

12,000 Killed By Fires In Year

Fire killed over 1,000 people a month in this country last year, according to National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) estimates. Nearly a third of these were children.

More than $2.1 billion worth of property — including homes and churches, stores and factories — went up in smoke during 1967.

The tragedy of these statistics, Fire Chief Guy R. McGlaughlin, points out, is that the greatest part of this waste of lives and property is avoidable. If the simple rules of fire safety were observed at home and on the job, the record could be far different.

Fire Prevention Week, which

this year falls in the period October 6-12, re-emphasizes that fire hurts, that fighting fires is everyone's job, during this week and throughout the year.

The local observance of Fire Prevention Week will be sponsored by the Vigilant Hose Co., Chief McGlaughlin announces.

Proclaimed by the President of the United States and the Governor-General of Canada, the week is internationally sponsored by the National Fire Protection Association.

Among the features of the week-long program here will be: Children's activities, inspections and family fire drills.

Campaign plans were drawn up by the fire prevention committee headed by Chief McGlaughlin and including Charles F. Stouter, Art Damuth and Tom White.

Smoking and Your Health

The Writing on the Wall

An article in the March 26, 1968 issue of the Wall Street Journal stated that major cigarette manufacturers had reported a decline in production for the last quarter of 1967 and the early part of 1968. The announcement was evidence of the growing trend against cigarette smoking.

Another indication of this trend is the increasing number of prominent Americans joining "stop smoking" campaigns.

Of 250,000 veterans, it has been shown that 11 times as many cigarette smokers died of lung cancer as did non-smokers. There was also a higher percentage among smokers of death from bronchitis, asthma, stomach and duodenal ulcer, and cancer of the mouth, larynx and esophagus.

Such stark statistics have helped make people realize the danger of cigarette smoking. Many individuals, associations and corporations have tried to do their part to help others break this frequently-fatal habit.

In fact, many people were not surprised when a major life insurance company, State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America, Worcester, Mass. placed a full page ad in leading national magazines in January of 1964, which pointed out the dangers of smoking.

Senate legislators cited the ad as, "A milestone in the history of American advertising", stating that the ad was "In the highest tradition of insurance industry responsibility."

In April of that same year, the company became the first major insurer to offer a non-cigarette smoker's plan, featuring a lower premium, to people who had not smoked cigarettes for a year or longer.

Anti-smoking campaigns try to keep youth from starting, as well as get adults off, the habit. Yet 4,500 boys and girls start the smoking habit every day, although among teenagers there is a growing tendency to at least postpone it.

The number of adult smokers is decreasing at the rate of one million per year states the Department of Health Education and Welfare.

Once the American public realizes that life insurance companies (which are keenly aware of mortality causes) are pointing out the dangers of cigarette smoking, more people will join the ranks of non-smokers.

Second Lecture In Asian Series

J. Norman Parmer, Ph.D., associate dean and director of the Center of International Relations at Ohio University, will lecture on the history of Southeast Asia at the second meeting of the Southeast Asia Institute at Saint Joseph College on Saturday, Oct. 5, in the lecture hall of the Dodd Science Center.

During the morning session at 9:30, Dr. Parmer will cover "Indian and Chinese Influences." At the afternoon seminar, starting at 1:30, he will discuss "Colonialism and the Twentieth Century."

Seventy-five students have registered for the Institute, which is sponsored by the Breezewood Foundation and according to Prof. Thomas M. Leonard, campus director of the Institute. In addition to St. Joseph's faculty and students, representatives from Mt. St. Mary's, Loyola, Western Maryland, Wilson and Gettysburg Colleges are attending the seminars. Also participating are secondary school teachers from Baltimore City and County, Montgomery and Frederick Counties, Littlestown, Hanover and York, and military personnel from Fort Ritchie.

Prof. Leonard stated that final registration for the Institute will be held before Saturday's meeting between 9 and 9:30 a. m. in the lecture hall lobby of the Dodd Science Center, or will be accepted by mail prior to the meeting.

Professor of history at Ohio University, as well as a visiting lecturer at the University of Malaya, Dr. Parmer also has served on the faculties of the University of Maryland and Northern Illinois University. He has been a consultant to the Peace Corps and a consultant on curriculum planning and Asian studies programs at other educational institutions. During his world-wide travels, Dr. Parmer has been a visiting professor and conducted research in several countries of Southeast Asia, India, Korea and Hong Kong.

Author of "Colonial Labor Policy and Administration: A History of Labor in the Rubber Plantation Industry in Malaya, 1910-1941," Dr. Parmer is a contributor to many other texts dealing with the Southeast Asian problems, and has written several articles for such publications as "Far Eastern Survey" and "Asian Survey." He is currently working on a history of Malaysia in the twentieth century and has just completed a textbook on world civilizations for Ladilaw Brothers.

A graduate of Indiana University where he received his B.A. in history and economics, Dr. Parmer received a master's degree from the University of Connecticut and the doctoral degree in history from Cornell University.

Ten Ways To Cut Winter Heating Bills

Have you ever stopped to think how much of your household money is quite literally "going up the flue" or "leaking out through the roof"?

You may be spending 50 per cent more than you should for cold weather heating — and shivering at the same time. Over the years this adds up to a substantial sum—not to speak of season-long discomfort from drafts and "hot spots".

It's easy to improve comfort and slash your heating bills, say home comfort engineers at Zonolite Division of W. R. Grace & Co., Chicago.

These heating experts offer ten simple steps to more economical and more comfortable home heating:

1. Make sure doors and windows are weatherstripped and caulked. Both weatherstripping and caulking compound are inexpensive and easy to apply. A few minutes effort will pay off in greatly increased heating efficiency.

2. Have your furnace system checked by qualified, responsible specialists. It's wise to have furnace, pipes and chimney checked every year. The furnace itself should be cleaned and adjusted for greatest heating efficiency before the start of cold weather. If you act promptly before the last-minute rush, you'll probably benefit from off-season price reductions.

3. If you have a forced-air heating system, replace the filters. Check air returns for both forced-air and gravity systems to make sure they are not clogged. It's a good idea, too, to see that there is a fresh air supply for the furnace to draw on. A slightly opened window near the furnace may be the answer.

4. Check height of attic insulation. If insulation on the attic floor between the joists has settled or is less than four inches thick (a measurement easy to check with a ruler), you'll be losing heat quickly when cold weather strikes.

One of the most important things you can do to cut heating costs and improve comfort is to correct deficient attic insulation. Simply pour vermiculite over old inadequate insulation and level to height of four inches with board if you have hot-air heat and six inches if you have electrically heated.

5. Look for gaps between insulation and joists, bare spots, and insulation voids around electrical conduits.

Inadequate attic insulation can increase your fuel bill by 50 per cent. You'll be glad to know you can easily correct this condition by pouring a loose-fill insulation right over the old, inadequate insulation. Loose-fill insulations such as vermiculite are available in bags from lumber and building supply dealers. Simply pour out the vermiculite and level with a board drawn along attic joists.

6. After correcting attic insulation deficiencies, continue your home inspection downstairs. In the kitchen check the air seal around the exhaust fan. When cold weather comes, remember that opening a kitchen window while the exhaust fan is on will prevent excessive heat loss from other rooms.

7. Take a close look at heat sources and air returns. You'll want to keep radiators, registers, radiant panels and returns unobstructed by furniture.

8. Fireplaces are fine, but they can siphon off heat. Make it a house rule to keep all dampers closed when fireplaces are not in use.

9. During the winter close bedroom doors before opening windows for the night. This will save heat in the rest of the house.

10. By all means use storm windows or double-glazed windows. They'll pay for themselves in a few heating seasons. When winter comes, even if your storm window protection is adequate, pull drapes to save heat.

Follow these tips and you'll be surprised at the improvement in home comfort and at the fuel savings you'll enjoy.

Squirrel Crop Bountiful

Maryland squirrel hunters will have a bumper crop of the bushy-tails awaiting them when the season opens on October 5. Wildlife officers of the Department of Game and Inland Fish report that the squirrel crop is up in nearly every county of the State. The rise in the squirrel population is attributed to excellent food conditions the little animals enjoyed last year. There were bumper crops of most of the squirrel dainties through the fall of 1967 and winter of 1968. With plenty to eat, the squirrels made it through the winter in good numbers and in excellent shape. As a result, reproduction was good this spring and summer.

And on another optimistic note, observers say the same fine food conditions will prevail again this fall and winter, so good squirrel hunting in Maryland should continue through the 1969 season.

Another observer of the squirrel situation said that hunting should be excellent in almost any stand of hardwoods to which the hunter can gain access. He indicated that the hunter who can't fill his daily bag limit of six would have to be a rotten shot. The possession limit is 12 and both the bag and possession limits include gray, black and fox squirrels in the aggregate of all kinds. There is no limit on red or piney squirrels. The season runs through November 16.

Hunters are reminded particularly that for the first time in several seasons the opening day of the squirrel season does not coincide with the opening day of turkey season. Turkey season will not open until October 16 in the three counties where turkey hunting is permitted—Garrett, Allegany and Washington.

Hunters fortunate enough to bag a turkey are urged to return the bands to the Department of Game and Inland Fish, State Office Building, Annapolis, Md. 21401. Their cooperation is invaluable in providing information needed in the Department's attempt to reestablish this valuable game bird in the State. Turkey hunters are also reminded that this year they must have a big game stamp to hunt them and that all turkeys must be checked in the county in which the kill was made.

Fawns Under Study

A study of fawns is being undertaken by the Maryland Department of Game and Inland Fish to determine whether a heavy burden of parasites could be responsible for poor deer reproduction in Allegany County.

For a number of years it has been noted that the fawn crop in Allegany is uniformly poor, while in neighboring Garrett County deer reproduction is fairly good, according to Bernard Halla, forest wildlife biologist for the Department of Game and Inland Fish.

The study of Allegany and Garrett County fawns will be made by Dr. Frank Hayes, noted biologist of the University of Georgia's School of Veterinary Medicine. It is part of the work done by the Southeast Cooperative Wildlife Disease Study under an annual contract from the Department of Game and Inland Fish.

Other Southeastern States, as well as Maryland, are involved in various studies aimed at conserving their supplies of birds and animals. Some of Dr. Hayes' recent work includes studies of parasites in rabbits and game birds, including wild turkeys, grouse, pheasants and bobwhite quail.

Dr. Hayes, who will spend a week at Billmeyer Wildlife Management Area in Allegany County, will conduct postmortems on fawns, possibly five each from Allegany and Garrett Counties. It is hoped that a comparison of the parasite level of the animals from the two counties will shed some light on the problem of Allegany's poor production.

Halla points out that deer, much like human beings, become susceptible to attack by parasites or inroads of disease when their general condition declines because of malnutrition. Poor range conditions could be a factor in the Allegany herd's condition.

Recruiting Trainees

A drive to recruit 16 to 21 year old youths from Maryland's counties for resident training at the Baltimore Job Corps Skills Center has been launched by the Maryland State Employment Service Division of the Department of Employment Security.

The drive will be conducted by the Agency's local offices throughout the State to fill 125 resident training slots open to eligible young men who live in areas outside of Baltimore City.

According to J. Donn Aiken, Employment Service Director, the resident training slots are being offered to 16 to 21 year old males who meet the general criteria of the socially, economically or culturally disadvantaged; the school dropouts, the unemployed or underemployed and members of low income families.

Mr. Aiken said that the Job Corps Skills Center training program offers basic education (reading, math and social skills) and vocational training in four areas: Food Service, Graphic Arts, Electrical and Electronics Assembly and Manufacturing Operations.

In addition, Aiken said, trainees will receive three meals a day, medical and dental care, instruction in personal development, and a $30 monthly allowance.

The Center's trainee capacity is 325 young men; 200 non-resident and 125 resident. In addition to the 125 residents to be drawn from Maryland's counties, the majority of the 200 non-resident trainees will be from Baltimore City.

The Baltimore Job Corps Skills Center, 103 E. Mount Royal Avenue, Baltimore, is being operated by the Burroughs Corporation, Detroit, Mich., under a $2.7 million dollar contract with the State of Maryland funded by and contracted with the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity covering the period from May 1, 1968 thru June 30, 1969.

Ladies and gentlemen!

If you forget to get a "procto" you may never live it down.

You may never have heard of a "procto" much less had one. Most people haven't. Last year 43,000 Americans died of colon and rectum cancer. Yet thousands of them might have been saved. A "procto" (short for proctosigmoidoscopic examination) can easily detect this cancer in its early, curable stages. Be sure to ask your doctor to include a "procto" in your next annual checkup. It takes only a short time. But it could help save your life.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

By Elizabeth Stewart
Women's Medical News Service
Bathless Care Controls Eczema
SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — What happens when you banish soap and water baths from the lives of children with eczema? You free about 85 per cent of them of the annoying skin condition. This is the good news reported by Dr. Alvin H. Jacobs to a recent medical meeting here. The pediatrician-dermatologist, of Children's Hospital in this city, placed 48 children, all of them afflicted with the disease for from several months to many years, on a bath-free, soap-free regimen. The results in 39 were good to excellent; in four fair; in three poor. Two youngsters had not been treated long enough to be included in the evaluation. The others were all followed for from three months to two years. Instead of the usual soap and water, the children's skin was cleaned with a fat-free lotion. Mothers found it quite easy, the physician reported, to keep the child clean with the lotion, and found that the skin became softer, more moist, and less itchy than before. After the skin had remained clear for several months a once or twice a month bath was allowed. In addition, foods to which the children were allergic were banned; wool and other irritants were avoided; activities causing profuse perspiring were limited, since perspiration aggravates the condition.

Medical Program Cuts Dropouts
CHICAGO, Ill. — Help a girl realize that she has a potential, a future, and you change her into a productive rather than a reproductive member of society. This is what Captain Philip Sarrel told Women's Medical News Service after a report to a medical meeting here describing the many-faceted services provided teenagers in New Haven who become pregnant out-of-wedlock.

Before the program was instituted by Yale-New Haven Medical Center in 1965, about nine out of 10 girls who had one illegitimate baby became repeaters within a short time.

After the special program began, involving continuing the girls' education, counseling them on their future, offering them vocational and educational guidance, in addition to prenatal care, only one out of 10 became pregnant again. More than 85 per cent of the girls returned to school, with well over 10 per cent of the girls applying to college. "We feel that the most effective contraception," said Captain Sarrel, who headed the program before going into the army, "has been returning to school and learning to care about themselves as well as the baby. We feel that contraception, alone, for this group of disadvantaged girls, would not work if they remained outcasts of society, if they were school dropouts, if they had no potential for the future."

"This is a program which aims at changing a girl's image of herself: Raising her from a despondent girl to someone who has a potential for the future; who has a child who also has a future; and who is not trapped by a repeated cycle of continuing out-of-wedlock pregnancy."

Sexes Equal On Sick Leave
NEW YORK—There's no such thing as the stronger sex. At least not where sick leave is concerned. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, studying its own employees, found that men and women stayed out of work about the same length of time a year. They stay home with different illnesses, however. Women are felled by respiratory diseases, men by digestive disturbances. How much sick leave do they take? On the average of six days a year.

AAA Gives Auto Tips

Since some garage racketeering is known to exist in the U. S., the AAA Automobile Club of Maryland has recommended at least one way to help motorists avoid a heavy financial loss while traveling by car.

AAA says the best thing to do—when an attendant recommends repair work or replacement of tires or other parts and it is not entirely clear that the work is justified—is to present a gasoline company or other credit card for the charges.

Should it later develop that the traveler has been victimized, he has a good record of the dealings and can review the situation carefully before deciding what action to take with the company involved.

Generally, travelers who have the misfortune to patronize one of the country's few crooked service stations are gypped into buying unnecessary parts or having unnecessary repairs made. The victim is scared or fast-talked into thinking something is seriously wrong with his car, so that he might not complete his trip safely.

If a company receives even a few complaints concerning payments to a single garage, it is likely the company will begin investigation on its own and work to correct the situation, the auto club noted.

The Veterans Administration, under certain conditions, can make a limited number of direct Government home or farm loans to eligible veterans.

It is rather rare for an individual to detect signs of his own extravagance.

Wrong-doing carries its penalties without an installment plan of payment.

Safe Harbor

Historic lighthouse on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

For 120 years this famous lighthouse has guided thousands of ships into the safe port of Biloxi.

Located on scenic U. S. Highway 90 overlooking the Gulf of Mexico, this is one of the most photographed landmarks in America. Legend has it that this lighthouse was painted black when Lincoln was assassinated.

Mississippi Gulf Coast history dates back 300 years, yet today it is one of the Southland's most modern seashore resorts. Known as "America's Riviera", it offers visitors complete vacation facilities, including a 28-mile long beach, fine accommodations, excellent restaurants and year round golf.

IS YOUR BOAT IN THE WAX?

A well placed boat is just as important as an accurate cast, and the hand on the throttle may be as responsible for subduing a trophy fish as the trembling fingers locked around the rod. Proper boat handling, say the fishing experts at Mercury outboards, plays a vital role in fishing. Unfortunately, they add, its true significance often becomes apparent too late ... after a good fish has been lost.

Most anglers are reasonably adept at handling their rigs while trolling and casting. And hooking and netting ordinary size fish present no special problems.

However, things change quickly when the once-in-a-lifetime lunker comes along. Everyone focuses attention on the battle, and tends to forget that the boat can be a big aid to a happy outcome.

Some guides run their motors during the entire battle to help the fisherman hold the fish out in unobstructed water and to turn with the fish. When the fish shows signs of tiring and resistance slackens, the guide backs off steadily so that continual pressure can be exerted without letting the fish get a second wind up near the hull.

Large fish such as pike, salmon, trout and muskies have a peculiar affection for boat bottoms — particularly when about to be landed. They may slide docilely alongside, appearing completely whipped. Then, splash ... down and under.

Unless the angler plunges his rod deep into the water and the helmsman swings the boat quickly, say the Mercury lads, something's going to get snagged and the escape made good.

Since you can't keep a big fish away from the boat, keep the boat away from the fish until he's definitely beaten.

Holiday Sales Prospects

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., October 3—For some weeks now, retailers have been devoting a great deal of time, money, and energy to preparations for the pre-Christmas buying season. At this writing, both wholesalers and retailers are generally optimistic and enthusiastic about holiday trade prospects. This confidence has been reflected in large initial orders of merchandise for Yuletide display and sale.

Favorable Barometers

The prevailing buoyant attitude stems from the favorable retail sales performance of the past several months versus a year ago. This happy situation reflects the "never-ending" climb of disposable personal income . . . bolstered by huge wage advances. Indeed the bulge in consumer incomes seems to be almost immune to the depressing influences of the tax surcharge. Then, too, shoppers are boosting their already fat paychecks by going in greater droves to the banks and finance companies to acquire big-ticket items. Teen-agers are getting into the act more vigorously . . . spending as if there's no tomorrow. Mark it well: The Christmas needs of these teens will account for a substantial portion of this year's total volume.

Flies In The Ointment

But even the most optimistic merchants will concede that there are flies in the ointment which could limit the prospective upturn in Christmas sales. They are worried about the federal tax surcharge lest it pack a delayed-action wallop that would pare consumer outlays for gifts. They are worried also because installment debt is fairly high and has been rising pretty fast in recent months.

Another factor causing concern is the still rising prices of raw materials, semi-finished goods, and wholesale and retail merchandise. Obviously, this is going to be reflected in higher retail prices between now and Christmas. Toys and dolls have already been marked up and some further upward adjustments on tickets will likely be made this fall. Glassware, gifts, and home furnishings also should have substantially higher tags than was the case a year ago. By comparison, the markup on most clothing items should be somewhat less.

High Break-Even Points

At any rate, there seems no doubt that prices in toto will be quite a bit higher than they were last year. This means that merchants are already tying up more money in inventory than at this time in 1967. For some this can be accomplished only by resort to credit, and the cost if that credit must be reckoned into their pricing, selling, and general business policies.

Break-even points in most retail businesses this year will be higher than ever before. If you operate in the retailing field—whether in a large or in a small operation—we advise measuring your costs carefully all along the line, to make the most effective use of display, shelf, and storage space, and to obtain maximum co-operation from your employees. Only thus can you keep a tight control on costs.

1968 To Be Banner Year

Despite the very real uncertainties cited above, as well as the calendar fact that this year's late Thanksgiving leaves retailers with 4 fewer selling days than in 1967 between that holiday and Christmas, we are tremendously impressed with the late-summer consumer buying stampede. Once a surge of this kind gets under way, it is likely to hold its momentum for a few months at least.

Those who look at psychological factors, as well as at purely financial ones, say that the spending spree took place in the face of upped taxes because Mr. & Mrs. J. Q. Public were depressed last spring by assassinations, riots, etc. When the summer turned out to be not so "long and hot" as the sob sisters had forecast, their relief spurred a rush to the stores. All in all, Yuletide spending should top 1967 by 6% to 7%. Maybe half will be bigger price tags; but real gain in units should hit 3% to 4% . . . perhaps not spectacular, yet still a banner year for retailers. Key your sales pitch to an eager consumer mood . . . and bet the "average"!

How many friends buck the crowd in your behalf when the crowd is wrong?

Committee To Advise Mahoney

George P. Mahoney, Independent Candidate for United States Senator announced this week that he is forming a Senatorial Advisory Committee which will function during the campaign in an advisory capacity and after the election to keep him in constant touch with the people of each region of the state.

Calling the formation of the Committee a step toward putting government back into the hands of the people "where it belongs," Mr. Mahoney said that he will appoint a coordinator for Eastern, Central, Western and Southern Maryland and a separate one for the most populous area of the State, Baltimore City and Baltimore County.

Mr. Mahoney said that as an independent candidate, "I owe nothing to either party and no party machinery. My only obligation will be to the people of my state."

"He said that he was in the campaign "Because I think this country is in deep trouble." Listing some of the trouble spots as the Viet Nam War, the continuing price spiral, which is the sharpest in 17 years, higher taxes, the 10% sur-tax charge, foreign aid credits to Communistic countries, crime in the streets, duplication of government services and law and order, he said "I don't think we would have some of these problems today if the elected officials in Washington had been doing their job . . . which is to listen and represent their constituents. A Senator is sent to Washington to represent the people of his state . . . not his own desires and ambitions."

Mr. Mahoney said a Senatorial Advisory Committee would help him to stay in direct contact with the people of the state on a regional and local level.

Can We Be Modern
and CHRISTIAN, TOO?

To some people nowadays, the Christian way of life is naive,
old-fashioned, "square."

As if the teachings of Jesus Christ had ceased to be pertinent to this sophisticated age.

A radio commentator, in fact, said recently that in another 50 years mankind will seek answers to man's questions of being from science
rather than religion.

This may seem to make sense to an era plagued by war,
dishonesty, social injustice,
"hippies," LSD, divorce, pornography and an exaggerated preoccupation with matters of sex.

But — does it?

Christ did not sacrifice His life for the salvation of one generation and not another.
Nor did He promulgate a way of life that would be relevant to the needs of one period of time and not to others. His "blue print" for Christian living is founded on divine and enduring principles, not upon the changing mores and deviations of a particular time in history.

Living the Christian life in the modern world may be different than it was in earlier and less turbulent times. But the vital need of doing so has not diminished if we are to find meaning and purpose in this life and eternal salvation
in the next.

If you feel truly concerned about these things, we invite you to send for our new pocket-size pamphlet entitled "Christian Life and The Modern World." It covers in easy-to-read style such topics as "What Is a Christian?" "The Modern World" "The Christian's In-

Christian and The Christian" "The Christian — Old-Fashioned or Up to Date?" "The Ecumenical Christian" "The Christian and The Bible" and
"The Christian Goes to Church."

off the triumph of an aggressive atheistic evil) as at least indirect justification for the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. The difference is as darkness to light.

Just two days after the Soviets and some of their chattels swarmed into Prague with tanks and planes, the "liberal" New York Times columnist, Tom Wicker, wrote: "One of Washington's best informed men was reflecting today on the Communist subjugation of Czechoslovak independence and liberalism. 'After this,' he said,
'Where do people like Mansfield and Fulbright go with their view of the world?'"

Mr. Wicker momentarily rejected the Fulbright, McCarthy, McGovern, Mansfield, and Communist Party USA contention that our presence in Vietnam and our actions in the Dominican Republic (blocking a takeover by Communism) was of the same character as Russia's invasion of Czechoslovakia (smothering out with tanks and terror a last flickering flame of independence). But one paragraph later, he says: "But the argument being made here by some 'hard liners'—that the invasion of Czechoslovakia proves that the nature of the Communist beast has not changed, and that therefore, the idea of a detent (togetherness) is dangerous—does not hold water either."

Mr. Wicker then gives his interpretation of Russia's crushing of Czechoslovakia by moting the "psychopathic fear of West Germany that haunts Moscow and Eastern Europe." He sees nothing unnatural in a big nation's concern (in this case, Russia's) for its own security.
And then comes the refurbishing of the Soviet image. The situation in Czechoslovakia (with freedom crushed under the wheel of Soviet tanks), Mr.
Wicker concludes, "does not refute the basic case for improved East-West relations, or change the need for what Hubert Humphrey called 'a shift

from policies of confrontation and containment to policies of reconciliation and peaceful engagement.'" (emphasis added)
Evil In Ascendancy

And, as has been done by persons of powerful influence in America each time that decent people have been stirred by a Soviet display of wanton butchery, Mr. Wicker injects the psychological narcotic of fear:
"Above all," he says, "the upward spiral of the arms race,
now poised for a dreadful leap into weaponry of horrid potentiality and budgets of crippling magnitude, can be held within human bounds only by Moscow and Washington working together. The Soviets and their allies have not made that easier to do but they have not made it impossible either." (emphasis added) This, in my opinion, is feathering the shaft in the arrow being fletched by the Soviets for our destruction.

Could anything be more horrid than the spectacle of the soul and spirit of a nation being crushed by a marauder
while the world's people stand watching aghast, but with hands hanging lifeless at their sides?
Surely this is Evil in ascendancy!

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day

The Subject was Horses

Everyone knows a father who buys his son an electric train and then becomes Chairman of the Board and chief engineer of a miniature Penn Central, or Santa Fe, taking up most of the room in the basement or playroom. It seems it can happen with horses too.

The daughter of James Emmett Garvey PhD, of the Pacific Institute for Advanced Studies
at Pasadena's Academic Center, wanted a horse. Dr. Garvey bought her one and then became so engrossed in the solidhoofed perisodactyl quadruped, Equus Caballus, (and the Thoroughbred of the species in particular), that he instituted a series of seminars devoted to the theme of "Thoroughbred racing as a sport and a responsible business."

Dr. Garvey enlisted the cooperation of Frank E. Kilroe, Sandra Anita's vice-president and racing secretary, and James D. Stewart, vice-president and general manager of Hollywood Park, who helped him to obtain authoritative "lecturers" for the seminars. A general series and an advanced series was offered and substantial tuition fees charged an enrollment of more than 100. Subjects included
"Great Modern Sire Lines,"
"Great Modern Broodmare Families," "Anatomy and Physical Development of the Thoroughbred," "Conditioning and Training," "The Breeding Farm," "Owning and Racing Thoroughbreds." Significantly there was no course on "How to pick the Daily Double."

pacity of pulp and paper mills in the United States has increased by nearly 50%, while air pollution control investments have jumped 80%.

er echelons of command, and the Army field flag, for lower echelon organizations, are symbolic of the Army as a whole. The form-seal in the center in ultramarine blue; the latter is blue with the seal in white.

Win Second

With 35 seconds of play remaining, Mount St. Mary's College left wingman, Dana Kimmel, scored a goal, giving the Mountaineer soccer team its second straight victory, a 1-0 verdict over Towson, on the Mount field Tuesday afternoon.

The contest was a hard-fought defensive battle down to the wire when a pass by center forward Tony Pasiakos was received by Kimmel who booted the ball by the goal. It was the only serious threat launched by the Mountaineers during the contest.

Mount Downs

American U, 5-0

An outstanding performance by Coach Jim Deegan's Tony Pasiakos led the Mount Saint Mary's soccer team to an opening victory over the American University Eagles by a 5-0 decision here Saturday afternoon.

Pasiakos scored two goals and an assist to give the Mount a 3-0 lead during the first half. Pasiakos put the Mount on the board with a goal after six minutes into the first quarter and followed by his assist to Neil Langan who made the second Mount goal. With 8:35 into the second quarter Pasiakos made the third Mount goal on a penalty kick.

In the second half it was down hill all the way for the Mount with Stan Sliwinski scoring with 16:02 in the third quarter. Ed Ewald landed the final goal for the Mountaineers with 19:32 into the fourth quarter. Both Sliwinski's and Ewald's goals were set up by a Mount All-American soccer man, Dana Kimmel, a senior who had been laid up with injuries for the better half of last year's season.

Parents will some day learn to let their little hopefuls find out some of the lessons of life by their own experience.

WHEN IT'S TOO LATE

The kiss lingers unfelt by lips Cold in the bier; nor nose smells Frangrance of bouquets given for tips

Of remembrance as love now swells

Why couldn't the kiss have been bestowed

When lips were warm — and heart alive

Still could yet be warmed? Endowed

With love in life, we all thrive.

The precious little things in life Abound often too late: too often The bread remains ungiven in strife

And the heart closes, it wouldn't open.

Life's too brief for petty strife Briefer still when love is gone: Man takes unto himself a wife to love and cherish till day is done. —A. Figer Villoria

HEALTH HINTS

Although football is considered an excellent "character builder" for youths, it can result in bodily impairment if a boy is not in good physical condition. Secure a medical clearance from your doctor before allowing your child to engage in this rough contact sport. Also, make certain he has the necessary equipment—helmet, shoulder, hip, thigh, and knee pads, and shoes—to afford maximum protection. Boys engaging in this sport should play in groups of similar size and age.

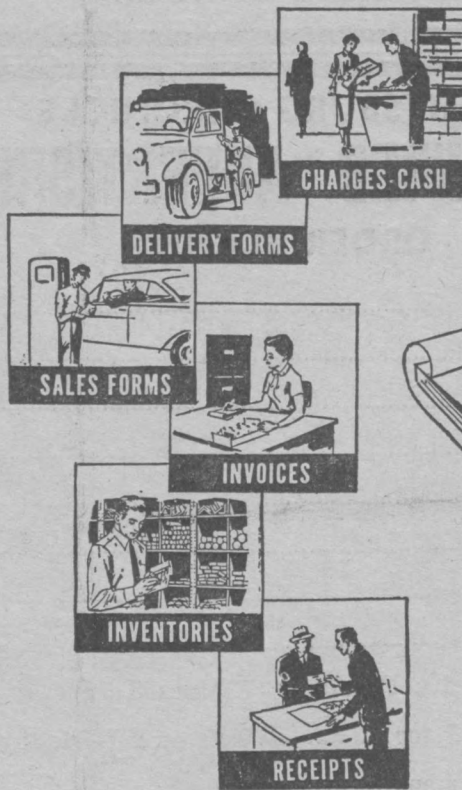

HICCUPS

Practically everyone experiences an attack of hiccups at one time or another. While ordinary hiccups are not considered a medical problem and usually subside of their own accord, you may obtain faster relief with such remedies as sipping water, breathing deeply, holding your breath, or deep exhaling and inhaling into a paper bag. If hiccups persist for protracted periods of time, consult your physician.

SCHOOL SAFETY

Impress upon your child—especially smaller children—the importance of observing all safety precautions during the school year. Parents should instruct their children on the proper crossing of streets and intersections. Crossing guards are stationed there for the child's protection and should be obeyed. Other safety reminders should cover proper deportment on the school bus and the rules of bicycle safety.
