Dear Abigail:

If I may make so bold, may I ask why no articles written by Terry Smith have appeared in the Chronicle during the past two months? Could it be, perhaps, his articles were too Republican slanted; differed too greatly politically from those of your Editor? Even if such were the case, I do not feel this to be substantial grounds to warrant not publishing his articles. I am a Democrat, (trying hard not to show any rancor), but this mere fact does not prevent my enjoying reading a column that is Republican oriented. On the contrary, I like to read the 'other' person's views so that having been exposed to both sides of the issue, I am better equipped to make more satisfactory decisions myself. I, for one, do not feel I need to be 'protected' from the opposing viewpoints. I like to feel I am intelligent enough to still think for myself in spite of all the efforts of writers like Mr. Smith to brainwash and convert me. (No offense meant, Mr. Smith). How can a person truly form a complete and honest opinion or make a positive decision if he confines his quest for knowledge to ONE partisan medium? To make a choice, the ingredients must be two or more alternatives from which one must choose. If we are tuned into one channel only, we cannot possibly know what's happening on the other channels, and consequetly cannot honestly compare or choose-now CAN we?

I enjoyed Mr. Smith's writing and while I, nevertheless, was not convinced or converted to his way of thinking, I respected his convictions, his candor and honest appraisal of things as he saw them.

I'm wondernig if Mr. Smith would be receptive to a suggestion from me? Instead of continually adhering to the straight theme of Republican politics and policies, why not branch out and give his NON-partisan opinions and constructive sugges-tions on the many National issues that confront us? The student rioting, the race issue, urban development and renewal, the Vietnam conflict, even the dissension within the Catholic Church, etc. There are many situations which must be resolved -Issues most pertinent to our general welfare and common interest, completely aside from partican politics. He would be read by All Chronicle readers because of the mutual concern felt by all of us for our Country's ills. There's a wide expanse of national and international issues and it is, literally, "open season" for all kinds of Crusades. The need for suggestions and opinions from all quarters is staggering.

Undoubtedly there were many hardcore Democrats who, after reading Mr. Smith's last three columns, simply 'turned' him out, since his politics and policies were so diametrically opposed to theirs. This could be avoided by discussing issues that are important and common to all of us, thereby virtually assuring the writer of a captive audience-Unless-Mr. Smith slips back, from habit, into the complete partisan, Republican way (which, obviously, has become so native to him), of presenting his views on what Should be Non-Partisan issues. I'm wondering if he really could disassociate himself from his Republican orientation and really write objectively, yet subjectively too, on serious issues. This is a large order to fill-perhaps even an impossible one, but I truly do not think so.

As one who was not happy with the election results, I feel entitled to a parting shaft and a brief, final diatribe: Perhaps Mr. Smith won't know HOW to write on these national issues until he learns where our President-elect stands on them-because, while Mr. Nixon did say he was going to heal all the wounds, right all the wrongs, create a Utopia in which we'll all be blissfully happy-he has not, as yet, said HOW he proposes to do all this. We waited all through his final two-hour telethon to find out but, alas, we waited in vain. Therefore, rather than wait for the "boss" to find the means and methods

Chamber Commerce To Protest Phone Rate Increase

Four pine trees will be planted in the flower pots on the Square in the near future it was learned at the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commrece held Tuesday evening in Mt. Manor Restaurant, President Jane Bollinger presiding.

Mrs. Frances Rosensteel, chairman of the beautification committee, reported that the summer flowers on the Square had been removed and that it was planned to plant pine trees there in the winter months. The group voted to continue holding its meetings at Mt. Manor Restaurant for at least the next six months. J. Norman Flax, chairman of the benefit raffle for the swimming pool fund, gave a progress report on the selling and distribution of tickets.

G. Eugene Rosensteel, chairman of the Recreation Area Committee, reported that to date over $4,000 had been subscribed and that solicitation would continue through the winter months.

The group approved the writing of a letter to the State Roads Commission in an effort to learn of any progress made concerning the installation of a traffic light at the intersection of East Main Street and Federal Ave. where students of Mother Seton School must cross several times daily. Several surveys of that area have been made by the Commission but no report has been forwarded to the Chamber of Commerce. Midi is as midi does ... and this season the midi is doing the prettiest things ever. Take the midi with romantic notions for instance. If you enjoy being a girl, fashionably speaking, you'll love the new emphasis on softer detail and shaping. Here we see Modern Deb's refeminizing of the fairer sex. A luscious fox border, fox trimmed hood and gentle shirred back mellow the midi you can properly wear anywhere this winter. It's made of a fabric that will look just as beautifully-shaped next winter too. It's a fabric (in this case, wool) that has been treated to a special bonding process called COIN that unites two fabrics together permanently as one. The result? An outer fabric that holds its shape better because of the additional fabric underneath. A point especially important to remember for coats that receive day in, day out wear. Even your dry cleaner will tell you to look for the COIN hangtag when you shop. It's your assurance the fabric will never separate or pull apart. That's why today's most enterprising designers are choosing it for their smartest new fashions. So should you.

Moscow—Capital Of Deceit

President Johnson's relationship with the Soviet Union has been notable for the policy of detent - "building bridges" of friendship. The policy is based on trust of the Soviet claim that their Lenin-Stalin blueprint for conquering the world—through subversion and wars of liberation-has been discarded, that they now have no world ambi-tions, that they have softened, that actually we, the U. S., ought to be helping the Soviets (and we have been, in many ways) because they represent a "liberal" form of Communism, while China under Mao Tse-tung represents the old-fashioned aggressive Communism of Lenin.

Apparently, President Johnson was not prepared for the shock of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. As President Kennedy had been deceived in the Cuban missile invasion, Mr. Johnson (according to reliable reports) had been told that the Russian and Communist satellite troops massed on the Czech border (known to U. S. intelligence) were not for the purpose of invasion

The Challenge And even in spite of the second murdering of Czechoslovakia in a manner showing again the true nature of World Communism and the colossal deceitfulness of its hierarchy, the "building of bridges" remains, today, our foreign policy towards the Soviets—the Soviets who are supplying 80% of the armament used by the Communist enemy fighting U. S. forces in Vietnam.

The purpose of this brief review of historical facts (in this and the last seven columns) has been to remind the American people of our-as well as our leaders'-past record of forgiving and forgetting the nature of a monstrous enemy-atheistic Communism, whose leaders, from Lenin through Kosygin, have dedicated themselves openly to the destruction of the United States: in the blunt words of Khrushchev - "We will bury you!"
The Way It Is

Lenin, on April 8, 1920, gave a prophetic interview to the German newspaper, Neue Zurcher Zeitung. "On the basis of observations gathered during my years in exile," said Lenin, "the 'cultured' class of the capitalist countries of Western Europe and America, i.e., the ruling classes, the financial aristocracy, the bourgeoisie and the idealistic democrats, should be regarded as deaf-mutes and treated according . .

"They will grant us credits which will fill the coffers of the communist organizations in their countries, while they enlarge and improve our armaments industry by supplying all kinds of wares, which we shall need for future attack against our suppliers." Yes, from the great bird itself (in the Aesop fable) have come the feathers to fletch the arrow being made to piece the eagle's heart!

The Big Question 1968 Through 35 years, while our liberty has been guarded by Presidents, State Departments, Defense Departments and the Armed Services, we have seen a puny, dirty, ragged but dedicated band of ruffians rise upon the world stage and with U. S. help become a threat to our survival. The fault has been the fault of the people of Americanot just the leaders.

The leadership we have been getting—in undoubtedly the most fateful period in U. S. historyis a precise reflection of the quality and quantity of citizenship manifested by the people.

And now, out of the politics of October and November 1968 will come new leadership. But will it also bring a new dedication by 200 million Americans to assume all the responsibilities of citizenship? This is the most important question. The answer will affect our nation's destiny and may shape the course of human history for centuries to

Iron Deficiency Peril To Women And Children

SAN JUAN, P. R.—All normal nenstruating women and all pregnant women should be taking iron supplements. This was the recommendation of several physicians and nutrition experts at the Western Hemisphere Nutrition Congress that met here recently.

The supplements are necessary because women and children cannot get enough iron from an ordinary diet, said Professor Hilda White, Ph.D., of Nothwestern University. To meet the iron needs of women, diets would have to provide almost double the usual amount eaten by women today, she said, especially since so many of them are on reducing diets.

Noting that iron-rich foods such as liver and beans and dark green leafy vegetables would have to be eaten in large quantities every day, Dr. White observed, "Unfortunately many food sources of iron are not very popular. It is not likely that even the most concerted effort by nutrition educators could achieve the changes in present dietary patterns that would be required to insure a two-fold increase in daily iron consumption."

Surveys have shown that iron deficiency is prevalent among infants and menstruating women throughout the world, and iron deficiency is the most prevalent nutritional disorder among children in the United States, according to the professor. Aspirin Effect

The Nixon Presidency WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., November 21. - Past performance—especially during the re-cent campaign—indicates that President-elect Nixon will be a strong executive in the sense that he will reserve to himself the big policy decisions . . . delegating the routine, administrative duties of his office.

Unity His Goal

Nixons' pre-election stance was meticulously planned. He foresaw the difficulty of topping the Democratic candidate in the East . . . especially in the populous cities. Hence he set out to woo the Southern conservatives, the basically Republican

Midwest, and the disenchanted middle-of-the-roaders and liberals in the Far West. But this pre-election stance should not be interpreted to mean that the President-elect is unaware of, or unsympathetic to, the needs of minorities, the plight of the cities, or the legitimate aspirations of the nation's youth. The Nixon campaign posture of coolness and poise, of seeming aloofness from certain of the problems facing the country, was intended to be a vehicle for victory . . . nothing more nor Even had Mr. Nixon's margin of the popular vote not been so razor-thin, national unity would

Vietnam: Conciliation But No Softness

While Mr. Nixon is usually considered to be more "hawkish" on Vietnam than either President Johnson or Vice President Humphrey, he is fully as eager as they to bring the conflict to an honorable conclusion -and one which will preserve the integrity and right of selfdetermination of South Vietnam. If the war is not soon ended, look for Nixon, as President, to be a harder bargainer vis-a-vis the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

Should the Paris talks collapse because of bad faith on Hanoi's part, Nixon would feel justified in ordering resumption of the bombing of Nort Vietnam. In such event, however, he would accelerate training and equipping of South Vietnam troops to permit early and increasing withdrawal of American personnel.

The Dollar And Foreign Affairs As Chief Executive, Nixon will strongly favor measures to strengthen the dollar as a world currency . . . realizing that sound, conservative fiscal policy will do more than continued profligate spending to bind the nation's wounds. He will also favor some further cutbacks in foreign aid, and will urge upon Congress some protection for industries hard hit by cheap im-

But, as he enters the White House, the fires of inflation will still be burning brightly, a thousand-and-one special interests will be clamoring for in-creased, not decreased, federal spending; and the states, while giving lip service to states' rights, will step up their demands upon Uncle Sam. The Urban Crisis

The new occupant of the White House must also come to terms with the gathering urban crisis if he is to achieve the type of national unity that he will need to govern effectively. Racial tensions, economic deprivation, educational deficiencies, chronic unemployment, disorder, lawlessness, and voter apathyall are part and parcel of this festering sore termed "urban crisis".

Nixon's prescription for these ills will not be bigger federal programs. He has already indicated he will take a hard look at federal programs with the idea of making them more efficient and less costly. His big assault will be an all-out effort toward greater involvement of the private sector of the economy in the financing of badly needed big-city development.

of I-70, built at a cost of some $18.6 million.

Part of an Interstate highway under construction west to Utah, I-70 will also become Maryland's major east-west highway when it connects with the future National Freeway through Western Maryland. This new route to Ohio and the west will be a southern free-way paralleling the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The formal ceremonies will be held by the State Roads Commission at the interchange with Myersville Road, which is approximately halfway between Frederick and Hagerstown and about ten miles west of Frederick.

Invitations to participate in the program have been extended to State and county officials including Congressman-elect J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R., Sixth). C. Stanley Blair, Maryland Secretary of State, will represent the Governor.

Between Frederick and Hagerstown, I-70 totals 20.2 miles and cost about $27.7 million to build. A 4.8-mile section west of Frederick was opened September 25.

West of Hagerstown to Hancock, where I-70 turns north into Pennsylvania, various portions of 1-70 were opened between 1960 and November, 1967.

Jerome B. Wolff, the Commission's chairman-director, said the route of I-70 and the National Freeway generally follows U. S. Route 40, the historic road westward, which was America's "superhighway" of the Nineteenth Century. He said the Cumberland Maryland's last remaining un- to West Virginia section of the completed section of Interstate National Freeway, about half of Route 70, between Frederick and the $200 million project, is being

The 288-foot footbridge was part of a $2,858,853 contract with the Kline Company to build the section of I-70 between a point east of Mt. Tabor Road to the Washington County line, and bridges at Mt. Tabor and Monument Rds.

JOHN WILLIAM CLOUSER

John William Clouser, a Florida mental hospital escapee, who has vowed not to be taken alive, is one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted

On the night of April 2, 1964, Clouser and three other inmates escaped from the Florida State Hospital in Chattahoochee and reportedly forced two hospital employees to drive them to the Columbus, Georgia, area. The hostages were robbed but released unharmed. A Federal warrant issued at Montgomery, Alabama, on April 9, 1964, charges Clouser with transporting a stolen car from Georgia to Alabama, where the stolen car was recovered abandoned.

A former police officer, Clouser was admitted to the Florida State Hospital in February, 1964, after being adjudged mentally insane. He was then facing numerous criminal charges and had earlier been convicted of participating in the robbery, kidnapping and beating of two theater managers. His conviction was appealed, however, due to a state error, and he was released and granted a new trial.

He is a white American, born at Chicago, Illinois, on March 29, 1932. He is 5'9" tall, weighs from 165 to 180 pounds and has blond hair, blue eyes, a stocky build and ruddy complexion. He is tattooed with a panther on his right shoulder and a heart pierced with an arrow on his left shoulder.

He is described as a sadist who would not hesitate to beat a victim to death, is an expert pistol shot, exercises and lifts weights regularly and is proficient in Judo and Karate. Consider him extremely Know what's the tweediest look this year for both campus and career? Tweed-no less! And the particular breed of tweed that looks newest now is the salt 'n pepper Donegal variety that's currently popping up in tops, bottoms and most everything in between. But perhaps nowhere is this fabric more welcome than in that all-important winter coat. A tweed coat offers the advantage of total compatability with whatever you wear underneath-solid, plaid, print or pattern. It can be dressed up or down at will. And its muted quality rates a big plus for spot-proof practicality.

The tweed officer's coat photographed here earns honors for styling dash that'll last because it is made from a COIN bonded wool fabric. This melding of a second fabric inside adds shape stability as well as lightweight warmth. Glen of Michigan designs the coat with matching gaiters and skirt and a contrasting turtleneck that looks equally well summed up or separately. And speaking of separately—do you know that a COIN bonded fabric will never separate or pull apart? That's why more and more of today's top designers are using it. You'll find the COIN hangtag on many of the season's tweediest tweeds and your other fashion

PINCH OF SAGE

The leaves of common sage are used for seasoning in many foods and for a delicious tea, good for a spring tonic.

Common sage is a well-known, widely used herb that is sufficiently strong and distinctive in flavor so a little goes a long way. Thus, the directions in cookbooks read, "Use just a pinch of sage".

Added to stews, sausage, stuffing for duck or goose (but too strong for chicken stuffing) or used in cooking salt fish or pork, sage adds a "certain something" to the dish.

It can even be used sparingly in vegetables, but most cooks consider sage too strong for use in salads.

Not only is sage used in cooking, but it also is used in gardens where its gray leaves and light purple blossoms are a beautiful sight.

Sage plants grow about 2 feet tall and, in 4-5 years, become woody and less attractive. Then it's time to discard them and grow new plants. This is easy to do from seeds sown in autumn or in early spring. Sew in rows or broadcast seeds, as you prefer. They'll sprout promptly. When the seed-lings are 2 to 3 inches high, thin them to stand from 12 to 18 inches apart. This spacing allows for the size of mature In cold climates, protect the plants by covering them with straw for the winter. Prune in early spring, just as the new leaves appear. Cut away all dead twigs. Harvest the leaves you wish to dry for cooking from tender young shoots, near the top of the plant. Cut off the top 3 inches of stem before the plant

When plants are older, 2 to 3 pickings a season are possible. Fresh leaves can be taken from plants any time.

Tie shoot tips in a clean, white cloth bag and hang it over the stove. Dried quickly, leaves will retain color and flavor. Remove leaves from stems and pack in tightly corked bottles or pulverize leaves and store the same way for fu-

Honey-Cashew Corn Bread Makes 9 servings

Topping:
½ cup chopped cashews
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
1 tablespoon firmly packed brown sugar

1 tablespoon honey

Corn Bread:
One 12-oz. pkg. Flako Corn
Muffin Mix 1½ teaspoons grated lemon peel

2 tablespoons honey 1 egg, beaten % cup milk

Heat oven to hot (400°F.). For topping, combine cashews, butter, brown sugar and honey in small bowl.

For corn bread, combine mix, lemon peel, honey, egg and milk in medium-sized bowl; blend only until dry ingredients are thoroughly moistened. (Batter should be slightly lumpy.) Pour into greased 8-inch square baking pan. Sprinkle topping over batter. Bake in preheated oven (400°F.) 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm with butter.

AS DREAD WIND PASSED

(To Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kemp) He'd been studying the weather As winds howled through the rafter,

Heard, too, thoughts running wild Past winding roads of his mild Brain-and wondered how fences Stood in his most interior defenses-

Till Jim heard Ruth expressing (As if she could read his mind, She said it with unchaded meaning Even as he'd pulled down the blind):

"Sorry the surgeon has to cut me up

While Sue in bed has been laid up. You sure you could keep house While for a week I'm gone? You'll be shut in like a church mouse And there're things left half done." So expressed, the storm cloud disappeared

As the sky of his mind the winds A week's not dreadfully long,

The surgical cut's healthy all He turned the light on in the kitchen And said: "I guess we'll have honey-chicken

For a hearty good-luck dinner And after that to the theater." -A Figer Viloria

PLAN YOUR ATTACK

Fishing, like fottball, requires a bit of strategy. And a good job of "double-teaming" will work just as well on bashful bass as it does on a bruising fullback.

Since many fishing hours are consumed in finding the right combination of lure and fishing depth on a particular day, say the fishing experts at Mercury outboards, the use of and teamwork is highly recommended.

Before casting off from the dock, spend a few minutes in a skull-session with your partner. Discuss the "playing field" — its bays, rocky points, weed beds, dropoffs, etc. How is the weather likely to affect the fish? And what are the scouting reports of yesterday's an-

As the plan of attack is mapped out, each man is given a specific assignment. In a boat, it's usually a case of "you hit 'em high and I'll hit 'em

If the waters are strange and you're in the fish-finding stage, you'll probably elect to troll. With two men, both the shallow and middle, or middle and lower depths can be tested simultaneously. The inshore angler works the shallower level, while the offshore rod probes deeper — an efficient, hour-saving arrangement.

When fish are known to be in a certain spot, different combinations of lures should be tried: floaters and sinkers, spoons and plugs . . . even various colors of the same

"Ganging up" in this manner may often cut experimenting and prospecting almost in half, note the Mercury lads. The only rule is that two different approaches should be used at the same time.

Instead of copying your partner's choice of lure, snap on what might be his next selec-
