As the price goes up the service deteriorates, the old saying goes. This didn't hold true this week because the price of milk didn't go up, at least to my knowledge. But . . . the service, of at least one dairy serving the area, has slackened to a mere two days a week delivery. This is something I don't think the public should take laying down! When I look back to the days when we had daily delivery and how good the milk tasted in those times, I almost gag at what we are drinking today. Sure, refrigeration plays a major role in the freshness of the commodity these days, but when you think how long the farmer holds the milk in his storage tank, how long the dairy captivates it during bottling and when you receive it, how long you keep it in your refrigerator you begin to wonder just how old is the darn stuff. These are conditions which the public can have some say and some control over. Milk subscribers should lose no time contacting their dairy and positively insisting on at least three deliveries per week.

This is the week for the Community Show folks, and from all indications it will be one of the best ever. Emmitsburg and Thurmont have combined their talents and the Show will be held in Htnew Catoctin High School which serves Northern Frederick County. If you attend, and it's free, you will see the best of craftsmanship in domestic science and agricultural efforts. Many stores will have exhibits of the latest equipment for farms and homes alike. The entertainment will be both fun and educational and if you like good food, don't miss that big PTA supper. If you attend it will afford you the opportunity to inspect the brand new high school that your children are now, or will in the future, attend. The Show is Friday and Saturday.

I see by the papers that we're headed for Mars this time. With all this talk about slowing down the economy and ending inflation I can't for the like of me see how Destination Mars will help stem the spiraling inflation that is rampant at this time. However, this fabulous, enormously expensive extravaganza might take our minds off the fact that our dollar is rapidly shrinking, commodities are running short in supply and that we soon won't be able to afford the price of food. At least something good might come out of the project. In the meantime, anyone wanna buy some moon rocks cheap?

Young Beef Sale Scheduled

Take part and encourage these young boys and girls by supporting this sale. Remember, "Youth is our most important product!" Be proud to be named as a supporter of the sale. You will be rewarded with top meat throughout the year and the pleasant feeling of having helped youth reach higher goals in life. Their success depends on your support. They like their animals—you will too!

New Phone Numbers Active

Approximately one-third of the telephone subscribers in the Emmitsburg District have been assigned new phone numbers, Carl V. Weakley, C & P Telephone Co. of Maryland district manager, announced this week.

On Wednesday, some 345 local subscribers were switched to the new numbers. One of the most important changes in the community was the Fire Co. number. This important phone has been changed to 547-6121. Another important number is that of the Ambulance Service which is now 447-6141.

The assignment of new numbers was necessitated by the installation of new dialing equipment which has been installed in the local exchange building. All numbers in the series 300, 400, 500 have been eliminated. Mr. Weakley has informed the public that should anyone dial the old numbers, the equipment has been wired to automatically ring the new number, for a period of 30 days. After that time, operators will intercept the number called and dial the new one for the customer.

The new number assignment includes both residential and commercial types of phones.

The Vigilant Hose Company, in an effort to familiarize the public with the new fire call number, this week mailed out a self-explanatory form letter with a sticker bearing the new number, to be fastened on or near the telephone. The distribution of new phone directories is now under way throughout the county, Mr. Weakley announces.

Miss Shafer Bride Of Richard Campbell

Miss Cynthia Shafer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shafer, R8, Frederick, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Grimes, Emmitsburg, became the early autumn bride of Richard Edgar Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lewis Campbell, Braddock Heights, on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m., Sept. 7, at a double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. Merlin E. Garber at the Frederick City Church of the Brethren.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and her attendants were as follows: Miss Sally Shafer, Frederick, sister of the bride, was maid of honor; Miss Claudia Harrington, Frederick, Miss June Carroll, Easton, Md.; Miss Aleta Lynn Shafer, Frederick, junior bridesmaid, and a cousin to the bride. The best man was W. Lewis Campbell, Braddock Heights and ushers were Melvin Shafer, Frederick, Robert Weber, Hummelstown, Pa., both cousins of the bride, and Kenton Campbell, brother to the bridegroom.

Mrs. R. Wayne Shober, organist, accompanied the soloist, Miss Eleanor Eichelberger, both former music teachers of the bride.

The bride was attired in a gown of white peau de soie featuring an empire waistline with a slightly scooped neckline and bell-shaped skirt. A five inch border of imported French lace edged the modified elbow length sleeves and skirt edge. The fingertip veil of illusion fell from a cluster of rolled organza flowers and seed pearls. The bride's slip was worn by her maternal great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Carrie Dern of Emmitsburg, on her wedding day in 1895. The 79 year old wedding ring belonged to the bride's paternal great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Sally Grove of Frederick. She carried a white bouquet of white rosebuds and baby's breath.

The maid of honor wore a loose fitting sleeves "A-line" gown of apricot peau de soie, featuring a jewel neckline and a center back inverted pleat with a martingale belt. The headpiece was a matching peau de soie bow with a veil of illusion. She carried a wicker filled basket with light bronze pom poms.

The bridesmaids wore golden peau de soie dresses and headpieces styled identically to the maid of honor and carried wicker baskets filled with bronze pom poms. All wore pendants, a gift of the bride.

The flower girl, Miss Freda Grimes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Grimes of Emmitsburg, wore a yellow dacron dress embroidered with flowers and accented with a yellow peau de soie belt. She also wore a locket, a gift of the bride. She carried a basket of mixed bronze pom poms.

Timothy Weber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Weber of Hummelstown, Pa., was ring bearer. Scott Weber presided at the guest book.

The mother of the bride wore a turquoise double knit dress with off-white accessories, and a white rosebud corsage. The mother of the groom wore a two piece dress of brown jersey with brown accessories and wore a yellow rosebud corsage.

The grandmothers of the bride wore yellow rosebud corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception for friends and relatives was held at the Church Fellowship Hall. The couple chose Virginia for their wedding trip and in the future will reside at Aniston, Ala.

The bride was graduated from Frederick High School and received her bachelor of arts degree in history from Hood College in 1969. The bridegroom is a Middletown High School graduate, 1964, and Gettysburg College, 1968. He is a second lieutenant in the army and will be stationed at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Out-of-town guests were from West Virginia, Hummelstown and Philadelphia.

Chamber Of Commerce Hears Future Plans For Telephone Service Here

The Sixes Bridge Data was discussed at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday evening in Mt. Manor Restaurant, President Jane Bollinger presiding. Sidney Sappington, chairman of the Sixes Bridge Dam committee reported the latest efforts of U. S. Senators Charles McC. Mathias and Joseph D. Tydings to have the project isolated from the Potomac River Basin project thereby expediting the completion of the dam. Letters of thanks were written to the two Senators.

William Ledbetter, head of the economics committee and Mrs. John Chatlos, chairman of the beautification committee, gave reports. Father John King, chairman of the recreation committee and Eugene R. Rosensteel reported that two picnic tables had been placed in the Community Field area, the grass cut, two cooking grills ready for installation by the Town and that in the near future it was planned to install a street light at the site.

The group decided to write Congressman J. Glenn Beall concerning the theft of two picnic tables at the Rt. 15 site near Tom's Creek and try to have them replaced.

Sister Margaret Hickey, chairman of the brochure committee presented a preliminary draft of the brochure and it was referred back to the committee for completion.

Carl V. Weakley, district manager for the C & P Telephone Co., explained the new improvements to the local telephone exchange equipment and said that approximately 360 local numbers had been changed, effective Wednesday. He also told the group that the new equipment would provide DDD (direct distance dialing) for this county within the next year. Mr. Weakley stated there would be an open house at the local exchange on October 15-16 to give local citizens an opportunity to see the new equipment in action.

The group voted to contact Thomas Mohler, district engineer of the State Roads Commission relevant to painting a center stripe on Business Rt. 15 from the Emmitsburg Middle School to Toll Gate Hill and also to grade the shoulders which have just about disappeared. The next meeting of the group will be held October 21.

Frederick County Backgrounds

By SAMUEL CARRICK
The Agnews of Tom's Creek
Hundred

People are history!
One facet of the interest that an old burial ground arouses in the historian, hinges on the fact that the people buried therein helped to formulate the history of this country. Perhaps this was done in a small way in their own community—but little things lead to bigger and the result was this nation. Nothing is perfect—man can only do his poor best on the stage of life and when he is "gathered to his fathers" it is to be hoped that some work of his mind or hands will remain to help form the fabric of history.

The pioneer forefathers, who lie interred in Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard, with stern, Scotch piety, made the country that gave them asylum and the laden of their deep abiding love. For her welfare they gave their best and considered no sacrifice too great if it led to freedom. The War of the American Revolution has often been called "that Scotch Rebellion" and with good reason. The makers of this United States followed up their words with action—not destructive—but constructive.

One of the most outstanding families in both colonial Maryland and Pennsylvania were the Agnews. Some of their background was included in last week's column. As stated previously, Samuel Agnew, brother of James Agnew of the Marsh Creek Settlement, settled in Tom's Creek Hundred. Both Samuel and his wife are, according to a fairly reliable tradition, interred at Tom's Creek in graves that are now unmarked. This branch of the Agnew family intermarried with the McCrearys and the Gardners and a great deal of research has been done on these branches. Gradually the picture is clearing up and some day, in the not too distant future, the whole story may be known.

In the old Presbyterian burial ground there are several Gardner graves. The inscriptions follow:

1. In memory of Jane M. Fleming, wife of William P. Gardner. Died July 22, 1880, aged 66 years, 10 months and 9 days.

2. In memory of William P. Gardner. Born December 9, 1822. Died March 22, 1900.

Note: Undoubtedly William P. and Jane (Fleming) Gardner were related to the Agnews but in just what degree is not known at this time.

While on the subject of the Gardners it will be noticed that the wife of William P. Gardner was a Fleming before her marriage. In the same churchyard are interred members of this clan. The inscriptions follow:

3. Sacred to the memory of, Robert Fleming, Died August 26, 1818, Aged 7 years.

Note: This little boy, born in 1811, was apparently the son of Robert and Mary Fleming and could have been the older brother of Jane (Fleming) Gardner, who was born in 1814.

4. In memory of Mary Fleming, wife of Robert Fleming, Died June 5, 1846, Aged 60 years.

Note: Mary Fleming could be the mother of Jane (Fleming) Gardner and would have been just twenty-eight years of age at the time her daughter was born. Nothing is known of Mary Fleming's background.

The stone at the grave of Robert Fleming's wife is broken and fallen from its base. Unless it is repaired in the near future the grave of this pioneer wife and mother may be numbered, in time, among the "unknowns."

5. In memory of Robert Fleming, Died June 17, 1834, Aged 69 years and 7 days.

Note: The husband of Mary Fleming and, it is to be assumed, the father of Jane (Fleming) Gardner, the wife of William P. Gardner.

6. Sacred to the memory of Robert Fleming, son of Robert and Mary Fleming, Died May 27, 1833, Aged 26 years.

Note: This inscription is self-explanatory—the second Robert Fleming died "in young manhood." It is not known whether or not he was married at the time of his death.

7. In memory of Reuben Fleming, Born May 3, 1820, Died August 7, 1831.

Note: Apparently another, younger son of Robert (1) and Mary Fleming, and a brother of the two Robert Flemings, of the second generation. In the early days it was often the custom, if a son or daughter died young, to use the same given name for a child born after the death of the older one. Thus there were two "Roberts" in the family of Robert (1) and Mary Fleming, but the first one lived only seven years.

8. In memory of Ellen Bruce Fleming, Born February 22, 1829, Died March 30, 1905.

Note: Although it is not stated in the inscription, Ellen Bruce was, apparently, the wife of Reuben Fleming. She is interred beside him and the dates, as given on her gravestone, would indicate such a relationship.

It is interesting to note that one of the Flemings married into the Bruce family, an old and honored one in Maryland. General Normand Bruce was the founder of Bruceville, in Frederick County, and lies buried in a grave that is now unmarked in the old Bruceville burial ground.

In addition to the Gardners, the Agnews also intermarried with the McCrearys. There is only one marked McCreary grave at Tom's Creek. The inscription follows:

9. In memory of William McCreary, Died October 29, 1839, Aged 19 years and 10 months.

Note: Without a doubt there were a number of other McCrearys buried at Tom's Creek Presbyterian churchyard but, if so, their graves were never marked or the stones have long since disappeared.

The two oldest Agnew stones remaining at Tom's Creek are those of David and Mary Jane Agnew, his wife. The inscriptions were included in last week's sketch. Nothing is known pertaining to the graves of the Agnews of the colonial period except that they were interred "at Tom's Creek."

While on the subject of the Bruce family it might be wise at this time to note that the clan intermarried with another family of Tom's Creek Hundred.

10. In memory of Florence Bruce Landers, Born August 30, 1853, Died January 8, 1912.

The notes on the Landers family will be continued in this series next week.

Committee Studies Curricula Changes

During the academic year, an ad hoc committee of the faculty at St. Joseph College will consider revisions in the curricula of all the major areas of study. The curricular study, funded in part by a grant of the Esso Foundation, will be headed by Sister Margaret Hughes, dean of the College.

Dr. L. Richard Meeth, dean of Park College, will serve as visiting consultant on curriculum and will spend part of the academic year working with the committee on an analysis of general degree requirements and specific departmental curricula.

Faculty committee members, representing their respective academic disciplines, are: Dr. Victor Antolin, philosophy; Mr. David Neun, theology; Sister Robertine Weiden, education; Sister Margaret John Kelly, English; Sister John Frances Gilman, mathematics; and Mr. Henry Zamensky, history.

Dr. Meeth, who earned his doctorate from Columbia University, was assistant to the president of Baldwin-Wallace College before assuming his present position as dean of the Missouri college in 1967.

Under his leadership, Park College has strengthened its core curriculum and broadened it to include Far Eastern studies. Dr. Meeth is also interested in such innovations as compensatory education and the "mini-semester" of concentrated study of one subject.

Dr. Meeth's prior experience includes two years as an assistant to Dr. Earl McGrath, former U. S. Commissioner of Education. Dr. Meeth served as field coordinator for Dr. McGrath's study of the problems inherent in the transition of predominantly Negro colleges and universities.

He also has been consultant to several colleges, most recently the Philander Smith College and the Maritime College of the State University of New York, and to the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity in designing anti-poverty programs, particularly for high school and college students.

This summer, Dr. Meeth instituted an educational development center at Park College and this fall the college will be running an experimental program for 24 apparent low-achievers, giving them intensive tutoring in academic and social areas to help them adjust to higher education.

Dr. Meeth, who has held fellowships from the Lilly Foundation for study at Boston University and from the Rockefeller Foundation for study at the Union Theological Seminary, is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society in education, and Phi Delta Kappa, a professional fraternity for men in education.

Court Says Man Had Fair Trial

The Adams County Court Saturday turned down the petition of an Emmitsburg man, holding that a prisoner's opinion of the length of his sentence "does not constitute grounds for relief" under the Post Conviction Hearing Act.

George Edward Wagerman, 23, Emmitsburg, had filed the PCHA petition alleging that he had been denied his right to representation by effective counsel and had been obstructed in his appeal rights.

The court noted that in March, 1968, Wagerman had filed a petition alleging he was denied the right to representation by competent counsel. The court January 10, 1968, after a hearing, entered an order denying that petition. Wagerman then appealed that decision to the Superior Court which on August 7 affirmed Judge John A. MacPhail's decision.

As a result, Judge MacPhail said in his opinion Saturday "We consider this matter finally litigated." Concerning Wagerman's argument that appeal rights had been denied, Judge MacPhail noted that "the defendant was asked not once, but twice, if there was any further complaint he had. We took a special recess to give the defendant additional time to consult with counsel about this matter. The defendant said he had no other complaint."

The court added, "We think the defendant's real complaint in this matter was revealed in his statement at the PCHA hearing last November when he said 'Well, I would say that . . . that . . . I got too much time for what I done, for what I was accused of done. When I pleaded guilty, I pleaded guilty of a lesser sentence. I didn't want to be found guilty and get the maximum sentence.'"

The court's opinion concluded: "While the defendant may be upset about the length of his sentence that does not constitute grounds for PCHA relief."

Wagerman was sentenced October 5, 1967, to from three to six years on burglary, three to six years on jail break and 2½ to five years for forgery. He with two others, was accused of burglary of checks from Gettysburg Limestone Co., Fairfield, November 29, 1966, and then forging the checks to cash them. The jail break occurred while Wagerman was waiting to be sentenced on the larceny and burglary and forgery charge. All of the sentences run concurrently.

He will give his angels charge of you.—(Psalms 91:11).

We are always in His presence. And when we consciously acknowledge the presence of God within us, we find ourselves quiet and peaceful. He makes us feel safe and secure. In this way we can live in a world of order and harmony, where truth makes our world a pleasant place in which to live.

Prelude To Disaster

Here is a UPI news dispatch from Sacramento, California: "Six hours of sniper fire in a Negro section three miles from the California State Capitol ended early Monday with 20 wounded and 37 persons arrested . . . Thirteen policemen were injured or wounded by gunfire . . . Several civilians were also injured, some by shotgun pellets . . ."

Hoyt Elkins, a reporter for the Sacramento Union, was beaten and stabbed by a group of Negro youths who jumped him on a stairway. He suffered a pierced lung." The shooting originated, the Police report said, in Black Panther headquarters in Sacramento.

For the next year, this likely will be the pattern for guerrilla warfare skirmishes launched by cadres of the swiftly growing Communist "National Liberation Forces" (NLF) mobilizing within the USA. The skirmishes— together with continuing aggressive actions on the nation's campuses—are planned as the prelude (and training phase) of a violent nation-wide military assault on the United States from within, timed to mesh with aggressive moves by the World Communist apparatus. Plot To Overthrow— We saw and heard the documented evidence on preliminary activities of this growing subversive force within America which is plotting the overthrow of the United States by violence, during hearings conducted for the United States Senate in Washington by Senator John L. McClellan's permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. The information and documents we brought back from Washington, together with the voluminous documentation which we have accumulated in our personal investigations during recent months, can justify only one conclusion:

Our nation is imperiled by an internal subversive force geared in its overall strategy and timetable to the plans of World Communism to conquer and take over the United States. The peril will explode into terrible revolutionary warfare unless the American people move through their Congress and the other institutions of Government, to stamp out the subversive forces and strengthen our military defense against the mounting nuclear might of Soviet and Chinese Communism.

"To Destroy Our Society"
 Repeatedly throughout the weeks of alarming testimony at the Senate Committee hearings, Chairman John McClellan said: "The objective of these forces (five organizations under investigation) clearly is to destroy our society and overthrow constitutional authority." On the basis of overwhelming testimony, this conclusion was inescapable. And throughout the hearings, Senator McClellan and others on the panel noted the clearly established connection of various of the organizations with Communists and Communist countries.

The organizations subjected to Senate scrutiny: The Black Panther Party (BPP), Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), The Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), The Republic of New Africa (RNA), and the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM). There are scores of additional organizations working in the subversive "Movement" (sometimes called "The New Left"), but the five investigated by the McClellan Committee are the best known "open" organizations. One of the ominous facts brought out in the hearings was that some of the "Movement" agents and operations are underground—and no measurement of their magnitude is yet available.

'New Spectre Of Destruction'
 J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the FBI, has just recently said of these organizations: They constitute "a firmly established subversive force dedicated to the complete destruction of our traditional democratic values and the principles of free government . . . a new spectre haunting the Western world." He went on to say that some wealthy individual citizens and tax exempt foundations have made substantial contributions to them. Such gifts range to as high as $250,000. Evidence is at hand also on financial aid from Communist Cuba, Soviet sources, and Red China.

Confronted with this frightening situation, our nation's legal machinery to cope with it has been shattered by Supreme Court rulings. Only "overt acts" of treason and sedition now are illegal, and the atmosphere of permissiveness toward Communists that has developed in the last decade discourages prosecution even of those overt acts of treason that now are being carried out widespread by subversives. In a subsequent column we will discuss the new internal security legislation—S 12.

Thoroughbred racing was introduced in Pennsylvania in 1969 at Philadelphia's Liberty Bell Park and at Shamrock Downs, Wilkes-Barre, but the Quaker State is no stranger to the Thoroughbred. Among the first racing stock imported to the Colonies in the late 17th century were two mares and the stallion Tamerlane brought to Philadelphia by William Penn.

Tailgating is a dangerous way to keep your eye on things. Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies cautions that at least 10 feet should be allowed between cars for every 10 miles an hour of travel speed.

Reports from Washington

Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

The House of Representatives this past week began discussion on an extremely important resolution that calls for an amendment to the Constitution of the United States which changes the method of electing the President and Vice President. The proposed change would do away with the electoral college and would change our method of election to direct popular vote so that everybody's vote will be of equal weight.

In order to be approved, of course, this proposal must pass both Houses of Congress by at least a two thirds vote and then must be approved by three fourths of the states before it becomes effective. There has been strong sentiment to do away with the electoral college for several years and perhaps it reached its peak during this past year as a result of the closeness of the 1968 Presidential election. The principal fault with the present system is the fact that a candidate can be elected President in spite of the fact that he doesn't receive the highest number of popular votes. It is also possible under the present system that an election can be thrown into the House of Representatives wherein each state may cast but one vote which certainly penalizes people all over the country. It has been pointed out that under the present system eleven large states can swing an election for President through the accumulation of their electoral votes. It is, also, argued that under the present electoral college system large cities have a greater amount of influence because of block voting. All in all there seems to be general dissatisfaction with the present system and a serious desire to bring a change so that the will of the people is more directly expressed.

There are several proposals being made. One of these is a district plan which would preserve the electoral college but would require electors to be chosen from single member districts within each state, with two electors running at large. Another plan is the proportional plan which would allocate the electoral vote in each state in accordance with the popular vote cast in the state.

The plan that has generally received the most support, however, is the direct popular election and that is the basis for discussions now under way in the House of Representatives.

Just for opens a whole family of fish is renowned for its prodigious pulling power—the tuna. Tunamen say the yellowfin is the toughest of this tough bunch, and it is true enough that a 100-pounder can feel like the biggest fish in the universe. But when they say the yellowfin is the toughest they are speaking pound-for-pound, because the giant bluefin is the king of the tunas. The biggest rod-and-reel yellowfin is a mere 269 pounds, while the bluefin record approaches 1000 pounds.

Another family of fish, rivals the tunas in pulling power—the Carangiade. Under this heading come the jacks including the jack crevalle.

Another group of fish listed under the Carangiade heading is the amberjack. These include the powerful greater amberjack of the Atlantic and the yellowtail and Pacific amberjack of the West Coast. While they are not flashy like sailfish, they will bust up a lot more tackle through sheer pulling power. It would be impossible to say for certain that any fish, pound-for-pound can pull any harder.

This Carangiade family is tough. Also included are the pompanos and a full-fledged member of the pompano family is the permit. Of all recognized game fish, the permit is probably the toughest to take on artificials—not just because of its power, however, but because it spooks so easily and often will ignore any and all man-made lures. Once hooked, its power must be believed.

By this time all billfish addicts are probably chomping at the bit. What about the big blue and black marlin? Indeed, what about striped and white marlins and sailfish? And, of course, the most difficult of all to hook—the swordfish. These are all exciting fish and tremendously popular with big-game anglers. Big marlin regularly strip reels of even experienced anglers. According to Tom Paugh, Salt-Water Fishing Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, many instances have been recorded of sails, marlin and broadbills turning on boats and piercing their hulls with their bills. These fish leap and shake and greyhound across the surface of the water when they are hooked. But the fact is that probably, pound-for-pound they do not have the strength of the tunas or of the powerful fish listed under the Carangiade heading.

The tough-fish list boils down to the members of two tough families—the tunas and the jacks. But, come to think of it, a bluefish looks a good deal like a jack. Who knows, maybe pound-for-pound, ounce-for-ounce, the bluefish is the meanest, roughest, toughest fish that swims.

succeeded in recovering $220 under an accident indemnity policy which she felt should have paid at least $1,000.

"Mr. O'Hara reviewed the policy and was able to get the company to acknowledge that it was in error.

"Shortly thereafter, the company forwarded its check for an additional $786.66. The check was inadvertently sent to the Department, which gave us the unusual opportunity to be able to hand it to Mrs. Pearson in person. It was very gratifying to me that we were able to help her and her son. "Results as in this case handled by Mr. O'Hara are duplicated practically every day by the men

Recovers Insurance For Citizens

The Maryland Insurance Department has aided citizens in the recovery of $90,349.66 during the month of August, setting a new record for the amount recovered in any given month, according to Insurance Commissioner Newton I. Steers, Jr. The highest amount recovered in any previous month ($62,733.81) was during November 1968.

Commissioner Steers stated: "Our Complaint and Investigation Division last month assisted Maryland citizens in resolving 680 complaints. So far this year our investigators have handled over 6,000 complaint assignments. The amounts which we have helped citizens recover range from less than $5.00 to over $5,000.

"In many instances the sums recovered might not have been paid had it not been for the assistance rendered by our men. For example, Department examiner Tom O'Hara last month handled a complaint from a 73-year-old West Baltimore widow, Mrs. Ellen D. Pearson. Her son, Robert, had lost one eye in a tragic fall. Mrs. Pearson paid out over $800 in medical expenses but had only

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

It's bluefish time in the Northeast again—time to haul out all those old stories of other blue-fishing days, dust them off, and prove once more that it is indeed true—that ounce-for-ounce, pound-for-pound, the blue is the meanest, toughest, roughest customer that sports fins. Or is he?

UNEARTHING THE MOON

John Glenn, first American to orbit the earth, recently remarked that we don't yet know what the real value of going to the moon and beyond will be and that we are not yet close to finding out. The knowledge we are obtaining, however, is the lasting thing we are looking for, he said. "He who has command of information, and can use it well, is on top—more so today than ever before."

What is the initial information garnered by the first men on the moon? Much of it will relate to "paydirt" struck by these valiant "prospectors," who found a great variety of different rocks, which could tell much about the moon's age and origin.

They dug a five-inch sample of lunar soil that "looks moist," a suggestion that there might be water and so perhaps microscopic life beneath the moon's surface.

They found the crust of the moon much harder than numerous geologists and astronomers expected they would. It took work to dig out two core samples and to plant the American flag. They set up a seismometer which soon was recording moon tremors. Medically, the excursion showed the moon to be not so fearful a place as cautious planners painted it.

That moon research will yield many practical benefits is not doubted, although it will take time. One medical example of progress through space research was the testing of a motion sickness formula to protect the astronauts from suffering the ill effects of spinning. The formula found most effective is contained in Triptone, which is available at drug counters. Now Earth travelers can effectively protect themselves or members of their families for hours against motion sickness thanks to space research and Triptone.

As lunar explorations become more refined, other practical products will evolve. In penetrating the heavens, humanity is accomplishing much more than can be gained by simply reaching for the moon.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

Trans-Andean Pipeline

By Babson's Reports Incorporated, Wellesley Hills, Mass., September 18, 1969—Today the search for untapped petroleum reserves has spread into every section of the globe. Demand for oil, today and into the future, is steadily on the increase. To meet this demand, oil companies now seek out the black gold even in regions having the

Two Extremes
Alaska and the Arctic will undoubtedly provide a huge pool of oil in a few years, but some cold-weather operational problems and the very difficult question of getting the oil to the refineries have yet to be resolved. At the opposite end of the thermometer are other prolific fields in South America near the Colombia/Ecuador border. This is a section of dense rain forest averaging 250 inches of rainfall annually, but the difficulties which have been overcome here in getting oil production to market give proof that the Alaskan problem can also be solved.

Over The Top
The most logical outlet for Colombian oil was a seaport on the Pacific Ocean, some 200 miles away. A pipeline of this length is usually not particularly difficult to construct, but in this case the route of the pipeline took it from the eastern slope of the Andes Mountains, up and over the top at nearly 12,000 feet, and back down to sea level.

A joint venture by Texaco and Gulf Oil, the Trans-Andean pipeline must rank as one of the most awesome construction feats of all time. Heavy jungle, vast swamps, landslides, extremes of heat and cold, and the constant rain added to the difficulties of laying pipe at high altitudes. Much of the work could be done only by hand and at times as many as 2500 men worked on the job. The $50 million project not only spans the mountains, but also crosses six rivers which were rarely at less than flood stage. Helicopters provided access and transport of men and materials. Without either manual labor or the modern helicopter, it is doubtful that this pipeline could have been laid at all.

Pumping stations boost the crude to the top of the mountains, while on the downhill run pressure reduction stations remove the tremendous energy built up due to elevation. The capacity of the line is 100,000 barrels per day, with storage capacity at both ends providing flexibility in tanker operations.

A Major Find
The effort of constructing this important pipeline would indicate that Texaco and Gulf have extremely important fields in Colombia and Ecuador. In Ecuador, for example, Gulf had 10 potential production wells out of 11 drilled. Further, since the Trans-Andean pipeline began operating in April, Texaco and Gulf have negotiated new royalty agreements with the two countries.

In Colombia, royalty and tax payments were increased from 40% of net income to 60%, and 1/2 of the oil companies' concession acreage was returned to Colombia. Ecuador received back 2/3 of its concession acreage. For this, permission was granted to build a spur pipeline from the Ecuador oil fields to the Trans-Andean line. Authorization was also given for another new pipeline across the Andes. This would appear to give evidence of oil properties with high potential in these two countries. The roads required to build and maintain the pipeline have opened remote areas of Colombia to settlers.

Prospects
Both Gulf and Texaco are prominent "international" oil companies with operations in all phases of the petroleum business conducted world-wide. While higher costs and early-year labor troubles have impaired earnings to date this year, the remaining months should see improved profit margins and better earnings gains. The Research Staff of Babson's Reports feels that Texaco is in a slightly more favorable position than Gulf, and hence is currently recommending purchase of Texaco shares. However, the common stock of Gulf Oil is certainly well worth holding for long-term growth.

Model Airplane Meet Sunday

Mr. John E. Patton, President of the Academy of Model Aeronautics, and a spokesman for the Maryland State Model Airplane Club, announced that the annual Maryland State Model Airplane Meet will be held at the Frederick Municipal Airport, Frederick, Maryland, on Sunday, September 21, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

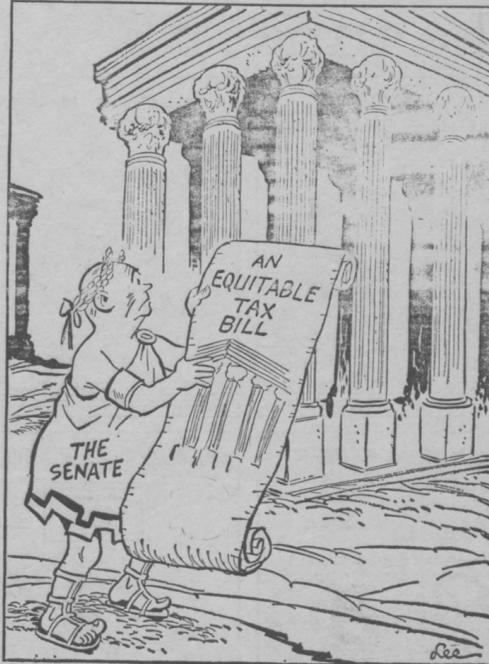

The Frederick Model Airplane Club and the Frederick Civil Air Patrol Squadron will co-host the event, which is expected to have contestants from the entire eastern coast. Mr. Patton said that trophies will be awarded for several classes of free flight, tow-line glider, hand-launch glider, and scale; for control line precision aerobatics, rat race, combat, and scale; and for radio control classes I, II, III, and novice.

The Frederick Civil Air Patrol squadron will operate a food concession for spectators and contestants. This concession is a fund-raising project for the CAP cadet aerospace education program. The CAP squadron will also provide generator power, first aid, traffic control, and other services required by the modelers.

There is no admission charge for spectators and plenty of free parking will be available on the field. The public is invited to spend an hour or the entire day enjoying this sport for people of all ages.

Many race tracks take their name from their location but in the case of Sunland Park, New Mexico, the track came first and then the U. S. Post Office designation for the community.

MODERN FARM "MAGIC" TURNS CORNSTALKS INTO BEEF

Cornstalks used to be plowed under as waste, but, cost-conscious farmers these days are putting them to better use. They're using cornstalks for animal feed to help beat the increased cost of livestock production.

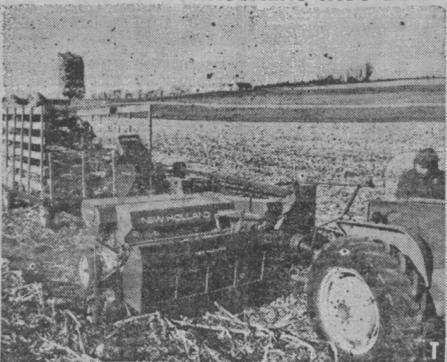

Although retail food prices continue to rise, it's the "middle man" food processor (rather than the farmer) who has generally benefited most from the increases over the past few years. Most farmers are caught in the same cost-price squeeze that's been haunting segments of our industrial business community — soaring production costs and diminishing returns.

Cornbelt farmers are helping relieve their squeeze, though, by converting cornstalks to beef. It's been discovered that cornstalks can be used as the basis for a beef cow ration. According to agricultural researchers, the stalks aren't good enough nutritionally to fatten beef-producing steers; but, they can provide a substantial amount of the feed requirements of the cow that produces the steer calf.

And this has led some observers to speculate about the Cornbelt becoming "cow country" in the future. The potential, at least nutritionally, seems to be there: Nearly half of the nutrients from a corn crop are in the cobs, stalks and leaves.

Specialists at the University of Iowa, feeding cornstalks from a 40-acre field, successfully wintered 10 beef cows and 10 first-calf heifers in a recent test. The wintering period covered 112 days, and total feed cost for a supplement mix was only 80¢ per animal.

The mature animals maintained their weights, and the heifers gained an average of 100 pounds. In the Iowa experiment, the calves were big and healthy, the dams milked well and birth problems were minimal.

Of course, say the researchers, farmers planning to winter beef cows on cornstalks must make certain they're giving the animals enough mineral-salt-vitamin A supplement. And, depending on the quality of the stalks, some supplemental protein might also be needed. Naturally, during the last month of gestation and the entire nursing period, the animals should have feed with a higher energy content than that in cornstalks.

In the Cornbelt and elsewhere, production of 3 1/2 tons of cornstalks to the acre is not unusual. A farmer could expect to get roughly one bale of stalks for every bushel of grain taken from the field. He can prevent mold or heating, in storage by baling stalks when they contain not more than 20 to 25% moisture.

About the easiest way farmers can bale cornstalks is with a special flail attachment made to fit right on a hay baler. The New Holland Division of Sperry Rand Corporation makes such a flail attachment, one that has a 60-inch cutting width, which is wide enough to handle two rows of widely spaced corn. And the New Holland attachment mounts without removal of the baler pickup.

Cornstalks also make an excellent bedding material for cattle, especially when the stalks are finely chopped — which is easily done with a flail attachment like New Holland's. The stalks compare favorably with straw for keeping animals clean and dry.

Cornstalks are normally the better choice, though, as straw can be a scarce item, and more expensive when available — sometimes $20 a ton or more in some areas.

Putting byproduct material such as cornstalks to good use is typical of the economy-mindedness of the North American farmer. "Already the world's most efficient food producer — and despite commonly insufficient monetary reward for his labors — he's still at it, finding ways to keep down the cost of producing food."

D.M.V. REPORT

By D. Murray Franklin
Public Information Officer
Md. Dept. of Motor Vehicles
In its continuing effort to strengthen the safety posture of Maryland highways and to eliminate certain inequities in the State's Motor Vehicle laws, the 1969 General Assembly amended and reenacted numerous pieces of legislature covering a variety of subjects.

One section of the present law requires vehicles moving at a rate of speed 10 miles or more below the maximum speed limit to be driven on shoulders or extensions on any roadway where they are provided. This law was amended to require slow moving vehicles to keep to the extreme right side but not be driven off of the roadway itself.

Inasmuch as the foundations or beds of shoulders and extensions are constructed for continuous use, but only for emergency pull-off purposes, this amendment was enacted to prevent deterioration of shoulders, reduce expensive costs and eliminate dangers of hazardous driving in these areas.
Another law relating generally to the loading of trucks was amended to add the condition of BLOWING to those of spilling and falling debris and dirt upon public highways and streets. Also pinpointed was the unlawful action of persons responsible for construction and excavation work to permit materials to be loaded in such a manner that they may blow, fall or spill on public highways or streets.
Improved highway design, especially on Maryland's Interstate expressways, has now provided the feasibility for increasing maximum speed limits.
Interstate highways will be posted with a 70 mph maximum limit unless the State Roads Commission designates a lower maximum limit. Present 50 mph maximums for all roads, except 55 mph for dual highways and 60 mph for limited access highways, remain the same.
In an effort to deter irresponsible drivers whose driving privileges have been refused, suspended or revoked and who use a false or fictitious name when applying for a driver's or chauffeur's license, the legislation amended the present law to increase the seriousness of the offense to that of a felony instead of the present misdemeanor.
Convictions will carry penalties or fines of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) and not more than one thousand dollars

($1,000) or both, and will apply to non-residents with records of these violations in their home states as well as to Maryland drivers.
Another change in the present law relates to reciprocal agreements between states for non-resident students and interns where- in reciprocity is not applicable to out-of-state students who must seek part-time employment to finance their education.
Because of this discrimination against economically disadvantaged students and interns, the law was amended to remove the requirement for Maryland registration of vehicles owned by these persons, provided they meet the Maryland requirement for motor vehicle financial responsibility.
Also changed was the statute regulating antique vehicles bearing appropriate tags. The present law provides that they may only be driven to exhibits, fairs, parades and club activities and cannot be driven on public highways for such occasional transportation necessitated by maintain-

Senior Citizens
Planning Tour

The regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Seniors Citizens was held at the Center Tuesday evening, with 40 persons present. The meeting opened with singing then followed with prayer by Sister Julianna. After the business session, everyone joined in games. Most of the prizes were from the gardens of the members and what a lovely assortment of vegetables. Everyone enjoyed themselves, especially those lucky players. The trip over the Skyline Drive and down through Winchester, is scheduled for Tuesday, October 14, leaving the Center at 8 a.m. The Seniors think the tour thru Luray Caverns will be too strenuous, so that will be cancelled. However, we will stop in that area for our picnic lunch provided by each. The cost of this bus trip is $3.50 per person. All persons interested in going, please register on or before the 9th of October.

If the Shoe Fits

My baby draws up her toes when I try to put her shoes on. Any suggestions?

I have heard of one "sure cure". It works—sometimes. Holding the leg straight by grasping the knee, your fingers behind the knee cause the foot to relax in much the same way as placing your finger under your nose stops a sneeze. That doesn't always work either.

In the store we find that most shoe-fighting babies stop fighting when we put on larger shoes. It is not the shoes that babies dislike but the smallness of them.

Your baby can't explain reasons for disliking her shoes but they are her feet and she is probably a good authority on the question of whether or not her toes are cramped.

Have a Hearth Say Local Merchants

Hang it! That's a polite version of what some people say when they learn how much a brick or stone fireplace would cost.

But local merchants have a new solution to the old cost problem. Hang it, they say. A new decorator electric fireplace that can be hung anywhere in your home... in the bedroom, living room, dining room or den. It operates on 120-volt current and features a 1,650-watt heater. And a 240-volt version of the same unit offers three heat selections: 2,000, 3,000 and 4,000 watts.

The new wall-hanging model (which can stand free on steel legs) features contemporary styling that blends with any decor. The rugged 24-gauge steel case is finished with baked-on enamel and accented with brass-colored aluminum molding. A black mesh wire screen with brass-colored pull chains adds to the realistic fireplace effect.

A final touch of realism is achieved with an oak fireplace log that comes with the decorator electric fireplace. A small motor quietly revolves a drum which contains a 25-watt bulb, simulating flickering flames. People spread their hands over the log to feel the heat, it looks so real.

The decorator electric fireplace, made by Arvin, can be moved from room to room, from house to house. It weighs only 70 pounds and is easy to install. Sturdy steel bracket wall mounting and heavy-gauge steel legs for floor use are included. And locally available plastic wall tiles shaped like bricks add to the scene.

The beauty and modest cost of the Decorator Electric Fireplace may lead many a homeowner to heed the suggestion of local merchants to hang it. After all, don't they say that home is where the hearth is?

The green vertical stamp depicts Daniel Webster, with Dartmouth Hall in the background. It was designed by John R. Scottford, Jr., Assistant Director of Dartmouth's Hopkins Center for the Creative and Performing Arts.

This stamp will be placed on sale at our office on September 23.

Also the 6-cent stamp marking the 100th anniversary of professional baseball will be issued on September 25, 1969, at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Alex Ross of Ridgefield, Conn., designed the stamp, which will be printed in four colors by three presses on the presses. It depicts a batter in white uniform, red cap, and black sweat shirt. The foreground is green and the background yellow.

This stamp will be first placed on sale at our office, on September 24, 1969.

16 State Roads Fatalities In Week

Sixteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the State Police. Seven of those killed were drivers, five were passengers, and four were pedestrians.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in five of the deaths, speed in nine, and "driver error" in 13.

"In serious accidents investigated by the State Police last week seven persons were killed and thirty-six were injured," noted Lt. Col. W. H. Conroy, Deputy Superintendent of the State Police. "Of these, nineteen had seat belts available but in only six instances were the safety devices in use. State Police officers who investigated the accidents were of the opinion that these six had death or more serious injury prevented because they took the few seconds necessary to hook up their seat belts."

"Seat belts do save lives. Be sure to use them. Be sure to see that the passengers in your car use them."

Rocky Ridge 4-H Club Active

The regular monthly meeting of the Rocky Ridge Progressive 4-H Club was held at the home of Robert, Gwen and John Keilholtz, Sept. 15 at 7:30. Gene Bollinger, president, presided over the meeting with Billy Carr leading the Club Pledge and the Pledge of Allegiance. Forty-four members answered the roll call with the name of an inventor. Cecilia Wivell was initiated into the club. State Fair began old business for the club. David Bollinger reported that he placed 3rd at the Fair. Approximately 20 members attended the fair. Maggie Bollinger, Debbie Parks and Carolyn Keilholtz placed a booth at the fair. The booth received an excellent award plus $25 for the club.

Phyllis Wivell coached the Frederick County Horticulture team this year. She received a letter from Mr. Homney, Extension Agent, commending her for her excellent job done. Both the senior and junior teams placed second. Members from our club that were on these teams were Jim, Mark, Phyllis, Vickie and Angela Wivell. Mark Wivell went himself a trip to Indianapolis in December with the State Horticulture team.

Under new business, there will be a sewing meeting at Mrs. Sterling Bollinger's on Sept. 19. All girls that carry sewing as a 4-H project are urged to attend.

The club nominated Carolyn Keidholtz to represent the club at the Frederick County 4-H Queen Contest.

A new secretary was put into office and she is Mary Ann Keilholtz.

The club will have a "Walk-A-Way Sundaes Stand" at the Frederick Fair this year. Mrs. Carroll Wivell and her committee will take care of this.

A committee was chosen to help Mr. Ralph Keilholtz with the annual 4-H Banquet. They will decide when it is and all other details including whether or not we want it to be an Alumni 4-H Banquet. This would mean all 4-Hers who were in 4-H since the club began, would be invited. This committee consists of Maggie Bollinger, Sharon Sharrer, Bob, Carolyn and Mary Ann Keilholtz.

A demonstration called "How to make a stuffed animal picture" was then given by Gwen Keilholtz. The next meeting will be held Oct. 20 at the Rocky Ridge Fire Hall at 7:30. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Keilholtz.

Large Print

Books At Library

Did you know that books in Large Print Collection, designed for the visually handicapped, are located in the Popular Library at the Central Library? Any of the books may be obtained by making a request at any library. Books should be designated LARGE PRINT. Many good books await you even if your eyesight is poor.

You will find a selected reading list on the Black Man's Past in America. This list of books in the Pratt Library collection will be useful in the study of the background of the Negro in this country. Most of the books on the list may be borrowed, but some of them may be used only in the Library. Just to name a few:

"Before the Mayflower," by Lerone Bennett. An informative and popular history of the black man's role in the U. S., from its beginning at Jamestown to the twentieth century.

"Lay My Burden Down—A Folk History of Slavery," by Benjamin Botkin. First-hand accounts of life in slavery.

"Fight for Freedom: The Story of the NAACP," by Lengston Hughes.

"Negro Medal of Honor Men," by Irvin H. Lee.

"The Negro's Civil War," by James M. McPherson. In his own words, gathered from letters and documents, the Negro tells of his contributions and reactions to the war that will free him from bondage.

* Included in the list are books on Harriet Tubman, Booker T. Washington, Adam Clayton Powell, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, Martin Luther King, Jr., and many other interesting books. There is listed lots of Fiction by Negro authors. Come in and browse.

The Story Hour will resume in October. Exact date will be announced.

Community Chorus Organizes For Year

The Emmitsburg Community Chorus announces the opening of the 1969-70 season and extends to you a most cordial invitation to become a member of this community cultural venture. Under the direction of Sister Jane Marie Perrot, Assistant Professor of Music at St. Joseph College, the Chorus will resume rehearsals on Friday, September 19, at 8 p.m. in the Brute Building, 3rd floor, St. Joseph College Music Department.

Concert plans include the annual presentation of the Christmas Messiah in December, a spring concert, and the possible joint presentation of a program in the spring with the Hagerstown Symphony of the Potomac. We urge you to help make this a real civic project, one in which both the members and the town of Emmitsburg and surrounding area may well take pride.

For further information you may contact any chorus member, the President, James Kittinger, or the Director. Your inquiries will be welcomed — even more welcomed will be your participation in what we hope will be a joyous music experience along with good-fellowship.

Reader Says "Lay Off" Nixon

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: You complained in your Abigail column last week that President Nixon was costing us $100,000 a day in sunny California or about three million dollars a month; instead of staying in the White House.

That is more money than I can figure . . . BUT . . . for us common people just trying to figure out whether our President is at the White House, Thailand, Rumania, the Philippines, Vietnam, of at Camp David, Biscayne Bay, San Clemente, on the yacht Tricia on the Potomac, or where else, keeps our minds so busy, that we don't think of all the troubles at home.

That is something, and it cuts down on our aspirin bills. So don't criticize the President.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Tong N. Cheek
