Most Anything At A Glance

- By Abigail -

For a while it appeared that when the astronauts landed on the moon they had perhaps angered the rain god for up until early this week it rained almost every day. As a matter of fact, it rained several times a day for several days and this is highly unusual for this time of the year. The haziness continued for the past two weeks and the humidity was almost unbearable. Things are looking up now though, and it appears that now the rain god has been appeased. Well, as far as the moon shot is concerned it appears that nothing but good can come from that and I'm certain the rain brought nothing but good to us all.

When we reached the moon most of us were pondering over the question, where do we go from here, if any place? Well it appears that our destiny was premeditated and that the space boys were away ahead of us and already had the program mapped out and had Apollo 12 sitting on the launching pad ready for November and also some sort of plan to attempt a Mars landing. Even Congress didn't appear cognizant that such a magnificent program had been formulated and who was going to pay for it. The space program seems on a parallel with that of the Pentagon. So vast and complicated are the Pentagon's plans and spending program that hardly anyone, if anyone, is aware of this vastness. The President and Congress must find a way to maintain control over expenditures of this magnitude.

The "tight" money situation, coupled with rampant inflation and demands of unions for still more pay increases causes us to wonder just where we are heading? With consumer credit loans running around 18% and mortgages anywhere from 7-8%, home building and buying merchandise is being stifled and it is a real struggle for the average working man to acquire the things he needs and meet the minimum requirements for his family. It seems that nothing is being done by the government to halt this parade of high prices. Medical costs and especially hospitalization, have skyrocketed and one can't afford to enter a hospital unless he is prepared to mortgage his home—if he has one. Most people say that it costs anywhere from three to five hundred dollars a week for hospital care and if you are sick a few weeks in the hospital your life's savings are wiped out. It is clearly evident that our Government must take some steps to curb this inflationary trend.

As we enter into mid-summer many Emmitsburgians are on vacation. In almost any section of the country you can bump into someone from Emmitsburg. Several are even out of this country, not including the servicemen who are scattered over the four corners of the world. It has come time now for this print shop to rest its weary bones and if you will persevere with us for the short duration of a week, we'll promise to come back refreshed and more eager to present you with an interesting edition of the Chronicle, every week. Therefore, next week we will not publish a paper, or do any printing, but come August 11 we'll be back, invigorated, and willing and able to serve you for another year.

Some 23,519,000 wartime veterans qualify for benefits, the Veterans Administration reveals.

NOTICE

In an effort to insure vacations for all employees of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, the management has agreed to suspend publication for one week.

The publishing plant will be closed from Aug. 4 until August 11. There will be no Chronicle published on Friday, August 8. We ask your indulgence in this matter and look forward to serving you in the future.

Wrecks Car After Fight

Omar Martin, 29, Fairfield R1, is a patient in the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, with a fractured hip suffered, according to police, when his car struck a utility pole as he allegedly was "chasing" occupants of another vehicle following an altercation at an Emmitsburg area tavern Sunday evening.

Martin told Cumberland Twp. Police Chief Bernard V. Miller he was driving on Route 15 a mile north of the Maryland line and attempted to make a sharp turn onto a township road. His 1966 Volkswagen collided with a United Telephone pole. Chief Miller estimated damage to the Volkswagen at $1,000 and said it was a total loss. He said damage to the pole was slight.

The Cumberland Twp. officer said Martin reported he had become involved in a fight at an Emmitsburg area tavern. As a result of the fracas he was in his car pursuing the occupants of another vehicle when the car he was pursuing made a sharp turn into the township road, Martin told the officer he also attempted to make the turn, and struck the pole.

Plan To Establish Day Care Center Here

The Community Aide for Emmitsburg has been working for the past four months on organizing low income mothers to work together on a day care center. The purpose of the center would be to give mothers the chance to work and add more to their present income. In the past, a lot of women were unable to pay the fees for babysitting because they would make no more than the minimum wage and could not afford a regular babysitter.

In the past few months there has been a lot of misunderstanding as to what part a day care center would play for Emmitsburg. A lot of people think it would put some people out of work who are babysitters now. The center is for people who want to work and can't afford the fees of babysitters. Others think mothers can put children in the center just to go shopping or visiting or whatever they want, or to get rid of the children for a few hours.

The Center will be set up on a basis to enroll a child to allow the parent to work. Parents will pay on a sliding scale according to what they can make and what they can afford.

A Day Care Center which would enrich the children's lives in many ways. The child would learn as well as play and be well supervised.

In some cases now, women who watch children for working mothers sometimes take more children than they can watch carefully. The child that has to be away from his parents, needs individual attention. They should have an enjoyable experience away from home, as well as being well supervised.

A Day Care Center can be set up by the efforts of women working on research, fund raising campaigns and by donations and a lot of hard work.

There have been trips to Annapolis to visit two Day Care Centers there; one Federally funded and one run by a parents' group. The parents of Emmitsburg have decided if there is going to be a day care center at all, it will be run by the people of Emmitsburg.

Sisters from the Provincial House in Emmitsburg, including Sister Margaret Hughes, Sister Genevieve Kureth and Sister Jerome Nossell, have made the former Mother Seton School available for a day care center.

They have also contacted County sanitation and fire officials, who will check the building to assure that it meets county regulations. There is research being done on funds to start the center. A tentative budget of approximately $10,000 has been set for the first year of operation. The group expects, however, that volunteer help will reduce the cost of the center.

If there were a day care center in Emmitsburg, more mothers would have more money to buy things they need and some mothers could get off welfare and support themselves and know their children were being well taken care of. If there is anyone interested in putting their child or children in the center, please contact Mary Wood, your community aide, at 662-0225.

Alphonse T. Marcincavage officiating. Interment will be made in St. Joseph's Catholic Church Cemetery in Emmitsburg. ### ECKER-UTZ

The wedding of Miss Carolyn Louise Utz, daughter of Mary G. Utz, Hanover R2, and Harold R. Utz, Hanover, and James Herbert Ecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ecker, Hanover R3, and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bowers, Emmitsburg, was solemnized recently in St. Matthew Lutheran Church, Hanover. The Rev. Clifford R. Miller, Jr., performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white pompons and pink gladioli. James E. Derr was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of candlelight silk organza empire styled with Chantilly lace bodice featuring a scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Flowing from her shoulders was a court chapel-length train. A matching cap accented with pearls held her bouffant veil of silk illusion. The bride carried a colonial arrangement of large white gladioli bells and greens with streamers matching her bridal gown. She wore a gold heart-shaped locket, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Patty Yingling, Hanover R2, was maid of honor. She was attired in a floor-length gown of mint green karate styled with an ivory lace bib effect, Peter Pan collar, short sleeves and panel in back. Her face veil fell from a matching bow and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white gladioli bells with streamers matching the lace bib of her gown.

Shearod Bechtel, Hanover, was best man. Ushers were Harold Utz, Jr., Hanover R2, brother of the bride, and Kirk Mathias, Hanover R1.

Steven Ecker, Hanover R3, brother of the bridegroom, was acolyte.

Following a reception catered by Utz's Meat Market for 100 guests in the church social room, the couple left for a wedding trip to Rehoboth Beach, Del. They will reside at Hanover R3.

The bridegroom is employed by Hanover Paper Box Co., Inc.

Pre-wedding parties included a bridal shower at the home of Miss Patty Yingling, with Miss Yingling and Miss Sue Reichart as hostesses.

A rehearsal party was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents for the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Rocky Ridge Carnival Aug. 11-16

The Rocky Ridge Fire Company will hold its 16th annual Firemen's Carnival the week of Aug. 11-16, 1969, in Mt. Tabor Park, Rocky Ridge, Md.

The firemen have worked continuously to make their carnival a little better each year. Therefore, this year will be the best yet. There will be entertainment and fun nightly for both young and old.

However, Thursday night, Aug. 14, will be the big night of the week when the firemen will stage a mammoth parade beginning at 7 p.m. The parade will begin forming at 6:30 p.m. in a field along Route 77 west near the Baltimore Brick Factory. This is the road coming from Thurmont to Rocky Ridge.

The parade will consist of bands, drum corps, fire apparatus, floats, majorette groups, marching units, antique autos and other comical attractions. Everyone is invited to participate in the parade. Anyone desiring to participate please call Jim Sixx, parade chairman, by August 8.

Never swim alone, cautions Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. Half of all pool accidents and fatalities occur when the victim is not following the "buddy system." When it comes to swimming safety, think in terms of two's.

Frederick County Backgrounds

By SAMUEL CARRICK
The Emmitt Family

It is unusual, to say the least, for a "Town Father" such as Samuel Emmitt, to be so little known to history. He, as well as several of his children, were mysteries in more ways than one.

Helman speaks of him as "an Irish emigrant" and he probably came to this country from Ireland, but it is reasonably safe to assume that his people originally came from Scotland. The very name has a "Scottish ring" and in addition he was a member, stern and unbending, of the Presbyterian Kirk, and is buried in the churchyard of that denomination.

According to a fairly reliable tradition Samuel (1) Emmitt married Mary Shields, a sister of the pioneer William (1) Shields. The two men were, so to speak, partners—particularly in land deals. As a matter of fact, everything points to a "blood relationship" between the two families. They may well have been brothers-in-law.

Of the second generation of the Emmitt family in America, not too much can be definitely ascertained. Helman lists the children of Samuel (1) and Mary (Shields) Emmitt, as follows:

1. Agnes (2) Emmitt married William Porter. In the Porter lot in Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard, there are three grave markers, but only one is of interest at this time.

1. "In memory of William Porter, born Chester County, Pa. Also of Sarah Porter, wife of William Porter, born 1729, died 1802, aged 73 years.

1. Erected by their daughter, Eleanor Patterson.

Undoubtedly William and Sarah Porter were the parents of the William (2) Porter, who became the husband of Agnes (2) Emmitt.

The Chester County, Pa. Porter clan was an old and distinguished family. But it also had "an itching foot" and was always seeking new lands to conquer. It grew and scattered far and wide. Some are interred at old Donegal, where in Upper Marsh Creek Presbyterian, and Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian churchyards, the latter of the two of which is located in Adams County, Pa.

There are unmarked graves in both this Emmitt and Porter lots at Tom's Creek—William (2) and Agnes (Emmitt) Porter, are probably buried there in graves that have long since been forgotten.

2. William (2) Emmitt, died in 1818—"dropped, dead."

William (2) Emmitt was a patient of the first Dr. Robert L. Annan, and the doctor always mentions him, in his records, as "William Emmitt, Esq."

Now the question is, was William (2) Shields a bachelor?

On file in the office of the clerk of the courts in Frederick County Courthouse, is an old record entitled "Maryland Marriage Licenses — 1778-1800, recorded in Clerk's Office.

Included in this list are the following: "March 30, 1790, William Emmitt, Esq., and Henrietta Coale."

There is little hope, at this late date, of proving or disproving the bachelorship of William (2) Emmitt. Married or unmarried, he died over 150 years ago and appears to have carried his secret to the grave with him.

William (2) Emmitt is buried in the family plot at Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard. The inscription follows:

2. "In memory of William Emmitt, died March 17, 1818."

3. Marge (2) Emmitt—

Nothing is known pertaining to the daughter of Samuel (1) and Mary (Shields) Emmitt. She may have died young and is one of those buried in an unmarked grave in the family plot.

4. Abraham James (2) Emmitt, married and had issue. No additional data save the given names of his children: John (3), Jane (3). Married Joseph Crooks, and Mary (3), married—(?) McKeehen.

5. Josiah (2)—also apparently a bachelor. Buried in the family plot at Tom's Creek.

3. "In memory of Josiah Emmitt, died June 29, 1821, aged 56 years. It is interesting to note that Josiah (2) Emmitt was also a patient of the first Dr. Robert L. Annan.

4. Abigail (2) Emmitt—the spinster daughter of Samuel (1) and Mary (Shields) Emmitt—buried beside her brother, Josiah (2) Emmitt, at Tom's Creek.

4. "Sacred to the memory of Abigail Emmitt, died Feb. 13, 1938, aged 64 years."

The graves of Samuel (1) Emmitt and his wife, were unmarked until comparatively recent years. Now they are designed of plain stone, whose inscriptions leave a great deal to be desired—historically and genealogically speaking.

5. "In memory of Samuel Emmitt, founder of Emmitsburg, Md."

6. "In memory of Mary Emmitt, wife of Samuel Emmitt."

It is to be hoped that at some future time, new and additional material on the Emmitt family will come to light. Such things have been known to happen.

Samuel (1) Emmitt was an intelligent man—carrying on busness—with insight into the future. The town of Emmitsburg is his best monument.

This concludes, for a time at least, the notes on the Emmitt family.

Next week the historical and genealogical study of Tom's Creek Presbyterian Churchyard will be continued in this series.

Basketball Games Scheduled

Rocky Ridge 4-H Plans Picnic

The regular monthly meeting of the Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club was held July 21 at the home of Gene Bollinger. Forty-six members answered the roll call with a State Senator or Congressman. Two new members were initiated into the club. They were Sharon and Ann Wilkinson. Under old business, Vickie Wivell reported on the Frederick County Campfire. Eleven members attended the event. Jim Wivell, a member of the club, was a tribe leader for the northern section of the county. A report was given by Tom Keilholtz on Boys' Camp and Katrinka Bollinger on Girls' Camp. Stanley Gregg attended the Jersey Field Day at Hagers-town. Mary Ann Keilholtz attended the Citizenship Tour in Washington. Phyllis Wivell's flower arranging group's report was given by Cathy Wivell. It was announced that there was a Sewing meeting at Mrs. Sterling Bollinger's residence. The girls worked on their garments. There will be four girls planning to attend the Style Revue, August 12-13. They are Paula Bollinger, Rita Thompson, Gwen and Carolyn Keilholtz.

Three boys participated in the Dairy Judging Competition. They were Mike and Joey Wivell and Lee Bassler. Mike placed fourth, Joey seventh, and Lee twelfth.

Marguerite Bollinger reported she had collected $27.75 from the "EGG" project. Field Day was held July 5 at the Bassler farm. The club earned $36 from the food stand.

New business included the State Fair in which nine members plan to attend.

The next meeting will be held at the Mt. Tabor Park in Rocky Ridge on August 4. It will begin at 7:00. Mr. Eigenbrode will be the guest speaker. This is the club's annual outing for the year, 1969.

The meeting was then adjourned and refreshments served by Mrs. Bollinger.

Washington Report

By Cong. J. Glenn Beall, Jr.

The flight of Apollo 11 last week has been the realization of dreams heretofore regarded as science fiction. One hundred years ago Jules Verne wrote of a voyage to the moon—an absurd idea for his and later times—and yet on Sunday, July 20, Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin walked on the moon. While watching the televised report, one could not help but be impressed with the magnitude of our accomplishment. There are those, however, who ask, "How will this affect our lives on earth?" I think it important to point out a few of the beneficial effects.

Scientists freely predict that the results of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's space research will make life far better, healthier, and safer for those of us here on earth, as well as for the astronauts who explore the heavens. We are beginning to see the influence of some of this research on our lives already. Communication satellites permit instant communication by television across the world. Other satellites enable us to better predict the weather—to give warnings of tornadoes and cyclones, to help farmers obtain yields and reduce crop damage. Other Western countries have joined with the United States, at their expense, in this research to boost their own economies.

The medical field has greatly been enhanced. Miniaturization of electronic circuits in spacecraft has resulted in the equipment used to measure heartbeat, blood pressure, breathing rate and brain waves of the astronauts. Similar devices are already being used by hospitals in at least three cities for diagnostic purposes. Computer development has advanced so much due to space research that in the 1970's, in programs of preventive medicine and increasing medical care, a computer should be able to digest facts about the medical status of individual patients and bring serious situations, warranting further attention, to the doctor. Vitallium, a metallic alloy developed for the program, can resist corrosion by body fluids—and may be available for artificial joints for humans.

In other fields aerospace research has provided improved protective clothes, plastic fabrics and ventilated garments. A paint, developed for use on the outside of satellites, can be scrubbed 300 to 1,000 times with no effect whatever—an important development for homeowners. A new type of plastic, called hystil, is stronger than steel, although not as stiff. Hystil was developed for use in a nozzle on a rocket engine.

These are but a few of the indirect benefits of space research—our lives are changing as a result and I am confident that as we gain more knowledge in this area, we will be able to influence the course of our society to a much greater extent. We are an inventive people and have expanded and benefited society thru exploration and creative development. The 1.9% total of our 1970 fiscal year Federal Budget that is devoted to the space program is certainly worthwhile in this context. When a nation concentrates only on its present state of affairs, it has no future; in government, as in everyday life, wisdom lies in the right division of resources between today's demands and tomorrow's challenges.

The average bodily injury liability claim resulting from automobile accidents jumped about 46 per cent in the last decade, the Insurance Information Institute reports.

Inland marine insurance, usually bought to cover jewelry, fine arts and similar properties, originally was developed to cover good is transit by other than ocean vessels.

D.M.V. REPORT

By D. Murray Franklin
Public Information Officer
Md. Dept. of Motor Vehicles

DMV Readies Staff To Administer Abandoned Vehicle Law

In a sweeping effort to remove abandoned motor vehicles from Maryland highways, the 1969 General Assembly passed the nation's first "auto junker" bill and authorized the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to license auto wreckers and scrap processors.

While the law became effective July 1, licenses for wreckers and scrap processors will not be issued until January 1, 1970. During this interim period, DMV is organizing and training a special group of investigators and supervisors to administer the complex criteria which has been formulated to regulate the new law.

The two types of business enterprises which participate in channeling abandoned hulks through the transition cycle back to scrap metal are the auto wreckers and the scrap processors.

Auto wreckers are individuals or business firms engaged in the purchasing or acquiring of vehicles for the purpose of reclaiming parts and accessories for resale.

After stripping vehicles of salvagable materials, auto wreckers sell the remaining "hulks" to scrap processors who maintain facilities for processing iron, steel and non-ferrous metal into scrap for remelting purposes.

Since July 1, open burning is no longer permitted under the Health Department's air pollution restrictions. Scrap processors must use shredders or hydraulic balers and shears to compress the bulk of discarded hulks for return to the smelting furnaces.

After January 1, 1970, auto wreckers and scrap processors must be licensed by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles and must maintain a system of records and inventory controls as set forth in the Rules and Regulations promulgated by the Commissioner.

In addition, their respective facilities must conform to Department regulations as to size of storage space, type of equipment suitable for processing motor vehicle scrap and permanent location of the business.

DMV investigators will maintain periodic inspections of premises, inventories and business records of licensed wreckers and scrap processors. They will be especially concerned with the exact date each vehicle is acquired by wreckers and the date of removal to the scrap processor. Wreckers who continue to maintain vehicles in their inventories for more than one year after they have been designated for scrapping, will be assessed five dollars each for every six months which the vehicle remains not scrapped.

Scrap processors will be paid a fee of ten dollars by the Department of Motor Vehicles for each vehicle completely destroyed. The processor must present acceptable evidence of ownership and satisfactory proof that the vehicle has been completely destroyed.

Supervision of the administration of this legislation, as well as adherence to the Rules and Regulations promulgated by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles remains with DMV, along with the authority to suspend, revoke and refuse licenses to violators or unqualified applicants. Violations are deemed misdemeanors under this law and convictions are punishable by five or not more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment of not more than five years, or both.

The language of this legislation emphasizes the time limitations for each phase of its administration and the definition of an "abandoned motor vehicle" follows the same pattern.

"Abandoned" means a motor vehicle that is inoperable and is left unattended on public property for more than forty-eight hours, or a motor vehicle that has remained illegally on public property for more than forty-eight hours, or a motor vehicle that has remained on private property without the consent of the owner or persons in control of the property for more than forty-eight hours. Provisions are also made for vehicles left in storage garages or repair shops for more than ten days past the contract period.

A private research organization estimated that approximately 152,000 vehicles were presently on hand in junk yards around the State, and that 130,000 additional vehicles would be junked in 1969.

Using the firm's forecasts for annual increases of 7,000 junked vehicles per year; i.e., 1970-137,000; 1971-143,000, the timeliness of this legislation resolves a critical and urgent need.

This vacation should be an Eastern Shore vacation. Call me at this number in Baltimore and I'll tell you why.

The Shore. There's swimming, boating, fishing—all the water sports.

It has the best seafood in the world (my opinion). And marvelous chicken. All this, plus charming country villages and romantic old houses with lacy gingerbread trim.

So this vacation head for the Eastern Shore. Instead of anywhere else.

And remember, when you make your vacation plans and reservations, you can call anywhere in Maryland for 40 cents or less—after 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and all day Sunday.

Wherever you go on vacation, be sure to call ahead. It's more fun that way.

NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

Higher Education For What? The shocking, documented report by a Committee on Public Education in Los Angeles, which found "something terribly wrong" in the tax-supported colleges and universities of California, undoubtedly will be considered by some observers as reflecting on public institutions of higher education in the other 49 states. The report's key conclusion: "The state higher education system is being used to undermine the values of our youth, foment demonstrations and confrontations with the civil authorities, and even bring about violence in the streets." The California report pertinently noted: "Plato defines education as the habituation of the young to the rule of right reason. In another essay, he says that education is the inculcation of wisdom; and wisdom is the intellectual habit of virtue." In a part of its conclusion, the Committee states: "We therefore question whether the California institutions of public higher education are accomplishing the tasks for which they receive public support." Presidential Commission's Findings It so happens that just when the California report was being released, a Presidential Commission on Intergovernmental Relations was issuing a report in Washington on a "brief survey" on "Federalism and the Academic Community" — which found most of today's colleges and universities in America almost totally neglecting areas of "political science" instruction necessary to prepare young men and women for responsible citizenship in their local communities. "This survey's findings lead to an inescapable conclusion," said the Presidential Commission (appointed by President Johnson), "that the fields of American state and local government and intergovernmental relations receive second-rate treatment in today's college and university political science curricula . . . The survey responses dramatically document the fact that State government and intergovernmental relations are indeed the 'dark continents' of teaching at the college and university level, with about three-fourths of the 562 responding departments (of Political Science) offering no course in either field." A Bold Report The Commission boldly charges the institutions with neglecting a vital educational responsibility: "It is equally clear that for a number of good reasons these fields deserve far more attention than they are currently receiving. Not the least of these reasons is the crucial role of higher educational institutions as training grounds for future public servants. Moreover, students and instructors cannot really come to grips with the roots of the urban crisis, the plight of rural America, and the pathology of racial discord if the inter-governmental dimensions of these critical public policy questions are ignored in the classroom." The reason for the absence of this vital area of American education in our colleges and universities, the Commission suggested, is that, among other things, "political scientists" who are shaping the courses and the curricula are disciples of big central government (Do not like State Government) and thus concentrate on their ideal: federalism. Another possible reason suggested is "the tendency of the 'process' approach in developing political science departmental curricula to ignore or to treat slightly these inter-governmental subject areas, since they are rooted in an institutional framework and in some cases are taught by so-called 'traditionalists.'" Spotlights Weakness In these suggestions, the Presidential Commission has put its finger on one of the vital weaknesses of our educational system—the gradual taking over of the academic fraternity by the "liberal" political and ideological viewpoint, the gradual shouldering off campuses of "traditionalists" and the traditional principles of the American way of life. To one who has fought for 25 years, along with a tiny minority of educators, for the teaching of traditional values ("right reason" . . . "the intellectual habit of virtue," as Plato described it), it is encouraging to see the ideological breadth of the Presidential Commission, and its findings. Chairman is Farris Bryant, former Florida Governor. Member include Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine, Senator Karl Mundt, South Dakota; Congresswoman Florence Dwyer of New Jersey; Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Jesse M. Unruh, prominent California Assemblyman.

The Paint Industry
By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., July 31, 1969—Paint sales are generally broken down into two categories—trade and industrial. Trade sales consist of paint sold to consumers, contractors, and professional painter for new construction and for repainting, refinishing, and maintenance. Industrial sales consist of coatings sold to manufacturers for application during the manufacturing stage of a product. Until recently, trade sales had been more important in the paint industry's growth. However, future sales of industrial coatings should surpass sales of consumer paints by a considerable degree.

The superior growth projected for industrial coatings is based on (1) the overall growth of U. S. industry and (2) the technology of coatings which is moving ahead so rapidly that paints are being used on surfaces unheard of a few years ago, such as the superdurable finishes on space vehicles. Although the automotive, appliance, and furniture industries consume the greatest volume of industrial paints each year, uses range from coating the inside of food and beverage cans to the thin film of varnish on motor armatures. Rebounding From 1967 Growth in the paint industry in recent years has been steady and reliable, though the rate has been unspectacular. Despite being an integral segment of the building industry, the paint field tends to resist downturn phases in new construction because a large part of spending on paint is for maintenance and renovation.

Weather conditions, however, can adversely affect paint consumption in a given year. Thus, in 1967 when poor weather conditions combined with a relatively unenthusiastic automobile year, paint sales rose but a sub-par 3%, well below the usual 4%-5% year-to-year increase. With costs up sharply, earnings for many paint manufacturers declined. On the whole, 1968 was a much better year for the paint industry, although substantial spending on expansion and modernization instead of new building, along with the surtax, depressed earnings for some of the industry leaders.

The Outlook—Color It Rosy
Indications are that 1969 will be a good year for the paint makers. Industry leaders are estimating that trade sales will rise from $1 billion in 1968 to $1.1 billion this year, with water-based paints increasing their share of the market from 60% to 66%-70%. New products, such as fire retardant finishes and coatings for factory-finishing of modular-house units, should also contribute to improved results. Looking further ahead, expected growth of the economy, increased consumer spending, and prospects of a building boom in the 1970s indicate that good gains are likely for the paint industry.

For representation in the paint industry over the next few years, the Babson's Reports staff feels the following companies have interesting investment possibilities: SHERWIN-WILLIAMS is the nation's largest producer of paints and varnishes. Recent results have been adversely affected by start-up costs and higher interest costs. Fiscal 1969 (year ends August 31) earnings are not expected to show significant improvement over the $3.36 earned in fiscal 1968, but the outlook for fiscal 1970 and beyond is promising. NATIONAL LEAD, manufacturer of the well-known line of "Dutch Boy" paints and pigments, is the country's largest manufacturer of products in which lead is a basic material; is also prominent in nonferrous die castings. Absence of last year's strike, better margins on titanium dioxide operations, and a leveling off of start-up costs at new plants should result in improved 1969 profits.

COOK PAINT & VARNISH makes paints, varnishes, enamels, lacquers, synthetic resin, and waxes as well as prefinished plywood and wallboard and printed hardboard. Poor weather and rising costs are hurting this year's sales and earnings, but good long-range prospects make the stock worth watching as a rebound candidate.

Drowning is the fourth leading cause of accidental death.

FARM FRONT

"We think of our ASCS aerial photos as a useful tool for the farmer and, of course, that's the main objective," said Chairman Raymond F. Jaeger of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. "But we find that quite a few other people also make good use of photo prints."

The Chairman commented that photo prints provided to producers are a main tool of the self-certification program, where farmers who take part in production adjustment programs certify their acreages of crops.

"But we also get quite a few orders for these prints from representatives of municipal or county governments, the timber industry, real estate men, and even bankers, attorneys and railroads. Highway engineers, power and telephone companies, and local or regional planning boards also appreciate the value of these photos. Even hunters and fishermen find them useful," the Chairman continued.

Other users, he said, are agricultural vendors who use photo prints to locate fields where conservation work is to be carried out. Nationally, sales of photo prints are big business. Although they are provided at cost, usually a very nominal figure, calendar 1968 recorded orders for 900,494 prints—at a cost to purchasers of $1,207,009.23.

Prints can be provided in several sizes; the smallest covers the individual farm unit, and this is also the most-used size. Photo coverage is provided in every state except Vermont and Alaska.

"Since we are taking aerial photos, we are glad to work with people desiring prints. Persons who are interested in further information concerning aerial photos should contact their county ASCS office," the Chairman said.

Sr. Citizens Meeting August 19

Tuesday, August 19, 1969, is the regular meeting night for the Emmitsburg Senior Citizens Club. This will be a picnic at Kump's Dam at 6:30 p.m., with everyone bringing his own place setting and any good eats he can think of to prepare. This will probably be the last out-door picnic until next year, so be thinking about it. Y'all come, heah!

For the September meeting on Tuesday evening, September 16, Mrs. David Weisburger, of Frederick, who has traveled widely, and has pictures and slides to prove it, will show some of her slides to the Senior Citizens at the Center. The program promises to be most interesting. Keep the event in mind and attend 100 per cent.

Things have been pretty slow at the Center during the hot summer for no good reason, because the rooms are air-conditioned and very comfortable. More individuals should take advantage of the pleasant surroundings. The genial and hospitable Mrs. Helen McNair, Coordinator, presides. There are hosts of picture puzzles to be worked out, various types of games to be enjoyed, such as dominoes, chess, cribbage, cards—Five Hundred, Bridge, Canasta, even Old Maids might be unearthed. Bring your friends and enjoy the fun. Coffee or iced tea are available for the thirsty. Better use should be made of the club rooms—they belong to you, the members—use them!

Carlisle Fair August 18-23

With more than $65,000 in purse money on the line for harness racing plus a host of premium payments available for prize livestock and the products of other exhibitors, this year's Carlisle Fair will have a multitude of attractions other than on its bustling midway.

The introduction of the Pennsylvania Sires Stakes for the top bred two and three-year-old harness horses in the Commonwealth has added another day of racing to the Fair which begins Monday, August 18 and continues through Saturday, August 23.

Racing will be held each day at 1:30 p.m. Monday through Friday while the judging for the various exhibitors will get under way on Tuesday morning.

Dairy cattle, sheep and swine and 4-H judging will be held throughout the week as will judging of fruit, grain, vegetables and other categories.

Meanwhile, top grandstand acts will be featured each day, both afternoon and evening, of the Fair and the midway shows will be in action beginning Monday evening and continuing each day of the six-day event.

In addition to the new Pennsylvania Sires Stakes the traditional Carlisle Fair Stakes will once again bring in the top horses and top trainer-drivers from throughout the United States and Canada to the famous Cumberland County site.

Capping off the week will be the awarding of a 1969 Dodge Dart free to some individual on Saturday evening.

SPORTS TIPS

Deer Poachers Start Early
The illegal deer season started early in Western Maryland this year and four of the earliest participants found their sport costly, according to the Maryland Department of Game and Inland Fish.

They eventually spent some time in jail, but later obtained their release by paying fines and costs totaling $1,330. They also suffered the loss of a semi-automatic rifle and telescopic sight and a spotlight, for a total value of about $250. In addition they lost their hunting licenses for three years.

The four men had been found engaging in a pursuit that is all too frequent in Maryland—"jack-lighting"—the hunting of deer at night with lights. Magistrate Allen Weatherholt of Cumberland, took a dim view of anyone opening the deer season six months ahead of schedule, and an even dimmer look at deer hunting at night. The magistrate fined the quartet, all Allegany County residents, $300 each on charges of spotlighting with a firearm in possession. An additional charge of shooting from a vehicle brought a $50 fine to one of the men, and another was fined $50 for loaded firearm in vehicle. The men couldn't pay their fines and started serving five months' jail sentences, but they later raised the money for the fines and were released. Interested sportsmen in Alle-gany County, who are determined that the available supply of deer shall not be reduced by jacklighting, furnished leads that led to the arrests. In addition to killing deer, jacklighters in other cases, have killed cattle and even ponies, probably mistaking these animals for deer. The heavy sentences for deer poaching reflect the sterner attitude Maryland jurists are taking in such cases. A judge in Southern Maryland fined jacklighters as much as $500 each in a case last spring.

Alcoholocaust

Jerry Marcus

The use of alcohol by drivers and pedestrians results in about 25,000 deaths per year.

Night harness racing was first inaugurated at the Maine State Fairgrounds meet in 1883. Fire destroyed $1.7 billion worth of property in the United States in 1967.

The 6-cent stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of Alabama Statehood will be first placed on sale on August 2, 1969, at Huntsville, Alabama, the State's first temporary seat of government.

This stamp reproduces the State Flower, the camellia, and the State bird, the yellowhammer. It was the winner in a design competition conducted in Alabama in which Bernice Kochan of Cleveland, Ohio, produced the top entry. This stamp will be placed on sale at our office on Monday, August 4, 1969. Collectors are asked to obtain their supply early.

Social Security checks for the month of August, will be delivered on Saturday, August 2, 1969. George E. Rosensteel, P.M.

Will Dedicate Chimes-Carillon To Sgt. Krom

Dedication ceremonies are being planned for the "Arcadian" Bell instrument which was recently installed at the Mt. Tabor Union Church, Rocky Ridge, Md., in memory of Sgt. Kenneth L. Krom, who was killed in Vietnam on August 18, 1968. This announcement was made by the Mt. Tabor Union Sunday School, who said that the ceremonies are scheduled for Sunday, August 10, at 2 p.m.

This new bell instrument, which is contained in a cabinet only 33 inches high, has the tonal equivalent of a cast bell weighing six and one-half tons. An exclusive design of Schulmerich Carillons, Inc., of Sellersville, Pa., the instrument consists of a miniature bell tone generator which is struck by a small metal hammer, producing exact bell tones almost inaudible to the human ear. These tones are then amplified over one million times by means of specially designed electronic equipment, producing true bell tones which are far superior to the tones of traditional cast bells of massive proportions. Not only can this modern bell instrument be tuned to exacting standards not possible with cast bells, but it has tremendous advantage in that it requires no bell tower to house it.

The new bell instrument installed at Mt. Tabor Union Church can be heard each day at 9 a.m., 12 Noon, 6 p.m. and 9 p.m., in Rocky Ridge and the surrounding community.

Space Books At Library

There's a new bug on the rampage. It's called the "space bug," and it has bitten just about everyone. Symptoms include a tremendous desire to know what the esteemed men of science are talking about. If you have been infected select a book from the space books available in the local library.

The astronauts tell their own stories in several books on the adult non-fiction shelves. "We Seven," by M. Scott Carpenter, John Glenn (and others), captures sensations of orbital flights, tests, and training. The first-person stories permit close scrutiny of their adventures and reveal their personal aspirations. In "Gemini" the late Virgil "Gus" Grissom describes views of the earth, rendezvous, docking, and reentry. The discussion of accomplishments and new goals testifies to the importance of the teamwork between researcher and astronaut.

Richard S. Lewis' on-the-scene account of the Apollo program provides a moving climax to the struggle to keep President Kennedy's "Appointment On The Moon." The author analyzes the setbacks, successes, and determination that drive rival societies into the dramatic space venture.

"Colonization Of The Moon," a recent addition by D. S. Haracy, Jr., deal with the potential uses of the moon—mining, manufacturing, observing the earth, and finally as a stepping stone into deeper space. Project yourself into the future and examine the possibilities of man's great conquest. Considering past achievements, Arthur C. Clarke focuses his inventive mind on "The Promise Of Space". He envisions a strange environment beneath the blistering sun of Mercury and on cold Plutonian wastes.

It may come as a shock to those who shun science and favor history to learn that Courtland Canby regresses to the year 150 B.C. in his "History Of Rockets And Space." Numerous color and black and white illustrations accompany readable prose that moves through a prophetic past into the glamour and excitement of the space race. The entire family may enjoy this extremely informative volume.

Small children will find simple words and authoritative pictures in "What The Moon Is Like" by Franklyn Branley. "Project Apollo: Mission To The Moon," answers youngsters' questions in a vocabulary which allows them to understand the equipment and procedures involved.

Scientists are still gathering information about the moon trip. To gain a fuller understanding of the newspaper accounts, consult some of the books mentioned above and be prepared as the exploration continues.

Yonkers Raceway, which first entertained the Grand Circuit trotters in the early 1900's, is headlining no less than 34 stake features for the '69 campaign, at purses from $25,000 to $100,000. There will be two hundred granders; three for $75,000; six for $50,000; four for $60,000; three for $35,000, and 16 for $25,000.

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Melvin R. Laird thanks Sp6 Robert L. George for a colorful painting of Army soldiers crossing a stream in the Republic of Vietnam. Specialist George loaned the painting from his personal collection when he learned that Secretary Laird wanted the work of an Army artist for his Pentagon office. Inspired by a recent tour in the Republic of Vietnam, Specialist George has painted several Army combat scenes in his spare time. Other paintings by Specialist George hang in the office of the commanding officer of the U.S. Army Command Information Unit in Washington, D.C., where he is assigned as an illustrator.
