities, and you name it! And where were we, the great society ever known, based on the free market and limited government? Where were we all this time? Shucks, we were waiting in line to sit on Santa's knee. It seemed nice, at first, to be on the receiving end (same way Grandpa felt when somebody bought a round). But the dawn came slowly: we weren't getting government assistance, we were getting government control.

When we did protest, it was at the wrong time. We didn't balk when we were on the receiving end, but only when it was levied in taxes and controls. And then it was too late. We were outnumbered by manipulated minorities, and we obviously could be accused of having a vested interest. All the social singers had to do was chorus "Majority rule!" and we tucked our heads in silence and waited for the promised land.

Well, to make a long story short, Grandpa woke up on skid row and decided he wanted to get sober. That decision alone didn't get him sober, but it was a start. For us the decision is that we want no more government generosity. That decision won't get the country well but it sure will save our state if we can sober up enough people to pull the lever "NO" on this proposed socialistic constitution, May 14, 1968.

Our present Maryland Constitution plainly states the following:

Article I. Origin of government; right to alter. "That all Government of right originates from the People founded in compact only, and instituted solely for the good of the whole; and they have, at all times the inalienable right to alter, reform or abolish their Form of Government in such manner as they may deem expedient."

This is an article of our constitution and therefore a part of the law of our state. This is the voice of the people in their government.

The proposed socialistic constitution only mentioned a part of this in its preamble. However, the thing that people do not realize is that if it is not an article in the body of the constitution it is not a part of the law of the state and therefore their voice is out of their state government.

The so-called new proposed constitution also weakens the voice of the people in the following:

Section 2.10. Referendum:

"Any law enacted by the General Assembly may be petitioned to referendum (notice they say it may be, they don't say it definitely can be petitioned to referendum) except laws for legislative apportionment and districting, or congressional districting, or imposing a tax, or making an appropriation for the state government or any public institution."

Please look at the things that

Patriotism as a WAY TO PEACE

Patriotism is often thought of as a virtue primarily connected with war.

And certainly they are patriots who offer their lives in defense of their country.

But even those willing to bear arms must view the alternatives of war or peace with a deep sense of morality. It was this sense of morality that prompted Pope Paul to plead prayerfully for the end of all wars... and the Conference of American Catholic Bishops to issue their Statement on Peace in 1966.

"Citizens," the Bishops' statement said, "should develop a generous and loyal devotion to their country, but without any narrowing of mind. In other words, they must look simultaneously to the welfare of the whole human family, which is tied together by the manifold bonds linking races, peoples and nations."

These "limits on patriotism," the Bishops added, do not rule out a country's right to legitimate self-defense. "And what a nation can do to defend itself," the Bishops added, "it may do to help another in its struggle against aggression."

"We must," the Bishops said, "use every resource available, as a nation, to help alleviate the basic causes of war. If the God-given human dignity of the people of poorer nations is not to become an illusion, these nations must be able to provide for the spiritual and material needs of their citizens. We must help them do this."

Pope Paul, Vatican Council II and the U.S. Bishops all point out that true peace can exist only if the right order established by God... and based on the requirements of human dignity... can be evolved from the conscience of all peoples, everywhere. The real "balance of power" is in your hands and mine.

To help you put war and peace in a proper perspective, we have just published an easy-to-read, interesting pocket-size pamphlet entitled "PEACE THROUGH PATRIOTISM." We will be glad to send you a copy free upon request. There's no obligation—and nobody will call on you.

the Governor?

Third—Aren't the controlled people going to be a little less interested in your problems when you go into their office, if they know they don't have to depend on you for their job next election?

If you search Maryland's History you will find that appointed offices such as the above, (in fact all offices) were at one time appointed by the King of England and that is the reason our present constitution places so much emphasis on the voice of the people. I now point again to Article I. "Origin of Government; right to alter", mentioned above.

In addition, all the appointed offices will serve at the pleasure of the Governor. The term "at the pleasure of the Governor" means exactly what it says, if the appointee does not please the Governor, the Governor has the power, under the new constitution to replace him. And I wonder if this doesn't also mean that the appointee had better conform with the political viewpoints of the Governor?

The Redcoats are coming!

This whole sinister plot reared its ugly head out of the State of the Union Message of 1965, when Johnson stated, that, "all of the constitutions of the fifty states should be up-dated to the needs of today". I don't know exactly what Johnson meant, or whose needs he was talking about, but none of my friends have ever complained about our Maryland Constitution being too old to provide them with a voice in our State or Federal Governments. At any rate, this was the key note that started all of the pro-liberal Governors in many of the states to chant the socialist slogans. You have heard them, just stop and think a minute and see if I am not right. They started chanting all in time, it's outdated, it's restrictive, it's 100 years old, it's a horse and buggy constitution, it's archaic, it's too big and clumsy, all of these high-sounding reasons and more have been the chant ever since Johnson's message.

I had the opportunity to hear Senator Bailey, of St. Mary's County speak on this new constitution and he was very much against it. Senator Bailey responded to the charge that our Maryland Constitution was too big and clumsy with the following statement:

"The planners tell us that our Maryland Constitution is too big and clumsy. Senator Bailey then said, our existing constitution has 100 pages, the new constitution has 70 pages. There are 30 pages difference in the two documents and those 30 pages are your rights."

The Senator also stated that the cost would be ridiculous. It would take $23.5 million additional per year. And $154,903,000 just to implement the new constitution. Of course these staggering figures certainly reflect the real reason for the very old concept of a graduated income tax.

It also seems incredible that a convention of 142 delegates could arrive at a decision to adopt a final proposed Constitution that would place more confidence in a Governor than it would in the Good Lord. Section 4.29, Appointments by Governor: states that, "He shall appoint, without the advice and consent of the Senate, each chief administrative officer serving under a board of commission which is the head of a principal department . . .".

Section 9.01, Oath: they state here that the "language of, (in the presence of Almighty God) is optional".

What is even more beyond belief is that they don't mind insulting the majority of God fearing citizens for a few atheists. However, I did hear one of the proud delegates state in Middletown, Maryland, that he thought it was a good thing because it would keep the "Supreme Court of the United States from disqualifying our new Constitution".

I would like to assure you once again that this program is coming from the Federal Government as a part of a master program, and to prove my point, I now point to the Maryland 1967 Report of the Constitutional Convention Commission, Page 463, title, Cooperative Effort With The University of Maryland:

"The Law School of the University made available two well-located offices in its building at 500 West Baltimore Street. The University obtained an allocation from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of approximately $60,000 to develop an educational program for the people of Maryland in connection with the constitutional revision . . .".

In addition to the above, the Federal Government paid for the nine flyers published jointly by the University of Maryland Extension Service of the Department of Agriculture, and the Constitutional Convention Commission. I have one of the flyers.

Well, I could go on and on and on, but the truth is that we, the people, of the Great State of Maryland are going to write the ticket to the future of our "Free State", May 14, 1968. We have been doing that all our lives, to be sure. Each generation does. But now it is a new ticket, and calls for passage over strange and dangerous roads not traveled by us before.

The course of our history, the prosperity and welfare of our people, the stability of our economy, the safety of our savings, and in the long run, the survival of our political and personal freedom, all these are wrapped up in the decisions being made by the good people of Maryland. That is the ticket we are writing. Let us spell out loud and clear "NO" on May 14, 1968, and give a future of freedom to the oncoming generation.

Boating Tips...

LANDING A FISH
Boating a fish is almost as difficult as catching one. Potential record breakers have become fiction rather than fact for many hapless anglers, so the fishing experts at Mercury outboards offer these tips to save a disappointing outing: first, select a long-handled net of sufficient size; never lurch or wave your arms unnecessarily when the fish gets close to the net; always put the net in the water before the fish is brought into landing position, then pull him head first over it and lift; lift smoothly, and in one motion, bring the netted fish into the boat.

Taneytown Lions

Hold Election

The Taneytown Lions Club held its regular meeting at the Taney Inn on April 23. Past District Governor, Harry Dougherty, Sr., asked the invocation with President Joe Meyer presiding.

Lion J. Alfred Hertebride had charge of the program in the absence of Sight Conservation Chairman, Lion Donald Lawyer. Frederick N. Griffith, Executive Director of the Medical Eye Bank of Maryland, was the guest speaker for the evening. This Eye Bank was started in 1962 and is now the second largest eye bank in the world. This bank deals in the collection and distribution of eyes to patients throughout the country. There are 86 eye banks in the U. S. that keep in touch with each other at all hours of the day and night. There are over 25,000 blind people in the U. S. who need cornea surgery to correct their blindness. The average cost for these services are approximately $500-$1,000 per patient. However, the eye banks do not charge for their services, and operates on donations from the many civic clubs and other organizations. A check for $400 was presented Mr. Griffin on behalf of the Lions Club by J. Alfred Hertebride.

The election of officers showed the following results: President, Herbert Bowers; 1st vice president, Harry Dougherty, Jr.; 2nd vice president, Donald Wantz; 3rd vice president, Stanley King; tail twist-er, Donald Gent; Lion tamer, Wilbert Hess; Directors, 2 years, C. W. Drury and Lewis Baer, 1 year, Don Baker and Glenn Reaver; pianist, Delmar Riffle.

The next regular meeting will be held on May 14, which will be Little League Managers night and Explorer Scouts night. Harry Dougherty, Jr., and Frank Dunham are Program Chairmen for the meeting.

1968-69 Hunting Seasons Set

The Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission through its discretionary powers as provided by law, has set the 1968-69 hunting regulations and they are now before the Attorney General for approval, according to George B. Shields, Director of the Department of Game and Inland Fish.

The Commissioners reduced the number of days for the hunting of turkeys from 34 days to 16, but considered a possible spring gobbler season. The regular turkey season will be from October 16 to October 31 inclusive in Garrett, Allegany and Washington Counties only. The spring gobbler season, if any, will be set for date and duration at a later meeting. The daily bag and possession limit will remain at one bird which must be checked in at a designated checking station as listed in the 1968-69 Hunter's Guide.

The squirrel season remains nearly the same with the season beginning October 5 and extending through November 16 which retains a daily bag limit of 6 and possession limit of 12.

The season on rabbits was increased from November 15-Jan. 13 to November 1 through January 15. The bag limit is 4 per day and 8 in possession.

The Pheasant and grouse seasons were set to open and close sooner, namely November 1-January 15 inclusive. Bag limits continue the same, 2 per day and 4 in possession.

The Commission retained the 1967 season on quail as November 15-February 1 inclusive with a daily bag limit of 6 and possession limit of 12.

Raccoon and opossum hunters will continue to enjoy an extended season from September 11 to April 1 inclusive. Since raccoons and opossums are most plentiful in Maryland, the Commissioners did not see the need for bag limits.

Muskrat and mink regulations remain the same, namely, January 1 to March 15 inclusive, except in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Carroll, Howard, Montgomery and Frederick Counties, which is November 15 to February 15 inclusive. There is no bag limit on these animals.

Trappers must have permission from the landowner and each trapper may set, tend or operate eight (8) trap-sets only, a trap shall have a jaw-spread of not less than 4 1/4" when open. All trap-sets within an area three (3) feet in diameter shall constitute one (1) trap-set.

There is no open season on bear and no closed season on Skunk and woodchuck.

The fox is protected in some counties but not by state regulation.

To prevent any misunderstanding of the deer seasons and methods of hunting these animals, the Commissioners have spelled out the regulations in simple and brief terms as follows:

Deer—Archery Season (either sex)—Sept. 16-Nov. 29, inc.; Dec. 9-Dec. 19, inc., and Dec. 23-Jan. 4, 1969.

Deer—Firearms & Bow and Arrow (Male only) with two or more points to one antler and male deer with an antler three or more inches long with the points measuring from the top of the skull as the deer is in life. November 30-December 7, inclusive.

Deer—Firearms & Bow and Arrow (Antlerless only). (December 20, 21 tentative). The antlerless season will not be set until the October public meeting. At that time, the Commission will have more information on the number of animals that need to be harvested to maintain a healthy deer herd.

State Property Tax To Remain Same

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, Chairman of the Governor's Committee to Study the State Debt, this week announced that, at its meeting held in his Baltimore Office, the Committee adopted a recommendation to the Board of Public Works to set the State Property Tax levy at 17c per $100 of assessable basis for the coming Fiscal Year beginning July 1, 1968. The Board of Public Works is required to establish the rate of the annual State Property Tax levy on or before May 1 of each year.

The rate for the current Fiscal Year ending June 30, 1968 is 17c per $100. The continuance of a 17c rate for Fiscal Year 1969 takes into consideration estimated Debt Service requirement of $30,237,637 for the Fiscal Year 1969 which includes redemption of bonds maturing during that year and payment of interest on the outstanding debt. The Debt Service requirement during the current Fiscal Year 1968 is $26,605,349.

The 17c rate also takes into account the increase of the State Assessable Base from $15,294,637,-

SO WE LOOK BACK

Things we learned in kindergarten Were mostly lost before reaching ten:

"Where there's a will there's a way"—
At ten the way appeared before the will
When mother failed to put away Her cookies hot on the window sill.

"One swallow makes no summer"—
Now I remember when the teacher Had me stand under scorching sun As she didn't consider it fun
For me to salt somebody's buns—
When I'd done it once and only once!

"Do unto others what you want Others do unto precious you"—
They were gems we were wont To keep in mind but wouldn't do As in a playful mood when a boy Would pull a girl's pigtail at bay.

But it is when we look back To pick up the thread we'd lost—
The child's experience we now lack—
That light now comes to us at last.

—A. Figer Voloria

000 in the Fiscal Year 1968 to $15,715,956,000 in the Fiscal Year 1969 as estimated by the State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Mr. Goldstein, in making the announcement, pointed out that this tax rate is necessitated by the State's rapid growth in population and economic requirements with the resulting public demands for additional buildings and equipment.

The U. S. Census Bureau reports that Maryland population has grown by 19% since the April 1, 1960 Census, and only five other states in the union have shown a greater percentage gain during the period.

This increase in growth is reflected in approval by the recent 1968 session of the General Assembly of $249,589,600 of new bonds.

Maryland's bonds have the best credit rating in U. S., namely AAA, and in order to maintain this rating, the State has to have sufficient money flowing into the Treasury to meet the principal and interest on these bonds.

Mr. Goldstein further pointed out that Maryland has never defaulted a bond issue.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

Mr. Lawrence Wolk

POINT OF VIEW

The Joker In Social Security
BABSON PARK, Mass., May 2—Since it became operative more than 30 years ago, the social security system has grown like all get out. Most of us take it pretty much for granted. We are encouraged and elated whenever Congress sees fit to increase benefits, and we grumble only half-heartedly when Congress votes a boost in the social security tax.

Not Insurance
Perhaps we would be more deeply concerned for its future (and ours!) if we knew that social security is not really retirement insurance. Right now social security is obligated to pay out some $400 billion. However, its reserve is scarcely more than 5% of that amount!

What, then, has happened to your social security tax payments? The answer is quite simple: These payments are channeled into the U. S. Treasury, along with other tax money, and used as Uncle Sam sees fit. Hence your future social security benefits are not being financed by your tax payments of today. That money is being paid out to older Americans already drawing benefits.

Disappointing And Diminishing Return

Both minimum and maximum benefits under social security have been increased a number of times. Of course, more people are receiving more dollars from the system than ever before. But the return relative to social security taxes paid is still disappointing.

Though their benefits may have been small compared with those available today, workers who retired during the early years of the program have actually collected many times their contribution. But as the program has embraced more people, tax payments to support it have outpaced the return from it.

Some Basic Inequities

Right now, the average young worker could buy—from a private insurer—a combination life-insurance-and-retirement policy that would provide him a much better return than he will get from his social security. Hence, compulsory social security as we have it today is unfair. We and our employers combined should have the choice of making payments for social security either to Uncle Sam or to an insurance company.

Another inequity in the present system which cries to heaven for correction is the inhuman, anti-social ruling which forces a post-65 worker to forego his full benefits until he reaches 72 if he earns more than $1680 per year in wages. Yet, retirees who have income from sources other than employment are not similarly penalized.

Can The Few Support The Many?

The real joker in social security is the lack of a sufficient reserve to assure payment of benefits over the longer term. When the system was established, it was confidently expected that a steadily increasing population would provide an ever greater number of taxpayers. It was also expected that constantly expanding productivity would provide these workers with more dollars to pay into social security.

But earlier plans for ever more taxpayers and perpetual productivity advances seem to be going awry. In recent years, the nation's birth rate has plunged . . . a new low last year. Ever-mounting cost-push inflation has been curbing America's vaunted productivity gains. Projecting these adverse trends—and there's no reason not to—we shall run smack into a situation shortly after the year 2000 that may ring the death knell for social security. For, by that time, the war babies of the 1940's will be the retirees. Their numbers will be legion. But the taxpayers who will have from this form of cancer would mass, relative to a then huge army of pensioners. Will the youthful taxpayers rebel at carrying the heavy burden for those over 65?

olent revolutionary assault upon the United States and its institutions. The plan is to incite and organize millions of students into a para-military force joined to revolutionary Black Power—with which World Communism expects ultimately to overthrow the U. S. and gain dominion over all mankind.

This sounds fantastic, doesn't it?
Jerry Rubin, revolutionary leader, prominently active in Communist causes, who helped to direct the mammoth assault on the Pentagon last October, says: "The goal is a massive white revolutionary youth movement which, working in parallel cooperation with rebellions in Black communities, could seriously disrupt this country."

Is this "goal" fantastic? I have before me a news dispatch from Santa Barbara, California. The headline says: "Students Discuss Ways to 'Destroy' Universities." A subhead says: "Revolution Proposed." "Revolution" Spelled Out

The Santa Barbara News-Press had sent reporter, Tom O'Brien to cover a conference of college student leaders from throughout the nation, sponsored and financed by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions which was set up with Ford Foundation money. The conference was under the personal guidance of Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, Center president; and Marry Ashmore, executive vice president. After reading the News-Press report, I wrote the Center for a full text of the speeches and discussions, and now have the elaborately-published document.

Here is one of the student leaders speaking: "I'm going to say loudly and explicitly what I mean by revolution. What I mean by revolution is overthrowing the American government and installing some sort of decentralized power in this country. I'll tell you the steps that I think will be needed. First of all, starting up fifty Vietnams in Third World countries. (Note: The Communists explain "Third World" as the "oppressed" people of Asia, Africa and Latin America.) To Aid "Black Power"

"This is going to come about (continued the speaker) by Black rebellions in our cities, joined by some white people. People in universities can do a number of things to help. They have access to money and they can give these people guns, which I think they should do. They can engage in acts of terrorism and sabotage outside the ghetto. . ."

The speaker was Devereaux Kennedy, president of the student body at Washington University, St. Louis.

A fact which should cause shivers to run up the spine of all concerned Americans is that, according to reports given at this national conference of student leaders, approximately 10 per cent of all students in our colleges and universities follow such revolutionary leadership, and such young revolutionaries

A proposal to increase GI Home Loan guarantees from $7,500 to $10,000 is being considered by the Congress.

T. R. McKeldin

Career Day Speaker

Keynoting the Career Day at Mt. St. Mary's College, former Maryland Governor Theodore R. McKeldin stated that the crisis in education is not the cost nor the extent of education but rather what we shall teach.

Emphasis on the teaching of science alone produces a warped mind and a distorted soul, he said, giving Nazism and Communism as prime examples.

"Our schools should bear in mind the whole truth and in all their teaching make it clear that there is a distinction between man and the brute that the microscope cannot detect and the mathematician cannot calculate," he stated. "The proper study of mankind is man... it is more than scientific; it includes an examination of the spirit as well as the body."

Other speakers at the career conferences included:

Medicine—Dr. Kenneth R. Rankin, Baltimore College for Dentistry, University of Maryland.

Research Science—Dr. Daniel J. Monagle, Jr., Hercules Powder Company, Wilmington, Delaware.

Corporate Business—Mr. John J. McCarthy, LL.D., Treasurer, Dow Jones and Company.

Hess Is Held

For June Court

Dennis Ray Hess, 19, York St., Taneytown, was held for the June term of court on a charge of involuntarily manslaughter in the death of Charles Calvin "Butch" Crum, 22, 230 S. Washington St., Gettysburg, who was killed in a two-car collision on the Emmitsburg Road, March 10, at 8:30 p.m. Hess pleaded not guilty to the charge at a hearing before Cumberland Twp. Justice of the Peace Charles Leader. However, on the basis of the evidence presented, Leader ruled that Hess should be held for court. The Taneytown youth was released in continuation of his $1,500 bail posted at an arraignment on the same charge April 4.

State Police Trooper Gary Orndorff presented his case against Hess along with the testimony of Cumberland Twp. Police Chief Bernard V. Miller who assisted with the investigation. Hess, who was not represented by counsel during the hearing, did not offer any testimony.

Orndorff alleged that Hess and Crum were engaging in a speed contest at the time of the mishap. The trooper contended on the basis of physical evidence at the scene that both cars were northbound toward Gettysburg and Hess, in the process of passing the Crum vehicle, pulled back in the northbound lane too abruptly striking the Crum vehicle causing its operator to lose control of his car which crashed into a telephone pole and continued over a 30-foot embankment, resulting in injuries that were fatal to Crum.

Seven Students

In Honor Society

Three juniors and four seniors at St. Joseph High School were inducted into the National Business Honor Society at impressive ceremonies on April 25.

The moderator of the local N.B.H.S. chapter announced the four new members who are outstanding business students at the high school. Four seniors who have completed a year of probationary membership received cards in recognition of their achievements in business education.

Requirements for admission to the N.B.H.S. include an overall 2.8 scholastic average and a 3.0 average in all business subjects. In addition to scholastic rating, candidates must meet specified Professional Attitudes.

New members of the N.B.H.S. are: Paula Goetz, Florence Knox, Patricia Knox, Arlene Miller, Bernadette Pinkas, Linda Raab, and Pamela Topper.

Sculptor To Show

At St. Joseph's

Alexander Giampietro, Catholic University sculptor, will exhibit his work in Raku pottery at Saint Joseph College, May 3-12. The public is invited to the exhibit which opens with a reception for the artist on Friday, May 3, 6-8 p.m.

In Giampietro's opinion, the Raku artist, by working with natural models and natural "tools," the hands, is trying to re-establish modern man's connection with nature. The forms of his pots

"result from observation of rocks and minerals, seeds, flowers and buds."

Exhibit hours after Friday are: May 4, 5, 7, 8, and 10 from 4 to 6 p.m.; May 11, 4-8 p.m.; and

May 12, 2-6 p.m.

More school children will die of cancer than from any other disease, says the American Cancer Society.

(Air Mail History Continued)

On February 22, 1921, four planes, two from New York and two from San Francisco, took off in a continuous day and night flight across the country. Bad weather between New York and Cleveland halted the two west-bound planes. One of the flights from San Francisco reached North Platte, Nebraska, where Jack Knight, a young but experienced flyer, took over. At Omaha, Knight found he had no relief pilot but, refusing to abandon the test and flying a route unfamiliar to him even in daylight, bypassed Des Moines in a blinding snowstorm, and finally was guided into a landing at Iowa City's abandoned field by flares lighted by a night watchman. Refueling, Knight flew on through fog over the Mississippi Valley before landing safely at Chicago. Two other pilots flew the final legs from Chicago to Cleveland and Cleveland to New York to complete the historic flight in a total elapsed time of 33 hours and 21 minutes.

Thanks in large measure to Jack Knight's determination and daring, the Post Office had proved it was possible to fly cross-country at night and thus cut delivery time on transcontinental mail by a matter of days, not hours.

Regular transcontinental service entirely by plane began July 1, 1924, with the Chicago-Cheyenne segment flown at night. Other sections of the transcontinental route were prepared for night flights in quick succession, and by the end of 1925 pilots could follow a ribbon of light from New York to Salt Lake City.

Air mail had made another monumental contribution to American aviation.

Air mail volume spurted after night flights sharply reduced transcontinental delivery time. More than 8.5 million pounds of mail were carried by air in fiscal year 1931, an increase of almost 700 per cent over 1921. Volume increased to 15.4 million pounds ten years later. In fiscal 1965 the Postal Service handled 172.9 million pounds of air mail.

In 1925 the Post Office Department began contracting with private air carriers to haul the mail. The last air mail route operated by the Department, the Chicago to New York run, was taken over by a contractor on September 1, 1927. A unique era in postal history had ended.

The Postal Service's contribution to the growth of the air transport industry did not stop when contractors began flying the mail. Air mail revenue nurtured the striping air transportation industry, literally getting it off the ground. Many airlines began by carrying the mail, and it was virtually their sole source of revenue for years.

Thanks to the steady income assured by air mail contracts, the pioneer airlines were able to offer passenger service without having to rely on it for survival. In the late twenties and thirties few, if any, airlines could have stayed in business if dependent solely on passenger traffic.

Acting under a mandate from President Johnson to provide the American people with the finest mail service in the nation's history, Postmaster General O'Brien announced last January that all first class mail going more than a few hours distance would be air-lifted on a space available basis.

The airlift network has made it possible to give next day delivery to 75 per cent of all first class mail deposited before 5:00 p.m. Another 15 per cent of first class mail now gets second-day delivery, and this includes transcontinental mail.

Items Of Interest

From Rocky Ridge

April 22, 1968, the Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club held its monthly meeting at the home of Mr. Ralph Keilholtz. The meeting was opened with the 4-H Pledge and the Pledge of Allegiance. Sixty-five members answered the roll call with the name of a person to whom they respect. Phyllis Wivell, secretary, then gave the minutes to the previous meeting which were approved.

Reports were given by the members in various projects. Fred Keilholtz gave a report on the dairy club; Phyllis Warnken, the sewing club; Mary Ann Keilholtz, the flower arranging group; and Tom Keilholtz, on the activities of the horse and pony club.

Under old business Sharon Sharper, chairman of the bake sale committee, summed up the success of the recent sale. Also Mrs. Carroll Wivell announced the results of the Stanley Party given at the Rocky Ridge Fire Hall.

It was motioned and seconded that the club sell knives as its next financing project. It was announced that from the club, Phyllis and Angella Wivell participated in county demonstration day. Under new business, the McDonough School Fair was discussed. Sixteen members plan to enter in the state-wide fair to be held May 18. It was recognized that thirteen 4-hers anticipate attending a county tractor maintenance tour. No further business was discussed and the meeting was adjourned at 8:45 p.m.

About 100,000 cancer patients will die in 1968 who might have been saved by earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment. The American Cancer Society seeks to reduce this unnecessary loss of life through research, education and service.
